Provincial Commissioner Seeks to Prevent Dangerous Equipment

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission is sending out a circular letter to municipal authorities and those interested in the manufacture and sale of electric equipment, directing attention to the fact that the introduction of the rules and regulations governing inside wiring through the Province has been effective. Many inspectors have been appointed and every effort will be made to enforce the regulations.

The letter draws attention to the large amount of loss resulting from the employment of inexperienced and unqualified wiremen, who have been allowed large latitude on account of the absence of laws bearing on the matter. One of the evils has been the sale of materials and equipment regardless of its efficiency or safety.

LOCAL BOYS DOING WELL AT KINGSTON

Sergt. Thomas Reports That They Have Still to Receive a Black Mark

That the Peterborough boys at Kingston are all in good health and spirits, and not a black mark has been placed against one of them in the conduct sheets, is the cheery message brought from Kingston by Sergt. Sam Thomas, who is home on a three-day leave. Sergt. Thomas was delegated by the Peterborough boys to inform local people that they have not a complaint to make. They are most enthusiastic over their officers, Captain Gray and Lieutenants Cunningham and Shepherd, and claim to have the best officers in the battalion. The meals are excellent, the accommodation splendid, and in fact there is absolutely nothing to complain of.

Sergt. Thomas, who is a South African War veteran, and who has had considerable experience in soldiering, says he never was with a better behaved lot of men than the eighty-five boys from Peterborough. All are keen to learn, and there isn't a "groucher" in the lot. "You should see them marching," remarked Sergt. Thomas to The Examiner. "You'd have thought they had been together for years instead of just for a few weeks."

Peterborough boys have been well looked after in the promotion lists. In addition to Sergt. Thomas there are four other sergeants from Peterborough. Corporals Leonard Frazer, D. Moore and Wm. Mantell have all been promoted to be sergeants, while Private Cottrell also holds sergeant's rank. Ptes. Custance, Pagett, and F. Thomas have been made lance corporals. Ptes. Davey and Strickland are signallers. Pte. Chas. Manners, of Peterborough, has been transferred to F Company to act as signaller for that company, and J. Milby, of Peterborough, well-known for his interest in Boy Scout work, is signaller corporal.

The boys sent word through Sergt. Thomas that they are deeply grateful to the Canadian Kitchener League of Peterborough for the parcel of "hussiffs," cholera belts and other comforts sent down to Kingston last week.

Sergt. S. Thomas, Lance Corporal F. Thomas and A. Pagett, and Private Manners, who have been here on leave, will leave for Kingston to-night.

21 YARDS OF COPPERS

Gathered by The Pupils of S. S. 16, Otonabee For Belgian Fund

Some time ago the pupils of S. S. No. 16, Otonabee, were given strips of cotton containing twelve spaces to hold coppers. They resolved to collect at least one foot each and more, if possible, for the Belgian Relief Fund.

Friday the strips were all brought to school and the contents counted. No pupil had gathered less than a foot and several had reached the yard mark. The amounts brought in these patriotic children were as follows

OBITUARY

JOHN CASEY.

The death occurred yesterday at noon of one of the oldest and most respected resident of Douro, in the person of the late John Casey, who passed away at the homestead in that township in his seventy-fifth year. Deceased was born and lived practically the whole of his life at his home, lot 1, concession 5, Douro, and is very well known in that township. His death will be sincerely mourned by a large number of friends.

He is survived by two sons, James of Douro and Michael at home, and five daughters, Mrs. Richard Dorris, Otonabee, Mrs. John Dorris of Keene, Mrs. Jeremiah Dwyer, Douro, Misses Ellen and Catherine at home.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 9.30 o'clock to St. Joseph's church and cemetery, Douro.

EDWARD BULMER.

Edward Bulmer, aged eighty, a respected resident of this City and county, passed away last night at the home of his son, Mr. Alex. Bulmer, 136 Perry Street. The late Mr. Bulmer has lived in this county for the past 40 years, and during that time has resided in the Townships of Smith and Otonabee, as well as in the City. He is well-known and highly respected, and the news of his death will come as a shock to many friends and acquaintances. Mr. Bulmer had been ailing for a year before his death.

He is survived by three sons, William, of Lansing, Mich.; Edward, of Smith; Alexander, of Peterborough, as well as three daughters, Mrs. J. Brumwell, Peterborough; Mrs. J. Grant, Bridgenorth, and Mrs. J. Anderson, North Dakota.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. A. Bulmer, 136 Perry Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. Service at the house will be conducted at half-past 2 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

AUSTRIAN TROOPS ON ITALY'S BORDER

MILAN, Dec. 6.—Advices received from the Austrian frontier and published to-day in The Secolo, say that the statement of Premier Salandra in the Italian Parliament Thursday had an immediate echo in Austrian military circles.

Friday night, the correspondent says, the railroad lines poured troops all along the Italian border, and also into Pola, the Austrian arsenal on the peninsula of Istria. It is estimated that 200,000 men were distributed along the Italian border and 100,000 at Pola.

"At the same time," the correspondent continues, "anti-Italian manifestations took place at various points. At Pragerhof Hungarian soldiers spat in the faces of Italian workmen. Officers who witnessed these attacks did not interfere. At Steinbruck other soldiers ill-treated disabled Italian workmen, who were making their headquarters in the station."

HYPERSCOPE NEW DEVICE.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Safety for the men in the trenches on the firing line is enhanced by a new device, called a hyperscope, which operates similarly to the periscope on a submarine.

By means of the hyperscope an observer may survey the surrounding country without exposing himself to the enemy's fire by raising his head above the level of the trench.

The Russians Refuse To Admit The Capture Of Lodz

Russians Pound At Cracow's Vitals

General Dimitrieff Reported to Have Arrived With 200,000 Men to Assist in the Attacks--Occupation of Lodz Still Unsettled--Tremendous Loss of Life.

Special Morning Cable:

It is reported here to-day that Gen. Dimitrieff has reached the city with a force of more than 200,000 men. The Austrian forces outside the city have withdrawn, it is declared.

The War Office still refuses to admit the capture of Lodz by the German forces. The engagement is still in progress in that region. It is stated that the Russian losses in this fighting have been heavy, but some estimates place the German casualties in the general fighting as high as 100,000.

GERMAN DEAD PILED WAIST HIGH.

After the retreat of the Germans upon Strykew, bodies were found piled in heaps waist high, survivors still endeavouring to fight their way out of the Russian wedge closing in on them, and in some instances entrenched themselves behind piles of the bodies of their comrades.

Heroism of Men and Women At The Battle Front

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Many are the tales of individual bravery brought home by the wounded from France and Belgium.

A gallant exploit to add to the many of the Highland regiments is related of Private Wilson of the Second Highland Light Infantry, an Edinburgh man, who, single-handed, captured a German gun.

Six Germans were in charge of the gun and Wilson picked off five with his rifle, bayoneted the sixth, and then tried to turn the gun on the enemy. Unfortunately the gun jammed, and an officer coming up, helped him to destroy it.

The despatches of Gen. de Castlenau of the French Army contain a thrilling story of the bravery of Sister Julie, who belongs to the Order of St. Charles of Nancy.

When the Germans approached Gerbeviller she remained under the fire of cannon, machine guns, and rifles, and coolly went to meet the enemy when they entered the place, insisting that they should respect the wounded in her cottage.

When the burning of the village began she fearlessly went to the German colonel and protested, and it was thanks to her efforts that five houses were spared and the rest of the inhabitants saved. Sister Julie is 50 years of age, and, says Gen. de Castlenau, "she is the bravest woman I ever knew."

For stoical pluck and bravery it would be difficult to find a parallel case to that of an elderly British colonel, who was admitted to a French hospital, severely wounded. As he made an examination, the French army doctor uttered a sudden exclamation of surprise. There was silence for a moment, and then the colonel said:

"You have not found anything unusual, have you?"

The surgeon hesitated a moment. "Colonel," he said, "the fact is——" He stopped short, but the Briton finished the sentence for him:

"You have found out about my cancer, I see," he said simply. "I was on the retired list, you know, and I had to keep it to myself or they never would have taken me back again for active service when this war began."

"A fellow of the West Yorks was in the trenches they had just been driven to by the Germans when several others were missed.

"So he took off his coat and equipment and walked over to the German trenches under a perfect hail of bullets and brought back the adjutant, then made ten more journeys, bringing in the colonel and nine men.

"They say he has been recommended for the V.C."

SOCIETY WOMEN ADOPT WOUNDED FRENCH SOLDIERS

PARIS, Dec. 7.—Paris has hit upon a new greeting. When one woman meets another in the street she does not ask any of the inane questions that heretofore had such a great vogue. She straightway gets down to business and asks:

"Have you adopted a wounded soldier?"

This habit of "adopting" wounded soldiers has become widespread among wealthy society women here. Much of it is done through the military hospital of Val-de-Grace. After securing the necessary permit from the military authorities these women pay a visit to the great wards where hundreds of the wounded soldiers lie. They chat and laugh with the men until they come upon one whose personality is especially pleasing or whose circumstances are especially appealing. Arrangements are soon made by which the soldier is transferred to the care and responsibility of the interested woman.

This responsibility does not include the duties of nursing. In a strictly medical sense the men are still under the care of a doctor.

34 SEAMEN LOST WHEN OIL STEAMER TOOK FIRE AT SEA

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 8. — Thirty-four members of the crew of the oil steamer Vedra, en route from Mexico to Barrow, perished to-day, when the vessel took fire and burned. The Vedra was sighted ablaze off Walney Island. Two members of the crew were rescued, badly burned, and taken to Barrow. The remainder were lost.

SWEDISH VESSEL MINED, TWENTY MEN DROWNED

Special Cable to The Examiner:

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 8—The Swedish steamer Nora Sverige struck a mine and sank off the coast of Finland to-day. The steamer's crew of twenty men were drowned.

A Long Record of Faithful Attendance At The Cathedral

Members of the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral noticed on Sunday the first vacancies caused by the opening of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. East City residents, who have lived here for the greater part of their lives and who have been regular attendants at the Cathedral, were actually conspicuous by their absence on Sunday.

A number of families had worshipped there for decades. One particular case is that of a family whose pew was vacant for the first Sunday in forty-four years. Several others were also mentioned, but none with a record of that length.

FRENCH LOSSES NEAR 500,000

NOT OFFICAL REPORT

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The French War Office does not issue lists of losses in the war. A correspondent by inquiry in various quarters, estimates that the French loss in dead up to November 10 is something under 100,000 men. The number of wounded and sick soldiers being cared for in French hospitals on November 19 appears to have been about 400,000. The Swiss Government's bureau for the exchange of prisoners of war has the names of 90,000 French prisoners in Germany. Taking these figures as a basis, the total losses of the French army would be about 500,000 men.

The French military authorities, through their agents and spies, are well informed as to the situation of the German army. The French estimate the number of German killed in battle on this frontier as considerably exceeding 100,000, because the German tactics have been more continually on the offensive, with correspondingly heavier losses than the defensive. The French military administration does not share in the popular view that the German losses have been enormously in excess of those of the French.

With Limbs Rigid Woman's Mind Is Clear and Active

MERIDEN, Conn., Dec. 7.—With her legs four inches above her knees as rigid and hard as stone, and her hands and arms slowly developing the same rigidity, Mrs. William J. Fredericks, 50, passed into the fourth year of helplessly from a disease that has completely baffled specialists.

Several physicians who have examined Mrs. Fredericks diagnosed the case as petrification or ossification of her limbs. The legs are dry and shrunken. There is no flesh on them except a shrivelled and hard brownish substance in which there is no feeling. They are bent slightly at the knee and have been in this condition for over a year. The hands and arms are not so hard but there is no sense of touch in them. They have lain folded across the woman's breast for ten months.

Mrs. Frederick's mind is unusually clear and active. She can only express herself in guttural mutterings, however, the disease having shown signs in the last few weeks of attacking her vocal organs. Dr. E. C. Bradstreet, her physician, says her case is without hope.

With the exception of about ten minutes every day when Mrs. Fredericks is partly raised to a sitting posture, she lies without moving on her right side. She can eat only gruels and soft foods.

Mrs. Fredericks has been ill five years; she has been bed-ridden three. She was stricken with acute indigestion in 1909 and to this illness is attributed her present condition. Some specialists who have examined her say the hardening of her limbs can be traced to rheumatism, followed by paralysis. The husband is a small store merchant but before his wife's illness was well to do.

KING GEORGE DECORATES TWO FRENCH COMMANDERS

LONDON, Dec. 7.—During his visit to France King George conferred the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath on Generals Joffre and Foch, and the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George on seven other French Generals.

Allies Advanced In Vicinity of Ypres

Have Almost Reached Roulers---Germans Have Not Entirely Abandoned Their Offensive and Are Showing Some Activity Near Nieuport.

Special Morning Cable:

PARIS, Dec. 8.—By constant fighting along the Passchendaele road, the French operating from the south of Ypres, have to-day all but reached Roulers in their flanking movement to cover Menin, an important point on the Lys. Supported by the fire of the Allied guns, the French have gradually advanced their line until they have practically cleared the railroad and now have a straight path to Roulers.

Despite a vigorous attack being made by the Allied forces, reports today indicate that the Germans have not abandoned their offensive at all points. Heavy firing is reported along the coast, with the Germans bombarding East Dunkirk, west of Nieuport. The Allied warships are also reported to have been able to get back into action and have shelled the German positions.

ITALY WILL BE READY

ROME, Dec. 7.—Eight battalions of Italian troops have been ordered to Libya (Tripoli) to reinforce the troops there, and, according to the announcement, "to be ready for any aggression."

BERLIN'S STATEMENT QUITE MODEST

Special to The Examiner:

BERLIN, via wireless to London, Dec. 8.—Official reports from Vienna to-day, declare that fighting for a decision on the Russian front continues. "The Austro-German troops have repulsed the attacks of the enemy southwest of Pietrkow," it is stated, "and the Russian advance along the Nowa Radom line has been brought to a standstill."

German Prices Have Advanced

Large Stock of Swine Has Held Meat Without a Rise

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The effects of the war on the prices of provisions had, until late in October, hardly made itself apparent.

In the last few days, however, a sharp general rise has set in, embracing practically everything to eat except meat, which, owing to Germany's unusually large stock of swine, has risen but little, and in some cases not at all.

Vegetables have practically disappeared from the market. Some lentils are to be had, but only inferior culls. Beans are scarce and hulled peas are not to be had. Prices of peas and lentils have risen from 7 cents, the price before the war, to 15 cents, and it is predicted that they will shortly cost much more.

The Government recently confiscated all coffee held in Hamburg by British warehouses, but even with this the supply is running short and prices have increased markedly. Fresh oranges or lemons are rarely to be had, there are no bananas and pineapples except the canned stock, and with the entrance of Turkey into the war the supply of dates and figs will probably be cut off.

Cold storage stocks of eggs have been greatly reduced, and it will be but a short time before there will be none to be had. The Berlin Chamber of Commerce points to the somewhat surprising fact that Germany produces only 5 per cent. of its egg supply, the remaining 95 per cent. coming from Russia, Galicia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Italy and Denmark.

Potatoes have reached prices which are a hardship to the poorer classes, for whom they form the chief article of food. Last year at this time they cost 50 cents for 110 pounds. To-day the price is $1.25. Great quantities of potatoes must also be devoted to the production of denatured spirits to take the place of gasoline, which has disappeared from the market because of the army's needs.

The rise in grain prices was such that, as has been reported, the Federal Council was obliged to set a limit to them. The prices thus fixed, however, are very high. They are: Wheat, $1.69 per bushel (it has reached $1.71); barley, $1.62; rye, $1.54. The high price of barley is due to the fact that the importations of fodder barley from Russia are cut off.

Another factor is the presence of more than 800,000 prisoners of war in Germany who must be fed.

Still another disquieting thing is the fact that in East Prussia, "the granary of Germany," the crops on thousands of acres have been laid waste by the invading Russians.

FRENCH LOOSE GOO IN MOROCCAN FIGHT

MADRID, Dec. 7.—The correspondent at Tangier of the Imparcial sends news of a severe French reverse in Morocco. A French column of considerable strength, returning to Kenifra after a punitive expedition against the Zain tribesmen was ambushed by a force of 5,000 Zains and almost wiped out. The French losses are placed at 33 officers and 600 men killed, besides a number of wounded and prisoners. Two French batteries fell into the hands of the tribesmen

SUN IS MOVING AMONG THE STARS

Venus is Now a Morning Star—How to Read The Sky

The sun moving constantly eastwardly among the stars, about one degree a day, has passed through the constellation Libra and is now in Scorpio a little to the northeast of the bright star Antares, 22 degrees south of the equator — nearly as far south as it will go.

During the week the moon rises about an hour and ten minutes later each night and sets about twenty-five minutes later each following day.

Sunday, the moon passed 3 degrees to the north of the planet Neptune.

On Friday the moon rises at 5 minutes past 12 (midnight), and sets at 12.56 (noon).

Venus is now a morning star about two hours ahead of the sun.

On Monday Venus and Mercury will be less than half a degree apart.

Jupiter has moved among the stars so far towards the west and south that he sets now about 9 o'clock at night.

Saturn is now a very bright object well up overhead at midnight involved in the Milky Way between the constellations of Taurus and Gemini.

On Thursday the moon will be at last quarter.

The Pleiades.

In all ages of the worlds' history no group of stars has excited more universal attention and admiration than the beautiful little cluster of faint stars known as "the Pleiades." Mighty nations have worshipped them and peoples far removed from each other have been guided in their agricultural and commercial affairs by the rising and setting of this closest group of stars which appear at this time of the year, overhead at 10 o'clock at night to the north of the brilliant constellation of Orion.

The Pleiades were among the first to be mentioned in the astronomical literature of China, a record of Alcyone, the principal star of the group, was made as early as 2357 B.C., as it was at that time near the vernal equinox. This group was worshipped by the Egyptians. The astronomer Proctor has shown that the Great Pyramid of Egypt was without doubt provided with chambers for observing the Pleiades as well as other celestial objects.

Many of the Greek Temples had observation chambers devoted to the Seven Stars, as with the Parthenon and many references to this cluster may be found in the works of the Grecian poets.

The great Feast of Lamps held by the western Hindus, as well as the Feast of Lanterns still held in Japan are said to have had their origin with the Pleiades.

The Aztecs of South America, as well as almost every nation on the earth from remote antiquity, have worshipped or regarded them with awe and reverence.

Reference to the influence of the Pleiades is made by the poet Pope in his "Spring," thus:

For see the gath'ring flocks to shelter tend,
And from the Pleiades fruitful showers descend."

How to Neutralize Dangerous Stomach Acids

Few people besides physicians realize the importance if keeping the food contents of the stomach free from acid fermentation. Healthy, normal digestion cannot take place while the delicate lining of the stomach is being inflamed and distended by acid and wind—the result of fermenting food in the stomach. To secure perfect digestion, fermentation must be stopped or prevented and the acid neutralized. For this purpose, physicians recommend getting a little bisurated magnesia from the druggist and taking a teaspoonful in a little hot or cold water immediately after eating. They recommend bisurated magnesia because it is pleasant to take, has no disagreeable after-effects and instantly stops fermentation, neutralizes the acid and makes the sour acid bland, sweet and easily digested.

The regular use of bisurated magnesia—be sure you get the bisurated, as other kinds of magnesia are of little value—is an absolute guarantee of healthy, normal digestion, for it overcomes and prevents that acid condition which alone is the cause of trouble.

FAME FROM ONE PLAY.

There recently died in London a man who for the last twenty years had made more persons laugh than any other one man, and even after his death he will continue to throw thousands into paroxysms of mirth. This man was Brandon Thomas. The name itself is not familiar to the millions who have been amused by him, for it is only as the author of "Charley's Aunt" that Mr. Thomas achieved such widespread fame.

No other play has ever achieved anything like the success enjoyed by this famous farce, which brought its author a fortune and which, after more than twenty years, is still popular. It has had more than 300,000 performances. When it was first produced at the Royalty theater in London it ran four years, being played 1,469 times consecutively. This record has not been surpassed by any play. It has been played all over the world, including South America, China and Japan, and has been translated into eighteen languages. At least 800 actors and actresses have acted in the play in England alone. And since W. S. Penley first appeared in the title role there have been innumerable Charley's Aunts, including some of the most famous comedians on the stage.

Mr. Thomas himself played the part of Sir Francis Chesney when the play was first produced, Dec. 21, 1892, and he played the part at the Christmas revivals in London annually until a year or two ago.—Kansas City Star.

Not For Her.

In the great war at the beginning of the last century the public was asked to subscribe, not merely for relief funds, but for the actual raising of forces. And by no means everybody subscribed even for that. Dean Ramsay reckons as the best of his stories of the old ladies of Montrose the one concerning the maiden lady who was canvassed for funds to organize a volunteer corps for the King's service. "Indeed," she replied, "I'll dae na sic thing; I ne'er could raise a man for myself, and I'm no gaen to raise men for King George."

Whistler's Comment.

One of Whistler's proofs, sold by Sothebys in London in 1888—that of an early etching—brought a good price, not on its merits, but for this line by the artist, written on the margin. "Legs not by me, but a fatuous addition by a general practitioner."

The "legs" were by Dr. Seymour Haden, Whistler's eminent brother-in-law.

An Athletic Recruit.

Mr. A. L. Oldman, who was physical director of the Westminster Sunday School Club, at Weston, Ont., has left to join his regiment, the Royal Horse Guards. It will be remembered that Mr. Oldman was the referee of the famous Jack Johnson-Tommy Burns fight in Australia some years ago.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Sedentary Habits.

Sedentary habits impair and prevent proper functioning of the organs of excretion—skin, lungs and kidneys. Waste matters which should be eliminated are retained in the blood current. The liver becomes torpid, fat accumulates; indigestion, constipation and headaches follow. There is no snap. Vitality and resistive power are lowered. "You can't do the things you used to do." A little judicious exercise and recreation taken regularly will benefit greatly.—Wingert.

EUROPE'S GREAT WAR.

The Little Cause That Led Up to the Momentous Conflict.

There is no sanjak of Novibazar any more; it is divided between Servia and Montenegro. But its ghost and its regretted memory were enough, in all likelihood, to set on foot Europe's giant war.

The sanjak was in 1908 a strip of land smaller than Connecticut and with but 170,000 inhabitants, belonging without a shadow of doubt to Turkey, if treaties could be respected. By the treaty of Berlin Austria-Hungary was permitted to garrison some of its towns, but the civil administration was left to Turkey, wherein its status differed from that of Bosnia-Herzegovina, which Austria-Hungary administered nominally for Turkey as suzerain.

The sanjak divided Montenegro and Servia. It was a wedge between the southern Serbs, through which the Austrians planned to drive a railway, and with it their rule, to Saloniki. That railway would only have been a linking of the one running up to Mitrovitza from the south with the military line from Sarajevo to the Servian Montenegrin boundaries.

When in October, 1908, Austria-Hungary tore up the Berlin treaty and definitely annexed Bosnia-Herzegovina she withdrew her troops from the sanjak, fearing armed resistance and wishing to placate Turkey. There was no war—then. Russia had not recovered from her bout with Japan.

The Austrian "forward" party was disgusted. Von Aehrenthal was almost in disgrace for overcautiousness. It had not been necessary to leave the sanjak. However, they could reoccupy it some time.

"Some time" did not come. With the Tripoli and Balkan wars Europe became increasingly sensitive. When the Balkan nations were fighting and it would have been easy to seize the strip Austria was forced by Europe to forego land grabbing in the general interest, to prevent exactly what has happened now.

The murder of the archduke gave her an opportunity. He went to Sarajevo against the protests and entreaties of Servian representatives in Vienna, who knew the local feeling and who had most to lose by any disturbance, and the actual murderer was an Austrian subject. However, neither these facts nor the way in which Servia offered to swallow the Austrian terms—all but allowing Austrian officers to hold inquiries into the murder on Servian soil—availed to stop the Austrian attack aimed straight at the sanjak.

And then followed what has followed.—New York World.

A Worm in Paganini's Violin.

When Paganini died he bequeathed his violin, a superb Guarnerius, to his native town of Genoa with instructions that it was to be "preserved perpetually." In 1907 fears were entertained that a woodworm was wreaking damage to the instrument, and a special commission of experts was appointed by the municipality of Genoa to examine and report on its condition. The commission decided that the woodworm was nonexistent. The presence of the worm is now fully established, and the Genoese are greatly excited lest this memento of one of Genoa's most illustrious sons should be ruined. It is stated by experts that the worm will not make inroads in a violin which is regularly played, as it is expelled by the constant vibration.

A New Disease.

Professor Erich Harnack, the famous Jena pharmacist, announces the discovery of a new disease. It is a sort of chronic copper poisoning which may prove fatal. It is caused by bridge work on the teeth. Some of this work which was examined showed that only one-third was gold and the rest other metals, especially copper. This resulted in slow poisoning, nervous collapse and general decay. Professor Harnack warns people against this inferior alloy, saying that it is even more dangerous than pure copper or zinc.—New York Sun.

Naval Officers' Pay.

An English writer compares the pay of American naval officers with that of similar officers abroad. An American admiral draws, he says, $15,000 a year, while about $9,000 is allotted to the same rank in Great Britain and $4,500 in Germany, and all other grades of officers are paid equally well in proportion.

Pretty Cool.

"Perhaps it is best after all," remarked the rejected suitor as he lingered in the hall. "A man of twenty-five would soon tire of a wife who hovered around the thirty-two mark."

"Why, Mr. Ardent," said the woman in the case, "how very ungallant of you to dare to insinuate that I am thirty-two!"

"Well, perhaps you are not," he replied, "but it certainly struck me that you were somewhere near the freezing point."—London Mail.

Coughed for 10 Years

Mrs. J. O. Barnhard, of Lindsville, Alta., says,—"For ten years I was troubled with a very bad cough, particularly at night. I tried remedy after remedy but could get no relief until I tried PEPs. These pleasant little pastilles quickly stopped the irritation and ended my cough."

PEPs, 'The Cure You Breathe,' goes straight to the weak spot. Place a PEP in your mouth. As it dissolves, healing vapors are liberated, which you breathe down, right to your lungs, quickly stopping all irritation, and ending coughs and colds. Why experiment with cough mixtures, syrups, lozenges, etc., which go, not to the lungs, but to the stomach, when PEPs go straight to the seat of the disease?

For coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness, sore throat, and all chest and lung troubles, use the up-to-date remedy P-E-Ps. Refuse substitutes. All druggists and stores, 50 cents box, 3 boxes $1.25.

Cause For Friction.

Young Demmons, an adjuster for a big insurance company, was just returning home from a nearby city, where he had been to adjust a loss on a building that had burned, when he met an old friend.

"How did the fire start?" inquired the friend.

"I can't say with certainty," replied the adjuster, "and nobody seemed able to tell. But it struck me it might have been the result of friction."

"Why," asked the friend, "what do you mean by that?"

"Well," said Demmons gravely, "friction sometimes comes from rubbing a $15,000 policy on a $10,000 building."—New York Times.

"Oh, yes, that's easy. Just"—

"I mean without letting her marry him?"

"Not that I know of."—Houston Post.

RUSSIA'S RAILWAY GAUGE.

It Was Made Narrow to Lessen the Danger of Invasion.

There are several railway gauges—or widths between the two rails of the track—in Europe, but in the United States and Canada it is possible for a truck to travel from Prince Rupert to New Orleans and from Quebec to San Francisco without hindrance. This was accomplished at great expense some twenty or thirty years ago. In Europe the bulk of the mileage is the standard four foot eight and a half inch gauge. There are, however, some other gauges, especially the meter gauge in France, Belgium, Italy, Spain and Portugal.

The most important exceptions are in Spain and Portugal, where they have nearly 10,000 miles of the five foot six inch gauge, and in Russia and Finland, where there are 30,000 miles of the five foot gauge. This three and one-half inches difference from the standard was adopted by the Russian government to avoid the dangers of invasion.

The only connection between France and Spain is at Irun, on the Biscayan coast, but the Pyrenees are now being pierced at more than one place, and a question of conforming the gauge of Spain and Portugal to that of the bulk of Europe has arisen.—Engineering Record.

Englishmen Discard Gloves.

The silk "topper," as we know, has almost disappeared, except on state occasions. But are men discarding gloves? A walk in Hyde park among the fashionables certainly shows that gloves are carried in the hand rather than worn now, a sure sign that they are "going out." Another indication of this decadence is that the policeman now no longer wears them in the summer, except on some great occasion. So much importance was formerly attached to gloves in the metropolitan police that their "order books" prescribe a penalty for not wearing them on the beat. It was one of the greatest trials of the young constable fresh from the plow to incase his hands in the cotton abominations thought so essential in the days of Sir Richard Mayne.—London Chronicle.

Prefer Tigers to Pigs.

A curious instance of the bad result often obtained by tampering with nature's balance is contained in a recent communication by an Indian official to the effect that the campaign against tigers in several places in India has resulted in the enormous increase of wild pigs, which are doing great damage to crops. The native farmers are forced to watch their fields carefully at an increased expense. This damage and increased expense must be taken into consideration in fixing the new land tax, and thus the strange situation exists that by the destruction of the tigers the farmers may be out of pocket.—Consular Reports.

Novel-Writing Records.

R. L. Stevenson takes high rank among those who have broken records in novel-writing, the first draft of his "Jekyll and Hyde" having been written in seven days. He is closely followed by Crockett, who penned the greater part of "The Stickit Minister" in a week, and completed it at a forty-eight hours' sitting.

The elder Dumas once completed a volume of 40,000 words in sixty-six consecutive hours for a wager, and Beckford's romance, "Vathek," is said to have been written at a single sitting, which occupied three days and two nights, during which he never removed his clothes.

For two years Thackeray did all his writing with one pen, which also served him for writing two novels.

Was Personally Attended by Dr. A. W. Chase

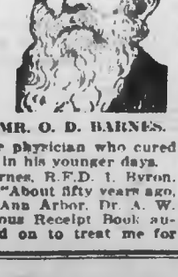
Here is a letter from an aged gentleman who consulted Dr. Chase, long before his Receipt Book attained a world - wide circulation or his family medicines became known to the ends of the earth.



MR. O. D. BARNES.

Like most people of advanced years his kidneys were the first organs to break down and when doctors failed to help him he remembered the physician who cured him of pleurisy in his younger days.

Mr. O. D. Barnes, R.F.D. 1, Byron, Mich., writes:—"About fifty years ago, when living in Ann Arbor, Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author, was called on to treat me for pleurisy. Ever since that I have used and recommended Dr. Chase's Medicines, and have two of his Receipt Books in the house.

"Some time ago a cold settled in the kidneys, causing backache, frequent urination, dizziness, and affected the eyesight. My appetite failed and I could not sleep nights. Two doctors failed to do me any lasting good, so I started using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Nerve Food. The results have been highly satisfactory to me. Appetite improved, I gained in weight, sleep and rest well, and feel strong and well. My kidneys resumed their natural functions, and I believe that my cure was due to Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Nerve Food. I am 78 years old, superintend work on my farm, and can turn in and do some work myself."

What Saved the Home.

In the American Magazine a man who has had twenty-five years' matrimonial experience says that he and his wife were growing farther apart and constantly quarreling. The family would have been wrecked had it not been for two things, which he describes as follows:

"First was the baby—a healthy, charming child—to whom we were intensely devoted. For months the baby was about the only subject we could agree upon. The other safeguard was our sense of humor. I have since thought that no two persons should marry unless one or the other has a sense of humor. With us the sense of humor usually came to the rescue at the most trying times. One or the other of us would be struck with the ridiculous feature of our quarrel and laugh, and pretty soon we made up."

Breaking the News.

"Sis won't be able to see you tonight, Mr. Jones," said her little brother. "She's had a turrible accident."

"Is that so? What happened?"

"All her hair got burned up."

"Good heavens! Was she burned?"

"No, she wasn't there. She don't know about it yet."

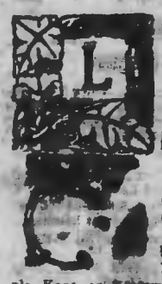
FIELD MARSHAL SIR JOHN FRENCH

By Alexander Baird.



LIKE all Britain's greatest generals, past and present, like Lord Kitchener, who appointed him to the command of the British "Expeditionary Force" in France, Field Marshal Sir John Denton Pinkstone French is an Irishman, though born in England, at Ripple Vale, Ripple, Kent, on September 28, 1852, to be precise. He is the son of the late Captain French, of the Royal Navy, and it was early intended that he should follow his father's profession.

When fourteen years old he joined the Britannia, and served for four years as a naval cadet and midshipman, quitting the service in 1870. One may only imagine what he might have been had he remained in the navy. Among those who served in the famous training ship with French was another Irish youth of his own age, one George Astley Callaghan, from Cork. To-day that boy is a full Admiral, a Knight Commander of the Bath, and commander in chief of the home fleet. Another of French's Britannia shipmates is now Sir Percy Scott, of gunnery fame.

But prospects of promotion in the navy in those days seemed too poor to young French, and he resigned, but not before he had learned something of "the way they have in the navy," which was one day to serve him in good stead.

But that he left the "senior" service for the army has never been forgotten, and he sometimes has to endure some good natured chaff from friends in the sister branch. It is narrated that on one occasion some naval officers were dining at French's mess, when one remarked, "You haven't got a cavalry leader in the army worth a cent, with the exception of French, and he's a sailor."

"Yes," remarked a brother officer of French, "French was in the navy just long enough to see what a rotten service it was. Then he chucked it and joined the militia, where he learned to be what he is now."

In any case what the fleet lost the army gained, a leader of notable ability. And what a change has come over the navy since French was a midshipman. Its guns were little better than the weapons which were used at Trafalgar; they were "short, duppy things, like soda water bottles," and Admiral Fitzgerald has said that the projectiles "frequently broke up in the guns, or else turned end over end and went in any direction except the right one."

The navy in those days knew little or nothing of the torpedo. It was an untried and undeveloped toy of a few faddists. The submarine was the unsubstantial dream of madmen. The ships of the fleet were built of wood. Sails and their lore were the glory of officers and men. The glory of England, it was declared, depended on fighting against all "new fangled ideas." When flogging was abolished the navy was believed by practically every senior officer to be going to the dogs. The sun seemed to be setting. It has been "going to the dogs" ever since. But the way is a long one, longer than "the way to Tipperary."

The old Warrior, on which French served the last year of his four in the navy, a ship of some 9,000 tons, with sails and auxiliary engines, has left "the line." She was one of the wonders of the world in French's naval days. Now she is a coal hulk. In her place is the superdreadnought of 24,000 tons, with a speed of 22 knots, instead of 14, then an achievement of pride. The cumbersome guns of 68 pounds have vanished, and in their place are the rifled, breech-loading ordnance capable of throwing a projectile of 1,250 pounds from Dover Harbor and spreading destruction in the town of Calais or beyond.

Four years after leaving the Royal navy, in 1874, young French entered the army, obtaining a commission in the Eighth Hussars. His early years were uneventful. He became a captain in 1880, and was promoted to a majority two and a half years later. It was not till 1884 that he saw anything of active service.

General Gordon was beleaguered in Khartoum. A relief expedition was finally undertaken, and the Camel Corps, of four regiments, was preparing to strike across the Bayuda Desert from Korti to Metemmeh. It was December 2, 1884, when the Desert Column started on the desperate venture. It numbered but 1,000 officers and men, but they were the flower of the army, led by Sir Herbert Stewart. With the Desert Column went Major French, and at Abu Klea he took part in what the historian of the "River War" has described as "the most severe and bloody action ever fought in the Soudan by British troops. Notwithstanding the grit and valor of the Arabs, that they penetrated the square, and that they inflicted on the troops a loss of nine officers and sixty-five men killed, and nine officers and eighty-five men wounded—ten per cent of the entire force—they were driven from the field with great slaughter, and the Desert Column camped at the Wells."

French moved on with a weakened column, much short of water, impeded by the carriage of wounded men and stores, accomplished a march of twenty-seven miles from the Wells of Abu Klea to the Nile at Metemmeh, cutting a road for themselves through the very midst of the Dervish army, "infuriated by their losses, and fully aware of the sore straits to which their astonishing enemy was now reduced."

At Metemmeh French and his troops waited, sick with anxiety about the fate of Gordon, longing to know whether Gordon had been saved, while Sir Charles Wilson, with twenty British soldiers and a few bluejackets, embarked on two of Gordon's steamers and set out for Khartoum, only to find on arrival that the British flag was no longer flying, that the lonely man had been sacrificed, that all was over and that they had come too late.

French was one of those who marched back across the Bayuda Desert to Korti, their footsteps dogged all the way and their retreat pressed by the exultant enemy.

Many years elapsed before French again saw active service in Africa.

When in October, 1899, the government of the Transvaal threw down the glove to the British Empire, when the British strength in Africa consisted of only 6,000 men, organized in two regiments of cavalry, three field batteries and six and a half battalions of infantry, and when reinforcements were despatched from England in swift ships, to French came the first real great chance of his life. He was appointed to command a cavalry division in Natal, with the rank of major general.

The actual outbreak of war found him at Ladysmith in command of his division. The day after he arrived he reconnoitred in force to Modder Spruit, and on October 21 he led out toward Elandslaagte a few squadrons of cavalry with a field battery and half a battalion of infantry. The Boers were surprised at Elandslaagte and routed. They fled, but speedily realising how small was the force opposed to them, they rallied, and French withdrew, hard pressed, to the high ground north of the Modder, from where he sent to Ladysmith for troops to reinforce his position. On their arrival French again took the offensive, captured the Boer position, and the two opening actions of the campaign terminated in favor of the British.

French then found himself in Ladysmith, but, before the town was surrounded. General Sir George White recognizing that the coming siege precluded the use of cavalry, General French was sent out of Ladysmith by the last train which was able to make its way through the Boer forces closing round the town.

To French was then assigned the small force—which never was large, even when reinforced—to oppose the forces invading Cape Colony. But French's operations were admirably conducted, and later, for the relief of Kimberley, the opening scene of a new act in the war drama, Lord Roberts called on French to join him at the point where he was preparing for the advance upon the capitals of the twin republics; and the wild ride to the relief of beleaguered Kimberley is one of the romantic episodes of that war—the crossing of two rivers, the passage of the waterless veldt, the determination to get through, the brushing aside of the Boer position, and the intoxication of the straight run in to Kimberley.

And then the news of Cronje's situation brought to the wearied horsemen, the hurried marshalling of every man whose mount could still bear him, and the long ride over the shadowy plain to head off the Boer centre at the one unguarded rift by which he might yet escape.

The wild ride to Kimberley is graphically described by Major Darnley L. Stephens:—"At two o'clock in the morning 'boot and saddle,' blared on the regimental trumpets, and French's 5,000 men started on the hundred mile ride for the beleaguered diamond city.

"On the second day of the advance they found themselves facing two hills connected by a narrow pass from which emitted a blizzard of Mauser bullets and Creusot shrapnel shell. But French had no time to seek another route. Swinging round in his saddle he shouted to General Broadwood, 'Now, forward! Hell for leather!'

"Wave after wave of cavalry, the Ninth Lancers leading, swept at a mighty gallop through the neck and on to the open plain beyond. Some sixty chargers and half as many troopers rolled over through the process of Messrs. Mauser, Canet-Schneider & Co., and fifty-seven brother Boers tested an invigorating acquaintance with the beautiful white weapon.

"If French had hesitated and tried another way round, that slim old gray veldt wolf Cronje would have effected his escape from the banks of the Orange River and the adjoining Orange River Republic, with the result that Lord Roberts' great strategic movement would have been indefinitely held up. French's supreme qualities as the Murat of our time saved the situation, when he, with that politeness so characteristic of a cavalry leader, expressed his conception of the situation by that 'Now, forward! Hell for leather.'"

Throughout the operations resulting in the capture of Bloemfontein and Pretoria General French commanded the cavalry division. He was in charge of Lord Roberts' left wing in the battle of Pretoria, and commanded the force in the operations culminating in the capture of Barberton.

During the spring of 1901, after Lord Roberts had returned to England, General French was in charge of the extended operations in the Eastern Transvaal, and he was employed later on and up to the end of the war against the rebels in Cape Colony.

For French, South Africa proved not the grave it had proved for others, but the cradle of a reputation. As Lord Roberts said of him, "he was the only divisional commander in South Africa who never had a fall."

It has been said of French that "in character he is a man of cold persistance, and of fiery energy, cautious, and yet audacious, weighing his actions well, but carrying them out with a dash which befits the mounted leader. He is remarkable for the quickness of his decision, alert, resourceful and determined."

Promoted to the rank of lieutenant general after the South African war, he retained command at Aldershot until 1907, working hard to bring the army up to a high state of efficiency and readiness for service. At a time, too, when many men were too prone to accept the so-called lessons of the South African campaign as applicable to war under all possible conditions and against every description of belligerent, French retained an open mind and was able to discern and to teach those under him how far the lessons were acceptable and to what extent they were of avail only in regard to the peculiar and novel conditions under which they had been studied.

At the end of 1907 French was appointed Inspector General of the Forces in succession to the Duke of Connaught, an appointment for which his long, varied and distinguished services both at home and in the field peculiarly fitted him, a general who had always proved himself equal to the strategy of his opponents and who always checked and harassed them most unmercifully.

As retiring in private life as he is forward in war, General Sir John French is less well known to the public than even his chief, Lord Kitchener. As to his personality, the phrase "the square little general" would serve to describe him in army circles, without mention of his name. He has the shape of a brick, as well as the best characteristics of one. He is a thickset little man, who always stands with his legs and feet well apart and sits "hunched up in his saddle like a red Indian squaw." A view of his back suggests the thickset, neckless shape of General Grant, and he has more than a suspicion of General Grant's doggedness in him.

Now one of the things French disliked in an officer was persistence in calling the Boers "Boers." That the Boers hoped him he never would admit, and he tried hard to correct that impression in his officers; but they would persist in the mispronunciation, intentional or not.

"Boers, you say?" inquired the General, without raising his head.

"Yes, sir. Boers. Can I do anything, sir?"

"Yes, don't become one of them."

Sir John French has made himself what he is, not by being a martinet, hidebound by the traditions of pipeclay and drill, so much as by a power of teaching men that in modern warfare safety lies in "slimness," and victory in guile, just as much as in the more easily recognisable expressions of martial valor.

Stern he may be, but scrupulously just and his men respect him for it.

"Ole French don't bite, don't 'e?" said a "Tommy," whom he had "hauled over the coals" for an act of carelessness. "But blimey, don't he 'ave Spanish well bite?"

Distinctly he belongs to the Kitchener school, for the first and foremost, as the army well knows, he is an efficiency lover.

Mrs. Despard, the General's "militant" sister, a woman who by her "masterly" tactics down Westminster way showed that the French family possesses a common strain of uncommon ability in the matter of manoeuvres, and furthermore that they are quite indifferent to what the world may say of them, has a tremendous respect for her brother's qualities as a soldier.

"My brother," she said, "will be one of the happiest men in the field. The 'war game' is his one passion. He loved it when he was a boy. Battles and preaching were his only hobbies. Napoleon was, and is still, one of his heroes. Not Napoleon, the politician, but Napoleon, the soldier. He holds very strongly that the soldier should stick by the sword, the peasant by his plough. He considered Napoleon the greatest tactician the world has ever known. And in one curious way his Napoleon cult has been unexpectedly useful. In pursuing his hero worship he has traced every hillock and hedgerow of the country where he is now fighting. He knew the Belgian theatre of war, in particular, by heart, through the Waterloo campaign before he ever landed.

"For all his strength of brow the General's mustache masks a most sensitive mouth. As a boy he was even nervous. I am still, of course. Any great task is apt to daunt me at first. I remember once feeling dreadfully 'down' before addressing a meeting on certain reforms which seemed to me very, very urgent. I stood before one of the big tasks of my life, and I was spiritually afraid—afraid some other might have done it better, afraid I would not meet the need. And I rather shamefacedly told my brother. 'Why?' he said, 'I've never yet done anything worth doing without having to screw myself up to it.' Physical fear he doesn't know, but spiritual doubt—yes."

He has a reputation, too, as a wit, but his "good things" are savored only in the services. He dearly loves a joke. One of the best stories told about him is how, one night at dinner, some officers were discussing rifle shooting. The General was listening, as was his wont, without making any remark, until at length he chipped in with—

"Say, I'll bet any one here" in his calm, quiet, deliberate way, "that I can fire ten shots at five hundred yards, and call each shot correctly without waiting for the marker. I'll stake a box of cigars on it."

The major present accepted the offer, and the next morning the whole mess was at the shooting range to see the trial.

Sir John fired. "Miss!" he announced. He fired again. "Miss!" he repeated. A third shot. "Miss!"

"Hold on there!" protested the major. "What are you doing? You are not shooting at the target at all!"

But French finished his task. "Miss!" "Miss!" "Miss!"

"Of course I wasn't shooting at the target," he said. "I was shooting for those cigars."

To conclude, Field Marshal Sir John French has a fine taste in fiction, a correct musical ear, a capital singing voice, exceptional skill at bridge, and, much to his regret, a snowy white moustache.

His other possessions include a charming wife, two stalwart sons and a pretty daughter who bears the uncommon name of Essex.

Will Tea Drinkers Inherit the Earth?

ALONG acquaintance with Russians, with Russian ideals and with Russian literature, convinces one that the Muscovites belong to the few idealists left on the globe, asserts Ella Hepworth Dixon in the Sketch. Their piety, their patience, their heroism, their amazing camaraderie among all classes, warrant hopes for the formation of an ideal state. They begin happily, because there is little or no class feeling, no snobbishness, in Russia. Prince and peasant approach each other quite simply, with an essentially human attitude. Their diffidence, their real kindliness, are two of their greatest national assets. The modern German, who is so pleased with himself that he is perpetually telling you that only he is fit to be master of the world, is in strange contrast to these fiery dreamers. We shall see that, with their burning faith, their modesty and their ideals, they will prove unconquerable, as indeed they always have been. The doubters and dreamers of Tolstoy and Tourgeneff have become the fighters of 1914. Mr. Maurice Baring and others who know the moujik well tell us that Milton's "Paradise Lost," admirably translated, is universally read among the peasantry. The upper middle class is progressive to a man, and especially to a woman: the future mothers of Russia are more akin to the intellectually "advanced" women of England than those of any other race. Their feminine aristocracy is the most intelligent and highly accomplished in the world. I once said to a sceptical young American friend, "The world will belong to the tea drinkers; to the English, the Russians, the Chinese and the Japanese." He scoffed at my theory, but before this century is ended it will, in all human probability, be realised.

Isle of Lewis Scots.

The Island of Lewis in Scotland, where practically the entire male population has volunteered for active service, holds a proud record for military prowess, and furnishes the finest recruits for the Highland regiments. A practice, approved by Plato, formerly prevailed here of putting to death by exposure all weakly or deformed children, and it is said by the most credible historians that this custom continued until "modern times." As a result, the inhabitants are far superior in physique to other Highlanders, and consumption was quite unknown until recently re-introduced by sickly Southrons.

Early Female Boxing Bout.

Female pugilists used at one time to fight in a curious way. An early historian of boxing quotes a challenge issued in the eighteenth century: "I, Elizabeth Wilkinson of Clerkenwell, having had some words with Hannah Hyfield and requiring satisfaction, do invite her to meet me upon the stage and box me for 3 guineas, each woman holding a half crown in each hand, and the first woman that drops the money to lose the battle." The challenge was formally accepted, Hannah promising to give Elizabeth "more blows than words, desiring home thrusts, and from her no favor. She may expect a good thumping."—London Standard.

No Guard Required.

This is a story of a gunboat in Belfast Lough a short time ago. The nearest Ulster volunteers heliographed a message to her commander on a Sunday morning asking if any men were coming ashore to church, as, if so, they wanted to form a guard of honor. The commander signalled back, "Fifty men coming ashore to church." The guard of honor was formed and lined up to receive the men as they came ashore. "Which church?" asked the commander of the guard of honor. "All to St. —— to mass," was the startling answer. The guard of honor disbanded at once.

PROPHECIES DOOM KAISER.

Horoscope Published in 1898 Forecasted Present War.

A reader of an English paper sends a copy of the horoscope of Kaiser William taken from W. Gorn Old's "New Manual of Astrology," published in London in 1898. It reads: "Born Jan. 27, 1859, 3 p.m., at Berlin. Here we find Saturn in the sign of its debility opposing the sun in its weakest sign; Mars and Neptune conjoined in the meridian, and the sun semi-square to both; the malefics, Neptune, Mars and Uranus, elevated, and the moon in oppositios to Uranus. The Emperor has a most fateful horoscope, and during his reign the German Empire will suffer reversals of which hitherto it has had no shadow of experience.

"The destiny of Kaiser Wilhelm is such that he will lose nearly the whole of his possessions. He will never be a popular monarch. Mars in the meridian, will cause him to engage in continual quarrels, and the sun in opposition to Saturn will denude him of his power among the nations. He will lose his royal spouse (the moon in opposition to Uranus retrograde) suddenly.

"It is not improbable that his territory will pass into the hands of France and Russia. These, at least, are the two powers who will contend for the possession of the empire which the Kaiser is powerless to retain. Nothing more adverse or less royal than this horoscope of the Kaiser, except perhaps that of the Sultan of Turkey, is to be found among the rulers of Europe. The Kaiser will die suddenly, and the heart will be the seat of the fatal affection.

"This horoscope is introduced to illustrate the rules in regard to the question of wealth and possessions. Before the year 1915 it is probable Germany will in part have passed into the hands of its enemies."

The following prediction by an Indian magi, which was published in the Godhpor Almanac last January, completes the cycle forecasting the downfall of Germany:

"In the month of July, 1914, all Europe will be overwhelmed by a war between the great powers, and terrible disasters will result.

"But in November a great Emperor will lose his crown and hostilities will cease."

The Paris Figaro prints the commencement of a Latin prophecy, dated 1600. The author is not known. The monk Johannes has written the verses like a chapter of the Bible. Some of them are:

"It is true that anti-Christ will be a monarch, a son of Luther, invoking God and calling himself God's envoy."

"He will have only one arm, but innumerable armies whose device will be 'God with Us'."

"He will use craft and felony for a long time with spies throughout the world."

"He will have learned men in his pay proving his mission to be Divine."

"All Christians and all Mussulmans, and even the most distant nations will partake in war. Armies will be formed in the four corners of the world and eight angels will open men's eyes to understand by the third week that if they fight not anti-Christ all will become his slaves."

"Anti-Christ will be recognizable by his massacring priests and monks and women and aged persons. No mercy will be shown. He will pass torch in hand, like the barbarians but invoking Christ."

"His words will be Christlike, but his acts Heroditike, His coat-of-arms will contain an eagle, as also will the coat-of-arms of his acolyte, another evil monarch."

"The latter will die by the malediction of Pope Benedict, who will be elected at the commencement of anti-Christ's reign."

Building For Earthquakes.

In the seismic districts of Italy all new buildings are being erected under strict supervision with respect to their ability to resist earthquake shocks. Prof. Omori, the Japanese authority, has estimated that 99.5 per cent. of the deaths in the great Messina earthquake of 1908 would have been prevented if the buildings had been properly constructed.

"Eau de Louvain."

The popular movement to secure a new name for "Eau de Cologne," to take the place of the German cognoman, has resulted in the Town of Annaleo holding an election, when "Eau de Louvain" was substituted.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about two ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

NO WORD OF CRUISER.

German Despatch Insists That Australia Is Missing.

LONDON, Dec. 7. — Information given out to the press yesterday by the German Official Press Bureau says that, according to a report received by the Italian newspaper, Corriere Della Sera, the Australian battle cruiser Australian apparently is missing.

The Australia was last reported in Hawaiian waters last September, when a merchant ship picked up a wireless message from the Dreadnought saying that she was in full chase of the German cruiser Nurnberg. There is no report in London as to her being missing or having sustained a mishap.

HONOLULU, Dec. 7. — Thousands of Japanese, veterans of the Russo-Japanese war, are preparing to leave Hawaii to return to Japan and join the colors. They have received word that they may expect to see service with their British allies in Egypt and India.

Hon. Arthur Annesley Killed.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—In a casualty list made public last night, Capt. the Hon. Arthur Annesley, of the 10th Hussars, is reported among the killed, and Lieut. Lord Charles Sackville Pelham Worsley as among the missing.

An Ugly Bird.

The pondicherry is not a pretty bird to look at, but his manners are worse than his looks. Even the natives of East India, whose home of the pondicherry, avoid the place where the ugly creature builds its nest. The East Indian's sense of smell is far from delicate, but even so he draws the line on the pondicherry.

Besides living in so uncleanly a way that both man and birds keep him at a distance, this ill-mannered bird has a hateful trick of hissing. There's no melody in his throat at all, no one ever heard him sing, but when he takes to fight he makes a noise similar to that made by an angry snake.

NOT HOME RULERS.

Agitators Are Separatists, Socialists and Cranks, Says Redmond.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Speaking at a great demonstration at Tuam, Ireland, yesterday, John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, replied to statements that Ireland was not doing her duty in the present crisis. He quoted official statistics, showing that despite the fact that emigration had drawn from Ireland the flower of her population, there were serving with the military forces of the crown on Nov. 30, 89,000 Irishmen, who had been in the army before the war began or who had joined as reservists or recruits. If to that were added tens of thousands of Irish recruits who were joining the colors in Great Britain or were now in the ranks of the Canadian, Australian or New Zealand contingents, he said, it was safe to say from 130,000 to 140,000 Irishmen were with the colors.

Mr. Redmond declared that 52,000 of the 89,000 Irishmen in the home army were Catholics. He said that 10,112 Ulster Volunteers had gone to the colors from Belfast, while in the same city the Nationalist Volunteers who represented only a quarter of the population had contributed 3,153. This, he believed, was only the beginning of what Irishmen would do.

Mr. Redmond says the men who opposed the treaty of peace between the Nationalists and democracy of England must be divided into "Separatists, Socialists, or common or garden cranks," but that they were not and never had been home rulers. When the constitutional movement had been brought to a triumphal end and Ireland had her own Parliament they would disappear, he declared.

TO SWAP PROFESSORS.

President Trying To Get Substitutes For Trio Given Leave of Absence.

TORONTO, Dec. 7. — In order to "meet the needs of the university and the students," it is understood that Dr. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, is endeavoring to exchange with universities in the United States, the services of Profs. Mueller and Bensinger and Herr Tapper, the Germans who were given leave of absence by the board of governors on Friday, for other professors.

The leave of absence extended to the professors extends to July next, or to the end of the college term. It is thought by the president that the students who are studying the courses in which German professors taught should not be curtailed in their academic standing, and with this end in view professors from other colleges will be secured if possible, to take the places of those who will not teach here during the term.

Sir Edmund Osler stated last night that he had resigned from the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto. This information was given in reply to a question as to whether or not further protest would be made against the three German professors.

Vienna Fortifying.

VENICE, Dec. 7.—(Via London.)—Advices received here from Vienna say that the work of fortifying the capital is proceeding rapidly. Several thousand men are reported to be employed in digging trenches.

ITALY THREW OFF YOKE.

In August, 1913, She Refused To Join Triple Alliance to Raid.

ROME, Dec. 7.—The Italian Chamber Saturday passed a vote of confidence in the Government 423 to 49. Admiral Bettolo, ex-Minister of Marine, presented the resolution calling for a vote of confidence in the Cabinet. The admiral said he approved of the reasons of neutrality as given by Premier Salandra.

The majority of those who spoke in the Chamber, especially the Extreme Left, tried to construe accordingly to their own views of the statement made by Premier Salandra at the opening of Parliament on Thursday. The Premier at that time advised that Italy maintain an attitude of armed and watchful neutrality. Some of the speakers at Saturday's session urged the Government to make more explicit declarations, while others attacked the Cabinet because, they said, notwithstanding her military expenses, Italy was obliged to remain neutral owing to her military unpreparedness.

Former Premier Giolitti showed that in August, 1913, during the Balkan war Germany and Austria, especially the latter, planned an invasion of Servia. Austria and Germany justified the proposed move by declaring it was a purely defensive step. Italy then formally notified these two powers that she considered herself relieved of the obligations of the Triple Alliance.

The former Premier was interrupted at this point by great applause. He concluded his address by urging the maintenance of neutrality until the necessity should arise to protect Italy's rights. Until then, he said, there should be loyal observance of neutrality, which alone can give, in any moment, complete liberty of judgment and action.

This Will Remove Hairy or Fuzzy Growths

(Toilet Tips)

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone.

Some Loud Noises Cannot Be Heard.

Experimenters in vibration have found that no sound, no matter how loud it may be, can be heard unless it lasts longer than one-fortieth of a second. They have found that both the number of vibrations and the duration of sound influence its audibility, probably the latter more than the former. This means that there are untold numbers of piercing sounds with infinitesimal vibrations and short duration occurring every moment about us. Fortunately we are unable to hear them, else we should be driven crazy in a short time. The ear apparatus is so constructed that it records only those sounds that last one-fortieth of a second or over.—Chicago Tribune.

A Great War "Scoop."

Days have changed for the war correspondent since Archibald Forbes was praised in the house of lords by Lord Salisbury and received by Queen Victoria at Buckingham palace in recognition of his exploits as a news gatherer during the Russo-Turkish war of 1877. Forbes' greatest exploit was his ride from Shipka pass to the nearest telegraph station at Bukharest and his reception en route by the czar, to whom he was the first to communicate news of the Russian victory, the former trooper of the Royals having outdistanced not only all rival correspondents, but the official messengers as well.—London Mail.

Blanquet's Idea.

The cold winter of 1340 gave the comforting blanket to England and afterward to the rest of the world. Its inventor, Thomas Blanquet, was a Flemish merchant, settled in Bristol, who had fallen from affluence into want. He and his wife were suffering from intense cold by reason of scanty bedding and lack of fuel. He searched for something to put on the bed to increase the warmth and hit upon a piece of rough, unfinished cloth that had been thrown aside. Its success as a warmth giver suggested the manufacture of special bed covers of the same material, and these articles, to which he gave his own name, won him wealth and immortality.

Animal Mimicry.

Observers of nature are frequently struck with the singular resemblances of insects to leaves, dried sticks, etc., and these likenesses are supposed to have grown out of the necessity of protection against or concealment from enemies. An interesting example of this kind of resemblance was brought to the attention of the Entomological Society in London by a naturalist who exhibited a spider found inhabiting some rocks near Cannes, as which were also fastened the cases of a species of moth. When at rest the spider exhibited almost precisely the same form and color as the moth cases surrounding it.

Conditions Bad In Labrador.

FUGITIVE INDIAN SHOT.

PEMBROKE, Dec. 7. — Anthony Jocko, one of the Indian slayers of Turnkey Robert Coxford in the jail here a week ago last night, yesterday paid with his life the penalty of his crime. Jocko was Saturday surrounded by a posse in the home of a half-breed named Chalbut, about 20 miles from the Golden Lake reserve.

The Indian left the house in the morning and endeavored to escape. He was called on to halt, but continued to run. Several shots were fired at him, one of them striking him in the foot. He continued to press on, but another bullet struck him in the groin, the bullet passing through his abdomen. He died early yesterday.

Messrs. Eno and Wade, of Killaloe, and Ruddy brothers of Round Lake, composed the posse which shot the Indian down.

Peter White Duck, the other Indian concerned in the slaying of the turnkey, was captured Tuesday last, and is in the jail here awaiting preliminary hearing.

The Assuan Dam.

The great Assuan dam on the Nile is 2,165 yards long and 130 feet high. The water stored behind the dam is estimated by the engineers at over a thousand millions of cubic meters. The gain to the country from the dam is over $20,000,000 a year to say nothing of the increased value received for the reclaimed lands

UNSTRUNG, UNSTEADY SHAKY NERVES

MAY BE TONED UP BY USING

MILBURN'S HEART and NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. John Harper, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for the heart and nervous system. I was confined to a grocery store for twelve years, and had to give up business, as I became terribly run down and nervous, and had heart trouble, and I am sure I am gaining very fast now. I feel that nothing did me any good until I tried your Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am positive they will cure me. The nerves of one hand would tremble and then seem to go numb so that I could not write or sew. Now my hand is quite steady, as you can see by my handwriting. This is a big change which delights me so much for I thought all was done that could be done. I was about to give up in despair when I tried this last remedy, and even after I had only taken half a box the change started to come."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will restore the enfeebled, enervated, exhausted, overworked system to full constitutional power.

Price, 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

MY SHADOWER

An Episode in Mexico Under Huerta.

By JOHN TURNLEE

I was a banker in the City of Mexico in the latter part of the Diaz regime during the revolution that deposed him and the one that raised Huerta to the dictatorship. It was soon after Huerta came to power that about $50,000 disappeared from the vaults of the bank with which I was connected. The best detectives in Mexico were put to work to find out who was the thief and what had become of the money, but they never succeeded in getting the slightest clew.

During the period when Huerta was acting as provisional president—that is, before he had declared himself dictator—I was a commercial traveler in northern Mexico. The Constitutionalists were in possession of that part of the country, and traveling was dangerous. In the first place, the region was infested by robbers; in the second, any point was liable to be attacked by federals or rebels, and in the third one bailing from Mexico City ran the risk of being taken for a spy.

While eating dinner one day at a hotel in Chihuahua, looking up suddenly, I met the gaze of a man bent on me intently. The moment I looked at him he dropped his eyes to his plate. Two or three times after that during the meal I looked at him just in time to catch him turning away his gaze. He did not look like a soldier or a fighter of any kind. He wore mutton chop whiskers and was bald on the top of his head.

I was fearful that I had seen him, or, rather, he had seen me, at the capital; that he was in sympathy with the rebel cause—the Constitutionalists held the place—and suspected me of being identified with the Huerta government. I arose from the table before I had finished my dinner in order to get away from him.

I was making for home, because on account of the troubled conditions of the country the selling of goods was out of the question, and left immediately for Santa Rosalia, about a hundred miles to the southward. There I stopped over to try to collect a debt. The day after my arrival I was looking out of a window when, on the other side of the street, I saw a figure suddenly emerge from behind a tree box. It was the man who had stared at me at Chihuahua.

I now became thoroughly alarmed. Either the man had spotted me for a spy and was dogging me with a view to turning me over to the rebel authorities or he was after several hundred pesos I had on my person. If the former was his object he would watch for his opportunity when near a band of rebels; if the latter, when he could get me alone, though I rather suspected, in this event, that he was in league with a band of robbers.

I was a long distance from Mexico City and despaired of getting through without giving the man his opportunity. We were constantly falling in with rebel troops, and I was at times obliged to move through lonely places. I was armed—every one in Mexico carried a revolver—but what use would weapons be to me against a band of rebels or robbers who quite often were both?

WE SAT FACING EACH OTHER.

I left Santa Rosalia at midnight, hoping to elude my shadower, and instead of going by a direct route toward home I struck out for Parral. I thought it best to stop at the latter town for a day or two in the hope of losing my man and remained within doors most of the time. But the second evening of my stay there I went out on the street to get a little air, for the day had been intensely hot. Stopping to look into a shop window, who should I see inside but the man whom I was trying to get rid of. He was not purchasing anything, but was talking with the shopkeeper. I had no doubt that he was describing me and asking the man if he had seen me.

I slunk back to my hotel and went to my room.

I remained housed for three days; then, thinking that possibly I might have given my shadower the slip, I continued my journey. A week passed, during which I was moving slowly southward. I began to feel easier with regard to him, for it seemed that if he was still on my track I should have seen something of him. It was evident that he had lost me without having found an opportunity to turn me over to one of the rebel commanders or rob me. I was getting nearer all the while to federal territory, and if I could once get within it would feel comparatively safe.

I was doomed to disappointment. Tampico seemed for me the easiest point to reach, and from there I might go by sea to Vera Cruz. Both places were then in federal hands, but before I reached Tampico it was besieged by rebels. At Victoria I heard of the rupture between Huerta and the United States.

Puzzled as to what to do, I stopped where I was. I was in rebel territory and could not get into the federal lines. Foreign refugees were leaving Mexico when they could, and I was tempted to do the same. But I had lived a long while in the country, and if I were to go away from it I did not know how I would make a living.

I was walking through the town one day when suddenly I encountered my shadower face to face. On this occasion he seemed as much rattled at the meeting as I. He started, put his hand to his hip, thought better of the movement and did not draw his weapon. I followed his movements closely.

"You villain!" I exclaimed. "Raise a finger against me and I will kill you!"

"If you do my secret will be buried with me," he said, very much excited.

I gathered courage. For some reason, either because he was unaided or because we were on a public street, I seemed to have the advantage. I concluded to permit him to explain his object toward me if he would without betraying my ignorance of it. I glared at him and said nothing.

"I am ready to restore the whole amount," he said, "not that you could, in the present state of the country, compel me to do so or imprison me for the crime."

"Go on," I said without indicating that I did not know what he was talking about.

"The fact is," he continued, "that I have not had a moment's peace of mind since I took the money."

"That is the usual result with new criminals," I put in, still ignorant of what money he referred to.

"Not a cent has been wasted, not a cent spent. The bills are in packages just as they were taken from the safe."

A sudden light broke in on my dull brain. This man who I supposed had been shadowing me had considered me his shadower. Truly, a guilty conscience needs no accuser.

"Where are they?" I asked.

"I'll never tell until I am promised immunity from prosecution."

"Will you be content with such a promise from me?"

He thought awhile before replying to this, then said: "I suppose I'll have to be content. You were an official of the bank. In these times we can't choose our methods. My principal motive is to get the matter off my hands and off my conscience."

"Very well; so far as my promise of immunity goes I will give it, and I think it will be respected by the others concerned. If the whole amount taken is restored I am quite sure you will not need to fear prosecution."

"Come to my room and draw up the papers."

I went with him and, as we sat facing each other, listened to his recital as to how he came to take the money:

"One of the clerks in the bank was a friend of mine. I had been for years in the employ of a safe and lock company. The clerk suggested how easy it would be for him to admit me to the safe and for me to pick the lock and take enough money to make us rich. We both fell under the temptation. On pretense of being behind with his books he worked at night, took me in when no one but himself was there, and I opened the safe and took the money.

"I carried it northward, crossed the Rio Grande and buried it in a metal box in the state of Texas. The clerk who admitted me to the bank became panic stricken at what he had done and would not accept a cent of it. I dared not spend it, for I knew detectives were watching me, as they watched all intimate friends of the bank's force. And that's the reason why the secret service men never got on to who took the money. None of it was ever spent."

The man concluded by saying that he had known I was an officer of the bank and asked me to tell him how I had spotted him. Then I confessed that I was perfectly ignorant of his being the thief of the money lost until he told me that he was. But he was so relieved to get the matter off his mind that he did not regret the mistake.

After I had sworn to the man to keep the secret pertaining to himself and the clerk who had helped him we started together for the Texas border, crossed it in a lonely place on the north bank of the Rio Grande and dug up the stolen bills. I deposited the money, dividing it among several different Texas banks, and wrote those concerned on its return an account of the adventure by which I had discovered it.

I gave the man who had returned it funds for his immediate use from my own pocket, and he went I know not whither. My terror when I supposed I was in danger of my life was turned to amusement at the denouement, and the further I pass from the former the more I derive of the latter.

War Cannot Slaughter MORE VICTIMS THAN PNEUMONIA.

Pneumonia is described as a preventible disease if taken in time.

Pneumonia is the scourge of the able-bodied men and women "a little run down perhaps" but strong in the belief that they can fight off a cold. Colds are not easily fought off in this northern climate.

On the first sign of a cough or cold, our advice to you is "GET RID OF IT."

The slight cold, the irritating cough, the tightness of the chest, if not attended to, will sooner or later develope into some serious lung or bronchial trouble.

GET A BOTTLE OF
and you will find after the first two or three doses have been taken the cough or cold will quickly disappear.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; the price, 25c and 50c.

Be sure you see that the name of The T. Milburn Co., Limited, appears on both the label and wrapper.

Mrs. Edward Hugo, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes: "My little girl, three years old, contracted a bad cold which settled on her lungs, and turned into pneumonia, and she was given up by our doctor. I decided to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and by the time she had taken three bottles she was well again. I shall always keep a bottle of "Dr. Wood's" in the house."

THE FATAL LETTER.

An Ancient Creditor Loses a Dollar, but Mr. Timbers Sees the Ball Game.

The moon was bathing the city in pale light as Midway Timbers dropped the letter in the mail box.

He had hesitated long before taking that action, but now it was over, and he went home to try to sleep.

Several times during the night he awoke vaguely regretting his decisive step, but it was not until morning that he felt the first real pangs of remorse.

"Why did I do it?" he thought. "Why did I do it?"

He dressed feverishly, for now one thought had possession of him. He must get to the box before the early mail collection and induce the mail man to give him back the letter.

It must never be delivered!

Midway Timbers and the mail man reached the box about the same time. For awhile the mail man was obdurate.

"It's as much as my job is worth to give you anything out of that box," he said.

"Man, my life is ruined, do you hear, ruined! I'll tell you what was on it to prove it's mine. 'Madison Skathers, 8½ Summ place.'"

"Sure enough," said the mail man, "there is one like that. Oh, well, take it. I should worry!"

Five minutes later, in the privacy of his own room, Midway Timbers had torn open the letter and extracted the dollar bill that in a weak moment he had sent to Madison Skathers in settlement of their ancient debt.

A Mannish Lady.

An eccentric lady who was a source of great amusement to the then Prince of Wales in those earlier years was Lady Sophia Macnamara, who is described in "On the Track of the Great:"

She was the most independent woman I have ever met—robust and breezy, wont to wear a hat of the kind we christened the "hard boiled egg"—an uncompromising looking plain straw hat, such as men wear, without any decoration whatsoever. Of an evening she used to sit next the heir to the British throne, listening to the music, wearing her "hard boiled egg" and smoking a big cigar, and when that was finished she would light and smoke a second. One couldn't help admiring a woman who was so absolutely indifferent to conventionalism.

SIGNS OF KIDNEY TROUBLE.

In the early stages kidney troubles are known by backache and urinary disorders. Later come dropsy, stone, rheumatic pains and perhaps diabetes. But don't wait for these. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will help you in a few hours. Their thorough action on the liver, kidneys and bowels will clear away the pains and aches and make you well again.

Fountain Pens Old.

If fountain pens have not attained perfection in the present day it is not because their youth warrants their indiscretions, for, according to a writer in the Pall Mall Gazette (London), this form of combined ink reservoir and pen has been in use for over 300 years. E. S. Bates in his "Touring In 1600" shows, he says, that travelers wrote with them at that time. In the following century they appear to have been in common use, a dictionary published in 1754 defining "fountain pen" as "a pen made of silver, brass, etc., contrived to contain a considerable quantity of ink and let it flow out by degrees. To use the pen the cover must be taken off and the pen a little shaken to make the ink run more freely." British patents were obtained for fountain pens in 1809, one being granted to Joseph Bramah of Rock fame and another to F. H. Foelsch for a stylographic as well as a fountain pen.

Tactful Dam Builder.

In speaking of the river regulations of the ancients Sir William Willcocks, the noted English engineer, said: "Cyrus the Great controlled the Gyndes, a tributary of the Tigris, in a truly original manner. Babylonia was already peopled, and lands were needed for his Persian troops. The Gyndes discharges 40,000 suction feet and runs thirty feet deep in a sandy and mobile bed. He could build no regulator, so he dug thirty canals, divided the waters of the river among them, closed the river by an earthen dam and completely controlled it. As he could never have induced his wild soldiers to dig these canals for any useful purpose, he took advantage of the fact that his favorite horse had been drowned in the flood and urged his soldiers to dig the canals and dissipate the waters of the river in such a fashion that it could never again drown a horse."

Professor Munsterberg's prediction that the war will last from twenty days to twenty years is what might be called a fairly safe guess, psychologically considered.

THE BLESSING OF MOTHERHOOD

Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes

Motherhood is woman's highest sphere in life. It is the fruition of her dearest hopes and greatest desires; yet thousands of noble women through some derangement have been denied this blessing.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong. This is evidenced by the following letters which are genuine and truthful:

London, Ont.—"I wish to thank you for the benefit I received by taking your famous medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before my baby was born I was so ill I could not stand long or walk any distance. I had to lie down nearly all the time. After I took your medicine I felt like a new woman. I could work from morning till night and was happy and well. I certainly think it relieves pain at childbirth and recommend it to every woman who is pregnant. You may use this testimonial if you like. It may help some other woman."—Mrs. FRANK CORBIN, 122 Adelaide St., London, Ont.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I was ailing all the time and did not know what the matter was. I wanted a baby but my health would not permit it. I was nervous, my side ached and I was all run down. I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good and took the medicine. I have now a beautiful baby and your Compound has helped me in every way."—Mrs. J. J. STEWART, 290 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Taken Literally.

Wishing some bushes removed from his garden, a gentleman instructed his gardener to pull them up by the roots. Some time afterward he went into the garden and found the gardener digging trenches round the bushes.

"Why, George," he said, "you must not dig round those small bushes in that way. I am sure you are strong enough to pull them up by the roots."

"Oh, yes, sir," replied the gardener; "I'm strong enough, but I must dig a little before I can get hold of the roots. If you'd told me to pull them up by the branches I could, of course, easily have removed them without digging."—London Strand Magazine.

Children of Criminals.

It is a curious fact—one all at variance with the doctrines of heredity, but borne out by police records—that the children of crooks, of all classes, rarely turn out to be crooks themselves. Deeper study of the subject might reveal that they are possessed of the criminal instincts, but that the tragically close example of the punishment and wretchedness that attend a criminal career has been a terrifying deterrent. The fact, at any rate, remains. The rogues' gallery of Scotland Yard may be studied in vain for the photographs of a father and a son.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Easily Prepared in a Few Minutes. Cheap but Unequaled

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with a persistent bronchial cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it.

Get 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflammation in a painful cough with remarkable rapidity. Ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, winter coughs and bronchial asthma.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup mixture makes 16 ounces—enough to last a family a long time—at a cost of only 54 cents. Keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant. Easily prepared. Full directions with Pinex.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its ease, certainty and promptness in overcoming bad coughs, chest and throat colds.

Get the genuine. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Crushed the Critic.

He was very deferential, but he was a deacon in the church, and he felt that he had a right to criticise.

"I hope you'll pardon me," he said, "if I suggest that your sermons are—ah"—

"Too prosy, I suppose," suggested the minister.

"Oh, no, not that, but too long."

"But you mustn't blame me for that," returned the minister pleasantly. "If you knew a little more I wouldn't have to tell you so much."—London Scraps.

WHO'S WHO IN THE WAR

Although he has not played a spectacular part in the war, the French republic owes much to the military genius of Gen. Hubert Lyautey, the Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Morocco. This action of a noble and ancient family of France has long been honoured as one of the foremost soldiers of "La Republique." It was Lyautey who brought about the military conquest of Morocco, and who developed and whipped into shape those ferocious African troops, Turcos and Senegalese, who have fought so valiantly in France and Belgium. Gen. Lyautey has recently waged a successful war of his own against the unreconciled Berber mountain tribes in Morocco, who sought to take advantage of the big war to start a revolution. While Gen. Lyautey has remained at his Moroccan post, his advice as to the conduct of the European war has been sought and highly valued by the French war ministry. Lyautey comes of a family long prominent in France, and is sixty-one years of age. He began his military career at the age of seventeen, when he enlisted as a private during the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. He is a native of Nancy. Gen. Lyautey is one of the "forty immortals" of the French Academy, having been elected to that body in 1912, in succession to Count Henry Houssaye, and is perhaps the most gifted literary man in the world's armies. In adddition to being largely instrumental in the conquest of Morocco, he played no small part in effecting the French occupation of Madagascar. That France keeps so able a soldier in northern Africa is proof of the importance the government attaches to its possessions across the Mediterranean.

GERMAN ARISTOCRACY IS BEING WIPED OUT BY WAR

All Men of Several Reigning Families Killed in Battle—Heavy Losses Among Officers and Commoners Will Have to Step Up—Army to be Officered Like French.

CONSIDERATION SHOWN BY THE COMBATANTS

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—War is wiping out Germany's aristocracy. This is a striking social result of her unprecedented struggle against seven enemy states. The corps and regiments of which the fatherland is proudest; the corps which in Frederick's time made feudal Prussia, and which make feudal Prussia to-day, are being swept into the abyss.

The tragedy is outwardly most visible at Berlin, where the "Herr Lieutnant" is the traditional hero of the sentimental pig-tailed "Backfisch." The Bavarian journalist, himself a reserve officer, writes: "So terrifically has our military aristocracy dwindled that after the war we shall have a new, democratically officered army like that of France."

Half Gone in Ten Regiments.

Totalling up sixty daily lists of killed and wounded shows that the ten regiments which count as "smartest" have lost on an average half their officers. In peace time these regiments have a total of 180 lieutenants. Of the lieutenants, only 78 survive. The reserve officers taken into these regiments have lost 40 per cent.

Four of the regiments have lost their colonels, and two of them have lost two-thirds of their captains. Many officers are only slightly wounded. They will return to the front. But as the war goes on few of the original officers will be left.

"Two years hence," writes Major Lehmann, "the army will be commanded by promoted non-coms. These men will excell, because they will have had practice in fighting which will replace theoretical training. But the aristocrat with leadership in his blood will have disappeared."

Three Families Lose All Men.

Every aristocratic name is in the list of killed and wounded. Among famous military and political names I find Bismarck, Moltke, Buelow, Bluecher, Bredow, Kleist, and Stein. All the lost officers of these names are kinsmen of heroes of past wars or politics. In the northern provinces all the men of several families have perished.

Worse are conditions in the west of Brandenburg, Mark, and in Pomerania, both old bulwarks of Hohenzollern power. Fourteen princes belonging to some twenty-three reigning families are dead or wounded. There are still a hundred of these princes at the front. The losses of the reigning families are exaggerated. Every day foreign telegrams come to Berlin recording the deaths of German princes who do not exist. Most are described as "cousins of the Kaiser."

In addition to his sons, Wilhelm II. has nine cousins and nephews at the front. Six are regimental officers. All these undergo the same risks as do the other officers of the line.

Wilfully Expose Themselves.

Descriptions of fighting in east and west show that officers wilfully expose themselves. Many perish through not taking shelter in the trenches; many more through taking risks with the object of inspiriting their men. A story is told by the wounded linesman, Seydel, of the recent fight between Roulers and Ecloo, which shows the spirit of the officers.

Germans, says Seydel, occupied a double row of trenches flanked on the right by a copse and on the left by a stream which they made difficult to pass by stringing barbed wire along the banks. The French could not attack the trenches in front, as here also was barbed wire. Behind this wire was a row of pits called by the soldiers "die kleine Hoelle," or "Little Hell." The trench was shelled for seven hours, and five officers perished. The loss in men was only three.

The sections swung down stream, and the three officers found themselves on the Russian side. The Russians did not fire on them. They sent cavalry from behind a wood with the design of capturing the Germans. The German shrapnel caught the cavalry column, wiped half of it out, and sent the rest racing back.

The Germans remained untouched for an hour, during which a terrific artillery duel was fought across the Vistula. In the end the German artillery withdrew. Russian horsemen came back and invited the Germans to surrender. One of the engineers did surrender. The staff officer and the other engineer drew their swords and rushed on the Russian cavalry. The two were hacked to pieces.

Russians Are Chivalrous.

German reports give Russian officers credit for equal courage. The Russian officers are stated nearly always to have behaved well. One redeeming feature of the war is that the accusations of cowardice, brutality and treachery which fly from Europe to America and around the world are mostly the inventions of stay-at-home civilians. Between the fighting men a far more chivalrous spirit obtains. With the non-commissioned ranks this spirit is weakened by weeks of waiting in trenches carpeted with blood and mud.

The officers on both sides are all right. Many officers report kindly and chivalrous treatment from the Russians and even from the French (though the Franco-German opposition is much fiercer than the Russo-German). Sometimes the concern of inimical officers for one another transcends the consideration they show to their comrades.

Russian Asleep Among Foe.

This happened with the Seventy-sixth Infantry Regiment, which gets its men from Hamburg, and bears the title 'the Hamburger Geese." A battalion of the "Hamburger Geese" was entrenched for a week at Mstchonow, a townlet south-west of Warsaw, near the Warsaw-Kalisch-Lodz railroad. The Russians were entrenched a mile in front.

The battle consisted in making approaches and sniping. Within two days the trenches were brought to within 300 yards. Russians and Germans began to exchange visits. When the trenches got to within 200 yards the Germans sniped so successfully that the visits had to cease.

This bored the "Hamburger Geese." Then sent a message asking on what terms the Russians would renew the old friendly relations. A Russian officer promised to visit the German trench on condition that he was not made a prisoner. An hour later there sat in the trench a gigantic, very hungry Russ who devoured vast quantities of "kalter Aufschnitt" and drank schnaps. Schnaps, he said, he had not tasted since the beginning of the war. The schnaps went to his head and he fell asleep.

Carry Him Back.

In vain the "Hamburger Geese" tried to awaken him. They had promised not to make him prisoner and that gave him a claim to their protection. They reasoned that he was not back by nightfall he would be suspected of desertion or even of treason. The big Russ was a Baltic province native with a German name, and that would intensify suspicion. The "geese" decided to carry him back to his trench.

As they had not right to risk their men's lives the officers decided to do the work themselves. They slung the tipsy Russian in a hammock, swung the hammock on two sticks, and intrusted it to two lieutenants. As the lieutenants moved forward there was a volley. A bullet cut the hammock rope and the gigantic Russian came down with a flop. This woke him. He drew his sword and slashed one of the lieutenants on the arm.

Keep Faith under Volleys.

The other lieutenant disarmed him. Even this did not induce the Germans to break their promise not to make the Russian a prisoner. They threw him on the ground and then sat on him. For two hours in the darkness the Russians and the Germans in the trenches exchanged volleys over the officers' heads.

At midnight a Russian officer carrying a white flag in the glare of an electric projector came out of the trenches. He found the three men lying on the ground. The big Russian was handed back to his comrades, and the Germans got back to their trenches.

Two days later the big Russian was killed in an assault on the German trenches. The Germans found a book on his body printed in Cyrillic characters, and on the fly leaf a Russian address which they could not read. They cut out the address, pasted it on the book, and then sent the book back. The address, they learned, was that of the dead Russian's mother.

Some German officers have been in French or Russian captivity and have got out of it.

PRIVATE BROWN.

A no-count cuss was he,
An ordinary loafer such
As frequently you see.
His mother was the only one
Who'd have him in the town.
When war broke out he 'listed and Was ranked as Private Brown.

"It's funny how that mother saw
What stuff was in her son;
We wondered why she loved him when
She'd heard the things he'd done.
Yet mothers know—and when the news
Came of what happened down
At Armentieres durned if we Weren't proud of Private Brown.

"Slim Bill"—not much! The papers said:
"Distinguished bravery
Of Private William Brown (that's him).
Fourteenth Artillery."
And thereupon we saw that we'd
Been hasty, I'll be boun',
So great a change a line of type
Had wrought for Private Brown.

And then his mother! Never saw
So pleased a woman yet.
She bragged of "Will," and talked of him
To every one she met.
And when he came you ought to see
The people crowd aroun'.
Why, even the policemen shook
The hand of Private Brown.

THE HOUSEWIFE.

Master of the House (married to a suffragette)—What's happening about the dinner, Mary?

Maid— There ain't going to be none, sir.

Master—What! No dinner?

Maid—No, sir. The missus 'as come 'ome from jail, sir, an' ate up heverything in the 'ouse!

HANDING DOWN.

By Harold Begbie.

Soldier, what are you writing
By the side of your cooling gun?
Sir, since I'm stopped from fighting,
A word to my little son.

Tell me the thing you've written,
For I love the writer's art;
Sir, that to be a Briton
Is worth a broken heart.

Show me so fine a letter
That you write in the trench's mud,
Sir, you could read it better
Were it not for the stain of blood.

Soldier, tell me your story— . . . . . .
Your eyes grow bright and wide:
Sir, it's a taste of glory
To think of the young one's pride!

Would you like to be a soldier, little Tommy-all-my-own,
Would you like to tip the Kaiser off his high and mighty throne.
Would you like to be with father in a well-dug British trench,
Knocking spots off German generals and saluting General French?

Would I like to be with Tommy, little Tommy-all-my-own,
Would I give a month of Sundays just to see how he has grown?
Yes! I'd like to be a dustman in the poorest London streets
For the chance of seeing Tommy with a gumboil made of sweets.

If you want to be where I am, then I want to be with you,
But I'm here to show a tyrant that a Briton's word is true:
We must stand by little Belgium, we must fight till fighting ends,
We must show the foes of Britain that we dont' desert our friends.

Don't you go and think, my Tommy, little Tommy-all-my-own,
That we're squabbling here for nothing, that we're growling for a bone;
We are here for Britain's honour, for our freedom, for our peace,
And we're also here, my Tommy, that these wicked wars may cease

Don't you say that I am funky, don't you say that I am sick,
Boy, I'm half afraid to tell you, but I love it when it's thick—
When the shells come screaming, bursting, and the whistling bullets wail:
God forgive me, but I love it, and I fight with tooth and nail.

But it's after — looking round us, missing friends and finding dead,
It is then the British soldier gets a fancy in his head;
And he swears by God in heaven that the man who starts a war
Should go swimming into judgment down a cataract of gore.

That's what makes us such great fighters and I'd have you be the same;
Love your country like a good 'un, hold your head up, play the game,
Be a straight and pleasant neighbour, be a cool unruffled man,
But when bullies want a thrashing, why you thrash 'em all you can.

While you say your prayers my Tommy, little Tommy-all-myown,
Asking God to save our daddy, I send this one to His Throne:—
Save my little lad from slaughter, guard his heart and mind from wrong,
Keep him sweet and kind and gentle, yes, but make him awful strong.

Don't forget what I have told you, and remember also this—
If I don't come back to see you I shall die without a groan,
For it's great to fall for Freedom, little Tommy-all-my-own.

MARVELLOUS BALSAMIC ESSENCES CURE CATARRH
NO DRUGS TO TAKE—A DIRECT BREATHING CURE

Statistics Prove Ninety-seven Per Cent. of Canada's Population is Infested With the Germs of Catarrh

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence catarrhal disease has become a national curse. Science is advancing every day, and fortunately a remedy has been discovered, that not only cures but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhozone" has sufficient power to kill the germs of Bronchitis, Catarrh and Asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of the nose, throat and lungs, carrying health-giving medication to every spot that is tainted or weak. You don't take Catarrhozone like cough mixture—you inhale its healing vapour at the mouth and it spreads all through the breathing organs, soothing and curing wherever Catarrh exists. This is nature's way of supplying the richest balsams, the purest antiseptics known to science.

A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes. A harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system.

For Asthma and Bronchial irritation nothing can equal Catarrhozone—every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment if suffering with any winter ill. The complete outfit costs $1.00, medium size 50c., at all dealers.

"Dismal Jimmies" Rouse British War Optimists

LONDON, Nov. 25—Among the new expressions which the war has added to the British vocabulary are the "Dismal Jimmies" and the "A. I. L.'s" is an abbreviation of what a popular writer calls the "All Is Lost Brigade." They, with the 'Dismal Jimmies," are persons who take a gloomy view of the war.

Whether optimism or pessimism over the prospect is the most profitable frame of mind for the nation in these days is a question much debated in the newspapers. Undoubtedly optimism is the view which the government encourages. Most of the newspapers follow the same policy.

There are two faces to the picture. Of course the government wants the nation to sleep comfortably of nights, as Lord Fisher, of the Admiralty once declared it could do as far as the navy was concerned. On the other hand, the vital business of recruiting flourishes best in the darkest hours. Every announcement of a bad British reverse has been followed by a boom in recruiting, while thee men who are undecided whether to enlist held back as long as they think they are not needed.

The Times declares that if the news papers fail to give a well-balanced view of events the public is largely to blame. It adds:

"Any attempt to discuss unpleasant factors with frankness produces storms of protest from indignant Britons. Letters pour in complaining that such candid writers are 'dark sisters' or 'panic mongers' or 'dismal Jimmies,' or whatever may be the popular epithet of the moment . . . But it mus be added that for the general tendency of the newspapers to publish only good news the government and not the press is solely to blame. The newspapers publish good news because as a rule they are not allowed to publish bad news . . . The government has taken over control of the functions of newspapers as collectors and purveyors of news and on the whole the control is being exercised with extreme inefficiency. In spite of all protests it steadily tends to grow more rigid."

The times specifies the silence of the Colonial Office regarding events in East Africa and other overseas areas as an example of the unsatisfactory conditions, but concludes that "the public has throughout been furnished with a broadly accurate impression of the progress of the war, though often an unduly belated one."

Rightly or wrongly, those on the inside of government affairs and in the newspaper offices place the responsibilty for the government's policy in the matter of publicity wholly on the shoulders of Lord Kitchener. "K. of K.," as the head of the War Office is popularly called, is credited with being the autocrat of the war. He took his office with the proviso that he must have a free hand, according to general belief, and that hand has proved to be a hand of iron without any velvet glove.

In all of Britain's "little wars" the war correspondent at the front has played a part second only to that of the General. Lord Kitchener has barred correspondents from the front entirely and no other feature of War Office policy has caused so much grumbling by the public. The people want to know where the regiments in which their friends and relatives have enlisted are sent and what they are doing. A few organizations, notably the London Scottish, have achieved fame already, and many write to the newspapers complaining that injustice has been done to others with equally fine exploits to their credit.

"An old Anglo-Indian" protests that there will be deep disappointment among the Indian people if they are not told more about the work of their troops than has been published about the British soldiers. "A Father Whose Son Has Fallen" complains that heroic deaths pass unnoticed. Canadian volunteers want Canada to know what they do. And the burden of the majority of critics is that making war in the dark discourages recruiting.

THE ALLIES LINES ARE ADVANCING IN WEST

GERMAN COUNTER ATTACKS IN EVIDENCE IN THE WEST

Enemy is Showing More Activity Along the Yser and in the Neighbourhood of Ypres, To-day's Official Communique Points Out---French Artillery Still Proving Superior.

POLISH BATTLE NOT YET SETTLED

Special to The Examiner.

PARIS, December 8. —(Noon).—Greater activity on the part of the Germans in the region of Ypres and along the Yser is reported in the official communique issued by the war office to-day. With this indication of the Germans meeting the allies' attempt to advance their lines with a counter offensive, the fighting in Flanders may be expected again to assume the desperate character which marked the early stages of the battle.

"The enemy became more active in the regions of Ypres and the Yser," the communique states, "the French artillery replying successfully to all the attacks. The operations in the Aisne and Champagne regions are marked chiefly by artillery duels. The French troops have gained some ground in the Argonne re-region."

The capture of Vermelles is again announced in to-day's communique with the explanation that it "has been the scene of a fierce struggle for two months, and "was taken by a brilliant attack." The statement says, "Since October 25 we have advanced slowly by sapping and mining operations, and carried the park and chateau on December 1st." Some ground has been gained northwest of Pont-au-Mousson, the statement declares; this is north of Metz.

The British troops have captured Passchendaele, on the railway between Ypres and Roulers. This represents another advance of the allied lines and the opening of the way for a flank movement upon Menin, along the Lys.

The British advanced about two and a half miles by taking Passchendaele, and are now in a position to continue their movement along the railway towards Roulers.

LONDON, December 8.—(Special Cable.)—Whether Lodz has been occupied by the Germans or is still held by the Russians, it is evident to-day that the fighting in the east is still far from a decision.

There is no confirmation at Petrograd of the capture of Lodz by the Germans. Instead, the Russians claim a victory in that region. The Berliner Tageblatt to-day modifies the German claims by saying: "Our victory may be considered a rupture in the Russian lines. It can only positively be called a victory, however, if the Russian retreat is followed by a German pursuit. If the pursuit is successful then the German centre is quite strong enough to act with force against the northern and southern parts of the broken Russian army."

The engagements southwest of Pietrkow and in the vicinity of Nowa Radomak are for the control of the second railroad line leading to Warsaw.

LONDON, December 8.—An additional report from the Belgian Atrocity Commission to-day, replies to the protest arising from accusations directed against the Germans, by twenty-two German universities and made to the foreign educational institutions. The reply quotes various official proclamations and orders issued by General Von Enmich, General Von Buelow, General Von Der Glotz, and others, which it declares authorize and admit wholesale reprisals upon the inhabitants.

The commission declares: "Those odious acts committed everywhere show the application of a preconceived system, putting into practice instructions which made the enemy operating in Belgium a horde of Barbarians and a band of incendiaries."

IS GOVERNESS IN GERMAN ROYAL FAMILY

Sister of Miss Adelaide Pearce of Peterboro' is With the Duchess of Brunswick in Germany

TREATED KINDLY

Miss Alice Pearce, a sister of Miss Adelaide Pearce of the Margaret Cox Home for Girls in this City, is probably more closely in touch with German royalty at the present time than any other English subject. Miss Pearce at present occupies the position of governess in the family of the Duchess of Brunswick, daughter of Emperor Wilhelm and has been in Germany since April.

Her sister here informed the Examiner that she has heard from Miss Pearce since the war broke out, having received a letter on Nov. 11 which stated that she was being kindly treated. The communication came by way of the Netherlands and was unsealed. Miss Pearce had evidently been cautioned [illegible] as there is little mention of the war in the letter, the only reference being a statement in regard to the train loads of wounded that are coming back from the front.

Nine Engines Damaged In Seven Days

In the past week no less than nine Grand Trunk locomotives have been put out of commission in this neighbourhood. The minions of misfortune got away to a good start last Tuesday, in the wreck which occurred the other side of Campbellford, when two engines were very badly damaged. They were at the head of a grain train which pitched into a work train. Last Saturday afternoon four engines were badly damaged in the head-on collision about half a mile the other side of Keene, and Saturday night another engine suffered as a result of an accident in Port Hope. Last night the round house at Port Hope burned down, and an engine in it was destroyed, and this morning, near Lindsay, the cylinder head blew off one of the engines. Thus in a series of mishaps nine locomotives have been put out of commission, the last named one, of course, will be only temporarily off the road.

HOLY DAY SERVICES IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

The Feast of the Immaculate Conception was celebrated in the Catholic churches to-day with masses at 5:30, 7:30 and 9 o'clock. In East City Rev. Dean McColl and his assistant, Rev. Father McCarthy officiated. Father McCarthy was born in Hastings, where his mother still resides. He was recently at Trout Creek assisting Rev. Dean Kelly, where he was replaced by Rev. Father Cote of the Cathedral. Father McCarthy was a brilliant student while at college and will doubtless prove an able assistant to Dean McColl. At the Cathedral this morning there was no high mass on account of the failure of the water supply and a resulting lack of hydraulic power for the organ.

Investigation Interrupted By News of Wreck

On Saturday the investigation into the cause of the wreck on the Grand Trunk line at Campbellford was commenced before Trainmaster J. D. McMillan. It is understood that a number of the men were examined.

The examination was interrupted when word came of another pitch-in near Keene.—Lindsay Warder.

Must Do Our Part

DECEMBER SITTINGS

The December sittings of the County Court opened this afternoon at 1 o'clock, with His Honour Judge Huycke presiding.

The members of the bar present were Messrs. G. N. Gordon, V. J. McElderry, A. E. Dixon, G. W. Hatton.

There are two jury cases and one non-jury case, also two criminal cases.

"We are passing through very troublesome times. One year ago we would not have conceived a world conflict possible. We are not the idle spectators of the war. We are participating in that war. We are as much at war because we are a part of the British Empire. This war is peculiar from many standpoints. It seems to be a turning point in history.

It is not for some of us to take our place in the trenches, but we must think and do think of those who have gone forth in defence of the Empire. I want to suggest that when you return to your homes you form new sensibilities of your responsibility to the dependants of those [illegible]

In conclusion, His Honour Judge Huycke regretted the absence of Sheriff Hall, who was unable to be present on account of illness; also noted the passing of the late R. E. Wood, former Crown Attorney of Peterborough County. Judge Huycke characterized the late Mr. Wood as a faithful and painstaking official. He complimented Mr. Joseph Wearing, former associate of the deceased, upon the able and consistent manner in which he had performed the duties of Acting Crown Attorney, until recently, when the Government saw fit to appoint Mr. G. W. Hatton.

Judge Huycke welcomed Mr. Hatton in his new capacity, and commented upon his ability to fulfill the responsibilities connected with the office.

License For 13 Tables

Asked For a Period of Six Months —None Granted For Less Than a Year

Mr. M. Pappas, through his solicitor, Mr. D. O'Connell, made application at last night's meeting of the City Council to have a six months' license for a billiard room containing thirteen (13) tables. The license fee for each table is forty dollars a year, so that the total amount Mr. Pappas would be required to pay for one year would total $520. In anticipation of alterations to the premises now occupied by Mr. Pappas, a six months' license was considered necessary. This the council is not in a position to grant without establishing a precedent.

The matter was reported to the Finance committee, who will confer with the City Solicitor in regard to the matter.

Verdict of $35 Awarded

The sum of thirty dollars was awarded Dr. McNulty by a Division Court jury of five. Dr. McNulty was plaintiff in an action to recover the sum of $50.00 from John O'Leary of Otonabee, alleged to be due on an account for surgical duties performed on the defendant's child.

The surgical duties consisted of an operation for appendicitis for which, together with attendance upon the child, Dr. McNulty charged $138.00 The sum of $100.00 was paid and the remainder contested in the Division Court. The case was tried a month ago, but the jury disagreed. Yesterday it was tried again before His Honour Judge Huycke, with the above result.

Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. V. J. McElderry for the defendant.

The jury was out about an hour.

CITY COUNCIL HEADS THE LIST WITH A TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR SUBSCRIPTION

NO RAKE-OFF IN THE PATRIOTIC FUND CAMPAIGN

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Mayor Buller has spoken to me, saying that he has heard on the street the statement that certain parties interested in the Patriotic Fund were to receive of all collections and moneys paid into and for the objects of the Fund, five per cent.

I do wish that people would not start or pass on by word of mouth such rumours. It is the easiest thing in the world to learn the facts. All any citizen has to do is to call at the committee rooms or telephone and we will give him the information. We wish to overtake and run down such statements before they do serious harm. That is exactly what the publicity committee is for. It is working most earnestly to push the movement and welcomes suggestions. It will, with pleasure, hasten to club detrimental rumours.

The only assistance in the conduct of this campaign outside of local people is that given by Mr. W. C. Bean, an organizer, who is here and who is engaged by the Canadian Patriotic Fund. He is paid by the parent fund, and there is no charge at all to the local association, as he is simply loaned to it for a few days. He is under engagement to go to other places as soon as he may be spared.

All of the clerical work, care of rooms, publicity service, stenographers, in fact everything connected with the administration of the campaign is contributed free of cost. Several of the legal profession have sent, and others will send from their offices, stenographers, to assist, and these young ladies are simply invaluable. We have plenty of help and more is offered, all free of cost.

Mr. Bean tells me, and surely he knows, that he has not assisted at one, nor does he know of one movement or campaign such as this that has been, or is being, conducted with so ample a force and efficient free service and so small expense as this. There will be some expense, but not for service, for such are material to the enterprise We will raise $50,000 for the Fund, but not one cent for rakeoff.

Finally, brethren, don't be one of the few who knock, but be one of the hundreds who are helping.

Yours hopefully,

F. H. DOBBIN.

Council's Generous Grant Encourages Patriotic Committee

Final Arrangements Have Been Made for the Patriotic Meeting To-night--Seats for Overflow Meeting in the Market Hall

There was satisfaction this morning at the Committee Rooms of the Patriotic Fund at the magnificent grant made by the City Council last evening. The Council rose to the occasion. True there were differences, not as to the necessity and desirability of voting the amount, but as to a matter of procedure. Those of the members who suggested leaving the final decision to the Council of next year were quite right. But this is a national emergency. The Council took the responsibility of meeting the expressed wishes of the very large and important delegation. It is for that delegation, their friends, and all supporters of the Fund, to stand behind the Council as a whole in support of the action. Any way it heartens up the fund and the movement. It speaks of success and that is what we are working for.

A few citizens are holding to the opinion and so expressing it that the entire appropriation should be a matter of taxes. That there should be no subscriptions. In fact, several say that on such a basis they would have the matter done and that way only, while many agree there are serious difficulties. On an assessment of, say, ten millions, raising $50,000 would make a rate of five mills on the dollar. That would throw on the owner of the smaller properties and tenants of the smaller houses a very serious burden for one year. Assuming that the large property owner whose interests are more important should pay more in proportion, he should really carry more of the burden than comprised in the five mills, and the poorer man less. All plans are worthy of discussion so long as they are not made excuses for not giving.

Final arrangements have been made for the big meetings to-night. The speakers of the evening are in the City. Rev. Father Minehan reaching the City during the morning, and was met at the station by Mr. Kerr, Mr. Duffus, and Mr. O'Connell. He will be the guest of Bishop O'Brien while in the City. Col. Ponton is the guest of Mr. Jamieson, of the Collegiate Institute staff, and was met by Col. Stevenson, Major Walker and Mr. J. L. Goodwill. Hon. W. B. White is the guest of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Mrs. White being entertained by local ladies.

When first announced, it was stated that the Market Hall would be available for the overflow meeting, and that it would be heated, but that there were no chairs in the hall for the people to use. That difficulty has been overcome and seats will be provided for all. It will be quite as comfortable as the Opera House, and the speakers who address the meeting in the Opera House will also speak in the Market Hall. One-half of the Home Guard will be at the Opera House and the other half at the Market Hall.

The Home Guard did not attain all that they hoped for at the meeting of the Council, but it secured a slice to go on with. The outcome was rather better than expected when it was found that the large grant had been made to the Patriotic Fund. The men of the Home Guard are in earnest and they know that if never a gun is fired on the field by the men that the moral and physical benefits will well repay for the time and expenditure. We all interest ourselves in different activities, and at times wonder what the other fellow sees to his delight in hens, postage stamps and antiques. It is a diversity of interest that counts. The hundreds in the Guard will get a setting up that will make them feel better and, best of all, realize what the responsibility resting on the country really means When that is fully realized there will be needed little urging to make sacrifices.

Last call for the three days' campaign. Muster at the rooms early Wednesday morning.

A DAY'S PAY TO THE FUND

Cressman Co's Employees Decide Upon a Handsome Gift

The staff and employees of the Cressman Company have unanimously decided to donate one day's pay to the Patriotic Fund. Every one in the store will take part in this gift, and a substantial sum will be realized for the fund. The other stores in the city are expected to take a like action.

"FIGHT OR PAY"

Unprecedented enthusiasm, which later in the evening resolved itself into practical patriotism in the form of a grant of ten thousand dollars, marked last night's meeting of the City Council and a deputation representing the Patriotic Association of this city. Canada's part in the present European catastrophe was patent to one and all. The men who are fighting and dying in the trenches along that snakelike battle line of over three hundred miles were not forgotten, when the time came for the City Council to manifest its patriotism in dollars and cents, in order that the necessities of life might be supplied to those who are left behind. It was ominous that the primal effort of the Association to reach the objective of fifty thousand dollars should be rewarded with one single subscription of ten thousand dollars. It served to indicate the spirit animating the minds of the civic representatives; a spirit that doubtless will be borne along and augmented by the people whom the Council is elected to serve. The grant of ten thousand dollars is equivalent of the sum of five hundred dollars, already provided by the Council.

The morale of the City Council was trengthened by the presence of a large body of citizens, many of whom represented some of the largest tax papers in the municipality. The chief spokesman of this citizen body was His Honour Judge Huycke, who spoke, in part as follows:

"You are fully aware of the objects and necessities of the Canadian Patriotic Association of Canada. We are about to inaugurate a movement that is destined to put Peterborough in the forefront of the cities of Canada in respect to the patriotic movement. I am backed up by a splendid deputation of over one hundred men who within the next four days will solicit funds for something that is noble and good. We look to you to set the keynote for this movement. Referring to a book, that of 'Bernhardi's,' that came to my notice recently, I am reminded of a title — "Britain as a vassal of Germany." We might as well say—"Canada as a vassal of Germany." But no, we will never be a vassal of Germany. There are many of us who cannot take our place in the trenches and would not be permitted to do so if we desired. But we can do our duty at home.

War Tax of One Mill.

"I am going to suggest that the City Council of Peterborough set the ball rolling by voting us the proceeds of one mill on the dollar," continued Judge Huycke. "This would amount to one dollar for every one thousand dollars' worth of assessable property in the city, or approximately eleven thousand dollars. I am sure that every ratepayer of this city will be proud of the privilege of paying one dollar in that way. We are hopeful and sanguine that we will win in this conflict, but we must remember that Germany is equally as hopeful and sanguine, and possesses a military machine that we never had. I am not dictating to you as a Council. You are representative men of Peterborough and we expect that you will help us keep up and preserve the honour and dignity of Peterborough." Cheers.

Messrs. A. J. Aylmer, F. D. Kerr, A. W. Cressman and Mr. D. O'Connell also favoured the Council with inspiring addresses. A letter was read from Mr. T. F. Matthews expressing his regret at being unable to be present.

Was Inadequate.

His Worship Mayor Buller in reply said that it was the bounden duty of the Council to make a substantial contribution to the cause. The Council's original subscription of five hundred dollars was inadequate. This country has never known what it is to be burdened with a war tax such as exists in Germany in times of peace as well as war. It is in the interests of the city to do its duty in this crisis, unflinchingly. The Mayor then called upon Alderman Johnston, chairman of the Finance Committee to express his views regarding the amount of money that could be raised by levying a tax of one mill. The "Finance Minister" replied that one mill on this year's assessment of over eleven million dollars, taking into consideration exemptions, and incidental expenses connected with the

IS THERE DANGER?

It may be due to ignorance of practical matters, that prompts a question of this kind; but the absence of water pressure or even water, on two successive mornings, due to weather conditions, suggests the question of providing an auxiliary steam plant at the waterworks pumping station. The domestic and industrial inconvenience is a small matter compared with the possibilities that might come from a fire of considerable magnitude breaking out, with high wind prevailing. The failure of water supply might in a few minutes permit damage a hundred times in excess of the cost involved in a provision for pumping power when anchor ice puts the present pumping plant out of commission. Fortunately we never have suffered in this way. We have been in luck. But is it wise to depend upon good luck alone? If the mass of our citizens acted on that theory—trusted to luck—they would save the tens of thousands of dollars now paid in premiums on fire insurance policies. There may be thought to be no necessity for raising the question of an auxiliary steam pumping plant. The layman, however, feels that in the present condition there is a possibility of danger, that can be overcome by such a provision as that suggested. The Utilities Commission might let us know whether or not there is any danger, as some, perhaps over-timid, citizens seem to think?

THIRTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

Now is the time when practical Canadian patriotism should be "all wool and a yard wide." Now is the time when the housewife's thrifty care turns to thoughts of woollens. With some of the finest woollen and knitted goods factories in the world, Canada has been in the habit of importing woollens to the extent of thirty million dollars a year. Go over your list of woollen needs, from socks to knitted caps with every conceivable variety of wearables between, and see how many of them could be made just as well in this country as they are abroad. Remember that the latest and most modern machinery is employed in Canada for the purpose of supplying Canadians with woollen manufactures. Bear in mind that thousands of skilled people have been brought in for the purpose of working that machinery. Do not forget that some of the woollen mills of Canada are as good as the best in the world from the boiler-room to the shipping floor.

In a time of prosperity, and without any effort to interfere with the British preference on woollen goods, the manufacturers of Canada have gone on investing millions in this industry for the purpose of keeping up the Canadian end of the woollen industry. In a time when the nation needs every dollar of Canadian purchase it can get to keep the mills going, it is not necessary to harp on the notion of fair play in order to get the co-operation of consumers. It is only necessary to remember that if only half of this thirty millions a year were diverted to Canadian factories it would mean $3,000,000 a year in wages paid to Canadian labour and to be re-spent upon goods made in Canada.

A TIME OF CHANGE.

This is a practical age and we don't do politics or business on traditions. When Sir James Whitney passed over to the majority, considerably greater, by the way, than he had in his lifetime in the Legislature, his followers, felt somewhat lost by the withdrawal of his strong personality, and took refuge in, and drew comfort from the "Whitney tradition." But it seems to have proven an unstable basis of trust. There is little march to victory in Sir James Whitney's empty shoes. His death opened Dundas to an election contest. If tradition had been effective, we should have expected that in a traditionally strong, unconquerable, Conservative constituency, the Conservative candidate would have had a walk-over; that the Whitney tradition would have worked in a riding, which he held in the last dozen years—in five contests—by majorities ranging from 500 to 900. In 1914 he was elected by 674 majority. Yesterday the Conservative candidate was elected by the narrow majority of 60—a reduction from the Whitney tradition of 600 votes. True the Liberal candidate was personally very popular, and the Conservative candidate perhaps took too much for granted. Such a falling off, however, seems significant; especially so when we remember that the Conservative majority in West Hamilton of 1,800 in 1911, and of 1,400 last June, taken by Col. Hendrie, was reduced to 30, in the bye-election of three weeks ago. No doubt the feeling that West Hamilton was a "safe" constituency was one of the reasons that influenced its opening in order to put Major Hendrie in the Lieutenant-Governor's seat. If those bye-elections are a test of a general change in popular feeling, Premier Hearst, must feel that in spite of the "Whitney tradition" he has, even, with his immense present numerical following in the House, a rather uncertain hold upon office.

TURKEY AND GERMAN CULTURE.

Turkey is breaking faith with a neutral ambassador, who is charged with the responsibility of looking after the interests of seven nations at Constantinople. United States Ambassador Morgenthau, has found that the word of the Turks is not to be trusted. They promised that refugees leaving the country to escape the results of a probable outbreak of Moslem fanaticism, would not be interfered with. This promise is repeatedly broken in spite of assurances to the contrary, broken as often as repeated. This is to be expected. We can't expect Moslem morality to be on a higher plane than the Christian morality of the Germans, who set the example of flouting plighted faith—regarded solemn treaties as "scraps of paper." Germany has shown herself ruthless, conscienceless and utterly unreliable. After her outrage on Belgian neutrality, after the multiplied outrages inflicted upon Belgians individually, we could not expect more than that she would ally herself with the unspeakable Turk, who is in one sense faithful, he is trying to faithfully live up to the example of Germany. We may expect any day to see the horrors of Belgium, the German atrocities there, repeated in Turkey, where there is dread of an outbreak any moment that will compass the destruction, the massacre of all the Christians in the country. Then we shall have examples of how Christless Turkey can improve upon the atrocities of "Christian" Germany—upon the "kultur" of the Hun. The United States has many of its people in Turkey, and large commercial interests; and it may be easily possible that that country may yet be forced to interfere. Its attitude of neutrality holds as between the warring nations except Turkey; Turkey is an international outlaw—outside the pale of diplomatic consideration. Germany, which has intrigued to bring Turkey into the contest, has added heavily to the account she will have to meet. Up to the Turkish entrance as a ally Germany did enough to alienate the sympathy of every civilized nation. She filled the cup, but introducing Turkey, it is overflowing.

BRAVO, ALDERMEN!

The City Council last night showed itself worthy of representing Peterborough. Its action in deciding to levy a rate of one mill on the dollar, the proceeds to go to the Patriotic Fund, is roundly equivalent to a contribution of $10,000. This taken in conjunction with the $500 previously granted, and the local fund already contributed, will leave only $32,000 to be raised by the collectors to reach the $50,000 mark.

The action of the Council was, however, not unanimous, some aldermen, holding the opinion to which they have a perfect right, that it was not proper for the present Council to assume the functions that would properly belong to next year's Council to be elected in a few weeks.

This view is not quite justified in principle. The Council in taking the action it did last night, as thoroughly represented the people as it would have done if it had taken the same action in January 7th, that it did on December 7th. The Council is continuous and, in theory and principle, the action of the Council in making assessment as the basis of next year's taxation to be levied by next year's Council, is in the same category as providing for a special levy for the Patriotic Fund.

Besides the occasion is extraordinary and calls for noble disregard of technicalities. We are in the throes of a struggle that demands extraordinary action. If we see a neighbour's house on fire, we don't modestly tap at the door and wait permission to enter; we rush in and do our best. Technically the City Council may have over-stepped its legal rights in making in the way it has done, the proposed grant; but that presents no difficulty. The Ontario Government, in a very proper spirit of broad-mindedness, has promised to validate by legislation any action of a city or other council taken to help the cause of Canada, Britain, and the Empire.

The aldermen may come in for some little criticism from some quarters, but the great mass of the people will approve of their action, and they will have the approval of their own consciences—the feeling that they have done a worthy thing. We must not forget, that we are confronted with a duty, a responsibility, and also a danger that never before was laid upon us or threatened us. We are sending men to fight on the battle line. What are they fighting for? They are fighting for us—to preserve the political, moral and social conditions that make Canada the most highly favoured country in the world. We shall keep all this if Britain and the Allies win. We shall lose it all if the Germans win—if the spirit of world domination gains the ascendant. We shall then know what military conscription is, we shall then know what the financial burden of militarism is. We are fighting to avoid this, and the fighting is not all done on the battlefield. The chief beneficiaries of the work our soldier boys are doing for us, are ourselves. Shall we not then do our share? Shall we not regard as a mighty trifling sacrifice the anticipation of the addition of a dollar or two to our tax bills a year hence. We join with all good, patriotic citizens in endorsing and approving the action of the City Council, and regard it as a big step in the direction of realizing the slogan—

GALLANT NEWFOUNDLAND.

Among the troops on Salisbury Plain to-day and of those who were awarded a post of honour in the Lord Mayor's procession in London, must be remembered a gallant little band of Newfoundlanders. With the sailors manning His Majesty's ships is another efficient contingent from the same colony. Second contributions for army and navy are being prepared and go forward at the same time as the second Canadian expeditionary force. Our little neighbour colony will then have something over 2,000 men in the war. This is about 10 out of every thousand of her population. At the same rate, Canada should have 80,000 men instead of 50,000.

Then, too, it must be remembered that Newfoundland has practically no manufactures, and has to purchase all the clothing and equipment abroad, leaving none of the price in the hands of her own people. A sparsely settled colony with less than a quarter of a million population, and a revenue of a little over three and a half million dollars, which does what Newfoundland has done certainly evinces a spirit which not only Canada—with her eight million population, and upwards of a hundred millions of revenue—might well emulate, but which any part of the Empire might well be proud of.

The physique, courage and adaptability of the Newfoundlander has been proved in many a daring adventure. Their brave and faithful crews have been the backbone of expeditions to the frozen North and to the icebound regions of the South Pole. They have a most efficient marine militia upon which the British navy freely draws, but no ready organized volunteer force. Yet Lord Kitchener has kept together the unit they sent and placed them in garrison in an important and exposed post on the coast of Scotland where vigilant watchfulness is of supreme importance. Fort George is the outer guardian of Inverness Firth, constantly open to direct raids from the North Sea and remote from assistance.—Montreal Herald-Telegraph.

GERMAN "CULTURE'S" APPEAL TO IRISH NATIONAL SUICIDE

It is difficult to know what to make of a report which has appeared in some of the papers to the effect that Sir Roger Casement, of Dublin, a leader in the Irish Volunteer Movement, has been received at the German Foreign Office and has been given assurance that Germans would never invade Ireland with a view to its conquest or the overthrow of any Irish nationalist institutions, and that "should fortune ever bring German troops to the Irish shores the troops would land not as an army of invaders to pillage and destroy but as the forces of a nation inspired by good will toward Ireland and her people, for whom Germany desired national prosperity and freedom."

It is hardly believable that a man of Sir Roger Casement's standing should descend to such a traitorous and foolish part as to have any dealings with the enemies of his country and of the Empire in which he holds his knighthood. That there is some underhand German work going on in Ireland seems, however, most regrettably true. Some newspapers connected with the Sinn Fein organization have been carrying on a campaign against recruiting. A paper, which professes to be an official organ of the volunteers, has urged Irishmen to "cut the last tie with Great Britain, whose downfall would alone secure a glorious and happy Ireland." Also, Mr Redmond's name has been hissed in public in Dublin on account of the stand he has taken in the present crisis. We do not believe, however, that this anti-British—and anti-Irish—attitude is taken by any thinking Irishman. It is plainly suicidal as far as Irish national aspirations are concerned, for it is likely to awaken a feeling both in Ireland and England which would permanently kill Irish Home Rule. For the Allies are going to win in this war and it is well for Ireland that they are. Promises made to Sir Roger Casement or anyone else would be mere "scraps of paper" in the event of a German victory over Britain and before long Ireland would be under as heavy a despotism as ever she was in the days of Strongbow Strafford or Cromwell.

But the men who have championed the national cause for decades through foul and fair weather and who have won the fight for Home Rule, have now definitely taken their stand with the rest of the Empire for the freedom of Europe. Mr. Redmond, Mr. Devlin, Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Healy, however they may differ in details of domestic policy, are united in this. Votes of confidence in their leadership have been passed by volunteer units and other Nationalist organizations all over Ireland. Demonstrations have been held in honour of Nationalist volunteer recruits of the new Irish Brigade for active service in Europe as they left for the training camps. The Irish regiments already at the front have lived up to the traditions of the Peninsula, Waterloo and the Crimea. The disaffection, to whatever head it may have attained, may be counted as predoomed to collapse and failure, like the rebellion of the disgruntled Boers in South Africa. That there should be a few grumblers at the united stand taken by the leaders of all the factions was, of course, only to be expected. Even in Canada we have one or two.—Montreal Herald Telegraph.

Gauging Time.

"Have you no clock in your bedroom?" inquired Mrs. Lexington.

"No," replied Mrs. Amsterdam. "I do not need one. I always know how late it is. If my husband comes in noisily from his club I know it is nearly half past 10 or 11. If he is very amiable and says 'Good night, darling,' it is between 12 and 1. If he takes off his shoes downstairs and creeps into bed without turning on the light it is at least 3 o'clock."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Titles and Taxes in Spain.

In Spain titles of nobility are taxed in the same way as houses or land. Moreover, each separate title is taxed, and for this reason certain members of ancient families in which a number of titles have accumulated drop some in order to save money. Owing to the system long prevalent in Spain by which women of noble birth transmit their titles, not only to their children, but to their husbands, so that a plebeian marrying a duchess becomes a duke, Spanish titles rarely become extinct.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Of Course She Would.

When the train made its first stop after leaving home, Mr. Simpkins, who had been in a brown study for several minutes, raised his eyes, which had a troubled look in them, and remarked, "My dear, are you sure we haven't forgotten anything?"

"Of course we haven't," responded the good lady cheerfully. "I would have thought of it the minute the train started."

ARE MAKING GOOD GAINS

Allies Are Feeling Their Way Forward in Belgium and Cannonading is Heavy

A VIGOROUS ADVANCE

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Taking advantage of the preoccupation of the Germans in the east, the allied French, Belgian and British forces have begun an offensive movement in the west. They are now virtually in possession of the left bank of the Yser Canal and in northern France, particularly in the neighborhood of La Bassee, where the Germans hold a very strong position, the allies are beginning with a heavy cannonade to feel their way eastward.

The same process is being followed along the whole front. The French official communication speaks of "the superiority of our offensive" and the "marked advantage" of the French artillery over that of the Germans.

"In Belgium the Germans have bombarded Oost Dunkirke, situated four kilometres (about 2½ miles) to the west of Nieuport. Between Bethune and Lens we have taken possession of the Villages of Vermelles and the position of the Rutoire, to the east of which we are along the railway line.

"Our troops have advanced perceptibly in the region of Rouvroye, Parvillers and Lequesnoy en Santerre (Department of Somme).

"There is nothing else to report."

The afternoon communication said:—

"In the region of Armentierres and of Arras, as well as in the Oise territory, in the Aisne region and in the Argonne, there is nothing to report, except to refer in general terms to the superiority of our offensive.

"In the Champagne, our heavy artillery, on several occasions, has shown marked superiority over that of the enemy.

"There is nothing new on the eastern front of our line, where the positions of preceding days have been maintained."

The advance, slight as it is in the northwest, has ended for the present at least, in the opinion of many, the German menace of the coast ports. It is believed that so long as the Germans are compelled to keep up the strength of their army in the east they will be unable to assume the offensive in the west. There is a report, however, that the Germans have kept the pick of their western army in the Aisne Valley whence, at an opportune moment they can hurl it against the French lines and make another effort to get through to Paris.

Heavy firing was heard along the Belgian coast yesterday, according to a Reuter despatch from Amsterdam, indicating that the warships of the allies again are bombarding the German positions.

The Sluis correspondent of The Handelsblad says the Germans delivered violent attacks yesterday on the trenches recently captured by the allies, but were repulsed, and adds that the allies have made marked progress in the neighborhood of Langemarck, Zonnebeke and Bixschoote. The Germans have been obliged to substitute lighter guns for their heavy artillery, as the inundations have made the use of the latter impracticable.

A despatch from Amsterdam says: "The German attack along the region of the railway from Roulers to Ypres has failed.

"The telephone line between Bruges and Sluis was cut by a British spy, who was shot at Bruges, Saturday.

"Advices from Berlin are to the effect that it is generally believed that the Germans are preparing to make a new and violent attempt to break through the allies' left wing in Flanders. Reinforcements are constantly moving forward toward Ostend."

Cannonading was plainly heard, beginning last Thursday, originating in the vicinity of Zonnebeke, five miles northeast of Ypres and nine miles southwest of Roulers, where the German infantry tried to retake the hills recently captured by the allies.

MEN MASSED ON FRONTIER

Austria Sends 200,000 Troops to Italian Border

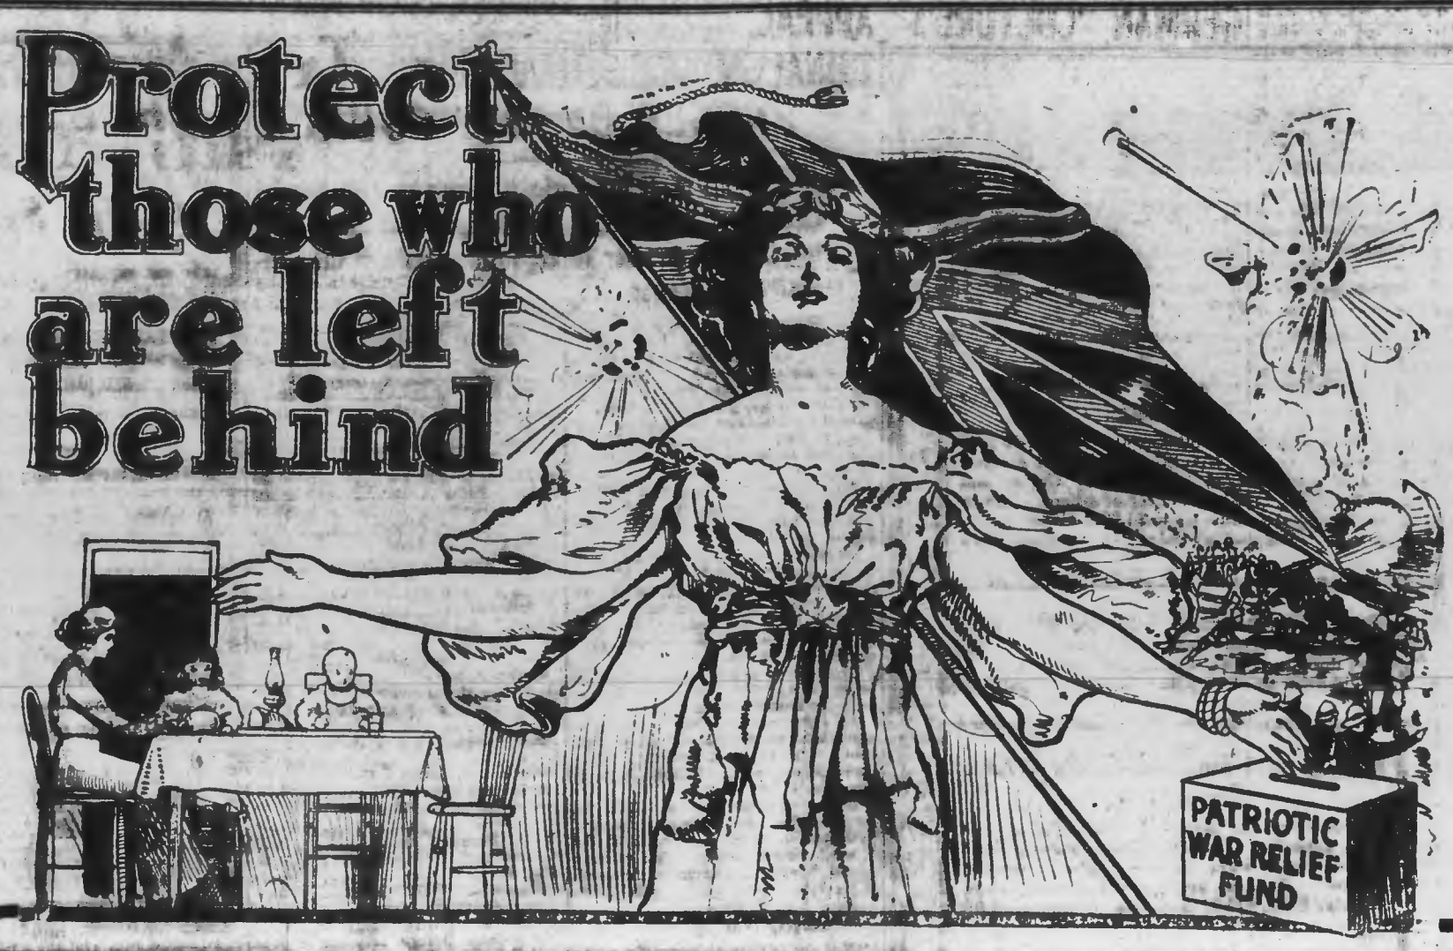
ROME, Dec. 8.—A Milan despatch delayed in transmission says:—

"Advices received from the Austrian frontier and published yesterday in the Secolo are that the statement of Premier Salandra in the Italian Parliament Thursday had an immediate echo in Austrian military circles.

"Friday night, the correspondent says the railway lines poured troops all along the Italian border and also into Pola, the Austrian arsenal on the peninsula of Istria. It is estimated that 200,000 men were stationed along the Italian border and 100,000 at Pola.

"At the same time, the correspondent continues, anti-Italian manifestations took place at various points. At Pragerhoff, Hungarian soldiers spat in the faces of Italian workmen. Officers who witnessed these attacks did not interfere. At Steinbruck other soldiers ill-treated and disabled Italian workmen who were making their headquarters in the station.

"Eight battalions of Italian troops have been ordered to Libya, to reinforce the troops there, and, according to the announcement, "to be ready for any aggression."



Help to Roll Up The Magnificent Total Of $50,000.00

We can and will do it, if you will help.

A Special Appeal to Fraternal Organizations

YOU ARE MANY and you have many creeds, but there is at least one creed which you possess in common---the creed of standing for the right thing in the community.

We call upon the Fraternal Orders of Peterborough, one and all, for their earnest support of the War Relief Fund---for definite action as organizations.

In all the splendid record of your past, handed down through the ages as a precious heritage, is there one brighter gem of sacrifice and service than the gem you now have the privilege of encrusting upon that record!

To-day's opportunity to stand shoulder to shoulder with all society in safeguarding our soldiers' dependent women and children, will be looked back upon by your orders through all time as a priceless privilege.

GIVE! GIVE! GIVE! $50,000 OR MORE

We urge generous and immediate action by every organization of men and women who have funds available or who will solicit contributions to this cause.

AND TO EVERY INDIVIDUAL IN PETERBORO'

No matter what you feel able to give---be it a dollar or a dime---send it or bring it to the fund. We will need for this war relief work every penny we can get. The power of the moderate and small contributions is enormous in the aggregate, and every one swells the total.

Officers, Peterborough Patriotic Committee

Organization Committee—D. O'Connell, John Crane, F. D. Kerr, J. A. Aylmer, A. W. Cressman.

General Committee—Chairman, Mayor W. Buller; Vice-Chairman D. O'Connell; Chairman of Finance Committee, T. F. Matthews; Chairman List Committee, J. A. Aylmer; Chairman Publicity Committee, F. H. Dobbin; Joint Secretaries, S. R. Armstrong and F. D. Kerr; Treasurer, F. Adams.

Team Captains—E. A. Peck, G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Turner, Jr.; W. H. Dunsford, Jos. Picard, Jr.; Walker Stocker, J. J. Duffus, Adjt. McElhenney, H. S. Walker, W. J. Oke, Geo. H. Giroux.

THE LOCAL OR CONTINGENT RELIEF SIDE OF THE PETERBORO' PATRIOTIC FUND is for the purpose of Aiding Families who may be in need owing to the war, through lack of work. There are many such and will be more. They must be judiciously aided and not want.

The Idea of the Canadian Patriotic Fund is This:

THE soldiers have gone to fight not for their home town or any particular locality but for all Canada.

The whole of Canada should combine to take care of their families.

The Fund is One Fund and each locality is administered by the Local Branch.

In Peterborough for instance, families of the soldiers will be looked after by the local branch acting for the National Association.

All the families throughout Canada will receive aid on the same basis and none will be neglected.

This is a sensible and patriotic plan. Peterborough will fall in line. Do all you can but do it now.

THE PATRIOTIC CONCERT

The patriotic concert at the Collegiate Institute Hall last night was at once a fair success and a pronounced success. There was a large audience, and the receipts, considering the voluntary admission fee, were fairly satisfactory. The musical programme in its splendid general value was out of all proportion to the monetary consideration. The programme was contributed by local musicians, and it speaks volumes for our potential musical resources, that so artistic a programme was so well presented; and it speaks volumes for the patriotism and public spirit of the contributors, that without fee, they should place their divine art and the fruits of hard and successful study at the service of the public of Peterborough and of their country. The artists taken in order of their appearance were, Mr. Maurice Park, Dr. Park and Miss Dorothy Allen. Mr. Park sang three song groups of very ambitious character. His numbers included excerpts from the standard operas, which he sang with textual precision and considerable effect; but when he came to lyrical compositions, Mr. Park was en pays de'connoissance and achieved a triumph. His voice is a lyric tenor of excellent natural quality, bearing evidences of good training and showing capacity for high development. His singing of Barnby's "The Soft Southern Breeze," was eminently satisfactory. His voice, vocalism and art came to the highest points in Marshall's "Sensitive Plant," sung with admirable voice and feeling, and in Balfe's beautifully tuneful setting of Tennyson's, "Come Into the arden Maud." His work in these was of a very high character. It was so recognized and he responded to an enthusiastic encore. Dr. Park, the instrumentalist of the trio of artists, played De Beriot's 7th concerto, with excellent success, the staccatto effects being specially noticeable for effectiveness. He was recalled and gave a little musical morcean with muted strings, and appealing delicacy. His second number was Musin's Concert Mazurka, a sprightly composition with a good deal of showy embellishment. He was again encored. Dr. Park, who by the way, uses the bow with the left hand, is a performer of unusual merit. He plays with authority and confidence, gives a pure, round tone and shows possession of irage technical resource. Miss Dorothy Allen sang, as we are accustomed to expect, divinely. Her voice is a peculiar one and one is puzzled to classify it as a soprano pure and simple (pure it is certainly—or a mezzo soprano. It touches the high and low ranges of each with equal ease and beatuiful quality of tone. When one hears her sing as she did magnificently last night, the "Page's Song" trm Les Huguenots, or "Ma Lyre Immortelle" from Gounod's " "Sappho," or "Robert, toi qui j'aime" from Robert le Diable, the powerful sweetness of her voice and the dramatic intensity of her emotion suggested that grand opera was her role. When one heard her sing as she did magnificently, "O, Had I Jubals Lyre," one was inclined to assign her to oratorio; when one heard her sing, as she did magnificently, Sanderson's "Spring's Awakening," or Lang's "Irish Love Song," sung with exquisite daintiness and passionate appeal, one felt that her true musical metier was in the lyric field; and when an enthusiastic recall, brolught her out in a "Hundred Pipers," one might have thought the music and spirit of her Scotch ancestors was incarnate in her person and performance of this uplifting and soul-stirring lilt. Miss Allen is already a rarely capable vocalist with splendid endowment of musical temperament and voice of catholic quality and capacity, that with maturity and development, promises evetything. Last night she won new laurels— literally gathered them by the sheaf—she was presented with two beautiful bouquets of carnations.

Mr. John Allen, largely responsible for the training of the two vocalists of the evening, furnished accompaniments of a splendidly and more than usually effective character.

(a) Barnby—Recit. and Aria, "The Soft Southern Breeze." (Rebekah).

(b) Leoncavallo—"Vesti la guibba." (Pagliacci).

(c) Wallace—"There is a Flower that Bloometh.")Maritana). Mr. Maurice Park.

(a) Sanderson—"Spring's Awakening."

(b) Godard—"Chanson de Florian."

(a) Verdi—"Celeste Aida." (Aida).

(b) Puccini—"E lucevan le Stelle." (Tosca).

(c) Marshall — "The Sensitive Plant." Mr. Park.

(a) Gounod—"O'ma Lyre Immortelle." (Sappho).

(b) Landon Ronald—"Down in the Forest." (Cycle of Life).

(c) Handel—"O, Had I Jubal's Lyre." (Joshua). Miss Allan.

(b) Balfe—"Come into the Garden, Maud." Mr. Park.

(b) Lang—"An Irish Love Song." Miss Allan.

"God Save the King."

Accompanist—Ms. John Allan.

TO ASSIST CANADIAN HOSPITAL

The Queen's Canadian Military Hospital, Shornecliffe, Kent, England, has in connection with it several large residences which have been given as convalescent homes. Mr. Donald Armour, son of the late Judge Armour, of Cobourg, and now a prominent London surgeon, is in charge with a staff of Canadian doctors and nurses.

This hospital, the gift of Canadians in England, is already equipped and in use, and is at the present time full of wounded, but will be used for our own men as soon as required.

It is much in need of funds, and clothing for the wounded and convalescent. Mrs. Fisk, 204 McDonnel street, has kindly opened her house of Friday afternoon and evening, Dec. 11th, for the purpose of raising funds for this institution.

Tea will be served in the afternoon, and in the evening Miss Hurley will be in charge of a musical programme and refreshments will be served. Silver collection.

We know that all are more or less interested in the Hospitals for our wounded men, but we would ask every person where at all possible, men as well as women, to make a point of being present at Mrs. Fisk's some time on Friday.

City Council Heads the List

raising of this money, would equal at least ten thousand dollars. He was also of the opinion that the 1915 tax-rate could be kept within its present bounds. He expressed his hearty support of the scheme.

Aldermanic Sentiment.

Alderman Green—"I do not think that we should legislate for next year's Council, considering that this is the last regular meeting of the 1914 Council. We have no soldiers actually at the front. The boys who are on their way represent a country that is wealthy and may rest assured that the country will make dye provisions for them. I would prefer to see the matter laid over until the new year, then if elected I will consider the advisability of voting a mill. I won't undertake that responsibility at this, the closing session of this year's Council."

Alderman Dobbin—"We have men on the fighting line to-night and others are on their way. It would be strange if we had to send them a message saying—'We are waiting to see if you get hurt then we will help you.'"

Voice from the rear of the hall—"You will go back to the Council again."

Continuing Alderman Dobbin said—"I see in the papers that Germany is calling out the Landsturm. If I were in Germany I would be conscripted and compelled to fight. I tell you right here I would sooner pay one thousand dollars than go and fight. By the additional tax of one mill I will have only to pay three dollars and fifty cents. I think the resolution to vote one mill on the dollar should pass." Cheers.

An Unusual Condition.

Alderman Duffus—"This is a year and a cause that has never been duplicated in the world's history. I am in favour of contributing a substantial sum to assist this movement."

Alderman Stratton—"The fact that this deputation includes some of the largest taxpayers of the city, is sufficient reason why we should support the movement to at least the extent that has been suggested. When this matter was first brought to the attention of the Council, I suggested a grant of at least three thousand dollars. On that occasion we voted the sum of five hundred dollars. I will support a motion to grant one mill."

Alderman Duncan—"I think we should consider this more thoroughly before moving too quickly. It is hardly fair to assess the ratepayers one mill on the dollar without due deliberation. There are many who would be unable to pay the additional tax."

Later in the evening Alderman Duncan reconsidered his decision and supported the motion to grant one mill.

Alderman Saunders was of the opinion that the matter should be shelved until the first of the year.

Alderman McIntyre would support a motion to grant a half a mill, but not a whole mill.

Ald. Weir—"Do I understand that we pay one mill now and perhaps in January be called upon to make an additional grant? If we are going to go right through with it, until the war is over, I am prepared to support a grant of one mill."

Chorus—"Either pay or fight."

Alderman Langford — "I cannot support you on this matter. I feel that the Committee should first appeal to the people, and if unsuccessful they may come back to the Council for further consideration. Some of us may not be here next year. I can assure you that I will make a subscription personally. I think we should leave the matter over for the new Council to deal with."

"Not Afraid."

His Worship Mayor Buller repudiated the suggestion that the Council should not make a grant in its "dying hours." He had nothing to say against the Aldermen who were opposed to granting one mill. He declared that he was not afraid to take a chance and appeal to the workingmen on the issue, claiming for the workingmen a preponderance of practical patriotism.

"Belgium has a population equal to that of Canada," said Mr. R. R. Hall, who was invited to speak by His Honour Judge Huycke. "Belgium's trade exceeds that of Canada by five hundred million dollars annually. The German hordes have swept over the land respecting the rights of neither old nor young. What if a similar fate effected England or Canada? What if we are unable to get sufficient men to carry on this war because a few men are afraid that they will lose a few votes? It is with that very end in view that we are here to ask the City Council to take the lead and show the people of Canada that we are willing to do our share in this noble work." Prolonged applause.

Insinuation Alleged.

Alderman Langford, who has visions of the forthcoming election, rose to resent what he termed was an insinuation made by Mr. Hall respecting the potential loss of a few votes. He declared that he would not be stampeded by any such insinuations, but as a representative of the people was there to do what he believed was in the best interests of the people.

"I don't care two straws whether I am here or not next year. If I don't sit in this Council I can sit at home," said Alderman Green, reviewing his prospects for re-election, presumably for the benefit of the crowd.

Motion Carried.

It was moved by Alderman Johnston, and seconded by Alderman Dobbin, that the City Council head the subscription list with the sum of ten thousand dollars.

An amendment to the amendment was moved by Alderman McIntyre, and seconded by Alderman Duffus, to the effect that the City Council vote one-half mill, which would amount to approximately five thousand dollars.

The original motion carried on a division of seven to four. The vote was as follows:

Nays—Aldermen Saunders, Green, Langford and McIntyre.

Sharp on the stroke of ten, the two doors of the Council Chamber were opened wide and the formidable looking deputation filed out leaving a large contingent of Home Guards in its wake.

CRACOW FORTS ARE DESTROYED BY RUSSIANS

Grand Duke Nicholas Will Endeavour to Hold Von Hindenberg's Army While He Throws Weight in the South

LONDON, Dec. 8. — After a long battle fought with the greatest stubbornness, the Germans have succeeded in occupying Lodz, Poland, which is an unfortified city. According to the Berlin report, the Russians suffered severe losses and are in retreat.

On the other hand a despatch from Copenhagen says the northern section of the outer forts at Cracow has been destroyed by the Russian artillery, which has also begun the bombardment of the eastern and northeastern sections. The fire of the Russians continues without cessation day and night, says the message.

From Russian sources comes the intimation of a new plan of offensive. Cracow, it is said, is now under the fire of Russian artillery, and Russian strategy contemplates a shifting of the main attack from central Poland to the south, involving an attempt to push on from the region of Cracow and enter Germany across the Silesian border, with Breslau the objective. Such a move probably would involve a large reinforcement of the Russian army in Galicia.

The success of the Germans at Lodz, largely because of what preceded it, is considered by military experts a really remarkable achievement. Less than a fortnight ago the army to which this victory has fallen was surrounded by Russians, and cut its way out only at the last moment, losing great numbers of men and many guns. Yet it was able within a few days to reorganize, take the offensive, and defeat the Russians defending Lodz.

This was made possible by the network of strategic railways on the German side of the frontier, over which reinforcements can be sent where they are most needed. The Russians, on the other hand, vigorously attacked on both wings, were unable to send fresh men to stiffen their centre to meet the German wedge, and were compelled to fall back.

There will be undoubtedly much more fighting before the campaign in this district is concluded. Lodz was won only after hand-to-hand fighting in the suburbs of the city, and the whole Russian line, from north to south, is now straightened out and will contest every foot of ground with the invaders.

If the fall of the city is a fact, it indicates that communication with Warsaw again is seriously menaced, but a semi-official statement from Petrograd declares that the Russians are strong enough to hold the invaders in northern Poland, and will contest themselves with doing this while devoting their main energies to the reduction of Cracow and the invasion of Hungary.

Hungary, according to reports from the Russian capital, is the weak point in the armor of the Teuton allies. These messages from Petrograd say that even as early as the fall of Lemberg Austria asked Russia for terms of peace. The negotiations to this end, if any really took place, apparently proved abortive. The story is again revived in Petrograd in the form of a report that the Hungarian Prime Minister, on a recent visit to Emperor William, demanded better military protection for Hungary, the lack of which would cause the loss of the Kingdom.

A despatch from Rome says:—

"Travelers who have arrived at Fiume declare that at Budapest and throughout Hungary there is great alarm on account of the new Russian invasion. A Russian army is marching across the southern passes of the Carpathians, with the evident intention of occupying the whole of the southern line beyond the Carpathians, to render impossible the retreat of the Austrian armies in Hungary.

"The feeling of alarm is due to the fact that there are no more available troops in Hungary. The Austro-Hungarian troops in the Carpathians are estimated to number 800,000 men, and the whole of this army is said to be in danger of being made prisoners."

ENVER PASHA THINKS HE IS MAN OF DESTINY

FOREIGNERS ARRESTED

Special to The Examiner:

SALONIKA, via London, Dec. 4.—(Delayed) — A thirty-two-year-old man, who thinks he is Turkeys' man of destiny, forced the Ottoman Empire into the European war. He is Enver Pasha. As minister of war and leader of the Young Turks, he is the originator, executor and moving genius of the supreme effort to rid Turkey of all foreign influence. When I left Constantinople Enver Pasha had succeeded in arousing the Turkish people to fever of approbation for his programme. He is now in Egypt. It is his ambition to bring his meteoric career to a climax by becoming Turkey's great liberator, the restorer of the lost African provinces. Already he is the popular idol, to this power of swaying public opinion he adds the enormous power of his domination of the Sultan whose favourite niece he married.

Immediately upon the declaration of war against the Allies, the Young Turks, at Enver Pasha's direction, expelled all foreign ambassadors, and relieved of their restraining influence the Young Turks began an anti-foreign campaign by directing the mob occupancy of all foreign shops, schools and institutions. They were drunk with their own power. One great danger is ahead of Enver Pasha and the Young Turks, that is the defeat of Germany and the Turkish army in the war with the Allies. The native Christians seriously doubt Whether the ambitions of Enver trol the situation should the holy war declaration stir up the fanatical Moslems to the point of killing. Enver Pasha and his party might still go on through such reign of terror as would follow in this event, but foreigners remaining in Constantinople fear rebellion against both the Government and Germany should the Turks be defeated. The turks now know nothing of the progress of the war except as announced in official bulletins telling of great success. Whther the ambitions of Enver Pasha are to be realized will not be known until the issue of the war is determined and the truth is known in Turkey.

SALONIKA, via London, Dec. 5.—All Russians, Servians and Montenegrins in Smyrna have been arrested by the Turks, and the English and French citizens still in the city are not permitted to leave. There are 1,200 Englishmen and 2,000 French there, and all are threatened with detention in the concentration camp. Amnesty has been granted all brigands who will fight with the Turkish troops, and the native Christian population has been forced to work in the construction of a road southward from Smyrna for the invasion of Egypt.

RESPONSE HAS BEEN GENEROUS

The response to the request of the Board of Trade for donations of goods and clothes on the part of the merchants and citizens in general, has been a very generous one. The merchants donated large quantities of goods that had been carried over from last season, also considerable dress goods. For several days, about one hundred and fifty ladies met at the armouries each afternoon and sewed for the Belgians. The Board of Trade gave $25 to the ladies to purchase goods which were made up into splendid new garments. Five bales were recently forwarded to the Belgians as a result of the ladies' efforts. They are deserving of the heartiest thanks.

ROUND HOUSE BURNED TO GROUND ENGINE DESTROYED

PORT HOPE, Dec. 8.—The local G. T.R. roundhouse was burned to the ground early this morning. The building is a frame one and the flames get such a hold upon the timbers that the strenuous efforts to extinguish them did not meet with success. A fireman who sleeps in the roundhouse was roused and escaped from the flames, but the locomotive that came from Peterborough with the ten o'clock passenger train could not be taken out and was totally destroyed. The fire occurred about half past two o'clock in the morning, and it was thought was caused by a spark from a passing locomotive. The roundhouse is situated in the south of the town between two tracks, and made a spectacular sight. The Port Hope volunteer fire brigade was summoned and exerted themselves to put out the blaze, but the fire had made too much headway. The building and contents will be a total loss.

PEACE IN ORIENT

But War Must Be Hastened To End Says Emperor of Japan.

TOKIO, Dec. 8.—The opening of the Diet yesterday was a brilliant function. The Chamber was crowded. Emperor Yoshihito's address dealt in part with the war, and requested the Diet to pass the legislation requested by the Government.

"I am happy to announce," the Emperor said, "that the friendship of the empire with treaty powers is growing in cordiality and that the alliance with Great Britain and the ententes with France and Russia have been cemented in the present critical stage by stronger bonds of amity. Our army and navy have crushed the enemy in co-operation with our ally, and peace in the Orient is gradually being restored. But the great war is not yet ended. We rely on the loyalty and bravery of our subjects. We wish to attain the final object as quickly as possible."

GERMANS AT POLA.

Officers Are Believed To Be Planning Simultaneous Attack on Fleets.

ROME, Dec. 8.—The Stampa has received information from Pola that two German admirals have arrived in that town. It is asserted that Germany and Austria are preparing for simultaneous action by their fleets, and that when the German ships leave the Kiel Canal the Austrian fleet will come out of the harbor of Pola.

Two Destroyers For Germany.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 8. — A despatch from Norway declares that Germany has seized two torpedo boat destroyers which were building for Norway in Germany. The boats will be added to the Kaiser's navy, which, the despatch says, "is greatly in need of reinforcements."

British Merchantman Sunk.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Another British merchantman, the Charcas, which sailed from New York Oct. 1st for western South American ports has been sent to the bottom by German guns by the transport Kitel Friedrich, off the Chilean coast. It is not clear whether the German transport was accompanied by warships.

$300 For The Home Guard

TIME CARD OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Met at eight o'clock.

At eleven o'clock extended the time one hour.

At twelve o'clock extended the time thirty minutes.

At twelve-thirty o'clock extended the time fifteen minutes.

At twelve-forty-five o'clock extended the time fifteen minutes.

The foregoing represents the time schedule that was followed by the City Council last evening. It required two hours to dispose of the first deputation representing the Patriotic Association. The latter had no sooner departed with the Council's pledge to make a grant of ten thousand dollars, than deputation number two sprang into being. This was headed by Lieut.-Col. Miller and Mr. R. E. Layfield, representing the Home Guard. They asked for a grant of one thousand dollars with which to equip the members of that organization, with sufficient rifles and ammunition for the purpose of rifle practice.

Colonel Miller pointed out that the deputation represented an organization of eight hundred men, known as the second line of defence. Fifty men who could shoot well could keep back a force of men who couldn't shoot.

It was moved by Alderman Green and seconded by Alderman Dobbin that an initial grant of three hundred dollars be made, until the inauguration of the 1915 Council. This was endorsed by the Council, and followed by three cheers and a tiger. The latter was volunteered by the deputation.

"You should have given us that before then."

"We might have given you the whole thing," observed the Mayor.

Fifty Dollars a Month.

Adjutant McElhiney, of the Salvation Army, was successful in his quest for financial assistance from the City Council. He asked for the modest sum of fifty dollars with which to equip a home to house the homeless, also a monthly grant of fifty dollars. The Council was unanimous in the opinion that Adjutant McElhiney's purpose was a good one and deserving of civic support. One case was cited concerning a man who was confined in one of the local hospitals at a cost to the city of one dollar a day. This man was removed to the Salvation Army shelter with a consequent elimination of the city's liability in the matter. A man who is without home and funds will be sheltered until such time as work can be procured, providing of course, he is willing to work. The Adjutant is now arranging for a similar institution to be located in the south end of the city, where destitute married couples can be cared for. This will cost in the neighbourhood of one hundred and fifty dollars a month to maintain. Of this amount fifty dollars may be forthcoming from the Central Fund of the Patriotic Association, fifty dollars from the City Council, and the remainder Adjutant McElhiney proposes to raise by popular subscription. City Solicitor Gordon expressed his hearty support of the proposal. Men were not infrequently committed to gaol for the reason that they were without means of sustenance. In many cases they came out as beggars. He characterized it as the most pressing need appearing before the City Council in years. He contended that men should not be sent to gaol when their only crime was poverty.

CHRISTMAS CHEER MAY STILL ABOUND

Happiness is not so much to be found in "things" as in the spirit in which we enter into them." Even though funds should be scarcer than usual this year, Christmas cheer may still abound. "Christmas as usual" should be the slogan; "Hang up the stockings," as usual; "Family gatherings" as usual;; "Christmas boxes" as usual; "Everything" as usual, even though it should be on a more moderate scale. One will find many helpful suggestions in Christmas buying by patronizing local stores.

"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER"

"The Chocolate Soldier" is enjoying its third season of unabated popularity and has broken the old rule that "familiarity breeds contempt." In the case of this masterpiece of Oscar Straus and the Viennese school of music, the familiarity that the American people possess of "The Chocolate Soldier," with its captivating melodies and its scintillating wit, has only made them more eager to repeat the experience of an evening in the company of the Chocolate Soldier.

This explains the coming of the exquisite opera bouffe that Oscar Straus and his associates fashioned from George Bernard Shaws immortal comedy, "Arms and the Man," to the Grand Opera House Saturday, Dec. 12, matinee and night. Not content with the strength of his company last season and the widely remarked beauty of his scenic equipment, Mr. Whitney the producer of "The Chocolate Soldier," has sought to surpass his former achievements and to increase if possible, the power of the spell that the romantic Bulgarian atmosphere and the witching music casts over every audience.

The Whitney Opera Company is something of a phenomenon among light opera companies, for it is a rule of Mr. Whitney's, one which he rarely breaks, that every member shall have had a grand opera training. This means a richer and more intelligent rendering of all the subtleties of the music, and insures a dramatic unison which is all-important to the success of an opera which offers as many dramatic opportunities as does "The Chocolate Soldier." Such well known names as Keila Hughes, Lottie Collins, Lucille Saunders, Charles Bowers, Francis J. Boyle, George Tallman, Sylvan Langlois, and the Whitney Opera Comique Orchestra of picked musicians under the direction of Sig. A. De Novellis, are a guarantee that each and every opportunity will be taken advantage of to the fullest extent.

THE QUESTION OF TEMPERANCE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—Dr. Gordon has come and gone and however we may differ in our opinions, one thing I think we must all admit, he not only drew, but held the people for nearly three weeks with two services each Sunday. Amongst other things that impressed me was the number of times he referred to the tavern or liquor business, and once mentioned the number of ministers that had stock in breweries or interested in other ways in the liquor business. I thought I must have misunderstood him, so I saw him quietly the last day he was here, in his room in the Oriental. I asked him quietly about it. He said, yes, 967, and when I appeared surprised he said not having his books handy, a little under a thousand, all in the old land, different sects. He also said the social drinking customs of the hour threaten the permanency of our Christian institutions; the saloon is the organized enemy of the home. The distiller quaffs a goblet full to the brim with liquid agony and feeds like some monster of ancient mythology, on human hearts crushed, pierced, broken, bruised and torn. I would take my chances on the day of judgment with Judas Iscariat rather than with the brewer who coins sorrow into silver, blood into bonds, and manhood into the merchandise of ill-gotten wealth. He has no hesitation in crowding his hellish products by display ads. and electric signs upon the unsuspecting youth of the community, and I have no hesitation in branding him the arch traitor of the race, the incarnation of commercial meanness and the last surviving specimen of social piracy which threatens the existence of every frail human barque floating on the tempestuous waters of our modern life. Now, hear some higher authority: Wine is a mocker; strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. When we appear to be fighting for our very existence as a nation and see what Russia has done almost at once with this awful evil, drink, should it not be a time for serious thought, penitence and prayer to our Heavenly Father instead of having our bars and theatres crowded night after night.

Again, he was "wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities"; or do those things lead to more love of God's word. Look how the psalmist in Psalms, 119, spoke of God's word. I delight, I will delight, my delight in all; nine times I love, oh, how I love, I do love, consider how I love, I love exceedingly. Again nine times in all, I have longed, my eyes fail, my soul breaketh. Speaking of the intensity of his desire to get alone with the book sweeter than honey, as great spoil, as much as all riches, better than thousands of gold, above gold, yea above fine gold, and all that packed into less than two leaves. Do we love the book like that at this precious time? John 1st and 12. "But as many as received Him to them, gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe in His name.

Some thoughts which may do good at this serious time in our history.

"Advertising The Language of Business"—What It Means

To the Life of Your Country—Advertising a Means to Success

SUBJECT OF PAPER

At a well attended meeting of the Belmont Club last evening, Mr. J. McNab read a thoroughly interesting and comprehensive paper on the subject of advertising.

It is as follows:

"Have you thought what advertising means to the life of your country, the Dominion of Canada. Do you realise that every time you utter a word in the presence of other people you are advertising your personality. Do you understand that it is a guarantee of quality and the agent of economy? Do you realise that if you are to succeed in any business or any profession, advertising will help you? Advertising is the language of business. It is the bright light by which commerce and industry find their way throughout the nation.

Not only business men, merchants, advertising men or editors are interested in advertising. The whole country, every citizen, every woman, every child derives benefit from the advertising art, which has been developed within the present generation. Every schoolboy knows how the human race has begun, its mutual development since language was discovered. Before men could speak they could not tell each other their ideas or help each other. Hubbard of to-day, says: Advertising is the education of the public, as to who you are, where you are, and what you have to offer in the way of skill, talent or commodity. The only man who should not advertise is the man who has nothing to offer the world in the way of commodity or service.

What language is to the human race, advertising is to business, industry, commerce, manufacturing and economy. Advertising is the language of trade, the language of energy, the language of prosperity, the language of to-day determined to do in his life what in former years could not be done, in fewer than half a dozen generations. Advertising as the word indicates, is giving information. Literally translated, the word means, to turn to, from the Latin of Ad-to-and vertere-turn. The advertisement turns the public to the thing wanted. Advertising the voice of commerce, tells the work, that the thinkers, fighters and inventors of industry are doing.

It was excellent advertising of her courage and of woman's power, when Hannah Dustan of Haverhill, Mass., being captured by the Indians, who murdered her baby, and being led away to be tortured, returned on foot, bringing with her the scalps of ten Indians that she had killed in their sleep. It was good advertising, although not meant as such, when Agassiz, the great naturalist, said, 'I have not time to make money.'

It was good advertising when Marc Antony pointed out the holes that the daggers made in Caesar's clothing, and even better advertising when he mentioned with pretended reluctance how much of his money and property Caesar had left to the howling mob.

The history of the world has been a history of advertising conscience or unconscience. This generation of ours is the first that sees advertising as a science and an art.

Importance of Advertising.

And even this generation does not realise the importance of advertising, the dignity of the advertising profession, the extraordinary part that advertising is destined to play in the industry of commerce, and especially in the economy of the country.

The advertisement is to the industry and business of the nation, what the bright electric light is to the big engine producing the power. The little bulb tells what the engine is doing. The brilliantly worded advertisement tells what industry, commerce and manufacturers are doing.

In the olden days everything was slow—man with great difficulty managed to place his little store on a street where many passed. The public only could know what he was doing if they passed his store. Now a man can put his factory in a distant town. Nobody has seen it, nobody perhaps knows where it is. But that man puts his name, his purpose, his accomplishments in the hands of tens of millions of human beings. He does not wait for the man to pass his door. He goes through the door of the house in which the man lives, and in that monthly, or that weekly, or in many dailies, presents to the men the story that he has to tell. Therein lies the power of advertising. You can work to-day, and to-morrow you can tell the whole world what you have done.

You can have a new idea this week, and next year that idea will be in the minds of fifty millions of human beings. You are not bound by your location, limited by the strength of your voice—your voice is the voice of the printing press. No man need waste a day if he has the right idea and the energy, and knows how to talk for publication.

It is important that the public know what advertising means. Especially important is the fact that plenty of advertising almost invariably means an excellent and honest product. If you read that a man had invested a million dollars in a factory of brick, stone and iron, you would not need to be told that he would refrain from setting fire to that factory—especially if it were not insured.

There are many business men that have put not one million, but five and tens of millions into an advertising reputation. They have put their millions into words and have created by them a reputation as solid as any brick or iron. That reputation is their fortune. That reputation is their life work. It is not insured, it cannot be insured. For the man who has put his millions into advertising, to lower the quality of his goods, to deceive the public, would be like setting fire to his millions without any insurance.

Fraud Diminishing.

There are, of course, fraudulent advertisers, although they are constantly becoming fewer—and they are becoming fewer—thanks to the power of modern advertising. Advertising is no longer used to sell "wooden nutmegs" or to sell a fine steel engraving of Queen Victoria for fifty cents, which turns out to be a two cent stamp with Queen Victoria's face upon it. Advertising to-day builds up to-day the honest man and kills the dishonest man. There is more profit in building a great grocery business and selling the best of nutmegs at a fair small profit than there could possibly be in selling wooden nutmegs.

Advertising has ceased to be misrepresentation and it has become the honest voice of commerce, the agent of economy—and the economy must be clear to all; it can be made clear in a very few words.

You have a merchant who does not advertise, he pays a clerk two dollars a day, and the clerk sells ten dollars worth of goods. Naturally that merchant must first pay the clerk two dollars out of the ten dollars, that you pay for the goods. That means twenty per cent. profit to start with for the goods alone, and then the store which represents high rent, must take its part of your purchase money for rent, for heat, for taxes, insurance, and the proprietor must take his part. Where the man who does not advertise pays two dollars to the clerk and two dollars for rent, and a dollar for insurance and delivery and sells ten dollars worth of goods, he must take five dollars for expenses, and at least three dollars for himself and you get two dollars worth of goods.

A man with the same clerk, and the same store advertising, can sell one that out of one hundred dollars he hundred dollars' worth of goods so can pay the clerk and the rent, and the taxes and the overhead, and take what he wants—and the whole thing amounts to less than one-tenth of the amount taken in.

Advertising doubles the efficiency of the clerk, the value of the store, the power of the merchants' organization.

Nothing is more foolish than the fast-disappearing belief of the ignorant, that when they buy goods they pay for the advertising. They do nothing of the kind. The advertising pays for part of the goods and makes it possible to deliver the goods cheaper.

Retail Advertising.

Advertising the language of business is simply to interest another person in that which interests you, and that gentlemen, brings me to the point of retail advertising—and that retail advertising to my mind is by far the most important form af advertising in existence, because it reaches out for direct results—and with your permission I will discuss in a few minutes, two forms of retail advertising which are—Bargain advertising and the advertising of good goods at good prices. In the first place we have too much bargain advertising and not enough of the advertising of bargains. However, I will try and define bargain advertising and how genuine bargains come about. It might prove of interest to know that upon the authority of a reliable trade paper, about one-fourteenth of all merchandise manufactured is sold to the trade without profit or at a loss, because it cannot be helped. Sold to clear a factory to empty a warehouse of short lots or remnants—or sold with little regard for anything but that the holder needs some money quickly.

By these ways come bargains, and conforming to the reason that make selling at a loss imperative, goods so to be sold are offered first to those who are in the best position to buy quantities. In writing bargain copy the first and foremost essential is honesty—and I would set in 100 point caps—so all who run may read. The reasons bargain advertising to-day in some places does not always carry the weight it should is because of dishonesty. How often do we see headings, regular $1.00 for 39c—read further down and we find that the lot is composed of values from 50c up to $1.00. Again we see something like this, regular 75c for 19c—the copy will perhaps tell us that the actual value is 75c. Headings like these are really misleading. In writing bargain copy—simply tell the people in a brief way—why the offering is made—if a special purchase tell them—if soiled tell them—if damaged tell them—then you will be justified for making such claims. This bargain game is a big thing—it may be helpful to some—but let me tell you a business built on bargains is not resting on a very sound foundation. I would like to go into this bargain matter on a broad scale, but my time is already up. So I will hurry on the advertising of good goods at good prices.

In advertising good goods at good prices, we forget the price. Supposing at the commencement of the season we are advertising women's suits, we must talk style and quality, the way in which it is designed, where the style originated, the workmanship which makes it retain its shape, and the splendid wearing quality of the material. If we are talking Home Furnishings we must tell how the things will improve the appearance of the room. Let me say that in this class of advertising there is scope for imagination. Michael Angelo painted the pictures of his imagination. Mozart wrote the music of his imagination, and the live ad. man puts, in a practical way, in his ad., the thoughts of his imagination.

Convince the Women.

Retail advertising must be seasonable. People are not buying garden tools in December, or winter underwear in June. Don't use big words in advertising copy. I believe the simple language is best. Lincoln has said that if we spoke so that the masses could understand us, we could be sure of the classes understanding us.

I believe the retail merchant today must direct his advertising to the women of the community; the man may be president of the house; but the woman is the purchasing agent. Convince the woman that your goods are right, and still sell them to the rest of the family. She studies where and what to buy; the man works to pay the bills.

The modern department store directs about 95 per cent. of its advertising to women. A prominent department store man estimates that 60 per cent. of the purchasing of strictly men's goods is suggested or influenced by women. Take the great departmental stores of America, notably the John Wannamaker stores, Marshal Field & Co., Selfridge, The Eaton Store, Simpson's, and even our own local stores; are they not living monuments to the purchasing power of women.

Gentlemen, this topic of advertising and especially, retail advertising, is so broad, so comprehensive, so vital so absorbing, that it is impossible to tell much of its principles in fifteen minutes. Why, everything that pertains to the store is advertising. Your business stationery, the paper in which you wrap your parcels, your address labels, etc. Why, every time your store is spoken of it is an advertisement. The advertiser, the man who prepares the advertising, is the clerk who talks to all of the customers; and the merchant should especially remember this: If any merchant who had a clerk who talked to every customer before that customer came to the store, the merchant would consider no prices too great to pay for efficient service of that kind. How man merchants and other business men fail to remember that the advertising man is the clerk that talks to all. More than that, he is the man who forms public opinion as to the policy of the merchant, or the other business which he represents. He is the voice, the man who represents not merely the bargains, the cash inducements, but the conscience of the business. It would be impossible to write pages concerning the difficulties of the art of preparing advertising, for to-day it is sufficient to say: The ideal merchant of the future will be the merchant who intelligently combines his advertising policy with his store policy, who believes not only in getting business through carrying out to the limit his printed claims, who realizes that the customer, is the whole foundation of his business; and that upon the way the customer of to-day is treated depends the number and the confidence of the customers of to-morrow. Truth in advertising is supreme. Build up a business that is supported by public confidence, and good will, by giving good values, and good service, and by profiting by public confidence and good will; built up by good advertising of good merchandise.

Get started right and you will finish first. Don't waste your time explaining yourself to your critics. No eagle can be the king of birds who wastes his time explaining his actions to a barnyard hen."

IS LIABLE TO ARREST

Detective Kennedy Says President Falconer Must Not Help Professors to Leave

WILL BE STOPPED

TORONTO, Dec. 8. — If the proposal made by Dr. R. A. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto goes through, whereby the three German professors on the staff of the University, who have been given leave of absence, will be exchanged for three professors from universities in the United States, the police will step in and will prevent the professors, Mueller, Benzinger and Tapper, from leaving Canada, and will place Dr. Falconer under arrest on a charge of treason.

This statement was made last night by Inspector of Detectives George Kennedy, to whom is intrusted the task of seeing that no alien enemies are allowed to leave Canada. Inspector Kennedy maintains that if Dr. Falconer, by arranging for an exchange of the professors, helps them to leave Canada for the United States, he will be violating the order-in-council prohibiting anyone from assisting aliens to leave Canada, and thus will make himself liable to arrest on a charge of treason.

The inspector stated also that if the three German professors attempted to cross the border, they would be arrested the same as any other Austrian or German who tries to leave the country.

AUSTRIANS ARE CHECKED

King Peter of Servia Leads First Line of Troops Into Action

ROME, Dec. 8.—King Peter of Servia is in command of the first line of his army, according to an official communication issued at Nish and received here yesterday.

The communication also states that the Servians have been enabled to resume the offensive against the Austrians by the arrival of reinforcements.

Heavy losses are reported to have been inflicted on the invaders. The Austrian reply to this is that "the occupation of Belgrade necessitates th regrouping of our troops."

The political news of the day is the authoritative announcement from Sofia that it was not considered possible anything would intervene to make it necessary for Bulgaria to change her policy of strict neutrality until next spring.

A despatch from Nish, Servia, to the Havas Agency reports that the Servians, since Dec. 3, have resumed a vigorous offensive. The Servian troops on Friday, the despatch says, pursued the enemy's right wing as far as the Kolubara river, and it was there that the Austrians abandoned four of their batteries.

A despatch from Athens states that progress has been made toward an understanding in the Balkan States which will be satisfactory to the allies. The London Telegraph correspondent at Athens understands that a basis has been reached for a rapprochement between Servia and Bulgaria.

The British, Russian and French Ministers have visited Eleutherios Venizelos, the Greek Premier, the correspondent reports, and he says that the Greek newspapers declare that the visits concerned proposals that Greece should assist Servia.

Servia To Make Peace?

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 8—A despatch from Vienna says the Reichspost declares that Servia intends to conclude a separate peace with Austria.

With the fall of Belgrade Servia's chief resistance has been broken, the Vienna newspaper asserts.

PETROGRAD, December 8.—The Germans have brought their forces in the east up to six army corps approximately 40,000 men, and five cavalry divisions, an official statement from the war office declares to-day. Part of these forces are from the western front and others are new formations.

I Have Implicit Confidence In Peterboro's Future

And my confidence is fully endorsed by the wisest men of our City, as shown in our churches, schools, factories, stores, public buildings, permanent roadways, etc., etc. Because of this implicit faith and because of my special desire to unload the cares of business, I am now trying to do what is said to be an impossible work, viz., that of selling Lots out of season.

HERE ARE SOME OF MY REASONS FOR DOING SO.

1. I have worked hard for over 60 years and want to quit.
2. My Lots cannot fail to please every buyer.
3. They are convenient to work, school and cars.
4. They are right in the way of the City's growth, and because of that they must increase rapidly in value.
5. My prices, $150 and up, I consider under value.
6. Terms—Pay cash and get good discount. Pay $10.00, get receipt for $20.00. Pay $5.00, get receipt for $10.00. Pay $2.00 and get receipt for $4.00.
7. If you are a good man, with family and no money, I will give you a Garden Lot free of rent. Have you ever had an offer to compare with this? If you want to succeed in life you must compel yourself to save a little, and this is the way to do it without failing. See my small ad. for proof. Call to-day.

ATHLETICS TO BOOM IN ST. JOHN'S CLUB

A banquet was held at 6.30 yesterday evening in St. John's Guild Room by the Boys' Bible Class. Afterwards an athletic meeting was held, at which it was decided that teams were to be entered in the Church League. Sports have been dormant for some time among the young people in the church, and it was felt that this was a splendid opportunity to revive the old sporting spirit of previous years. Great enthusiasm was shown, and it was seen that a successful year could be engineered. A capable and efficient manager was chosen in the selection of Charlie Ray, well known to all Peterborough citizens from his connections with local O.H.A. teams of recent years.

The following officers were elected:
Hon. President, Mr. Chris. Graham.
Hon. Vice-Presidents, Messrs. F. Linton, Meldrum, J. J. Howden and H. Rush.
President, Mr. Walter Flowers.
Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. A. Pidgeon.
Senior Captain, Mr. Art. Heard.
Junior Captain, Mr. H. Frost.
Manager and Coach, Mr. Charlie Ray.
Executive Committee: Messrs. Flowers, Pidgeon, Heard, Frost, Devey, Ray, Soward, A. Kingdon.

A concert will be held at a future date to assist in defraying the expenses of the teams.

Any young men in the church who are desirous of playing are asked to communicate with any of the above.

RUGBY

Both "Gamey" Stratton and Freddie Mills got the ball out fast and clean. Both players are small, but no better quarters are playing the game to-day. Mills' tackling was a trifle better than Stratton's.—Toronto Star.

JUNIOR CHURCH HOCKEY LEAGUE

There is a big 1914-15 season ahead of the Church Hockey League, as manifested by the enthusiastic meeting of the representative delegates held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours, last night. Seven Church delegates were on hand, representing the different Churches, as follows:

St. Paul's—D. Loucks.
George Street—J. Smith.
Murray Street—H. Webb.
St. Luke's—G. Butcher.
St. John's—C. Devey.
Knox—E. Smith.
Charlotte Street—W. Heaslip.

Last season the League had a most successful season and without a dissenting voice it was decided to run a similar league during the coming season. The Executive for the Church League will be elected at a meeting of the representatives at the Y. M. C. A., on Monday evening, Dec. 14, at 7.45 o'clock. The Secretary pro tem, D. A. Loucks, was instructed to request every other Church wishing to enter teams to have representatives at the coming meeting as that will be the last date upon which a Church may enter a team. Regulations governing eligibility of players will be handled by the newly appointed Executive. There is a season of good, clean sport ahead of the boys who will take part in the sport.

HOW A FOOTBALL FAN LOOKS AT THE BIG WAR

LONDON, Dec. 7—Here's how the football fan saw the war:

In a letter from the front, a prominent north-country football player, says: "The great match for the European Cup is still being played out, and I dare say there's a record gate, though you can not see the spectators from the field. That's one of the rules of the game when this match is on. In spite of all their 'swank' the Germans haven't scored a goal yet, and they are simply kicking at the ball any way in their blind rage at not being able to score.

"Out team is about as fit as you could have them, and they are all good men, though some of them are 'amateurs,' and the Germans are all 'pros'. (professionals). The Germans' forwards are a rotten pack. They have no dash worth speaking about and they come up the field as though they were going to the funeral of their nearest and dearest. When they are charged they nearly always fall away on their backs, and their goal-keeping is about the rottenest thing you ever set eyes on.

"I wouldn't give a brass farthing for their chances of lifting the Cup, and if you have any 'brass' to spare you can put it on the Franco-British team who are securing goals so fast that they haven't time to stop and count them. The Kaiser makes a rotten captain for any team, and it's little wonder they are losing. Most of our chaps would like to tell him what they think of him and his team."

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Monday was another busy day at the Y.M.C.A., seventeen events being run off according to schedule during the course of the day. These events consisted of six gymnasium classes, two Bible classes, two hockey meetings, one committee meeting, three meetings of outside societies, the basketball game between the Business Boys and the Collegiates, the game in the Bowling League between the Examiners and the Gladiators and a supper for about twenty-five young men.

The result of the Bowling League will be given elsewhere in this paper. The basketball game between the Business Boys and the Collegiates was won by the latter by a score of 21-11. J. Greer and F. Rutherford are the star players for the Collegiates and B. Lundy did the best work for the Business Boys.

We omitted to say in yesterday's notes that two games were played off in the Senior Basketball League Saturday evening. The first game was between Jr. Business Men and the Pirates and was won by the former by the score of 26-11. The Bankers won from St. Paul's team by the very close score of 22-21. These games were very interesting and are usually well attended as no admission fee is charged.

The meetings and classes this evening, with the exception of the Intermediate gymnasium classes have been cancelled on account of the special patriotic meeting in the Opera House.

New Governor of Queensland, Australia.—Sir Hamilton and Lady Gould-Adams, the newly appointed Governor of Queensland, Australia, is well known in Canada. After their marriage, in Toronto, four years ago, they left for Bloemfontein, South Africa, of which he was then Governor. Since that time they have occupied the Government House at Cypress, and will now reside at Brisbane.

BERLIN, December 8, by wireless to London.—Dr. Solfa, the Secretary of Colonies, states that the German government does not intend to permanently occupy the South African Union. Germany desires, he says, that the hostilities which were forced upon her by the South African Union shall cease. Dr. Solfa further declares that if the Union government abstains from further hostilities against German territory, and if the territory which has been invaded is evacuated so that the South Africans may establish a neutral state, Germany would officially recognize this condition, and would respect territorial integrity and the political importance of the neutral state. This is the first official intimation from the German government that they fomented the South African rebellion.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(By Ed L. Keen).—The development of severe fighting marked by daring dashes of the British and French for possession of the road leading from Reulers, through Menin and on to Lille, Lens and Arras, is indicated to-day in reports from the battle front.

A counter offensive launched by the Germans in the Ypres and Yser regions has been safely checked while British by a dash along the railway captured Passchendaele, making an advance of 2 1-2 miles and taking up a position within five miles of Reulers. From Passchendaele the British are in a position to execute a flank attack upon Menin, while another assault is being made upon Reulers.

The capture of Vermelles by the French, first admitted by the Germans, and officially announced by the French War Office to-day, is part of a movement toward the taking of that important roadway. The French fought for nearly two months before gaining possession of Vermelles, after it was taken by the Germans on Oct. 16. Vermelles is five miles from Lens, one of the key points upon the road which the allies seek to control. Menin, toward which the British attack may now be directed, is midway between Reulers and Lille.

BIG TURNOUT OF HOME GUARD

Will be Inspected by Minister of Finance To-Night

The biggest turnout of the Home Guard on record is expected to-night, when the new regiment will be inspected at the Armouries by Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, at 7.30 o'clock, after which the Guard will march down to the patriotic meeting. The 57th Regiment and Temple Bands will be in the parade. After inspection the Guard will march past Hon. W. T. White at the corner of George and Hunter Streets.

Junior Church League

Last night the first meeting of the Junior Church League was held in the board room of the Y.M.C.A. Mr. G. L. Galley was in the chair, with Hugh Austin secretary, protem, and the following officers were elected:

Hon. President, Mr. J. I. Allen.
President, Mr. M. N. Clarke.
Vice-President, Mr. Wm. Galbraith.
Secretary - Treasurer, Mr. Hugh Austin.

The churches represented were Charlotte Street, Knox, All Saints' and St. John's.

The next meeting will be held in the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday evening next, Dec. 10, at 7.30 o'clock, when any other churches than those mentioned above, wishing to enter a team in this league, may do so by each church sending two representatives.

Made in Peterborough

An attempt—in a small way—to wrest trade from Germany has been attempted by Mr. E. Navey of this City. He is unfortunately at the present time "resting," as the actors term the period of enforced rest when they have no work to do. Consequently he, assisted by his "better half," is turning out banks—whether for cent, nickels, dimes or quarters matters not. These banks in outer form resemble a fine large apple. They are well decorated, and made of clay found in Peterborough. Hence both the raw material and labour come from Peterborough.

One of our large stores has placed an order with him. Our "Examiner" representative, who purchased one from the maker, thinks it very good value for the dime he paid for the article. "Support Home Industries" is the slogan just now. We hope Mr. Navey will be successful in his venture. This class of goods has hitherto been imported from Germany.

Of Course, He Did It!

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES

The German submarine U16 has arrived at Esbjerg, in Denmark, on the North Sea, badly damaged: The cause of the vessel's injury is not known.

Mrs. Danbrook, a middle-aged woman, wife of Henry Danbrook, a well-known and highly esteemed farmer of East Otford, died shortly before noon yesterday after taking carbolic acid.

Harry Carr, of Leavenworth, on trial for assaulting a girl, shot and killed C. D. Franklin in the court room at Cashmere, Wash., yesterday. The bullet glanced and also killed a man named Parsons.

Word was received in London, Ont., yesterday of the death at Vienna, Austria, of Wm. H. MacGarvey, formerly of this city, and the first reeve of Petrolea. He was born at Huntington, Que., in 1842.

Gen. Sir W. D. Otter yesterday made an inspection of the internment camp at Fort Henry. The fort is now full of prisoners and no more can be accommodated. The prisoners are contented and quiet.

The British prize court ruled yesterday that the entire cargo of oil of the British tank steamer Roumanian which sailed on Nov. 17 from Port Arthur, Texas, for Hull, was subject to seizure because it was German owned.

R. F. Dale, of Harriston, warden of the County of Wellington, in his address to the County Council yesterday recommended amid general approval that the county raise and equip half a regiment of soldiers, at a cost of $45,000.

Dr. Flower Sentenced.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—"Dr." Richard C. Flower, alleged by the police to have swindled various persons in this country and Canada of more than $1,000,000 in mining and other enterprises; was sentenced yesterday to serve a year in the prison on each of two indictments charging him with grand larceny, to which he has pleaded guilty.

"Dr." Flower was arrested in Toronto a few weeks ago. He had been living in Parkdale for years, while the police of two continents had warrants for him.

Ancient Monastery Destroyed.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—A despatch to the Havas Agency from Petrograd, says: "The Germans have destroyed the monastery of Lenosyca, about 15 miles northwest of Lodz, which has been in existence for 1,000 years on the pretext that the ringing of the Angelus was a signal to the Russians. In the attack a priest and two monks were killed.

Charged With Embezzlement.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 8.—William Walter Browning, cashier of a branch of the Bank of Montreal in Montreal, was arrested at a local hotel yesterday afternoon on a charge of embezzling $2,000 of the bank's funds a week ago.

Browning was registered under the name of J. W. Wayne. One thousand eight hundred and eighty-three dollars was found in his suitcase. According to the police, Browning said he could not explain why he took the money. Browning is 38 years old.

Holland Will Lend Wheat.

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 8.—(Via London.)—A meeting held here yesterday of the Netherlands Cabinet, attended by Charge d'Affaires Langhorne and Capt. T. F. Lacey of the Belgian relief commission, the Government consented to loan and deliver 10,000 tons of wheat, valued at $1,000,000, to be used at once in Belgium, at such points where the danger of starvation is most acute.

Spies Blamed For Fires.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Spies are gaining access to army contract factories in England, it is feared to-day.

The police have started an investigation as a result of the frequency of fires in these factories, which are working under the greatest pressure. Eleven fires have been reported within the last month.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Wheat turned heavy in the last 15 minutes today and a moderate advance which had been scored was more than wiped out. Disclosure of the fact that the market had become bare of speculative orders to buy was responsible for the setback. Prices finished weak at a shade to ⅝c under Saturday night. Corn lost ⅛c to ⅜c net, and oats ⅛c to ¼c. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 10c down.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Manitoba wheat—Lake ports, new crop, No. 1 northern, $1.94½; No. 2 northern, $1.91½; No. 3 northern, $1.16½.

Ontario oats—New, outside, 46c to 51c.

Ontario wheat—Carlots, $1.10 to $1.13, outside, according to freights.

Rye—No. 2, 89c, outside.

Rolled oats—Per bag of 90 pounds, $3.10 to $3.25; in smaller lots, $3.25 to $3.35; per bushel, $6.75; wholesale, Windsor to Montreal.

Buckwheat—71c to 73c.

Millfeed—Carlots, per ton, bran, $25 to $26; shorts, $27 to $28; middlings, $29 to $30; good feed flour, $27 to $28.

Cornmeal—Yellow, 90-lb. sacks, $3.05 to $3.75.

Manitoba flour—First patents, $4.60 in bags; second patents, $4.10 in bags.

Ontario flour—Winter, 90 per cent. patents, $4.70 to $4.75; Montreal, nominal.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 7.—Liverpool cables were 1d higher and Paris ¼d advance, which caused a strong opening on the Winnipeg market. Wheat opened ⅝c to ¾c higher, oats ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, and flax ⅜c to ¾c lower. Trading was quiet, and in futures prices were steady around the opening figures. The strength was influenced by good demand at Liverpool and unfavorable news from the Argentine. Offsetting the strength were the heavy receipts in the south. Wheat was unchanged to ⅜c over Saturday at the close, oats unchanged to ⅛c lower, and flax 1c to 1⅛c lower. The cash demand for wheat was slow, only a few lots being picked up to complete cargoes. There was no change in the situation as regards oats, flax and barley, the demand for these being extremely slow.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat is steadily increasing, and cables were stronger at a further advance of 4½d to 6d per quarter, but owing to the great scarcity of ocean grain room from Canadian winter ports it was impossible for exporters to do any business. The local trade in oats is quiet, but there is a fair demand for Argentine and American corn, and in addition to this sales of 15,000 bushels of Ontario malting barley were made at 76c to 78c. There was some enquiry from over the cable for spring wheat flour, but millers stated that the prices bid were all out of line. Local trade is quiet and steady. Demand for mill feed continues good and the market is active with a strong undertone.

There was a better feeling in the butter market today and prices at the auction sale were ½c per pound higher than a week ago, finest creamery selling at 30¼ cents.

Cheese is quiet and firm. Eggs fairly active.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 3327 cattle, 864 hogs, 1521 sheep and lambs and 164 calves.

Butchers' Cattle.

Choice butchers' cattle sold from $8.25 to $8.40; good, at $7.90 to $8.15; medium, $6.75 to $7; common, $6 to $6.50; choice cows, $6.75 to $7; good, $6.10 to $6.50; medium cows, $5.50 to $6; canners and cutters at $3.75 to $4.60; bulls, $5 to $7, and two or three at $7.25 to $7.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

Stockers and feeders of good quality were in demand. Good to choice steers, $6.25 to $6.50; medium steers, $5.75 to $6.25; stockers, $5 to $5.50.

Milkers and Springers.

Prices were firm but unchanged, and more would have sold readily. Prices ranged from $60 to $100. The bulk sold at $70 to $85.

Veal Calves.

Prices were unchanged. Choice calves $9 to $10; good, $8 to $9; medium, $7 to $7.50; common and inferior, $4 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, light ewes, $5 to $6.75; heavy ewes and rams at $3.50 to $6; culls at $2.50 to $3.50; lambs sold all the way from $7 to $8.50; culls at $6.50 to $6.75.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, $7.25 and $7.50 weighed off cars. There were two or three lots brought 5c to 10c more money.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—At the C.P.R. Stock Yards, west end market, butchers' cattle were stronger and prices showed an advance of 15c to 25c per cwt., as compared with this day week, and canning stock is 25c to 50c higher. Trade on the whole was rather quiet. Sales of full carloads of fairly good steers were made at $7 to $7.25, and some fair stock changed hands at $6.40 to $6.75 per cwt. There was a good demand from packers for canning stock and an active trade was done in this line, with sales of bulls at $4.75 to $5, and cows at $3.90 to $4.50 per 100 pounds.

There was no further change in the condition of the market for small meats, but the feeling was very firm on account of the smaller offerings, for which there was a good demand, and sales of Ontario lambs were made at $7.60, and Quebec at $7.10, while sows changed hands at $4.50 to $4.75 per cwt. Demand for calves was good, of which the offerings were light. A much stronger feeling has prevailed in the market for hogs since last Wednesday and prices have advanced 25c to 50c per cwt. owing to the falling off in receipts. Demand was somewhat limited, with sales of selected lots at $7.60 to $7.75, sows at $5.00 to $5.75, and stags at $3.50 to $3.90 per cwt. off cars.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 7.—Cattle—Receipts, 2300; fairly active; shipping, $8.50 to $9; butchers, $8.75 to $8.50; heifers, $6.50 to $8; cows, $3.50 to $7; bulls, $4.75 to $7.50.

Veals—Receipts 700; steady; $5 to $13.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 1500; active; heavy and mixed yorkers and pigs, $8.15 to $8.25; roughs, $6.75 to $7.

Sheep—Receipts 1200; active, steady; lambs, $6 to $8.15; ewes, $5 to $7.55; cull lambs $5.50 to $6.50.

The butter production of Holland, which averages about 154,000,000 pounds a year, is so controlled by the government as to practically guarantee its purity.

TO SUCCEED WHITNEY.

WINCHESTER SPRINGS, Ont., Dec. 8.—By the comparatively small majority of 76, Irwin Hilliard, barrister, of Morrisburg, the Conservative candidate, was elected to succeed the late Sir James Whitney as Dundas member of the Ontario Legislature. His opponent, John Campbell, of Ormond, made an unexpectedly close run. Conservatives attributed the big reduction in the party majority to lack of interest, as reflected in the light vote yesterday. On June 29 last Sir James Whitney's majority was about 750.

Mountain Township gave Hilliard 161, and Matilda Township 105, Glen Stewart gave him 46 and Haddo 46.

Campbell had a lead of 49 in Morrisburg, 19 in Iroquois, 42 in Chesterville and 29 in Winchester Village.

Government Paid Fair Prices.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—That the Government dealt fairly with the owners of the lands of Halifax, which were required for the new I. C. R. terminals, is shown by the awards made by Justice Cassels in the Exchequer Court yesterday. Various disconnected properties were expropriated, and in a number of cases the owners were dissatisfied with the price offered. These appealed, and the cases were tried at Halifax last month. The total offered by the Government was $253,195, and the owners demanded $883,260. Judge Cassels awards $361,642, which shows that the valuers appointed by the Government came very near to the mark.

Bomb Dropped Into Crowd.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—A correspondent of The Central News in northwest France says:—

"In attempting to destroy a railroad station, a Taube aeroplane dropped two bombs on Hazebrouck. The first did no harm, but on returning, the aeroplane dropped a bomb on a curious crowd gathered about a hole made by the first missile, killing ten and wounding five civilians, including women and children.

Release of Admiral Unconditional.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—(By wireless to London.)—It was announced officially yesterday that the German Government, in releasing Rear Admiral Reginald Neeld, the retired British officer, on whose behalf President Wilson made representations through Ambassador Gerard, did not ask England for any equivalent concession.

PRAYERS FOR BRITISH.

First Sunday in New Year Named as Day of Intercession.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—Sunday, January 3rd, has been named as a day of special intercession and prayer for the success of the British cause, and an Order-in-Council has been passed to that effect.

It was announced last week that churches in Great Britain were observing the same Sunday as a day of prayer on behalf of the British cause, and to the memory of those who have fallen in battle.

NO LARGE ARMY FOR UNCLE SAM

President Wilson Says U.S. is Not Ready to Become a Nation of Trained Soldiers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—President Wilson this afternoon delivered a direct message to the business interests of the country. In effect, he declared that the administration has completed its business programme and that, hereafter business is to have rest from restrictive and corrective legislation. The statement was unexpected. Extremely warm applause greeted President Wilson's declaration that "we are not ready to become a nation of men trained to arms." His declaration that the country was not threatened from outside was punctuated with applause. When the President told Congress that "we never have had and we never shall have, a standing army," the Democrats and Republicans alike joined in the applause.

Inspector Says Law Is Clear

Cannot Transfer License of Mr. Corkery to Mr. Houlihan, New Proprietor of King George Hotel

As an explanation of why he is bound by the law not to transfer the liquor license to Mr. Houlihan, who is buying the King George Hotel from Mr. Corkery, License Inspector Jos. Stewart quotes the following sections from the Liquor License Act. Mr. Houlihan has paid a certain amount of the purchase price of the hotel to close the agreement between himself and Mr. Corkery, but when he applied for a transfer of the license Mr. Stewart was forced to refuse him.

(2) Every covenant, agreement, undertaking, stipulation or bargain, whether written or verbal, entered into by the holder of a tavern or shop license, or by any other person acting for or on his behalf, with any brewer, distiller, manufacturer or wholesale merchant which has the effect of imposing or is intended or purports to impose upon any such license holder any restriction whatsoever as to the person from whom or the locality in which liquor shall be purchased or supplied for sale in any tavern or shop shall be absolutely void and of no effect to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

(3) Every holder of a tavern or shop license, and every brewer, distiller, manufacturer or wholesale merchant who either by himself or by any person acting on his behalf hereafter gives or enters into or demands or requires or requests any other person to give or enter into any such covenant, contract, agreement, undertaking, stipulation or bargain shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, and shall incur a penalty of $500, besides costs.

A PIANO AND VOCAL RECITAL

The advanced pupils of Mr. J. H. Renwick will give a piano and vocal recital in the Collegiate Recital Hall Monday, Dec. 11th, at 8.15 p.m. The programme will embrace many novelties. "The Overture to William Tell" for two pianos, four performers; the famous Sextette from "Lucia De Lammermoor," "O Canada," for double quartette; Neidlinger's "Rock-a-Bye" for ladies' quartette.

The balance of the programme will consist of vocal duets, solos and piano selections. Those taking part are foremost among the clever young musicians of the City.

The full programme will appear in a later issue. The public generally is invited, as no personal invitations are being issued. Silver collection in aid of the Belgian Fund.

GERMAN ZEPPELINS DROPPED FIVE BOMBS IN THE VICINITY OF DOVER

Information by Mail That Zeppelins Flew from Ostend and Dropped Bombs From Great Height--No Damage Done, Four of the Bombs Striking the Chalk Cliffs---Aviators Rewarded With Iron Crosses.

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, December 9.—(Bulletin.)—Five bombs have been dropped by German aviators on Dover, England, only some 60 miles from London. This information reached the United Press to-day in mail advises from London.

NEW YORK, December 9.—The mailed story from London states: "When the Germans announced the raid recently and it became known that the aviators who had made the attack had been awarded iron crosses, Londoners laughed, believing the reported achievement mere fiction. But the real facts are that the Germans actually accomplished the feat, although the damage they did was trivial.

Lieut. Karl Kasper and Lieut. Richard Otto made the flight to Dover, starting from a point near Ostend. The distance from Ostend to England's famous fortified naval harbour is about 60 miles as the crow flies. Travelling at a great height they were [illegible] observed by the Dover garrison until the first bomb [illegible] small one and hit the earth works of the [illegible] Lit-[illegible] officers and men poured out of the barracks. They saw four more bombs fall and explode on the upper heights of the cliffs, away from the town, in quick succession. They also did but slight damage, and no one was killed or injured. An effort was made to bring the hostile aviators down, but the machine was at a high altitude, and none of the shots were successful. The aeroplane then rose still higher and disappeared in the direction of the Belgian coast.

AMSTERDAM, December 9.—Kaiser Wilhelm is seriously ill. Messages received here from Berlin say that the Kaiser is suffering from pneumonia and that his condition is aggravated by nervous depression. His Majesty is also declared to be suffering from continual headaches.

The Berlin messages declare that the Kaiser is extremely violent toward his advisers and others around him.

PARIS, December 9.—There was artillery fighting from the sea to the Lys during the day of December 8, according to the French official announcement given out in Paris this afternoon and all the positions occupied by the French during the past two days have been strengthened. The text of the communication follows:

"In the region of Arras and farther to the south there was nothing to report.

"All the positions won by us during the past two days have been organized and strengthened.

"In the region of the Aisne artillery exchanges and fighting by our infantry resulted in appreciable gains for us. Several German trenches were occupied; we made progress all along the front except at one single point; here the enemy blew up one of our trenches with a mine.

"On the heights of the Meuse our artillery showed itself distinctly master of the artillery of the enemy. In this region as well as in Argonne we have made progress all along the entire front and occupied several of the German trenches. The same thing happened in the forest of Lepretre. In the Vosges we repulsed several attacks to the northwest of Simones."

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Advancing along La Bassee canal, the allied forces are to-day endeavouring to push forward in this region in a general movement to gain control of the important highway from Roulers to Lille, Lens and Arras. The German resistance in this section is reported to have been greatly weakened by the heavy withdrawals of troops which have been sent to the eastern front, or distributed along other points of the western line threatened in the past week.

WORKING AT DISADVANTAGE

Owing to the failure in the power necessary to operate the type-setting machines, the news in to-day's Examiner has to be curtailed, and in some cases reports are, of necessity, omitted altogether. The circumstances were beyond the control of the Examiner, power not being available until 1 o'clock to-day.

INDUSTRY PARALYSED

By the Lack of Power Owing to the Accumulation of Frazil Ice

THE FIRE DANGER

The wheels of industry came to an abrupt standstill this morning, due to a general tie-up of the power system. Frazil ice was given as the cause. Reports from outside districts indicate that the trouble was not [illegible] ly a wheel turned in the whole district. The result in the City occasioned considerable alarm. Several million dollars' worth of property was endangered as the water supply, as well as other public utilities were suspended.

A Motor Truck.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council held a meeting this morning to discuss the emergency arising out of the power situation. They authorized the loan of a motor chemical engine, carrying two thirty-five gallon tanks for fire-fighting purposes. The Industrial Motor Truck Company of Toronto will supply the equipment. It will be forwarded by special train. The Committee also recommended that the Utilities Commission install an auxiliary plant at the pumping station.

Later in the day the Utilities Commission met. As a result of their deliberations, Mr. Wm. Kennedy, Jr., of Montreal, will be sent for, and his advice solicited respecting the installation of an auxiliary plant at the pumping station. The commisson also recommended the acceptance of the McDougall turbine pump.

At noon to-day the difficulty was removed but until the weather which is conducive to the formation of frazil ice, changes, little relief can be looked for.

Zacks Bros' Fire Sale Starts on Friday

The interruption to their business by the fire which occurred in their ready-to-wear clothing section, a few days ago, is about to be resumed by Zacks Brothers, with a Rousing Fire Sale, which will commence on Friday, Dec. 11th. On that day Messrs. Zacks Brothers promise a stir in Men's and Women's Clothing and Furnishings, Millinery, House Furnishings, Furniture, etc., that has never been equalled in Peterborough before. Goods are not fire or water damaged, but may have a slight smell of smoke, and wonderful bargains are to be the order in all sections of the store. See their big announcement in Thursday's paper and wait for it.

HER BROTHER WAS LOST WITH THE GOOD HOPE

Mrs. Thos. Hall Has Received Word of Death of Sailor Relative

Mrs. Thos. Hall, Union Street, has received word that her brother, Alfred Marshall, was lost in the sinking of the Good Hope. He was a petty officer and had been in the navy fifteen years.

THREE GERMAN CRUISERS WERE SUNK YESTERDAY

British Navy Strikes a Blow at the Strength of the Kaiser's Fleet—No British Ships Were Sunk

LONDON, Dec. 9.—It is announced officially here to-day that the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig were sunk on Dec. 8th, in the South Atlantic Ocean, off the Falkland Islands by the British Squadron, under Vice Admiral Sturdee. The cruisers Dresden and Nurnberg escaped and are being pursued. Two German colliers were captured. The British casualities in the battle were few and no ships were lost. This announcement was made at 7.57 p.m., (London time) this evening. The statement says: "The Scharnhorst was flying the flag of Admiral Von Spee, when she went down. Some German survivors were rescued. The Sturdee reports that the Germans fought valiantly and went down with colours flying."

PATRIOTIC FUND CAMPAIGN GOES MERRILY AHEAD

Committees Are Hard at Work and Donations Are Coming in Fast--Some Splendid Contributions Encouraged the Canvassers--Watch the Thermometer Go Up.

The magnificent meeting in the Opera House last night was an incentive to the friends of the fund to get to work early to-day and put life and vim into the canvass. The addresses were fine. All were helpful. In fitting words the speakers brought home to the audience the horrors of the war and the urgency of the situation as well as the need for large relief funds. [illegible] the local papers. The campaign is just for the three days concerned with details of giving and getting.

The announcement in the committee rooms that the Canadian General Electric Co. had made the fine subscription of $1,000 was a cheering one. This amount is for the benefit of the local relief. It will be put away where it can be handy to do the most good. The statement following, that Mr. E. A. Peck had given $500 as his subscription, was received with cheers until the tables rattled. It was simply fine. Mr. Peck gives from a sense of duty, that is in line with his conception of duty as a citizen. Few better men than Peck.

Other subscriptions rolled in. A good one from Mr. W. G. Ferguson was good to look upon. The local agency of the Bank of Montreal sent $100. The head office has already given $100,000 to the Dominion Fund.

It may be added that the Canadian General Electric Co. has also given $30,000 to the Dominion Fund, has equipped a corps of engineers and sent them to the field and will pay all salaries while these men are on duty. Good for the company. Just what one would look for it to do.

Canvassers were given the suggestion to let no man presumably guilty escape. That is guilty of having money even in small amount. All should help.

Read Bros., of the cleaning and pressing establishment on Rubidge Street, write to say that the firm will donate to the fund ten per cent. of the gross receipts each month. Any one of the officials of the local organization is invited to call once each month and run over the books and share up. Good for you, gentlemen, but we will take your patriotic word for it.

Bonner-Worth Co. employees send in the regular contribution of something like fifteen dollars. The fund will climb if we can only get enough of just such subscriptions and from such real loyal hearts.

The Licensed Victuallers send in a "wad" that totals a trifle over $700. Good for the craft. They can be relied to do a liberal share and hold up their end.

The Cressman Co. announce that one day's pay of all hands will go to the fund. Fine. Other stores will do the same. With enough stores and enough day's pay the fund would be assured.

Funny incident of the Montreal fund-raising campaign. A man could give no money. He had two horses and gave one. Put up at auction Mr John Gunn secured the steed at $500 as the boys say, sight-unseen. On inspection some one discovered that the alleged horse was a mare. The sale was on this ground declared void virtue, or some other legal quirk, and the animal put up again. Not to be denied and to prove that he had said Mr. Gunn bid in the charger for another $500. And yet we say the quality and price of horses is decreasing. Away with such reckless statements.

Watch the big thermometer at the [illegible] the fund as it climbs. [illegible] It will [illegible] monometer never goes down. Was not constructed with any such end in view. No provision was made for such contingency. So the red streak will rise to the top until $50,000 is reached and a little over for good measure. Throw a little fuel on the fire under the bulb.

Busy, did you ask. Verily, friend. Take one hundred active, hopeful men, all in a big hurry to get cards assorted, names tabulated to the taste of each. There is ever some one man who may better and more successfully approached by one than another. Pick out the man who knows he can handle the subject and to the job. All makes for success.

Some smart Aleck who wished to offer excuse for not contributing demanded to know what had become of the balance of the South African Fund, raised eight or nine years ago. Said, in a reckless way, that it had been corralled by the government and used for election purposes. Did not say which government, for he never knew.

For the information of the friends and to the extinguishment of all knockers know ye, that the balance of the fund, amounting to about $70,000, was turned over to the Canadian Patriotic Fund on its organization. It had been, that is the South African Fund, held all these years in trust. Put to a good purpose, don't you think. Surely. Another one nailed. The barn door will be covered presently.

The Peterborough Cereal Company make the fine subscription of one hundred bags of Reindeer flour, and stipulate, which is quite right, that it be distributed by the committee for the benefit of families of soldiers who have gone to the war from Peterborough and vicinity.

Still a few more are coming in. Mr. T. F. Matthews makes a personal subscription of $500. The firm of Matthews-Blackwell Co. have done liberally in addition. The Matthews' employees have given the day's wage and the handsome result is nearly $300.

Adjt. McElhinney addressed a meeting of the C. G. E. Co. employees during the noon hour to-day. He is putting the case as only the Adjutant can put it, and the results will be seen in the spasmodic and permanent rise in the line of the big thermometer.

Some large sums are held over. These the committees are after. They will hang on and if absolutely get a bailiff's warrant to bring the hesitants to line.

Brampton town has done itself proud. Not a doubt of it. It is pledged to contribute $4,000 a year so long as the war lasts. The first day of the collections brought in nearly $3,000, and all given in moderate amounts.

SPLENDID SPEECHES AT BIG MEETING

The Opera House was crowded last night to hear the Hon. W. T. White Minister of Finance for the Dominion; Rev. Father Minehan of Toronto, and Lt.-Col. Ponton of Belleville, speak in the interests of the Patriotic Fund. A large portion of Peterborough's patriotism was concentrated at the Opera House, and the speakers were given an enthusiastic reception. If, as Col. Ponton expressed it, the vibrant enthusiasm of last night's audience is translated into action and deed, there should be little difficulty in realising the $50,000 aimed at by the members of the patriotic Association. The meeting was of a nature born of the grave and serious position of Canada as a part of the British Empire, to-day. It was far removed from any party gathering or assemblage called together while the country was pursuing the ordinary routine of peace and prosperity, and had for a setting the realisation that the meeting was, after all, a result of the Empire being at war, a consequence of the sending of thousands of the most virile of Canadian men as an offering to the Mother Country for her Dominion beyond the sea. The questions to be faced were of national import, and the problems discussed were of world-wide importance, but they were handled in a masterly fashion by the speakers, who made a profound and evident impression. The addresses were given the closest attention of [illegible] of applause that [illegible] the absolute silence of the audience, between these outbursts,) testified to what complete extent the interest of those present had followed, and that the sympathy of all had been extended to the remarks of the visiting speakers.

Mayor Buller presided at the meeting, and with the chairman and speakers on the platform there were a number of those most interested in the campaign, including the Rev. R. J. Webb, H. B. Cowan, W. Stocker, Ald. W. J. Johnston, Rev. R. G. Peever, Ald. J. J. Duffus, H. Winch, D. M. Minicola, Adjt. McElhiney, D. O'Connell, E. T. Goodwill, Col. J. W. Miller, Ald. G. H. Duncan, W. A. Howard, J. S. Knapman, J. Lundy, B. D. Hall, Rev. Jas. Rollins, R. J. Kidd, G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., H. Rush, B. Shortley, Geo. Buth, G. O. Cameron, J. H. Burnham, M.P., Rev. Canon Davidson, H. Buchanan, Jas. Kendry, W. H. Dunsford, J. M. Greene, J. T. Braund, J. Nugent, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, Dr. M. A. Morrison, A. F. Tomlins, W. C. Austen, F. D. Kerr, H. G. Walker, S. R. Armstrong, C. E. Jamieson, Ald. Joseph Saunders, Ald. McIntyre, Mr. E. A. Peck, ex-M.P.P., A. W. Cressman, F. M. DelaFosse and A. Moore. The Peterborough Home Guard was present en masse.

Mr. E. Hanrahan rendered a splendid solo, "The King," in a manner and voice befitting the subject of the song. He was given an ovation and so fulfilled the expectations of the audience that he was forced to return and repeat a part of the rendition.

Mayor Buller introduced the Hon. W. T. White. In opening, Mr. White said he would be lacking indeed in courtesy if he did not at once acknowledge the warmth of his reception. "I take this opportunity, too," he said, "of complimenting your Home Guard, which I inspected a short time ago. I tender to the Home Guard the tribute of my regard for their military bearing and the spirit which prompted them to offer themselves for military training at this critical juncture of the nation's history."

"The fact is," said the speaker, "England wanted peace and Germany wanted war." In the past twenty years Germany had built up the greatest fighting machine the world had ever seen and had created the second greatest navy in the world. She had prepared herself by land and by sea for the day when she would challenge the supremacy of Great Brtain. Germany's conception of national honour and Britains' conception of national honour were two different things.

When Russia mobilised her army Germany thought her hour had come. Her hour had come, but not the hour of her triumph; it was the hour of her defeat and her doom. The neutral nations had weighed the evidence and found against Germany. True she had one ally—as Lloyd George said, also an exponent of the higher culture—Turkey.

Continuing, the Hon. Mr. White said that the duties of a minister were at all times onerous. Since the outbreak of the war they had been arduous and exacting in the extreme. The hours of the days and the nights had been filled with the consideration of matters of the gravest importance and responsibility. The large gathering here was a proof of the intense patriotic interest which its citizens had in the appalling struggle for which the Empire is now engaged, not only for its own preservation, but literally and truly for the cause of human freedom throughout the world. Four months of the war had passed and we are able to consider its incidents in better scale and proportion than was possible at the time of their occurrence. It is by far the greatest war in the history of the world. We have to revise the old standards of battle encampments, both by sea and land. It is also the most inexpressibly wicked war of the ages, and the question arose at the beginning and has been canvassed to the uttermost, who is responsible for all this outpouring of blood, this unutterable woe, pain, grief, anguish, desolation and destruction which it has caused, and is destined still to cause. The conscience of the world has been profoundly shocked; there have been heart-searchings of the nations as never before. Briefs have been filed and arguments addressed to the neutral nations, as to a jury. There is endorsement to humanity in this because it shows that nations do recognize the [illegible] an international [illegible], a moral [illegible] in the [illegible] The causes leading to the war are now for the historian. The immediate duty is to fight, not to theorize. Two things, however, are plain. Great Britain strove to avert the war. Germany had the power to avert the war, but declined to exercise it. Had Germany raised her hand in protest to Austria there would have been no war. Germany wanted war. She was prepared. She thought her hour had struck. The German people had been taught to believe in their invincibility. Prussian militarism had obtained their toleration of autocratic government, and the crushing burden of armaments by feeding their fancy upon dreams of national grandeur, founded upon material force. Their aspiration, under Prussian influence, was nothing less than the conquest and domination of the world. And by perversion they had come to believe that such domination would be for the world's good. The clear fact is that Germany had long meditated war against Britain, and had prepared to the utmost of her power against the day. She coveted Britain's possessions. She envied Britain's prestige and glory. That she would strike in time was certain. Germany had counted on civil war in Ireland, revolt in India and South Africa, secession by Canada, Australia and New Zealand. If such conclusions were the product of intellectuality, let us pray to be preserved from the higher learning. In reviewing the war, the position, as it exists to-day, must be considered in the light of Germany's intentions and expectations. The essential principle of German strategy is force and action. Weight of men and artillery and the offensive — always the offensive. Their plan was to hold Russia by containing force, to hurl their legions irresistibly through Belgium upon the unprepared forces of France, to overwhelm them in open battle or force their capitulation in fortresses. Should the 'contemptible little British army' appear they would drive it into the sea. With France prostrate they would turn their attention to Russia and similarly overwhelm her. To accomplish this strategy rapidity of action was absolutely essential. Their calculations have signally failed. In outraged Belgium they encountered the most heroic resistance of modern times. To-day they are on the defensive on the west, fighting at the maximum distance from their base while France and Britain are close to theirs. By spring Kitchener and Joffre will have overwhelming forces to press the retreat to Germany if it has not begun before. Our Canadian troops will probably be in the decisive engagements of the war. On sea every day had been a victory for the navy. Germany's foreign commerce had been destroyed. She had been driven from the Orient. Notwithstanding all this, the war would probably be long. The forcing back of Germany's legions from west and east beyond her own frontiers would be slow, bloody and costly. She was almost self-sustaining. By adopting a lower

Attaining of a certain and adequate total of the Patriotic Fund is in every way commendable and desirable. That, however, is not all—its administration, its effective distribution, a distribution that will be just and fair, without being injudicious, that would not ignore the deserving nor benefit the undeserving is to be aimed at. Above all the moral consideration should not be lost sight of. Mr. John Riddell, one of our most level-headed citizens in a communication to The Examiner, takes the position that the disbursement of the Patriotic Fund, "should be as far removed from any appearance of "charity" as the east is from the west." He holds that the beneficiaries of the fund should be placed in a position in which they should be able to claim their share as a right—as it is a right—not as a favour; that the distributing agent should have the status of a paymaster rather than of a charity relief officer. Mr. Riddell suggests that a list should be made of those who have a claim on the fund, and that payment should be made by cheque, payable to the order of the beneficiary, and that a regular pay-day should be fixed. This he holds would bring the matter to a business basis and defer to the sensibilities of many who would rather suffer than take anything that, in the least, savoured of "charity"—in its depreciatory sense. And these are of the very class from as many sources as they can sideration. There are many who are willing to take charity and take it from as many sources as they can scheme to impose upon, and therefore have little sensibility to offend. Getting the Patriotic contribution is not all any more than casting a bullet is all—it must get to the mark to be of the greatest good.

THE FALCONER FUSS.

Toronto is apt to get excited over things of something less than imperial importance. Not long ago Major-General Sam Hughes did some plain talking in criticism of the alarmist tendency of the citizens, and forthwith Tory Toronto, which would as soon vote for a German as a Grit, kicked over the traces and demanded our War Minister's head on a charger. Now President Falconer is coming under fire for his refusal to incontinently kick out of their chairs three Germans who hold professional positions in the Provincial University; and we even have the story that the police threaten to clap Prof. Falconer in irons if he doesn't Germanize the German professors according to the cult of force that the Kaiser practices on Belgium. There is such a thing as being reasonable in demand and sane in attitude. Theoretically it is not the thing to have German professors pumping culture of the German brand into Canadian youths; but do these blacklisted German professors show any signs of using their influence to promote German interests and consequently antagonize Canadian and imperial interest? If they do not commit any overt act; if they confine themselves to fair discharge of their pedagogic duties, they are within their rights in sticking to their posts. In this connection the Toronto Star quotes an order-in-council made by the Borden Government which seems to apply to the situation. It reads:

"All persons in Canada of German or Austro-Hungarian nationality, so long as they quietly pursue their ordinary avocations, shall be allowed to continue to enjoy the protection of the law, and be accorded the respect and consideration due to peaceful and law-abiding citizens, and that they be not arrested, detained, or interfered with unless there is reasonable ground to believe that they are engaged in espionage, or engaging or attempting to engage in acts of a hostile nature, or are giving or attempting to give information to the enemy, or unless they otherwise contravene the law."

Thus, so long as the Germans concerned in this matter and other citizens of enemy countries, now domiciled in Canada, behave themselves and refrain from acts or expressed inclination to acts contrary to public interests, they are according to the spirit of the order-in-council, to be left in undisturbed enjoyment of the protection of the law. We may not consistently in the effort to uphold the interests of British institutions doev their spirit by acting with a rashness and disregard of decent feeling, which would bring us within range of the practice of German methods. There is nothing in German ethics or practice that Canadians can imitate, and while some in Toronto, or elsewhere, may be inclined to demand the pound of flesh, they should address themselves to avoidance of German methods. The shining virtue of the Germans is lying; the dissemination of false news and reports. Toronto has already offended in this way. A report was pumped to the effect that a Toronto detective was on the trail of President Falconer ready to arrest him for high treason. According to the detective quoted, the whole story is imaginary. He made no statement as alleged, to that effect. We may well be given to reasonable precaution, but not to panic. We have too great actualities to confront, too serious duties to meet, to justify dispersion of effort in dealing with remote eventualities. In a war which we are helping to wage in the interests of justice and human right, we should as far as consistent, with reasonable safety, refrain from any course that would be inconsistent with these principles. Hon. W. T. White, at last night's meeting in the Opera House, truly said that "the German idea of government was the supremacy of the state; but the British idea was the supremacy of the individual." Freedom, not force, is the British ideal. The man's the thing; not the machine.

"WHITE COAL" NOT THE WHOLE.

We plume ourselves with a good deal of justification upon the triumphs of "white coal"—electricity—over that old stand-by the "black diamond"—coal. Yet we have evidence that white coal has its limitations. To-day, for six or eight hours, industry was knocked out, paralyzed, beaten to a "frazil." Every wheel in the city that depended upon electricity as a motive power was idle, and the interruption to industrial and other occupations, was serious for the moment. Thousands of workmen lost a half day's pay. If the people notice that their daily paper to-night is not quite up to the daily mark, he can put the blame on the lack of electric power. The type-setting machines could not get to work, till a little before one o'clock this afternoon; instead of working from seven o'clock. It would be difficult to accurately and fully estimate the loss sustained in various ways. While the reader may put the blame on lack of power as the immediate criminal, the real blame can be put upon lack of prevision or lack of enterprise, or failure of duty on the part of those responsible for the continuous operations of water powers as generating media. Science seems to be unable to overcome the menace that, under certain meterological conditions, clogs the wheels. It looks as if we shall have "frazil" or "anchor ice," like the poor, always with us; and it would seem to be a mark of wisdom and capacity to provide auxiliary steam plants, for use in cases of emergency. The cost might be considerable, but it might be easily possible, that loss, in wages and filling of orders, etc., might easily in a few days amount to much more than the cost of an auxiliary plant.

If such a provision is demanded in the case of electric generation operations, it is much more called for in the case where water power is the sole dependence, as in a direct pumping system of water supply. In default of a gravitation reservoir, an auxiliary steam plant seems to be indispensable. Not to speak of the industrial and domestic inconvenience caused by failure of water supply, the danger of being placed at the mercy of fire without means to combat it, assumes a very large importance. An uncontrolled and, without water, a practically uncontrollable fire might do in five minutes damage far in excess of the cost of an auxiliary steam plant. And might not insurance companies, with a premium rate based on guaranteed water efficiency, in case of a fire with losses running into large figures, be inclined to regard askance claims for losses due to preventible causes, and consequently contributory negligence? It would seem that the matter would bear a little practical thinking over.

REFUGE FOR THE HOMELESS.

Louvain University and L'Independence Belge, the leading Belgian daily, have now been moved to England. The university is carrying on its lectures in connection with Oxford, while the Belgian daily is being published in London. Britain is doing to-day what she has done for centuries—providing a refuge for the destitute and homeless.—Journal of Commerce.

GERMAN OFFICER PICTURES HORRORS SEEN ON YSER

What the German soldiers endured in the course of their repeated efforts to pierce the Allies' front in Belgium is shown vividly in a diary found on the body of a German officer who was slain in one of the assaults upon the position held by the Belgian army on the Yser. Under the title, "Trois Jours sur l'Yser," an extract from the diary was translated and issued from the Belgian army headquarters. Forwarded by the wife of a Belgian officer residing in London, the extract was published in the London Morning Post as follows:

"October 24.—The fight continues. We are trying to get to the other side of the Yser. At a quarter to six o'clock a.m. we start. There are works and pontoons to prepare. We set out then quickly across the ground in front of us, across ditches and under a severe fire from the enemy. A spent bullet hits me in the back, below the neck, but I am not wounded. We take up a position near the Vandewoode farm, where we take shelter from the fierce artillery fire. Terrible situation. Seeking cover, we arrive at the fifth trench. There the fussilade increases.

"We know nothing of the general situation. I have no idea where the enemy is nor what his strength is, and there is no means of obtaining information. In the other lines there are also heavy losses, which are not at all in proportion to the result that we achieve. The enemy's artillery is too strong and too well sheltered, and as it is not reduced by our weaker artillery an advance of the infantry is without effect, and only produces heavy and useless losses.

Their Food Insufficient.

"The rescue of the wounded, too, leaves much to be desired. At Dixmude more than forty wounded remained on the ground without any care. The ambulance companies are kept ineffectively behind the Yser. It is impossible to receive regularly water and provisions. For many days we have not tasted a hot meal. The bread and the other things are scarcely sufficient, and the reserve rations are exhausted. The water is bad, quite green, but one drinks it all the same, for we can get no other. Man is reduced to the condition of the beast. As for me, I have nothing more to eat, for I have left everything in the saddle on my horse. There has really been no proper arranging of what we were to do on this side of the Yser, and they have not told us that our horses were to remain on the right bank; that is why we are not provided for. I live on what comrades wish to give me, and the share is small. Change of clothes or linen is out of the question, and I am in an incredible plight. On all sides farms and villages are in flames. What a sad sight, this beautiful district in ruins, strewn with wounded and dead!

"October 25. — A comparatively calm night. The safety of the bridge over the Yser has been secured. The fight continues throughout the whole day. We do not receive definite orders. One would not say it was Sunday. The contest of infantry and artillery continues, but without any result. Nothing but losses! They are going to ask that our right wing should form a connection with the Sixth Division of the Third Reserve Army Corps.

"October 26.—The night was terrible. Frightful storm and rain. I was nearly frozen standing with my feet in water. An interrupted fusilade directed against us. They are going to build a fixed bridge over the Yser, for one bridge has again been destroyed by the enemy's artillery. The position is the same as on the preceding day. No progress, in spite of incessant fighting, in spite of the booming of the guns and the cries of human beings uselessly sacrificed. The infantry cannot produce any effect until the artillery has destroyed the opposing guns. The losses must be enormous everywhere.

All in Confusion.

"We have not had yet an opportunity of taking off our boots or of having a wash. The Sixth Division is ready, but its help is ineffective. The situation is no longer clear as it was before; we learn nothing. We are going again to occupy the wet trenches. Our regiment is mixed up with other regiments in inextricable fashion. Not a battalion, not a company knows where its other units are. Everything is in confusion under this terrible fire, which enfilades us on all sides. . . . Our former regiment is completely dispersed.

"The situation is terrible. To be shot at without ceasing, and to know nothing of the enemy nor of one's own troops. It is to be hoped that the position will become clearer soon. There is no ground for hoping to be able to go into cantonments.

"This state of things cannot go on long. I am in despair. The battalion is commanded by Captain May. I have been obliged to undertake the duties of quartermaster, which is not easy in the terrific position in which we are. It is necessary in the dark night to let the soldiers go a distance for provisions for their comrades. They have brought, too, cards and letters from those whom we love. What a consolation in the pitiful situation in which we are! But as we cannot strike a light we have to put them in our pockets until the following morning without having read the consoling words. Again we pass the night on the straw, pressing against one another to keep ourselves warm. It is frightfully cold and wet. Suddenly a violent fusillade obliges us to prepare for the fight, and we get ready, shivering and chilled.

"October 27.—At dawn I take advantage of a moment's respite to read the good wishes which come to me from home. What joy! But soon the illusion vanishes. The situation remains obscure. We cannot think of advancing."

A TWO-EDGED SWORD.

A holy war is a two-edged sword for the Kaiser and the Sultan to play with. The aid of Turkey and the Sheik-ul-Islam would be dearly bought by Germany if the Shiek's fetwa should force Italy to abandon her neutrality and throw in her lot with the allies.—New York Tribune.

A CAVALRY CHARGE.

"Into it! Into it! Into it! Into it!"
Chorus the hoofs in their rythmical thundering.
Trooper and charger we're making a sprint to it,
Now for the hacking and slashing and sundering!
Snarling machine guns are vomiting lead at us,
Little white smoke-clouds of powder around us,
Hell's hottest corner is blasing ahead of us!
Faith, it'll take more than that to be stopping us!

Look at the colonel, he's riding so straight to it,
Just as he followed the hounds with the best of 'em,
He never looked for a place with a gate to it;
He will be in at the death with the rest of 'em.
Horses are falling and comrades are lost to us.
Well, we'll have plenty of Prussians to show for 'em!
Never a man who will reckon the cost to us
While there's so much as a trooper to go for 'em!

Here on our flank are the Frenchies who ride with us
Vowing, I'll swear, as they sweep side by side with us,
Vengeance for all the invaders has done to them.
Out on the bounds who are burning and plundering!
There lies our goal and be sure we shall win to it,
Oh! but it's music our hoof-beats are thundering,
"Into it! Into it! Into it! Into it!"

—TOUCHSTONE.

A Darky's Skull.

A bricklayer in the South hired a helper who was a darky noted for his particularly hard head. The bricklayer thought he would test the hardness of his skull. So, the first morning, while the helper was filling his pipe at the bottom of the ladder, the bricklayer up a floor or two flicked a bit of mortar down on the dusky pate. The darky never noticed it at all.

Then the bricklayer took a brick and dropped that down. Bang! It landed square on the coloured man's skull.

The darky removed his pipe from his mouth and scowled up at the bricklayer.

"What's the matter with yo'?" he growled. "Be careful where yo' drop dat mortar!"—Ex.

REAL ESTATE AND BUSINESS CARDS

Saved by Ready Wit.

The late Emperor Alexander of Russia tried hard to put a stop to alcoholism in his army, especially among his officers. Whenever a case of inebriety came to his notice he ordered summary punishment of the offender.

One evening an officer of the guards decidedly the worse for liquor was driving home in an open droshky. Suddenly, to his utter terror, he saw the czar in his open carriage coming from the opposite direction. Motioning the officer's driver to stop and stopping his own carriage, the emperor exclaimed in an angry tone:

"Major X., what are you doing here?"

Pulling himself together, partly sobered by the czar's presence, the officer stood up, saluted and replied, with shaky voice:

This presence of mind and ready wit pleased the emperor so much that he pardoned the officer there and then.—London Strand.

"STRUGGLE IS HOLY"

German Preachers Call on All to Fight for the Kaiser—No Pity For Germany's Enemies

ONLY FIGHTERS LIVE

PARIS, Dec. 9.—"Holy War" is being preached in every church in Germany. Mystic, exalting services are held, marked by devout thanksgiving for German feats of arms and supplications to the Almighty for the Kaiser's triumph. A neutral journalist, describing one of their services which he attended in the Berlin cathedral, says: "The interior was black with people, mainly wounded soldiers and women, and the aisles were lined with officers in glittering uniforms. After thousands of voices had intoned the Hosannah, the priest delivered the following sermon: 'Brethren, beyond our Empire the barbarian hordes have gathered their forces to storm the black eagles and destroy the great, strong, fruitful, German people, of whom they are jealous.

"'This war has been forced on us. The exterminating sword has been thrust into our hands. If thou wouldst live—fight. Who fights not, lives not. Across the bloody battlefield thou shalt finally witness the dawn of a new and radiant Germany, grateful to her sons.

"'Our brothers, fathers and husbands are over there, rifle in hand, ready to thrust the avenging sword of our beloved Kaiser into the enemy's flank. You German women must be courageous. It is yours to pray and to exalt the bravery of your men-folk.

"'This is a holy war, wherein no little act of devotion is lost. Nothing is too much for our iron Kaiser. There must be no pardon, no pity for Germany's enemies. The supreme recompense which a German soldier places above everything else is when, stricken by the enemy's blows, he sees the Kaiser pass before him and hears him say, "I am pleased with thee; thou art my worthy son".'"

This same sermon, delivered in an impressive and dramatic manner, the correspondent continues, "is preached in every corner of Germany."

Close to the Berlin cathedral war trophies are massed in the square, including twelve Russian guns, whither the congregation makes a pilgrimage after the service. Immense crowds gather in front of the Crown Prince's Palace, where two French guns stand.

TO ASSERT THEIR RIGHTS

Neutral Nations of Western Hemisphere Form a Committee

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Twenty nations of the western hemisphere yesterday expressed their disapproval of the effects of operations of the European belligerents in the waters of the two Americas and appointed a commission of diplomats to formulate practical steps contemplating a more vigorous assertion of the rights of neutrals.

Gathered in the magnificent pan-American union building, the diplomatic representatives of the American republics urged united action by the nations of this hemisphere to restore trade and remove some of the burdens placed on commerce by the European war. It was the first international conference of neutral nations which had assembled in any part of the globe respective of its possible accomplishments during the present conflict was regarded as the birth of a new movement in international law for the definition of the right of the neutral as opposed to the right of the belligerent.

Underlying the several speeches made by the diplomats was a note of warning that the presence of belligerent warships in the western hemisphere already had produced grave complications between American nations and European powers, demonstrating the vital need of pan-American solidarity.

Secretary Bryan made the opening speech, pointing out that the U. S. sympathized deeply with the plight of its neighboring republic and declaring the innocent nations should not be forced to suffer for the acts of the belligerents.

A BLOODLESS VICTORY.

French Fleet Has Accomplished Its Task and Is Intact.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The mastery of the seas has been realized by the allied fleets, declares the French Minister of Marine, in an interview given to the "Petit Parisien."

"The commercial fleets of the enemy countries, Germany and Austria," he says, "representing twenty-five per cent. of the world's maritime trade has been annihilated.

"These results have been obtained without fighting. We could have destroyed the defenceless seacoast towns of Triest and Ragusa, but we are not Germans.

"The French fleet has accomplished its task and four months after the outbreak of the war, it is absolutely intact, awaiting future battles fearless of any foe."

Austrians Retiring.

ROME, Dec. 9.—Following the resumption of the offensive by the Servian armies, under the leadership of King Peter in person, the Austrians are retiring to the north, says a despatch from Nish to the Messagero. The Servians have recaptured Tabian and Sarober and are now marching on Valgevo.

"Fear Not! Ye Women and Children"

Let every man of us cry this from the very housetops to the mothers, sisters, wives and children of the soldiers we are sending to the front. Well may we spring to the care of these dependents. Well may every instinct within us thrill to this call for contributions

Wednesday, Thursday Friday December 9-10-11

GIVE! GIVE! GIVE!

$50,000

IN THREE DAYS

Wednesday, Thursday Friday December 9-10-11

Shall our women and innocent children, who give their protectors for the cause of Britain and humanity, find any lack of British chivalry and British humanity here at home? A thousand times, "NO!" Every soldier who goes to the front leaves his women and children as a sacred trust with his fellow citizens and no Canadian will disregard his personal obligation.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY AND FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 10 AND 11, ARE THE DAYS WHEN A PERSONAL CANVASS OF THE CITY WILL BE MADE BY 100 LEADING CITIZENS IN TEN TEAMS OF WORKERS UNDER EFFICIENT CAPTAINS. BE READY TO CHEER THEIR WORK AND SWELL THE FUND — YOUR FUND. THINK WHAT A NOBLE ACT WILL BE HANDED DOWN TO POSTERITY. GIVE! GIVE! GIVE!

IT IS NOT GIVEN TO US ALL TO GO TO WAR. IT IS NOT GIVEN TO US ALL TO WORK FOR THIS FUND. BUT IT IS THE PRIVILEGE OR EVERYONE TO MEET THE CALL UPON HIM FOR MONEY IN THE NAME OF THESE REPENDENT WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

The organization for handling this fund has been carefully considered. It will be expended under a most thorough system. Every case will be investigated and overlapping will be avoided.

The Idea of the Canadian Patriotic Fund is This:

The soldiers have gone to fight, not for their home town or for any particular locality, but for all Canada.

The whole of Canada should combine to take proper care of their families.

The fund is one Fund, and in each locality is administered by the local branch.

In Peterborough, for instance, families of the soldiers will be looked after by the local branch acting for the National Association.

All the families throughout Canada will receive aid on the same basis, and none will be neglected.

This is a sensible and patriotic plan. Peterborough will fall in line. Do all you can, but do it now.

The Local, or Contingent Relief Side of the Peterborough Patriotic Fund is for the purpose of aiding families who may be in need owing to the war, through lack of work.

There are many such, and will be more.

They must be judiciously aided and not want.

ONLY TWO ARE SAVED

British Steamer Vedra Has Gone Ashore

BARROW, Dec. 9.—(Via London.)—The British steamer Vedra, from Port Arthur, Texas, with a cargo of gasoline, went ashore near here yesterday morning in a heavy gale.

The cargo ignited, and of the crew of 36 men on board the Vedra only two were saved and they were severely burned.

The steamer Vedra left Port Arthur for London Nov. 13, and passed Norfolk on the 21st. She was reported as passing Tuskar, in the Irish Sea, which would indicate that she had changed her destination and was bound for some port on the west coast of England.

The Vedra was under the command of Capt. Brewster. She was built in 1893 at Sunderland, England, was of 4,057 tons and belonged to the Associated Oil Carriers' Co. of London.

So suddenly did the fire break out when the vessel grounded that only four of the ship's company had time to reach her weather side. These were the chief engineer and three sailors.

Reaching the weather side of the vessel, the chief engineer gave the three seamen with him lifebelts he had picked up in his flight, and mounting the rail, plunged headlong into the sea, trusting to his ability as a swimmer to reach a tug which was endeavoring to pull off the Vedra. The engineer had taken only two or three strokes when a huge wave picked him up and dashed him against the side of the steamer, killing him.

Two of the seamen immediately followed the engineer, and swam until they were picked up, but in doing so were badly burned. The other seaman, unable to swim, feared to take the plunge, and was burned to death where he stood.

A VAIN PROMISE.

German Official Says South Africa Will Escape If She Behaves.

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—(By wireless to London.)—Dr. Solfa, the Secretary of Colonies, states that the German Government does not intend to permanently occupy the South African Union. Germany desires, he says, that the hostilities which were forced upon her by the South African Union shall cease.

Dr. Solfa further declares that if the Union Government abstains from further hostilities against German territory, and if the territory which has been invaded is evacuated, so that the South Africans may establish a neutral state, Germany would officially recognize this condition, and would respect the territorial integrity and political importance of the neutral state.

STATION MUST GO.

Colombian Government Orders Removal of Wireless Plant.

Cartagena is a Colombian seaport in the Department of Bolivar, on a small, sandy peninsula connected with the continent by an artificial neck of land. The operation of a wireless station there has been the subject of energetic protests by the British Government, which contended that the plant was being operated by Germans for the transmission of news to German warships. The Under Secretary of the Colonial Department, Charles Roberts, stated that unless this was brought about the allies might be compelled to take further steps for the protection of their interests. The United States Government stated that it was willing that Britain should deal directly with Colombia concerning alleged violations of neutrality, but so far as has been announced no further steps were taken by the British Government.

SEEKING GERMAN FLEET.

TOKIO, Dec. 9.—Vice-Admiral Rokuro Yashiro, Minister of Marine, touching on the war in a speech in the Diet yesterday, said:

"While the war in Europe endures, the Japanese navy's duties will continue. In the meantime our fleet, in conjunction with a British fleet, seeks the Germans in South American waters."

Off For South Africa.

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 9.—Authentic information has been received here to the effect that the German fleet, finding itself outnumbered, has left these waters for South Africa. The report said the Germans were outnumbered by the British and that Japanese warships were coming around from the Pacific.

French Get 1870 Flag.

PARIS, Dec. 9.— An official announcement says:—

"By the order of Emperor Nicholas, a French flag which was captured from the firemen of Trasneo in 1870 has been handed over to the French Embassy at Petrograd.

Taube Brought Down.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—A German taube aeroplane which flew over Bar Le Duc Monday was brought down near Chaumont by a shell from a seventy-five millimetre gun. The three German aviators were incinerated.

German Army Trains Destroyed.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 9. — News has been received of a terrible collision between two German army trains loaded with lyroxilin and shells in the government of Kielce. Both trains were utterly destroyed. There was not a single survivor of the explosion, which was so terrific that it was heard over thirty miles away.

ADVANCE IS MADE

German Attacks on Town of St. Eloy Have Been Repulsed Says Official Communique

KAISER IS ILL

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Increased activity of the Germans along the River Yser and near Ypres was reported in the official statement given out in Paris yesterday afternoon. The report tells of the capture of Vermelles, recently reported as having been effected by a brilliant French attack and also of gains in the forest region.

The following official communication was issued by the French War Office last night:—

"In Belgium a violent German attack on St. Eloy, south of Ypres, has been repulsed. The struggle at all times is very lively in the forests and to the east of Argonne.

"There is no other notable incident to report."

The following official statement was issued by the War Office in the afternoon:—

"Throughout the day of the 7th the enemy showed himself more active than on the previous day in the region of the Yser and in the neighborhood of Ypres. Our artillery, however, replied with success to all attacks.

"In the region of Arras a very brilliant attack placed us, as we have already announced, in possession of Vermelles. Vermelles has been for nearly two months the theatre of a fierce struggle. The enemy took possession of it on Oct. 16, and from Oct. 21 to 25 he succeeded in forcing us back in that locality. Ever since Oct. 25 our sapping and mining operations have brought us foot by foot up to its very outskirts, and on Dec. 1 we carried the park and chateau.

"In the region of the Aisne and Champagne a few artillery duels have taken place. Our heavy artillery dispersed several formations of the enemy.

"In the Argonne, in the forest of La Grurie, and to the northwest of Post-a-Mousson, in the forest of Le Pretre, we have gained some ground.

"Along the rest of the front there is nothing to report."

The official statement issued by the German military headquarters, and sent from Berlin by wireless, says that the bad condition of the roads on the coast of Flanders, due to torrential rains, is rendering movements of the German troops very difficult. North of Arras slight progress is claimed.

The Germans at nine o'clock Saturday evening commenced a formidable attack upon the British positions at Ypres. Up to Sunday evening the assaults had been without result, being thrown back by the British every time they rolled forward.

Minor positions from which the defenders were forced by the terrific attacks were recaptured almost immediately by the British.

The German assaults were followed Monday by a vigorous offensive by the British, who pushed forward north of the Lys river as far as Passchendaele, more than half way from Ypres to Roulers, and the most advanced position which the allied forces have occupied since the battle line was formed in Flanders the middle of October.

Reports Sunday were that the Germans were preparing for a new advance, which is now begun, and is directed against the allies between Dixmude and Ypres. An artillery duel occurred the last two days of last week in the vicinity of Zonnebeke, north and east of Ypres.

The Germans are placing Maxim guns at every available point in consequence of their apprehension that the British will direct an action against Heyst, says a despatch to The Telegraaf.

The dyke which restrains the sea at that point on the Flemish coast has been mined, it is reported, and the prohibition of all travel or communication across the Dutch-Belgian border in either direction is being rigorously maintained.

The Germans have lost an immense number, estimated at 136,000 men, in the furious fighting which has occurred before Nieuport, Dixmude and Ypres in their unceasing attempt to press through to Calais, says a despatch to The Handelsblad from Sluis.

Apart from the battlefields, the officially announced illness of the German Emperor in Berlin, from bronchial catarrh with fever, is the most interesting news of the day. The Emperor's prolonged activity and the recent reports of his appearance have caused the public to watch with particular interest developments regarding his health.

GERMANS ADVANCE IN NORTH AND RUSSIANS GAIN IN THE SOUTH

Von Hindenburg Despatches Another Force From Kalecz to Compel Russians to Concentrate in Centre Poland and Forsake Siege of Cracow.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The great battle for possession of Poland continues. The front extends along 300 miles and victory over a part of it, at least, appears to have fallen to the Germans, while the Russians are pressing upon Cracow in the south.

That Lodz is in possession of the Germans seems undoubted and a Russian official report just issued apparently is preparing the public mind for the news by referring to the difficulty of defending the city, which gives to the Russian front an abnormal contour and forecasts a reforming of the line. Details of these mighty battles have yet to be written. The general fact that there has been fearful slaughter and intense suffering from the cold comprise about the total of the information received.

The Germans claim they are pursuing the Russians to the south and southeast of Lodz. Several correspondents were with the Russian army when the battle broke, but nothing has been heard from them for several days. Evidently they are under the hand of strict censorship.

British military experts insist that three-quarters of the best material the German army has been held in the western theatre of the war throughout the campaign, and that the troops opposed to the Russians consist principally of second line organizations.

By forcing the fight in Poland the Germans hope to save East Prussia and to hinder the operations of the Russians against Cracow, says a despatch to The Journal from its correspondent in Petrograd. Following this general policy the Germans have sent forward a new army from the vicinity of Kalisz, which is driving the Russian left back toward Petrokov, and which, it is the plan of the Germans, will force the Russians to concentrate their forces between the Vistula and Warta rivers.

The Germans are desperately attempting to keep the theatre of the struggle in Poland, hoping to force the withdrawal of Russian troops from both the right in the Masurian Lake region and from the left wing in Galicia and especially before Cracow.

The Germans are said to be suffering terribly in the trenches in Poland, where cold rains have followed the frosts, softening the roads so as to make rapid movements of troops impracticable and the transportation of cannon almost impossible.

A Petrograd despatch to The Morning Post says: "While the situation around Lodz is not yet clear, it appears that both sides are establishing themselves in trenches, which is not difficult, as the frost has broken and the rainy weather set in.

"The great numbers of reinforcements which the Germans have brought up from the western front has resulted in continuous fighting on the eastern front. The battle line from east Prussia to Cracow is 300 miles long. Eleven German army corps are said to be around Lodz.

Everywhere the situation is satisfactory to the Russians. The business of the Russian troops in Poland is merely to hold their lines. Meanwhile, on the other sections of the front, mainly in east Prussia and Cracow, the Russians are pushing forward vigorously.

"In east Prussia, the most important feature is the siege of the fortress of Lotzen, which the Russians left untaken on their early dash in east Prussia, thereby enabling the Germans later to turn the tables on the invaders.

"South of Cracow the Russians are advancing steadily, while the movement into Hungary progresses at a satisfactory rate."

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Maj. Stanton, reserve of officers, has been officially gazetted as military secretary to the Duke of Connaught in succession to Maj. Farquhar.

The Bavarian press reports the death of Gen. von Meyer as the result of an arrow shot by a hostile aviator while the general was entering a motor car.

Two children of John Niami, of Port Arthur, aged three and four years, were burned to death by a fire which started in their home when they were left alone for a short time by their mother.

H. S. Blackburn, of London, Ont., received word yesterday of his appointment to the position of local master of the Supreme Court of Ontario and deputy registrar in and for the County of Middlesex.

A British warship with four funnels, apparently a cruiser, was seen by shore observers at the Highlands, Long Island, yesterday afternoon. The vessel appeared to be about 12 miles southeast of the Highlands. It was believed that she was the Britannia.

Sir Adam Beck, by appointment of the Canadian Government, serves henceforth as colonel on the headquarters' staff and will in the capacity of remount commissioner for eastern Canada supervise the buying of all the horses from Lake Superior to the Atlantic Ocean.

Gold Coast Foots Bills.

LONDON, Dec. 9. — The Official Press Bureau states that the operations resulting in the capture of the German colony of Togoland cost $300,000, which the Gold Coast Legislative Council has agreed to meet.

Lady Decies Wounded.

LONDON, Dec. 9. — A despatch from Dunkirk to The Westminster Gazette, describing the terror of the populace at the appearance of a Taube over Dunkirk, reveals the wounding of Lady Decies.

"On the occasion of the last visit of a Taube one of the bombs killed a woman and wounded a young girl so her arm had to be amputated.

"Lady Decies, who has been doing hard Red Cross work here for the past couple of months, happened to be passing close to the spot where the bomb fell. She was struck on the shoulder by a splinter of iron, and as long as she lives will carry the mark as a memont."

STRONGEST LINIMENT IN 100 YEARS BEST FOR EITHER MAN OR BEAST

RUB ON NERVILINE

When you have been exposed to wet and cold and your muscles are full of pain, nerves are jumping with neuralgia, then you should have ready at hand a bottle of Nerviline. It robs pain of its terrors, gives relief to all suffering, brings ease and comfort wherever used.

No care or expense has been spared to secure for Nerviline the purest and best materials. It is prepared with a single aim: to restore the sick to health. This cannot be said of the preparation that an unscrupulous dealer may ask you to accept instead of Nerviline, so we warn you it is the extra profit made on inferior goods that tempts the substitutor. Of him beware.

Get Nerviline when you ask for it, then you are sure of a remedy that will cure all aches, strains, swellings, and the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago.

In the last hundred years no liniment has been produced that can compare with Nerviline in strength, in penetrating power, or in curative ability.

For nearly forty years it has been Canada's household remedy, and mothers will do well to follow the advice of Mrs. Jessie Beggins, of Stella P. O., Ont., who says:

"Very frequently there are ailments in the family that can be cut short if Nerviline is handy. When my children come in from play, with a cough or a bad cold, I rub them well with Nerviline, and they are well almost at once. Nerviline is fine for earache, toothache, chest colds, lumbago, stiffness, rheumatism or neuralgia. In fact there is scarcely a pain or ache in man or beast it won't cure quickly."

The large 50c family size bottle is the most economical; trial size 25c; at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

standard of living she could feed herself during a prolonged war. The pride of her ruling classes with the military power in their own hands would not yield until driven to the last extremity. Revolution might hasten the event, or the intrusion of other factors which cannot be foreseen. The sword was never drawn in a cause more glorious than that for which Britain is contending to-day. Not only was there a physical and material conflict, Britain fighting against aggression, but there was a conflict of ideals. Is the State a Juggernaut or an instrument designed to serve its members? Is the individual to live only for an abstraction, the State. The British system encourages the development of individuality among citizens and of nationality among states. The German system would obliterate both individuality and nationality. Its motto is the State above the individual and Germany over all the world. When the interests of the State are involved, morality becomes a name. Treaties become scraps of paper. Prussian militarism has led Germany all the way from Immanuel Kant to Bethman Hollweg, from Goethe and Schiller to the authors of the unspeakable atrocities committed in Belgium in the destruction of Louvain and Termonde. German genius, which had been degraded by Prussian lust of conquest, purged and regenerated by the war, and emancipated from the yoke of militarism would flourish as never before. There should be no peace unless signed at Berlin and upon terms that civilization for a few generations at least would go forward untroubled by despotic ambition and unhampered by the intolerable oppression of armaments. This is the hope for the world which gleams through the lurid smoke-cloud of European war.

The Minister said that the National Patriotic Fund was designed to take care of the wives, families and dependents of those Canadian citizens on active service. From all parts of Canada the response had been most prompt and gratifying. Every citizen should do what he can during war time. Those who cannot enlist can give. The establishment of the Patriotic Fund has made it easier for those who are fighting for us at the front. It allays their anxiety as to those left behind. Let us see that there is a roof over the head of their little ones and bread upon the table. No citizen of Canada can give in a nobler cause. What worthier gift than that which goes to the comfort and assist the dependents of those who have freely offered to undergo hardships, privation, wounds and even death in the service of their country.

In his introductory remarks Father Minnehan expressed his appreciation of the honour the citizens had shown in their invitation to speak at the patriotic meeting. He did not know, he said, that there was the additional honour of appearing on the same platform with the Minister of Finance. Hon. Mr. White had covered the ground so ably that a repetition would not only weary the audience but would be bad judgment.

Father Minnehan mentioned to Hon. Mr. White's references to Belgium and the valorous part that little country had played. Father Minnehan said he was glad too that Hon. Mr. White had mentioned Germany. Britain was not waging war against the Germany of Munich, Liepsic and Dresden, but against the Germany of Essen and Berlin. Father Minnehan also declared that the Germany of Essen was not representative of the Christianity of Germany.

Great Britain must have a preponderating voice in the reuniting of Europe at the termination of the war. She must have a great influence in whatever settlement is made, and the unanimous and generous response from every point of her world-girdling Empire is going to give her that influence. The men from the hillsides of India, from the veldt of Africa, the whole Empire realizes that only in the triumph of the Empire lies the security and better promise of the future. Even the Kaffirs and Basutos, who earn paltry wages in South African mines, have gathered their shillings for Great Britain's support, because they realize that the best brand of liberty in the world is found under the Union Jack.

If Great Britain is to have the preponderance of influence, not only must she have men for her armies, but the men and women who stay at home have their duty to do. Father Minnehan said he felt sure the enthusiasm of the meeting was significant of a most generous response to the City's Patriotic Fund.

In his address he made a happy contrast of the ideals of Prussia and Great Britain. He had felt humiliated when he thought of the effect Germany's tearing of the scrap of paper would have upon the minds of the Japanese, who had shown their ideals, not by sending Zeppelins over helpless cities, but by giving the noncombatants of Taing Tau sufficient time to leave before the Japanese attack began. But the Japanese would not form their estimate of the Western world and of Christianity by Prussian perfidy, but rather by the sacrifice, the valour and the honour of Belgium and Great Britain.

Col. Ponton.

Lieut.-Col. Ponton of Belleville, who himself has a son at Salisbury Plain with the first Canadian contingent, delivered a stirring address and made a powerful appeal for co-operation through giving. The boys of the 15th and 57th Regiments were in the same battalion, sleeping behind the same outposts and guarded by the same sentries. There could be no doubt, because of the number of men offered, of Peterborough's patriotism.

"But," said Col. Ponton, "translate your patriotism into philanthropy and action and give, give, give!"

Continuing the speaker gave the German statesmen, more particularly the present Chancellor, an eloquent gruelling for their failure to observe the treaty with Belgium. Germany had pledged her faith to the world to recognize the neutrality of Belgium; then when hostilities opened ruthlessly sent their pilfering legions into the heart of that country. "Belgium" was the answer to all the subtle intellectual justifications that German advocates advanced..

The men in the trenches were fighting loyally, courageously, with chivalry and determination, but they were also fighting at the white heat of expiation for the unthinkable atrocities that had been committed by the members of the German army in Belgium. Here Col. Ponton dwelt effectively on several specific instances of German cruelty to the women, men and little children of Belgium. With irresistable pathos he described the result of the mutilation of little Belgian girls, and enlisted the sympathy of the entire audience in this regard. He characterised the soldiers of the allies as avengers for all the barbarities that had been practiced.

"Put yourself into a cheque this week and you will have become an empire builder, just as much as though you fought on the battle field" was the speaker's advice.

Some had said that the Patriotic Fund was too large, that the $50,000 would not be needed. The audience must remember that not all of the 30,000 boys would return to Canada; that to some of them their friends and families had said good-bye for the last time. There was the future to look forward to. Then, too, more contingents were to leave the shores of Canada, and a good substantial surplus in the bank to the credit of the Patriotic Fund was an assurance to them that their loved ones would be taken care of. This would enable men and encourage them to come forward and offer themselves for active overseas service.

In conclusion the speaker made a touching appeal to the audience. He spoke of the fact that the women of Peterborough had led this part of the country in the great part women were taking in fighting the Empire's battles. Into the wristlets, etc., were being woven the loving thoughts of the dear ones at home for the brave boys on the battlefield.

"But remember," said the speaker, "that 3,000 miles away the thoughts of our boys will turn often towards home. Let us not betray the trust that they have placed in us. Let us see that there is always a roof over the heads of the soldiers' little ones, and always bread on the table."

A Vote of Thanks.
Mr. D O'Connell.

Mr. D. O'Connell paid a tribute to the eloquence of the visiting speakers, but said that the more prosaic and practical side had developed upon him. He extended the heartiest thanks to the large an splendid audience for their presence.

If the graveness and importance of the issue of the war were realized fully in Peterborough the citizens would feel that the committee were justified in asking, not for $50,000 but for $100,000. It must be remembered that not only the Empire's life, but Canada's position in the world was at stake, hinging on the result of the titanic conflict.

These men on the paltform are sacrificing three days of their valuable time, and will come before you tomorrow asking for $50,000. They are going out with determination. They realize full well what they intend to do, and mean to do it. They have a fixed purpose, and when the campaign is closed next Friday night they will bring back to the committee rooms a sum of at least $50,000."

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, in moving a cordial vote of thanks to the speakers, referred to the eloquent address of the Hon. W. T. White, and said that to-morrow and the two days following the conclusion he had drawn would be borne out in the City of Peterborough. The meeting of Catholics and Protestants alike had been an undoubted success.

The thoughts of the young men, 3,000 miles away from home, must turn homeward many times, and it is for us to see that their mothers and fathers, their wives and families are well cared for.

The motion was seconded by the Rev. Canon Davidson, who said that the speakers at great personal sacrifice had generously come to address the meeting. They had lifted the audience from local, personal and trivial worries to face world problems and nation-wide problems. With His Lordship Bishop O'Brien's consent, Mrs. White, who had paid the city the graceful compliment of her presence here to-night, was included in the motion.

Those present indicated their appreciation of the addresses by a standing vote on the motion. The meeting concluded with three cheers for the King and three cheers for the Minister of Finance.

MARRIAGE.

MARSHALL—ANDREWS.—On Dec. 9th, 1914, at All Saints' Church, Peterborough, by the Rev. R. B. Grobb, Olive Andrews, of Toronto, to Stanley William Marshall, of Peterborough.

Surgeon's X-Rays Show This "Most Inhuman War"

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. — Bringing with him X-ray photographs of the wounds of soldiers injured in battle, Dr. Joseph Pierre Hoguet has arrived in New York from Paris, where he served for several months as a member of the surgical staff of the American Ambulance. The photographs are intended as evidence of the physician's assertion that the present methods of warfare are the most inhuman in the history of civilization.

Of the thousands of soldiers treated by the little band of American surgeons whose work has made the name of the hospital famous throughout Europe not one has entered the institution whose wound was not infected, Dr. Hoguet said. In most cases the victims were mere matted gargoyles, from whom the garments had to be peeled. Many of the soldiers told the surgeons who attended them that they had not removed their clothes for months, and in the majority of cases they have no clear conception of any of the events of war in which they participated after the first few days of marching and getting settled about the line of battle.

"Every soldier who comes to the hospital is first treated with anti-tetanus serum," Dr. Hoguet said, "and then he is washed in strong aseptics. Practically every wound has to be drained. The clothing and dirt which have poisoned the wound make serious the condition of all the men hit by bullets or shrapnel shell or bits of casing.

Amputations Often Avoided.

"Amputation of arms and legs is the last step in the hospital, and because of the methods which are being followed a new record has been set. The surgeons, who are doing really admirable work there, are being materially aided by the American women in Paris. The women spend twelve or thirteen hours a day winding gauze bandages, cleaning floors, doing the most menial work."

Comparing the effect of the old-fashioned slow velocity lead bullet with that of the present steel-tipped high velocity projectile, Dr. Hoguet said:

"It is an entirely wrong idea to say that the modern methods of warfare are more humane than those of past times. The old-fashioned, slow-moving, high calibre bullet went so slowly that it lacerated the tissue and drove the clothes of the victim into the wound. That was the reason the governments reduced the calibre of the rifle and made the bullets of a composition of nickel, steel and lead. This bullet shatters the bone when it strikes, making a grievous wound. The bullet wounds and tears tissue and does not make the clean wounds that it was thought it would. This is particularly true of shrapnel shell and casing.

"Shrapnel wounds are at the ratio of ten to one, and of these the ration of shell wounds to casing wounds is one to five. The shrapnel wounds are terrible, particularly those made by the soft steel casing. The irregularly shaped steel tears its way through flesh and bone, leaving wounds not only difficult to treat, but also hard to clean."

Wounded Long in Transitoo.

Wounded men are moved slowly from the battlefield, the physician said, in some cases lying between the trenches for days.

"Cannon and food must be moved first," he said. "The wounded men do not count for much."

The mixture of races in the hospital is the cause of much merriment and anxiety at times, he added. The Senegalese and Moroccans are extremely sensitive, and they refuse to obey the directions of surgeons at times, believing that they are being discriminated against.

"One Senegalese who had recovered sufficiently to be able to sit up, received his dinner at a table, and, looking about, he saw his comrades eating in bed," said Dr. Hoguet. "With a yell of rage he clambered back into his bed and cried in bad French: 'I fight for France. I get hurt for France, and by and by I go back and probably get killed for France, yet I can't eat like a Frenchman.' We fed him in bed after that until he left the hospital."

Other incidents indicating the patience and fortitude of the men who are brought to the hospital after rides of forty-eight hours from Dixmude were related, among them the story of a sergeant of artillery, the left side of whose face was blown off by a shell while he was directing the fire of a gun after the gun officer had been killed.

Dying, He Gets Medal.

"The officer commanding the division finally ordered the wounded soldier back of the lines," said Dr. Hoguet, "and against his will he was placed on a stretcher and two bearers started with him to the field hospital. A shell fell on him, killing the bearers and blowing off both his legs. He was alive thirty-six hours afterward when we got him, and remained alive for a week. Just the day before his death he received the military medal, an honour more coveted than the Legion of Honour. A wounded colonel, then convalescent, presented it to him, and all the wounded in the ward who were able to stand arose and saluted.

"The wounded soldier said, 'Let me kiss it before it is pinned on me,' and kissed it. Then he closed his eyes, and a few hours later died. It was a most impressive sight to see these white, black, and brown men from the far reaches of the world standing stiffly at salute, where possible, in their clumsy nightshirts and pajamas, all swathed in bandages.

"Another soldier was wounded forty-five times by shrapnel, one of the wounds penetrating the brain. The abscess which formed was drained with a tube and the man recovered. Another soldier lost both his eyes, and as he lay helpless in the hospital his mother came to see him.

"'I have seven sons,' she said. 'One is back home, a cripple for life from German bullets. This one is blind, two more are in another hospital, and three I have not heard from since they marched away.'

Trooper's Uncle Sends £1,000.

"The incongruities one meets with every day in the hospital make up for the drudgery of the work. A British trooper we nursed back to health thanked us politely and went away, and the next week we received from his uncle, a British lord, a cheque for £1,000 for being king to his nephew.

"Several other times when the hospital staff was dashing madly about its business, President Poincare of France, and Queen Amelia of Portugal paid us visits. Queen Amelia went from bed to bed and spoke to the men in the kindest manner, shaking hands with them, and inquiring about their families."

EARL OF ANNESLEY SHOT.

He and Another Airman Killed Flying Over Ostend.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Earl Annesley and his companion, Lieut. Bevor, who disappeared early last month, after starting on an aeroplane flight to the continent, have both been killed by Germans. Countess Annesley was notified yesterday that the men were shot on Nov. 5, while flying over Ostend.

Francis Annesley, sixth Earl of Annesley, was born in 1884. The ancestral homes of the Annesleys are at Castle Wellan and Donald Lodge, in the County Down, Ireland. The earl had no children. Walter Beresford Annesley, a cousin, will succeed to the earldom.

ATTACKED ON RAFTS

German Assault is Foiled by Artillery Fire

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Telegraphing from Dunkirk The Daily Chronicle's correspondent says:—

"The Germans early Monday morning made another attack on the Belgian lines at Ramscapelle, near Pervyse. They came in numerous rafts, which were armed with machine guns and towed by three powerful motor boats.

"As soon as the Belgian outposts opened fire the motor boats flashed blinding searchlights on them and opened a murderous machine gun fire. The Germans reached the shore and were preparing to land when the Belgians brought up a searchlight, enabling the Belgian and French artillery, stationed some distance in the rear, to shell the rafts accurately.

"The weight of the allies' heavier artillery soon began to tell and the Germans were driven back. Several of their rafts capsized. Belgian troops advanced shoulder deep in the water, fighting the panic-stricken Germans, many of whom surrendered. The others retired."

Douglas Hallam Gets Commission.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Private Douglas Hallam, son of the late Ald. Hallam, of Toronto, who enlisted with the armored motor car division of the Canadian contingent and has been serving at Salisbury since the contingent's arrival, received a commission yesterday as sub-lieutenant in the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, for the battleship Pembroke.

Douglas Hallam, of 126 Isabella street, took out an aviator's certificate, but on learning that Canada was not to send a flying corps, applied for enlistment in the Clifton machine gun squad. His appointment to the naval reserve comes as a surprise.

German Schoolboys Play Soldier, But Not One Likes To Be a 'Russ'

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Heinz Skrohn, who attends the public school at Prussian Battau, near Neukuhren, sent the following letter of congratulation, which the Tageblatt publishes, to Field-Marshal von Hindenburg on the occasion of his birthday anniversary:

"Dear General von Hindenburg,—I read in the paper that October 2 is the anniversary of your birthday. The public school of Battau, Fischhausen county, sends its heartiest congratulations and hopes that you will continue to give the Russians a good thrashing. We very often play soldier, but nobody wants to be the Russ, saying that as such they get beaten up too much. I am also sending you a picture in this letter showing us lined up as soldiers. I am the leader and have the iron cross on my chest. On another picture the girls are seen knitting socks for the soldiers. I would also like to have your picture, but a big one, please. We want to hang it up in our classroom alongside of the Kaiser's picture. When, a few days ago, the Russians were coming nearer and nearer to Koenigsberg many people here became alarmed and moved away. We, however, stayed at home and went to school every day. Our teacher here tells us every day what happens in the war. We had a big celebration here after the battle of Tannenberg. We got all the flags together and marched through the village. We boys would like to go to war, too, but are too small yet. I am only twelve years old. Please write me that you got the letter." If you have no time yourself, have somebody else write. The boys here are very anxious to know whether I will get a reply.

"Now, good luck once more to you and health from all the boys of the public school of Prussian Battau, especially from the captain,

"Heinz Skrohn."

The following reply was received by Heinz in due time:

"Dear Heinz, — His Excellency Major - General von Hindenburg wishes me to thank you very much for your letter and the pictures. His Excellency will have a picture sent to you, and hopes that you will always be industrious boys despite the war.

"Caemmerer, Capt. and Adjt."

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition, and a Feeling of "Don't-Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and half-sick tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged-up system. You grow irritable and despondent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me. I found a true remedy. Instead of griping with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose and, indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

FRANCE CALLS 300,000 YOUTHS TO TRAIN.

BORDEAUX, via Paris, Dec. 6.—The 300,000 youths of eighteen years in France who normally would begin service in the army in October, 1916, are by government decree called to present themselves for examination beginning on December 20. Their military training probably will begin next March.

BURNS SISTERS

Assisted in the Entertainment of the Patriotic Meeting Last Night

The Burn Sisters, who are appearing at the Grand Opera House every afternoon and evening now, gave a very acceptable musical entertainment at the patriotic meeting last night. When the curtain went up revealing the hundred citizens on the platform the audience was surprised at the advent of the Misses Burns, but were at the same time highly pleased at their musical contribution. The singing of "Tipperary" struck an appropriate note, and certainly found a responsive chord in the audience.

ARE FRUIT SPECIALISTS

Connal and Son Have a Splendid Assortment

All dealers know that in the wholesale importing trade there are firms that handle and make a specialty of the finest of the seasons crop of fruit, including the different kinds of raisins, currants and peels, as well as nuts of all sorts. Naturally these firms get a shade more for their fruit than others, and it is because Connal & Son buy from such houses that the standard of their fruit is always the very highest obtainable, though at the same time the price to the consumer is no more than they pay for inferior grades. This year, as usual, Connal's fruit is the very choicest that can be bought. It has all been re-cleaned, and every ounce of it is pure fruit, with no waste.

The crop itself at the place of production was an excellent one, and the quality rules high, so that what is called the firsts, or selects, the grade Connals' always buy, is well above the usual average.

Speaking with Mr. Connal, the Examiner was let into the secret that accounts for the specially advanced quality of the fresh fruit at Christmas time, such as oranges in the different grades, eating apples, etc., sold by the Connal store. At it would be giving away a trade secret, it would not do to tell it here, but just prove it by buying some of their oranges this year, and see the difference.

The Connal store depends largely on the quality of their goods advertising for them all the year round, but when he makes an announcement in the Examiner it is always well worth reading. Watch his Christmas advertising this season. 1d-1w.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Artillery duels extending over the entire line from the sea to the River Lys and along the Aisne, and French advances made in Argonne are reported in the official communique from the War Office to-day. The French artillery had the advantage over the Germans in the Aisne region. In the Argonne the Germans succeeded in dynamiting a trench, but otherwise the advantage rested with the French.

BERLIN, via The Hague, Dec. 9.—The condition of Kaiser Wilhelm, who is suffering from bronchial catarrh, was declared to be satisfactory to-day. There was no intimation of when he might return to the front. As additional details are received of the recent German success in the Lodz region, it is believed Field Marshal Von Hindenberg will be shown as having gained a victory of great importance. The German offensive has in no wise slackened in this region but owing to the numerical strength of the Russians the pursuit of the retreating forces is being conducted with utmost caution. The situation in the west is declared to be entirely satisfactory.

It is evident from the above despatch that the Germans fear a heavy flank attack from the Russians, between Lodz and Warsaw.

BERLIN, via The Hague, Dec. 9.—Kaiser Wilhelm has pneumonia and is declared to be seriously ill. Following the official announcement that the Kaiser was suffering from bronchial catarrh, this was the information learned to-day. It was stated earlier in the day that the condition of his Majesty was satisfactory. The Kaiser's present illness is attributed to exposure in the winter weather which has prevailed on both fronts.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 9.—An official communication given out by the Russian general staff last night says: "The battle which began December 5, southeast of Cracow, in the region of Wielicsko on the River Deriuty has developed in our favour after having courageously forced the passage of the Donasets river in the vicinity of Nowy-Sandec our reinforcements pursued the offensive and inflicted serious defeat on the German troops, which had followed the Valley of Losesyn. The German right wing, which was pursued was turned."

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—Major-Gen. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, gave a flat denial this morning to Bernstorff's charges regarding the alleged ordering by the Canadian Government, and the alleged use by the British Government, of guns and cartridges forbidden by the rules of civilized warfare.

WASHINTON, Dec. 9.—From Admiral Fletcher, hero of Vera Cruz, the House Naval committee to-day heard the submarine terror riddled. He declared that Europe's war has not shown this weapon a decisive one and asserted that a "skillful enemy" need not give this weapon the opportunity to wreck havoc. He told that, though spectacular and affecting, the imagination of the world, the submarine is still lacking in the power to determine a conflict. He declared battleships will still remain the deciding factors of war.

Fletcher considered New York with its fortifications, plus mines, immune from a hostile attack. He said: "As yet no lesson can be drawn from the European war to show that the value of the battleship is any less than before or that it is not the main weapon to decide a conflict in any navy."

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.—In view of the collapse of his own nerves, it is interesting to note that the Kaiser referred to the nerves of the Germans in general, the other day as reported to-day in a despatch from Berlin. This was during a speech made on December 3rd by Emperor William at one of the camps of the Germans and Austrians which he visited on his recent trip to the eastern front.

"You are fighting for a just cause, for liberty, for the right to exist as a nation and for the future of prolonged peace," said the Emperor. "We shall continue to fight with success as heretofore. Heaven is on our side. With God we shall achieve prolonged peace for our nerves are stronger than those of our enemy." The Kaiser was on the eastern front only last week.

HOME GUARD MADE GOOD IMPRESSION UPON THE MINISTER

The Peterborough Home Guard won fresh honours last night when they were inspected by Hon. W. T. White and Col. Ponton at the Armouries. Afterwards Hon. Mr. White received the march past salute at the corner of Hunter and George Streets. The Minister of Finance stated to Mr. Jas. Kendry that he was most favourably impressed by the appearance, bearing and marching of the Home Guard.

THE "KING'S DAUGHTERS" HELD AN AFTERNOON TEA

The tea rooms of the Empress Hotel were placed, by the kindness of Mr. George N. Graham, yesterday afternoon at the disposal of the Order of Ladies known as the "King's Daughters." These ladies served a most elegant afternoon tea between the hours of three and six. At this function between two and three hundred attended.

Germany Has Plenty With Which To Feed Her Army

Fewer Mouths to Feed—No Grain Permitted for Feed to Animals —Meat and Egg Supply is Light

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Baron von Schorlemer, Minister of Agriculture, to-day put to flight the idea that Germany can be forced into submission by starvation. With his fingers figuratively on the agricultural resources of the country, Baron Schorlemer went into much detail in attempting to prove his assertion that Germany can feed her population and her vast armies for an indefinite period without importations of farm products and foodstuffs.

"If Britain thinks she can starve Germany into submission, failing to conquer us by arms," said the German Minister of Agriculture, "she will find she has made a miscalculation. Germany can produce enough food to feed her population for any period the war may last provided we continue our economizing and elimination of waste. Germany will not starve—no, nor half starve."

Baron von Schorlemer, who has been mentioned frequently as the next Imperial Chancellor, through his interview was unusually candid. He frankly admitted that he was not "exactly an optimist on the food question when the war broke out." The first three months of the war, he declared, however, has shown that Germany need not fear a famine.

Many Less to Feed.

"In the first place," explained the minister, "we have 3,000,000 less mouths to feed now than in times of peace. These figures represent foreigners who have left Germany and our soldiers who are subsisting off the enemy's territory. They represent a saving of approximately 1,000,000 tons of grain and 2,000,000 tons of potatoes. Add to this the great saving and elimination of waste by the people because of the war."

Baron Schorlemer turned to statistics gathered by his department showing average consumption and use of grain for all purposes. He pointed out that these figures showed that the annual requirements for six million people are 15,780,000 tons of grain for bread and 43,296,000 tons of potatoes.

"Our crop last year," he said, "exclusive of the seed, was: Grains, 14,651,000 tons; potatoes, 48,662,000 tons. This left 1,109,000 tons of grain to be imported and a surplus of 5,366,999 tons of potatoes. We exported 581,921 tons of rye, but imported 2,007,810 tons of wheat. Exportation of foodstuffs is prohibited, and therefore the surplus rye and potato production will go a long way toward filling up the lack between production and consumption of wheat usually covered by imports.

No Grain for Animals.

"The use of grain for feeding animals or for industrial purposes has been forbidden. There is to be a small percentage of rye flour used in making wheat bread and not less than five per cent. of potato flour in rye bread. Many use ten per cent. Two hundred factories are being established for the manufacture of potato flour. There were 300,000 tons of grain left from last year's crops. One million tons of grains will be saved through prohibition of feeding it to animals. The mixture of rye with wheat and potato flour with rye to make bread means a vast addition to the bread supply."

Meat Supply Light.

Asked regarding Germany's meat supply, Baron von Schorlemer was not so optimistic. Of the per capita consumption of 116 pounds of meat, 108, said the minister, were produced in Germany. Fowls, and especially geese, may become very scarce, he declared, as most of the supply has come formerly from Russia and eggs may become a great luxury.

"Over 7,000,000 tons of geese, of the 8,566,872 Germany imported last year," said the Baron, "came from Russia; one-third of the 12,683 tons of chickens we imported came from Russia. We will have to go without approximately 166,286 tons of eggs which we imported last year, and we will have to replace coffee, tea and cocoa with something else. We produce more sugar than we use. Wool and rubber supplies may run low and become scarce, even. Private individuals cannot now purchase automobiles or tyres.

"Our 'animal census' shows gratifying figures. Less than a year ago there were 20,994,340 head of cattle; 5,520,837 head of sheep; 25,669,140 hogs; and 3,548,364 goats. There were 3,226,640 horses in Prussia alone at that time.

"Before this supply is gone we will get no slight amount more through importation, despite present unsatisfactory conditions along this line."

Three French Soldiers Tell Of Escape From German Camp

Also Report That British Prisoners Receive Brunt of Enemy's Hatred—Food None Too Good Nor Plentiful

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Three French soldiers who managed to escape from a big prisoners' camp in Germany, have just arived here. They are Sergeant Louis Mouillot, Joanny Brillant, private, and Emile Houthaeve, private. Here is the story of their adventures they told me to-day:

"We were captured by the Germans at Maubeuge September 7th, with 25,000 French and Belgians and about 00 British. The greater part of the prisoners were marched in parties of about 200 to Estinne-au-Mont. We were hurried on so fast that a number of prisoners fell en route and one French gunner fell dead from exhaustion when the column halted. He was buried by the roadside before the march was resumed At Estinne-au-Mont we were taken aboard train and finally lodged at Friedrichfeide, a camp near Wesel, where thirty huts had been erected.

On our jouneys we received neither food nor drink and had to depend on the charity of the eBlgians, who gave us bread and water and fruit at the stations. At the camp we were divided into sections, one for the French, one for the Belgians and one for the British. Altogether there were about 18,000 prisoners at the camp.

They Love the British.

"On the whole the French and Belgian prisoners were not badly treated, but the food was very coarse and the supply was not at all generous. The British prisoners were treated worst of all. When in the first few days o fthe camp the food was really short the British prisoners were almost starving. If there was a dirty job to be done about the camp it was the British who had to do it. 'Francais, comrades! the German guard used to say. Anglais, bah! and they would draw their finger across their throat expressively.

"It was a brilliant escape that gave us our idea of getting away. Brillant was out with a fatigue party, and when they went bac kto the camp he remained behind and hid in a potato patch till dark. Then he made off across the country, but he had no map and when he went only three miles from the Dutch frontier he ran into the arms of a German customs officer, who sent him back to camp. For this Brillant was sentenced to a fortnight in a dark cell on bread and water.

"The camp was surrounded by a thick entanglement of electrified barbed wire and high barbed wire palisades, so escape was only possible by a ruse. It was when watching the fatigue parties going out on an afternoon to bury rubbish that the sergeant hit on the idea that saved us. He got himself appointed in charge of a fatigue party, ordered some of his men to take two shovels each instead of one, and as his party passed throuhg the camp signed to us to join up. There was also a foutrh man who escaped with us who has remained in Holland.

The Ruse Worked.

"After we had worked some time burrying the rubbish, the sergeant made a sign and our comrades put Brillant and Houthaeve in a hole, filled it in with sand up to their waiast, and then after putting a piece of sacking over their heads, covered them up with loose straw and pieces of wood and paper. Finally our comrades and sergeant were similarly covered in. The fatigue party returned to the camp and left us.

"We were amused to hear the crows sawing as they soared down on the rubbish haps, some of them actually landing on our shoulders. We knew that as long as the crows were noisy it was light and we could not move out safely.

Finally the crows departed and cautiously we crept forth from our holes. After a passing company of German soldiers had scared us into a thicket we struck out across country to find a river, the Lippe, that our comrade, Brillant had crossed in a boat in his atempted flight. After much searching we found the boat that he had used, crossed and pushed on till we came to a railway line with a distant glare in the sky, which we knew to be the town of Bocholt. We had been finding our way with compasses. A French officer gave the sergeant his. Houthaeve was given his as a souvenir by a German workman at the camp.

"When day came we built for ourselves a kind of leafy shelter in a hegde near the main road and there we lay almost motionless all through the daylight hours, fearing even to cough lest we should attract the attention of the passers by. At night we crept out again and tramped on. It was only when we were very weary and foot sore that we dsicovered we were on Dutch soil. The sergeant found a piece of paper in a wood. It was a paper bag from a baker's with the inscription in Dutch, showing that it come from Harreveld. A little later we found ourselves at Harreveld, as we ascertained after very cautious inquiries and thence got down to Rotterdam.

"At Utrecht we were arrested by the police and sent to Amersfoort to be interned, but were released as soon as the authorities knew we had entered Holland in civilian clothes and without arms."

Woman (examining a fish): No, I won't have it. I don't like the look of it.

Hawker: No, and yer wouldn't like the look of yerself, missus, if you'd been chivvied about by submarines ever since the war started.—Punch.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Absence of needed rain in Central and Western Kansas tended today to offset wheat weakness; that was due largely to lower cables. Prices closed unsettled, ⅛c to ⅜c off to ¼c up, compared with last night. The outcome in corn was ⅛c to ⅜c decline, and for oats a setback of ⅜c to ½c. Provisions finished 5c to 12½c higher.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 8.—The wheat market today was the quietest it has been for a long time. Liverpool cables were ½d lower, which caused an easier opening on all months, and with wire trouble owing to storms news was scarce, which added to the general stagnation. Wheat opened ⅛c to ⅜c lower, oats ⅛c to ⅜c lower and flax ⅛c higher to ⅜c lower. The enquiry for export is active enough, the government being in the market for 1,000,000 bushels, but few sales were reported. Another difficulty which confronts the export trade is securing ocean charters at reasonable rates. Wheat options closed ⅛c to ⅜c lower, oats ⅜c lower and flax ⅛c to 1c higher.

Cash demand is in excess of offerings for wheat, exporters taking care of all that comes on the market to complete space at the head of the lakes. It was ascertained that one firm sold around 150,000 bushels extra No. 1 feed and No. 2 C.W. oats for export.

Inspections Monday were 604 cars, as against 945 last year, and in eight were 240 cars.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—There continues to be a good demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat and some fair lots of No. 1 hard were on hand to be shipped to London at 47s and 47s 3d, but owing to the high rate of freight demand from Portland to this port it was impossible for exporters to do any business.

There was no improvement in the domestic demand for oats, but there was a steady demand from country buyers for Argentine and American ports. Trade in mill feed and oats is active, with prices firm. Local trade in butter is still quiet, but there is a steady enquiry for cheese from over the cable. Demand for eggs is good.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 8.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.19⅝; No. 1 northern, $1.15⅛ to $1.18½; No. 2 do., $1.13⅛ to $1.16⅛; Dec., $1.14⅛.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 55c to 55c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 45⅛c to 46c.

Flour and bran—Unchanged.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

Sheep—Receipts, 10,000; market, strong; native, $5 to $6; yearlings, $6.10 to $7.20; lambs, native, $6.15 to $8.35.

PEACE MOVEMENT NEARING CENTENARY OF INCEPTION

Centenary of Its Inception.

While the Quakers and other religious seeds and individuals have been preaching peace for many centuries, the organized peace movement is now nearing the centenary of its inception. This month will witness the rounding out of a hundred years of peace between English-speaking peoples, and next year will mark the centennial of the end of the Napoleonic wars. The peace movement was the direct result in England and America, of the bloody conflicts of the early part of the last century. Wearied of war, Englishmen and Americans alike began to thing seriously of plans and projects for insuring perpetual peace. While the times do not seem propitious for the celebration of peace centenaries, the friends of universal disarmament and arbitration are by no means in a despairing mood. They realize that success is often the child of failure. Out of carnage and conflict, they hope, may come the realization of that dream which has been entertained by humanity ever since Vespasian dedicated a temple to peace at the beginning of the Christian era.

Of the many pioneer workers in the cause of peace, one of the most influential was Elihu Burritt, the "Learned Blacksmith," who was born in New Britain, Conn., just 103 years ago today, Dec. 8, 1811. In his youth Burrit was apprenticed to a blacksmith, but he spent the evenings in study and reading, with such effect that he not only attained a goodly acquaintance with English literature, but also mastered French, Spanish, Latin, Greek and Hebrew. After editing a paper in Worcester, Mass., he went to England in 1846, and there organized the League of Universal Brotherhood. From that time on he was a recognized leader in the world-peace movement, and attended most of the great European peace congresses. His league, which had for its object to "employ all legitimate means for the abolition of war throughout the world," was long a powerful organization.

Before Burritt's time many Americans had preached the blessings of peace and had expressed their abhorrence of war. The Quakers of Pennsylvania were among the pioneers in this crusade. Thomas Paine, the stormy petrel of the American and French revolutions, used his pen with good effect in this propaganda.

The present American Peace Society, although not organized until 1828, really dates from 1815, when the New York Peace Society was launched. Many other State and local societies were formed soon afterward, and were combined in a national organization.

The organized peace movement in Great Britain will reach its centenary in 1916, as the British Peace Society was formed in 1816. It had for its object the promotion of permanent and universal peace, and it has worked unceasingly, if so far vainly, to accomplish that end. Bright and Cobden were among the first men of distinguished position to become members of the society, but it has since claimed the allegiance of many of the British leaders of thought and action.

Fifteen years ago, when the representatives of all the powers met at The Hague for a peace conference called by the Czar of Russia, the friends of peace hoped that their work was about to meet fruition. Their dream was rudely shattered, for the German delegate declared at the outset that his country would consider the project for the limitation of armament, such as had been suggested by Emperor Nicholas. That ended the scheme, and, although a permanent court of international arbitration was established at The Hague, it was appealed to only for the settlement of minor disputes between countries which were, in any event, determined to remain friendly.

Auburn Woollen Mills' Employees Donate a Day's Pay to the Patriotic Fund

Indications this afternoon at three o'clock were interpreted by the authorities at the Patriotic Association Committee Rooms to mean that by this evening somewhere between $27,000 and $29,000 will have been garnered in by the various workers and collectors. Among the contributions to-day was the promise from the Auburn Woollen Mill's employees that they will donate a whole day's pay to the fund. The papers, completely signed by the employees of the mill, were received at the committee rooms this afternoon.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.

He was defended by Mr. F. D. Kerr.

The Plaintiff Was Inside of The Overcoat

$50 Damages Awarded Plaintiff for False Arrest and Slander—Repartee Between Counsel and Witness

OBJECTION RAISED

The sum of fifty dollars was awarded the plaintiff in the case of Currie versus Stares. The case, which was tried before His Honour Judge Hinycke at the December sittings of the County Court now in session, constitutes a dual action for slander and false arrest. The jury awarded the plaintiff twenty-five dollars on each count. Five hundred dollars damages were asked.

Samuel Currie was represented by Mr G. N. Gordon, and Frederick Stares by Mr. Lewis, of Toronto.

The former is an employee of the Campbell Milling Company, and the latter is a commercial traveller residing in Hamilton.

According to the plaintiff, Stares, assisted by another man, named McGregor, effected his arrest under peculiar circumstances.

On the 19th of January last Currie was attending a funeral at the Little Lake Cemetery. During the course of the funeral, Stares is alleged to have approached him, saying: "You are the man that stole my overcoat. I arrest you in the name of the King." He was loaded into a wagon and driven to the Police Station, where, it is stated, he was further accused of the theft.

A WARM INVITATION.

To Mr. Gordon plaintiff stated that the funeral service was over when Stares approached him, demanding to know where he got the coat that he was wearing. Plaintiff was apprehended by Stares and a man named McGregor. He was removed to the Police Station and accused of stealing Stares' overcoat. He was detained in the Police Station from three o'clock until six o'clock. He went on the same evening to see Stares at the National Hotel. Plaintiff said that he asked Stares for his name, and in reply was invited to go to h—l.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lewis, counsel for the defence, plaintiff swore that both Stares and McGregor grabbed him by the shoulder and declared him under arrest.

Edward Shrimpton, member of the Second Canadian Contingent, was the next witness called by Mr. Gordon. An audible murmur went through the court room at the sight of the khaki clad infantryman.

THE DEFENCE.

Stares was called by Mr. Lewis. He said that he first saw plaintiff at the funeral. Currie repeatedly came to the hotel, and witness told him to "forget it" because "he had."

"You had not so much to forget," remarked Mr. Gordon.

"How many drinks had you before you went down to the cemetery?"

"Perhaps a couple."

"Perhaps four," suggested Mr. Gordon.

"Did McGregor drink?"

"He might have had a couple. I wouldn't call that drinking."

"Why did you take two men with you?"

"I don't know why. Do you always know why you do things?"

"Generally."

"Confine yourself to the questions asked," admonished the Court.

"You went to the cemetery and picked out Mr. Currie," asked Mr. Gordon.

"No! I picked out the overcoat."

"Oh! And Mr. Currie was inside of the overcoat."

"Yes."

"Did you make a claim on the hotel for the overcoat?"

"Yes."

"Did you get it?"

"No."

Witness denied having used the words "I arrest you in the name of the King."

Mr. Lewis contended that plaintiff having previously brought action against McGregor and obtained judgment, could not bring action against Stares.

The Court noted the objection, reserving its decision.

The jury later brought in a verdict as stated above. The jury comprised the following: Messrs. J. Johnston, H. Gainey, A. Edward, J. Craighead, H. Ivy, J. Stark, W. Fowler, S. Hunter, E. C. Squire, J. Stevens, A. Harris and J. Moore.

WEDDING BELLS

MARSHALL—ANDREWS.

The marriage took place to-day of Miss Olive Andrews of Toronto, to Mr. Stanley William Marshall of this city. The ceremony took place in All Saints' church, Rev. E. B. Grobb officiating. Mr. Lovell acted as best man. The bride was given away by Mr. F. S. Edwards. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will reside at 199 Hunter Street.

MONCRIEF—FINNIE.

A very pretty house wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Finnie, Riverside Farm, Bailieboro, when their third daughter, Laura Josephine, was married to Kenneth R. Moncrief, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Moncrief, Hillcrest Farm, Bailieboro. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Wickett. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by the bride's sister, Miss Jean, the bridal party entered the drawing-room. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly attired in a cream satin gown, trimmed with Oriental lace and wore the conventional bridal veil, caught up with Lily of the Valley. The bride's cousin, Miss Clover Finnie, dressed in blue silk mirror, trimmed with cream shadow lace and pearls, made a beautiful little flower girl.

Immediately after the ceremony, dinner was served, the tables being decorated with carnations and smilax.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful necklace, to the flower girl an emerald ring, and to the pianist a handsome bar-pin set with pearls.

The party took the evening train for Toronto, St. Mary's, and other points west. The bride travelling in a navy blue tailored suit with hat to match.

The esteem in which the young couple were held was manifested in the number of beautiful and costly presents which they received. They will be at home to their friends at Bonnie Brae Farm, after the New Year.

ALLIES ATTACK FROM COAST TO ARGONNE

ARE GAINING AT DIFFERENT POINTS

ALLIES PRESSING THEIR ADVANTAGE

Determined Offensive is Being Hurled at German Lines While the French Heavy Artillery is Obtaining an Advantage at Several Points on Line.

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, December 7.—A determined offensive is at present being pressed by the allies from the coast to the Argonne district. The official communique from the war office to-day declares that the French attack is greatly superior to the German, and advantages are being gained over the enemy. The allies continue attacking the few remaining trenches held by the enemy on the left bank in the Yser region, the statement declares. The French artillery yesterday obtained advantage in the Champagne district.

SAPPER IS DEAD

OTTAWA, December 7.—For the past several days at least one death a day has been reported from the Canadian contingent. By cable to the Minister of Militia to-day the death is announced of Sapper George Burnett, of the divisional engineers, of pneumonia. The next of kin are his wife and children who live in Manchester, Eng. Burnett enlisted in Toronto.

LONDON, December 7.—The Daily Mail's correspondent in northern France describes a battle between a Zeppelin dirigible balloon and three British aeroplanes which occurred a few days ago. The Zeppelin manoeuvred clumsily and was unable to make use of her explosives. Bullets from the aeroplanes soon found the ballon's envelope, which crumpled up.

CAMP AT WINDSOR

LONDON, ONT., December 7. — For strategic reasons, the training camp for the third Canadian contingent from this district will likely be moved to Windsor, from London, because of the rumours regarding German movements at the border. The militia authorities plan to have at least part of the force kept at Windsor. Col. Kelly of the 27th Regiment, Sarnia, is expected to be the commander.

ALLIES ARE PRESSING THE ENEMY IN THE WEST

New Guns Brought Up by the French Are Now in Position —Are Vigorously Aassailing Positions Held by the Germans While New Points Won by the Allies Are Being Retained.

Examiner Special:

PARIS, Dec. 7.—The French artillery is now outranging the German guns and proving more effective all along the line. This is indicated in the latest official statements from the War Office and is accepted to-day as an evidence that the new guns which have been expected by the French, have been brought up and are figuring extensively in the offensive movement the allies are pushing from the coast and along the entire battle line. Heavy fighting is reported in Alsace to-day. In the Argonne the German trenches are being vigorously assailed by artillery and through mining operations. All new positions taken by the allied troops along the Yser have b een held and the advantage is being folowed up with the greatest determination. The French artillery forced the Germans to evacuate Vermelles.

GERMANS IN POLAND GAINING THE ADVANTAGE

Grand Duke Nicholas' Lines of Communication Cut—Are Being Threatened and Forward Movement of Germans May Result in Withdrawal From Cracow.

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Dec. 7.—With Lodz taken and an advance of 25 miles having been made on both flanks, the Germans in Poland are gaining control of the main railways leading direct to Warsaw. They are also threatening the communications of the Russians on the southern front of Grand Duke Nicholas' army. Should they continue to advance, the Russian movement toward Czenstachowa will have to be abandoned and the forces about Cracow might be forced to withdraw. This is the situation to-day on the eastern front as indicated by the German announcement and the mention of fighting on both the northern and southern flanks are mentioned from Russian sources. The Germans have advanced along the Vistula and fighting is reported at Ilow to the north of Lodz and in the vicinity of Pietrkow to the south. Both of these towns are on the important railway lines leading toward Warsaw.

OFFICER WAS HERE

Major Hamilton Much Impressed With Cordage Factory as Possible Quarters for Troops

A SPLENDID BUILDING

Major Jas. Hamilton, R.C.H.A. and A. D. of S. and T., Kingston, who has been in the City looking over the accommodation that could be provided for troops here, left this morning for Kingston. Major Hamilton was most favourably impressed with the old Cordage Factory building as possible quarters. He was shown over the property by Major Eastwood, of the 57th Regiment, and expressed himself as delighted with its possibilities. No doubt he will report favourably to the authorities.

The Cordage building is splendidly adapted as a barracks for troops. It is comparatively fireproof, well lighted and ventilated, and already equipped with a good heating plant. There is ample room, in fact accommodation for 1,000 men could easily be provided in the building by adopting the three-decker bunk system used at Kingston. With such a splendid barracks building, a fine armouries and good rifle ranges, Peterborough can offer unexcelled accommodation. But the Federal member, city and military authorities, should not relax their efforts and should keep Peterborough before the eyes of those who will decide the location of mobilization centres for the next contingent.

FUNERAL OF LATE LAWRENCE PAMMETT

Little Lad Who Lost His Life in the Waters of the Canal on Saturday Laid to Rest This Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Lawrence Pammett, son of Mr. Robert J. Pammett, who met such a tragic death in the waters of the Canal on Saturday, was held this afternoon from the family residence, Euclid Avenue, to Ray's Cemetery, Lakefield. The floral tributes were unusually numerous and very beautiful, indicating the wholehearted sympathy that is being extended the parents in their sad bereavement. The little lad's body, which had been taken to Belleghem's undertaking rooms after the accident, was taken home on Saturday afternoon.

The funeral this morning was largely attended, those present including the pupils from the form of the Collegiate Institute which he had attended.

WARSHIP IN DANGER

Examiner Special:

MILLIONAIRE OIL OPERATOR PASSES AWAY

Examiner Special:

LONDON, ONT., Dec. 7.—A brief cable from London to-day advised relatives here of the death at Vienna, Austria, of William MacGarvey, the millionaire oil operator. His daughter is the wife of Count Zoppelin, son of the dirigible inventor, and another daughter is wife of Colonel Lavadel, of the Austrian army. Deceased was 71 years old, and was born at Huntington, Quebec. His early experiences in Petrolea oil fields made him wealthy, and he was Mayor of Petrolea, Ont., for many years. On going to Europe he became a leader in the oil business. Many of his immense holdings in Galicia, especially around Cracow, have been battle centres in the present war, and his losses have been enormous.

CONDITIONS ARE SERIOUS

Turkey a Mine Where Spark of Fanaticism Would Shatter All Elements of Europeanism

FOREIGNERS IN DANGER

(By Henry Wood)

SALONIKA, via London, Dec. 7.—Turkey is a mine. A spark of fanaticism likely to be struck at any moment would cause an explosion which would shatter all the elements of Europeanism in the country. Foreigners are constantly menaced, and only superhuman day and night efforts by American Ambassador Morgenthau has prevented an international crisis. Morgenthau now represents eight nations.

I arrived here to-day from Coustantinople. That city is practically isolated. There is only one line of rigidly censored telegraphic communication. Every letter and paper was confiscated by the Turkish border patrols.

Foreigners are fleeing as from the plague. The border towns are filled with anxious men who dare not step on Turkish soil to rescue their women kind. Refugees are only permitted to take $50 in gold with them. If they carry more than this amount, the authorities confiscate it and give in return a depreciated Turkish paper.

At Dedeaghatch there are 20,000 European refugees financially unable to proceed.

The day I left Constantinople the government was permitting only of foreign women and children and holding all men who might bear arms upon returning to their native countries. They are threatening to imprisen these men in concentration camps. Ambassador Morgenthau is fighting this plan. The few thousand Europeans still remaining in Turkey consist of those financially unable to leave. Their condition is miserable.

Ambassador Morgenthau now represents the American, British, French, Belgian, Servian, Swiss, Danish and Argentine interests here, together with the interests of many smaller nations. When the Turkish fury against Europeanism first broke, Morgenthau stood alone between the foreigners and Turkish reprisals. Before he could act, all European hotels, stores, factories, banks and schools had been seized, but so far as can be known, he has prevented violence to individuals.

I said Constantinople is isolated. It is. There are no regular trains or steamship schedules. The populace is practically without news, except th flavoured official statements.

So long as Ambassador Morgenthau can succeed in aiding the foreigners, as he has done, all will be well. But there may come a time when his demands will not be acceded to. Fanaticism may break forth. Then the world may be shocked by Turkeys throwing off the veneer of Europeanism.

DROWNED IN CANAL

Thirteen-Year-Old Lawrence Pammet the First Victim of the Skating Serson, Was Only in Water a Few Minutes

HIS SISTER RESCUED

"Thank God, my sister is saved." After several minutes immersion in the icy waters of the canal, and with just enough of his head above the surface to make speech possible, these were the words of Lawrence Pammett, as he sank to his death in the Canal this morning. He went under water for the last time, not with an agonizing cry for assistance from those near at hand, but with a remark of fervent gratitude that his sister had been rescued from a similar death by their efforts. His body was recovered a few minutes later by Mr. Samuel Edwards, but all signs of life had vanished and the efforts that were made to revive him were in vain.

His sister, Florence Pammett, aged 16, had a very narrow escape from meeting death with her brother. The two young people, who are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Pammet, 272 Euclid Avenue, went skating this morning on the canal. Changing their boots at the Warsaw Road bridge, they went on to the ice just north of it. How long they skated in safety is not known, but they could not have been on the ice for many minutes before they broke through into the water, which, at that point is between seven and eight feet deep. Mr. Kemp, who resides on the Warsaw Road, and who was driving to the City, noticed the two struggling in the water, as he was crossing the bridge. Leaving Mrs. Kemp in charge of the outfit he called Mr. Albert Curtis, who lives nearby, and both men plunged into the water to the rescue. Both were heavily clothed, and the water was ice cold. In spite of this Mr. Kemp succeeded in reaching the little girl, while Mr. Curtis continued his determined efforts to save her brother. It is probable that the efforts of both these men would have been in vain and that either or both of them would have sacrificed their lives, too, had it not been for the timely arrival of Mr. Samuel Edwards. Mr. Edwards was also driving across the bridge when he saw the two men in the water, and realizing the situation he ran to his house, nearby, and secured a pike pole. Returning, he advanced out on to the ice and extended the pole to Mr. Kemp, who was still in the water with the little girl. With the other hand he grasped a rope from the shore, extended to him by his brother, Mr. Henry Edwards, and in this manner the man and child were pulled into safety. In the meantime Mr. Albert Curtis was fast being overcome by the cold water and his exertion. He was in such a condition that even if he did succeed in diving and reaching the lad he could not get to the surface himself, much less with the youth, so he was forced to give up his attempt. When brought out of the water Mr. Curtis was in a serious condition for a short time and had to be given careful attention.

As the little fellow went down for the last time Mr. S. Edwards ran to his home and secured a number of sixteen foot planks. By means of these he was able to approach the edge of the hole in the ice, and with the pike pole he quickly located the body, which was then brought to the surface. The body was not bruised by the pike pole but in spite of exhausting efforts no spark of life could be discovered.

Lawrence Pammett was but thirteen years of age and was one of the brightest youths of the community. He passed the entrance examination last summer with high standing and has been attending the Collegiate Institute during the past term. For a lad of his age this is a praiseworthy achievement, and those who knew him best say that he was a remarkably bright and clever boy.

In their bereavement the sympathy of the whole community will be extended Mr. and Mrs. Pammett.

The accident occurred about fifty yards north of the Smith street swing bridge over the canal. It is thought that the moving of a boat near there had weakened the structure of the ice to some extent and is perhaps partly responsible for the accident.

Florence Pammett was taken to the home of Mr. Albert Curtis and cared for, and it is thought she will not suffer because of her immersion. She attended the King George school, East Ward.

Much credit must be given Messrs. Kemp and Curtis for their bravery in leaping into the water to the rescue and also to the Messrs. Edwards whose presence of mind rendered the brave acts of the former two gentlemen useful. For ten years Mr. Samual Edwards has had the pike pole in a convenient place for just such an emergency and its handiness this morning probably was the means of saving the lives of the rescued and the rescuers.

The body of the little boy was taken first to the home of Mr. Albert Curtis and thence to Belleghem's Undertaking rooms.

GERMANY MUST STOP RUSSIANS

Compelled to Choose Between Weakening Western Army or Allowing Czar's Hordes to Over-run Prussian Provinces, Says United Press Critic--Germans Announce That Vernelle is Evacuated.

Special Cable:

NEW YORK, December 7th. — J. W. T. Mason, the United Press military critic, says to-day: "Simultaneously with Field Marshall Hindenberg's victory at Lods Berlin makes the first official announcement of the war since the battle of the Marne, that the Germans have been compelled to abandon a French position. The German evacuation of Vernelle, between Lille and Arras, thus may turn out to possess much greater significance than the defeat of the Russians in Poland. The two operations, although removed from each other by the width of Europe, are closely related. There seems no doubt but that the Germans' victory has been won with troops withdrawn from France and Belgium; it appears evident too that the allies are now more nearly on an equality with the German strength in the west than at any time since the war began. Nevertheless to predict from this change in the situation that the Germans will soon be out of Belgium and France would be hazardous. The future conditions in the west depends on conditions in Russia. It is certain however that Germany counts far more on the necessity for preventing the Russian invasion of German territory than in holding off the allies in the west. Russia's penetration into the heart of Germany would inevitably mean crippling loss of territory to the Hohenzollerns. Furthermore there is no continuous national barrier in the east, such as the Rhine forms in the west. Compelled to choose between weakening her western army or letting the Slav horde overrun the Prussian provinces, Germany cannot afford to hesitate a moment and therefore any immediate success that may be counted upon by the western allies will depend on the development of the eastern peril."

A VISITOR FROM THE WEST

Mr. Manley Ruttan of Calgary is a guest of Mr. W. J. Elliott, 7 Bennett street. Speaking of the West, Mr. Ruttan states that conditions are not so bad as they were at the outset of the war. The first shock has passed over with a consequent relaxation of the money stringency. Business is comparatively normal with few exceptions. Many of the industries of the West have been favoured with large orders for clothing and such equipment as is needed to carry on the war. There has been a very gratifying response to the call for men, and in many cases numbers have been turned down for the reason that more men were enlisted than the requirements called for.

2ND CONTINGENT TO SAIL EARLY IN JANUARY

Canada Will Have Two Complete Army Divisions at the Front by May 1st, According to Plans

28,000 MORE RECRUITED

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 3.— It is believed that the second Canadian contingent will sail for England early in January. The port of departure will be Halifax. If plans are carried out, Canada should have two complete army divisions in the field by May 1, and a third in training, either at Salisbury Plain or Valcartier. Since the departure of the first contingent 28,000 men have been recruited and accepted for service.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—It is persistently rumoured here to-day that Major-General Lessard, who is now in command of the Second Contingent concentration camp, here, will have command of the Second Canadian Contingent, in England and France, or wherever it is sent. General Lessard's name was mentioned in connection with the command of the First Contingent when it was mobilizing, but it is thought that the prospects of his commanding the Second are excellent.

FRENCH REVIEW OF EVENTS PRECEDING OUTBREAK OF WAR

You Should Know the History of the Conversations Between the Powers Showing the Position of Germany And Austria—A Succinct And Clear Statement by French Ministry —Don't Fail to Read This

PARIS, Dec. 1. — The French Ministry of Foreign Affairs to-day made public a Yellow Book bearing on the causes of the present war. This French volume is much more complete than the publications of this nature given out up to the present time by other governments.

The French report has 216 pages and comprises no fewer than 160 documents. It is devoted primarily to a recital of the negotiations which followed the delivery of the Austrian note to Servia (July 23, 1914), and which preceded the declaration of war by Germany on Russia (August 1, 1914) and on France (August 3, 1914). It is brought to a close by the reproduction of the declaration of the Triple Entente Powers that Great Britain, Russia, and France would not conclude peace separately.

The French diplomatic documents in this book are divided into chapters in order to distinguish the preliminaries from the principal phases of the European crisis. The first chapter is entitled "Preface (1913), and is devoted to the remoter reasons and the deeper causes of the present conflict. An extract from the Yellow Book, given out officially in Paris, reads as follows:

"It was first in the spring of 1913 that we noted this colossal and expensive military effort to impose the Germanic superiority and hegemony upon the Powers of the Triple Entente. When France responded to this menace by the drafting of the law of three years' service in the army, this measure of defence was denounced as a 'provocation that should not be tolerated.'

"In April of 1913 a secret and official German report defined 'the objective and the means of the national policy' as follows: Convince the people of the necessity of an offensive war against France, prepare uprisings in Russia and in North Africa, provide for, in case of hostilities, the immediate absorption of Belgium and Holland.

"These are the ideas extolled in this report. Such is the programme that, soon after, we saw the Germans endeavour to put into operation.

THE AFFAIR OF AGADIR.

"He declared that Emperor William, who up to that time had posed as a champion of peace, admitted in the course of a conversation with the King of the Belgians, that he had finally come to share the ideas of his military advisers. He had placed himself among the partisans of a war which he thought would not be long delayed, and the overpowering success of which seemed to him certain.

"Public opinion, in its turn, permitted itself to be won over by the passions of the military party and came to consider the affair of Agadir as a defeat for Germany. It regarded the existence of a strong France as a danger to Germany, and the breaking out of a European war as the only remedy for all difficulties and all uncertainties.

"From a perusal of the six other chapters of the Yellow Book, which are devoted to the diplomatic negotiations carried on in the month of July, there is to be deducted, and supported by evidence, the following impressions: That the combination between Austria and Germany had decided upon war and that on four successful occasions this combination endeavoured to precipitate war by violent proceedings, the purpose of which was to prevent or to ensure the failure of all efforts at conciliation.

"The first of these proceedings was the Austrian ultimatum to Servia (July 24), which was the origin of this conflict. In spite of the fact that the Belgrade government offered, for the prosecution of the assassins of the Austrian Archduke, every facility compatible with its dignity, the cabinet of Vienna summoned the government at Belgrade not only to disavow all complicity with the crime of Bazavevo, but furthermore to permit foreign functionaries to seek the authors of this crime on Servian territory.

"Vienna gave Servia only two days to accept integrally these Draconian conditions. In spite of the fact that Herr von Jagow, the German Minister of Foreign Affairs, claimed to be in ignorance of the contents of this note (which was nevertheless known to the President of the Bavarian Council), Germany immediately and without restriction united herself with her ally.

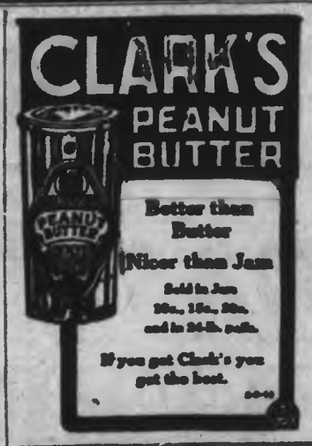
LOCALIZATION OF CONFLICT.

"The German Ambassador came to the Quay d'Orsay (the French Foreign Office in Paris) and endeavoured to carry through a proposal, which he represented as being peaceful, but which was in reality threatening. He declared that the conflict should remain 'localized' and that any intervention on the part of a third Power would result in 'incalculable consequences.' This was tantamount to letting it be understood that Austria would have every liberty to crush Servia, and that Germany would have recourse to arms to prevent Russia from succouring Servia.

"Confronted with this situation, the first thought of the Powers forming the Triple Entente was to gain time to examine the conflict with greater care, and if possible to render it less acute. The Powers, therefore, asked that Vienna extend the period of delay allowed Servia for her answer. Then Austria became fearful that she would be left without a pretext of war, and she endeavoured to ward off this danger by another expedient. She declined or avoided the request for an extension, and declared insufficient the Servian answer, which was given to her in good time and which admitted and accepted her principal demands.

"Austria thereupon ordered her Minister of Belgrade to leave the Servian capital (July 25), and diplomatic relations with Servia were severed.

"With this development the situation became considerably aggravated.



The Powers of the Triple Entente, however, still endeavoured to bring about a settlement. In the meantime, Baron von Schoen, the German Ambassador in Paris, came to the Quay d'Orsay and demanded that France exert her influence on Russia in a peaceful sense; but he refused to exert similar peaceful influence at Vienna.

"Britain proposed to avoid a crisis by submitting the Austro-Serb difficulty to the OFFICIAL MEDIATION OF THE FOUR POWERS WHICH WERE NOT DIRECTLY INTERESTED THEREIN. France and Russia accepted this proposal to internationalize the question, but Germany refused under the pretext that she could not thus humiliate her ally, and she proposed, in the place of this common action, the opening of direct conversations between Vienna and St. Petersburg, saying the latter was ready to consent to this arrangement.

AUSTRIA'S WAR DECLARATION.

"The conflict seemed consequently at this time to be progressing toward a settlement, when for the third time Austria, by a fresh provocation, killed the hopes authorized by all that had been done, up to the present in the direction of conciliation. She declared war on Servia (July 28), and began at the same time a partial mobilization against Russia on her frontiers (July 29).

"The chances of peace now seemed greatly reduced, particularly as the Austrian army began the bombardment of Belgrade, the occupation of which seemed to be nothing more than a question of hours. The Powers of the Triple Entente did not, however, give up all hope of accomplishing something in these last remaining minutes. On one side sir Edward Grey (British Foreign Secretary) started a new project for four-sided mediation, a project in which Russia joined at the demand of France. Herr von Jagow, to whom this project was communicated, evaded it by declaring that, while he adhered to its principles, it was necessary to find a formula that would be acceptable to Austria. He was then invited to himself formulate a proposal of settlement, but he again avoided the issue by saying that he would consult the Vienna Cabinet on this point.

"Sir Edward Grey, whose spirit of conciliation seemed indefatigable, then came forward with a new compromissory proposition which provided that all the Powers should call a halt to their military preparations. Furthermore, Russia gave a fresh evidence of her desire to maintain the peace of Europe by offering to maintain an attitude of expectation if Austria would engage not to undertake any measure directed against the sovereignty of Servia even after having occupied Belgrade.

"It was then that the Cabinet of Vienna, perhaps fearful of the consequences of its irreconcilability and feeling the necessity of taking a step backward, declared for the first time that it was ready to discuss with Europe the fundamental principle of its difference with Servia. At the very moment that this work in the direction of reciprocal concessions seemed to warrant a last hope of peace, an irreparable movement on the part of Germany promised to endanger definitely the results acquired with so much labour, and to force the crisis to a violent solution.

GERMAN MILITARY PREPARATIONS.

"At the beginning of the conflict this Power, Germany, had commenced military preparations, and she continued them with feverish haste. At the very moment when her representatives in foreign countries were protesting her pacific intentions, on July 30, in the evening, GERMANY ADDRESSED TO THE RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT AN ULTIMATUM, GIVING RUSSIA TWELVE HOURS IN WHICH TO DEMOBILIZE ON HER AUSTRIAN AS WELL AS ON HER GERMAN FRONTIERS. The alternative was that Germany would mobilize. This was done at a time when the Russian government had given evidence of its conciliatory attitude, and at a time when Austria-Hungary was showing herself disposed to discuss with Europe the question of her note to Servia.

"There could be no doubt as to the answer to such an ultimatum. From that moment the cause of peace was definitely lost, the reason being this precipitate action on the part of Germany. The obligations of alliances had to be observed, and the great Powers were drawn into the fatal conflict.

"Events which then took place are fresh in the memory of every one. On July 31 there were acts of hostility, clearly defined, on our frontier; August 2 saw this violation of the neutrality of Luxemburg and the entrance of German troops upon three points of our territory, while our troops were holding themselves at a distance of ten kilometres (six miles) from the frontier. The same day Belgium was summoned to permit Germany's military operations against France. Finally on August 3 the declaration of war was brought by Baron von Schoen to the Quay d'Orsay, which not preceded by a short time only the violation of the neutrality of Belgium.

"In the light of the documents contained in this Yellow Book the roles played by the different Powers in this European crisis show up with striking clearness. It is scarcely necessary again to emphasize the responsibilities of Austria, primal cause of the conflict. The responsibilities of Germany are even more crushing, in spite of the fact that in the beginning she stood for the second plan. The reason for this is that Germany systematically avoided every opportunity to discuss measures of conciliation. She forced Austria to an intransigeant attitude, and she made the war inevitable by an ultimatum (to Russia), issued at a moment when the basis of a direct agreement between Austria and Russia had been found and accepted by these two Powers.

RUSSIAN SUPPORT FOR SERVIA

"From the beginning Germany declared that she was in ignorance of the contents of the Austrian note (to Servia), but at the same time she voiced her resolve to approve it and sustain all its pretensions.

"When the Russian government showed that public opinion and the historic traditions of Russia did not permit it to turn a deaf ear to the fate of Servia, Germany endeavoured to force France by intimidation to associate herself with the exerting of influence at St. Petersburg, but at the same time she refused to undertake like steps at Vienna.

"When Sir Edward Grey proposed four-Power meditation, the German government refused to consider his proposal—the first time under the pretext that she tholght preferable the opening of direct negotiations between Vienna and St. Petersburg and the second time she refused under the pretext that she thought preferable the not acceptable to Vienna, and that the British proposal was not in very practicable form. When finally Germany perceived, in spite of all her dilatory proceedings, that the conflict was progressing toward a settlement, to be effected by the conciliatory efforts of Russia and Britain, which finally had been accepted by Austria-Hungary, she precipitated the rupture by hurling at Russia an ultimatum couched in unacecptable terms.

"France, with an indefatigable goodwill, associated herself with the greatest sincerity with every effort made to compose the conflict. She counselled Servia in the line of wisdom; she endeavoured incessantly at St. Petersburg to strengthen her ally, Russia, in her attitude of moderation, and she took part in all the peaceful endeavours made at Berlin and Vienna. France again can say truthfully that she did not take up arms except after she perceived military measures and military provocations which placed her national existence in peril.

"France moved by a deep love of peace, exhausted every means of conciliation at her command. The successive violations of the neutrality of Luxemburg and of Belgium, and the invasion of her own territory, were necessary before she decided to draw the sword to defend her very life."

Man's First Duty Is His Health

A Duty Which He Owes to Himself, His Family and His Country.

"Duty" is a good English word, which Nelson, founder of the navy, stamped indelibly on the minds of the people, and who can tell what the great British Empire owes to this one word and the idea it represents.

Since the efficiency and usefulness of every man and every woman depends largely on the health, it is the first duty to preserve the health of body and of mind.

Headaches, sleeplessness, indigestion, irritability and nervousness are among the symptoms of a run-down nervous system, which should never be neglected. Some have trouble with weak heart action, palpitation, poor circulation and cramps. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most rational and most satisfactory treatment to use in the restoration of the nervous system, because its cures are both thorough and lasting.

Mr. John Matthews, farmer, Fawn Lake, Alta., writes:—"I had cramps in my legs, pains in my knees and elbows, and my fingers would get cramped and numb. I could not sleep nights, and would have to get out of bed to rub the cramps out of my legs. For two years I suffered this way, and could not get relief. Then I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and did so with splendid results. I sleep well now, enjoy my meals, and feel well generally. I only had cramps once last winter, and feel that my system has been greatly benefitted by this food cure."

Socialist Is Against The New War Grant

Herr Liebnecht Speaks and Votes Against the German War Credit in the Reichstag

ANTI-WAR PARTY

Special to The Examiner.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 3.— (Special cable).—The action of Herr Liebnecht, Germany's most powerful Socialist, in speaking and voting against the new war credit in the Reichstag at Berlin last night, is taken here as an indication that the real condition of Germany's armies, and the impossibility of sustained victory is beginning to force itself on the minds of the German people.

It is, in fact, the beginning of an internal dissension that will sooner or later break up the German war party and facilitate the conclusion of the present disastrous conflict.

While it is stated in this morning's censored despatches from Berlin that some of Liebnecht's fellow Socialists are indignant at his action, it is also admitted that it is expected he will form an anti-war party forthwith.

Before the Reichstag session adjourned, some of Leibnecht's fellow members clamoured loudly for his arrest, but is thought the government hardy dares do that at present, as his following is large and powerful.

RUNAWAY OUTFIT NEARLY CRUSHED IN PLATE GLASS WINDOW

Mr. Waller's Horses Dashed From Behind the White House On to Charlotte St. This Morning

Quite a little excitement was created on Charlotte Street this morning, and a costly accident narrowly avoided, when the horses on the milk outfit of Mr. Waller dashed out from behind the White House, where they were standing. The horses tried to turn east on Charlotte, but their breakneck speed prevented this and the whole outfit skidded across the road on to the opposite sidewalk. The rig landed against the plate glass window of the City Footwear Store on the north side of the street, and only the sign at the bottom of the window prevented it crashing through the glass. The tongue of the waggon was broken, but neither of the horses were hurt by their fall on the pavement.

Wounded Slain In Hospital By German Soldiers

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Mr. H. D. Morrison, who arrived here Friday aboard the Lusitania, of the Cunard line, yesterday at the Vanderbilt Hotel, related accounts of German atrocities in the war zone. Mr. Jack Stone, Mr. Morrison's brother-in-law, who is the representative of an English bank in Paris, has organized a motor transport service for the benefit of the British troops in the trenches.

"One of the cases of German cruelty was brought to my attention by some friends," said Mr. Morrison. "There was a caddy, whose name I don't remember for the moment, who worked on the Raynes Park golf lines just outside London. He enlisted and went to the front. In the fighting around Mons this man was captured by the Germans. Later he was found with both his hands cut off.

"Another instance was told to me, and confirmed by good authority. Benjamin Alisop came to me to find out how he could send clothes to his brothers, Thomas Alisop, who was a member of the London Scottish regiment. I told him that I could probably aid him to get the things to his brother through Mr. Stone's transport service, and the clothes were sent to Paris.

"Through Mr. Stone it was learned that Thomas Alsop had been badly injured in the fighting. All those who could help themselves were taken away from the hospital, but Alisop and a dozen other members of the regiment were left in the hospital because they were in a critical condition. The British troops were driven back, but after a desperate battle they gained ground and, to their horror discovered that the men they had left in the hospital had been bayonetted by the Germans. Another friend of mine, a refugee, who had with him his two children, also had both his hands slashed off.

"The idea of American newspaper men denying that there have been any atrocities committed by the Germans has been due, perhaps, to the fact that they have not been permitted to see such things. These correspondents have been on a German military conducted tour of the war zone. They have been permitted to see only that which the Germans allowed them to witness and sleep in looted houses and drink stolen wines.

"Irvin Cobb, the writer, made a speech at the American Luncheon Club in London. We are all primed for him in the event of his mentioning this phase of the war. Dr. Hecron, an American dentist, who had been in Belgium with the Red Cross, was at the luncheon. He had seen men shot as hostages and told me that in Louvain and other places everything had been destroyed except that which the eGrman soldiers could use. So we were waiting for Cobb. However, Mr. Cobb decided not to mention anything much about the war and confined his talk to stories of negro life in the Southern States."

Short Course A Success

Two Day Event at Bridgenorth Well Attended

A short course in stock judging under the direction of Messrs. McDowell and McCrea of Norwood, the district representatives of the Ontario Department of Education, was held on Tuesday and Wednesday at Bridgenorth and was most successful. The attendance was large and great interest was shown. Mr. Gardhouse of Weston, was the expert in charge of the horses and fat cattle, while Mr. Mallory gave the instruction in regard to dairy cattle. Messrs. Kelly Bros. and Mr. Alan Mann supplied the horses to be judged, while Mr. Jos. O'Reilly of Ennismore and Mr. Geo. Bell of Bridgenorth furnished the dairy cattle. The ladies, who have been active in connection with the patriotic fund, provided meals in the C. O. F. Hall and netted a neat sum for the fund.

Sunday School Entertainment

Interesting Items of News From Apsley

APSLEY, Dec. 4.—Mr. J. J. Johnson returned from Peterborough with his bride, on Monday, Nov. 23rd, to Mr. Peter Johnson's, where a crowd of young people gathered and spent a very enjoyable evening.

The Patriotic League met at the home of Miss Ella Brown, on Wednesday, Nov. 25th. Quite a number attended and were busily employed at sewing and knitting. The articles will be forwarded to England when completed.

The young people enjoyed the splendid skating on McColl's Lake, last week.

The Union Sunday School held a successful entertainment on Friday, November 27th. Those who assisted were: Rev. Mr. Carr, Rev. Mr. Gardener, Mrs. Wm. Staples, Miss Mildred Kilbourne, Miss Effie Wilson, Miss Smale, Miss Julia Earnshaw, Miss Alberta Wilson, Miss Elsie McIlvena, Miss Maud Tucker, Miss Charlotte Tucker, Miss Nellie Johnson, Miss Grace Carr, Miss Flossie Stephens, Miss Lillie Harris, Miss Iva Windsor, Miss Mary McColl, Miss Bella Brown, Master Wm. Earnshaw, Master Archie Wilson, Messrs. Tom and John Coones, Master Jack Tucker, Mr. George Kilbourne. After the programme the ladies of the Bible Class served a dainty lunch.

The Sunday School Committee heartily thank all those who assisted.

Messrs. Norman and Bert Lean have returned from Eel's Lake where they were making repairs on the Dominion Government reservoir dam, last week.

Fowl Was Very Plentiful

At the Farmers Produce Market —Potatoes Selling for 65c. a Bag

"I am sick and tired of fowl" complained Mrs. Jones to Mrs. Smith. "So am I, but so long as we can buy fowl cheaper than other forms of meat, we will have to stay tired," replied the woman addressed. With that she extended a long bony finger until it was lost in the ribs of a plump looking goose, cross-examined the vendor and passed on. This partially expresses the attitude of the public generally towards the poultry market, which to say the least is not suffering from lack of supplies. Good turkeys were available this morning at from one dollar and a quarter to two dollars and a half apiece. This averages about sixteen cents a pound. Chickens ranged in prices from sixty to seventy-five cents a pound. Ducks were offered at one dollar and forty cents a pair and geese at one dollar and twenty-five cents each. Nice "shiny" looking eggs were exposed for sale at forty cents a dozen; many of them were sold for

FOURTEEN WOUNDS; OTHERWISE ALL RIGHT

BERLIN, December 2.—The report of the following incident was sent to the Berliner Tageblatt by a physician.

"In the royal surgical clinic in Ziegelstrasse there arrived a new transport filled mainly with severely wounded men, most of whom had to be carefully carried to their beds. One sturdy defender of his country clambered out without any assistance and approached the physician who was receiving them.

"'Well, my man,' said the latter, 'you were not very badly hurt?'

"'So,' the man in the field grey answered, 'only three blows on the head with the butt end of a rifle, ten bayonet thrusts, and a shot through my chest. Nothing else.'"

Lucky.

"I proposed to Miss Slathers last night."

"That girl's lucky, all right."

AUSTRIANS OCCUPY BELGRADE ON 66TH ANIVERSARY OF REIGN of Emperor Francis Joseph—Servians Evacuate City

LOSSES ENORMOUS

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The sixty-sixth anniversary of the reign of Emperor Francis Joseph was signalized yesterday by the fall of Belgrade, which was occupied by the Austrian troops after its evacuation by its Servian defenders. Until the outbreak of the war Belgrade was the capital of Servia, but at the opening of hostilities and the immediate bombardment of the city, the government was moved to Nish.

The news of the occupation of Belgrade, one of the most important of Austrian success, came almost with the hour when the serious illness of the Emperor was reported.

Scarcely a day has passed since Austria's declaration of war on Servia when Belgrade has not been under bombardment, and but for the general European war, which compelled Austria to send her troops against Russia, it must have fallen an easy prey to Servia's big neighbour.

Apparently Austria miscalculated the nature of the Servian opposition and only after Bosnia was invaded did she send a sufficient force against the Servians to drive them back. Now they are being forced backward and are eagerly looking for the advance of the Russians into Hungary to afford them relief.

Russia has been sending Cossack raiding parties through the Carpathians, with the object of diverting Austria's attention, but the dual monarchy seemingly is determined to finish with Servia first.

This, however, is only a small affair compared with what is going on in North Poland. There the German army, which with the aid of reinforcements succeeded in escaping from the ring the Russians had forged around it, has formed a new front and at some points has resumed the offensive. The Germans assert that in this series of manoeuvres, by which they wer able to check the Russians, they made 80,000 prisoners.

On the other hand, the Russians in a statement issued through Rome say their captures greatly exceed this number. All agree that the losses have been very heavy and that the battle is still proceeding. It probably will be some days before a decisive result is reached.

The Russian report last night said the fight has lost some of its violence, and indicated some progress for the Russian troops south of Lodz. It is unofficially reported that the Russians are "nearly in Cracow."

While there is every indication that another big battle is probable in the west, there is no evidence that it actually has begun. There has been fighting in Flanders, but this doubtless is the result of an attempt by the Allies to take some advanced positions. There also are reports that the Germans have evacuated several villages on the Yser Canal and are concentrating on new positions.

The British have taken over command of the Yser region and, like the French, have been strongly reinforced.

Overthrow Of British Empire Is Germany's Real Objective

The mask is off at last. The war is no longer described by official Germany as a war between German culture and Slav barbarism. It is now a war whose greatest object is to overthrow and utterly destroy the British Empire. This much was frankly admitted—even vehemently asserted—by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, the diplomat of "scrap of paper" fame, in the Reichstag yesterday.

It is a noteworthy sign of the desperate nature of Germany's position that there was not a word in the speech of the Chancellor as to the progress that Germany is making, and that the greater portion of that speech consisted on an attempt to convince the German people that the select little group of War Lords who have been running Germany are as innocent as new-born babes of any responsibility for bringing about war. One would imagine from his remarks that this party had founded the Peace Palace at the Hague, and that the book written by General von Bernhardi to educate the German people up to their imperial possibilities was really an English production adapted for German reading by a wicked and discredited individual, rather than the authorized expression of German military autocracy.

But there is another most significant point in his speech. Whether unconsciously or not, he made it quite clear that official Germany is now building all its hopes upon a Holy War. Said the Chancellor:

> We have found an ally in Turkey as all the Moslem people wish to throw off the English yoke and shatter the foundations of England's colonial power. Under the banner of our army and our fleet we will continue.

Later in his speech he harks back again to this shameful alliance with the cruellest barbarians who ever disgraced the history of Europe:

> Our latest ally in the war forced upon us is the Ottoman Empire, which well knows that if the German Empire were destroyed it would lose its national right to arrange its own destiny.

Looking back over Turkish history, it is easy to see that he means that Turkey will lose its right to slaughter and pillage and destroy. This is how Turkey's destiny has hitherto "arranged its own destiny." He is quite right. Proudly will all British people endorse the Chancellor's words. The Chancellor continues:

> As our enemies have formed a powerful coalition against us, they will, I hope, find that the arm of our brave allies reaches the weak spots in their world positions.

There we have the great hope on which the much-vaunted "unshakeable confidence" of Germany is based—the hope that the example of Turkey will light a flame that will spread through all the Moslem world; the hope that India and Egypt will revolt, and the British Empire be overthrown. If that is indeed Germany's trump card—and the hope of it was all the comfort the Chancellor had to offer the German people—then Germany is doomed to bitter disappointment, for never were Egypt and India more loyal to Britain than in this hour of trial.

"BE CANNY" ABOUT YOUR FUR BUYING

Looking at the advertising in some of the large city papers just now, one would think that high-class furs can be bought at half their regular price, which is obviously an untruth. One has only to have these gods sent down on approval, and to look carefully into their merits, to find, that better values in furs can be had in Peterborough, without any so-called cutting of prices. Any article in fur that is now being advertised in these "Slaughter Sales in Furs" can be had at Barrie's at equally as low prices and in some cases lower prices. The values quoted in a great many of these furs are largely mere fiction, or else they are "Out-of-Style" furs which any one would be glad to dispose of at a loss. How to be Sure

Shopkeepers and merchants throughout the Dominion are giving magnificent support to the "Made in Canada" movement.

Occasionally a shopkeeper, through lack of accurate information, may express the opinion that a certain class of article is not made in Canada, or is made only of an inferior grade.

If you are conscientiously trying to give "Made in Canada" goods first call in all your purchases, do not be content to relax your efforts just because you happen to receive this answer.

The shopkeeper may be perfectly sincere in his opinion, but there are other people who are more likely to have full and accurate information.

Why not write direct to the Canadian Manufacturers Association, Montreal, Toronto or Winnipeg? They have agreed to constitute themselves a general information bureau for the assistance of those who are trying to live up to the "Made in Canada" idea, and a line to them will always bring you prompt and reliable information, as to how and where to obtain the article you desire most conveniently and most quickly. If it is not made in Canada they will frankly tell you so.

When Rheumatism Strikes the Heart It Kills—"Nerviline" the Cure

Effect of Nerviline on Chronic Cases Is Almost Magical

Exposure to wet or cold is apt to bring on an attack.

Often the pain shifts from one part to another, and this is dangerous, as the heart is apt to be attacked. Death as a rule follows a heart attack.

This is a swift, lasting, and safe way to cure rheumatism. You can depend on Nerviline. It has the power, the penetrating force, the control over pain that is so essential to a rheumatic remedy.

The following letter is from Mr. E. G. Sautter, Port of Spain, Trinidad: "Last year I was severely troubled with rheumatism. I had it in my arms, shoulders and knees. The pain was at times excruciating, and laid me up so that I couldn't work. I went to Smith Brothers' Drug Store and was advised by the manager to use 'Nerviline.' That was excellent advice. I used Nerviline as directed and was cured, completely cured of every trace of my old enemy."

Once you use Nerviline you'll realize it's different from all the others—that it contains something that gets right "at" the pain the minute you rub it on. The large 50 cent family size is the most economical—get it to-day, or else the 25 cent trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

The Victoria Telescope

Interesting Lecture by Prof. Plaskett in the Normal School Last Evening

BIGGEST IN THE WORLD

An interesting and comprehensive address was given by Professor Plaskett in the Normal school last night under the auspices of the Astronomical Society when the lecture room of that institution was filled with an attentive audience. Prof. Plaskett described the details of the largest telescope in the world and for which the Canadian government is making the greatest single contribution towards astronomical research ever made by any government, in language which was admirable for its clarity and directness, and which was free as possible from technical allusions and terms. It was an interesting story of a gigantic undertaking and of the construction of a marvellous monument to modern technican efficiency, constructive skill and astronomical progress.

In opening the lecturer described the refracting and reflecting telescopes. It was the latter type which the Canadian government proposed to install at Victoria. The large mirror of this telescope is six feet in diameter, and photographs of it in the various stages of manufacture and treatment were shown. It was the most perfect large disk of glass ever manufactured and most fortunately the manufacturers in Belgium shipped it a few days before war was declared. Otherwise its delivery might have been delayed or prevented altogether. The rough work on the glass was done with chilled steel, the fine work with rouge and washed emery. The most difficult thing in the preparation of the glass was to get a perfect concave surface, which would not vary more than the two thousandth part of an inch from the theoretically perfect.

The mounting of the instrument was no less of a problem, and not less important than the optical perfection of the telescope. It cost $60,000 whereas the actual optical construction had only cost $30,000. The instrument without indescribably accurate mounting would be of little use. The tube of the telescope is 32 feet long. Of this 9 feet is an enclosed barrel and the other 23 feet a skeleton structure. The barrel has to be very rigid to prevent bending when it is rotated as the least deviation in this regard would spoil its effectiveness. The instrument weighed 40 tons and was mounted on reinforced concrete structures which were built forty feet into the earth.

The telescope was rotated by means of motors. A man at an outside switchboard by means of electricity rotated it at a speed of one revolution in eight minutes, and it was approximately at the point desired. Then the astronomer himself could rotate it by means of electric switches at the rates of one revolution in 36 hours or one revolution in a month, until it was accurately adjusted. Then, too, it could be set to revolve once in 24 hours. The rotating of the instrument necessitated a very complex system of mechanism.

This telescope was an advantage over the next largest in existence because it could be brought to view any part of the sky. It was not only the largest, but the best, and its construction and mounting had presented many exacting engineering problems.

The present work of determining the velocity of the stars to or from the earth was, had almost reached its limit with the present 15 inch telescope in use, but with the new one the work could be continued.

Prof. Plaskett explained why the instrument was set up at Victoria instead of Ottawa or any other point in Canada. It had been found that the air at Ottawa was not of a uniform density and this, of course, would hinder the use of the telescope to a great extent. The rainfall at Victoria was not large and climatic conditions were exceedingly suitable. All of which lead the astronomers to choose Victoria as the site for the observatory. The speaker explained that almost every part of the Dominion had been investigated for the purpose of determining its value as a site for the new telescope and the result had been the choosing of Victoria.

GERMAN VIEW OF CONQUEST OF RUSSIA

Proper Food And Clothing Al That Is Needed For Winter Invasion

IN THE MEANTIME---!

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Would a German army be able to withstand the rigour of a Russian winter?

"This question is being put everywhere in Germany," says the Chronicle. "Learned professors are answering it in the German newspapers, always in the affirmative. So far from severe cold being an evil, they say it is a positive good to a field army. All that is wanted is proper clothing and a proper diet, with the requisit number of calories. Severe cold is germicide, and therefore healthy.

"The question bears scarcely any relation to what is actually likely to happen. It concerns a German invasion of Russia proper as far as Moscow or Kieff, or further. East Prussia Poland, and Galicia, where the winter campaign may indeed be fought, have quite a distinct climate, and do not suffer the extreme winter cold of central Russia, where the average temperature is only 9 or 10 degrees above zero, and the big rivers are frozen hard from November to March.

"Germans are used to Polish Winters, which do not differ very much from their own. How would they make out in a real Russian winter?

"In the Berliner Tageblatt, Dr. Wilhelm Eckardt, of the Essen Meteorological Office, insists that severe cold is an advantage. "The heavy mantle of snow that is typical of Russia and the hard, frozen soil enable things to be done which would be otherwise impossible on the defective Russian roads and the few light-traffic railways; in every way a long hard frost is better than a mild, drizzly winter. The chief cause of the French disaster in 1812, he says, was lack of food and munitions, not the severe cold.

The only drawback is that the frost renders the digging of shelters and trenches impossible; but in this patriotic professor's opinion this drawback applies rather to the Russians than to the invaders, for the Russians would be on the defensive, and the chief means of defense is the trench.

Another professor, Dr. Balood, in the Preussiche Jahrlicher, goes ever further. The German armies are to conquer Russia or rather the richest and most populous part of it.

Only Difficulty is Food.

"The difficulty is not the cold but that of keeping an army supplied with food and ammunition over hundreds of miles of roads in a desolate country. Napoleon's old route—Kovno, Vilna, Smolenck, Moscow—which is about 50 miles long, does not attract him, the whole of the country it goes through being sterile, sandy or marshy.

BAD COLD IN THE CHEST.

"I am happy to tell you that I used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and was promptly cured of a very bad cold in the chest," writes Miss Josephine Gauthier, Dover South, Ont. You can depend on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to relieve and cure all inflammations and irritations of the throat and bronchial tubes.

Germans Have Wonderful Cars For the Wounded

Private Charity Gave 48 Hospital Trains to Supplement the Regulars

BERLIN 48 HRS. TO FRONT

BERLIN, Nov. 15.— Through the courtesy of the Foreign Office and the War Ministry I had an opportunity of examining the "last word" in German hospital trains, the new "Duchess Victoria Luise" before it started on its maiden trip to the front. Thirty-eight cars long and of all-steel construction throughout, it was equipped at a cost of about $20,000 by the Red Cross Association of the Duchy of Brunswick (the Government furnishing the rolling stock) and is the forty-eighth hospital train equipped and presented to the nation by wealthy private individuals and Red Cross Associations.

The last car is a storeroom for mattresses, linen, bedding and clothing. The train has accommodations for 300 wounded without crowding, and it is equipped with laundry facilities for double that number, so that as soon as it returns home from the front and discharges its cargo of wounded it can start right back again without having to wait for clean linen.

Next comes a car stocked with food supplies—enough being taken for one round trip. The third car is a model kitchen. In addition to a coal range it has four huge aluminum soup, broth and hot water kettles, the heat for these being steam-piped from the engine that pulls the train.

In Operating Room.

The fourth car is the operating room, equipped with the irreducible minimum of actual necessity. In the centre is a steel-framed operating table and there are a glass-topped tables for operating instruments, an instrument wall cabinet with glass doors, a sterilizer, a hot water heater, and a porcelain wash basin—nothing more. The forward end of the car is partitioned off to make a small room for drugs and surgical supplies. Dr. Niehues, chief of the medical staff of the War Ministry, who acted as my cicerone, said the operating car was used only in cases of the utmost emergency in transit. In each case the train is stopped while the operation is being performed.

Next comes the office of the chief surgeon in charge of the train; then a saloon car, luxuriously equipped—leather arm chairs, little writing desks, and engraved portraits of the Kaiser, Kaiserin, Crown Prince and Duchess Victoria Luise. It is theoretically a resting room or lounge for the surgeons and sisters—"when they get time to rest, which isn't often," commented the military guide.

Carefulness of Details.

Then come two saloon cars, each with ten small staterooms, for wounded officers; then two first and second class coaches—sleeping quarters for doctors and nurses—then thirty hospital cars for the wounded soldiers. They were formerly fourth class coaches, and have been remodelled by tearing out the hard wooden benches and partitions and painting the interior white. Each hospital car is a little ward of twelve cots—three "double decker" units along each side of the car—with a table and chair for the nurse in charge and a small cupboard containing dishes and table hardware for twelve, and also a telephone, the surgeon in charge being in telephonic communication with every car of the train. To the side of each cot a small round wooden tray is fixed on a swivel, while from the ceiling hangs a net basket to hold small personal belongings of the future patient. A clean shirt is laid out on every cot. Externally the hospital train is painted dark green. In the centre of the side of each car is a large white rectangle bearing the Red Cross symbol, the letter, number and name of the train, in this case "Hilfslazarettzug Z-1. Herzogin Viktoria Luise."

Dr. Niehues said to me:

"Our hospital trains now make the run from the front in France, say from Cambrai, to Berlin, in forty-eight hours." The same authority supplied some other interesting information about the sanitary service and care of the wounded.

PRESSING SERVIANS

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Russian Poland is still the centre of interest in the war situation, so far as military operations are concerned. Reports from the rival headquarters indicate that any decisive result on either side is still in the balance, although on the face of the known facts the conviction is growing here that the German tactical plan for the taking at Lodz what Bazaine failed to do at Metz, he has saved his army after it was encircled by the enemy.

But it is equally clear that the German tictical plan for the taking of Warsaw again has failed, according to the prevailing opinion in England. Whether a counter invasion of Silesia has been rendered impossible for the present remains to be seen.

Little activity along the Austrian front is reported. An exception is the assertion from Vienna of an Austrian victory with the capture of quantities of prisoners and munitions of war along the southern line, but there is nothing to indicate that Russia has given way in her evident intention of invading the rich German provinces by way of Cracow. Later official reports from Vienna declared that calm prevailed on the Cracow front, but that the fighting continued in the Carpathians.

Pressing Servians.

Servian eyes are turned hopefully in the direction of these mountains, in the expectation [illegible] of seeing a Russian force under the walls of Budapest. This would relieve the pressure being exerted against Servia by half a million Austrian troops who have forced the Servians back into strong defensive positions within their own borders.

Enemy Fails At All Points Allies Stronger Than Ever

BORDEAUX, Dec. 5.—The Bulletin des Armees, after reviewing at great length the military operations since the outbreak of the war, sums up the French situation on Dec. 1 as follows:

"In numbers, the French army today is equal to what it was on August 2, all the units having maintained their full strength. The quality of the troops has improved infinitely. Our men to-day fight like veterans. They are all deeply imbued with their superiority, and have absolute faith that they will be victorious. The higher command, renewed on account of necessary dismissals, has not committed during the past three months any of those faults noted and punished in August.

"Our supplies of artillery and ammunition have been largely increased. The heavy artillery which we lacked has been organized, and is working well.

"The British army has been strongly reinforced during November, and is numerically stronger than at the beginning of the campaign. The Indian divisions have finished their apprenticeships in the European war.

"The Belgian army has reformed in six divisions, and is ready and resolute to reconquer its native soil.

"The German plan has met with seven far-reaching reverses, namely: (1) the failure of a dash to Nancy; (2) the failure of the march on Paris; (3) the failure of the attempt to roll up our left flank in August; (4) the failure of the same manoeuvre in November; (5) the failure to pierce our centre in September; (6) the failure of the attack on Dunkirk and Calais by the coast; (7) the failure of the attack on Ypres.

"In this barren effort Germany has exhausted her reserves. The trops she brings into the line to-day are badly officered and badly trained.

"Russia more and more is establishing her superiority both ever Germany and Austria. The standstill to which the German armies have been brought is fatally doomed to be transformed into a retreat."

Dear Mr. Editor:—

Thanks for the privilege of appealing through your columns on behalf of the Hospital for Sick Children. The Hospital takes care of sick and deformed children, not only in Toronto, but in the Province, outside of the city.

This coming year, of all the years in the Hospital's history, has a more serious outlook, as regards funds for maintenance, than any year that has passed its calendar.

So many calls are being made on the purses of the generous people of Toronto and Ontario, to help the soldiers of the Empire, that as I make my daily rounds through the wards of the Hospital, and see the suffering children in our cots and beds, the thought strikes me as to whether the people will as of old, with all the demands made upon them, answer our appeal and help to maintain the institution that is fighting in the never-ending battle with disease and death, in its endeavor to save the stricken little ones in the child-life of Ontario.

Last year there were 394 in-patients from 210 places outside of Toronto, and in the past twenty years there have been 7,000 from places in the Province other than Toronto.

It costs us $2.34 per patient per day for maintenance. The municipalities pay for patients $1 per patient per day; the Government allows 30 cents per patient per day; so, deducting $1.30 from $2.34, it leaves the Hospital with $1.14 to pay out of subscriptions it receives from the people of Toronto and the Province. The shortage last year ran to $15,000.

Since 1890 about 1,000 cases of club feet, bow legs and knock knees have been treated, and of these 900 had perfect correction. Nearly all these were from different parts of the Province outside of the city of Toronto.

Remember that every year is a war year with the Hospital; every day is a day of battle; every minute the Hospital needs money, not for its own sake, but for the children's sake. The Hospital is the battle-ground where the Armies of Life have grappled with the Hosts of Death, and the life or death of thousands of little children is the issue that is settled in that war. Will you let the Hospital be driven from the field of its battle to save the lives of little children for the lack of money you can give and never miss?

Every dollar may prove itself a dreadnought in the battle against death, a flagship in the fleet that fights for the lives of little children.

Remember that the door of the Hospital's mercy is the door of hope, and your dollar, kind reader, may be the key that opens the door for some body's child.

Will you send a dollar, or more if you can, to Douglas Davidson, Secretary-Treasurer, or

J. ROSS ROBERTSON,
Chairman of the Board of Trustees,
Toronto.

CONCRETE BEDS ONLY WAR MYTH

(From the New York Post.)

It is hard to part with a war-myth, but we are afraid that we shall have to give up those famous "concrete beds" which the Germans had prepared in England. The story of them is familiar. Here and there, near London it had been discovered by various Sherlock Holmses that an ostensible factory site, or even an innocent-appearing tennis-court, was in reality an implacement for German howitzers, made ready in advance with secret and devilish ingenuity. So firmly convinced of this were many Englishmen that the war office finally had the matter investigated. Major General O'Callaghan has reported on all the suspected places brought to public notice. He did, indeed, find some concrete floorings, but they were already giving away under the weight of mere machinery, without waiting for the heavy guns which they were to support. In a word, he completely disposes of the whole bugaboo. Moreover, Major-General O'Callaghan pointed out that if the Germans had made in England concrete bases for their heaviest guns they would have done a foolish, because entirely unnecessary, thing. There are no forts in England which it would need the 42-centimetre guns to demolish. If the Germans ever land an army on English shores they will need to bring with them only their ordinary field guns, which stand on their own wheels. So if there are really any "concrete beds" in England, they must have been made by the Russian soldiers on their way from Aberdeen to Dover.

ALL DIPHTHERIA CARDS DOWN

Disease Has Apparently Been Stamped Out

The Medical Health Officer, Dr. McPherson, reports that all diphtheria cards have been taken down and that the disease is apparently stamped out. No new cases have been reported in the last couple of weeks and there is not a card up anywhere in the city.

BELGIUM'S LOAD OF AFFLICTION "TOO DOLOROUS FOR ANY WORDS"

Suffering of Belgians and Others in War-Ridden Countries Told by Irvin S. Cobb in Description of Conditions Written at Request of the American Red Cross.

Irving S. Cobb has written the following at the request of the American Red Cross management, sketching some of his recent observations in the European war zone:

"Recently I have been in four of the countries concerned in the present war — Belgium, France, Germany and England. I was also in Holland, having traversed it from end to end within a week after the fall of Antwerp, when every road coming up out of the south was filled with Belgian refugees.

"In Belgium I saw this:

"Homeless men, women and children by thousands and hundreds of thousands. Many of them had been prosperous, a few had been wealthy, practically all had been comfortable. Now, with scarcely an exception, they stood all upon one common plane of misery. They had lost their homes, their farms, their workshops, their livings and their means of making livings.

FURTIVE SCARECROWS.

"I saw them tramping aimlessly along wind swept, rain washed roads, fleeing from burning and devastated villages. I saw them sleeping in open fields upon the miry earth with no cover and no shelter. I saw them herded together in the towns and cities to which many of them ultimately fled, existing God alone knows how. I saw them — ragged, furtive scarecrows—prowling in the shattered ruins of their houses, seeking salvage where there was no salvage to be found. I saw them living, like the beasts of the field, upon such things as the beasts of the field would reject. I saw them standing in long lines waiting for their poor share of the dole of a charity which already was nearly exhausted.

WOMEN AS BRAVE AS THE SOLDIERS.

"I saw their towns when hardly one stone stood upon another. I saw their abandoned farm lands where the harvests rotted in the furrows and the fruit hung mildewed and ungathered upon the trees. I saw their cities where trade was dead and credit was a thing which no longer existed. I saw them staggering from weariness and from the weakness of hunger. I saw all these sights repeated and multiplied infinitely — yes, and magnified too—but not once did I see a man or woman or even a child that wept or cried out.

"If the Belgian soldiers won the world's admiration by the resistance which they made against tremendously overpowering numbers, the people of Belgium—the families of their soldiers—should have the world's admiration and pity for the courage, the patience and the fortitude they have displayed under the load of an affliction too dolorous for any words to describe, too terrible for any imagination to picture.

"In France I saw a pastoral land overrun by soldiers and racked by war until it seemed the very earth would cry out for mercy. I saw a country literally stripped of its men in order that the regiments might be filled. I saw women hourly striving to do the ordained work of their fathers, husbands, brothers and sons, hourly piercing together the jarred and broken fragments of their lives. I saw countless villages turned into smoking, filthy, ill-smelling heaps of ruin. I saw schools that were converted into hospitals and factories changed into barracks.

SAW MAIMED IN GERMANY.

"In Germany I saw innumerable men maimed and mutilated in every conceivable fashion. I saw these streams of wounded pouring back from the front endlessly. In two days I saw trains bearing fourteen thousand wounded men passing through one town. I saw people of all classes undergoing privations and enduring hardships in order that the forces at the front might have food and supplies. I saw thousands of women wearing widows' weeds and thousands of children who had been orphaned. I saw great hosts of prisoners of war on their way to prison camps, where, in the very nature of things, they must forego all hope of having for months, and perhaps for years, those small creature comforts which make life endurable to a civilised human being. I saw them crusted with dirt, worn with incredible exertions, their uniforms already in tatters and their broken shoes falling off their feet.

PRODUCTS OF WAR.

"On the day before I quit German soil — the war being then less than three months old—I counted in the course of a short ride through the city of Aix-la-Chapelle, two convalescent soldiers who were totally blind, three who had lost an arm, and one, a boy of eighteen or thereabouts, who had lost both arms.

"If any small word from me, at tempting to describe actual conditions, can be of value to the American Red Cross, in its campaign of mercy, I write it gladly. I wish only that I had the power to write lines which would make the American people see the situation as it is now—which would make them understand how infinitely worse that situation must surely become during the next few months."

MISSIONARIES TELL OF THEIR HARDSHIPS

Serious Situation in the Far East —Churches and Hospitals Suffer

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Although the missionary societies have not been able to get mail from Turkey since the Ottoman Empire entered the war, the letters which were sent just before the trouble started bring word of a serious state of affairs. It is admitted by the authorities that this situation cannot have been improved since the Turks took up arms, and there is little doubt that the missionaries face the most trying times in the history of mission work.

Some of the more recent letters have been printed in the latest issue of the Quarterly Bulletin of the American Board. Dr. A. N. Andrus, writing from Mardin, says:

"Everything is in confusion, trade is utterly paralyzed, travel is impossible, transportation is stopped, schools are stripped of their teachers, money has ceased to circulate, drafts cannot be cashed, grain remains unthreshed and unwinnowed for lack of animals and men to do the work; the labour market is closed, and hunger in the midst of plenty is already looking in at the door of thousands of homes, when two, three, four and, in some cases, five of the bread-winners have been summoned to the ranks."

From Marash, Dr. E. C. Woodley writes: "Churches cannot pay Pastors' salaries and we cannot help because of our shortage of funds. From one of our best out-station churches seventy-two out of ninety-four male members have been called out as soldiers."

The hospitals of the Board have also been affected by the war. The institution at Konia, superintended by Dr. Dodd, has been seized by the Turkish government, but the physician has been left in charge. Dr. H. H. Atkinson of the hospital at Harpoot writes:

"The situation is going to hit our medical department pretty hard. We have ordered our year's supplies from America, England and Constantinople. These orders have been filled and the shipments are scattered along the way without much hope of their reaching us, as all the animals have been taken for the movement of the troops."

Dr. E. C. Partridge, from the station at Sivas, writes:

"The general situation here is as bad as it could be. Practically all horses, many oxen and to-day cows have been taken. Everything that is movable is being taken from the shops and in some cases from the houses. Thousands of villagers have been sleeping hungry in the streets of Sivas for three weeks while their wheat is wasting in the fields. I have seen nothing since 1900 to compare with the present situation and I have been through earthquake, famine and cholera."

FOUR TRAINS TO AND FROM TORONTO

Shrinkage in Traffic Necessitates Change

In reply to an inquiry regarding the cutting off of trains on the C.P.R., Sir Thomas Shaughnessy has written Mr. Basil Hall, the president, to the effect that owing to a shrinkage in the traffic, it was found necessary to take off certain trains, but that there would still be four trains to and from Toronto, as well as one each way between Peterborough and Port McNichol. There will also be a mixed train in each direction every morning between here and Toronto, making it possible to get freight here from Toronto early in the day and vice versa.

Nervous Prostration and Heart Troubles.

Nervous Prostration, or Neurasthenia, is one of the worst forms of nerve trouble and brings about a general weakness of the whole nervous system.

The symptoms presenting themselves are headache, a feeling of depression, disturbed and restless, unfreshing sleep, often troubled with dreams, fright when in crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of society, fright at travelling, muscular weakness, sense of fatigue upon effort, etc.

All are curable if taken in time.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just what you require at this time. They strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

Mrs. John Hewson, Caledonia, Ont., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know the great benefit your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. I suffered for four years with heart trouble and nervous prostration. I was so bad I could not go up stairs without sitting down at the top before I could go to my room. I could not sleep nor could I lie on my left side, for it would seem as if my heart would stop. I thought my time had come. I was doctoring with the doctor, but didn't get any benefit. I took eight boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and am enjoying good health."

Price, 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GERMANS BUILD STRONG FORTS IN BELGIUM

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 2. — Despite the fact that there are yet no signs of a German retirement in West Flanders and northern France, into which sections the invaders are unceasingly pouring reinforcements, the Kaiser's troops have thrown up what appears to be a well-nigh impregnable barrier in the rear of their present front.

The defence works erected six miles from Ghent are described as consisting of exceedingly strong entrenchments on high ground, commanding the highway to Brussels. Reinforced concrete has been used for the construction of gun bases.

A line of fortresses, the exact nature of which is unknown, have been built for miles and miles along the crest of a range of hills. The guns planted there are said to have a range of six miles.

News from points farther south say that the Germans are still at work building works of immense strength behind their present lines. These consist mainly of rank after rank of barricades and earthworks, some in echelon, so that if they are taken the enemy can be subjected to an enfilading fire. All are supported by battery after battery of heavy guns. The store of Germany's big cannon is astounding. It seems inexhaustible. These works can only be attacked successfully by guns of the mightiest calibre in the ranks of the allies.

The Ghent-Bruges road has been packed for a week with troops hurrying westward to reinforce the first line. Bruges has more soldiers in it now than at any other time since the war began. Train after train, each carrying from twenty to forty cars, pulled by two locomotives, dash westward in quick succession, bearing troops, heavy guns, provisions, winter clothing, hospital supplies, surgeons, nurses and ammunition.

SKIN SOFT AS A CHILD'S.

"I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years," writes Mr. John W. Naas, Lunenburg, N.S. "Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment."

IRRIGATION ASKED FOR

Farmers in Alberta Petition The Government

Farmers in Southern Alberta have circulated a petition to the Dominion Government asking that irrigation, which was such a success as carried out by the Canadian Pacific, be extended to their lands. The present season has demonstrated the advantages of irrigation, as irrigated farms have fine crops, whereas in districts where irrigation was not available the results have been disappointing. These farmers have had the opportunity of seeing the results attendant upon the C.P.R. irrigation work; and they are anxious that their lands should be similarly treated. In their petition to the Hon. Mr. Roche, minister of the interior, the petitioners state that to meet the construction they will bond their land and are willing to pay the capital cost of installing this system, with interest of four per cent., extending the time of repayment of the cost of construction over a period of forty years — the first payment of such a sum of indebtedness to become due four years after the completion of the canal, thus affording farmers an opportunity to be in a position to make the payments promptly by getting their farms in a proper condition for irrigating growing crops in a profitable manner.

TWENTY-TWO SILVER CUPS

Among Special Prizes for the Poultry Show Next Month—Trade Depression Has Not Decreased the Number of Classes

MEETING LAST NIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association was held in their hall on Simcoe Street last night. President Fred Holmes was in the chair and a large number of members were present. As last night's meeting was the last before the annual poultry show there was considerable enthusiasm shown in the discussion of matters in connection with this, the main event event of the year for the poultry breeders.

All indication last night would seem to indicate the poultry show is not going to suffer through hard times, but that in spite of general trade depression and the condition of the money market the show is going to be larger and better than any year in the past. In the first place the Revision committee reported that there were a hundred classes on the prize list this year, which exceeds the number for any previous year. The special prize committee reported an increase in the number of special prizes to be offered and the Printing committee's report was also encouraging and satisfactory. Among the special prizes this year are 22 silver cups.

Mr. George Paxman, the well known poultry authority, was again appointed superintendent of the annual show, which is to be held on January 5th, 6th and 7th. This is the seventh year in succession that Mr. Paxman has acted as superintendent and last night several tributes were paid him in regard to the splendid manner in which he had always supervised the arrangements in connection with previous shows.

Between now and the 5th of next month the arrangement for the poultry event of the year will be completed and a splendid show is promised.

Double Fatality Near Franklin

House of Mark White Burned Together With Two Children

FRANKLIN, Dec. 4.—A sad fatality occurred on the Moss Road, west of this place, when the residence of Mr. Mark White was burned. It appears that Mrs. Mark White was attending to the milking, leaving her three children in the house. She was horrified when returning to find the home in flames. She immediately summoned her husband, who was at a neighbour's, and on his arrival it was found that it was impossible to save the house. The brave father rushed into the burning structure and got the children out. Two of them, however, were terribly burned. The youngest lingered a short time, when death ended its suffering. The second youngest, it is reported, died later.

WHOLE FAMILY USES THEM

"Fruit-a-tives" Keeps Young And Old In Splendid Health

J. W. HAMMOND Esq.

SCOTLAND, ONT., Aug. 25th, 1913.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the only pill manufactured, to my way of thinking. They work completely, no griping whatever, and one is plenty for any ordinary person at a dose. My wife was a martyr to Constipation. We tried everything on the calendar without satisfaction, and spent large sums of money until we happened on "Fruit-a-tives". I cannot say too much in their favor.

We have used them in the family for about two years and we would not use anything else as long as we can get "Fruit-a-tives".

Their action is mild, and no distress at all. I have recommended them to many other people, and our whole family uses them".

J. W. HAMMOND.

Those who have been cured by "Fruit-a-tives" are proud and happy to tell a sick or ailing friend about these wonderful tablets made from fruit juices. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

LINDSAY MAN ON THE RAMPAGE

Police Reserves Were Called Out Sentenced to Two Months in all

LINDSAY, Dec. 4.—A fine of $150 or two months in Castle Halfour, was the sentence meted out yesterday to one, Foster Treevor, at the Police Court. On Wednesday night, about 8 o'clock, he cut loose in front of the Academy, and his language was such as would put a type-setting machine in the scrap heap if it endeavoured to place it in type.

Chief Short was at his home when a message came that a bad actor was creating a disturbance in front of the Academy. The Chief hurried to the scene, and Treevor was there surrounded by a crowd of the great unwashed. He welcomed the police officer with a torrent of oaths and obscene language that hung like a pall round the electric light. Chief Short next proceeded to arrest Treevor, but he proved a nasty customer. The officer had his overcoat on and an umbrella in his hand and was handicapped somewhat in handling a stocky, liquor-crazed man. Several bystanders took a hand in the affair, and finally Constable Wood appeared on the scene. Treevor was taken to the cells, but during the night he proceeded to kick the end out of this subterranean institution.

Yesterday morning the prisoner was brought before Police Magistrate Jackson. It was decided to place him on the prohibited list. A fine of $15.50 was also imposed and, in default, two months in jail. Treevor had no money, so Chief Short took him up on the hill. The Magistrate in passing sentence, stated he hoped the Province of Ontario would take the same action as Manitoba in reference to the bars.

Caused by Export of American Product

Local butchers report that lambs will take a drop in price; in fact have done so to-day. The reason is that the United States Government is allowing lambs to be exported to Canada and the new regulations came into force the first of the month. How great will be the effect on the Canadian market is not yet known, and buyers are lying low in consequence.

ALLIES HAVE COMMENCED AN OFFENSIVE MOVEMENT

PARIS, Dec. 4.—The trend of official and unofficial news is that the Allies have at last begun the great offensive movement which has been so long expected.

Cautiously and carefully worded, the official reports of the French Government avoid any such general assertion, but there are intrinsic evidences in the reports which stir the hopes of the public.

These evidences are that the German offensive in Flanders has dwindled to desultory attacks by infantry and lessened artillery energy; that the French and British have advanced their lines in the past few days, and are now "organizing the postions taken from the enemy; that 991 German prisoners were captured on Dec. 2, and that the French artillery has demonstrated its superiority.

The unofficial news, contained in despatches from correspondents, is that the Allies have brought heavy reinforcements to Flanders and Northern France, and that there are indisputable indications that they have taken the offensive. (It may be noted that the official statement in Berlin by the chief of the army administration says that French attacks in Flanders were repeatedly repulsed, and was the first admision by Berlin that the Allies have begun an offensive movement.)

Attack East and West.

A general attack by the French is obviously being made at the east of the line as well as at the west. The official report mentions an advance in the direction of Altkirch, in upper Alsace, which followed advances toward Muelhausen. It is to be assumed, therefore, that the Allies are attacking at both ends of the line, while content to hold the Germans passive along the old centre.

The report of the afternoon mentioned artillery fighting between Ypres and Roulers, and an unsuccessful attack by German infantry. There was no conflict elsewhere, except in the Argonne, where the Germans were defeated at La Corne.

It is unofficially reported that the Germans are sending reinforcements to Flanders and to Alsace, and that the heavy fighting of the next few days may be looked for in these regions.

FRENCH ARE PROGRESSING FROM VICINITY OF VERDUN

In the French lines, Dec. 4.—Verdun, the great central doorway of the Lorraine frontier, is not only banged, barred and bolted against the invader, but it covers an area, if not of perfect peace, at least of perfect security. Verdun has been advertised by the German commanders as being subject to a close investment. They even claimed to have captured some of the forts. No doubt the German people imagine it is besieged. I wish some of their representatives, if they have any free men who could tell them the simple truth, could have accompanied us in at least a part of this tour of inspection which has been of extraordinary interest. No better proof, perhaps, could be offered in such small compass of the futility of the adventure in which the Prussian Generals have involved them.

Verdun has never been besieged. Its communications are untaken. It is the centre of a district in which there is no menace. On north, west and east there is at least 20 miles distance before the zone of German gun fire is reached. The road to the city through Argonne is safe, and as quiet as the road from York to London. On the south the Germans touch the Meuse at only one single point, St. Mihiel. To reach it from Metz there is but one single difficult road, and all along that line the position of the Germans is exceedingly precarious. Around a semi-circle north of Verdun the French armies make slow but steady progress. They are prepared for winter as well as an armies can be.

The men are enjoying an impregnable position. The secret of this important success at the pivoting point of the western campaign is not the strength of the fixed defences of Verdun, for many of the forts have not fired a single shot. It is that the army has never lost its freedom of action. For the moment all danger is now past on the eastern frontier.

Big Falling Off In Revenue

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 4.— The Dominion financial statement for the first eight months of the fiscal year, including November shows a decided falling off in revenue as compared with the same period last year.

The revenue for eight months was $20,448,002, which is about $24,000,000 decline from the same period last year.

FIELD MARSHAL SIR JOHN FRENCH

By Alexander Baird.

LIKE all Britain's greatest generals, past and present, like Lord Kitchener, who appointed him to the command of the British "Expeditionary Force" in France, Field Marshal Sir John Denton Pinkstone French is an Irishman, though born in England, at Ripple Vale, Ripple, Kent, on September 29, 1852, to be precise. He is the son of the late Captain French, of the Royal Navy, and it was early intended that he should follow his father's profession.

When fourteen years old he joined the Britannia, and served for four years as a naval cadet and midshipman, quitting the service in 1870. One may only imagine what he might have been had he remained in the navy. Among those who served in the famous training ship with French was another Irish youth of his own age, one George Astley Callaghan, from Cork. To-day that boy is a full Admiral, a Knight Commander of the Bath, and commander in chief of the home fleet. Another of French's Britannia shipmates is now Sir Percy Scott, of gunnery fame.

But prospects of promotion in the navy in those days seemed too poor to young French, and he resigned, but not before he had learned something of "the way they have in the navy," which was one day to serve him in good stead.

But that he left the "senior" service for the army has never been forgotten, and he sometimes has to endure some good natured chaff from friends in the sister branch. It is narrated that on one occasion some naval officers were dining at French's mess, when one remarked, "You haven't got a cavalry leader in the army worth the name, with the exception of French, and he's a sailor."

"Yes," [illegible] a brother officer of French, "he was in the navy just long enough to see what a rotten service it was. Then he chucked it and joined the militia, where he learned to be what he is now."

In any [illegible] what the fleet lost the army gained in a leader of notable ability. And what a change has come over the navy since French was a midshipman. Its guns little better than the weapons were used at Trafalgar, they were [illegible], dumpy things, like soda water [illegible] and Admiral Fitzgerald has said the projectiles "frequently broke up the guns, or else turned end over end, went in any direction except the [illegible]."

The [illegible] those days knew little or nothing torpedo. It was an undeveloped toy of a few feet, submarine was the unsubstantial of madmen. The ships of the fleet built of wood. Sails and their [illegible] the glory of officers and men. [illegible] of England, it was declared, [illegible] on fighting against all "new ideas." When flogging was abolished the navy was believed by many senior officer to be going to [illegible]. The sun seemed to be setting [illegible] been "going to the dogs" ever since [illegible] the way is a long one, longer [illegible] the way to Tipperary."

The [illegible] warrior, on which French served [illegible] year of his four in the navy, [illegible] of some 9,000 tons, with sails [illegible] liary engines, has left "the line." [illegible] was one of the wonders of the world [illegible] French's naval days. Now she is [illegible] hulk. In her place is the superb [illegible] ght of 24,000 tons, with a speed [illegible] knots, instead of 14, then an [illegible] nt of pride. The cumbersome [illegible] 68 pounds have vanished. In place are the rifled, breech-loading [illegible] ace capable of throwing a projectile [illegible] 1,250 pounds from Dover Harbour [illegible] preading destruction in the town [illegible] or beyond.

[illegible] after leaving the Royal navy, [illegible] young French entered the army, [illegible] ing a commission in the Eighth Hussars. His early years were uneventful. He became a captain in 1880, and was promoted to a majority two and a half years later. It was not till 1884 that he saw anything of active service.

General Gordon was beleagured in Khartoum. A relief expedition was finally undertaken, and the Camel Corps, of four regiments, was preparing to strike across the Bayuda Desert from Korti to Matammeh. It was December 3, 1884, when the Desert Column started on the desperate venture. It numbered but 1,000 officers and men, but they were the flower of the army, led by Sir Herbert Stewart. With the Desert Column went Major French, and at Abu Klea he took part in what the historian of the "River War" has described as "the most savage and bloody action ever fought in the Soudan by British troops. Notwithstanding the grit and valor of the Arabs, that they penetrated the square, and that they inflicted on the troops a loss of nine officers and sixty-five men killed, and nine officers and eighty-five men wounded—ten per cent of the entire force—they were driven from the field with great slaughter, and the Desert Column camped at the Wells."

French moved on with a weakened column, much short of water, impeded by the carriage of wounded men and stores, accomplished a march of twenty-seven miles from the Wells of Abu Klea to the Nile at Matammeh, cutting a road for themselves through the very midst of the Dervish army. "Infuriated by their losses, and fully aware of the sore straits to which their astonishing enemy was now reduced."

At Matammeh French and his troops waited, sick with anxiety about the fate of Gordon, longing to know whether Gordon had been saved, while Sir Charles Wilson, with twenty British soldiers and a few bluejackets, embarked on two of Gordon's steamers and set out for Khartoum, only to find on arrival that the British flag was no longer flying, that the lonely man had been sacrificed, that all was over and that they had come too late.

French was one of those who marched back across the Bayuda Desert to Korti, their footsteps dogged all the way and their retreat pressed by the exultant enemy.

Many years elapsed before French again saw active service in Africa.

When in October, 1899, the government of the Transvaal threw down the glove to the British Empire, when the British strength in Africa consisted of only 6,000 men, organized in two regiments of cavalry, three field batteries and six and a half battalions of infantry, and when reinforcements were despatched from England in swift ships, to French came the first real great chance of his life. He was appointed to command a cavalry division in Natal, with the rank of major general.

The actual outbreak of war found him at Ladysmith in command of his division. The day after he arrived he reconnoitred in force to Modder Spruit, and on October 21 he led out towards Elandslaagte a few squadrons of cavalry with a field battery and half a battalion of infantry. The Boers were surprised at Elandslaagte and routed. They fled, but speedily realizing how small was the force opposed to them, they rallied, and French withdrew, hard pressed, to the high ground north of the Modder, from where he sent to Ladysmith for troops to reinforce his position. On their arrival French again took the offensive, captured the Boer position, and the two opening actions of the campaign terminated in favor of the British.

French then found himself in Ladysmith, but, before the town was surrounded, General Sir George White recognizing that the coming siege precluded the use of cavalry, General French was sent out of Ladysmith by the last train which was able to make its way through the Boer forces closing round the town.

To French was then assigned the small force—which never was large, even when reinforced—to oppose the forces invading Cape Colony. But French's operations were admirably conducted, and later, for the relief of Kimberley, the opening scene of a new act in the war drama, Lord Roberts called on French to join him at the point where he was preparing for the advance upon the capitals of the twin republics; and the wild ride to the relief of beleaguered Kimberley is one of the romantic episodes of that war—the crossing of two rivers, the passage of the waterless veldt, the determination to get through, the brushing aside of the Boer position, and the intoxication of the straight run in to Kimberley.

And then the news of Cronje's situation brought to the wearied horsemen, the hurried marshalling of every man whose mount could still bear him, and the long ride over the shadowy plain to head off the Boer centre at the one unguarded rift by which he might yet escape.

The wild ride to Kimberley is graphically described by Major Dudley L. Stephens:—"At two o'clock in the morning 'boot and saddles,' blared on the regimental trumpets, and French's 5,000 men started on the hundred mile ride for the beleaguered diamond city.

"On the second day of the advance they found themselves facing two hills connected by a narrow pass from which emitted a blizzard of Mauser bullets and Creusot shrapnel shell. But French had no time to seek another route. Swinging round in his saddle he shouted to General Broadwood, 'Now, forward! Hell for leather!'

"Wave after wave of cavalry, the Ninth Lancers leading, swept at a mighty gallop through the neck and on to the open plain beyond. Some sixty chargers and half as many troopers rolled over through the process of Messrs. Mauser, Canet-Schneider & Co., and fifty seven brother Boers tested an invigorating acquaintance with the beautiful white weapon.

"If French had hesitated and tried another way round, that slim old grey veldt wolf Cronje would have effected his escape from the banks of the Orange River and the adjoining Orange River Republic, with the result that Lord Roberts' great strategic movement would have been indefinitely held up. French's supreme qualities as the Murat of our line saved the situation, when he, with that politeness so characteristic of a cavalry leader, expressed his conception of the situation to that 'Now, forward! Hell for leather!'"

Throughout the operations resulting in the capture of Bloemfontein and Pretoria General French commanded the cavalry division. He was in charge of Lord Roberts' left wing in the battle of Pretoria, and commanded the force in the operations culminating in the capture of Barberton.

During the spring of 1901, after Lord Roberts had returned to England, General French was in charge of the extended operations in the Eastern Transvaal, and he was employed later on and up to the end of the war against the rebels in Cape Colony.

For French, South Africa proved not the grave it had proved for others, but the cradle of a reputation. As Lord Roberts said of him, "he was the only divisional commander in South Africa who never had a fall."

It has been said of French that "in character he is a man of cold persistence, and of fiery energy, cautious, and yet audacious, weighing his actions well, but carrying them out with a dash which befits the mounted leader. He is remarkable for the quickness of his decision, alert, resourceful and determined."

Promoted to the rank of lieutenant general after the South African war, he retained command at Aldershot until 1907, working hard to bring the army up to a high state of efficiency and readiness for service. At a time, too, when many men were too prone to accept the so-called lessons of the South African campaign as applicable to war under all possible conditions and against every description of belligerent, French retained an open mind and was able to discern and to teach those under him how far the lessons were acceptable and to what extent they were of avail only in regard to the peculiar and novel conditions under which they had been studied.

At the end of 1907 French was appointed Inspector General of the Forces in succession to the Duke of Connaught, an appointment for which his long, varied and distinguished services both at home and in the field peculiarly fitted him, a general who had always proved himself equal to the strategy of his opponents and who always checked and harassed them most unmercifully.

As retiring in private life as he is forward in war, General Sir John French is less well known to the public than even his chief, Lord Kitchener. As to his personality, the phrase "the square little general" would serve to describe him in army circles, without mention of his name. He has the shape of a brick, as well as the best characteristics of one. He is a thickset little man, who always stands with his legs and feet well apart and sits "bunched up in his saddle like a red Indian squaw." A view of his back suggests the thickset, reckless shape of General Grant, and he has more than a suspicion of General Grant's doggedness in him.

Now one of the things French disliked in an officer was persistence in calling the Boers "Bores." That the Boers bored him he never would admit, and he tried hard to correct that impression in his officers; but they would persist in the mispronunciation, intentional or not.

"Boers, you say?" inquired the General, without raising his head.

"Yes, sir, Boers. Can I do anything, sir?"

"Yes, don't become one of them."

Sir John French has made himself what he is, not by being a martinet hidebound by the traditions of pipeclay and drill, as much as by a power of teaching men that in modern warfare safety lies in "slimness," and victory in guile, just as much as in the more easily recognizable expressions of martial valor.

Stern he may be, but scrupulously just and his men respect him for it.

"Do French don't bite, don't 'e?" said a "Tommy," whom he had "hauled over the coals" for an act of carelessness. "But blimey, don't he 'oomin' well bite?"

Distinctly he belongs to the Kitchener school, for the first and foremost, as the army well knows, he is an efficiency lover.

Mrs. Despard, the General's "militant" sister, a woman who by her "masterly" tactics down Westminster way showed that the French family possesses a common strain of uncommon ability in the matter of manoeuvres, and furthermore that they are quite indifferent to what the world may say of them, has a tremendous respect for her brother's qualities as a soldier.

"My brother," she said, "will be one of the happiest men in the field. The 'war game' is his one passion. He loved it when he was a boy. Battles and preaching were his only hobbies. Napoleon was, and is still, one of his heroes. Not Napoleon, the politician, but Napoleon, the soldier. He holds very strongly that the soldier should stick by the sword, the peasant by his plough. He considered Napoleon the greatest tactician the world has ever known. And in one curious way his Napoleon cult has been unexpectedly useful. In pursuing his hero worship he has traced every hillock and hedgerow of the country where he is now fighting. He knew the Belgian theatre of war, in particular, by heart, through the Waterloo campaign before he ever landed.

"For all his strength of brow the General's moustache masks a most sensitive mouth. As a boy he was even nervous. I am still, of course. Any great task is apt to daunt me at first. I remember once feeling dreadfully 'down' before addressing a meeting on certain reforms which seemed to me very, very urgent. I stood before one of the big tasks of my life, and I was spiritually afraid—afraid some other might have done it better, afraid I would not meet the need. And I rather shamefacedly told my brother. 'Why?' he said, 'I've never yet done anything worth doing without having to screw myself up to it.' Physical fear he doesn't know, but spiritual doubt—yes."

He has a reputation, too, as a wit, but his "good things" are savored only by the services. He dearly loves a joke. One of the best stories told about him is how one night at dinner, some officers were discussing rifle shooting. The Field Marshal was listening, as was his wont, without making any remark, until at length he chipped in with:

"Say, I'll bet any one here," in his calm, quiet, deliberate way, "that I can fire ten shots at five hundred yards, and call each shot correctly without waiting for the marker. I'll stake a box of cigars on it."

The major present accepted the offer, and the next morning the whole mess was at the shooting range to see the trial.

Sir John fired. "Miss!" he announced. He fired again. "Miss!" he repeated. A third shot. "Miss!"

"Hold on there!" protested the major. "What are you doing? You are not shooting at the target at all."

But French finished his task. "Miss!" "Miss!" "Miss!"

"Of course I wasn't shooting at the target," he said. "I was shooting for the cigars."

To conclude, Field Marshal Sir John French has a fine taste in fiction, a correct musical ear, a capital singing voice, exceptional skill at bridge, and, much to his regret, a snowy white moustache.

His other possessions include a charming wife, two stalwart sons and a pretty daughter who bears the uncommon name of Essex.

We shall see that, with their burning faith, their modesty and their ideals, they will prove unconquerable, as indeed they always have been. The doubters and dreamers of Tolstoy and Tourgenieff have become the fighters of 1914. Mr. Maurice Baring and others who know the moujik well tell us that Milton's "Paradise Lost," admirably translated, is universally read among the peasantry. The upper middle class is progressive to a man, and especially to a woman; the future mothers of Russia are more akin to the intellectually "advanced" women of England than those of any other race. Their feminine aristocracy is the most intelligent and highly accomplished in the world. I once said to a sceptical young American friend, "The world will belong to the tea drinkers; to the English, the Russians, the Chinese and the Japanese." He scoffed at my theory, but before this century is ended it will, in all human probability, be realized.

Municipal Pot Is Simmering

In Norwood—List of Likely Candidates

NORWOOD, Dec. 4—Already there is some talk locally concerning municipal matters and an election seems very likely. Reeve B. W. Squire will seek office again, while Councillor T. W. Morrison is also an aspirant for the chief magistrateship. And there may be a third candidate, as ex-Reeve Breault's name is mentioned, too, while the position and we understand he would not be unwilling to enter the field in the event of a goodly portion of the ratepayers so desiring. Of the present Council Board, Councillor Pakeham, who has been ill for some time past, may retire; Coun. Hendren is undecided; Councillor Portway, however, will stand. As yet no other names have been definitely mentioned as candidates.

CLERGY ORDINATION PROVED FRAUDULENT

No Divine Authority For Ecclesiastical Titles.

A POINT NOT GENERALLY KNOWN

Christian People Humbugged—Dignified False Pretense — Christ's Kingdom Thereby Injured—Shackles of Ignorance and Superstition Forged—The Start of the Error—Its Motive—Its Bad Effects—The Proper Remedy.

New York City, Dec. 6. — Pastor Russell, speaking to-day at New York City Temple, W. 63rd Street and Broadway, took for his text, "Cry aloud spare not; show My people their transgression." (Isaiah 58:1.) He prefaced his address with some remarks respecting the unpleasant duty implied in his text, declaring that he would far rather speak only smooth, pleasant things to everybody and concerning everybody. The Pastor certainly has the happy faculty of stating pungent truths in sympathetic language well supported by kindly tones. He speaks from the heart and carries conviction as respects his sincerity. He said in part:

Every unbiased student of the Bible surely will agree that our Redeemer and His disciples manifested great humility, in contrast with the clergy of our day and of centuries past. None of our Lord's disciple were Reverends, Right Reverends, Most Reverends—none of them were clergymen. They knew nothing whatever about the distinction between clergy and laity which subsequently developed. Jesus indeed did receive the title of Lord, or Master, Teacher; but with great humility He pointed out that His teaching was not His own, that He spoke the Message of the Father. Similarly the Apostles glorified God, and declared themselves "men of like passions with yourselves." Jesus taught His disciples that they should not be self-seeking, that they should not seek the honor which cometh from men, but only that which cometh down from Above. "One is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren," was His way of forewarning us against the error which afterward divided the Lord's people into clergy and laity.

It is but reasonable to assume that many Christian ministers have neither studied deeply nor thought carefully on this subject, but have merely followed the beaten path of their various denominations without inquiring for the Divine authority of their ordination, titles, and honors of men as titled ecclesiastics. But our sympathy should not hinder us from freeing our minds of the shackles of ignorance and superstition nor hinder us from helping others to the liberty wherewith Christ makes free.

The persecutions of the Second and Third Centuries undoubtedly tended to keep the Church humble and free from hypocrites, but the prosperity dating from the beginning of the Fourth Century had a bad effect. Many of the bishops, according to Church history, neglected to follow the example of Jesus and the Apostles, and became lords, dignitaries in the Church, seeking to impress the worldly, especially the rulers, with their importance.

In the year 330 A.D., under the patronage of the Emperor Constantine, all Christians who acknowledged the Nicene Creed were not only protected but honored, the Emperor seeking to strengthen his political power thereby. By him the Bishop of Rome was granted special honor as a chief amongst the Bishops, this also suiting the Emperor's plans of making Rome the centre of both political and religious influence. In the century following, the power of the Bishops was greatly increased by various false doctrines which gradually crept in. The doctrine of a fiery Hell of torture was one of these, followed later by a theory that members of the true Church would never be sent to it, but instead to Purgatory, the tortures of which would furnish them a second chance for purification and preparation for Heaven.

The clergy gradually grasped more and more of power and money for services in this world and beyond. Every marriage not performed by them would not be valid. Those married otherwise would be living in sin. The theory of infant damnation made the ministers additionally necessary to sprinkle the babes, to preserve them from eternal torture. Then followed classification of sins and the fixing of penalties and arranging for masses for the sooner deliverance of the culprit from Purgatory. Rites and ceremonies connected with the dead were also declared necessary. All of these served to bind the people to the clergy, and more and more separated them from the simplicity of the Gospel and the example of Jesus and the Apostles, to which we are seeking to return, but are fought at every step by ignorance and superstition within and without.

Favored by conditions prevailing, the Bishop of Rome became more and more prominent, while the Roman Empire gradually went to pieces. The Bishop of Rome took to himself the title Pontifex Maximus, which signifies "highest religious dignitary," a title which previously had been held by the Caesars. Another step in the wrong direction, which thoroughly separated the clergy from the laity, was the doctrine still held by the Church of Rome; namely, that the clergy alone constitute the Church, and that the common people are the "children of the Church." Many Catholics are not aware of this fact, but think that they are members of the Catholic Church. They forget that while they are privileged to call the unordained students by the title Brother, all the ordained number must be recognised as Father.

The year 800 found Pope Leo III. in great honor, and the Church flourishing and making higher claims than ever before; namely, that the Church became at that time the Kingdom of God. Catholics still hold that the Millennium, or Christ's thousand-year Reign, began that year. They claim that the Popes, each in turn, represent Christ in His Throne; hence the declaration that the Popes are Christ's Vicegerent—reigning instead of Him.

When the Pope represented Christ, the Cardinals as an order were brought in to represent the highest order of the Church in glory; then Archbishops, Bishops and the lower clergy—all separated from the people by a great gulf—the Clergy, the Elect of God, holding the power and the destinies of the laity in their control; the laity dependent upon the clergy for baptism, marriages, funerals, holy candles, holy water, consecrated burying-ground, and finally, an entrance into Purgatory instead of into eternal torment, with the ultimate hope of rescue to glory and with assistances by the way obtainable through the office of the Mass.

I am discussing the Church of Rome only, because for a time there was no other. Indeed, for a time it was dangerous to even suggest another. The Pope and the College of Cardinals, representing the Almighty, instructed the people who should be their kings and princes; and, as a matter of course, they were instructed to be obedient only to such as recognised the papal power, and they were absolved from obedience to others.

Thus the separation amongst Christ's followers of clergy and laity was established for centuries before the Protestant denominations of today were born. It was but natural that the Protestants should more or less copy the practices and many of the doctrines with which they had been familiar from childhood. The Greek, Armenian and Anglican Churches copied very closely the "Mother." They still preserve the likeness in many respects, even though they came out of her as Protestants and have sought to return to the Bible teachings and methods. But power and ceremony are difficult matters to get rid of. In consequence we see everywhere forms of godliness without seeing much manifestation of its power. We see much lip reverence without much manifestation of the Spirit of Christ.

Protestants are much confused respecting the papal claim that Christ's Kingdom has been set up. They, of course, deny that the Popes are Christ's vicegerent. Nevertheless, they have followed Papacy's lead in telling earthly kingdoms and rulers that they are part and parcel of Christ's Kingdom — "Christendom." They send their chaplains with the armies and navies of these kingdoms. They receive financial support and recognition from them, and call upon the civil power to suppress so-called heretics, refuse them license to preach, etc. Thus they follow closely in the footsteps of their Mother. Altogether these false doctrines are surely responsible, not only for many of the wars of the past, but also for the present European war.

We may assume that some of the clergy, Catholic and Protestant, are thoroughly confused and honestly doing what they believe to be the Lord's will in these matters. But, on the other hand, we are bound to assume that in the light of our day there are thousands of ministers who are not deceived—who know full well that the world is ruled, not by Christ and His teachings, but by self-seeking kings, princes, nobles, financiers, politicians, etc.

But knowing these things, seeing the people in ignorance, what have the ministers of so-called "Christendom" done to open the eyes of the people to the truth on this subject—to tell them that these kingdoms are not Christ's kingdoms in any sense of the word? How few of them ever even refer to the Second Coming of the Redeemer! How few of them have ever pointed their people to St. Peter's words respecting the glorious Times of Restitution which Messiah's Kingdom will usher in: "Repent ye, therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord; and He shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you, whom the Heavens must retain until the Times of Restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all His holy Prophets since the world began."—Acts 3:19-21.

Policy, self-seeking, lack of candor, are certainly manifest in the course of the preachers of all denominations. Now as the hour of their judgment approaches they deserve our sympathy. They have held on so long to the errors of the past that they are ashamed now to turn about and make confession. Many of them think that the safer course is to "bluff" the people. But it will not do. The light is shining too brightly for that. Knowledge is increasing every moment. Many in the pews are as well educated as the occupant of the pulpit, and decline to be any longer fed on chaff and wind. Hence the complained-of decline in church attendance.

In an endeavor to intimidate their people, to hinder them from hearing me and from reading my books entitled "Studies in the Scriptures," the preachers are going to absurd lengths. They have tried all kinds of slander and vilification, but still the common people are hearing gladly in all parts of the world the Message of the Bible—its anti-clerical message. They have published me as a heretic, only to find that the most thoughtful and intelligent of their people realize that their creeds are unsatisfactory and are the more anxious to know what I have to tell them respecting the Bible Message of God's Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power, operating through Jesus now for the blessing of the Church, and during the Millennium for the blessing of the remainder of the world.

I am glad that they are making known that I am not an ordained minister of their kind—as St. Paul says, I am not ordained of man or by man, but by the Lord. (Galatians 1:1.) In mentioning ordination, these ministers are counting on the ignorance of their people on the subject. Let me make the subject plain. The Church of Rome does not recognize the ordination of any Protestant minister. Until quite recently the Church of England recognized the ordination of the Church of Rome and the Greek Church, but did not recognize the ordination of Lutherans, Methodists, Presbyterians, etc.; nor do the others recognize each the Baptist ordination. If a preacher goes from one denomination to another, it is not requisite that he change his mind at all respecting the creeds, however different, but it is necessary that he be re-ordained by the denomination which he enters. As I refuse to be identified with any of these earthly churches, I, of course, do not wish an ordination or an authority to preach from any of them.

Nothing in the Bible gives authority for the organization of any of these churches. The Church which Jesus founded, and of which the Apostles were the inspired teachers, is Scripturally declared to be "the Church of the First-borns, whose names are written in Heaven." This Church is joined only upon God's terms, and the names are written or blotted out only by the Redeemer Himself. On its roll-call we doubt not there are saintly persons who are members of all denominations; but their earthly membership, contrary to the Scriptures, does not promote them in the Lord's esteem; but, on the contrary, they are hindered thereby.

According to the Bible, whoever joins the Church of Christ does so by joining Christ Himself—by surrendering his will to the Master—by becoming His pupil and follower—by exercising faith in Him—by being begotten of the Holy Spirit—by cultivating the fruits and graces of that Spirit—by thus being made ready for the inheritance of the saints—the Millennial Kingdom. These, as the Apostle declares are children of God and, if children, then heirs—heirs of God and joint-heirs with Jesus Christ their Lord, if so be that they suffer with Him, that they may be also glorified together—in His Kingdom, now soon to be manifested.—Romans 8:17.

The Church of Christ, according to the Bible has an earthly association, but it is not a bondage. It has no creed but the Bible. All of its members are brethren. None of them are lords. None of them are of the clergy class. None lord it over God's heritage. In their voluntary association as brethren some are recognised as Elder brethren, and are given more particular charge in the Church by the stretching forth of the hands of the Congregation in voting for them and by the subsequent co-operation of the Holy Spirit assisting them in the service of the Ecclesia. There are also Deacons, or servants in the Ecclesia who specially attend to other matters. There are also, according to the Scriptures, some who may be recognized as Pastors, or shepherds of the flock, under the great Chief Shepherd and Bishop of their souls, the Lord Jesus Christ.

So far from separating God's people into clergy and laity, the Scriptures insist that only One is the Master, that all others of the Lord's people are brethren. They are all ordained of God to be Divine ambassadors, to speak forth the Word of God as they have talent and opportunity. The qualifying ordination set forth in the Scriptures is that they shall have received the begetting of the Holy Spirit. This is said to be "an unction from the Holy One"—an anointing.

This is typified in the holy anointing oil used by the Jewish high priest. As that anointing was poured upon the head of the priest and ran down to the skirts of his garment, so in antitype the anointing of all the members of the true Church took place in the person of the Lord Jesus Christ. He was anointed of the Father to be the Bishop of our souls, to be the Head over the Church which is the Royal Priesthood. He is our great High Priest. His ordaining and anointing is the one which extends to all the members of His Church, giving the humblest of the Lord's people full ordination of God to speak His Word in His name and to expound the same to the extent of his talents and opportunities.

This ordination came upon Jesus at the time of His baptism, and was recognised as coming to the Church at Pentecost and has been with the Church ever since. Whoever, therefore, comes into the true Church of Christ by union with the living Head comes under the Scriptural ordination. What was prophesied of the Head is applicable to all His members; namely, "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon Me; because He hath anointed Me to preach good tidings unto the meek; to bind up the broken-hearted; to declare the acceptable year of the Lord."

That Racking Persistent Cough

Can Be Quickly Cured By DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

All obstinate coughs and colds yield quickly to the general action of "Dr. Wood's" for the simple reason that this valuable preparation combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with which is combined Wild Cherry Bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks. This makes it, without any chance of denial, the best cough medicine on the market to-day.

When you ask for "Dr. Wood's" see that it is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, and that the name, The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont., appears on the wrapper. Price, 25c and 50c.

Mrs. H. C. Kingston, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes: "I wish to recommend Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup as being the best cough medicine on the market. A few months ago I took a severe cold which left me with a racking cough. After trying several cough remedies, with no result, I decided to get a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after taking the first two doses it began to affect a cure, and after continuing its use for a short time, I was entirely cured. I cannot say too much in its praise."

More Praise for Dr. Hamilton's Pills

"For a period last summer the thought of food excited feelings of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodge of Bloomsbury. "The heat had made me listless and the distaste for food reduced me to a condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonics were useless to restore an active desire for food. The doctors told me my liver and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The difference I first noticed was, that while they cleansed the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their activity was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear, but I began to crave food and I digested it reasonably well. Then I began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

Get this best of all medicines today and refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers, 25c. per box or five for $1.00 Sent postpaid by The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SOLDIER WEDS BELGIAN GIRL

Love at First Sight for Young Canadian Who Marries Refugee

LONDON, Dec. 3.— A young Canadian private, Victor Albert Baker, engine driver on the Canadian Pacific Railway, returned to Salisbury this morning after one of the most hastily made matches on record.

Seven weeks ago another Canadian soldier introduced him to his cousin, a Belgian refugee, Bertha Vonden Boch, who was being cared for in a hostel attached to the Congregational Church at Nunhead. Bertha, twenty years of age, comes from Antwerp, where she was cashier in a hotel. It was a case of love at first sight. The language difficulty was a serious one, but was overcome, and on the second meeting after the introduction, Baker proposed marriage. He saw her twice more after that, and they were married yesterday.

The bride's mother and father are stranded on the Continent, but hearty approval came from the girl's uncle and aunt, also refugees from Belgium.

The bridegroom wore khaki, as also did his father, who is training with him, and the honeymoon was limited to one day.

The Mayoress of Camberwell attended the wedding breakfast, at which one of the guests offered the bridegroom this advice: "If you don't learn each other's language you will be the happiest man and wife in the world." The bride is to go to the home of her husband's parents in Canada to await his return from the war.

SWEPT BY BAD STORM

Atlantic Coast Suffers Severely and a Million Dollars Damage is Done

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The entire Atlantic seaboard from Norfolk to Maine is being lashed to-day by a gale that at some points has attained a velocity of seventy miles an hour. The storm has been blowing from the northeast for more than forty-eight hours, and shipping at many points has been completely paralyzed. Many vessels which put out before the gale began are unreported and much anxiety is felt for their safety. At many points along the Jersey Coast and on both shores of Long Island Sound cottages near the sea front have been undermined or are being pounded to pieces. Scores of bath houses at several New Jersey and Long Island summer resorts have been swept to sea. It is estimated the damage will amount to a million dollars or more.

SURRENDERED AFTER A GLORIOUS MEAL

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The London Daily Telegraph has a special from Boulogne saying: An official of a town in northern France gives the following story of its occupation last week:

"One hundred and fifty-five Germans took up their quarters in a castle three miles distant. They stayed for thirty hours. During that time they ate 400 eggs, 85 kilos of salt butter, five lobsters, five crabs, ten boxes of sardines, six boxes of dried beans, eight bags of peas, 60 pots of jam and a cow.

"They drank two casks of beer, 100 bottles of cider, 335 litres of red wine, 225 litres of white wine, 48 bottles of Malaga wine and twelve dozen bottles of cognac and champagne.

"When preparing to leave the Germans found that a regiment of French infantry had taken up its position in the neighbourhood. The Germans returned to the castle and hoisted a white flag, no shots being fired. An officer went out to speak with a French Lieutenant, and in less than a half an hour the 155 Germans had surrendered."

GERMAN ZEPPELINS DROPPED FIVE BOMBS IN THE VICINITY OF DOVER

Information by Mail That Zeppelins Flew from Ostend and Dropped Bombs From Great Height--No Damage Done, Four of the Bombs Striking the Chalk Cliffs--Aviators Rewarded With Iron Crosses.

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, December 9.—(Bulletin.)—Five bombs have been dropped by German aviators on Dover, England, only some 60 miles from London. This information reached the United Press to-day in mail advices from London.

NEW YORK, December 9.—The mailed story from London states: "When the Germans announced the raid recently and it became known that the aviators who had made the attack had been awarded iron crosses, Londoners laughed, believing the reported achievement mere fiction. But the real facts are that the Germans actually accomplished the feat, although the damage they did was trivial.

Lieut. Karl Kasper and Lieut. Richard Otto made the flight to Dover, starting from a point near Ostend. The distance from Ostend to England's famous fortified naval harbour is about 60 miles as the crow flies. Travelling at a great height they were not observed by the Dover garrison until the first bomb fell. It was a small one and hit the earth works of the fortifications. Little damage was done, but the noise was such that officers and men poured out of the barracks. They saw four more bombs fall and explode on the upper heights of the cliffs, away from the town, in quick succession. They also did but slight damage, and no one was killed or injured. An effort was made to bring the hostile aviators down, but the machine was at a high altitude, and none of the shots were successful. The aeroplane then rose still higher and disappeared in the direction of the Belgian coast.

AMSTERDAM, December 9.—Kaiser Wilhelm is seriously ill. Messages received here from Berlin say that the Kaiser is suffering from pneumonia and that his condition is aggravated by nervous depression. His Majesty is also declared to be suffering from continual headaches.

The Berlin messages declare that the Kaiser is extremely violent toward his advisers and others around him.

PARIS, December 9.—There was artillery fighting from the sea to the Lys during the day of December 8, according to the French official announcement given out in Paris this afternoon and all the positions occupied by the French during the past two days have been strengthened. The text of the communication follows:

"In the region of Arras and farther to the south there was nothing to report.

"All the positions won by us during the past two days have been organized and strengthened.

"In the region of the Aisne artillery exchanges and fighting by our infantry resulted in appreciable gains for us. Several German trenches were occupied; we made progress all along the front except at one single point; here the enemy blew up one of our trenches with a mine.

"On the heights of the Meuse our artillery showed itself distinctly master of the artillery of the enemy. In this region as well as in Argonne we have made progress all along the entire front and occupied several of the German trenches. The same thing happened in the forest of Lepretre. In the Vosges we repulsed several attacks to the northwest of Sinones."

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Advancing along La Bassee canal, the allied forces are to-day endeavouring to push forward in this region in a geenral movement to gain control of the important highway from Roulers to Lille, Lens and Arras. The German resistance in this section is reported to have been greatly weakened by the heavy withdrawals of troops which have been sent to the eastern front, or distributed along other points of the western line threatened in the past week.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Artillery duels extending over the entire line from the sea to the River Lys and along the Aisne, and French advances made in Argonne are reported in the official communique from the War Office to-day. The French artillery had the advantage over the Germans in the Aisne region. In the Argonne the Germans succeeded in dynamiting a trench, but otherwise the advantage rested with the French.

BERLIN, via The Hague, Dec. 9.—The condition of Kaiser Wilhelm, who is suffering from bronchial catarrh, was declared to be satisfactory to-day. There was no intimation of when he might return to the front. As additional details are received of the recent German success in the Lodz region, it is believed Field Marshal Von Hindenberg will be shown as having gained a victory of great importance. The German advance has in no wise slackened in this region but owing to the numerical strength of the Russians the pursuit of the retreating forces is being conducted with utmost caution. The situation in the west is declared to be entirely satisfactory.

It is evident from the above despatch that the Germans fear a heavy flank attack from the Russians, between Lodz and Warsaw.

FOURTEEN ARE FIGHTING IN THE TRENCHES

SON AT SALISBURY

Mrs. Phibbs, St. George street, has the honourable distinction of having more relatives fighting in the trenches in France, than anybody else in the City. In addition to her son, who is with the Canadian Contingent at Salisbury Plain, Mrs. Phibbs has fourteen near relatives, who are enduring all the hardships of actual fighting. These include four nephews, four first-cousins and two uncles. Mrs. Phibbs is a member of a thoroughly military family, for not only have the members of it readily responded to the call of the Empire in this great crisis, but both her grandfathers fought in the Crimean war.

Mr. and Mrs. Phibbs have resided in Peterborough for the past year and a half, having come here from Kidderminster, England.

ARE FRUIT SPECIALISTS

Connal and Son Have a Splendid Assortment

All dealers know that in the wholesale importing trade there are firms that handle and make a specialty of the finest of the seasons crop of fruit, including the different kinds of raisins, currants and peels, as well as nuts of all sorts. Naturally these firms get a shade more for their fruit than others, and it is because Connal & Son buy from such houses that the standard of their fruit is always the very highest obtainable, though at the same time the price to the consumer is no more than they pay for inferior grades. This year, as usual, Connal's fruit is the very choicest that can be bought. It has all been re-cleaned, and every ounce of it is pure fruit, with no waste.

The crop itself at the place of production was an excellent one, and the quality rules high, so that what is called the firsts, or selects, the grade Connals' always buy, is well above the usual average.

Speaking with Mr. Connal, the Examiner was let into the secret that accounts for the specially advanced quality of the fresh fruit at Christmas time, such as oranges in the different grades, eating apples, etc., sold by the Connal store. At it would be giving away a trade secret, it would not do to tell it here, but just prove it by buying some of their oranges this year, and see the difference.

The Connal store depends largely on the quality of their goods advertising for them all the year round, but when he makes an announcement in the Examiner it is always well worth reading. Watch his Christmas advertising this season. 1d-1w

FOREIGNERS ARRESTED

Special to The Examiner:

SALONIKA, via London, Dec. 4.—(Delayed) — A thirty-two-year-old man, who thinks he is Turkeys' man of destiny, forced the Ottoman Empire into the European war. He is Enver Pasha. As minister of war and leader of the Young Turks, he is the originator, executor and moving genius of the supreme effort to rid Turkey of all foreign influence. When I left Constantinople Enver Pasha had succeeded in arousing the Turkish people to fever of approbation for his programme. He is now in Egypt. It is his ambition to bring his meteoric career to a climax by becoming Turkey's great liberator, the restorer of the lost African provinces. Already he is the popular idol, to this power of swaying public opinion he adds the enormous power of his domination of the Sultan whose favourite niece he married.

Immediately upon the declaration of war against the Allies, the Young Turks, at Enver Pasha's direction, expelled all foreign ambassadors, and relieved of their restraining influence the Young Turks began an anti-foreign campaign by directing the mob occupancy of all foreign shops, schools and institutions. They were drunk with their own power. One great danger is ahead of Enver Pasha and the Young Turks, that is the defeat of Germany and the Turkish army in the war with the Allies. The native Christians seriously doubt Whether the ambitions of Enver trol the situation should the holy war declaration stir up the fanatical Moslems to the point of killing. Enver Pasha and his party might still go on through such reign of terror as would follow in this event, but foreigners remaining in Constantinople fear rebellion against both the Government and Germany should the Turks be defeated. The turks now know nothing of the progress of the war except as announced in official bulletins telling of great success. Whether the ambitions of Enver Pasha are to be realised will not be known until the issue of the war is determined and the truth is known in Turkey.

SALONIKA, via London, Dec. 8.—All Russians, Servians and Montenegrins in Smyrna have been arrested by the Turks, and the English and French citizens still in the city are not permitted to leave. There are 1,200 Englishmen and 2,000 French there, and all are threatened with detention in the concentration camp. Amnesty has been granted all brigands who will fight with the Turkish troops, and the native Christian population has been forced to work in the construction of a road southward from Smyrna for the invasion of Egypt.

NO LARGE ARMY FOR UNCLE SAM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—President Wilson this afternoon delivered a direct message to the business interests of the country. In effect, he declared that the administration has completed its business programme and that, hereafter business is to have rest from restrictive and corrective legislation. The statement was unexpected. Extremely warm applause greeted President Wilson's declaration that "we are not ready to become a nation of men trained to arms." His declaration that the country was not threatened from outside was punctuated with applause. When the President told Congress that "we never have had and we never shall have, a standing army," the Democrats and Republicans alike joined in the applause.

THREE GERMAN CRUISERS WERE SUNK YESTERDAY

British Navy Strikes a Blow at the Strength of the Kaiser's Fleet—No British Ships Were Sunk

LONDON, Dec. 9.—It is announced officially here to-day that the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig were sunk on Dec. 8th, in the South Atlantic Ocean, off the Falkland Islands by the British Squadron, under Vice Admiral Sturdee. The cruisers Dresden and Nurnberg escaped and are being pursued. Two German colliers were captured. The British casualities in the battle were few and no ships were lost. This announcement was made at 7.57 p.m., (London time) this evening. The statement says: "The Scharnhorst was flying the flag of Admiral Von Spee, when she went down. Some German survivers were rescued. The Sturdee reports that the Germans fought valiantly and went down with colours flying."

Zacks Bros' Fire Sale Starts on Friday

The interruption to their business by the fire which occurred in their ready-to-wear clothing section, a few days ago, is about to be resumed by Zacks Brothers, with a Rousing Fire Sale, which will commence on Friday, Dec. 11th. On that day Messrs. Zacks Brothers promise a stir in Men's and Women's Clothing and Furnishings, Millinery, House Furnishings, Furniture, etc., that has never been equalled in Peterborough before. Goods are not fire or water damaged, but may have a slight smell of smoke, and wonderful bargains are to be the order in all sections of the store. See their big announcement in Thursday's paper and wait for it.

Russians Pound At Cracow's Vitals

General Dimitrieff Reported to Have Arrived With 200,000 Men to Assist in the Attacks--Occupation of Lodz Still Unsettled--Tremendous Loss of Life.

Special Morning Cable:

It is reported here to-day that Gen. Dimitrieff has reached the city with a force of more than 200,000 men. The Austrian forces outside the city have withdrawn, it is declared.

The War Office still refuses to admit the capture of Lodz by the German forces. The engagement is still in progress in that region. It is stated that the Russian losses in this fighting have been heavy, but some estimates place the German casualties in the general fighting as high as 100,000.

GERMAN DEAD PILED WAIST HIGH.

After the retreat of the Germans upon Strykow, bodies were found piled in heaps waist high, survivors still endeavouring to fight their way out of the Russian wedge closing in on them, and in some instances entrenched themselves behind piles of the bodies of their comrades.

Allies Advanced In Vicinity of Ypres

Have Almost Reached Roulers--Germans Have Not Entirely Abandoned Their Offensive and Are Showing Some Activity Near Nieuport.

Special Morning Cable:

PARIS, Dec. 8.—By constant fighting along the Passchondaele road, the French operating from the south of Ypres, have to-day all but reached Boulers in their flanking movement to cover Menin, an important point on the Lys. Supported by the fire of the Allied guns, the French have gradually advanced their line until they have practically cleared the railroad and now have a straight path to Roulers.

Despite a vigorous attack being made by the Allied forces, reports today indicate that the Germans have not abandoned their offensive at all points. Heavy firing is reported along the coast, with the Germans bombarding East Dunkirk, west of Nieuport. The Allied warships are also reported to have been able to get back into action and have shelled the German positions.

ITALY WILL BE READY

ROME, Dec. 7.—Eight battalions of Italian troops have been ordered to Libya (Tripoli) to reinforce the troops there, and, according to the announcement, "to be ready for any aggression."

BERLIN'S STATEMENT QUITE MODEST

Special to The Examiner:

BERLIN, via wireless to London, Dec. 8.—Official reports from Vienna to-day, declare that fighting for a decision on the Russian front continues. "The Austro-German troops have repulsed the attacks of the enemy southwest of Pietrkow," it is stated, "and the Russian advance along the Nowa Radom line has been brought to a standstill."

LOCAL BOYS DOING WELL AT KINGSTON

That the Peterborough boys at Kingston are all in good health and spirits, and not a black mark has been placed against one of them in the conduct sheets, is the cheery message brought from Kingston by Sergt. Sam Thomas, who is home on a three-day leave. Sergt. Thomas was delegated by the Peterborough boys to inform local people that they have not a complaint to make. They are most enthusiastic over their officers, Captain Gray and Lieutenants Cunningham and Shepherd, and claim to have the best officers in the battalion. The meals are excellent, the accommodation splendid, and in fact there is absolutely nothing to complain of.

Sergt. Thomas, who is a South African War veteran, and who has had considerable experience in soldiering, says he never was with a better behaved lot of men than the eighty-five boys from Peterborough. All are keen to learn, and there isn't a "groucher" in the lot. "You should see them marching," remarked Sergt. Thomas to The Examiner. "You'd have thought they had been together for years instead of just for a few weeks."

Peterborough boys have been well looked after in the promotion lists. In addition to Sergt. Thomas there are four other sergeants from Peterborough. Corporals Leonard Fraser, D. Moore and Wm. Mantell have all been promoted to be sergeants, while Private Cottrell also holds sergeant's rank. Ptes. Custance, Pagett, and E. Thomas have been made lance corporals. Ptes. Davey and Strickland are signallers. Pte. Chas. Manners, of Peterborough, has been transferred to F Company to act as signaller for that company, and J. Milby, of Peterborough, well-known for his interest in Boy Scout work, is signaller corporal.

The boys sent word through Sergt. Thomas that they are deeply grateful to the Canadian Kitchener League of Peterborough for the parcel of "hussiffs," cholera belts and other comforts sent down to Kingston last week.

Sergt. S. Thomas, Lance Corporal F. Thomas and A. Pagett, and Private Manners, who have been here on leave, will leave for Kingston to-night.

WEDDING BELLS

FRASER—TUCKETT.

A wedding of interest, quietly celebrated, was that which took place on Wednesday afternoon in the Central Presbyterian Church, when Rev. Dr. Lyle united in marriage Phyllis McNeil, younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George T. Tuckett, and Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Fraser, of this city. Both the bride and bridegroom were unattended, and left immediately after the ceremony on a honeymoon trip north.—Hamilton Spectator.

The groom is well known in this City, being a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Knapman, George Street. His numerous friends here will join in extending him and his bride best wishes for a happy wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Fraser were in the City yesterday on their way north.

COCKERELL—THORNTON.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the groom, 25 Lisburn Street, last night, when Miss Annie Thornton was married to Mr. Thomas Cockerell. The ceremony, which took place at half-past seven o'clock, was performed by the Rev. R. Pogue.

The bride was attended by Miss Annie Stantire and the groom by Mr. Fred Coles. Mr. and Mrs. Cockerell will reside on Lisburn Street.

READER—KILLINGBECK.

St. James' parsonage was the scene of a quiet wedding on Saturday evening, when Gertrude Maud Killingbeck of this City, and Gordon Clifford Reader, were united in marriage by the Rev. James Clarry. The young couple were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Reader will reside in Peterborough.

MARSHALL—ANDREWS.

The marriage took place to-day of Miss Olive Andrews of Toronto, to Mr. Stanley William Marshall of this city. The ceremony took place in All Saints' church, Rev. R. B. Grobb officiating. Mr. Lovell acted as best man. The bride was given away by Mr. F. S. Edwards. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will reside at 198 Hunter Street.

MONCRIEF—FINNIE.

A very pretty house wedding was solemnised at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Finnie, Riverside Farm, Bailieboro, when their third daughter, Laura Josephine, was married to Kenneth R. Moncrief, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Moncrief, Hillcrest Farm, Bailieboro. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Wickett. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by the bride's sister, Miss Jean, the bridal party entered the drawing-room. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly attired in a cream satin gown, trimmed with Oriental lace and wore the conventional bridal veil, caught up with Lily of the Valley. The bride's cousin, Miss Clover Finnie, dressed in blue silk ninon, trimmed with cream shadow lace and pearls, made a beautiful little flower girl.

Immediately after the ceremony, dinner was served, the tables being decorated with carnations and smilax.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful necklace, to the flower girl an emerald ring, and to the pianist a handsome bar-pin set with pearls.

The party took the evening train for Toronto, St. Mary's, and other points west. The bride travelling in a navy blue tailored suit with hat to match.

The esteem in which the young couple were held was manifested in the number of beautiful and costly presents which they received. They will be at home to their friends at Bonnie Brae Farm, after the New Year.

Verdict of $35 Awarded

The sum of thirty dollars was awarded Dr. McNulty by a Division Court jury of five. Dr. McNulty was plaintiff in an action to recover the sum of $58.00 from John O'Leary of Otonabee, alleged to be due on an account for surgical duties performed on the defendant's child.

The surgical duties consisted of an operation for appendicitis for which, together with attendance upon the child, Dr. McNulty charged $158.00. The sum of $100.00 was paid and the remainder contested in the Division Court. The case was tried a month ago, but the jury disagreed. Yesterday it was tried again before His Honour Judge Huycke, with the above result.

Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. V. J. McElderry for the defendant.

The jury was out about an hour.

MURDER RECALLED BY RELEASE OF FOUR MEN IMPRISONED IN 1900

Slayers of Jennie Bosschieter of Paterson N.J., Are Out in the World Again—Seems Only Short Time Since the Trial Stirred the Country

JUDGE AND OTHERS HAVE PASSED AWAY

The last of the four men who brought about the death of seventeen-year-old Jennie Bosschieter of Patterson, N.J., in January, 1900, walked out free when the prison doors at Trenton, N.J., last week opened to allow Walter O. McAlister to once again take his place in the outer world.

Although it lacks but a few months of being fifteen years ago since the crime, the feeling against the four assassins was still so strong in Paterson that when in the last two years each secured his release by the board of Pardons, only one had the temerity to return to Paterson and seek to take up his life anew in his old surroundings.

Besides McAlister there were Geo. Kerr, Andrew J. Campbell and Wm. A. Death concerned in the crime. McAlister, Death and Campbell were each sentenced to thirty years imprisonment: Kerr got off with fifteen years because he turned State's evidence. He told without reservation of the entrapment of the pretty and clean-lived little mill girl, Jennie Bosschieter, and of her being given chloral with the idea only of drugging her, but which caused her death.

The only circumstance that saved the men from a death sentence was the evidence that the chloral was given only with the idea of robbing the girl of her senses. When the men had been convicted Judge Dixon, presiding at the trial, submitted them to probably the bitterest excoriation ever administered from the bench.

All of Good Family.

What particularly angered the court and incensed public opinion was that such a crime should have been committed by those occupying the social position of the four accused men. They were all from homes of culture, and all, save Campbell, in easy circumstances. McAlister was a member of a wealthy firm of silk manufacturers. Kerr and Death had profitable real estate businesses. Kerr was a brother-in-law of the then Mayor Hinchliffe of Paterson. Kerr had a wife, son and daughter; Death it was learned, had secretly been married a few weeks before the murder. McAlister, generally regarded as the ringleader in the crime, was handsome; well-dressed, known as a local "man about town." Campbell, the youngest of the quartette, had borne a good reputation. He was a bookkeeper in a big silk mill and had supported his mother and sister.

Under their sentences Kerr was due to be released a year ago, but his three companions could not expect to leave prison until 1921. Extraordinary efforts have been made on their behalf for seevral years. When they were first sentenced to prison their families recognised the force of public opinion behind their sentences, and the men issued at the time of their incarceration a public statement to the effect that they meant to serve their time, gracing it with every effort at good behaviour. But about six years later determined efforts with influential backing were made to get the men pardoned. These failed time and again.

It wasn't until Kerr had served his full term with such time off as he was allowed for good behaviour and had been released that the New Jersey Board of Pardons would consider the applications of Kerr, Death and McAlister. Meanwhile sisters, brothers and mothers of the condemned men had rarely allowed a meeting of the Board of Pardons to pass without filing applications for pardons.

Kerr, as soon as he was released, went West. He is now in Kansas City, engaged in business there, and known to few as one of the defendants in the Jennie Bosschieter case. Death went back to Paterson to live. He works daily in New York, and faces with some equanimity the stare of other commuters on the morning and evening trains. Young Campbell is a scenario writer for a New York moving picture concern. He lives in Clifton, a suburb of Paterson, but is never seen at the cafes and theatres of Paterson which he frequented as a young man. McAlister has followed Kerr to the West. It is understood that he will engage in some business in Chicago.

Three New White-Haired.

McAlister, Kerr and Death came out of prison white-haired. All were well over forty when they were released. McAlister was fifty-two when he entered upon a new freedom last week. Campbell is now in his late thirties.

Judge Jonathan Dixon, who so severely denounced the four men and regretted his inability to give them the dath penalty had been dead for seven years. Prosecutor Eugene Emley died about two years ago, and Ralph, the assistant prosecutor, committed suicide by hanging three years ago. The building at the corner of River and Bridge streets where Jennie Bosschieter was taken and drugged was ruined by fire less than a month ago and a number of tenants had narrow escape from being burned to death.

The evidence at the trial was to the effect that the girl, who was of good character, went with McAllister to the back-room of a saloon in the belief that she was to meet there her girl chum, that the four men gathered about the table and drank liquors while the girl drank only milk and seltzer, but that in this drink the men surreptitiously put chloral or "knock-out" drops; that they then called a hack and took the girl out on a country road and mistreated her. They discovered that she was dead, and in order to give a false clue and lead the police away from the theory of drugging, they battered her skull with a stone.

They dismissed the cabman with a $10 fee and a warning that if he told of what had occurred he would "get hanged" himself. But the finding of the girl's body aroused the authorities, the cabman was identified. He told what he knew, and then Kerr weakened and gave States evidence.

ADVANCE IS MADE

German Attacks on Town of St. Eloy Have Been Repulsed Says Official Communique

KAISER IS ILL

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Increased activity of the Germans along the River Yser and near Ypres was reported in the official statement given out in Paris yesterday afternoon. The report tells of the capture of Vermelles, recently reported as having been effected by a brilliant French attack and also of gains in the forest region.

The following official communication was issued by the French War Office last night:—

"In Belgium a violent German attack on St. Eloy, south of Ypres, has been repulsed. The struggle at all times is very lively in the forests and to the east of Argonne.

"There is no other notable incident to report."

The following official statement was issued by the War Office in the afternoon:—

"Throughout the day of the 7th the enemy showed himself more active than on the previous day in the region of the Yser and in the neighborhood of Ypres. Our artillery, however, replied with success to all attacks.

"In the region of Arras a very brilliant attack placed us, as we have already announced, in possession of Vermelles. Vermelles has been for nearly two months the theatre of a fierce struggle. The enemy took possession of it on Oct. 16, and from Oct. 21 to 25 be succeeded in forcing us back in that locality. Ever since Oct. 25 our sapping and mining operations have brought us foot by foot up to its very outskirts, and on Dec. 1 we carried the park and chateau.

"In the region of the Aisne and Champagne a few artillery duels have taken place. Our heavy artillery dispersed several formations of the enemy.

"In the Argonne, in the forest of La Grurie, and to the northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, in the forest of Le Pretre, we have gained some ground.

"Along the rest of the front there is nothing to report."

The official statement issued by the German military headquarters, and sent from Berlin by wireless, says that the bad condition of the roads on the coast of Flanders, due to torrential rains, is rendering movements of the German troops very difficult. North of Arras slight progress is claimed.

The Germans at nine o'clock Saturday evening commenced a formidable attack upon the British positions at Ypres. Up to Sunday evening the assaults had been without result, being thrown back by the British every time they rolled forward.

Minor positions from which the defenders were forced by the terrific attacks were recaptured almost immediately by the British.

The German assaults were followed Monday by a vigorous offensive by the British, who pushed forward north of the Lys river as far as Passchendaele, more than half way from Ypres to Roulers, and the most advanced position which the allied forces have occupied since the battle line was formed in Flanders the middle of October.

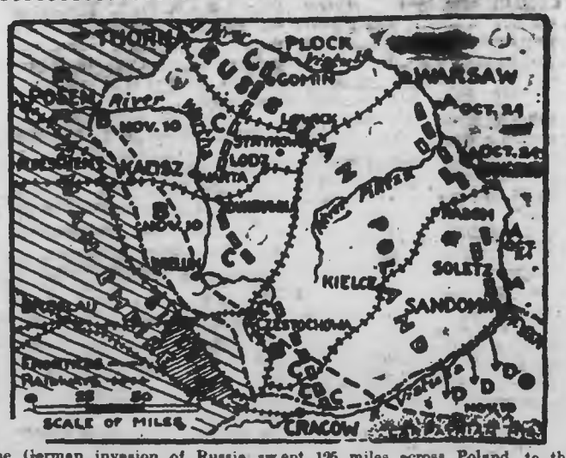
Reports Sunday were that the Germans were preparing for a new advance, which is now begun, and is directed against the allies between Dixmude and Ypres. An artillery duel occurred the last two days of last week in the vicinity of Zonnebeke, north and east of Ypres.

The Germans are placing Maxim guns at every available point in consequence of their apprehension that the British will direct an action against Heyst, says a despatch to The Telegraaf.

The dyke which restrains the sea at that point on the Flemish coast has been mined, it is reported, and the prohibition of all travel or communication across the Dutch-Belgian border in either direction is being rigorously maintained.

The Germans have lost an immense number, estimated at 126,000 men, in the furious fighting which has occurred before Nieuport, Dixmude and Ypres in their bloodthirsty attempts to press through to Calais, says a despatch to The Handelsblad from Sluis.

Apart from the battlefields, the officially announced illness of the German Emperor in Berlin, from bronchial catarrh with fever, is the most interesting news of the day. The Emperor's prolonged activity and the recent reports of his appearance have caused the public to watch with particular interest developments regarding his health.



The German invasion of Russia swept 125 miles across Poland, to the line of Warsaw and the Vistula River, marked AAA, above, on Oct. 24th. The Russian counter attacks drove the Germans nearly 100 miles back to the line shown above (BBB) on November 10th. Now the armies of 5,000,000 men are fighting in the middle line (CCC).

FRENCH LOSSES NEAR 500,000

NOT OFFICAL REPORT

PARIS, Nov. 26.—The French War Office does not issue lists of losses in the war. A correspondent by inquiry in various quarters, estimates that the French loss in dead up to November 10 is something under 100,000 men. The number of wounded and sick soldiers being cared for in French hospitals on November 19 appears to have been about 400,000. The Swiss Government's buras for the exchange of prisoners of war has the names of 90,000 French prisoners in Germany. Taking these figures together, the total losses of the French army would be about 590,000 men.

The French military authorities, through their agents and spies, are well informed as to the situation of the German army. The French estimate the number of German killed in battle on this frontier as considerably exceeding 100,000, because the German tactics have been more continually on the offensive, with correspondingly heavier losses than the defensive. The French military administration does not share in the popular view that the German losses have been enormously in excess of those of the French.

BROUGHT BACK FROM THE DEAD

Wonderful Operation Reported Wherein Heart Had Stopped Functions and No Pulse Responded

RESPIRATION RESTORED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—A modern wonder of medical science was consummated this afternoon at the Good Samaritan Hospital, according to the statements of three physicians, who say that Mrs. Walter A. Akers, wife of a Californian manager of the International Fruit Products Company, was restored to life after having been dead for ten minutes.

"The 'raising' was not from a theoretical death, or state of coma, as it is ordinarily understood, said Dr. P. M. Williams, who, with Dr. C. S. Hutchison, were the principals in the restoration.

"Mrs. Akers was actually dead. Her heart had stopped its functioning; there was no pulse; the eyes were fixed in the glare which spells to every medical man the eternal sleep; there was no response to the usual tests. The patient was dead.

"The end came during the progress of a major operation for laparotomy. The operation was progressing in due course when our attention was directed by Dr. W. S. Holman, who was administering the anaesthetic, to the woman's complete collapse — to her death in fact.

"Mr. Akers, who was awaiting the result of the operation in an adjoining room, was summoned and realised instantly that all was over. Then doctors went to work. Nurses began the administration of oxygen. Dr. Williams vigorously applied himself to producing artificial respiration.

SIMULATED HEART THROBS.

"Then Dr. Hutchison inserted his hand through the incision made in the abdominal wall during the course of the operation, slowly, carefully, until the diaphragm was reached. One finger grasped the top of the heart; his thumb was at the bottom. A slight compression, another and another followed until the physician's hand was contracting and dilating the organ of life in simulation of the heart throbs which send the blood pulsing through the body of a living person.

"There were minutes of this sort of treatment and then the faintest respiration as the lungs reluctantly again took up their burden. After that the patient rallied and in a few minutes was so far recovered that it was necessary to administer anaesthetics in order that the original operation could be concluded.

"The operation lasted more than two hours and Dr. Hutchison said this evening that the patient was in a normal condition with every chance in her favour for a complete recovery."

SOUTH AFRICA SERENE.

When "slim" meets "slim" then comes the tug-of-war. Col. De Wet, with the Germany-invincible idea bee in his bonnet, went to South Africa to head a rebellion. He counted without his host; he expected to see the South African Union seething with sedition; the Boers ready to throw off the galling yoke of Great Britain. He found them united except a few malcontents and inreconcilables, with the same hostility to being ruled that Lucifer exhibited in Heaven. And he, too, found General Louis Botha, joining with the mass of South Africans in recognition of the benefits of the free institutions that Britain had given the Boers, and ready to defend them. De Wet achieved a splendid reputation for slimness and slipperyness in the late South African war, but he promptly met his match in another great Boer. General Botha has made short work of crushing the incipient rebellion, and the great and elusive De Wet is now defeated and a prisoner. His race is run; his career is closed and the Germany-incited revolt has been a flash in the pan. It was the only fugitive realization of the Kaiser's dream of universal revolt and disruption in the outlying sections of the Empire. The Kaiser finds a united empire arrayed against him, and every day in increasing pressure he will feel the force of this united strength, both of sentiment and soldiery and ships.

BUY AT HOME.

The appeal to do Christmas shopping at home and to do it early is always pat. Especially the buying at home when the need of keeping going, "business as usual," is the cry. There may be selfishness in such an appeal, but it is unselfish selfishness. It is the true cooperation such as is called for in this time of national stress. We can help build up the general strength and commercial and financial integrity of the country by making the civic units strong. The commercial strength as a whole will be all the stronger if every community has its commence strengthened by its own effort.

By doing our Christmas (and other) shoping at home, we shall be helping our merchants, who with our other fellow-citizens are working together to contribute to the local prosperity. The more money we help to place in circulation in the city—the more we buy from our merchants, the better we shall be serving the common interest and ourselves. Our business men these strenuous times are making a brave fight, and though they may not be making as much money as at other times, they are giving as good service; as good value at as reasonable prices as before the war, and as can be given outside the city. As a matter of fair play and loyalty to our city we owe them our patronage, and thus helping them we put them in a position to better serve the mass of the purchasing public, who are too honest, too fair-dealing to send their money for Christmas purchases outside the city. If no other consideration should move us to avoid such striking disloyalty to the city, the golden rule, laid down by the Lord of Christmas, "do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you," should exercise its power. Otherwise we deny the Christmas spirit and make its observance only a mockery —an eye service.

A TIME OF CHANGE.

This is a practical age and we don't do politics or business on traditions. When Sir James Whitney passed over to the majority, considerably greater, by the way, than he had in his lifetime in the Legislature, his followers, felt somewhat lost by the withdrawal of his strong personality, and took refuge in, and drew comfort from the "Whitney tradition." But it seems to have proven an unstable basis of trust. There is little march to victory in Sir James Whitney's empty shoes. His death opened Dundas to an election contest. If tradition had been effective, we should have expected that in a traditionally strong, unconquerable, Conservative constituency, the Conservative candidate would have had a walk-over; that the Whitney tradition would have worked in a riding, which he held in the last dozen years —in five contests—by majorities ranging from 500 to 900. In 1914 he was elected by 674 majority. Yesterday the Conservative candidate was elected by the narrow majority of 60—a reduction from the Whitney tradition of 600 votes. True the Liberal candidate was personally very popular, and the Conservative candidate perhaps took too much for granted. Such a falling off, however, seems significant; especially so when we remember that the Conservative majority in West Hamilton of 1,800 in 1911, and of 1,450 last June, taken by Col. Hendrie, was reduced to 39, in the bye-election of three weeks ago. No doubt the feeling that West Hamilton was a "safe" constituency was one of the reasons that influenced its opening in order to put Major Hendrie in the Lieutenant-Governor's seat. If those bye-elections are a test of a general change in popular feeling, Premier Hearst, must feel that in spite of the "Whitney tradition" he has, even, with his immense present numerical following in the House, a rather uncertain hold upon office.

FOLLOW THE GERMAN EXAMPLE.

German culture and German methods do not generally furnish much temptation to imitation; but there are some things in which Germany sets a good example; one that we can follow to advantage. The slogan "Westchland uber alles," means htat every individual and national effort should be directed to making the country great. "Made in Germany" has made Germany great industrially, and we should meet it, and apply to ourselves to the ful, the 'made-in-Canada" motto. We must live up to this in every possible way—as individuals, as communities, as a nation. Another thing in which we may imitate Germany with advantage is the bomb-dropping industry. We don't mean, of course, the dropping of bombs on peaceful cities to the slaughter of non-combatones, women and children. But as a war device we can legitimately as well as profitably employ the airship and the bomb. At one time we became panicky over the superiority and possibilities of the Zeppelin; but that has gone the way of other illusions such as the invincibility of the German armies, the irresistibility of the German war machine. British aviators have made daring and long-distance raids upon German territory and have hoist the Zeppelin with its own pelaid—played the German game. Now British aviators have made a successful raid upon the great, great—gun and armour plate factories of the Krupps at Essen, and have dropped bombs with unknown—but certainly not beneficial—results. The Krupp works are a god object of attack. If they are put out of commission by bombs or by a successful concentration of attack by an allied army, Germany would be crippled in her right arm—her big guns. Here is another good way in which we can imitate German methods, and the British and French aviators are coming on bravely—in a double sense—it requires rare courage ,the courage that gives coolness, to man an airship. It is the most dangerous post in war.

TURKEY AND GERMAN CULTURE.

Turkey is breaking faith with a neutral ambassador, who is charged with the responsibility of looking after the interests of seven nations at Constantinople. United States Ambassador Morgenthau, has found that the word of the Turks is not to be trusted. They promised that refugees leaving the country to escape the results of a probable outbreak of Moslem fanaticism, would not be interfered with. This promise is repeatedly broken in spite of assurances to the contrary, broken as often as repeated. This is to be expected. We can't expect Moslem morality to be on a higher plane than the Christian morality of the Germans, who set the example of flouting plighted faith —regarded solemn treaties as "scraps of paper." Germany has shown herself ruthless, conscienceless and utterly unreliable. After her outrage on Belgian neutrality, after the multiplied outrages inflicted upon Belgians individually, we could not expect more than that she would ally herself with the unspeakable Turk, who is in one sense faithful, he is trying to faithfully live up to the example of Germany. We may expect any day to see the horrors of Belgium ,the German atrocities there, repeated in Turkey, where there is dread of an outbreak any moment that will compass the destruction, the massacre of all the Christians in the country. Then we shall have examples of how Christless Turkey can improve upon the atrocities of "Christian" Germany —upon the "kultur" of the Hun. The United States has many of its people in Turkey, and large commercial interests; and it may be easily possicle that that country may yet be forced to interfere. Its attitude of neutrality holds as between the warring nations except Turkey; Turkey is an international outlaw—outside the pale of diplomatic consideration. Germany, which has intrigued to bring Turkey into the contest, has added heavily to the account she will have to meet. Up to the Turkish entrance as a ally Germany did enough to alienate the sympathy of every civilized nation. She filled the cup, but introducing Turkey, it is overflowing.

THE DIRECTER WAY.

As the Germans continue to put indemnities and food-taxes on the people of Belgium, it might save time and labour if we sent our relief funds direct to Berlin.—Chicago Tribune.

BE PATIENT AND TRUSTING.

A despatch is published purporting to give the result of an interview with Lord Kitchener, who is made to express the opinion that the war will last at least three years. Kitchener should have a pretty good idea; but if we haven't been misled as to Kitchener's conversational capabilities and inclinations, we very much doubt that he ever gave an interview, in which he said at once, at one sitting, all the imaginative interviewer ascribes to him. Kitchener is too busy and too serious a man to cater to the mere idle curiosity of an interviewer, even if he was the man to indulge in mere speculative talk. He, with the mass of the British people at home and abroad, are too busy, too much concerned in bringing the war to an end, to waste time in guessing whether it will end in three months or three years. We are kept pretty much in the dark as to the details of the doings in the war area; the censorship is very strict. This constitutes a reason why correspondents in order to have a "story," yield to the temptation to make a way if they can't find a way, to get something for their papers. A great deal of the alleged news we get is imaginative and unreliable, and in reading it we have only need to have a view of the probabilities. The official reports, are about the only things we can depend upon, and we can't depend upon these, if they come from German or Austrian sources. The monthly official summary—a classic in Caesarian conciseness and simplicity—of Sir John French, is worth waiting for, if we want to get a true idea of the actualities of the situation. In the meantime we may amuse ourselves, or throw ourselves in a panic over the ghost stories of correspondents with a genius for invention; but we must make up our minds to wait, and we can wait in confidence. We know that the men at the helm are trustworthy—don't promise much but have an infinite capacity for doing; we know that they are backed by the best soldiery in the world, fighters of the bull dog breed; we know that our allies are equal in fighting strength and courage and determination; we know that our resources in men, in money, and the essentials of successful war waging are far superior, actually and potentially, to the resources of those that be against us; we know that we have the just cause; and our role is not to indulge the gossip's greed for gossip, for mere gossip's sake; it is for each of us do our best in the sphere of our duty, and all will be well as it will be in the end, be that end soon or late.

NEUTRALITY.

Neutrality in this war is practically impossible. The issue so vitally and broadly represents every phase of human interest that sympathy must be felt for the side that stands for the benefit of humanity; stands for all its interests, personal, physical, moral and political. As a nation, represented by its government, the United States is striving to be strictly neutral. It even goes so far as to forbid sailors and marines in the navy singing, "Tipperary." This is in itself not a party tune. Its air is not militant, its words are a nonsensical but fetching Irish sentimental extravagance. But it is become the marching song, the camp-fire ditty of the fighting British troops. The United States may theoretically bar "Tipperary," may use every endeavour to maintain theoretical neutrality, but it can't make the people neutral. They will either sympathize with the Allies or the Triple Alliance; and it is a pleasure to know that the mass of the people, the sane, sober majority, are in full sympathy with the allied cause. Hundreds of prominent journals champion the Allies as energetically and with as much sound heart as British, Canadian and French journals. Collier's Weekly is one of them. It concludes a recent article with those apt sentences:

"The best way for us to help the Belgians wil be to do what we can with our resources to help turn the Germans out of Belgium. This may not be neutrality, but it is truth."

SHALL WE HEW TO THE LINE?

Some surface thinkers think because there are "wars and rumours of wars" the end of things has come, as the dawn of the millenium. But it seems that the millentum in regard to political matters is not quite here yet; that we are not yet quite up to the mark of placing principle above party intereats and considerations. The premier of New Brunswick, after thorough and impartial investigation by a judicial tribunal, was pronounced guilty of malfeastnce in office; of betraying his trust; of practically using his official position to extort money for party, of not for personal, purposes, from persons seeking favours from the government, of which he was the head. This judgment of the court disqualified the premier, from holding office, showed him unworthy of so high a trust. It would be expected that under the circumstances he would resign at once, but he did not do so. He would not resign because it was the right and decent thing to do; but he resigned in the interest of party; resigned to accept the nomination for the Federal House, for the united counties of Victoria and Carleton, by the Conservative convention. In this view Premier Fleming needn't have resigned. He was just as fit to remain premier as he is to sit as a member of Parliament.

A similar disregard of ethics as a factor in party politics is, of recent date, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, resigned his portfolio because, as alleged, he was too sick to perform the duties of the office. His illness was perhaps actual, but it was of a character to infect the health of the Government. He was treated upon the homeopathic principle—that like cures like. He was sick from overwork in the position where a good deal of work could be done by deputy, and pitchforked into a position where he had himself, personally, to do all the work; and a good deal more strenuous work, that of a judge on the bench, with, however, better pay, which had no doubt a considerabel vritue in effecting a cure.

We have nearer home, an example, of conviction of offence, being regarded as a qualification for office. A certain official, through the labours of a commission, lasting for months and costing a good deal of money, was adjudged unworthy of the responsability of office and worthy of dismissal; a condition that would seem to disqualify him from further government employment. He now holds a fairly lucrative government position at Ottawa, which might more reasonably have been given to some member of the faithful in Peterborough, who have no conviction registered against him. One has reason to fear that our parties have not yet ascended to so high a plane of political morality, that they practice the heroic motto—"hew to the line no matter where the chips may fall."

This is a time when such a motto should be observed. We are in the throes of a mighty struggle to bring the present war to a conclusion favourable to Canada, the Empire, and the highest interests of the world at large. We, as they have done in Britain, have declared a truce to party strife and party considerations. Irrespective of party we have volunteered for active service. The whole country without regard to party is uniting in effort to help the cause of Empire. We are not only supplying soldiers but munitions of war. In this the object is to produce the supplies, and with the demand exceeding our resources, it would not be thought, that our producing capacity would be reduced by the application of the principles that no person could expect contracts for war supplies, unless his or his firm's name was on the party "patronage list." This condition is asserted; and we hope for the credit of Canada, for the sake of public interests and the interests of the successful prosecution of the war, it is not true. Our contracts for military supplies must be like Caesar's wife—above suspicion. No partizan or personal consideration should interfere with the production of the very best. Any inspection that would pass a defective rifle or other military supply should not be permitted. This might easily be the case where party consideration govern the awarding of contracts. A little defect might involve the safety and life of a soldier in battle, and we should have assurance that only the best, within human judgment, should be furnished. Every war has yielded many contract scandals; it is even said that in the present war some British contractors, have furnished shoddy clothing for soldiers. We need not have anything of the kind in Canada. We can provide, by watchfulness, careful and fearless inspection, that every article shall be the best that sound material and honest workmanship can provide; to the end that Canada can be as highly praised for the honesty of her supply of munitions of war, as she is praised for the quality of the soldiers she is providing, and for the loyal elan of her whole people.

AN INDICATED ALLIANCE.

If we, the Canadians and British, hinted that the United States as a nation should declare itself in favour of the Allies in the present war, it would be said that our course would be influenced by selfish interest; by other considerations than principles of right. There are in the United States, however, men of influence, that no doubt represent a considerable class, who think the United States should declare itself on the side of the Allies. Dr. White, of the University of Pennsylvania, has this to say on the subject

"We (the United States) should at the very least strengthen the wavering, reassure the doubting, give new hope to the despairing, by proclaiming to the world our absolute and unreserved belief of the right and justice of the cause of the Allies, and our determination to see to it, should the worst come to them, that they shall have our material support to our last dollar, our last bushel of corn, our last drop of blood.

"For the sake of humanity and of civilization we cannot afford to permit Germany to win, and the surest way of preventing it is to take sides at once."

Stripped of the rhetorial references to "strengthening the wavering, giving new hope to the despairing," which do not apply to the Allies now actively engaged in a hopeful and steady progress towards victory, the appeal of Mr. Williams to the United States to declare its position definitely, is one that might well be considered. The United States owes it to itself not to remain neutral; not by silence to give consent to the monstrous ambitions and barbarous activities of the German war clique. As the greatest representative, outside the warring nations, of the higher cult of humanity, and democratic interests and the general welfare of humanity, one cannot see how the United States can remain neutral. As we have before urged, it is incumbent upon the United States, to enter a solemn official protest against the outrage upon Belgium, upon a neutral country whose outrageous treatment challenges the alliance of other neutral countries. If the United States does not want to enter the fray as a combatant, it can form a moral alliance with down-beaten Belgium by protesting formally and officially against not only the outrage upon its neutrality as a breach of The Hague convention, to which Uncle Sam is a party, but against the intense barbarity which has been practiced upon a neutral nation. Germany in the person of Belgium has, declared war upon all neutral nations, none of which can expect to escape similar sinister attention if Germany should win in this struggle. The fact that United States opinion joins with world-wide opinion that Germany cannot and will not win may explain why the United States refrains from specifically ranging herself alongside and on the side of her moral ally, Belgium. But by so refraining our great neighbour loses a chance to justify itself as a champion of the outraged and oppressed, and lays itself open to the reproach htat it has like the Levite of the Scriptures "passed by on the other side," leaving the Good Samaratan nations to succour the little nation, that, with terrible literality, "fall among thieves."

Over Five Hundred People of German Origin in East Peterborough

Record in the 1911 Census—Half of the Number in Belmont and Methuen; Chandos Comes Second and Norwood Third—Irish, English and Scotch, However, Predominate—There Are 410 People of German Origin in West Peterborough.

Volume II of the 1911 census of Canada, showing the religions and origins of the people has just been issued. It is no doubt fascinating to know that five hundred and eight of the residents of East Peterborough are recorded therein as being of German origin. There are 410 in West Peterborough. The vast percentage of the population of the constituency, however, is made up of Irish, English and Scotch. The statistics are given as follows:

	English	Irish	Scotch	French	German	Dutch	Austrian	Italian
East Peterborough	5195	6140	3820	284	508	213	26	28
West Peterborough	5159	6140	113	9	9
Asphodel	476	896	280	4	33	20		1
Belmont & Methuen	567	643	338	45	254	20
Chandos	235	161	156	39	38	26		5
Douro	608	1115	112	21	5
Dummer	700	694	209	20	38	46
Otonabee	995	1344	589	4	26	13	28	28
Havelock	413	533	309	49	13	26
Lakefield	591	426	283	44	20	5	1	26
Norwood	380	393	156	29	53	1

Other nationalities: Chinese 4, Greek 11, Negro 13, Russian 1, Scandinavian 1, Swiss 2, Unspecified 60.

Such information as given above in regard to the percentage of residents of German birth should not arouse any misgivings or alarm. A large number of the constituencies exceed East Peterborough in this respect. Indeed the census show that throughout the Dominion there are some four thousand persons of German origin. It is pleasing to know that the vast majority of these people form our most loyal and industrious citizens. So that rather than have any fears we should be glad to know that we have so many descendants of German ancestry, who have escaped the oppression of Kaiserdom and are now on the right side.

Nine Engines Damaged In Seven Days

In the past week no less than nine Grand Trunk locomotives have been put out of commission in this neighbourhood. The minions of misfortune got away to a good start last Tuesday, in the wreck which occurred the other side of Campbellford, when two engines were very badly damaged. They were at the head of a grain train which pitched into a work train. Last Saturday afternoon four engines were badly damaged in the head-on collision about half a mile the other side of Keene, and Saturday night another engine suffered as a result of an accident in Port Hope. Last night the round house at Port Hope burned down, and an engine in it was destroyed, and this morning, near Lindsay, the cylinder head blew off one of the engines. Thus in a series of mishaps nine locomotives have been put out of commission, the last named one, of course, will be only temporarily off the road.

Crews Had Narrow Escape In a Collision

Double Headers Smash Into Each Other Near Keene Saturday

In a head-on collision on the G.T.R. line near Keene on Saturday fourteen employees of the railway, constituting the crews of two freight trains, escaped injury. Three engines were put out of commission, but apart from the damage to the locomotives, neither the rolling stock nor the employees suffered.

That the damage in life and property was so small is due, it is said, to a fortunate circumstance which served to minimize the effect of what would, under other conditions, have been a disastrous wreck. A double header freight train loaded with grain and going east was divided as usual at Keene bank, just on the other side of Keene, in order to make the grade at that point. The first half of the train was drawn ahead and put on the siding, while the second half was left standing on the line about half a mile on the other side of Keene. A double-header train of empties was about due when the side-tracking of the first half had been effected, so it was decided to back the second half to Keene to allow the west-bound freight to pass. A flagman was left at the siding to tell the west-bound train to steam right through.

The train of empties came along sooner than was expected, and pitched into the two detached engines that were returning to couple to the second half of the other train. Fortunately the two engines had not yet been coupled to the train, so that as they were hit by the east-bound train they were piled up on the track without transmitting the shock to the grain train. The fact that they had not yet coupled up to the second half of the train is responsible for there being no great derailment of cars, but had the engines been attached the impact of the collision would have been terrific and the result vastly more serious than it actually was.

The train crew sighted the engines before they ran them down, and applied the brakes. There was not time to avoid a collision, but the speed of the train was reduced before it struck the locomotives. Engineers William Hutchins and Blair were on the east-bound train, and Engineers Wood and Capstick on the west-bound train. They escaped injury by jumping. On both trains were fourteen men, seven to each train, and none of them were injured. The Lindsay auxiliary was sent to the scene and cleared up the debris. One engine steamed off under its power, two were taken to Lindsay, and the other is still at the place of the accident. The passengers on the Belleville trains were transhipped at Keene and brought here by the Lakefield train, in charge of Conductor Jobbit.

EGGS GOING UP IN CHINA

Fifteen years ago the price of eggs in the province of Shantung, China, was $1 for 900 eggs. Now the price has risen to $1 for 300. Twenty-seven million eggs were exported from this province in 1913, most of which went to England.

Few Chinese poultry raisers possess more than a dozen or so hens. They hatch most of their chickens in earthenware incubators, which are heated by the fire, which warms the living rooms and the beds—thus all the heat is saved. We have the word of the Consul at Chefoo that the Chinese frequently incubate eggs by carrying them strapped about their waists under their outer garments. This is carrying economy to the limit; it would seem.

Most Chinese families are too poor to eat eggs even at the low prices mentioned, and therefore the entire product, except that portion used for hatching, is sold. On the average the Chinese egg weighs a pound.

NORWOOD NEWS OF INTEREST

Board of Education Met in Regular Session—Other News

Special to The Examiner:

NORWOOD, Dec. 8.—At a recent meeting of the Norwood Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society, held in the Methodist Church, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mr. E. P. Cuffe.
Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. J. E. Roxburgh.
Vice-Presidents—Revs. Wolland, Noble, Waddell and Irwin.
Directors—Messrs. L. Fife, T. Patterson, W. Cuthbertson, F. A. Finlay, K. G. Thomson, A. S. Wilkinson, Dr. S. P. Ford, J. L. Squire.

Mrs. A. S. Wilkinson is visiting in Kemptville.

On Thursday morning, Dec. 3rd, at his home on Peterborough street, the death occurred of Mr. Wm. Webster, in his seventy-fifth year. Deceased had been a resident of Norwood and vicinity most of his life, having moved to the village a few years ago from Asphodel.

To mourn his loss he leaves a widow and four children, William, of Bawlf, Alberta, and Herbert, Frank and Fanny, of Norwood.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Saturday afternoon to the Norwood cemetery, the last sad rites being performed by Rev. Mr. Wolland, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, of which deceased had been a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Drope, of Roseneath, visited friends in town on Sunday.

Mrs. John Rork and Master Perrin were in Peterborough last week.

Mrs. R. Lees, of Peterborough, is spending a few days with her sister, Miss E. Waters.

Mr. Lorne Webster, of Smith, and Messrs. David Webster and Beavis, of Lakefield, attended the funeral of their uncle, Wm. Webster, on Saturday.

An excellent concert was given in the Town Hall on Monday evening by the La Dell Concert Company, under the auspices of the Norwood High School. A number of visitors were present, and enjoyed the promenades which took place immediately after the close of the entertainment.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will hold their regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) Ford.

The Board of Education met on December 7.

Those present were: Messrs. Cuffe (chairman), MacNaughton, Doherty, Scott, Finlay, Cuthbertson, Burkell, Suire, Elliott and Marks.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The minutes of the Agricultural Committee, dated Sept. 5th, were read from the chair.

The chairman reported that $45 had been paid to Mr. McRae for use of prizes in School Fairs.

Moved by Mr. Burkell, seconded by Mr. Cuthbertson, that the supply committee ascertain the needs of Mr. Lawlor in the Science room and supply the stools.

Moved by Mr. Cuthbertson, seconded by Mr. Finlay, that the Supply Committee be empowered to purchase the green wood necessary. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Finlay, seconded by Mr. Doherty, that the chairman and secretary be a committee to prepare a letter of condolence to forward to the family of our late member, Mr. Wm. Webster. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Doherty, seconded by Mr. Scott, that the report be received and filed.

The following accounts were presented: W. H. Tucker & Bros., P.S. $6.85, H.S. $1.20, total $8.05; W. C. Doherty, repairing pump, $1.25; E. J. Laing, postage 1914, $0.21; John Parker, 1 cord wood, $3.25; K. G. Thomson, account, $0.60; Norman Andrews, 5 bushels lime, $3.25; J. W. Rork, account 1914, $79.76. Advisory accounts, the Norwood Register account, $24.91.

Moved by Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Burkell, that the advisory accounts be paid. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Cuthbertson, seconded by Mr. Elliott, that the other accounts be referred to their respective committees and if found correct, paid.

Moved by Messrs. Scott and Finlay that the Supply Committee purchase at $1.50 each, the pictures of the King and Queen for Miss Water's room. Motion lost.

The Baptist Sunday School are making preparations for their annual entertainment and Christmas tree to be held on the evening of December 23rd.

NOTICE.

To the Residents of Norwood and Vicinity:

It has been brought to my notice that Eliza Jane Wannamaker (nee Mrs. W. J. McMillan), has been making slanderous and untrue statements regarding me which are absolutely untrue in every particular. In order to substantiate her statements and bring the matter to an end I ask her to make her charges before the Justice of the Peace, and have her witnesses there to prove it, or I will be compelled to take action myself.

FRANCE CALLS 300,000 YOUTHS TO TRAIN.

BORDEAUX, via Paris, Dec. 6.—The 300,000 youths of eighteen years in France who normally would begin service in the army in October, 1916, are by government decree called to present themselves for examination beginning on December 20. Their military training probably will begin next March.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Absence of needed rain in Central and Western Kansas tended today to offset wheat weakness, that was due largely to lower cables. Prices closed unsettled, ¼c to ⅝c off to ¼c up, compared with last night. The outcome in corn was ⅛c to ⅜c decline, and for oats a setback of ⅜c to ½c. Provisions finished 5c to 12½c higher.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 8.—The wheat market today was the quietest it has been for a long time. Liverpool cables were ½d lower, which caused an easier opening on all months, and with wire trouble owing to storms news was scarce, which added to the general stagnation. Wheat opened ¼c to ⅜c lower, oats ⅛c to ⅛c lower and flax ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower. The enquiry for export is active enough, the government being in the market for 1,000,000 bushels, but few sales were reported. Another difficulty which confronts the export trade is securing ocean charters at reasonable rates. Wheat options closed ⅛c to ⅜c lower, oats ⅛c lower and flax ⅜c to 1c higher.

Cash demand is in excess of offerings for wheat, exporters taking care of all that comes on the market to complete specs at the head of the lakes. It was ascertained that one firm sold around 150,000 bushels extra No. 1 feed and No. 2 C.W. oats for export.

Inspections Monday were 606 cars, as against 945 last year, and in sight were 349 cars.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—There continues to be a good demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat and some fair lots of No. 1 hard were on hand to be shipped to London at 47s and 47s 3d, but owing to the high rate of freight demand from Portland to this port it was impossible for exporters to do any business.

There was no improvement in the domestic demand for oats, but there was a steady demand from country buyers for Argentine and American ports. Trade in mill feed and oats is active, with prices firm. Local trade in butter is still quiet, but there is a steady enquiry for cheese from over the cable. Demand for eggs is good.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 8.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.19⅝; No. 1 northern, $1.15⅛ to $1.18⅛; No. 2 do., $1.13⅛ to $1.16⅛; Dec., $1.14⅛.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 55c to 56c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 45½c to 46c.

Flour and bran—Unchanged.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

DULUTH, Dec. 8.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.18; No. 1 northern, $1.17⅛; No. 2 do., $1.14⅛; Dec., $1.17⅛.

GERMANS ADVANCE IN NORTH AND RUSSIANS GAIN IN THE SOUTH

Von Hindenburg Despatches Another Force From Kalesz to Compel Russians to Concentrate in Centre Poland and Forsake Siege of Cracow.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The great battle for possession of Poland continues. The front extends along 300 miles and victory over a part of it, at least, appears to have fallen to the Germans, while the Russians are pressing upon Cracow in the south.

That Lodz is in possession of the Germans seems undoubted and a Russian official report just issued apparently is preparing the public mind for the news by referring to the difficulty of defending the city, which gives to the Russian front an abnormal contour and forecasts a reforming of the line. Details of these mighty battles have yet to be written. The general fact that there has been fearful slaughter and intense suffering from the cold comprise about the total of the information received.

The Germans claim they are pursuing the Russians to the south and southeast of Lods. Several correspondents were with the Russian army when the battle broke, but nothing has been heard from them for several days. Evidently they are under the hand of strict censorship.

British military experts insist that three-quarters of the best material the German army has been held in the western theatre of the war throughout the campaign, and that the troops opposed to the Russians consist principally of second line organizations.

By forcing the fight in Poland the Germans hope to save East Prussia and to hinder the operations of the Russians against Cracow, says a despatch to The Journal from its correspondent in Petrograd. Following this general policy the Germans have sent forward a new army from the vicinity of Kalisz, which is driving the Russian left back toward Petrokov, and which, it is the plan of the Germans, will force the Russians to concentrate their forces behind the Vistula and Warta rivers.

The Germans are desperately attempting to keep the theatre of the struggle in Poland, hoping to force the withdrawal of Russian troops from both the right in the Masurian Lake region and from the left wing in Galicia and especially before Cracow.

The Germans are said to be suffering terribly in the trenches in Poland, where cold rains have followed the frosts, softening the roads so as to make rapid movements of troops impracticable and the transportation of cannon almost impossible.

A Petrograd despatch to The Morning Post says: "While the situation around Lodz is not yet clear, it appears that both sides are establishing themselves in trenches, which is not difficult, as the frost has broken and the rainy weather set in.

"The great numbers of reinforcements which the Germans have brought up from the western front has resulted in continuous fighting on the eastern front. The battle line from east Prussia to Cracow is 300 miles long. Eleven German army corps are said to be around Lodz.

Everywhere the situation is satisfactory to the Russians. The business of the Russian troops in Poland is merely to hold their lines. Meanwhile, on the other sections of the front, mainly in east Prussia and Cracow, the Russians are pushing forward vigorously.

"In east Prussia, the most important feature is the siege of the fortress of Lotzen, which the Russians left untaken on their early dash in east Prussia, thereby enabling the Germans later to turn the tables on the invaders.

"South of Cracow the Russians are advancing steadily, while the movement into Hungary progresses at a satisfactory rate."

Rheims Rejoices That Her 1914 Vintage of Champagne Remains

German Soldiers Spared Vines, and Grapes Were Gathered Under Fire by Girls; Then French Retook the Pillaged City.

RHEIMS, Dec. 2.—The vintage of 1914 in the champagne country is secure. The grapes are under press while the cannons continue to boom toward the north.

"When the champagne province was invaded," said the director of one of the big champagne cellars, "the Germans said, 'The wine will be ours,' so they spared the vines. When our troops chased them out they had not time to stop to do any damage, all of which is especially fortunate, since 'the year of the war' will class alongside 'the year of the comet' as one of the best vintages."

GATHERED GRAPES UNDER FIRE.

The gathering of the grapes around Rheims was done under a violent fire. The joyous peasant girls, whose laughter is poetically said "to be imprisoned with the wine and to come out with the sparkle" went about their work as if the ground was not being ploughed everywhere by the unexploded German shells. This year there is little laughter in their song, but there is more patriotism, and the music with which it was accompanied was the ominous crashing report of the little three-inch field gun of the French artillery.

DEEP CELLARS ESCAPED INJURY.

Most of the wine houses above ground were seriously damaged by the heavy artillery fire from both sides, but, as a rule, the cellars, owing to their depth and solidity, have not suffered. They served and still serve as a shelter for thousands of poor refugees, who find no other place to escape from the German shells. The only damage to the cellars was during the German occupation, for while they spared the vines they did not spare the bottles. Nearly every cellar in the champagne district was heavily drawn upon, but not one of them was really pillaged. In some cases the wine was drunk on the spot, and some of the officers who indulged too freely were still there when the French occupied the territory; but the common soldier was not permitted this luxury, and to this fact is probably due the escape of the cellars from complete depletion.

Experts who have estimated the total yield consider that it will be a little below the average in quantity, though it will be quite superior to recent years in quality.

BERLIN, via The Hague, Dec. 9.—Kaiser Wilhelm has pneumonia and is declared to be seriously ill. Following the official announcement that the Kaiser was suffering from bronchial catarrh, this was the information learned to-day. It was stated earlier in the day that the condition of his Majesty was satisfactory. The Kaiser's present illness is attributed to exposure in the winter weather which has prevailed on both fronts.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 9.—An official communication given out by the Russian general staff last night says: "The battle which began December 5, southeast of Cracow, in the region of Wieliczko on the River Deriuty has developed in our favour after having courageously forced the passage of the Dounaets river in the vicinity of Nowy-Sandec our reinforcements pursued the offensive and inflicted serious defeat on the German troops, which had followed the Valley of Losezyn. The German right wing, which was pursued was turned."

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—Major-Gen. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, gave a flat denial this morning to Bernstorff's charges regarding the alleged ordering by the Canadian Government, and the alleged use by the British Government, of guns and cartridges forbidden by the rules of civilized warfare.

WASHINTON, Dec. 9.—From Admiral Fletcher, hero of Vera Cruz, the House Naval committee to-day heard the submarine terror riddled. He declared that Europe's war has not shown this weapon a decisive one and asserted that a "skillful enemy" need not give this weapon the opportunity to wreck havoc. He told that, though spectacular and affecting, the imagination of the world, the submarine is still lacking in the power to determine a conflict. He declared battleships will still remain the deciding factors of war.

Fletcher considered New York with its fortifications, plus mines, immune from a hostile attack. He said: "As yet no lesson can be drawn from the European war to show that the value of the battleship is any less than before or that it is not the main weapon to decide a conflict in any navy."

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 9.—In view of the collapse of his own nerves, it is interesting to note that the Kaiser referred to the nerves of the Germans in general, the other day as reported to-day in a despatch from Berlin. This was during a speech made on December 3rd by Emperor William at one of the camps of the Germans and Austrians which he visited on his recent trip to the eastern front.

"You are fighting for a just cause, for liberty, for the right to exist as a nation and for the future of prolonged peace," said the Emperor. "We shall continue to fight with success as heretofore. Heaven is on our side. With God we shall achieve prolonged peace for our nerves are stronger than those of our enemy." The Kaiser was on the eastern front only last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomson of Hastings Presented With an Address and a Purse of Gold

Examiner Special:

HASTINGS, Dec. 8.—Rev. T. H. P. Anderson was in Trenton on Sunday, speaking on behalf of the temperance and moral reform work of the Methodist church.

Rev. Mr. Bunner of Trenton, supplied in Hastings and gave two instructive missionary addresses, when collections and subscriptions were asked for in aid of missions.

Mr. Thos. Learmouth passed away at his late residence here on Thursday last, after an illness lasting for some three weeks. He had reaches the age of 67 and had been a life-long resident of Hastings, where he was always active in public affairs, having held the position of Reeve for a number of years. He was also a member of the I.O.F., where he will be much missed, as he was very earnest in his endeavous in promoting the welfare of the order. In politics he was a Liberal and in religion a Presbyterian. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his widow, two sons, William and Thomas of Outlook, Sask., and one daughter, Alice, who resides at home. The floral tributes were numerous, testifying to the esteem in which deceased was held by the citizens in general. The funeral was held on Saturday morning to the Presbyterian church, where service was held, after which the remains were conveyed to the Norwood cemetery, where interment was made.

Nightly practice is being held for the annual Christmas entertainment on Christmas night, and a good programme is being prepared.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Thomson, having resigned the position of caretaker of the Methodist church, after an unparalleled term of service lasting for 39 years, during which time Mr. Thompson has only been absent two Sundays, the members of the congregation met on Thursday evening and presented them with an address and a sum of money, conveying to them their best wishes and as a mark of the good will existing between them and the people to whom they have been ministering. Following is the address:

Mr. and Mrs. I. Thomson:—

Dear Friends,—Once again we are reminded that all things earthly are subject to change, for now the time has come when you are severing your connection with the church, in the capacity in which you have served for such a number of years. We feel that in all your duties in the church you have done your part very faithfully and sincerely, and we cannot let this opportunity pass without in some way informing you of our appreciation of your services, and of our associations with you. You have maintained a record deserving of the highest honour, and we have learned to respect you for your integrity, and your noble Christ-like characters, and unitedly we desire to follow you with our best wishes and an earnest and sincere prayer that your declining years may be your brightest and best As friends, we shall still hope to mingle with you, and we trust that your sphere of usefulness may be in no wise lessened, but that your joy in service may be abundant. And now, as a slight token of our esteem we ask you, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson to accept these gifts, and may they ever remind you of the friends and associations you have made during your long term of service, and when you are called to sever all connection with the church militant, may you join the church triumphant, in that bright land where Sabaths never end.

Signed on behalf of the congregation of the Methodist church. Dec. 3rd, 1914.

NO ROOM FOR MEDIOCRITY.

What is good enough for Canadians to buy from Canadian makers is of too much importance to be anything but the best. There is no room in this country for mediocrity in manufacturing. Long ago with our 23,000 factories we got past the stage where we excused ourselves by inexperience. We are not experimenting. We are competing in the world's markets; and what is more to the point, in our home market, with goods made by expert manufacturing nations the world over. Our $1500,000,000 capital investment in manufacturing plants would be worse than wasted if they turned out a large percentage of inferior goods. They had far better be idle and go to the scrap heap. We have the best wheat, the best all-round climate, the greatest railway systems, the most contented and prosperous people, one of the most efficient army of workers in the world, and as high an average of business and manufacturing brains as can be found anywhere. There is no reason why we should not be able to put our Canadian-made wares down beside those made in any country and challenge the most minute comparison. In many fields of manufacturing we have proved that we can. In some others we still seem to be experimenting a little. Now is the time, when the "Made-in-Canada" campaigns has become a crusade, to get rid of all fair to middling, "pretty-good-for-Mary-Ann" methods and see that the things we ask our fellow-Canadians to buy carry on their face and in their fibre the guarantee of their own excellence. What is good enough for the Canadians to buy is good enough to demand from the manufacturer the last ounce of excellence in manufacturing. 1w-50

No Tax on This.

"Who can make a sentence and use the word 'income' correctly?" asked the teacher of the second grade.

"You may tell us, Johnny," indicating a little boy whose hand was waving violently.

"In come a rat," was the triumphant response.

When evening falls you like to gather round the table and read, the whole family does. The Weekly Sun of Toronto has departments of interest to everyone, from the markets and editorials for father, down to a story for the boys, and a bright, thoughtful home page for mother and the girls. It is all interesting, and every issue is well worth while. How would it be for a Christmas gift? It would certainly be a profitable one, and help you make the farm pay. 1w-50

WARSAW WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING

Members of Bethel and Warsaw Sunday Schools Have Social Evening

Special to The Examiner.

WARSAW, Dec. 8.—The regular meeting of the Warsaw Women's Institute has been called for Thursday, Dec. 10, to be held in the Town Hall.

The members of Bethel and Warsaw Methodist Sunday Schools met to spend a social evening at the Town Hall on Tuesday evening.

During these troublous times let us not break the usual custom of giving at Christmas, but rather let us be more open hearted than usual. It is a year for the giving of utility, sensible and useful gifts, such as may be more than ornamental. To the end that the folks of this village and neighborhood may be in a position to secure utility gifts, Choate, of Warsaw, has given special attention to the purchase of goods which are of this nature. We have just received the latest patriotic novelty, consisting of dolls, twelve inches high, dressed in the costumes of Highlander and Red Cross Nurse, and selling at 15c each, or a pair for 25c.

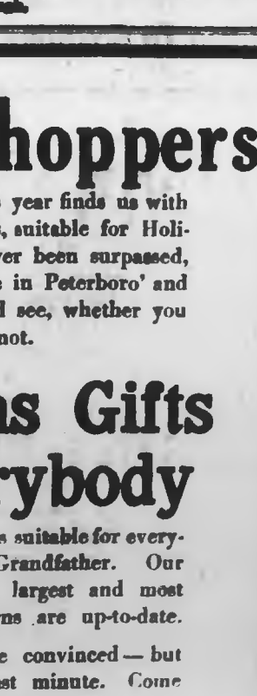
EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

DAILY FASHION HINT. 10c



Misses' Negligee and Cap.

This simple wrapper is cut on plain lines, with the closing far over at one side, the neck a trifle open and the small sleeves cut with wide upper end which is inserted in a very large armhole. This makes an ornamental feature as well as a comfortable cut. The cap is gathered and has pointed tabs over each ear, suggesting the Dutch peasant cap.

The wrapper and cap pattern, No. 6,940, is cut in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Medium size requires 5¾ yards of 36-inch material, with 6 yards of edging.

This pattern can be obtained by sending 10 cents to the office of this paper.

When ordering remember to give your name and address as well as the number and size of pattern required and age of a child.

HARD TO GET WOOL.

Canadian Textile Industries are Finding Difficulties.

OTTAWA, Dec. 10.—While the Canadian textile industry is enjoying an unprecedented boom in turning out material for clothing for the expeditionary forces, no small difficulty is being experienced in getting supplies of wool. The export from Great Britain is somewhat limited, while the regulations concerning the foot and mouth disease also impose some restrictions upon American imports, but these have greatly been minimized of late.

The Nurnberg Sunk And The Dresden Bottled Up

Fourth German Warship Sunk And Fifth Has Been Cornered

Cruiser Nurnberg is Gone and the Dresden is in the Straits of Magellan — Tuesday's Battle Lasted Five Hours—Terrible and Dramatic Conclusion to German Raiders' Career.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—"The Nurnberg was also sunk on Dec. 8.—The pursuit of the Dresden continues." This brief message to the Admiralty from Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee, commander of the British South American fleet which sank the Scharnhorst, the Gneisenau and the Leipsiz off the Falkland Islands on Tuesday, showed that the business of clearing the high seas of German warships is proceeding with despatch.

Although the Official Press Bureau says the British men-of-war are still seeking for the last one of Admiral von Spee's vessels, unofficial reports received in Buanos Ayres say the Dresden has been cornered in the Straits of Magellan, the tortuous waterway leading from the Atlantic to the Pacific at the southernmost point of South America. While this report is not confirmed, it is believed in Admiralty circles here that the Dresden, even though she is somewhat faster boat than any of those sunk in Tuesday's battle, eventually will be brought to action.

Lasted Five Hours.

The engagement, one of the greatest that has ever been fought between modern warships, lasted only five hours. The Scharnhorst went down at the end of three hours and the Gneisenau followed Admiral von Spee's flagship to the bottom two hours later. The fighting began at half-past seven o'clock on Tuesday morning, and by half-past twelve the dangerous units of the German squadron had been disposed of. That left an afternoon of daylight for the British light cruisers to chase the Leipzig, the Nurnberg and the Dresden.

The fate of the Leipsig was soon sealed, and she was destroyed in time for the inclusion of the news in the first brief report which Admiral Sturdee flashed to England. The speedy British cruisers then continued their pursuit of the remaining boats, and evidently overtook the Nurnberg within a few hours. The Dresden was "cornered" later. Thus the Karlsruhe is left alone in the Atlantic, and is now believed to be in hiding. That the Dresden was able to escape unscathed is most unlikely. The fact that her four companions were unable to escape the British net indicates that she had some part in the battle, and that only her great speed—she has made better than 27 knots—took her beyond reach of hostile shells for the time being. The plight of the Dresden and of the Karlsruhe, too, is greater now than ever before.

KAISER MUCH BETTER TO-DAY

Special Morning Cable:

BERLIN, via The Hague, Dec. 11.—Kaiser Wilhelm is suffering from catarrh of the throat. I am able to make this statement upon authority of persons close to the court who are in a position to know the nature of His Majesty's illness, and his present condition.

An official statement as to the Kaiser's condition issued to-day states that His Majesty is considerably improved. This is confirmed by my informants. The official announcement declares that the catarrh has subsided. The Kaiser's temperature is normal and he was able to-day to receive reports from the chief of the general staff. The improvement in His Majesty's condition set in last night and continued to-day.

Russia Expends $892,500,000 On War

PARIS, Dec. 10.—According to a Petrograd despatch to the Havas Agency, the Russian Minister of Finance, in a report appended to the 1915 budget, estimates the cost of the war to Russia, up to the end of October, old style calendar (Nov. 13) as 1,785,000,000 roubles, ($892,500,000). The expenses have been met by various issues of short-term bonds treasury notes and loans, totalling 1,850,000,000). Further issues, both interior and foreign, will be made as the circumstances require.

DEATH OF MRS. HENDERSON

Mrs. G. N. Gordon, of Peterborough is a Relative

WINNIPEG, Dec. 11.—Mrs. Henderson, wife of Robert N. Henderson, land inspector for Oster, Hammond & Nanton, died yesterday at the family residence, 714 Rosser avenue. She had suffered from apoplexy and paralysis, her illness extending over four months. Mrs. Henderson, who was 40 years of age, was a native of Brighton, Ont. Mrs. Geo. N. Gordon of Peterborough, and Mrs. Cecil Cameron of Brantford, are relatives.

MORE CONTRACTS FOR THE C. G. E.

Peterboro' Firm Will Provide Equipment For Power Houses

The London and Port Stanley Railway Commission has awarded a number of contracts in connection with the electrification of the road. The Canadian Bridge Company's tender for Shiffler type poles at $3.38, plus 5 cents a hundred pounds for angle sections, was accepted. On instructions from the Ontario Hydro Power Commission, equipment for the power houses in London and St. Thomas will be supplied by the Canadian General Electric Company, and motors for the same will be purchased from the Westinghouse people. Tenders on cars were sent back for further information.

BUT THEY CAN'T.

If Germany and Austria, in the light of their acquired military experience, could turn the clock of history back five months, would they again choose the path they then chose?—New York World.

Germans Forced To Evacuate Roulers

Fighting Over Heavy Roads the Allies Progress Yard by Yard From Coast to Alsace

Special Morning Cable:

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Fighting over roads heavy with mud, and through patches of wood which have been turned into swamps by heavy rains, the French and British troops are advancing their lines yard by yard to-day.

HAVE TO FIGHT FOR EVERY YARD.

The forward movement of the allied troops is literally measured by yards in an official statement from the War Office covering a period of operations up to Dec. 5. The advantages gained, however, extend from the coast and entirely across Northern France into Alsace.

ENEMY ABANDONS ROULERS.

The Germans are to-day reported to have evacuated Roulers. Thourout and Thielt may also be abandoned, movements of the Germans appear to indicate. The persistent advance of the British along the railway from Ypres to Roulers has forced this action upon the enemy.

Sweep The Seas Of German Raiders By First Of Year

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 11.—A complete sweep of the Atlantic of all German commerce raiders by the first of the year is the task now before the victorious fleet of Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee. It is confidently believed in England that this will be successfully accomplished.

As news of the victory off the South American coast has come piecemeal from the Admiralty, all England now awaits the official announcement that the cruiser Dresden, the last of Admiral Von Spee's squadron, has been sunk.

The last report of Vice-Admiral Sturdee stated that his ships were pursuing the Dresden. With the fast cruisers at the command of the British naval leader, the capture or sinking of the German vessel is considered a certainty.

SENSATION AT G. T. R. STATION IN WHITBY

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—At 2 a.m. this morning robbers entered the G. T. R. station at Whitby, just east of here, shot the operator agent and robbed the station till. The operator lived just long enough to drag himself to the telephone and call up the police chief. When aid reached him he was dead beside the 'phone.

Sarnia's City Hall Burned

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 11.—Fire broke out early to-day, completing destroying the city hall here. All city papers and valuables were saved. A cigarette thrown away after the meeting last night, is blamed.

WHO'S WHO IN THE WAR

Although a prisoner of war, and prevented from taking any further part in the conflict, Capt. Karl von Miller of the German navy has already written his name large in the history of this titanic combat. The man who commanded the cruiser Emden on its destructive career of three months, and gained the title of "the terror of the Indian Ocean," until at last he was brought to book by the Australian cruiser "Sidney," is in his forty-first year.

He was born in the City of Blankenburg, Germany, which municipality recently conferred upon him the title of "honourable citizen." Capt. von Muller, as the "von" signifies, came of a prominent family. As a boy he entered the German naval school at Kiel, from which he graduated when only eighteen years of age. He worked his way up to the position of admiralty staff officer of the German high seas fleet, and a few years ago was made a member of the staff of Admiral von Tirpitz, "the eternal" head of the German navy. He has a brother who is in the army and a member of the general staff. Capt. von Muller's first sea command was the cruiser Emden, and upon the outbreak of the present war he began that series of sensational raids which brought his name into prominence. Peaceful merchantmen were the customary prey of the Emden, but on one occasion he entered the harbour of Penang and sank a Russian cruiser and a Japanese torpedo boat destroyer, which were taken by surprise, as the Emden flew the Japanese flag and was further disguised by a fourth or dummy smokestack. British naval authorities candidly admit that von Muller's feat in keeping going three months, without stopping to be overhauled, was a wonderful naval achievement. Captain von Muller and all his crew were given the Iron Cross.

Prospective Recruit Killed at Practice

Examiner Special:

GODERICH, Ont., Dec. 11.—Geo. Strathdee, aged 26, of Huron township was instantly killed when, as he was practicing rifle shooting with a chum who intended to enlist with him, the bullet glanced off a tree and struck him in the head.

TWO GERMAN SUBMARINES ARE REPORTED GONE

DOVER, Dec. 10.—It is reported here that German submarines attempted a raid on Dover this morning and that two were sunk.

Firing was heard from the east arm of the Admiralty harbour early this morning. Warships left the harbour at once and it was reported later that they had sighted and engaged German submarines, sinking two of them.

The night was very dark and a heavy rain and haze made searchlight work difficult. Fortunately the forts were put on the alert about 4 o'clock this morning by the appearance off the harbour entrance of an unidentified steamer which refused to stop until a shot was fired across her bow. This vessel then retired. She is believed to have been the tender of the submarines.

Half an hour later, it is said, a single submarine was sighted and one of the heavy guns in the harbour fired at her. This submarine, which evidently was the advance scout, disappeared, but at half-past six the observers sighted what they believed to be a fleet of about six submarines several miles out in the channel.

The channel forts commenced firing in the direction of the supposed submarines and kept it up almost half an hour. At the same time a torpedo-boat destroyer flotilla put to sea, where it remained all day.

Large crowds gathered on the water front in the early morning hours and watched the searchlights and the artillery fire.

There is no official confirmation from the Admiralty that German submarines were sunk.

CENSOR OPENS LETTERS OF PRINCE OF WALES

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The Prince of Wales during his first week at the front sent two long letters to his mother relating his experiences and observations. Both letters were opened by the censor and officially passed in the same manner as those of the ordinary soldier.

It is expected that the Prince will remain abroad for several months, although he may receive a brief leave of absence at Christmas so that he may spend the holidays with his parents.

Aluminum is used in a new fireless cooker, with mica to insulate the walls and a detachable asbestos bottom, to be removed when the utensil is placed over the fire.

REVENUE CUTTER SERVICE.

How It Came to Be Placed Under the Treasury Department.

The United States revenue cutter service is a military arm of the government attached to and under the direction of the treasury department. The service was organized in 1790 and constituted the original naval force of the country. There was at that time no navy department, and the service was placed under the treasury department, where it has remained ever since.

It is charged with the enforcement of the navigation and customs laws of the United States, the assistance of vessels in distress, the protection of the sealing industry in Alaska, the enforcement of the quarantine laws, the destruction of derelicts and other floating dangers to navigation and numerous other duties appropriate to its class of vessels. Each winter, by direction of the president, a number of the cutters patrol the coast for the special purpose of assisting vessels in distress.

The service co-operates with the navy when directed by the president and has so co-operated in every war in which the United States has been engaged. It is sometimes called the revenue marine service, but revenue cutter service is the proper name. There are forty-three cutters in the service, and they carry from one to five or six guns each.

China.

There is a stratum of mystery under the cuticle of China of which the young mind of the white man can conceive only a tithe, and the names—road of the purple emperor, spring of the whispering spirit, cascade of the humming bird's wings, cataract of the sombre clouds, grotto of the adulteress' death—not of mere flowery choosing, but names made florid by the necessities of a people whose history is so long that a poetic glamor has fallen upon it.

Hospital Efficiency.

A highly developed efficiency system in saving time and trouble for the staff is used in a London hospital. Indicators bearing the names of the officials, house doctors and some of the staff doctors are located in many rooms and hallways, and these indicators show at all times whether or not any one of the officials is in the hospital and available for consultation. When each doctor comes into the building a button is pressed that makes it known on all the indicators that he has arrived; and when he goes out the indicators are made to record that fact. The indicators also show the word "engaged," which means that the official or doctor is not to be disturbed—a push on a button in the official's room accomplishing this. Thus, in any part of the hospital, at any time, each doctor knows and each nurse knows when the various officials and doctors may be asked to give attention to any matter.—Saturday Evening Post.

Gods of Machinery.

The ceremony of propitiating the gods which are supposed to reside in the printing machinery is annually performed by the Hindu members of the Times of Malaya printing staff. The usually prosaic machine and composing rooms are turned into weird caverns of mystery, dimly lit by candles and oil lamps, and odorous with the heavy scent of incense and perfumes. Every machine is garlanded, and has placed before it an offering of "makan." Rice and bananas and cakes are the portion of each machine according in its size and importance; even the "stone" comes in for a share of the gifts. At the appointed time braziers, containing smoking camphor and cocoanut oil, are carried round and held before each machine, while the power engine, whose god presumably is regarded as a particularly aggressive personage, is "smoked" for a specially long period.—Times of Malaya.

A Great Blessing to be Freed of Indigestion

For Years He Suffered After Almost Every Meal—Attributes Complete Cure to Use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The experience of many people who suffer from indigestion is like that of the writer of this letter. Stomach medicines may bring some relief, but chronic indigestion is almost invariably the result of derangements of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and cannot be actually cured until these organs are set right.

MR. BARRETT.

With the liver sluggish there is constipation, and the food ferments in the bowels instead of being digested. This is the source of pain and suffering, and the cause of such dreaded diseases as appendicitis, peritonitis and kidney disease. It is much better to be on the safe side and prevent such ailments by the timely use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. J. D. S. Barrett, Nelson, B.C., and formerly of Twillingate, Nfld., writes:—"For several years I was a great sufferer from indigestion. The least bit of food caused me considerable trouble, and often I could scarcely eat a meal a day. The many remedies I tried proved futile until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using about eight boxes I was completely cured.

"Since that time I have not been troubled with indigestion, which I consider a great blessing. I feel grateful for this cure, and shall gladly answer any inquiries from persons suffering as I did."

HORSESHOE LUCK.

Belief in It Dates Back to the Days of Golden Shod Steeds.

Every one knows the superstition that good luck strikes the finder if by chance a castoff horseshoe is picked up by the wayside, but how few know the origin of this belief.

It goes back hundreds of years, when horses were not only shod with shoes of iron, but with gold and silver as well, and this fact makes it apparent why it was lucky to find a shoe that had a real market value.

The habit of shoeing horses was formed in the time of the ancients many centuries before Christ. It was at this period that gold and silver were so often substitutes for iron.

The Roman emperors, for example, and the kings of Norway indulged repeatedly in this luxury.

The custom once established brought in vogue another practice among the grandees. When their horses cast their shoes the lackey was not allowed to stop for the purpose of securing them. This disdain of precious metal satisfied the bombastic pride of their masters; hence, when they were seen by the populace to mount a horse or enter a carriage they were followed with fervor in the hope that a shoe would become loose, thus enriching their store of earthly goods or, in other words, bringing them good luck.

When Lord Doncaster, Ambassador from England, made his entrance into Paris in 1616, he wished to win popularity and to associate his name with good fortune stories, so he ordered that the horse he was to ride should be insecurely shod with silver shoes.

Each time that he passed a group of pretty women or prominent men he dug his spurs into the flanks of his horse so forcefully that the tortured animal would kick up his heels in such a manner that invariably a shoe was cast.

Immediately there was a scramble in the crowd to get the good luck souvenir. This manoeuvre was repeated many times while en route to the Louvre.

The supply was not restricted to just four legs. The wily lord had seen to that. In his escort was an elaborately liveried servant, who, at each casting of a shoe, would dismount, and from a bag containing tools and other silver shoes would then and there shoe the horse.

Make a Palindrome.

Besides making puns, our English cousins are fond of composing palindromes — that is, combinations of words that read the same backward as forward. The most famous palindrome is that by Doctor Brewer, supposed to be the greeting of Adam to Eve:

"Madam, I'm Adam."

In an English magazine I discover some recent attempts of this sort, which are more ingenious than poetical:

"No, it is opposed. Art sees Trade's opposition."

Evolution of a Word.

The word "person" has had an interesting history. Signifying by etymology something to make a sound through, the Latin "persona" began by meaning an actor's mask with its mouthpiece. Then it meant the character represented by the player—"dramatis personae." Then it came to mean the part or character one sustains in real life, and so the "persona ecclesiae," the man who represented the church, became known as a "person" in a special sense and was eventually spelled as "parson." On the other hand, "person" faded away to mean just anybody.

To Keep Her Going.

A long suffering husband had a wife who seemed to be perpetually talking. After driving him almost frantic one evening with her conversation, she remarked:

"Thaddeus, I suppose when I die you'll have a mausoleum built in my memory?"

"I will do nothing of the sort," returned the exasperated Thaddeus. "When you die I will have you cremated and your ashes placed in an hourglass. Then you can keep on going for ever."

OLEANDERS OF BERMUDA.

In Summer Time They Fairly Run Riot Over the Islands.

Back in the fifties, when Anthony Trollope held a roving commission as postoffice inspector for the British government, he visited Bermuda, then practically unknown to any people save mariners. The distinguished author said some uncomplimentary things about the native Bermudians, much to their amusement, but he could not help praising the scenery of their island home and particularly the oleanders. He voted that Bermuda should be called the "Oleander Isles."

Curiously enough, Bermuda is better known as the home of the onion and the Easter lily, to say nothing of the potato and the rose, although the oleander is the most gorgeous and conspicuous shrub in the islands. Shrub is hardly the word to describe the oleander. It is really a tree, lifting its top twenty feet in the air and growing in thickets that the island planters use as screens or windbreaks.

In summer the hedges are covered with a profusion of pink, white and crimson blossoms that last well into the autumn and make great splashes of color on the hills and at the roadside. The oleander has no enemies. Animals refuse to touch it, and the tree runs its riotous way all over the islands. Those who visit Bermuda only in winter miss the glory of the oleander blossoms and also many of the other gorgeous flowers. While there is plenty of bloom in the winter months, the array of flowers is even greater in summer.—New York Post.

Our Curious Brain.

A wonderful piece of self analysis, worthy of St. Augustine, which occurs in one of John Donne's funeral sermons gives poignant expression to what must doubtless have been a common condition of so sensitive a brain:

"I throw myself down in my chamber, and I call in and invite God and his angels together, and when they are there I neglect God and his angels for the noise of a fly, for the rattling of a coach, for the whining of a dog. I talk on in the same posture of prayer, eyes lifted up, knees bowed down, as though I prayed to God, and if God should ask me when I last thought of God in that prayer I cannot tell. Sometimes I find that I forgot what I was about, but when I began to forget it I cannot tell. A memory of yesterday's pleasures, a fear of tomorrow's dangers, a straw under my knee, a noise in mine ear, a chimera in my brain, troubles me in my prayer."

It is this brain turned inward upon itself and darting out on every side in purely random excursions that was responsible, I cannot doubt, for all the contradictions of a career in which the inner logic is not at first apparent. —Fortnightly Review.

Javelle Water.

Wherever water is used in preparing bleaches it should be soft. The alkali in hard water affects all chemical substances. Javelle water is a standard preparation for bleaching white things and removing spots and stains, but it must not touch colored surfaces. To make it, dissolve half a pound of washing soda in a pint of boiling water and mix it with a quarter pound of chloride of lime dissolved in a quart of boiling water. Stir well, let settle, pour off the clear liquid and keep closely corked in a dark place.

It Wasn't Annie.

Auntie felt called upon to chide Annie for getting wet so often. One day mother and auntie were sitting by the dining table talking of Annie's still being out when it was beginning to rain.

Just then they heard the kitchen door open softly.

"Who has wet feet now?" called auntie.

An ominous stillness for the space of three seconds, then a gruff voice replied:

"The iceman."

A Portrait.

When he can't get front seats at the theatre he growls about the box office discrimination; when he can he decides not to take them after all—for the show can't be a good one, or they would have been gone long ago. We all know the complete pessimist. He is almost as depressing as the professional optimist.

Was Troubled With Eczema.

Would Nearly Yell With Pain.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS CURED HIM.

Mr. R. J. Swales, Harriston, Ont., writes: "I have been a great sufferer with eczema. I tried all kinds of salves, but they did me no good. Sometimes I would nearly yell with the pain, and would pass little white worms. I was told to get at the blood, so I used four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it has made a complete cure."

All skin diseases such as eczema or salt rheum, itching or burning rashes, boils, pimples, eruptions, ulcers, etc., are all caused by the blood becoming impoverished, and while not usually attended with any fatal results, may sooner or later develop into some serious blood trouble, and the entire system become affected.

Burdock Blood Bitters will cleanse the blood of all its impurities and by this means cure all skin and blood troubles.

This valuable preparation has been on the market for the last forty years, so you do not make any experiment when you give it a trial.

BATTLE-EVE SPEECHES

TERSE REMARKS WHICH HAVE BECOME BRITISH HISTORY.

Sir Colin Campbell Was a Master of the Brief Phrase Which Nerves Soldiers—When Nelson Did Not See the Signal—Wellington's Plan at Waterloo—Cardigan at Balaclava—Moore at Corunna.

In the grim hour of battle there is small time for words; it is the time for the strong arm and the stout heart; and such words as are spoken must be few and to the point.

No general knew better than that gallant Highlander, Sir Colin Campbell, how to say the words that fire courage or reward brave deeds. On that "day of heroes" at Balaclava, when his Highlanders were awaiting the shock of the Russian cavalry, he rode down the line, and in two calmly-spoken sentences nerved every man for the death that seemed inevitable. "Remember, men," he said, "there is no retreat from here. You must die where you stand." And with one voice the kilted heroes gave back the answer, "Aye, aye, Sir Colin, we'll do that!"

A little later, when the charge of "the gallant three hundred — the Heavy Brigade—" had swept through the Russian horsemen and sent them flying, a tumbled wreck of squadrons, the veteran, his face aglow with pride, galloped up, and shouted, "Greys, gallant Greys! I am sixty-one years old; but if I were a lad again I would be proud to join your ranks."

When Collingwood's ship was about to open the great drama of Trafalgar, the admiral, calmly munching an apple on the break of his poop, summoned his officers, and said to them, "Now, gentlemen, let us do something to-day of which the world may talk hereafter." Within a few moments five line of battleships were emptying their guns into the Royal Sovereign, and every man on board was "fighting like an angel."

"Leave off action!" exclaimed Nelson to his lieutenant, the stump of his lost arm jerking angrily to and fro, when the admiral had given the signal to discontinue the fight in the Battle of the Baltic. "Leave off action! I'm hanged if I do! You know, Foley," turning to his captain, "I've only one eye; I've a right to be blind sometimes." And then, putting the glass to his blind eye, he exclaimed, "I really do not see the signal. Keep mine for closer action flying."

"If we succeed," said Captain Berry to Nelson, at a critical moment in the Battle of the Nile, "what will the world say?" "There is no 'if' in this case," was Nelson's emphatic answer; "that we shall succeed is certain. Who will live to tell the story is a very different question."

Napoleon had called Wellington "a Sepoy general," and this taunt was not forgotten when the crowning battle opened on the plain of Waterloo. "I will show him to-day," Wellington said, gleefully, "how a Sepoy general can defend himself." A few hours later, as he sat with a few of his surviving officers at supper, his face black with the smoke of battle, "he repeatedly leaned back in his chair, rubbing his hands convulsively, and exclaiming aloud, 'Thank God, I have met him! Thank God, I have met him!'"

Throughout the long day of battle, when the fate of his country was in the balance, Wellington's mood was that which befitted one of the greatest soldiers the world has produced. "If you should be struck," one of his generals asked him, "tell us what is your plan." "My plan," said the duke, "consists in dying here to the last man"; and when at last victory was assured and someone begged him to remember how valuable his life was, and not to expose it so recklessly to danger, he answered, proudly, "The battle is won. My life does not matter now."

When, at Balaclava, Lucan told Lord Cardigan to lead the Light Brigade on that mad charge down the "valley of death," Cardigan answered, "Certainly, sir; but the Russians have a battery in our front, and riflemen and batteries on both flanks." Lucan, with a shrug of the shoulders, said, "We have no choice but to obey"; whereupon Cardigan turned quickly to his men. "The brigade will advance," he said, as he rode off at its head, saying to himself, "Here goes the last of the Brudenells."

"Clunes, take your Grenadiers and open the ball," were the words of Sir John Moore which started the fighting at Corunna. When, towards the close of the battle, Moore was dying, his chest shattered by a cannon-ball, one of his staff tried to unbuckle his sword, but the dying soldier stopped him. "I had rather," he said, "it should go out of the field with me."

Turning to Col. Anderson, he said, "Anderson, you know I have always wished to die in this way. I hope my country will do me justice." Then in a tone of apology, "I feel myself so strong, I fear I shall be long dying."

"Do you see those fellows on the hill, Pakenham?" Wellington said just before striking his decisive blow at Salamanca. "Move on with your division and drive them to the devil!" "Yes," was the answer, "if you will give me a grasp of that all-conquering hand"; and in a few minutes Pakenham's columns, advancing in the face of a tornado of bullets, had swept away the enemy as with the blast of a whirlwind.

ECZEMA AND SORE EYES.

"My daughter suffered from inflamed eyelids and eczema on her head," writes Mr. H. W. Lear, Port Planford, Nfld. "The child was in a bad state and suffered greatly. The doctor failed to help her, and on recommendation of a friend, I used Dr. Chase's Ointment, which made a complete cure. With a grateful heart I write you this letter."

Paris at Night.

To a traveler arriving at night Paris reveals a glamour and conceals a mystery—the excited, gesticulating porters that greet the train as though they were there to welcome friends and eager to serve them; the uncertain lights of the train shed, the dimming in the ears of a strange language—a beautiful strange language—and the wild, exhilarating flight in a trunk laden taxi through unknown streets.

There is glamour, if you will, in the lights of the restaurants, in the dimly crowds and in the broad, brazen avenues teeming with a race of people who like to believe that every day is a holiday, but there is mystery in the silent by streets, lined with high blank walls and darkened windows, where a footstep echoes dismally and the beat of a horse's hoofs resounds like musketry, and there is mystery, too, in the stretches of fragrant gardens, with their treetops reaching up dark masses into the golden glow that hangs like a halo above the City of Lights.—Gordon Arthur Smyth in Scribner's.

Echoes.

An echo is a sound repeated from some obstructing surface so that a person in the path of both the original and reflected waves hears the sound twice. Sound being produced by waves of the air, when such waves meet an opposing surface as a wall they are reflected like light waves. The sound so heard as if originating behind the reflecting surface is an echo. An echo returns to the point from which the sound originated if the reflecting surface is at right angles to it. An oblique surface deflects the sound in another direction so that it may be heard elsewhere, though not at the point where the sound originated. If the direct and reflected sounds succeed one another with great rapidity, as happens when the reflecting surface is near, the echo only clouds the original sound so that it is not heard distinctly, and it is this which interferes with the hearing in churches and other large buildings.—Philadelphia Press.

His Complaint.

"Let me see," said the doctor as the patient walked into his office. "What is your complaint now?"

"Why, your bill is too large," was the quick and startling reply.

A Human Churn

WHEN the food reaches the stomach it is subjected to a peculiar churning movement by the muscular walls of the stomach"—(See Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, page 65). In the liver, kidneys and skin, the blood is purified of its waste materials—these organs act as human filters, leaving the blood pure and clear—unless liver, digestive tract and kidneys are clogged.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a stomach, liver and kidney tonic—by assisting the stomach to assimilate, the liver to filter, the kidneys to act—the poisons are removed, the red blood corpuscles are increased and one feels light, fresh and active instead of logy, dull and heavy. The "Discovery" stimulates the stomach, increases action of heart and arteries and is a most satisfactory alterative in blood-taint of any character. The refreshing influence of this extract of native medicinal plants has been favorably known for over forty years. Everywhere some neighbor can tell you of the good it has done.

Sold by all medicine dealers in liquid or tablet form, or send 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y., and a trial box will be mailed you.

FISTS IN WARFARE.

Strange Weapons Which Have Been Used by Soldiers.

In all ages the use of primitive means of defence and offence has been a mark of warfare. When Wat Tyler's men of Kent marched over London Bridge and neared the City and Court almost to death, their arms were sickles and billhooks and scythes, and a few blacksmith's tools. The same remark applies to the arming of the men of Devon and Somerset at the Battle of Sedgemoor, the last real battle fought on English ground. But even in these days of arms of precision there have been many cases where these scientific tools have been discarded in favor of something much more primitive.

For instance, at the Battle of Inkerman, which was a soldiers' battle, fought in a mist almost without leadership, many of the British soldiers, finding their fire useless and their bayonets untrustworthy and bent, went in with their fists in true British style. Bluejackets have more than once followed this example when a primitive force has been landed to punish natives. The Tars have gone for them with fists and belaying pins, possibly feeling that anything more deadly would be more than the occasion required.

The band has on many occasions joined in the fray. It is reported to have occurred in the late war in the Balkans, during the later fighting which took place between the late allies, Bulgarians and Servians. The former were greatly outnumbered, and seeing them getting the worst of it, the band went into the melee with their instruments, and many a Servian was laid low by a blow from the butt-end of cornet, ophecleide, and trombone, not to mention the formidable bassoon.

There is a story about a peasant who defended his hearth against a horde of the enemy with a three-legged stool, and another of a woman who routed the enemy at the double by overturning a stand of beehives in her garden, but certainly one of the most remarkable weapons on record was the big saucepan which it is credibly said a lusty Turk brandished with great effect at the Battle of Widdin. Since Samson's use of the jawbone of an ass there has never been surely a stranger weapon.

In one of the fierce actions in the Peninsular War ammunition ran short, and many shifts were resorted to in order to make up for the lack of bullets. The chief means were buttons. There were not many left on the soldiers' uniforms when the fight was over. To-day, of course, a soldier could not do this, for all the rifles are breech-loaders. But in those days it was different. Thus in this very same battle it is reported that a soldier took a razor from his haversack, rammed it down, and fired it after the flying French cavalry. Evidently that cavalry had a close shave.

A Sight Worth Seeing.

Petticoat Lane, in London, on Sunday morning does not provide a more curious sight than the Caledonian Market, almost beneath the grim walls of Pentonville Prison. Here on Friday may been seen society people, wealthy Americans, and other foreign tourists rubbing shoulders with all sorts of people, scrambling for bargains in antiques, furniture, ornaments, and what-not.

Rumor has it that years ago one or two treasures were discovered lying unnoticed and neglected on a stall in the Caledonian Market, which were bought for a few shillings and afterwards sold for hundreds of pounds. That must have been in the days of long ago, however, and Punch's joke perhaps more correctly describes the state of the market and the sellers to-day:

Collector—I'll take this one.

Art Dealer—That 'un's eighteenpence, guv'nor—it's very near new.

World's Busiest Station.

During the twenty-four hours no fewer than 2,139 trains pass through the London Embankment Station, and each one stops there. That is absolutely a world's record.

On the District Railway section alone as many as forty-four trains an hour are run on a single set of rails. When it is borne in mind that every train slows down to enter the station, stops a brief period, and takes a few seconds to get up speed again, repeating the same process less than half a mile farther on, it will be realised not only that the service must be run with clockwork regularity, but that such a volume of traffic could not be handled at all if the elimination of seconds had not been elevated into an art.

This London Underground service is, in fact, almost the only one, if not the only one, in the world whose time-table is based not on minutes but on seconds.—London Globe.

A Silent Club.

The most remarkable club in London is obviously the National Deaf Club, who meet, dine, and joke in dumb show. Though speech is denied the members, a dinner party is none the less a very enjoyable affair, toasts being proposed and responded to in the eloquent though silent finger sign and lip movement language of the afflicted.

"I remember being present at one of these dinners at the Connaught Rooms, and I was struck by the merriment which prevailed, jokes tripping off the fingers with exhilarating frequency," says one who was there. "The club, though its officials are all deaf, manages very well, and the members certainly seem very contented under what would seem a very depressing misfortune."

Letters Bring Big Sum.

Nelson letters which were offered for sale recently at Christie's, London, were acquired by Mr. Quaritch. He started the bidding at $1,500 and fought down the opposition until the collection fell to him at $11,000, which is, roughly, about $50 for each letter. The collection included Lady Nelson's wedding ring. This is not a record price for Nelson relics, though the collection is without a rival in interest.

WHAT IS IT WORTH?

The Premier Is the Biggest Diamond Mine in the World.

Twenty-five miles east of Pretoria is what is known as the Premier Diamond Mine, the biggest in the world, where 15,000 Kaffirs may be seen any day, digging, drilling, and loading trucks of "blue" earth, from which are extracted diamonds to the value of something like $10,000,000 per annum. The total value of diamonds exported from South Africa in a year is abou $425,000,000, and of this quantity about a quarter are discovered in the Premier Mine, the other two chief mines being the De Beers and Jagersfontein.

The Premier Mine was really discovered by Sir Thomas Cullinan, the present chairman, after whom the great Cullinan diamond of 3,025 carats, discovered in the Premier Mine, was named. It may be remembered that this diamond was presented to King Edward by the Transvaal Government, and was cut into 11 flawless stones, the largest of which is in the Imperial Crown. The Premier Mine possesses an area of 2,500 claims, equal to 80 acres, and at the present time $60 000,000 loads of treatable "blue," as the diamond-yielding earth is known, are dealt with every year. And such are the resources of the mine that it is calculated that during the next 40 years the present annual output will be easily maintained.

At present the mine is about 350 feet deep, and it is considered practical, according to The African World Annual, to work to a depth of 1,500 feet. The quality of the stones discovered is increasing in value with the depth and, in order to encourage honesty among the Kaffirs, a payment of three shillings a carat on all stones found and delivered to the compound manager is paid. In addition to the 15,000 Kaffirs, there are 1,000 whites working in the mine in various capacities. It is wonderfully equipped with electric plant and machinery, and is a fascinating sight after sunset, with a thousand electric lights twinkling, eight great searchlights concentrating on the crater, piercing the huge cloud of blue smoke rising from the mine after blasting, and many thousands of natives, rushing down the side of the mine, shouting and singing merrily, to resume work for the night shift."

YOU CAN'T BRUSH OR WASH OUT DANDRUFF

The Simplest and Quickest Way is To Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it [illegible] it makes it stringy, [illegible] dull, dry, brittle and [illegible] and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any [illegible]. It is inexpensive and [illegible] to do the work.

LINK WITH GEORGE IV.

Earl of Halsbury Is Almost Ninety Years of Age.

The Earl of Halsbury, who figured in the late debate in the British House of Commons on the Home Rule Bill, who was one of the Tory "diehards," and whose declaration that the time had come for a compromise was taken by the press to mean the passage of the Asquith bill, is considered one of the most striking figures in public life to-day. On the threshold of his ninetieth year, he a few months ago figured as chairman of the inquiry into the financial transactions of Lord Murray of Elibank, and did it as well as many a judge only old enough to be his grandson. Lord Halsbury is the last living link to the law with the days of King George IV. and Queen Caroline. He was a "briefless barrister" when his father died and left him absolutely with his way to make. Within twenty years he was Solicitor-General with an income of $75,000 a year. At the time he was Solicitor-General the Cabinet included such world-famous politicians as Lord Beaconsfield, Viscount Cross, Lord Salisbury, Earl Cairns, the Dukes of Richmond, Northumberland, Marlborough and Rutland, the Earl of Derby, Lords Sandon and Iddesleigh. This distinguished lawyer was educated at Merton College, Oxford. He is constable of Launceston Castle, and high steward of Oxford University. He was M.P. for Launceston, and later was created Baron Halsbury of Halsbury, Devon, Viscount Tiverton of Tiverton, and Earl of Halsbury. The name of Giffard, which signifies liberal, is of great antiquity in the County of Devon, and the descent of the family is deduced from Walter Giffard, and Averton Giffard. Col. John Giffard, of Brightleigh, born 1602, was one of the staunchest adherents of Charles I. With his three kinsmen (all of whom were fined), Anthony Giffard of Landcross, William Giffard of Hansbury, and Roger Giffard of Tiverton Castle, he actively supported the royal cause, and was "decimated, sequestered, and imprisoned," and paid $1,136 as compensation for his estates. Col. Giffard was a distinguished soldier, and commanded in person the Devon pikemen at the Battle of Lansdowne Hill. After the Restoration he was selected to be a Knight of the Royal Oak. A folio Bible elaborately bound and clasped is still in the possession of the family, and traditionally the gift of the King to this eminent Royalist.

Lord Halsbury is the patriarch of Fleet street. His father was the first editor of The London Standard when that journal was founded in 1827 to oppose Catholic emancipation. His grandfather, "Jack" Giffard, was editor of The Dublin Journal, a subsidized Government organ in the Irish capital. In his eighty-second year Lord Halsbury started editing "The Laws of England," a work upon which he is still engaged.

Von Moltke and His Snuff.

During the Prussian advance in the Franco-Prussian war Von Moltke continually took pinches of snuff. When he was told that MacMahon was marching northward he exclaimed, "He is surely mad!" and forthwith nearly emptied his snuffbox as he retired to his tent to organise the plans that culminated in the tremendous conflict of Sedan. At the end of the war Von Moltke received a bill from the military stores with this item: "For one pound of snuff supplied to General Von Moltke, 1 thaler." The great soldier paid it without a murmur

Could Hardly Straighten Up For The Pain in Her Back.

Many women suffer from an excruciating pain in the back. They are not even able to look after the common duties of their housework, and cannot even walk at times.

The whole trouble is that the kidneys have become affected, and when the kidneys get "out of kilter" the whole system becomes deranged. On the first sign of a weak, lame, aching back you should not neglect it, for if you do, you may be sure that some serious kidney trouble will follow.

What you want is a kidney medicine, for kidneys only. This you will find in Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's Kidney Pills know nothing but kidney disorders, because they're made for kidneys only.

Mrs. George Craigie, Rose Valley, P.E.I., writes: "I am writing to tell you what a wonderful cure Doan's Kidney Pills did for me. I was suffering with a lame back, and for several days I could hardly straighten up for the pain. I had used quite a lot of other kind of pills, but received no relief. Just then my sister told me about what "Doan's" had done for her, so I decided to try them. I used three boxes and I am completely cured. I do not hesitate to recommend them to all."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c a box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

AS TO CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Do not think of cutting down your Christmas presents. Give freely, according to your means. If your heart is heavy for the agonized people of Europe you need not be frivolous in giving, but whether the giving is joyous or in the minor key, there never was a Christmas when the obligations to give were more pressing.

The proposal to cut off Christmas presents grows out of that well-meaning, but mistaken view of life which dwells so much on the superficially "practical" side that is blind to all the practical considerations underlying the mainly graceful of decorative aspects of life.

AFTER SICKNESS A SPLENDID TONIC

Waynesboro, Pa. — "My system was all run down after a hard spell of bronchitis. It was hard for me to keep about. I had pains in my chest and took cold easily. I learned of Vinol from a friend and tried it. I soon felt better and now it has built me up and I am strong and well, and able to do my house work, which I had not been able to do for about three months before taking Vinol.

"You may publish this statement so others may know about Vinol and get help as I did."—Mrs. Y. R. HORBOUGH, Waynesboro, Pa.

Thousands of other intelligent people are constantly praising Vinol for restoring health and strength.

Vinol is not a secret nostrum, but a delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, which will create an appetite, tone up the digestive organs, make pure blood and create strength.

If you are run-down and not as strong and energetic as you ought to be, try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that we will pay back your money if it fails to help you.

LIGHT UNATTENDED.

Platte Fougere Beacon is Unique Among Marine Guides.

What is declared to be the only unattended lighthouse built on a wave-washed rock, possessing a powerful fog-signal, is the recently completed Platte Fougere Lighthouse, marking the entrance to the Russell Channel leading to the Guernsey capital of St. Peter's Port, a spot which figures in Victor Hugo's great romance, "The Toilers of the Sea." This unattended tower, built of ferro-concrete, which rises on a wave-washed rock, is 80 feet in height. The head of the rock on which it stands is only visible at low tide, while it is difficult to approach even in the smoothest weather, owing to tides and currents. Much of the foundation work had to be carried out under water.

The tower, says The Sphere, is solid for a height of 46 feet above the rock, and the base is formed of Portland cement placed in iron moulds with iron bars driven into the solid rock to anchor the concrete firmly. On the side to which the building is exposed to the heaviest seas, massive beams of rolled steel are driven into the rock so as to impart additional strength to the part of the tower where the greatest strains are likely to be set up.

On the entrance level is a compartment containing an electric motor and air-compressor, while on the floor immediately above is a duplicate installation. The siren projects through the top of the tower, the trumpet being so turned as to throw the sounds in a horizontal direction over the water.

On the top of the tower is a small automatic acetylene-gas plant and light. The foghorn has been heard thirty miles away on the French coast, while the light is brought into being at sunset and extinguished at dawn automatically.

These devices, many of which are the invention of the engineer-in-chief, Mr. E. O. Catford, are controlled from the shore station one and a quarter miles distant, by means of a submarine cable made specially for the work. This cable is 11 inches in diameter, and weighs forty-five tons to the nautical mile.

The tower and its installation cost $65,000, a sum five or six times less than that which would have been needed for an ordinary stone structure.

Confessions.

The woman begged the bachelor girl not to go yet awhile. She was so urgent that the girl finally sat down again. Then the two sat perfectly still and silent, looking at each other.

"I know what you are thinking," said the bachelor girl by and by.

"What?" asked the woman.

"That, now you've got me to stay, you wonder why it was you insisted so. You don't know what to do with me or to say to me, now I'm here to stay."

"How did you guess it?" the woman laughed.

"I've felt just that way myself," said the bachelor girl, "many and many a time."

Africa's Pygmy Antelope.

The pygmy antelope of the Gold Coast of Africa is the smallest of cud chewing animals. It stands about ten inches high at the withers—that is, about as high as a fox terrier. The male has minute horns that run straight back in the line of the forehead. The pygmy antelope was described in 1705 by the Dutch traveler Bosman, who, in his "Description of Guinea," says that it is called the "king of the harts" by the natives. By English writers it is often called the "royal antelope."

SOLONS AND SALARIES.

Some European States Pay Their Lawmakers Only a Mite.

Italy and Spain are the only European countries which offer no monetary reward to their members of parliament. The Portuguese legislators are not remunerated by the state, but they have a free pass for traveling on all railways in the country, and their constituencies are permitted to pay a sum equivalent to 15 shillings for each day's sitting.

Denmark is another country which believes that its political gentlemen are ready to work for almost nothing. Members of parliament there only receive 6 shillings per day, but they have the peculiar privilege of a free seat in the Royal theater in Copenhagen.

The Norwegian honorable member is thankful for a daily income of 12 shillings, though he must do his duty properly to get it. He loses a day's pay when he takes a day off. Members of the Swiss diet work under the same threat. If they are absent they lose salary which amounts in their case to 16 shillings per day.

Roumania pays her lawmakers a sovereign per day, and Bulgaria offers 16 shillings. In the latter country members living in the capital have 4 shillings deducted because they have no train fares to pay and only one home to keep up.

Hungary treats her statesmen just half as well as England does, allowing them £200 per annum. They have, however, a liberal allowance for house rent and can travel first class with second class tickets.—London Tit-Bits.

BE PRETTY! TURN GREY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favourite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or grey; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay grey! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

ATE AND WAS SAD

Yet It Was a Dish For Which He Had Yearned For Years.

A TRAGEDY IN GASTRONOMY.

Bouillabaisse as Sung by Thackeray and as Served in a Famous Marseilles Resort Proved Very Different Propositions to an English Epicure.

We all know that famous poem of Thackeray's which begins,

A street there is in Paris famous
For which no rime our language yields, and goes on to tell of the tavern where the genial Titmarsh in the days when he was a Paris correspondent "ate and drank the bouillabaisse."

As a result of that delightful poem tens of thousands of Englishmen have yearned to eat bouillabaisse. Thackeray puts it so beautifully! The steaming dish of stewed fish that he conjures up in his lines—how appetizing it seems! I know that it was quite early in my teens when I first read that poem, and from that moment there was formed in my mind a firm resolve to eat some day of bouillabaisse.

My opportunity came not long ago when I visited Marseilles. It was nearly half past 9 when I sat down in the dining room of the hotel.

"There is no bouillabaisse on the menu," I said severely to the maitre d'hotel. "I have come to Marseilles specially to eat it." He replied that it was not a specialty of the house, but that it could always be prepared. How long would it take? Twenty-five minutes, perhaps a little longer. "But I think monsieur would find it rather heavy at such a late hour."

He was not encouraging, this maitre d'hotel. I did not accept for a moment his suggestion that bouillabaisse was too heavy a dish for half past 9 at night. Thackeray had not talked about heaviness. But twenty-five minutes! I ordered an omelet.

At midnight, walking down the famous Cannebiere, back to the hotel, I was hailed by a familiar voice. It was that of a friend whom I had not seen for a long time. Gratefully I grasped his hand and told him that I intended to eat bouillabaisse as soon as possible. And my respect for him was considerably enhanced when he told me that he had eaten some that very afternoon, an hour after his arrival in Marseilles. Here was the true spirit, and I related to him, with some bitterness, my experience with the maitre d'hotel. "Well, it is rather heavy stuff," he said. But I brushed this aside, and we arranged to meet at lunch on the morrow, when I should have the best that Marseilles could give me.

There are, as everybody knows, two places at Marseilles for bouillabaisse—Pascal's and Basso's, on the Vieux Port. We decided on Basso's.

"Bouillabaisse," I said inconically. I paid no attention to what my friend ordered. No other dish interested me. But in a minute or so a curious looking mess was set down before him.

"What's that stuff you're going to eat?" I asked.

"That's bouillabaisse," he said, "but it's not mine."

I started. This bouillabaisse, this curious looking stuff, with indigestible looking lumps of fish floating in a bilious and oily saffron liquid! I knew not what I had expected bouillabaisse to be, but it certainly was not this. There was a piece of fish which I recognized as eel, and I loathe eels. The broad tail of another and unknown fish stuck up out of the opaque liquid. But it was the yellow liquid itself which repelled. It shouted biliousness, and the smell of saffron that arose with the steam made me feel ill. Oh, Thackeray!

I pecked at the eel—or it may have been a lamprey—explored the various other fish, tasted gingerly of the thick saffron liquid on one of the pieces of toast that floated in it. But mine was no palate for bouillabaisse. I made the waiter take the mess away and bring lamb cutlets.

But I had tasted of bouillabaisse and was not to forget it. All day long the terrible taste of saffron remained with me. Nothing would shift it; not Marseilles tea, nor many golden bocks, nor dinner. In fact, the bouillabaisse of lunch spoiled the dinner. And at midnight, in a cafe on the Cannebiere, my friend confided a secret to me. "When we fell in with each other just twenty-four hours ago," he said, "I was suffering just as you are now. The horrible taste of saffron had remained obstinately with me ever since lunch and has not quite gone even yet. But you told me you had come to Marseilles to eat bouillabaisse, and I knew nothing I could say would dissuade you. But no doubt the bitterness of this moment will fade away, and as time passes you will tell your friends in England how excellent is the real bouillabaisse if only you have it in Marseilles."

"Never! I would die first!" I exclaimed firmly.—London Standard.

Will You Help The Hospital for Sick Children, the Great Provincial Charity?

Dear Mr. Editor:—

Thanks for the privilege of appealing through your columns on behalf of the Hospital for Sick Children. The Hospital takes care of sick and deformed children, not only in Toronto, but in the Province, outside of the city.

This coming year, of all the years in the Hospital's history, has a more serious outlook, as regards funds for maintenance, than any year that has passed its calendar.

So many calls are being made on the purses of the generous people of Toronto and Ontario, to help the soldiers of the Empire, that as I make my daily rounds through the wards of the Hospital, and see the suffering children in our cots and beds, the thought strikes me as to whether the people will as of old, with all the demands made upon them, answer our appeal and help to maintain the institution that is fighting in the never-ending battle with disease and death, in its endeavor to save the stricken little ones in the child-life of Ontario.

Last year there were 294 in-patients from 210 places outside of Toronto, and in the past twenty years there have been 7,000 from places in the Province other than Toronto.

It costs us $2.24 per patient per day for maintenance. The municipalities pay for patients $1 per patient per day; the Government allows 20 cents per patient per day; so, deducting $1.20 from $2.24, it leaves the Hospital with $1.14 to pay out of subscriptions it receives from the people of Toronto and the Province. The shortage last year ran to $18,000.

Since 1880 about 1,000 cases of club feet, bow legs and knock knees have been treated, and of these 900 had perfect correction. Nearly all these were from different parts of the Province outside of the city of Toronto.

Remember that every year is a war year with the Hospital; every day is a day of battle; every minute the Hospital needs money, not for its own sake, but for the children's sake. The Hospital is the battle-ground where the Armies of Life have grappled with the Hosts of Death, and the life or death of thousands of little children is the issue that is settled in that war. Will you let the Hospital be driven from the field of its battle to save the lives of little children for the lack of money you can give and never miss?

Every dollar may prove itself a dreadnought in the battle against death, a flagship in the fleet that fights for the lives of little children.

Remember that the door of the Hospital's mercy is the door of hope, and your dollar, kind reader, may be the key that opens the door for somebody's child.

Will you send a dollar, or more if you can, to Douglas Davidson, Secretary-Treasurer, or

J. ROSS ROBERTSON,
Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Toronto.

The transatlantic steamer passenger may now feel the excitements and awes of the blockade runners of half a century past.

No wonder Greece is irritated. She paid full price for a pair of second-hand ships and then Turkey got two at a forced sale.

Usually "decisive" battles do not occur until late in the war. And seldom has it been possible to tell one until after it was over.

One railroad company plans noiseless cars for the sleepless. Have they actually perfected a device to insure noiseless sleeping?

As the shortage is chiefly of textile dyestuffs, there is no reason for fearing as yet that complexions will be appreciably affected by the war.

Influential Americans have become acquainted with ocean travel in a way that may eventually lead to some improvement of steerage conditions.

If the capture of guns by all the armies continues at the recent rate none of them will have any artillery left by the time the war is half over.

The purchaser who has neither time nor inclination for economies is the one on whom the price booster depends for support and encouragement when protest arises.

This is what one would like to know: Were the fanciful novelists prophetic in describing the way wars would be waged, or did the war wagers adopt the suggestions of the fanciful novelists?

CHAPTER XI.
In an Open Boat.

THE great copper ball of sun squatted comfortably upon the horizon's rim, flattening into itself and surveying with tolerant contempt the tiny bobbing craft in which were Hugo Loubeque and Lucille. The tiny yacht was showing its heels in grand shape to the battleship, and the guns from the great boat were roaring in real earnest now, as it was evident that the filibuster had no intention of obeying the signal to haul in.

The pair who had fought one another so cordially stared at the scene until both boats melted into the sun, below the sun, then dropped beyond the horizon.

Hugo Loubeque was watching Lucille narrowly. Their predicament seemed not to worry him. The fact that the captain of the filibusters had consigned himself and his enemy to such a fate was of little account. Life to him had been a succession of dangers equally appalling, and he was still alive.

"The papers, Miss Lucille," Loubeque said quietly, "will you kindly give me the papers to take care of?"

The papers! Then the spy did not know that Captain Wetherell had possessed himself of the precious bag before having her placed in the open boat. Instinctively her hands flew to her bosom, the harsh feel of the ruby necklace which she had taken from the underground cavern with her meeting her clutch. Rubies of untold, of fabulous value she had, and the thought of power, of money—should she ever come safely out of this—gave her a sweeping sensation of elation.

"Captain Wetherell took the papers," she answered quietly, studying the spy's face to see what effect the announcement made. Again came unwilling admiration for the man's imperturbability.

"Indeed," he murmured. Then after a long period spent in profound thought: "Well, perhaps it is better so. Perhaps it is better."

For a full hour he did not speak—an hour wherein the stars sprayed themselves over the heavens. Then he spoke again as though to himself:

"Yes, child, perhaps it is better so. It is so much simpler to fight against Wetherell than against you."

There was a note of pathos, of longing, in his tones that made her lips tremble in sympathy for the man who had so splendidly misjudged the life that had been given him, had so misused the marvelous brain. Again came that feminine instinct to proselyte, and again did a glance at his determined face make her desist. She would fight and fight and die fighting to prevent him accomplishing his aim, but, to save her, she could feel no hatred against this one who would wreck those she held most dear.

"You still have hope," she murmured, anxious to hear him answer in the affirmative.

"Hope!" he laughed aloud. "Child, it is written in the stars that I shall not fail, cannot fail. You have read my diary. You know what I have done to accomplish my ends. I have overthrown nations, have thousands at my feet. And all for what? That when I struck at the man I hated there should be no chance for failure. And now the last chance has been overthrown. I faltered, Lucille. I faltered when I should have put you out of my path forever; when I should have made an end to your interference. Destiny has intervened, Lucille. I know it, feel it—in my heart."

She watched him, fascinated, as he coolly rose and examined the provisions apportioned them, counting each biscuit, testing the water keg.

"By stinting there is enough for three days," he said quietly. "I think it would be better to wait till morning." He drew his coat off and passed it to her, frowning down her remonstrances at the deprivation. The warmth of it made her realize for the first time that she had been chilled through by the cold night air, and she flashed him a look of gratitude watching him as he bent over a slip of paper after a long scrutiny of the stars. Then she slept.

She woke to a sensation of pain in her head, as though some giant weight rested there, pressing down as though to crush the forehead. For a moment she did not realize where she was, stared about her perplexedly, tried to identify the gentle, undulating motion of the boat, the soft sweeping sound of the waters. Then her eyes met the melancholy ones of Hugo Loubeque.

The sun was beating down upon them ferociously, as though it would consume those hardy intruders. Her head ached, when she would have spoken, she found her tongue swollen her voice thick, her lips parched.

"Water—please," she stammered then glared in horror at the infernal spy's downcast face. Loubeque moved carefully to her side, placing his hands upon her arm.

"There is no water," he said gently. "In their hurry they put an empty keg in the boat. It is the test of fate, my dear. Try not to think of it—try"—

He did not finish for the pity within him at her brave struggle not to show her fear, her pain. Her lips trembled as she tried bravely to smile, then with a determined effort, she sat upright. Her head ached maddeningly and the sun seemed to fairly sizzle down upon her.

"Last night when I discovered the keg was empty," Loubeque said ruefully, "I started working out our reckoning. We are well within the fishing zone of the coast. There is always a chance of being picked up. Don't fear, Lucille."

She smiled bravely, the effort only making her realize that the heat was paralyzing her facial muscles. After that she sat quite still, enduring in silence the maddening heat, the worse thirst. At times she thought she would be unable to stand it longer, that she must reach into this endless expanse of ocean and drink—drink; that she must plunge over the boat's side and allow the salt water to be absorbed by her body.

Night came and the stars, but night and stars from which all kindliness had fled. She knew it would be impossible to endure the strain longer. Loubeque's silent figure was motionless in one long, gliding motion she half rose, then dropped swiftly from the boat, the water encircling her, cooling her, lapping at her ears in soothing refrain that lulled her senses to a glorious sleep, visionless, profound. Then in a flash of sanity came the horrified face of the man who was dragging her back into the boat. Darkness, blank impenetrable—slumber, goblin haunted—sun and desert with mirages of water that receded before her lips—

* * * * * * *

In her delirium Hugo Loubeque was constantly ministering unto her slightest want, soothing her with tender words, a veritable Goliath in fighting back the hordes of imps that would have tormented her. Always was he by her side—always until the mantle of blackness completely reached out and swathed her, soothing her to untroubled slumber, a slumber disturbed but once and that when Loubeque stood before her looking down at her with a light of mingled happiness and triumph in his eyes—a look that brought dimly back to her the memory of certain things yet to be accomplished, but which she had not the strength to completely recall, a look so transitory that when she fought her eyes wide open he was gone, and she was conscious of being in a strange place, a black figure rising from the corner, then slumber once again.

Instinct forced her finally from the lethargic slumber, the instinct common to all higher forms of animals of protecting one's treasure. Her hands groped at her neck, where a slight tug had wakened her. Something brushed across her hand when she forced her eyes open, the figure she remembered to have seen in the corner was still squatting there, a figure that might have been inanimate save for the burning eyes fastened upon her. Nervously she fumbled at her neck, the feel of the ruby necklace meeting her fingers and puzzling her for a moment before it started a chaotic chain of recollections that finally marshaled themselves in semblance of order.

Out of the delirium of fever she fought remembrance of all that had happened since Hugo Loubeque dragged her back in the boat, recalled vividly from the subconscious brain that had attained ascendancy during that harrowing period, his tender nursing of her, his denial, his stern self mastery when the blazing sun, the thirst, the hopelessness would otherwise have compelled him to give up the fight; and then the fishing boat, the blessed relief of water, the breaking of the fever and consequent repairing of burned out nerve tissues, the arrival in this house and the spy's leave taking.

A cat and mouse game she played for two days with the silent Chinese woman nursing her. The woman had discovered the necklace, and Lucille knew she was constantly after it.

Short periods of time there were when the nurse would sleep lustily and then Lucille walked warily up and down the floor, gradually regaining perfect power of locomotion. That necklace meant everything to her in this strange country. It meant the ability to travel, to do anything she pleased in her fight to regain the precious papers that meant honor and liberty to her falsely accused sweetheart.

And with the return of strength came a terrible uneasiness, a great fear. Hugo Loubeque, tender though his care of her had been, had left immediately she was out of danger, and she knew his motive was to seek the papers that Captain Wetherell had stolen.

It was dawn of the third day that the nurse slipped from the room, slipped out with a stealthiness that somehow sent a chill through the girl and made her sit bolt upright in the bed, then, as the door closed, spring toward the chair beside the door. The soft patter of slippered feet upon the floor without made her stiffen with resolution as she bid herself so that the opened door would secure her from sight. Then the door opened an inch at a time, silently, cautiously, while the woman slipped inside the room, looked at the blanket upon the couch where Lucille should have been, then beckoned to a slender, yellow robed young Chinaman, who entered even more noiselessly than the nurse had done. The girl in hiding shuddered at sight of the vicious knife the young Chinaman passed to the woman. The man muttered a guttural deep in his throat as he crouched. Evidently the revolver he carried bothered him, for he placed it upon the chair. Lucille's fingers darted out, closing upon the welcome butt just as the woman leaped across the distance that separated her from the couch upon which the blanket bulged deceptively, driving the ugly knife down with a force that sent her off her balance. Lucille knew she could hide no longer and stepped from behind the door, the revolver leveled upon the pair, her voice shaking despite herself.

"Hands up!" she cried.

The man cringed, crouched away from her, but the sight of the girl there seemed to enrage the woman completely. Brandishing the knife wildly, she leaped forward, then lurched from side to side simultaneously with the discharge of the gun, slipping, wounded, to the floor in a heap. The man crouched still further away, and Lucille advanced upon him.

Some how she felt no compunction now, felt no fear, only felt the necessity for immediate haste in getting away. She signaled to the fellow that he should get out of his robes instantly. Sounds of activity came from every direction. She was shaking like a runaway horse with the strain. The young fellow was equally nervous, but the revolver at his chest made him hasten. Lucille forced him under the blanket, hissing a warning in his ear which he evidently understood, as it was emphasized by a meaning prod that was more eloquent than any other language—the point of a businesslike gun. Voices were in the hall now. Lucille dragged the body of the woman under the couch and squatted in the woman's place just as the door opened and a head was poked inside. She mumbled something inarticulate, guttural, peevish voiced, and the head was withdrawn after the owner cast one glance at the figure under the blankets. He had no sooner closed the door than the girl picked the knife from the floor and ripped the blanket into strips, securely tying her prisoner and gagging him.

Then, after waiting a second at the door, mustering her courage, she stepped into the hallway and down into the open air.

British Treaty With Portugal.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—An arbitration treaty between Great Britain and Portugal has been signed in London. The treaty, which is for a period of five years, is of special significance at the present moment, as is emphasized in the preamble in the following words:

"Being desirous of confirming by a further solemn agreement the friendship alliance which happily has subsisted for so long a period between them, and of eliminating so far as is possible from their relations every thing which might impair or weaken their friendship, the alliance has agreed to the submission of questions in dispute in the terms of the articles of this treaty."

King of Saxony at Front.

LONDON, Dec. 10. — The Central News has published a despatch from its Amsterdam correspondent that says the King of Saxony has arrived in Brussels. This information reaches Amsterdam in a despatch from the Belgian capital.

Recent reports from Copenhagen said the King of Saxony was going to Belgium to encourage the troops and represent Emperor William during his majesty's absence in the eastern arena of the war.

A WEAK CHESTED BOY.

My boy Frank seemed weak-chested and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs. D. Stevens, Ninga, Man. No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.

PEACE CENTENARY PLANS.

Anglo-American Celebrations Will Be Held In Schools.

OTTAWA, Dec. 10.—H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, was present yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the executive of the Canadian Peace Centenary Association, which was also attended by eight members of the commission appointed by the State of New York for the arranging of a suitable celebration between the Province of Ontario and the State of New York of the 100 years of peace.

A luncheon was given in honor of the visiting delegates. Sir Robert L. Borden, in a felicitous speech, referred to the relations which have existed so long between the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

Resolutions were adopted regarding the proposed celebrations, and in view of the war in Europe considerable modifications were decided upon. It was agreed that the holding of public festivities, rejoicings, etc., be postponed until the cessation of hostilities in Europe, but that so far as plans having reference to churches, schools, colleges and universities in the United States and Canada the celebrations should be carried out.

CONFINED TO HIS BED.

Kaiser's Condition Is Unchanged and Fever Remains.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Amsterdam says:—

"The latest bulletin issued in Berlin says that Emperor William's condition is unchanged and he has been unable to leave his bed. His fever has not decreased.

"The Emperor received a report of the military situation but was too weak to give any instructions."

Earlier advices were that the Kaiser was suffering from pneumonia and that his condition was serious, being complicated with extreme nervous depression due to over-exertion in the field.

BIG PLANT DESTROYED.

Edison Company Has Fire Entailing Damage of $7,000,000.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 10.—Fire destroyed virtually the entire main plant of the Edison Company here last night, causing damage estimated at nearly $7,000,000, with insurance that it is expected will reduce the loss to approximately $5,000,000.

An entire square block of modern reinforced concrete buildings which were supposed to be fireproof, was burned out by the flames. The only building saved in the block was the laboratory building, containing valuable scientific machinery under the superintendence of the inventor, Thomas A. Edison.

It is estimated that about three thousand men and women will be temporarily thrown out of work. About 7,000 persons were employed at the plant.

"Although I am more than 67 years of age, I'll start all over again tomorrow," said Mr. Edison.

In all eleven buildings in the main plant went down with the fire.

Fleeing from the Wrath of War. — Here is a Belgian family with all their earthly possessions loaded in an ox-cart, fleeing from the war zone to France.

Many British Troops Will Spend Christmas At Home

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 10.—England has not been invaded, but the proximity of the war is now being brought literally home to the nation by the new scheme of short leaves of absence for the fighting men, which has just been inaugurated by Lord Kitchener.

Thousands of officers and men of the British expeditionary forces are now here on seventy-two hour furloughs from the front. Preference is given to those who have borne the brunt of the gruelling campaign in France nd Flanders from the beginning.

A steady stream of reinforcements is going out to take the places of those who are permitted a few fleeting hours with the folks at home. The nearness of the war to these islands is graphically proved by the fact that the Englishmen may be enduring hardships in the trenches today and may be dining at the Savoy in London to-morrow night. No war in history probably was ever fought under such conditions.

Christmas "At Home".

It is said to be the express desire of Lord iKtchener that the maximum number of "Tommies" to be given an opportunity to spend Christmas at their own firesides.

London is also gradually coming to see more and more convincing signs that the war is an actuality. Scores of officers and men now able to leave the hospitals with their arms in slings and their heads bandaged can be seen doing their Christmas shopping in he crowds in Regent and Oxford streets, each the target of admiring eyes.

Xmas Mail Leaves For Old England

Seven Out of Every Ten Parcels Are For Soldiers at Salisbury—Many Badly Tied Up

LARGEST MAIL EVER

TORONTO, Dec. 11.— The biggest Christmas mail ever despatched from this city was closed here last night. At 6 o'clock p.m. the last parcel or letter was received and the last Christmas packages mailed.

In the sorting room at the G. P. O. this morning everyone was busy, but there was happily no confusion. Looking over the contents, as written on the customs slip of each parcel, the following words could be read over and over scores and hundreds of times:

"Contents— Pipes, tobacco, sugar, cigarettes, puddings, cakes, chocolates, socks, underwear, wristlets, sweaters and mufflers." These are the chief cargo. There are miscellaneous items of course, which all together make up the largest, "last before Christmas mail" ever handled.

A peculiarity of these items is that the position of affairs seems this year to have been reversed. England, ever mindful of Canada as a cold country, all covered with snow, was wont to send out each Christmas a heavy consignment of woollens, socks and so forth. The English plum pudding also cut no mean figure. Now, however, puddings are the chief item going the other way.

Badly Bound Up.

Complaints from the mail men were numerous and furious.

"We have spent half our time," said an official, "in tying up the parcels which were negligently bound up. Little bits of string and frail pieces of paper were wrapped round a whole pudding, and the chances are that such a parcel would break out like a bad egg on board ship. People don't seem to be acquainted with the methods of "doing up" Christmas goods. We have used up miles of strong cord." Complaints were also made that many parcels were insufficiently stamped, people taking a chance that they had put enough stamps on.

Soldiers Get Near All.

It is estimated that in the whole parcel post consignment fully seven out of every ten parcels are mailed to a soldier at Salisbury or on the Continent.

The number of sacks of letters is also large. There are already 100 compared with the ordinary 25 or 30 in the every-day mail. The newspaper mail is not excessive, amounting to some 30 or 40 sacks of Canadian papers.

Yesterday morning the mail from the Cunard liner Orduna arrived in the city and was delivered by noon. The boat was about three or four days behind, and should have arrived at the beginning of the week. It contained 25 bags of letters and 25 sacks of newspapers, being a comparatively small arrival.

WOMEN TEACHERS PASS RESOLUTION

Regret the Departure of Miss Weir From the City

The following is a copy of a resolution of appreciation passed by the Women Teachers' Guild of Peterborough:

We, the women teachers of Peterborough, desire to convey to Miss A. Weir, B.A., our deep regret at her departure from the City and our appreciation of her inestimable worth as a teacher and a citizen.

As organizer and first president of our Guild, Miss Weir's untiring efforts have done much in promoting the sociability and the educational uplift of her co-workers.

We feel that her removal from our midst is an irreparable loss to our organization.

The Guild assures Miss Weir that she carries with her our warmest wishes for her future welfare.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Golden Text—Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Matt. xxviii: 20.

1. Verse 16—Why did Jesus ask to meet his disciples in Galilee on a mountain, seeing he had met them several times in, or near Jerusalem?

2. What meetings had there been between Christ and his disciples since his resurrection and previous to this?

3. Christs previous meetings with disciples had been of a private nature; what is the evidence that this meeting on the mountain was to be for the whole body of his disciples?

4. Paul in 1 Cor. xv:6, speaks of five hundred brethren having met Christ after his resurrection: when and where did this meeting take place if it was not at this time?

5. Verse 17—Where is anything said previous to this narrative that they "worshipped" Christ?

6. Seeing the eleven had seen Christ before this, since his resurrection, who were those then present that doubted?

7. Verse 18—It seems that Christ's followers had been summoned to assemble on this mountain to meet him; in what manner would he probably come to them?

8. What had been the limit, if any of Christ's prerogatives previous to his resurrection?

9. Did Christ mean to say that now he had all the power of God? Why?

10. Was Christ's power his own, or 'given" to him by God, and what is the difference in the two thoughts?

11. Verse 19—What guarantee of success does Christ give them if they undertake a world propaganda of his gospel?

12. Was this "Great Commission" given to the eleven apostles only, or to all that were then present and their successors? Give your reasons.

13. What specifically is the church commanded to teach, in addition to, or different from what the Jewish church taught when in its purity?

14. What did baptism signify in those days?

15. Is the right of Christian baptism as imperative in these, as in hose days? Why?

16. Why is it the bounden duty of the church, in these days, to preach the gospel to every tribe, and nation, under the sun?

17. Verse 20—What is the essence of the moral and spiritual teaching of Christ?

18. Luke xxiv:36-49—This is an account of the appearance of Christ to the eleven, on the night of the resurrection day.

19. Verses 36-45— What were the apostles discussing when Christ appeared in their midst?

20. What effect did Christ's sudden appearance have upon them?

21. What evidence did Christ give them that he who was dead was really alive again?

22. Verses 46-49 —What was the prime object of the death and resurrection of Christ?

23. What qualifications ought every preacher to have before engaging in the work of preaching?

QUICK HELP FOR STRAINS AND SPRAINS
WONDERFUL RELIEF IN ONE HOUR

Rare Herb and Root Extracts in this Liniment Give It Marvellous Power.

RUB ON NERVILINE

You'll be astonished at the rapid pain relieving action of "Nerviline." Its effectiveness is due to its remarkable penetrating power — it strikes deeply, sinks to the very core of the trouble.

Nerviline is stronger, many times stronger, than ordinary liniments, and it's not greasy, ill-smelling or disagreeable. Every drop rubs in, bringing comfort and healing wherever applied.

You would scarcely believe how it will relieve a sprain, how it takes out lameness, how it soothes and eases a bruise.

Thousands say no liniment is half so useful in the home. This must be so, because Nerviline is a safe remedy —you can rub it on even a child with fine results.

Just you keep Nerviline on hand—it's a panacea for the aches, pains, and slight ills of the whole family. One bottle will keep the doctor's bill small, and can be depended on to cure rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago sciatica, toothache, pleurisy, strains or swelling. Wherever there is a pain rub on Nerviline; it will always cure.

The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical; trial size 25c. Sold everywhere by dealers, or direct from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

Quebec Man now Onteage.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—Lieut. De Yong, a resident of Verdun, Que., has returned from the battle front where he served with the Belgian army. He was wounded in the shoulder, his injury having been received just outside of Dixmude. He states that he witnessed a case of German barbarism at Termonde where a 17-year-old girl was forcibly taken away by a German officer while her father was tied to a telegraph pole and made a target for empty champagne bottles until he was dead, and a younger brother of the girl was tightly bound and thrown to the ground.

Special Leave For Christmas.

LONDON, Dec. 10—The War Office is holding out hopes that special concessions will be extended soldiers traveling on leave at Christmas, which will be good news for Canadians at Salisbury, many of whom are anxious to visit friends in distant parts of England. Lately, leave has been much restricted at the Canadian camp, though, and disappointments correspondingly numerous.

Military authorities in many districts are ordering public houses to close at eight o'clock during Christmas and New Year.

DO YOU FEEL MOODY, IRRITABLE, DEPRESSED?

When That Languid, Lazy, Easily-Tired Feeling Comes, Your Liver is Slow.

Tells How to Cure Quickly.

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches, and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those full feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish, and this accounted for my poor colour, my tiredness, langour and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weak, er because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and helpful. Well, I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use, I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in cleaning up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvelous degree with Dr Hamilton's Pills, and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."

It is Mrs. E. V. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all others, man and women, can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c a box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid by the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

GERMANY'S RECENT GROWTH REMARKABLE

Only Four Countries Have Denser Population—67,000,000 People

Some of the salient facts of Germany's remarkable growth and development in recent years are contained in a statement given to the press by Gilbert H. Grosvenor director and editor of the National Geographic Society of Washington. The statement is as follows:

"Only Belgium, Holland, Japan and the United Kingdom have denser populations than Germany. That country manages to crowd a popualtion of 67,000,000 people into a territory so small that you could add New England todt and still have an area smaller than the state of Texas.

"Possessing only one-fifteenth of the area of Europe, Germany produces one-seventh of Europe's wheat, one-fifth of its oats, one-fourth of its rye, and one-third of its potatoes.

"The average farm in Germany is very small. Out of a total of 5,786,000 nearly one-half are smaller than 2 1-2 acres, and less than 700,000 are larger than 25 acres. Of our own 5,737,000 farms, more than three-fifths contain upward of 50 acres.

"The Germans use more commercial fertilizer than any other three nations on earth, and yet, with all the coaxing resulting from intensive farming and small farms, Germany is not able, in ordinary times, to produce enough foodstuff to meet the demands of its people. It imported farm produce to the value of a quarter of a billion dollars more than it exported during a recent year, and groceries and confections to the amount of $120,000,000 above the exports of these commodities.

"Germany takes a different view of railroad rebates from that of the United States. A small shipper is always required to pay higher artes than a big shipper, and goods passing through Germany get lower rates than goods shipped from one German point to another. Railroad rates on export merchanidse are much lower than domestic rates. When the Nuremburg toy makers want to assist the Hamburg Kriss Kringle, the freight rate is $9.33 per ton; when they want to assist the New York Santa Claus it is only $5.83 per ton.

"The theory of the German Government is that every able-bodied man is entitled to work and that the Government must find something for him to do if he cannot find it himself. Wherever there is a disagreement between a labourer and his employer it must be settled in a court created for that purpose. Neither party is permitted by law to offer or to accept a compromise."

EVERYBODY'S KNITTING FOR WAR VICTIMS.

Everybody is knitting for the soldiers in the great war. In the United States many towns have taken up in an organized way the work of relief and are getting together huge shipments of knitted cholera bands, socks, mufflers and other needed articles to be sent through the Red Cross. Churches, as was to be expected, promptly came forward to do their share of relief work. In Europe the women of each of the belligerent powers have put aside all the frivolities of life and are busily engaged, as loyal women should be, in knitting and sewing for their fathers and brothers at the front. The contrast of this with the former life of the people is nowhere so marked as in Paris, the world's gayest capital. The Avenue des Champs Elysees, famous as the scene of fashion's daily parade, to-day witnesses a steady procession of motor vehicles flying the pennant either of the service militaire or of the Red Cross. The fashionable folk that used to make up this parade may now be seen sitting under the trees in the pleasant autumn weather all bending over their needles. All feminine Paris is knitting from the Champs Elysees, through the department stores to the heights of the workman's quarters in Belleville. If the strain of war is great among us what must it be among those whose countries have been invaded and whose sons are being killed and wounded by thousands! Under such conditions one needs to be busy if there is to be any peace of mind at all.—Frances Frear in Leslie's.

I Have Implicit Confidence
In Peterboro's Future

And my confidence is fully endorsed by the wisest men of our City, as shown in our churches, schools, factories, stores, public buildings, permanent roadways, etc., etc. Because of this implicit faith and because of my special desire to unload the cares of business, I am now trying to do what is said to be an impossible work, viz., that of selling Lots out of season.

HERE ARE SOME OF MY REASONS FOR DOING SO.

1. I have worked hard for over 60 years and want to quit.
2. My Lots cannot fail to please every buyer.
3. They are convenient to work, school and cars.
4. They are right in the way of the City's growth, and because of that they must increase rapidly in value.
5. My prices, $150 and up, I consider under value.
6. Terms—Pay cash and get good discount. Pay $10.00, get receipt for $20.00. Pay $5.00, get receipt for $10.00. Pay $2.00 and get receipt for $4.00.
7. If you are a good man, with family and no money, I will give you a Garden Lot free of rent. Have you ever had an offer to compare with this? If you want to succeed in life you must compel yourself to save a little, and this is the way to do it without failing. See my small ad. for proof. Call to-day.

Advances Are Made Everywhere in the West

THE PATRIOTIC FUND EFFORT IS NEARING ITS GOAL

PROGRESS ALONG THE WHOLE LINE

Official Communique Shows Allies Are Still Gaining in the West---Three Desperate Counter Attacks Near Ypres Are Repulsed.

Examiner Special:

PARIS, December 11.—Further progres of the allied troops along the entire line of more than 250 miles, with the exception of in the region of Ypres, is reported today in the official communique. About Ypres the Germans made three desperate attacks yesterday. At one point they actually reached the French trenches, but were repulsed after desperate fighting.

Further advance and the repulse of the German attacks in the Argonne is reported, while along practically the entire line the German artillery has been active but unable to overcome the advantage of the French guns.. The statement declares:

"On December 10, the French repulsed three German attacks in the region of Ypres. The Germans reached the trenches at one point, but were driven off. The French are progressing elsewhere. There were artillery duels in the regions of Arras and also Juvencourt. We made further advances in the Argonne where the attacks of the enemy were also repulsed. In the region of Varennes the German artillery was active, but harmless. Our progress in the Le Petre region has been accentuated. The French troops took Aspach depot."

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Times pr ints a letter from an officer aboard H. M. S. Glasgow, dated November 9, giving a vivid narrative of the naval fight off the Chilean coast. Describing the search of the British squadron up and down the coast for the enemy's war ships, the writer says that although they could not locate them, "we heard their secret and friendly wireless stations talking in code." Coming to the battle itself, the writer says every body was remarkably cool, as if at practice. "I cannot understand the miracle of our deliverance.—None will ever. We were struck at the water line by in all five shells out of about six hundred directed at us, but strangely enough not in vulnerable places, our coal saving us on three occasions. We were not armoured and should not be in battle line against an armoured cruiser."

LONDON, Dec. 11.—A supreme effort is being made by the Austrians and Germans to relieve the besieged fortress of Cracow. So important is this movement regarded that Archduke Frederick, who has been in command of the main Austrian army, is said to have yielded the direction of operations to the German general staff. The fighting to the south of Cracow is developing into one of the great battles of the war. The Austro-German forces have made desperate attempts to break the Russian line by massed frontal attacks, pouring men forward in seemingly unending numbers. The artillery fire hoe been terrific. Every indication is that the German artillery outranges the Russian, but the Russians have held their lines by the bravery of the Cossacks fighting on foot. On the southern front the indications are that the German cavalry is endeavouring to get across the passes in the Carpathians to relieve the situation in Hungary.

Petrograd reports to-day state that the operations of Gen. France are to the north of Warsaw, but he is making little progress. The failure of the Germans, however, would be followed by a disaster more serious than that which befell Field Marshall Von Hindenberg on his first advance on Warsaw. Petrograd reports that the Germans are being held in check.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The condition of Kaiser Wilhelm was improved to such an extent to-day that he was permitted to sit up for a few hours, despatches received here via The Hague state.

Swiss Council Ousts Professor For Defending Invasion of Belgium

BERNE, Dec. 10.—Professor Hugo Claparede, of the University of Geneva, son of the Swiss Minister to Berlin, has been dismissed from the university by the Swiss Federal Council on the ground that his expressed views concerning the violation of Belgium neutrality are inconsistent with the observance of neutrality by Switzerland.

Professor Claparede had offered his resignation, following a demonstration against him by the students, but the Federal Council declined to accept it and dismissed him instead.

The student demonstration occurred on November 24 as Professor Claparede entered his classrom. A delegation of students met him and read an address in which they asked him to resign, because "your attitude prohibits you to continue to occupy a public post remunerated by the State."

Later the matter was brought up in the Federal Council through an interpellation by Deputy de Rabours.

GERMANS BURN TREASURES IN LOUVAIN LIBRARY

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The faint hope that the priceless treasures of which the library of Louvain was the coffer—the irreplaceable manuscripts and first editions—had been transported to Germany before the building itself was fired, and were therefore not lost eternally, unfortunately is dispelled by the story told by Paul Delannoy, librarian of the University of Louvain.

M. Delannoy is one of the few persons — apart from the incendiaries themselves—who saw the vandals at their work in the destruction in Louvain. This is the story that he tells:

"Refugees arriving at Tournai told me of the burning of Louvain. Their stories were so terrible as to be almost unbelievable. I resolved to see for myself.

"Disguised as a chauffeur, I conducted a Dutchman whose passports were in perfect order to the university town. When we reached Haverle, on the outskirts of Louvain, we were ordered not to proceed further. The Germans, we were told, had on preceding days ran amuck throughout the different quarters of the city, firing on all they saw—on old men, women and children indiscriminately.

"When, in spite of these warnings, we entered the city, we saw heaps of corpses in the streets. The Church of St. Peter and the library hall been fired on the first day of the German occupation. Nothing of the church remained but the blackened walls. The library was still burning. Charred or flaming papers were being swept by the wind into the adjoining streets.

"The fire had been lighted in the lower parts of the building, and so thoroughly had the work of destruction been done that it would be vain to hope to discover anything beneath the ruins.

"The loss of the library is an irreparable one. Many rare and precious works, over 300 early editions, manuscripts, and charters have been reduced to ashes."

PATRIOTIC FUND TOTAL HAD REACHED THE $48,000 MARK AT NOON TO-DAY

With Half a Day Left to Work the Committee Only Has $2000 to Collect---$50,000 Goal Will be Reached Before To-night--Auction Sale of Articles Donated Will be a Feature--The Public is Generally Invited to the Market Hall to Enjoy Fun

These were the amounts reported by the committees at last evening's supper and were received with an enthusiasm that discounted Wednesday night's demonstration. The returns from teams No. 6 and 7, which were the largest for the day, were not given until the last and the workers went wild. The two teams were roundly cheered as they announced their amounts. Mr. Peck's team for the second day in succession led in the day's collections.

The workers met at noon to-day and Mr. O'Connell announced that the figure had reached the $48,000 mark.

Team.	Captain.	Amount
No. 1	J. J. Turner	$ 641.13
No. 2	W. Stocker	648.75
No. 3	W. J. Oke	769.44
No. 4	H. G. Walker	659.00
No. 5	J. J. Duffus	1,100.40
No. 6	W. H. Dunsford	2,722.00
No. 7	E. A. Peck	2.944.00
No. 8	L. J. Picard	465.00
No. 9	Adjt. McElhiney	335.30
No. 10	G. A. Gillespie	390.00

End of the second day. Boisterous. well yes; distinctively so. Cheers, shouts, protestations, laughter. As the results from the canvass of the several teams was read out the excitement rose. It had been barely hoped that the day's work would net at least $6,000. But when it was known that over $11,000 had been raised the meeting went wild. It was ahead of the best anticipations.

Some confusion had arisen. The names of the people to be solicited for subscriptions had been typed on cards and handed to the several teams. In some cases the cards had been duplicated, and the team that got there first took the money and claimed credit. Then the other team remonstrated, and some adjustments were made. All in good humour and amidst much laughter. Everyone felt good There were results.

The grand total of the evening was something over $43,000. Leaving about $7,000 to go to win. Several substantial subscriptions are in sight, which will make the raising easier. Among the fine amounts so generously given were those of Miss Dickson $500, Miss Charlotte Dickson $500. Mrs. W. Walsh $500, and Mrs. Haslitt of $1,000. These ladies are ever generous in a good cause, and this one particularly appealed to them. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Aylmer gave a very welcome $500. The ladies of the Chamberlain Estate made the handsome gift to the fund of $1,000. Mr. B. F. Ackerman, whose subscription of $1,000, for the firm, will make another $1,000 on his own account as the last thousand to be raised.

Mr. Kendrey, of the Auburn Mills, handed in a fine subscription of $1,000 for the company and its heads. The employees are doing finely as well, though the amount to be contributed will not be known until the close of the day. Judge Huycke contributed $300. Mr. Claude Rogers gave $200. The De Laval Company employees raised in a day's wages $160, the Peterborough Canoe Co. $250, the Peterborough Lock Co. employees $106, the Examiner and its employees $300, the Review $50, and R. Fair $100.

The Bell Telephone Co. staff gave one day's pay on the occasion of the first subscription, and have donated another day as well. The employees of J. E. A. Fitzgerald's the same, also J. J. Duffus Garage are in line and the Peterborough Planing Mill. The City Post Office staff are busy and their contribution will come in. The Peterborough Cereal Co. employees gave $60 and Grafton & Co. will send in a good amount.

One marked effort that deserves to be noted is that of the Peterborough Chicle Co. employees. Many of these are young girls who are working at the minor operations connected with the putting up of the goods and whose salaries are not so large. Instead of taking a day's pay they decided to work overtime for the number of hours that would make up a good subscription. That spirit is fine and is to be praised.

Yesterday the Red Cross exhibit in the window of the Turnbull Department Store attracted a large and interested crowd. The object of this display is to attract attention to the objects of the Fund, and to give some realistic conception of the real work being done on the battlefields. The young lady nurses taking part and giving their services were Misses Buyers, Mann, Smith and Davis, all of the Nichols Hospital staff. The hospital kindly supplied the essentials to be used in the demonstration. The whole thing was well put on, and beyond causing some agitation caused to the police by the crowd obstructing traffic there was no trouble. But the object was to collect a crowd, else the display was of no avail. Apologies to Chief Thompson and his men for just this once. It will not happen again. The names of the boys who submitted to the caresses and wrapping up will be given later.

Later the returns came in from the Grafton Co., being $100 from the firm and from the employees $80. Well, all wear Grafton's clothing, until some other firm and employees do better.

Mention is made of the staff at the Empress Hotel who gave the results of a canvass among themselves and a day's pay all in good shape.

Here is where a good man does something that will be as the same as money. Money is rather hard to get these days. So Mr. Jas. Ellis, of the Peterborough Mattress Factory gives ten mattresses. They are worth an average of $4.60. These will be accepted, in fact are taken in with thanks. None of us will be the worse off for sleeping on one of Ellis's mattresses. They will be put up on sale, presently, and Mr. Ellis undertakes to deliver them to any part of the City from his factory. Samples will be shown at the time of sale. Better bid now.

Thos. Gunn, the brush maker, hands in two dozen brushes. Kind not specified, because not known. These brushes should go off quickly, being fired from a Gunn. Better speak now. Handy to have around the house.

The saddening intelligence comes in that the bandaging exhibit will have to be cancelled for this afternoon. Mr. Might has been very good, and business has to some extent been disorganised and one whole window placed at the service of the committee. This must go back to showing Saturday's sale goods, and the exhibit is cancelled. Thanks, Mr. Might, you have done well. The boys may now call the attention of their children in years to come that they have had their legs wrapped up in that same window during the war days of 1914.

This afternoon sees the final winding up of the campaign. The men are sure they will succeed. There are a number of substantial amounts yet to be taken in.

The first Peterborough Old Boy letter to come in was received this morning, only it was from an Old Girl. More power to the sex. It came from Mrs. Margaret Ellis, of Canajoharie, N.Y., who writes that she is only too glad to send the cheque of $10 and wishes it could be ten times the amount. Good for the Canadian girls, even if they are translated to become of the American nation They are Canadians at heart, and the hearts are big ones.

Messrs. White Bros. donate a $25 floor rug to be sold for the benefit of the Fund. Will be on view at the rooms. Thirty years from now this rug will have a historic value. Who will buy it. No trouble to show goods Call and let us show you our stock.

Had the plaster on the ceiling of the committee room not been fastened on with paper it might have fallen right after dinner. The first contribution from Peterborough Old Boys was a cheque for $10.00 from Mrs. Margaret Ellis, of Canajoharie, N.Y. It was received with cheers and Tipperery. Before putting it in the fund it was claimed by two of the teams, who tried to prove relationship to the lady.

Then the suggestion was offered to set the cheque up at auction. No sooner said than done. Auctioneer Dan O'Connell asked for bids. They came fast and furious. He patrolled the room to get in close touch with his customers. The bidding rose by instalments and by dollars and was finally knocked down to team No. 3 at $20.00 coin of the realm. There was more fuss, shouts and laughter than many a grand opera gain. All in good shape.

The lesson in this incident is that there is always money in the country when the proper inducements are offered. Are we down-hearted. No, emphatically, no.

Just to head off a rumour that might as well be nailed now as further on. The committees have had meals served at the committee rooms, more to hold the teams together, and for a general meeting and fixing up. These are all paid for individually, each man for himself. Gentlemen, this committee is self-acting and self-supporting and don't you forget it.

Another gift in kind. Messrs. Moore, Ruth and Austin have made a gift to the funds of the fund, a fine lot in Windsor Park, Kerrobert, Sask. This adjoins others that have been sold for $125. This lot will be put up at the auction to-night. Don't forget to come and secure some real estate.

It seems that despite the carefulness of the Lists committee there are some who have been overlooked and have not been called on. Will all who have not been called on and who wish to contribute please leave contributions with Mr. John Crane at the Dominion Bank.

Zacks Bros' Fire Sale Draws a Tremendous Crowd

A visit to Zacks Brothers' store this morning gave ocular evidence that there are hundreds of people in Peterborough and vicinity who have money to spend, when the bargains are made attractive enough. Most of the morning it was necessary to close the front door in order to handle the crowd already inside, passing them out the back way, and allowing more to come in as there became room for them. The size of the bundles being carried away was also further evidence that the people appreciated the values offered at this great fire sale. Whenever a line is cleaned up, another is put in its place, equally or more attractive, and hundreds of new ones are being prepared for the rush to-morrow (Saturday).

XMAS TREAT FOR FAMILIES OF SOLDIERS

At a meeting of the Women's War Fund Committee it was resolved that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to the Auburn Woollen Mills for their 'generous gift of cloth and blankets to the Fund. It was also decided to give a Christmas tree and treat to those soldiers' wives and children whose husbands and fathers are away, on Wednesday, Dec. 23rd, at the Armouries.

THE JURY DISAGREED

After Being Out Four Hours

After being out four hours the jury disagreed in the case of James Grisdale, charged with receiving stolen goods. The case appeared before His Honour Judge Huycke in the County Court, yesterday. Grisdale was released on bail, giving his own surety for five hundred dollars. The case may be tried again at the June sittings of the County Court.

Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the accused, and Mr. G. W. Hatton conducted the prosecution.

SAY KARLSHRUE WILL BE NEXT

Speedy German Cruiser Has Fled But is Deprived of He Auxiliaries And Will Be Helpless---Further Particulars of the Big Naval Battle

Special Cable to The Examiner:

BUENOS AYRES, December 11. — Additional reports of the engagement off the Falkland Islands received here to-day state that the British fleet includes the second cruiser squadron attached to the home fleet, composed of the Cruisers Shannon, Achilles,, Cochrane and Natal. The sinking of the German cruiser Nurnberg, first reported yesterday, has been confirmed. The Nurnberg was run down after a chase; she refused to surrender and fought gallantly until she sank. The Dresden met a similar fate eight hours later. The main engagement off the Falkland Islands lasted for five hours.

The German reports declare that Admiral Von Spee and the officers of the fleet realized from the first that they faced certain destruction when they saw that they had been caught between the Japanese and the British fleet. The Germans immediately spread out and prepared to fight to the last man. The Nurnberg and the Dresden being light cruisers and the swiftest vessels of the German fleet, managed to keep up a running fight for some hours.

The cruiser Karlsruhe and the converted cruiser Kron Prinz Wilhelm, which were in the vicinity, have fled.

The British fleet, according to the latest reports, has captured the crews and sunk the colliers and supply ships which were serving these cruisers. If these reports received by wireless are true, it is expected that the Karlsruhe and the Kron Prinz Wilhelm, as well as the Prince Eitel Frederich, will soon be rounded up by the British as well. Deprived of auxiliaries the cruisers will soon be rendered helpless owing to a shortage of coal and supplies.

OPERATOR MURDERED

William Stone Shot to Death at Midnight—The Murdered Man's Last Message

LOCAL BOY THERE

WHITBY, Dec. 11.—Wm Stone, Jr., aged twenty, and unmarried, was shot to death at midnight. The murdered man was employed as night operator at the Grand Trunk station. He lived long enough to drag himself to the telephone and call up the Chief of Police. When aid reached him he was dead, beside the telephone.

Later reports indicate that there was no robbery or any appearance of attempted robbery in connection with the murder of the popular young operator. The Chief of Police said today that the bullet which killed Stone went in just over the heart. There will be an autopsy and inquest.. The message from the dying man reached the Chief of Police just after midnight. A freight train had passed through just previously. "Hello, Central, this is the Junction; somebody has shot me," said a voice over the telephone. Several arrests were made on vagrancy charges in connection with the case. Stone lived about three blocks from the station.

Clifford Howard There.

Clifford Howard, son of Fire Chief Howard of this City, and night operator at the C.P.R. station, Whitby, was well acquainted with the deceased. He telegraphed his parents this morning, to allay any fears that may have existed as to the identity of the murdered man. First reports did not contain the name of the victim

BENEFIT CONCERT

Huycke's Minstrels in Aid of the Hockey Club

Mr. Asa Huycke's Minstrels will give a concert in the Conservatory of Music Hall on Wednesday next, Dec. 16, in aid of the Peterborough Hockey Club. This will be the first public appearance in Peterborough of the local minstrels, and no doubt a large audience will be in attendance, especially in view of the meritorious objects of the concert.

CHRISTMAS NUMBER OUT ON SATURDAY

Group Picture of Peterboro' Children a Feature

The annual Christmas edition of the Examiner will be published to-morrow and will be well worth obtaining. A feature will be the wonderful children's group by the Roy Studio, which will be given in the Christmas edition. In addition there will be a magazine section printed on good paper and containing some charming holiday pictures. There is special Christmas advertising—in fact the number will be a complete index to the shops of Peterborough.

AUCTION SALE FOR PATRIOTIC FUND

Will Be Held To-night in the Market Hall

An auction sale of goods that have been contributed to the Patriotic Fund, and are to be converted into cash, will be held to-night in the Market Hall. So get in line for the last chance to boost the Patriotic Fund. Several articles have been donated, the committee wishing, among other things, to acknowledge the donation from Mrs. Sharpe, 571 Harvey street, of a volume on British Heroes. This too, will be sold to-night.

DEATH OF MRS. WILLIAM NOYES

Mr. Charles Noyes, of this city, received this morning, the sad intelligence of the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. William Noyes, of Madoc. The telegram containing the news of the demise of Mrs. Noyes was very brief, and came as a surprise and shock to her relatives and friends in this city. The bereaved husband, Mr. William Noyes, of Madoc, has three brothers in the city, Mr. Chas. Noyes, Mr. John Noyes, and Mr. Harry Noyes.

Four sons survive the late Mrs. Noyes. They are: George, at Trenton; Thomas, Saskatchewan; Robert at home, and William in the West.

THE KAISER'S ILLNESS.

Whether regarded as a man or a military leader, the German Emperor in his illness appeals to our sympathy and evokes wishes for a speedy recovery. If he is removed by illness or death—his place as commander-in-chief of the German armies will be taken by capable generals, and the allied generals will have something more dangerous than bumptuous brute-force strategy to deal with. We are told that the Kaiser's temperature is 103, but we hope that he will not too soon learn what a real rise in temperature means.

A GOOD NAME.

We have divine assurance that "a good name is better than riches." Great Britain's predominant influence in the world, moral and material, comes from the fact that in the long course of her history she has achieved the justification of the good name she bears, as the friend of justice, the friend of right, the champion of the oppressed, the champion of the under dog in the fight. We should not be surprised that Belgium and France as nations should recognise this; that it should appeal to statesmen, but we have evidence that the man in the street, the man in the ranks, is alive to it. A French-Canadian, who was in Belgium, at the time of the beginning of the retreat, has returned and relates that among the fragments of conversation of the common soldiers that reached him, he often heard the word, "Angleterre." In their time of stress their hearts turned to England as the deliverer; they recognised in her the friend of the oppressed and the outraged, and though the "night-or-Blucher" longing was slow in being met they had faith that "England, Angleterre" — their conception of Great Britain—would come to the rescue. And they were not, and have not been disappointed. Britain has lived up to her good name and will be the chief agency in avenging the outrage upon Belgium's neutrality, with all the blood and tears, rapine and desolation involved in that outrage. Britain's good name—lived up to—will do more. It will be an object lesson to all the nations and kindreds and tongues, and the lesson will be burned into national and international consciences by the success Britain will achieve in vindicating the cause of national justice, and by the victory she will gain in the cause of right, and the crushing of wrong, demonstrating that, on all grounds, it pays to be right and do right.

CANADA FOR CANADIANS.

If Canada by virtue of her possession of the only considerable mines of nickel in the world, is to avoid contributions of nickel to belligerent countries to be used against us and the Empire and the Allies, we must, it seems, adopt drastic methods, as a consequence of not having adopted an all-Canadian policy years ago. The Canadian Government a few weeks since passed an order-in-council, prohibiting the exportation of Canadian nickel in any form, except to neutral and friendly countries. This is as far as the precaution goes effectively. We export under this arrangement nickel matte to the United States, but in spite of any arrangement to the contrary between the two countries, a certain and perhaps a large amount of nickel may find its way to Germany. If this condition does not prove satisfactory; if in spite of all the precautions taken Canada is involuntarily contributing "aid and comfort" to our enemies, by an indirect supply of nickel, Canada must take the drastic way and prohibit the export of nickel altogether, except to Great Britain or France. Germany, with its shipbuilding yards and its big gun plants in full and feverish operation, is desperately in need of nickel, and will strain every nerve, use every intrigue and crookedness, to get its desire. We cannot expect that exports of Canadian nickel from the United States, will not, to a considerable extent be diverted to German ports. Absolute prohibition of export outside the Empire will be the only way in which Canada can avoid fighting Germany's battles indirectly.

A drastic remedy like this, will create trade disturbance, but we can't fail to apply it on that account. We have acted too late. If, years ago, Canada had adopted the policy in regard to nickel that was applied to saw-logs and pulp-wood—prohibiting export in unmanufactured condition—the trade disturbance that would result from present absolute prohibition would have been avoided. There would have been a gradual trade adjustment, that would have eliminated the friction that is bound to result from the enforcement of a drastic non-exportation policy or order now. If we had years ago adopted that policy, we should not only, have contributed to the establishment of a great domestic industry, the refining of our own nickel, with all the advantages involved; but we should also have had a control of the nickel supply situation that could have been applied to crippling Germany and handicapping her in the race for naval supremacy. We are now face to face with the necessity in a broad and comprehensive sense, of applying the policy of Canada for Canadians in our general industrial and commercial operations, and it is a good time to consider the extension of this policy to the nickel situation. We would, it seems, be justified in making permanent the absolute prohibition of nickel export that in this crisis may be forced upon us. This war presents many great opportunities for Canada pulling a great many fine chestnuts from the fire. The stimulus to agricultural production, by unusual demand, the entering of openings for trade expansion, and industrial expansion can all be taken advantage of and "Made in Canada," and "Canada for Canadians," will not be ambitions to realize, but ambitions realized.

TO DO OR NOT TO DO.

In another column is found a letter from Mr. Burnham, M.P., in regard to the alleged and actual inactivity of the authorities in regard to securing the selection of Peterborough as a mobilisation centre for a detachment of another overseas contingent. As an essay on etiquette in relation to governments and the powers that be, it is as beautifully vague, and as little to the point as it is innocuous. As an apology for laissez-faire ways of not doing things it carries its own condemnation.

Peterborough wants to get the mobilisation camp for the good it will do the city in the way of promoting its material interests; for the little more employment—badly needed—it will give, and for the considerable circulation of ready money—also badly needed—it will create. We and many citizens, loyal to the city's welfare, in our simplicity, fancied that the proper way to get a thing was to try to get it. But everybody is wrong in this regard. Mr. Burnham disposes of the whole matter with an autocratic flourish of his pen. He says—

> Several days ago I wired the minister asking him if he would like to have our civic representatives consult with him concerning our vacant buildings and suitable mobilisation facilities. His answer has not yet arrived.

Certainly not; we couldn't expect it. The action of the Board of Trade in placing subscription lists in the banks for the Belgian Relief Fund has had similar results. As a rule, if we get anything we have to go after it. When we do this in earnest, we get results. Witness the Patriotic Fund campaign, and the splendid success that has come from doing something in a live, energetic, systematic and sincere way. Here is an example of the autocratic idea of government quite worthy of German ideas of the supremacy of authority. Mr. Burnham says—

> It would be quite useless to go down to Ottawa on the assumption that the Department of Militia does not know its own business. Mobilisation is the Department's business, not ours, and as we should, so it will, desire to do things in a way best suited to its own plans and to the good of the country.

No one has assumed that the Militia Department "does not know its own business." Everybody recognized that the Militia Department, has admirably shown that it knows its business, and has done it promptly and efficiency so far. But what we want to do is to help the Militia Department, cooperate with it, and in so doing help ourselves. The Militia Department has its hands full, and if Peterborough can help it by obtrusively showing the department that we can provide the facilities needed we are doing something for the country as well as something for ourselves. Governments are only human and are an exception to some people—they do not know it all, and will not resent the tender of a little assistance. Mr. Burnham thinks "it would be quite useless to go to Ottawa" to urge our case. Possibly so. But how explain that Belleville has secured the mobilisation of a detachment at that place? The explanation is that Mr. Northrup, M.P., for East Hastings, got the concession after an interview with the Minister of Militia. That's the way — go to headquarters directly, personally, and in earnest—not send a wire and wait for an answer "that has not yet arrived." We don't know what the situation is in regard to Peterborough being selected as a mobilization centre, but we do know that we can supply better accommodations than Belleville, and that if proper effort were put forth something more would be done, than by doing nothing—by "awaiting the inspector's report calmly."

The rest of our representative's letter is an argument, denying the right of petition; something that the most barbarious states, the most absolute of tyrants, have recognised since the world began.

Such things, however, are not to the point, of this matter. Peterborough wants the mobilisation centre here; we can provide suitable accommodations; and if we don't get it, it is because we—the responsible authorities of various kinds — have not done our best in the best way.

THE RIGHT THING IN THE RIGHT PLACE.

The London Morning Post, a high-crusted Tory paper of the deepest indigo blue, says of the question of coal navies:

"Australia insisted, against a great deal of opposition at this end, on having its own navy, and this Australian navy, when the war broke out, was found to be the right thing in the right place. If Australia had developed this independent policy somewhat earlier we might not have been under the necessity of applying for the good offices of our loyal, obliging ally in the East." The Post concludes with the declaration: "These things point out also the great truth that if this Empire is spared under Providence to continue its development, that development will be upon lines of freedom and co-operation, not upon lines of concentration and subordination."

DEMOCRACY vs. MILITARISM

Special to the Examiner

HAMILTON, Dec. 11.—"Democracy vs. Militarism" was the theme of a forceful and scholarly address given this afternoon by Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., to the Women's Canadian Club.

"Germany," declared Mr. Rowell, "in her military ambitions, in her huge and ruthless war machine, in her repudiation of solemn treaty obligations, in her wanton attack upon a weaker power which had done her no harm, in her cruelties to the civilian population and in her destruction of the sacred treasures of art and architecture, reveals militarism in all its naked barbarity, in its pagan worship of force and in its creed that 'Might is Right.' Against this militarist spirit and the power that represents and expresses it, we must fight with all the strength of our being and all the resources of our nation until victory is assured."

Mr. Rowell outlined the historical development of free representative government in Great Britain and in Canada and showed that in Prussia, on the other hand, which dominated Germany, it was the people who had lost in the struggle against autocracy.

"Had the people won in this contest in Germany," Mr. Rowell gave it as his opinion, "as they did in Great Britain, this terrible war, with all its horrors, might have been averted. An intelligent and informed Christian democracy is the surest guarantee of peace and the best safeguard against the militarist and autocratic ideals in policy."

Mr. Rowell sounded one note of warning. "In this truly patriotic and noble service," he said, "upon which our nation and Empire have entered, let us never forget that militarism when carried to its logical conclusion as it is in Germany, would be just as hateful and barbarous a thing if enthroned in the life of the British people. Let us make sure that in our effort to destroy the hated thing in Germany, we do not exalt it in our own land."

Eleven Hundred Prisoners.

LONDON, Dec. 11. — The India Office reports that 1,100 Turkish prisoners, exclusive of wounded, and nine guns, were captured at Kurna, on the Persian Gulf, which was occupied on Dec 8.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Fear of grave damage having been done by frost in Argentina acted as more than an offset today for the bearish influence of the German naval defeat and of the illness of the kaiser. The market, altho much unsettled, closed 1-8c to 1-2c above last night. Corn scored a net gain of 1-4c to 3-8c, oats finished 1-8c down to 1-4c up, and provisions at a decline of 2½c to 22½c.

Manitoba flour—First patents, $6.60 in bags; second patents, $6.10 in bags.

Ontario flour—Winter, $6 per cent. patents, $4.70 to $4.75; Montreal, nominal.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 10.—Wheat opened unchanged for May and July and ⅛c down for December. Oats were ⅛c higher for December and unchanged for May. Flax was ⅛c lower for May and unchanged for December.

Trading was active in options at first, but later rumors of the death of Kaiser William caused a slump.

Prices regained previous figures on receipt of a denial of this story. Wheat closed ⅝c to ¾c lower, oats ⅝c to ¾c lower and flax ⅛c to ¼c up.

Cash demand was quiet, only a few scattered orders being taken to fill up space. Offerings were light. Cash oats, barley and flax are at a standstill.

Inspections Wednesday 316 cars, as against 1711 last year, and in sight 976.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—Business over the cable in grain continues very quiet, which is attributed principally to the increasing scarcity of ocean grain room from Canadian winter ports. Owing to the weaker feeling in the Winnipeg option for oats of late an easier feeling has prevailed in the local market and prices are being shaded 1-2c per bushel in some cases.

The demand is still very limited for all lines of grain and the market is dull. There is no change in the condition of the flour market, prices being steady, but the volume of business doing is small. In millfeed the feeling is firm under a good demand and small offerings.

Butter is quiet and unchanged. Cheese firm. Demand for eggs good.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.18; No. 1 northern, $1.14½ to $1.17; No. 2 do., $1.13½ to $1.15; Dec., $1.13⅝.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 65½c to 65¾c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 45c to 45½c.

Flour and bran—Unchanged.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 1526 cattle, 2946 hogs, 1102 sheep and lambs and 52 calves.

Butchers' Cattle.

Choice heavy butchers' steers and heifers at $8.25 to $8.65; good, $7.75 to $8; medium, $6.75 to $7; common, $6 to $6.50; choice cows, $6.75 to $7; good, $6.10 to $6.50; medium cows, $5.50 to $6; canners and cutters at $3.75 to $4.60; bulls, $5 to $7, and two or three at $7.25 to $7.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

Stockers and feeders of good quality were in demand. Good to choice steers, $6.25 to $6.50; medium steers, $5.75 to $6.25; stockers, $4 to $5.50.

The Mysterious Russia The War Has Manifested

Russia, the land of mystery! Whether you are a playwright, to whom a depraved and alcoholic grand duke is indispensable as a villain, foiled by a beautiful woman in evening dress (really a revolutionary whose husband is serving time in Siberia); whether you are a playwright, or an enthusiast for Tolstoy, and Turgenev's novels, or just a newspaper reader who likes to understand things— Russia is at once a romance and an enigma. The country where the same word means countryman and Christian, where superstition, ignorance, mysticism, charity, and inbred anarchism, great riches and great want all jostle elbows; the country which, like Mexico, has no middle class! We delight in reading about Russia—whether in the great novels that De Vogue's book tells about, or in the travel books by Stephen Graham, or in Maurice Baring's essays. Certainly there is no one volume that tells us very much about Russia—which is, in part, because there are so many Russias. But we have just read an instructive article on "Russia and the War," in the November issue of the "Contemporary Review." It tells, for instance, of the way Russia was "shaking with revolt of a peculiar kind" when the European conflict began, with "a civil war of the most horrible kind" on the point of breaking. It tells of the part the revolutionists of yesterday are playing as the patriots of to-day. It may well be that the great war is all that saved the Romanoffs and their dynasty. At the beginning of August (i.e., when Germany was declaring war) the German press was announcing "that Ireland had revolted and that there actually was a revolution throughout Russia." The Kaiser's secret meeting with Sir Edward Carson, Ulster ring leader, is matched by the fact that the first men to strike in Russia's social revolution of this last July were employees of a German firm. The Germans undercalculated, in seizing their "opportunity," what a force loyalty in Great Britain and Ireland, and in Russia, too, may be. But we dont blame Wilhelm and his advisers for not understanding Russia. She is the puzzle of the twentieth century; half anachronism, half art triumph. You'd better read the article "Russia and the War." But you won't understand Russia even when you've read it. For Russia is half enigma—and all romance.— Colliers Weekly.

Commissioners May Submit A By-Law

To Provide for the Installation of an Auxiliary Steam Plant at the Pumping Station

MR. KENNEDY HERE

Mr. William Kennedy, Jr., of Montreal, who is in the City conferring with the Utilities Commission, respecting the installation of an auxiliary steam plant at the pumping station, left for Toronto this afternoon, where he will make further investigations into the matter. Mr. W. H. Moore of the Commission, states that the pumping station has been shut down on an average of five hours each year for the past thirteen years. A delay like that which occurred on Wednesday of this week, is unprecedented, and one over which the Commissioners had no control. "You cannot overcome the forces of nature," said Mr. Moore, in conversation with the Examiner to-day. For years, engineers have tried in vain to provide some means of dealing with the difficulty. No industry dependent upon a water supply for its power is exempt from the trouble. Mr. Kennedy states that a change in temperature of one five-hundredth of a degree will spell relief or a complete freeze-up.

An Example.

To illustrate this, one of the Commissioners was at the pumping station a few days ago when the trouble was at its height. One of the huge water wheels was completely blocked, and a force of ten men were engaged in hacking way the ice. An attempt was made to put in motion No. 1 wheel, but all to no purpose. It was completely blocked. Thirty minutes later the wheel was perfectly free, the ice having moved on its own accord, due to a sudden variation in the temperature.

The Comissioners have summoned Mr. Kennedy of Montreal, whose familiarity with the local pumping station will enable him to deal with the situation to the advantage of all concerned. Should a steam auxiliary plant be decided upon, the consent of the people will have to be secured before the necessary funds can be secured for the work. This will necessitate the submission of a by-law.

Mr. Moore states that the Commissioners have done all within their power to deal with the situation.

A REPLY FROM MAJOR-GEN. HUGHES

Mr. J. H. Burnham has received the following telegram in reply to a wire sent by him to Major-General Hughes in regard to the mobilization camp: "Nothing more may be done. I am possessed of all facts. Will know in a week or so.

SAM HUGHES."

Motor Truck Put Through Rigid Tests

But Council Has Not Discussed the Matter of Purchasing It—Is Only Here for a Week

SPLENDID PERFORMANCE

The motor chemical engine and hose truck has come through an even more rigid test than recorded in yesterday's Examiner with flying colours. Later in the afternoon the ponderous machine was run, up the Antrim street hill, considered by nearly everybody to be the most difficult and inaccessable of any local hills, and made the climb easily and surely. The manner in which it took the hill removed the last vestige of doubt from those on board as to its hill-climbing proclivities. The unanimous verdict was that no local eminence could stop the chemical engine.

This morning a test alarm was sent in from Box No.— at the corner of London and Park streets, just exactly a mile from the Fire Hall. In two minutes and thirty seconds after Alderman Green had pulled the lever on the firm alarm box the hose truck was spraying the ground around it with fire extinguishing fluid. This is certainly little less than a wonderful performance. The hose waggon drawn by the horses arrived just a minute later than the motor truck, and the ladder waggon was about fifteen seconds behind the hose outfit. So the whole brigade made a splendid run to the box.

The motor truck is in the city for a week, until all danger of the anchor ice robbing the city of its fire protection is eliminated. There is no thought just now, however, of the city purchasing the machine, which would cost $7,000. Asked this afternoon whether the buying of the engine had been discussed by the Council at all, Alderman G. Walter Green, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, replied that it had not come before the Council at all.

"The motor truck," he said." "Was brought here by the Fire, Water and Light Committee at my suggestion. I did not think we dared to leave the city without fire protection in the event of anchor ice again rendering the water system useless for a time. The safety of the people as a whole was endangered. But I do not think that the 1914 Council have any right tying down next year's Council. So far as the Fire, Water and Light Committee of which I am head is concerned, we have not even discussed the matter of purchasing the machine.

Queen Mary Shows Her Common Sense

LONDON, Dec. 10.—An interesting story is going the rounds which illustrates once more Queen Mary's commonsense and breadth of view. She was examining some goods from a West-End shop the other day for Christmas presents, and asked the girl who was showing them whether she had any of a certain kind. The girl replied diffidently that she was afraid that there was nothing British of that kind to be had, as all the goods had been bought in Germany.

"That," said Queen Mary, "is not the point. The goods are in British shops. They were bought before the war. People ought to support the shopkeepers and take the stock off their hands. Then when it has been sold we shall buy nothing but British."

A SCANDALOUS SPEECH.

(London News and Leader)

We wish to draw ... Lord Kitchener to a speech made by General Richardson at a recruiting meeting of the Ulster Volunteers. In this speech he said:

"If any man found himself wavering, let him try and recollect the events of March last and what the Army and Navy did for Ulster. They came to the help of Ulster in the day of trouble and they would come again. It was now the volunteers' opportunity to show them their gratitude and support them to the last man."

What action does Lord Kitchener propose to take in regard to this atrocious claim that the Army and Navy have been and are to be the instrument of Ulster in regard to its political aims in Ireland? If this thing is not dealt with at once, and severely, it will, among other things, be disastrous to recruiting in Nationalist Ireland.

All subscribers of the Examiner will receive the Christmas Number of the Examiner tomorrow as usual. Orders for extra copies taken at 5c each.

German Operations in the East Now Purely Defensive

Von Hindenberg's Troops Are Now Hammering at the Ends of Russian Line—Attack in South Has Failed Signally.

VICTORY WITH RUSSIA

LONDON, Dec. 11. — The Daily News has the following from Frederick Bennett, its correspondent in Petrograd:—

"The Germans are now throwing themselves in frantic desperation on both ends of the long Russian line. Their renewed attempt, with strong reinforcements, to pierce the Russian front south of Cracow has been defeated, with terrible bloodshed, and the Russian army in Galicia has now successfully brought its campaign to the final stage. This gives the Russian southern position great strength, which is increased by the new alignment to the northward since the withdrawal from the exposed angle around Lods.

It is estimated that the Germans have now brought 300,000 men, including 60,000 cavalry, from the western theatre of the war. The greater part of them are engaged in the renewed campaign in East Prussia. All the dispositions of the German troops brought from France, Belgium and the home reserves are regarded here as pointing to the supreme political decision of the Kaiser and the Berlin Government to wage war now for the protection of German territory, and to gradually abandon the dispositions made earlier with a determination to maintain a campaign of conquest. The alignment of the vast forces now turned against Russia is consistent only with the aim of preventing an invasion.

A Russian military expert analyses and interprets the German attempt on Warsaw as follows:—

"Although the German forces are more numerous than in their former advance and they are planning attacks from several separate directions simultaneously, their task is greater than before on account of the vastness of the Russian army which is massed to meet them.

"Gen. Francois of the Eighth German army corps from Osterode and Soldau is proceeding from East Prussia southward through Mlawa, Ciechanow and Przasnysz, on the right side of the Vistula, in an attempt to push toward Roshan with the evident intention of giving the powerful fortress of Nowo Georgievsk a wide berth. The Germans thus hope to outflank the Russian right wing and strike Warsaw from the northeast.

"Gen. Mackensen's German army from Thorn meanwhile continues an offensive on the left side of the Vistula through Lowics, engaging the Russian centre and aiming to hit Warsaw from the west. Another part of Field Marshal Hindenberg's army from Sleadz recently engaged Lods and Piotrkow, making every effort to march through Skiernievice and threaten Warsaw from the southwest.

"The Austrians from the west and southwest of Cracow complete the German plan by beginning an offensive in an effort to outflank the Russian left, which is besieging Cracow, while the other part of the Austrian army on the north, which is in contact with the extreme German right, is trying to proceed northeast with the object of taking Kielce and Radom. These movements take the form of a widespread fan with Warsaw the handle.

"Except on the north from Ciechanow, the movements are not new, the Austro-Germans having tried them before and failed.

"According to the Russian authorities, the yielding of cities to the enemy does not constitute an important war factor, since the taking of big cities like Lods, with the attendant destruction of life and property, tends to demoralize the army. Thus, if it is of strategic value to evacuate Warsaw, the capture of that city ought not to be considered important."

No Jap Ships In Action.

TOKIO, Dec. 11.—The British Government has communicated to Japan an official account of the sinking, Dec. 8, off the Falkland Islands, in the south Atlantic, of the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipsig, with a loss of about 1,800 men.

The report makes no mention by name of the British warships which took part in the engagement.

The Japanese navy authorities say no advices concerning this combat have been received from the Japanese warships on patrol in southern waters; consequently it is to be presumed that they did not take part in the action.

MR. BURNHAM AND THE CAMP

Member Thinks Nothing is to be Gained by Approaching Government

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—You take a keen interest in all local matters, quite properly, of course, but sometimes you proceed on wrong assumptions, to wit, when you assume that the mobilization-centre scheme has been neglected in any way by anybody here. To begin wrong end foremost, let me say that several days ago I wired the Minister, asking him if he would like to have our civic representatives consult with him concerning our vacant buildings and suitable mobilization facilities. [illegible] has not yet arrived. It would be quite useless to go down to Ottawa in the assumption that the Department of Militia does not know its own business. Mobilization is the Department's business, not ours, and as we should, so it will, desire to do things in a way best suited to its own plans and to the good of the country. If not, the sooner such a department vanishes the better. Peterborough has been treated handsomely and it is poor politics to rush pell-mell after everything. I grant you that we should see to it that we are not overlooked when other people want something of somebody, or we do, but that is one thing and quite another from becoming a by-word at the seat of government, as some are, who grab at everything. Let me call your attention to two facts which will demonstrate the folly of unasked-for deputations: Fifteen hundred stalwarts, captained by Hon. Adam Beck, went up to Ottawa to demand radial railway subsidies, and not long before a prospective provincial election, either. They filled the hotels, the corridors, and the House of Commons, itself, from floor to ceiling. What did they get? Ask them. Then take the Georgian Bay Canal Deputation. It was an immense throng of people from the whole north many of whom desired a trip at that season of the year. In numbers and clamour it was apparently irresistible. And what did it get? But both these deputations wanted something from the Government. How much more successful would they have been if they had tried to supply the Government's wants? Scarcely less so.

In conclusion, let me say that since August till the present no stone has been left unturned by either the Mayor and Council or myself in the direction of mobilization, horse-buying centres, water-conservation, etc., etc. But there is such a thing as a wise and self-respecting way of going about things and a reputation for it, which any visitor to Ottawa will find Peterborough to have need of. Governments are not half as idiotic or easy as supposed. Municipalities, like individuals, may be too persistent. All governments have the general good of the Dominion to consider, and they pay more attention, at any rate in the last ten years, to a national, rather than a parochial way of doing things. The Inspector was here several days ago, and let us await his report, calmly.

Yours respectfully,
J. H. Burnham.

MAKE FIRST DELIVERY

Tooke Bros., shareholders of the company will be interested to know, has had the honour of making the first delivery of shirts under the recent order for 1,000,000 shirts placed in Canada by the Imperial Government. The first delivery by the company, amounting to 10,000 shirts, or a tenth of its share in the army contract, will arrive in London this week. The company's plant is in a remarkably high state of efficiency, and the output has been keyed up to about 3,000 to 4,000 shirts a day — a new achievement in that branch of Canadian manufacture.

HORSE WILL BE RETURNED

LINDSAY, Dec. 10.—In the case of Hassard vs. Staples, which was heard on Tuesday and Wednesday, the jury decided that Dr. Hassard, of Markham, should take the horse back, after which the matter was adjourned until next Monday, Dec. 14th, for final judgment. Mr. L. V. O'Connor for plaintiff, and Mr. I. E. Weldon for defendant.

CASE DISMISSED.

The case of Collins vs. Hassard, which was heard by His Honour Judge Harding at Wednesday's court of general session, was dismissed, each party paying his own costs. This was an action taken by the plaintiff to recover certain commission on sale of horses said to be due to him by the defendant. Mr. L. V. O'Connor, of the firm of Stewart and O'Connor, for defendant, and Mr. I. E. Weldon for plaintiff.

AUSTRIANS ARE ROUTED

Servian Victory Far Greater Than at First Believed

LONDON, Dec. 11. — The Times publishes the following despatch from Kraguyevats:—

An earlier despatch referring to the victory reported yesterday says: The Austrian debacle is an established fact. The Serbs have driven a wedge between the Austrian forces, and the soldiers of the Dual Monarchy are flying in complete rout. The Serbs having re-occupied Valievo, are now to the northwest of that town, and Ushitsal, lying farther south, was retaken yesterday, with a mass of captured material so great that it cannot yet be tabulated. The track of the retreating enemy is literally one of discarded arms, munitions, wagons and stores.

The Austrian strategy which preceded the great defeat was admirable. Having seized the predominating Suvober range, the Austrians used this as a pivot for an attempted sweep to surround Kraguyevats, with its arsenal, in order to fall on Nish. While this manoeuvre was going on the Serbs withdrew from Belgrade and concentrated on the Suvaiver front. Then, with magnificent elan, they broke through the Austrian centre, stormed and took Suvober and Maljen Mountains, and got the enemy on the run. As a result, the Austrian thirteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth part of the Eighth Corps were shattered, and fled before the Serbs, who are prosecuting the pursuit with ever-increasing vigor and success.

The roads are blocked with incoming prisoners, who appear satisfied that the ordeal is over. Entire battalions are marching under guard of a few Servians. Many groups are wandering absolutely unattended. If these men are representative of the Austrian army it may safely be said that all the military vigor has been completely knocked out of the Austrian forces in Servia.

MR. RENWICK'S PUPILS TO GIVE RECITAL

VIGOROUS OFFENSIVE OF ALLIES RESULTS IN VICTORIES

Eastward March of French, British and Belgian Troops is Now Proceeding.

GERMANS FALL BACK

LONDON, Dec. 11. — Despatches from northern France tell of notable advances of the allies at various places.

Reuter's Boulogne correspondent, who has just returned to Boulogne from Armentieres, says the Germans on Tuesday were driven out of Armentieres by the British and hurled back beyond artillery range.

Armentieres is nine miles northwest of Lille.

The allies have entered Roulers (Rousselaere), in West Flanders, about 12 miles northeast of Ypres, according to the Sluis correspondent of The Handelsblad of Amsterdam.

A despatch to a London newspaper from the Belgian frontier Wednesday said the German Divisional Headquarters was removed from Roulers when shells began to fall in the town after the British had captured Passchendaele, a short distance to the west.

"This must be a day of bitterness for the Kaiser. Yesterday (Dec. 10) was the date fixed for him for the triumphant arrival of the German troops in Calais, but as I write the Calaisians are no doubt sleeping peacefully in their beds and all along the line the Germans are held, not by a thin line of khaki and blue, but by a thick band of steel, which grows stronger every day. 'The allies are now upon the offensive, and though the Germans are not in many places content with playing merely a game of defence, they are beginning to slowly but surely move eastward.

"During the last two or three days the allied troops have been specially successful along the line between Ypres and Dixmude. It has been stubborn fighting. A number of German trenches have been taken and held, and work with the bayonet is reported to have been exceedingly fierce in several places. This fighting, I believe, is merely a prelude, and there is reason to believe that by the end of the month the Germans will hold considerably less of Belgium than at present, and some towns in eastern France will come once more into the possession of friendly soldiers."

GIRLS' AUXILIARY SOCIAL A SUCCESS

Held at Home of Miss. I. Hay McDonnel St., Last Evening

The Girls' Auxiliary of St. Luke's Church held a very successful social at the home of Miss Isabel Hay, McDonnel street, last evening. A large number was in attendance and a very delightful time was spent. Misses Lilian Rush and Clara Adams rendered pianoforte solos that were much enjoyed, while vocal numbers were given by Miss Dawson and Master Sam Whitehouse. Mrs. Middleton and Miss Kathleen Vincent were heard in recitations that were entertaining features of an altogether pleasing programme.

Dainty refreshments were served and a sale of useful and fancy articles resulted in a good sum being realized.

Concert at St. James'

FUNERAL OF THE LATE J. JERVAIS

The funeral of the late John Jervais, who, as noted in yesterday's Examiner, has passed away at the Nichols Hospital, will be held to-morrow morning to St. Martin's Church and Cemetery, Ennismore. The late Mr. Jervais was 34 years of age, and was born and died in Bridgenorth, where he was highly respected. He is survived by his mother in that village.

Big Turnout of Home Guard

Weekly Parade Last Night Was Well Attended

The weekly drill and marchout of the Civilian Rifle Association Home Guards, last night, was marked by a big turnout as well as by large crowds of spectators. The usual parade of the down-town streets was held with the left-half battalion taking its turn in leading. The 57th and Temple Bands were both in the parade, and provided plenty of music.

An interesting incident occurred when the Regiment reached the headquarters of the Patriotic Fund Committee on George Street. The Guard halted and gave three hearty cheers for the Fund, and the Committee replied with a similar vocal volley for the Home Guard.

On the return to the Armouries the right half battalion attended a lecture on musketry, while the left half battalion received instruction in company drill. Vast improvement is being shown by the different units. The shooting schedule is now in full swing and some fine scores are being made. On Wednesday night a number of members of Capt. Lang's No. 11 Company visited the range of Street gallery and turned in splendid scores, as the following shows. Out of a possible [illegible] these scores were turned in and suffering: Powell 34, P. Electrical apparatus has been invented for bleaching beeswax without the use of chemicals.

read German, and because of this fact very many German papers have had large sales in Amsterdam, The Hague, Rotterdam, Utrecht, Arnheim, etc. Perhaps because of this we depended more on the German news, though since the tide of victory has turned to the side of the Allies, or at least the German advance has been checked, we have learned also not to depend on the German news.

Up to the time when the Belgians were driven across our border and the refugees began to arrive I believe there was a great deal of German sympathy in our country; but since, alas! with all the stories these Belgians tell us we have no longer any love for Deutschland. Maybe we are afraid we will be invaded next and our homes and country devastated.

At the present time our import and export business goes on as much as the international laws of neutrality permit. But is it not strange that, for instance, the importation of English coal has been stopped, while we receive almost daily coal from Germany?

Our army is very active, and amounts to about 400,000 men. It costs our government $400,000 a day to feed and care for. Almost all our forces are stationed in the southern provinces of Noord Brabant, Limburg and Zeeland. Our fortifications are in the very best condition—our soldiers have been working day and night on them. A great many houses near the forts along the Dutch water line were destroyed in order to provide a good firing line.

In business, we have heard little of a moratorium. Though several of the bankers asked for it, the government refused. Trains are running regularly, the telephone and telegraph service is excellent, and the mails are coming in and going out as usual.

Our harvest was very good this year, and we have enough food for ourselves and for export. Prices have risen, but not to a prohibitive degree. Rents have not risen, and there is no fear of a shortage of houses.

We feel here that our German neighbours were absolutely ready for war; they were only waiting for some trouble to give them a chance to start. Also we believed that the English troops did not give the assistance the Belgians wanted at the investment of Antwerp. We in Holland now realise that the English might have invaded our River Scheldt by sending in torpedo boats, etc., and since they did not do this, our papers are strong in praise of the English for preserving our neutrality. I can state also that you should not believe all you read about mines floating about the North Sea. The pilots out of Rotterdam laugh at these stories.

Because of the break in business relations between many Dutch and German firms our relations in business with the United States will undoubtedly be much stronger after the war. The Germans are suffering a business loss that they cannot discuss, because of the excitement that might be stirred up in Germany. Already people there are beginning to feel that except for the destruction of Belgium, they have not gained anything.

here. A friend of mine came back from Essen (Krupp works) a few days ago, and he tells me that this is the only place of importance where regular work is going on. The Berlin Chamber of Commerce gives out favourable reports on the cost of living, but we know it goes up steadily. A few days ago a friend from Germany told he has paid 10 cents for a hot roll. Before the war he said he would have got 21 for 10 cents. This, of course, is not a fair general comparison.

Football Association, having given it as its considered judgment that inter-country games were out of keeping with the present condition of things, will be severely criticised for their decision to carry on their cup competition.

Have Formed Town Hockey League

Plenty of Hockey in Campbellford This Winter

A meeting was held at the Windsor hotel last Monay night when a Town Hockey League was organized. The following clubs were represented, viz.: Trent Valley, Northumberland, Clerks and Firemen, and everything looks like a busy season in hockey this winter.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. Presidents—S. J. Moore, Chas. Davidson, D. F. Robertson, J. A. Stewart, C. H. Sadoo, Jas. Irwin, Wm. Smith, E. M. Brunelle.

President—W. H. Roe.

1st Vice-Pres.—H. D. Atkinson.

2nd Vice-Pres.—John Shaw.

Sec'y-Treas.—J. A. Waters.

Executive Committee—The managers of each team.

The clubs in the league are requested to organize before next Monday night and have their managers present at the meeting in the Windsor hotel with a complete list of their players. All players not included in said lists will be drawn for the clubs. Every officer is especially requested to be present Monday night at 8 o'clock to draw the rules and constitution of the league.

Each manager is to submit the name of one or two referees.—Campbellford News.

Destructive Fire in Fenelon Falls

Several Stores Destroyed—Narrow Escape For the Business Section

FENELON FALLS, Dec. 10. — The business section of Fenelon Falls narrowly escaped destruction Wednesday night when the fire fiend wiped out four business houses with practically their entire stock. It was a night of suspense and anxiety for the villagers, as it was feared many times that the village would suffer a blow from which it might not recover.

The stores burned were: J. J. Nevi[illegible] harness shop, F. C. Chambers' Creing mill, W. T. Robson's imple[illegible] Fra works, F. C. Taylor's hardware Wel[illegible] Abs[illegible]

Losses Sustained.

[illegible] stocks in the four stores were [illegible]cally a total loss. Mr. F. C. Tha[illegible] is the heaviest loser.

The fire was discovered about 10.30 p.m. in the rear of Taylor's hardware store. It spread with lightning rapidity, and in short space of time the structure (which was frame, with galvanized sheeting) was a fiery furnace. Mr. Taylor nor anyone else was able to enter the building after the fire started.

DELEGATES TO THE ANNUAL MEETING

Mr. Joseph Wearing and Rev. James Rollins Were Present

Mr. Joseph Wearing, M.A., the newly-elected president of the Lord's Day Alliance of Peterborough, and Rev. Jas. Rollins, B.A., B.D., were in Toronto yesterday as delegates to the annual meeting of the Alliance. The meeting was presided over by His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto, and the reports showed that this last year has been the best from every standpoint that the Alliance has had. The question of selling ice cream at restaurants on Sundays raised considerable discussion; the judgment of Mr. Justice Middleton in Rex vs. Wells et al, being the point de resistance. On account of the fact that as yet the law is not clear as to whether selling ice cream on Sundays is a contravention of the Lord's Act or not, the legal committee was authorized to submit a test case to the courts. The same action was taken with regard to the selling gasoline on Sunday. Judge Morson has held that selling gasoline on Sunday is similar to giving a horse a feed of oats, but it was evident that this decision did not meet with the approval of the delegates. One delegate pointed out that a horse was in the unfortunate position of having no tank to carry a supply of oats. It was also decided to bring strong pressure to bear upon the Attorney General to prevent the running of a creamey in Aultsville on Sunday, the only instance in Ontario. A good deal of criticism was levelled in the direction of the honourable gentleman who represents the fountain of justice in this province because of his unmistakable indifference to the observance of Sunday laws.

The meeting closed with the passing of a resolution congratulating Premier [illegible] on his promotion to his high [illegible] and expressing the hope that [illegible]ould co-operate in helping to [illegible]he Lord's Day in repute in the [illegible]ce.

The Clause Is Illegal

Cannot Prevent Contractors From Engaging Foreign Labour

TORONTO, Dec. 11 — Controller Church took up with Works Commissioner Harris a complaint against the employment of foreigners in the laying of water mains. The Commissioner says that the contract complained of was being carried out by a company beyond the control of the city so far as the nationality of their employees was concerned. The Commissioner further states that the City Solicitor reports that the clause which the controllers wanted inserted in city contracts would not hold in law. This provided that the contractors should engage 90 per cent. British labour.

Stock of Flowers For Xmas Trade

The lovers of flowers in Peterborough should have no occasion to complain about a scarcity for holiday supplies. In order to be able to fill requests for flowering plants, ferns and palms, as well as cut flowers for bouquets and decorations, the Peterborough Floral Company are making special efforts for both variety and attractiveness. Some striking blooms are shown. A run through their greenhouses reveals an abundance of Christmas stock, about which Mr. Cabel was particularly elated. Cyclamens are specially well handled here. Extra good plants in seven-inch pots have a splendid show of fresh bloom and flowers. The Floral Co. are to be commended for the rapid change in so short a time since taking over this business. The establishment has a lot of nice clean grown stock, and maintain neat, well-kept houses.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

Louie Schettler May Jump If His Offer Is Accepted

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 10.—Louie Schettler, local baseball pitcher, is likely to cast his fortunes with the Federals next season, if a proposition he made to the Gilmore crowd several days ago is accepted. Last seasn Schettler, as a member of the Peterborough Club in the Canadian League smashed all circuit pitching records when he closed with 28 victories and four defeats after participating in 32 full games. Schettler really took part in 47 contests, essaying the role of relief twirler with howling success. During the entire season he was never once forced from the mound. It was mainly through his work that the Peterborough Club landed in fifth position.

As the Canadian League has asked permission to hold its territorial right and remain inactive next season, on account of the war, the local boy does not care to take a chance on being sold. He had an opportunity to go to Jersey City if he had been free. The Toronto Club is now dickering for his services and may buy him. Schettler claims he has received two propositions from the Feds. He says he cannot name the clubs who were after him, but will be in a position to announce all details if his terms are accepted.

This winter Schettler will reside in this city. He has accepted the management of the Arcade pool room with the agreement that he will be able to leave when the spring training season opens. There is also a chance that he may play next year in Greenville. There is a scheme on there to form another semi-pro team. If the local lad is in from there is no reason why he should not be able to hold a berth in the Gilmore wheel with credit to himself and the club.

Extravagant Sums Have Been Paid For Players

Blackburn Rovers Have Outbid Other Clubs for Players—A New Poster Issued by the Football Association

One loves to see fairplay in football, and to read after the impartial critic. In one of the big London dailies there appears an article which shows how it is possible for a writer to let himself become biased. The point of view is here strikingly illustrated. He says: "It would be remarkable if Blackburn Rovers did not occupy one of the high places in the league, for no club has paid such extravagant sums for players. They are, happily, one of the very few clubs who have been able to win success by outbidding all others in bartering for footballers of high repute. They are welcome to what joy they feel in having built up a team regardless of cost, but I would rather have the Blackburn Rovers I once knew, that included Lofthouse, Townley, Southworth, Barton, and Forrest (all Lancashire players), than that to-day which has been got together by the buying at a cost of many thousands of pounds of men like Shea, of West Ham, Simpson, of Falkirk, and Dawson, of Heart of Midlothian." In the same article we find a reference to the Chelsea team: "Blackburn people say that Chelsea gave the Rovers their hardest game of the season. I shall be surprised if Chelsea fail to do better than in any previous season since they were members of the First League. They have certainly got the talent." Now Chelsea have spent more money on the purchase of ready-made players with big reputations than any club in England, but they happen to play in London, and so not a word must be said about their having "outbid others in bartering for footballers of high repute." Practically every player in their team has been a costly speculation. It would be interesting to know the total cost of the transfer fees they paid for Molyneux, from Stockport County, Sharp, from the Arsenal, Logal and Croad, from Falkirk, Abrace, from Heart of Midlothian, Hales, from Aston Villa, and McNeil, from Hamilton Academicals.

"It is highly probable," writes the London Daily Telegraph's football correspondent, "that the British Football Association, having given it as its considered judgment that inter-country games were out of keeping with the present condition of things, will be severely criticised for their decision to carry on their cup competition.

"To drop one set of fixtures, which in these days is of little account, and carry on the tournament for which they are directly wholly responsible, and which, it is admitted, enjoys tremendous popularity, is inconsistent and calculated to intensify the opposition against professional football.

"One cannot help feeling that the decision of the Football Association to carry on the cup tournament has come about because of the fear of league clubs breaking away and setting up on their own account.

Have Formed Town Hockey League

Plenty of Hockey in Campbellford This Winter

A meeting was held at the Windsor hotel last Monay night when a Town Hockey League was organized. The following clubs were represented, viz.: Trent Valley, Northumberland, Clerks and Firemen, and everything looks like a busy season in hockey this winter.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. Presidents—S. J. Moore, Chas. Davidson, D. F. Robertson, J. A. Stewart, C. H. Sadoo, Jas. Irwin, Wm. Smith, E. M. Brunelle.

President—W. H. Roe.

1st Vice-Pres.—H. D. Atkinson.

2nd Vice-Pres.—John Shaw.

Sec'y-Treas.—J. A. Waters.

Executive Committee—The managers of each team.

The clubs in the league are requested to organize before next Monday night and have their managers present at the meeting in the Windsor hotel with a complete list of their players. All players not included in said lists will be drawn for the clubs. Every officer is especially requested to be present Monday night at 8 o'clock to draw the rules and constitution of the league.

Each manager is to submit the name of one or two referees.—Campbellford News.

MADE RAID ON DOVER.

But Three of German Submarine Flotilla Are Reported Sunk.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Half a dozen German submarines made an attempt at 6.30 o'clock yesterday morning to enter the Admiralty harbor, according to a Dover despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co., and for half an hour the batteries kept up a furious fusillade, firing at least 200 shots. It is reported that two or three of the submarines were sunk, but no confirmation of this can be obtained.

The attempt was made under cover of early morning darkness and during a heavy rainstorm. The first alarm, says the despatch, was given by the firing of the naval gun, and soon all the batteries were in action.

The Admiralty, to whom this despatch was submitted, said that it had not received confirmation of the reported attack.

According to a bulletin of The Daily Telegraph the submarines were first sighted off Dover harbor at 4.40 Thursday morning. One shot was fired by the harbor gun, and the submarine disappeared. A second attempt was made at 6.30. Several submarines attempted to enter the harbor at the eastern entrance. Several warships are in the harbor, and were undoubtedly the object of the attack. The effect of the firing by the batteries was watched by numbers of people who hurried to the seafront. Powerful searchlights were sweeping the sea from the piers and breakwaters.

MAN SANG GERMAN SONG.

Supt. Ryckmann, of Niagara, Explains Detention as Witness.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 11.—It was explained here yesterday afternoon that Supt. Ryckmann, of the Dominion Chain Co. factory, was not arrested, but is merely detained by the military authorities as a witness in regard to an alleged offence of one of the workmen.

As told here, the men of the factory have been working overtime on military contracts, and celebrated with a dinner at which each one had to contribute to the program. One sang a pro-German song and offended a Canadian. As a result of a mix-up a charge was laid against the singer and is to be investigated.

Ryckmann is of American parentage and is himself an American.

B. C. Hindus Offer To Recruit Corps From Their Countrymen.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 11. — Beta Singh, Baba Singh, Dr. Raganath Singh and other Hindus have telegraphed the Minister of Militia, offering to raise a company of Hindus in British Columbia. Dr. Raganath Singh is an ex-warrant officer and Beta and Baba Singh have served in the Indian army. Bala Singh, another of the Hindus, was for five years a signal man and was with the British forces at the time of the last Boxer rebellion.

Christmas Dinner For Troops.

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—The Government has decided to provide a Christmas dinner for every man on active service in Canada. This will include the men of the second contingent, and also those who are being recruited for future contingents and reinforcements. There are now over 30,000 men on active service, besides the 8,000 on guard duty, so that the Government will have at least 40,000 Christmas dinners to provide.

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING LEAGUE.

The C.G.E. Shop team took two games from the Belmont Club, last night by the following score, Cottrell of the Shop team breaking the league record for a single game by rolling 224 for his first game:

The game for Friday, between the Engineers and Examiner teams is postponed until Monday night, Dec. 14th, owing to the absence from the City of one of the Examiner team.

TO ANNEX EGYPT.

Declaration of Unification Is Expected —Soudan Chiefs Loyal.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—It is learned on very high authority that the British Government is about to declare the unification of Egypt—in other words, annexation.

Egypt is nominally a part of the Turkish Empire, but with an hereditary monarch, the Khedive. The affairs of the country, however, have long been administered by British officials, who occupy all the more important positions in the Government.

A number of leading Soudanese Chiefs have declared that their tribes are in complete unification with Britain, and will aid in the defence of Egypt.

The Higher Schools Club has been suppressed here. It was founded some years ago for the social use of students of the higher Government schools, and has always been a cause of complaint owing to the political uses to which it has been put.

Enemy Shy of Copper.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—According to a telegram from Maastricht, Holland, says The Daily Mail's Rotterdam correspondent, the Germans are confiscating telephone wire and all copper articles of domestic use in Belgium.

This bears out the report in The Paris Temps that a German document has been found in a village in the Department of the Aisne recommending that economy be observed in the use of projectiles for artillery. The reason for this recommendation, it is said, is that the German ammunition factories, even when working at full force, are unable to supply indefinite amounts of ammunition for the army.

Przemysl Deserted By Citizens.

LEMBERG, Dec. 11. — Prisoners who were taken in a sortie made by the garrison of the Austrian fortress of Przemysl were brought here Tuesday. They declare all the inhabitants of Przemysl have deserted the city and it is fast becoming uninhabitable.

Food stores have become exhausted, they says, and few cattle are left.

Death of Joseph Smith.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Dec. 11.—Joseph Smith, president of the reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, died at his home here yesterday. At his bedside was his son, Frederick M. Smith, who will succeed him as president of the church, and other members of his family called from various parts of the United States.

REBELLION AT AN END

But German Southwest Africa is Still a Menace, Says Botha

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Gen. Louis Botha, Premier and commander of the defence forces of the Union of South Africa, announces that the rebellion is practically at an end. Since the capture on Dec. 4 of 500 rebels and the surrender of 200 others, five additional rebel leaders and their commandos have unconditionally laid down their arms. Only one rebel leader is at large—Col. Maritz.

Gen. Botha, in making the announcement, warns the people against harboring any vengeful feeling and concludes:

"Maritz and Kemp, who were corrupted while officers of the Union Defence Force, have succeeded in escaping to German Southwest Africa, and from there, equipped with fresh arms and artillery by their German allies, will seek to invade the Union. Our next duty is to deal with this danger and to make it impossible for German Southwest Africa to again be used as the source for a base from which to threaten the peace and liberty of the Union.

"I hope and trust that the people will deal with this danger as energetically as they dealt with the internal rebellion."

A despatch from Pretoria says:—"The body of Gen. Christian Beyers, the rebel leader, who was drowned recently while attempting to escape across the Vaal river from Government troops has been found at Vlige Kraal, not far from the spot where Gen. Beyers was seen to sink."

The official announcement says that there is no doubt with regard to the identification.

IN MONTH rd of Trade show that British imports and exports for November fell off $62,500,000 and $100,000,000 respectively. The feature of both was the fall in cotton, which shows $15,000,000 lower imports and $23,000,000 decrease in the export of manufactured goods.

The imports of food showed an increase of $9,000,000. There was a decrease in the importation of cotton from America to the amount of $32,000,000 and a decrease in the Egyptian product of $10,000,000. All other raw materials also declined. There was a shrinkage of $10,000,00 in the export of coal.

what the German papers gave out. As you know, almost every man and woman in Holland can speak and read German, and because of this fact very many German papers have had large sales in Amsterdam, The Hague, Rotterdam, Utrecht, Arnheim, etc. Perhaps because of this we depended more on the German news, though since the tide of victory has turned to the side of the Allies, or at least the German advance has been checked, we have learned also not to depend on the German news.

Up to the time when the Belgians were driven across our border and the refugees began to arrive I believe there was a great deal of German sympathy in our country; but since. Alas! with all the stories these Belgians tell us we have no longer any love for Deutschland. Maybe we are afraid we will be invaded next and our homes and country devastated.

At the present time our import and export business goes on as much as the international laws of neutrality permit. But is it not strange that, for instance, the importation of English coal has been stopped, while we receive almost daily coal from Germany?

Our army is very active, and amounts to about 400,000 men. It costs our government $400,000 a day to feed and care for. Almost all our forces are stationed in the southern provinces of Noord Brabant, Limburg and Zeeland. Our fortifications are in the very best condition—our soldiers have been working day and night on them. A great many houses near the forts along the Dutch water line were destroyed in order to provide a good firing line.

In business, we have heard little of a moratorium. Though several of the bankers asked for it, the government refused. Trains are running regu-

The Germans give our statements about their industries which we doubt here. A friend of mine came back from Essen (Krupp works) a few days ago, and he tells me that this is the only place of importance where regular work is going on. The Berlin Chamber of Commerce gives out favourable reports on the cost of living, but we know it goes up steadily. A few days ago a friend from Germany told he has paid 10 cents for a hot roll. Before the war he said he would have got 24 for 10 cents. This, of course, is not a fair general comparison.

We feel here that our German neighbours were absolutely ready for war; they were only waiting for some trouble to give them a chance to start. Also we believed that the English troops did not give the assistance the Belgians wanted at the investment of Antwerp. We in Holland now realize that the English might have invaded our River Scheldt by sending in torpedo boats, etc., and since they did not do this, our papers are strong in praise of the English for preserving our neutrality. I can state also that you should not believe all you read about mines floating about the North Sea. The pilots out of Rotterdam laugh at these stories.

Because of the break in business relations between many Dutch and German firms our relations in business with the United States will undoubtedly be much stronger after the war. The Germans are suffering a business loss that they cannot discuss, because of the excitement that might be stirred up in Germany. Already people there are beginning to feel that, except for the destruction of Belgium, they have not gained anything.

Suppressing the Evidence.

"I honestly b'lieve," remarked Aunt Sarah Jane, "them Oldhams is gittin to be regular agnostics. They

German Chancellor what England rendered her neutrality to England before the present war began. Here is the statement:

"The Belgian Minister, whose country in the hour of her great affliction has received such precious help from the American people, begs that the following statement may be made known to them:

"In a recent speech made by the German Chancellor to the representatives of the German people he lays the blame for the invasion of Belgium with all its terrible consequences, on Belgium herself, and as a proof of this astonishing accusation he claims that documents have been found in Brussels establishing that Belgium had surrendered her neutrality to England.

"The Belgian Government has requested that these alleged documents should be published in full, thus proving the falsity of such a charge. Three months have elapsed since this alleged discovery, but nothing has appeared.

"In case these documents are published it will be seen that they do not constitute an agreement between Belgium and England against Germany, as the German chancelor claims them to be. They are possibly a military plan drawn between the British Military Attache and the Belgian staff to be effective in case Germany should violate Belgian neutrality which she effectively did in August last.

"It would indeed be humorous should the matter not be too serious for such a term, that the German Government should call a breach of neutrality this alleged plan which, if it existed, had for its object to fortify Belgium's neutrality against a posible aggressor. Events have shown too clowely, alas! how such a precaution against Germany's projects would have been timely.

"It seems nearly incredible that Germany, having shown to all the world what contempt she has for her solemn engagements, blames to-day the country which she has invaded in spite of her pledged word, for having centre table in the best room no more."

ity. Having violated Belgian neutrality, she accuses Belgium of breach of neutrality because Belgium tried to take all possible measures to prevent such an attack.

"The mind ponders over the fate of Louvain, the ashes of Termonde, Aerschot, Dinant, Malines and many towns wantonly destroyed, the bodies of men slain by thousands while protecting their homes, their wives and children against brutal aggression, which no explanation, however elaborate, can justify. The martyrs may sleep peacefully in their everlasting sleep; the Imperial Chancellor has promised that the people of Germany has committed against them she will make good after the military goal has been reached.

"Happily for Belgium and the world, a Power exists which is above Germny, her ideas of justice and her culture. It is called the justice of God; it is to this judge that the Belgian nation appeals."

A New Fudge for Xmas

Candy lovers will welcome this delicious and easily made confection and economical recipe for this Chocolate Fudge. Mix two cups of granulated sugar, and two tablespoons of Fry Chocolate Icing Powder. Stir in one cup of milk, add one level tablespoonful of butter and boil very slowly from twenty minutes to a half-hour—until it forms a ball when dropped into cold water. At this stage a few chopped nuts make a delicious addition. Remove from fire, add a teaspoonful of Vanilla extract, beat until stiff, pour into a buttered pan and when cool cut into squares.

To rejuvenate its wooden poles with concrete a St. Louis street railway has mounted a concrete mixer on a car and conveys the liquid concrete through a spout to where it is needed.

TIRED-OUT KIDNEYS
Kidney troubles are so frightfully common because the kidneys are upset by overwork or excesses in eating and drinking. Cure is effected by whipping them on to renewed activity by awakening the action of the liver by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This rouses the kidneys and makes them well. Backache and other kidney disorders then disappear.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Pammett, 272 Euclid Ave., wish to express their deep gratitude to the many friends who have been so kind during their recent bereavement, and especially to Mr. Kemp, Mr. Albert Curtis and Messrs. S. and H. Edwards for saving their little girl and their heroic efforts to save the boy. A slight error occurred in the ages of the children in Saturday's report of the accident. The boy was 12 years old and the girl was 11 years old.

SALE OF HOME-MADE BREAD.
The Kitchener Red Cross Club is holding a sale of home-made bread, buns and cake on the market to-morrow morning. This will be good news to the many former patrons who have enjoyed these delicious home-made articles. A week from Saturday the club intends having a sale of home made candy, further mention of which will be made later. Misses Garrow, G. Davidson and Jubb will be in charge of the table on Saturday.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Tea and refreshments are being served by Mrs. H. O. Fiske this afternoon at her residence, 204 McDonnel Street, to be continued this evening. Silver collection is being taken, and the proceeds are in aid of the Queen's Canadian Military Hospital, Shornliffe, England. There will be good music.

Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Fraser of Hamilton (formerly Miss P. McTuckett), were married on Wednesday, Dec. 2, 1914, and came to Burleigh Falls to spend their honeymoon. They have bought an island on Stoney Lake, on which they intend to build a cottage in the spring. Burleigh Falls must have been quite an attraction for newly-weds. There has been a number of them stopping at the Park Hotel since the closing of the season.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN CONDON
The death occurred this morning at 3 o'clock of Mrs. John Condon, 273 William Street, after an illness of six weeks. The late Mrs. Condon, whose maiden name was Ellen Hanrahan, has resided in this City for the past twenty-two years. During that time she has made many friends, who will deeply regret her death. She was very well-known and highly respected here.

She is survived by her mother, two sons, James and Edward, both of this City, and one daughter, Gertrude, of Peterborough. Three brothers, John, Timothy and Michael, of this City, as well as three sisters, Mary and Bridgett, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Hitsky, of Rochester, also survive.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

MRS. JOHN PEARSON.
The death occurred this morning at five o'clock of Mrs. John Pearson, at her home 310 Pearl avenue, after an illness of several months. The late Mrs. Pearson was 72 years of age, and was well-known in this city, where she had resided for a number of years. Her death will be sincerely mourned by a large number of friends. Deceased was born in the Township of Smith, but has lived in this city for seven years.

She is survived by three sons, Robert and Frederick, of Edmonton, and Thomas, of Michigan, as well as four daughters, Mrs. J. H. Vallory, City; Mrs. Wm. Westlake, City; Mrs. Harry Peters, Hastings, and Carrie at home. One brother, Mr. Laughlin, of Smith, also survives. Mrs. Pearson's maiden name was Isabella Laughlin.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock to Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

Get Sixpence Weekly.
LONDON, Dec. 11. — Nobody can say the administrators of the Empress of Ireland relief fund are reckless in distributing the money. A Liverpool County Court judge has been informed that since the compensation claims have been adjusted some widows have been receiving as little as sixpence weekly from the public relief fund. Therefore, it was necessary to ask permission for some to draw larger sums from the compensation amount. His honor, in granting the application, said something ought to be done to let the public know that widows were getting practically no benefit from the relief funds.

Only Three Lives Lost.
CAYUGA, Ont., Dec. 11.—The report in circulation that there was more than three victims of the Grand Trunk wreck east of here early yesterday morning, is incorrect. All the bodies have been removed from beneath the wreckage all badly burned and unrecognizable.

Smyrna Bombarded.
ROME, Dec. 11.—The allied fleet has bombarded the forts at Smyrna and destroyed several of them.

Smyrna is in Asia Minor, on the west coast, and is the principal seaport. The population exceeds 200,000. The Turks have held it since 1424.

To Prohibit Export.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. — Food, clothing, or any commodity which would in the slightest degree serve to prolong the European war, as well as contraband, will be barred from export by a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Works.

Direct prohibition of export would include "food, clothing, supplies, arms, ammunition, horses, or war supplies of any kind, whether the same be contraband of war or not."

Serene Payne Dead.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Representative Serene E. Payne, of New York, died suddenly of heart failure here last night.

A REPLY.

A fig for the man who talks of peace,
The man who will not grow old;
The world cares not for the man who runs,
Thinks more of the man who is bold;
For the fighting instinct that made this world great
Will surely never grow old.

It is true that now the mother weeps
And the sweetheart cries in vain,
The wife cares not to live in this world,
While her heart almost bursts with pain;
But a few years hence when it all wears off
They will mention no hero in vain.

What make this the land o fliberty,
The home of the free and the brave?
What brought the "wacht" to the German Rhine,
And the Britons to rule the wave?
It was not the spirit that runs from the fight,
But the vim that a country will save.

For the instinct to do and to forge ahead
Is born in every man;
The wish to be great in science and war
Comes to every land and clan;
And those who stop while the rest move on
Feel the weight of the awful ban.

BELGIAN ENVOY RIDICULES GERMAN NEUTRALITY PLEA

Calls on Imperial Chancellor to Publish Documents Alleged to Have Been Taken in Brussels and Says His Nation Sought Only Defence

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—The Belgian Legation to-day gave a statement ridiculing the assertion of the German Chancellor that Belgium surrendered her neutrality to England before the present war began. Here is the statement:

"The Belgian Minister, whose country in the hour of her great affliction has received such precious help from the American people, begs that the following statement may be made known to them:

"In a recent speech made by the German Chancellor to the representatives of the German people he lays the blame for the invasion of Belgium with all its terrible consequences, on Belgium herself, and as a proof of this astonishing accusation he claims that documents have been found in Brussels establishing that Belgium had surrendered her neutrality to England.

"The Belgian Government has requested that these alleged documents should be published in full, thus proving the falsity of such a charge. Three months have elapsed since this alleged discovery, but nothing has appeared.

"In case these documents are published it will be seen that they do not constitute an agreement between Belgium and England against Germany, as the German chancelor claims them to be. They are possibly a military plan drawn between the British Military Attache and the Belgian staff to be effective in case Germany should violate Belgian neutrality which she effectively did in August last.

"It would indeed be humorous should the matter not be too serious for such a term, that the German Government should call a breach of neutrality this alleged plan which, if it existed, had for its object to fortify Belgium's neutrality against a possible aggressor. Events have shown too closely, alas! how such a precaution against Germany's projects would have been timely.

"It seems nearly incredible that Germany, having shown to all the world what contempt she has for her solemn engagements, blames to-day the country which she has invaded in spite of her pledged word, for having attempted to take alleged dispositions in view of preventing such an unwarranted attack. This is a new proof of Germany's faith and sincerity. Having violated Belgium's neutrality, she accuses Belgium of a breach of neutrality because Belgium tried to take all possible measures to prevent such an attack.

"The mind ponders over the ruins of Louvain, the ashes of Termonde, Aerschot, Dinant, Malines and of so many towns wantonly destroyed; over the bodies of men slain by thousands while protecting their homes, their wives and children against brutal aggression, which no explanation, however elaborate, can justify. These martyrs may sleep peacefully their everlasting sleep; the Imperial Chancellor has promised that the wrong Germany has committed against them she will make good after her military goal has been reached.

"Happily for Belgium and the world, a Power exists which is still above Germny, her ideas of justice and her culture. It is called the justice of God; it is to this judgment that the Belgian nation appeals."

A New Fudge for Xmas

Candy lovers will welcome a new and economical recipe for this delicious and easily made confection — Chocolate Fudge. Mix two cups of granulated sugar, and two tablespoons of Fry Chocolate Icing Powder. Stir in one cup of milk, add one level tablespoonful of butter and boil very slowly from twenty minutes to a half-hour —until it forms a ball when dropped into cold water. At this stage a few chopped nuts make a delicious additiol. Remove from fire, add a teaspoonful of Vanilla extract, beat until stiff, pour into a buttered pan and when cool cut into squares.

300 Obsolete Methodist Hymns

Some That Are Too Dogmatic Will Be Omitted

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—Final action on the new Methodist hymnal is being taken by the Hymn and Tune Book Committee which opened a three days' meeting at the Sherbourn Street Church, Tuesday. Rev. S. P. Rose, D.D., of Montreal, is chairman. Representatives were present from the various conferences throughout the Dominion.

The Committee has been at work for seevral years and at one time it was thought that the work of the Methodist Committee and that of the Presbyterians could be utilized for a hymnal which would answer for the united Church. The delay in the organic union of the negotiating churches has resulted in the decision of the Methodists and Presbyterians to publish new hymnals for their respective denominations during the coming year.

Many Will be Omitted.

A big feature of the new Methodist hymnal will be the elimination of almost three hundred obsolete hymns which gave too much prominence to dogmatic theology. A big cut is made in the selections from Rev. Charles Wesley's hymns which were originally published through devotion to the name of Wesley.

In discarding a number of the Charles Wesley hymns the Committee took the ground that they were not up to the requisite standard as verse.

The revised hymnal will contain a number of new hymns the words of which are being withheld from publication until they have been copyrighted by the committee.

Soon to be Published.

The general committee now in session will give final instruction to the executive which will, under special authority given them by the recent general conference, have the new hymnal printed and published as early in the new year as possible.

TIRED-OUT KIDNEYS

Kidney troubles are so frightfully common because the kidneys are so easily upset by overwork or excesses of eating and drinking. Cure is effected not by whipping them on to renewed effort, but by awakening the action of liver and bowels by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This puts the kidneys and makes them well. Backache and urinary disorders then disappear.

GIVES DINNERS AT TWO CENTS EACH

LONDON, Dec. 11.—A piping hot dinner, consisting of roast mutton and two vegetables, for only two cents! This astonishing result has been arrived at by Lady Muriel Paget with her invalid kitchens established for the poor of London and now proving a great blessing for the distressed in the midst of the war.

A correspondent inspected the kitchen to-day and saw dinners served to hundreds that were quite equal to the midday meals served at the leading eating houses. The invalid kitchens are under the patronage of Queen Mary, who considers that Lady Paget has hit upon a most practical charity by thus providing nourishing food to the poor and suffering or those just recovering from an illness.

BRITISH TRADE FALLS $162,500,000 IN MONTH

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Board of Trade returns issued yesterday show that British imports and exports for November fell off $62,500,000 and $100,000,000 respectively. The feature of both was the fall in cotton, which shows $45,000,000 lower imports and $23,000,000 decrease in the export of manufactured goods.

The imports of food showed an increase of $2,000,000. There was a decrease in the importation of cotton from America to the amount of $32,500,000 and a decrease in the Egyptian product of $10,000,000. All other raw materials also declined. There was a shrinkage of $10,000,00 in the export of coal.

A LETTER FROM HOLLAND

A Dutch Father to His Son

(Note.—This letter is translated by the son, a captain of an American steamer, who omits only personal references. It gives much information on the war not available from other sources.)

Utrecht, Oct. 28., 1914.

Dear Johann—I know you want to have such news as I can give you, yet we scarcely know what will be news to you. In the early part of the war we learned to know that the French, English and Belgian papers were not reliable, as compared to what the German papers gave out. As you know, almost every man and woman in Holland can speak and read German, and because of this fact very many German papers have had large sales in Amsterdam, The Hague, Rotterdam, Utrecht, Arnheim, etc. Perhaps because of this we depended more on the German news, though since the tide of victory has turned to the side of the Allies, or at least the German advance has been checked, we have learned also not to depend on the German news.

Up to the time when the Belgians were driven across our border and the refugees began to arrive I believe there was a great deal of German sympathy in our country; but since, alas! with all the stories these Belgians tell us we have no longer any love for Deutschland. Maybe we are afraid we will be invaded next and our homes and country devastated.

At the present time our import and export business goes on as much as the international laws of neutrality permit. But is it not strange that, for instance, the importation of English coal has been stopped, while we receive almost daily coal from Germany?

Our army is very active, and amounts to about 400,000 men. It costs our government $400,000 a day to feed and care for. Almost all our forces are stationed in the southern provinces of Noord Brabant, Limburg and Zeeland. Our fortifications are in the very best condition—our soldiers have been working day and night on them. A great many houses near the forts along the Dutch water line were destroyed in order to provide a good firing line.

In business, we have heard little of a moratorium. Though several of the bankers asked for it, the government refused. Trains are running regularly again, with occasional delays. The day before yesterday I passed Maarsen, on the way to Amsterdam, and I noted there over 300 locomotives. These are left ready for moving troops, if necessary. The Queen is working night and day. Our government has ordered several shiploads of wheat to use in feeding the thousands, better says hundreds of thousands, of refugees that are coming to Holland. The internment of soldiers and officers all around goes on daily. Mother has two officers interned and also supplies food for five men of our regiment at Utrecht.

The Germans give our statements about their industries which we doubt here. A friend of mine came back from Essen (Krupp works) a few days ago, and he tells me that this is the only place of importance where regular work is going on. The Berlin Chamber of Commerce gives out favourable reports on the cost of living, but we know it goes up steadily. A few days ago a friend from Germany told he has paid 10 cents for a hot roll. Before the war he said he would have got 24 for 10 cents. This, of course, is not a fair general comparison.

We feel here that our German neighbours were absolutely ready for war; they were only waiting for some trouble to give them a chance to start. Also we believed that the English troops did not give the assistance the Belgians wanted at the investment of Antwerp. We in Holland now realize that the English might have invaded our River Scheldt by sending in torpedo boats, etc., and since they did not do this, our papers are strong in praise of the English for preserving our neutrality. I can state also that you should not believe all you read about mines floating about the North Sea. The pilots out of Rotterdam laugh at these stories.

Because of the break in business relations between many Dutch and German firms our relations in business with the United States will undoubtedly be much stronger after the war. The Germans are suffering a business loss that they cannot discuss, because of the excitement that might be stirred up in Germany. Already people there are beginning to feel that, except for the destruction of Belgium, they have not gained anything.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT HAS PLENTY OF AUTOMOBILES FOR USE IN WAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — With the shipments of American motor trucks which she is receiving, and with the large daily output of her own factories, France now has plenty of motor vehicles for the use of her army, states G. B. Warner, personal representative of Louis Renault, the French automobile manufacturer.

Mr. Warner has been in New York City for two weeks purchasing machinery and other supplies for the French government and arranging with Norris N. Mason, the Renault general sales manager in America for the extension of the company's business in this country. Mr. Warner is vice-president and general manager of the Renault selling branch, at No. 719 Fifth Avenue, where Mr. Mason has his headquarters.

So satisfied are the French authorities with their supply of automobiles that they have permitted Mr. Warner to bring with him to New York city ten Renault cars for the Fifth Avenue salesroom. More of the cars will be shipped here as they are needed, by special permission of the French government.

Mr. Warner states that his company will be able to take care of its export business in spite of the fact that the factory at Billancourt is daily turning out ten touring cars, five motor trucks, five aviation motors, 5,000 75-mm. shells and 40,000 aeroplane arrows for the army. These aeroplane arrows are made of steel and are packed 500 in a box, says Mr. Warner. When an aviator flies over the enemy he releases the cover of the box and the arrows fall in a shower to the earth. After falling 1,500 feet one of these arrows will pass through a horse and bury itself in the ground, says Mr. Wagner.

Renault automobiles are well distributed along the lines of battle. As soon as war was declared Mr. Renault presented to the French Government ten motor ambulances, ten high powered touring cars, twenty small touring cars and ten aviation motors. On the day following this gift to the government the army officials placed 1,500 men in the Renault factory to prepare for service the automobiles stored there. In twenty-four hours these men had taken six hundred automobiles, for which the company received the government's receipt at full catalogue prices.

ACCURATE DESCRIPTION.

Lord Lovat, the head of the famous Lovat Scouts, tells a good story in regard to a very much-ruffled private who was under arrest for some offence. Lord Lovat inquired of the Sergeant as to what his offence was.

"He's a very troublesome fellow, sir," the Sergeant replied. "Got too much lip, goes out without leave, comes back when he likes, and gets drunk when he likes—just as if he was an officer."—N. Y. American.

There's a strange new wonder whisper in the night wind,
There's a song of laughter on the lip of morn:
Oh, can you hear him winging, he who sets the earth a singing,
Who holds the wonder of the world in his pale arms, new born?
Sing low, sing low, oh you who feel his presence,
For great and good and glorious is he;
He kills the awesome dawning of the only winter morning
When sin and hate and sorrow are lost in charity.
He can make the sinner saintly for a moment,
He can make the sorest splendors for a day.
Then while yet his spell is o'er us, he will march along before us
Right out into the silence of the shadows on away.
Oh Cynics, rule from Christmas unto Christmas,
But then give place to better men and wise,
Though you preach your sorry story, still we know that life is glory,
For I think we see the real world through the Christmas spirit eyes.

HERO OF NAVAL FIGHT FRIEND OF THE KING

Sir David Beatty, Though Young, Has Seen Much Service and Justified Rapid Advancement

To Rear-Admiral Sir David Beatty fell the honor of commanding the section of the British fleet which won the first naval engagement of the war in the Bight of Heligoland, when three German cruisers and two torpedo-boat destroyers were sunk, and a number of German torpedo-boats badly damaged.

Sir David was made a Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath only a few months before the outbreak of the war. The distinction came just in time to enable Sir David and Lady Beatty to air it in St. Petersburg, in connection with the official visit to Russian waters of the first cruiser squadron. Their particularly gracious reception by the Czar and Czarina was due to the very warm regard in which they are held by Queen Alexandra, by King George, and by his consort.

Indeed, the personal friendship of the two queens for Lady Beatty is such that they have been only too willing to waive in her case the obstacles that stand in the way of admission of divorcees at court, for Lady Beatty, who is the only daughter of the late Marshall Field, of Chicago, divorced her first husband, Arthur Tree.

Had Royal Neighbors

The Beattys were fortunate enough to lease for several autumns in succession one or the other of the castles within driving distance of Balmoral, and as Beatty was an old naval chum and comrade of George V., Queen Mary, then Princess of Wales, while staying at Abergeldie Castle, and Queen Alexandra at Balmoral, were induced to establish neighborly relations with Lady Beatty.

These relations were further cemented by the intimacy which soon developed between the Beatty children and those of the then Prince and Princess of Wales. King Edward, too, took a great fancy to the Beattys, and appointed David Beatty to his suite, as one of his naval aides-de-camp.

It is only fair to Sir David to add that he owes his rapid promotion and his advancement to the rank of rear-admiral, at the wonderfully early age of 37, to distinguished war service, rather than to royal favor. He was employed in Egypt for several years under Lord Kitchener, and when Admiral Sir Colin Keppel was wounded took command of the gunboat flotilla on the Nile, fighting the enemy with great persistence and courage, and winning the distinguished service order. His promotion to the rank of commander came to him two years later as a reward for his gallantry in the battles of Atbara and Omdurman in 1869.

Was Twice Wounded

The Boxer troubles, and the siege of the foreign legations at Pekin, found him serving as commander on the battleship Barfleur, in the China seas. And so great were the pluck and resourcefulness which he displayed, particularly in connection with the capture of a couple of Chinese batteries at the head of a small force of bluejackets, during which he was twice wounded, that he was promoted to the rank of captain, although but 29 years of age at the time.

He stands particularly well at the Admiralty, which regards him as one of its most capable staff officers.

One thing which commends him to the authorities at Whitehall, and more especially to King George, is his reticence and disinclination to eloquence and chatter. He is the soul of discretion.

The Loyalty of Canada

There is nothing perfunctory in Canada's manifestation of loyalty to the British fatherland. The British Canadians have a lively sense of their privileges and duties as citizens of the British Empire, and the large measure of self-government which they enjoy intensifies rather than weakens the sentimental attachment.

The first Canadian army had scarcely left Quebec when the Government announced its intention of raising another army.

An interesting feature of the Canadian military activity is the complete harmony which prevails. The French and British elements, usually somewhat discordant, are vying in their demonstrations of patriotism. The two fatherlands are struggling for the same cause, and the old rancor, which has sometimes been thinly disguised, seems to be lost.

The war may, in this manner, be of indirect benefit to Canada. If it makes the Canadians a definitely united people the sacrifices of the Canadian soldiers will not have been wholly in vain, no matter how the war may result.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MR. E. W. BEATTY, General Counsel of the C.P.R. has been appointed Vice-President, according to a circular issued by the President, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.

Mr. Beatty was born in Thorold, Ont., and removed with his parents to Toronto when he was ten years old. His father was the late Henry Beatty, one of the best known steamship men in Canada. Mr. Beatty graduated from the Toronto University and studied law with the well known McCarthy firm of Toronto. Mr. A. R. Creelman, who was his predecessor as General Counsel of the C.P.R. was a member. Mr. Beatty came to the C.P.R. with Mr. Creelman in 1901 as one of his assistants. His promotion will be learned with great pleasure by a large circle of warm friends. He, of course, retains his position as Chief Counsel of the C.P.R.

The express wagon is backed to the grocery store entrance and the driver, assisted by the grocer's boy, begins to unload Christmas trees. Soon the walk is cluttered with them and the passersby, catching the spirit of the tree, smile at the children gathering 'round. A light snow is falling and the green of the spruce is inviting, to say nothing of the reason it has come to town.

What a lot of Christmas trees the grocer has ordered—and yet how few compared to the many thousands that grow in Christmas Tree Land, away up north. Up there the woods are full of Christmas trees and the snows are so deep that snowshoes may be necessary. And in Christmas Tree Land there are vast stretches of nothing but evergreen trees and white snow—and in the snow, if you are versed in woodcraft, you might find the track of a deer and innumerable trails of Brer Rabbit, leading away through the greenery to the quiet, vast places.

Probably you pay $1 or more for a Christmas tree. Up north they are free, but the hardy men who gather them must wade in the deep snow and draw them many miles to the railroad that they may be shipped to the little boys and girls of the city.

And as you sit beside your tree with your heart glad and your spirits gay, you might ponder on how that tree got to you. You can picture the vast snow field and the forest with the December sun shining on it, shedding jewels of light. A squirrel is floundering about in the snow trying to locate some buried nuts and a bluejay is scolding saucily from a maple tree hard by. And then, into the quiet comes a man. He is a sturdy man with a woolen cap drawn closely over his ears and nose. There are slits for his eyes. On his feet are great woolen packs with rubber shoes and his trousers are tucked inside the packs. His coat is very odd, to you, consisting of a great, bright sweater sort of garment, buckled closely around him. On his shoulder he carries an ax. He begins to cut Christmas trees and the one you have in your home is a very pretty one that pleases him as he hauls it away to where his team awaits. With many other trees your tree is put on the sled and after a time, is hauled to the depot where it is shipped to your grocer.

The man who cut it was no doubt a lumberjack and if he is like his kind, he lives in a log cabin with his wife and children. In the olden days he worked in the timber exclusively, but now he farms during the summer on a wee farm that he is clearing of stumps, and in the winter time he cuts wood for the lumber companies.

And his little ones always have a Christmas tree, for Christmas trees are free where he lives, but probably it is not as plentifully loaded with gifts as yours, for which you should be very thankful.

Bavarians and Prussians

How much the Bavarians love the Prussians was brought home to the Kaiser when, in the course of an address to naval recruits at Kiel, he urged them to fight valiantly against foes within the Fatherland as well as those outside its borders. At the conclusion of his speech he proceeded to interview some of the recruits, the first thus honored being a stolid peasant from a remote part of Bavaria. "Who are our chief foreign foes?" he was asked. "The Russians and the French, your majesty." "And who are the enemies within the empire?" proceeded Wilhelm, expecting, of course, to be told they were the Socialists. "The Prussians, your majesty." When the storm of rage with which this reply filled the emperor's bosom had subsided he found that it had been given in perfect innocence and good faith.

CHRISTMAS FOR TWO

By AGNES HOWARD BUTLER.

MALL Thomas Moore was born an orphan. So far as he was concerned, his brief history began and ended at the children's home. His big sister Lily, who was six and therefore should have known better, told vague tales of a real Mother and a little house in the country where they had cocoa every day for breakfast. This last condemned the whole story. At the Asylum one had cocoa only on Sunday, and this festive event redeemed a day otherwise devoted to religious exercises.

The two children sat on the edge of their chairs in the bleak asylum parlor, where three holly wreaths in the curtainless windows proclaimed that it was Christmas. Both were dressed in the institutional blue and white check, and there was a red shininguess about their faces which told of the recent and vigorous application of soap and water. Lily was cream and roses with appealing long-lashed eyes that would have secured her a home many times over if she had been willing to go alone. No one wants to adopt a boy. Even the blonde ones were unclaimed, so what chances had Thomas, brown as to hair and eyes and skin, although anything but somber in effect? The overworked Matron had reluctantly given up the idea of "placing" the two children together. A desirable home had been found for the girl with two prim maiden ladies and little brother had to remain behind. So the tiny folks were to spend their last Christmas together with Lily's new guardians.

"Sister will come every Saturday to see Brother," said the little girl, who accepted the coming separation with a child's strange fatality, although her heart was aching.

"Yes," assented Brother noncommittally. He was less concerned with future happiness than with the pleasing prospect of a day in new surroundings.

A carriage drawn by a fat slug of a horse drew up to the curbing, two ladies got out and cautiously ascended the slippery steps.

"Miss-Priscilla-red-headed and Miss-Mattie-pull-her-hair-back," announced Thomas, who had his own way of characterizing people.

"Tommy! Tommy! Don't call them that," wailed Lily; "say Miss Priscilla and Miss Mattie or maybe they won't want me."

At this awful thought even Thomas was abashed, so it was the shy little Lily alone who slipped from her chair and offered her hand to the two ladies as they entered the room followed by the Matron. Miss Priscilla shook hands in a matter of fact way, but Miss Mattie bent to kiss the children as she helped them on with their wraps and gathered up the meager parcel that contained Lily's personal belongings.

"Shall we go now, Sister?" she ventured. The dominant chord of her existence had always tinkled a soft accompaniment to the leitmotif of the decisive Miss Pris.

"Yes," assented the latter positively, "and we will return the boy precisely at five," she added to the Matron, who had been hovering over Lily with good-byes and admonitions.

The coachman carried both children down the icy steps and they bore themselves with becoming modesty, as if accustomed to such care, while the orphans in the front ward watched enviously, and one of them opened the window wide enough to call down:

"Aw, Tommy's coming back anyhow," as a salve to their slighted condition.

When the big house was reached there was a delightful holiday smell in the air of evergreens, oranges and freshly burning driftwood. Lily was taken upstairs to come down later, her blonde beauty radiant in the white lawn and blue ribbons in which Miss Mattie had dressed her. With a child's adaptability she seemed to fit in perfectly with her surroundings in contrast to Thomas in his coarse blue gingham and heavy shoes. She would bring the spirit of youth to a house, long accustomed to the decorous ways of sober middle age. A black and white Japanese spaniel, with a nose so short that he seemed always on the point of a sneeze, jumped up beside her and laid his head affectionately on her arm.

"What a picture," sighed Miss Mattie.

"Don't spoil the child," rejoined her sister, with a glance at small Thomas, who seemed rather out of it. "Come, it's time for the tree."

A white-capped maid shoved aside the portieres and revealed a tree, glittering with tinsel and heaped around with various ribbon-tied packages. There was a satisfying smallness, a cozy "portion for two" feeling about this fat little tree, in contrast to the usual spindly, sparsely trimmed evergreen at the Asylum, which was so large that it never seemed to belong to anyone but the Board of Directors.

After a moment of rapturous silence Lily hugged a real dolly, and Thomas fell upon a toy horse. Being of an investigating turn of mind, it was soon minus saddle and bridle and the tail was about to follow when Miss Pris created a diversion by lighting the tree so that he might see it in all its glory before he went back. The early winter twilight began to shadow the room as she rang for tea. Then thoughtfully she hung Tom's coat by the fire to warm in preparation for his cold ride.

The tea-wagon appeared. In honor of the day it bore the Martha Washington set of colonial tradition, a cherished heirloom whose egg-shell fragility had been guarded from destruction through five careful generations. Besides the usual tea service, there was a pitcher of milk and thin slices of bread, spread with raspberry jam, and a plate heaped with bananas.

It was wheeled into place before Miss Mattie, whose transparent hands had barely tilted the teapot, when with a whoop of joy the riotous Thomas made descent. Heedless of his sister's warning cry and poor Miss Mattie's horrified gasp, he grasped the handle of this novel push-cart, shouting:

"Bananas! Bananas!"

The peculiar fatality which pursues small boys in a drawing-room swooped down upon him. There was a crash and a tinkle of silver as the wheels met the edge of a heavy rug, and Tom, the devastator, sat amid the ruins.

"Oh, Miss-Priscilla-red-headed! Miss-Mattie-pull-your-hair-back! I didn't mean to break it; don't send Lily back to the 'sium 'cause I'se bad, and be my Muvvers, too," he concluded breathlessly.

It was Miss Pris who picked him out of the debris, and as his short arms met around her neck and his tear-streaked face went down on her shoulder, she looked across at Miss Mattie and as one who has at length arrived at a happy decision, she announced:

"You take the girl—the boy is mine."

London's Beauty Writers

Weekly Selections from Noted Beauty Experts Writing for the English Press. Simple and Effective Methods.

By OLGA ARMELL, Special Correspondent, London, Eng.

Each week in this department I will endeavor, by careful clipping from the London papers, to keep my Colonial readers informed on the latest and best advice of the London beauty experts. Owing to the persistent demand most London newspapers and periodicals are now devoting much space to the serious consideration of beauty culture. Many of them now employ high salaried experts to advise and instruct in methods most efficient for enhancing or restoring beauty of face and figure. I append herewith a few clippings from leading English publications. Any of the ingredients mentioned could be obtained from Canadian chemists or druggists, so I am told. Look out for more hints next week. I shall endeavor to keep right up to date.

Pretty Eyebrows and Lashes.

Nothing makes more difference in a person's appearance and fortunately it is easy to help Nature in this particular. Ordinary mennaline is quite extraordinary in its power to increase growth, silkiness and beauty of eyebrows and lashes. Rub a little of the mennaline daily into the eyebrows with finger tip and apply to lash roots with thumb and forefinger.

Powder Harmful To Dry Skin.

The possessor of a dry skin should never use face powder. Powders not only cause dryness themselves, but many contain irritants which scratch the skin and aid in forming wrinkles. It is far better to use a simple lotion made by dissolving an ounce of ordinary glycerine in four tablespoonfuls of cold water. This is really beneficial for the skin and imparts a soft, peach-like bloom that is most captivating. It lasts a long time and its use cannot be detected, even under the bright light of the ball room.

Removing Face Fuzz.

Many women know how to remove superfluous hair in a way, but to banish it completely is quite another matter. As regards depilatories, I can say that there are very few good ones. They nearly all irritate the skin and do not give satisfactory relief. Powdered rheminol is quite different. It acts in a wonderful manner, and is designed not only to immediately remove the ugly hairs, but also to permanently destroy the roots. It need only be mixed into a paste with water, applied directly to the hair growth, and then removed in two or three minutes.

Curls Hair To Stay Curled.

To curl the hair to stay curled, nothing equals plain liquid silmerine. If a little be applied to the hair with a clean tooth brush before retiring, the loveliest wavy effect imaginable is in evidence in the morning, and this will last from one to two weeks, according to the weather. This method is not to be compared with curling by means of a hot iron because, instead of injuring the hair it is really beneficial. A couple of ounces of the liquid will last for months. One can curl the hair in any style desired and the effect will be one of perfect naturalness.

A Colour Preserving Shampoo.

Golden hair requires the most careful brushing and cleansing, and a solution of pure stellax makes a good shampoo for it. This will preserve the colour, brilliancy and softness of the hair better than anything else. The stellax granules are to be preferred. As an original package of these will do for twenty-five or thirty shampoos it is an economical method in the long run. A teaspoonful of the granules should be dissolved in a cup of hot water and the liquid should be rubbed well into the scalp, a little at a time. This is of course equally efficacious for the darker shades of hair.

Is Your Hair Falling Out?

A simple lotion that can be made at home and which will positively force the hair to grow is within the reach of everybody. It stops the hair from falling out, clears the scalp of dandruff, and leaves a clean tingling sensation which is a sure sign of healthy action. Get from your druggist one ounce of bermalum and mix it with one-fourth pint of bay rum, adding sufficient water to make one-half a pint. This quantity will last you several weeks, and is at the same time both effective and economical.

A GRAND SCRIMMAGE.

Highlander's Story of Hand-to-Hand Work With Bayonet

A wounded Highlander lying on a cot in an English hospital gave a vivid account of some of the fighting in which he participated:

"We were up somewhere Belgium way, and marching backwards and forwards without seeing anybody, till one day we were told to be ready to take a hill. It looked a very nice sort of hill, quite innocent-like, but when we came within about a mile it began to rain cats and dogs, as you might say, caterwauling and barking shells, shrapnel, and bullets all over us. I got one in the leg, but went on a bit, but then we were all called back. They wanted to send me to the rear and back to England, but I said no, and nipped on to a gun-truck and was driven like a king for a day or two. After about a week I was all right again, and we were pretty nearly always "scrapping."

"I got put out at Soissons in a bayonet charge. These Germans always have two firing lines. One pretends to advance and fires a bit, and we come on, and then they either run away or hold up their hands, and whilst we go gaily on a second time probably a dozen quick-firers open on us.

"That particular occasion we had a bit of a hill to take with a lot of them entrenched below. Well, we got well on to them, but Lord! just as we climbed near the top they came over like bees! What we did for the rest of the time nobody knows, and if any man tells you that he did this, that, and the other when he is in such a "mush" as we were in, he is lying. We were jumping here and jumping there and sticking one man in front and looking out of the corners of our eyes for another behind till we were fair mad. Our bayonets are fine, especially for the rings round the muzzles of our rifles, which catch the German bayonets and snap them like straws. Lord knows how many I stuck, whether it was two or twenty! It was a grand scrimmage, and I was real sick when a bullet ripped up my arm from elbow to thumb and stopped me. But we got that hill all the same!"

AN EASY WAY TO STOP HEAD NOISES

Good Advice For Those Who Fear Deafness

Men and women who are growing hard of hearing and who experience a stuffy feeling of pressure against their ear drums, accompanied by buzzing, rumbling sounds in their head like water falling or steam escaping should take prompt and effective measures to stop this trouble. Headnoises are almost invariably the forerunners of complete or partial deafness and most deaf people suffer from them constantly. Sometimes these head noises become so distracting and nerve wracking, with their never ceasing "hum" they drive the sufferer almost frantic and complete nervous breakdown and even violent insanity have been known to result.

Thanks to a remarkable scientific discovery made recently in England it is now possible to almost instantly lessen the severity of these headnoises and in a very short time to completely and permanently overcome them. With the disappearing of the head noises the hearing also greatly improves and very frequently can be restored to normal. This Essential treatment is known as Parmint and can be easily and safely self administered at home. Leading druggists in Peterborough and vicinity now have it in stock. Get from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength) and mix it at home with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved and then take one tablespoonful four times a day until the noises disappear and hearing improves. Parmint is used double strength in this way not only to reduce to normal size the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tube and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any cause of secretion in the middle ear and the results it gives are both remarkably quick and effective.

Important! In ordering Parmint always specify that you want double strength; your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c to the International Laboratories, 24 St Antoine St. Montreal, P.Q., who make a specialty of it.

FRIENDLY WARNING

Atlas was holding up the world.

At this juncture Santa Claus drove by.

"Hello, Atlas," said Santa, "Still holding it up, I see."

"Yes," woophed Atlas.

"Well, get busy with it," Santa advised.

"After I make my trip this year there won't be anything left for an everyday hold-up man."

Had Something in Him.

Rev. Hudson Robert Jones had preached what he thought was a great Christmas sermon. On the way home from church he came upon a youth sitting doubled up on the steps of a domicile. Wishing to admonish this young person for what he took to be laziness, he stepped up to him and said:—

"Don't sit there like that, my boy; this is Christmas. Get up and stir yourself; you certainly must have something in you."

"I've got a big Christmas dinner in me," was the forced reply, "and I can't move."

BURNING TOWNS IN WAR TIME

An Unusual Proceeding Now But Customary Centuries Ago

Fortunately it is not usual for a civilised enemy to burn and sack a town as the Germans destroyed Louvain.

In the past, however, it was regarded as a legitimate method of warfare, and many British towns on the south coast suffered in this way. That most picturesque of Sussex towns, Rye, twice suffered this fate, being destroyed by the French in 1377 and 1448.

Perhaps the West of England suffered most from these raids, for the sturdy sons of Devon and Cornwall were continually at war with the country's enemies, even in times of peace, and Spain did not easily forget Drake.

Dartmouth was twice plundered by the French, and Teignmouth suffered in the same way more than once. In the reign of Edward III. the French made a sudden raid, and later, when James II. thought to come back, the French Admiral Tourville came with a fleet to Torbay.

However, as his reception did not seem promising, he hurriedly landed 1,700 men at Teignmouth, made bonfires of property in the streets, and burned and plundered the town generally.

The Spaniards were busy in Cornwall in 1595, for they burned Mousehole, Penzance, and Paul.

Torpedoes Cost Much

The torpedoes used in the British navy are of three diameters—14-inch, 18-inch and 21-inch—and they vary in length from 16 feet to 16 feet. As soon as a torpedo hits its mark it explodes automatically. Every torpedo fired in action represents an expenditure of from $3,000 to $4,000.

THE "TIPPERARY" SONG

Melody Made Famous by the War Was Refused by Several Publishers

The British troops arrived in France singing "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary," they sing it in the trenches, it is heard in the hospitals and wounded soldiers sing it as they step ashore when invalided home. The history of this now famous song was related by Mr. Bert Feldman, of Messrs. B. Feldman and Co., the publishers.

"It was early in September, 1912," he said, "that Jack Judge, the author of the song, sought his first interview with me. Mr. Judge, who is a vaudeville singer of much excellence as well as an author of songs, recounted to me in glowing terms the success he was everywhere making with 'Tipperary,' but quite frankly informed me that he had unsuccessfully tried in several quarters to publish it before coming to me. One publishing house, he said, returned his song with the opinion that it was worthless.

"Appreciating his candor, I asked him to sing the song to me. It instantly impressed me as full of possibilities. I suggested a few alterations in the construction of the refrain, which, he agreed, greatly improved its swing. Thereupon I set to work with the publication of the song. Much to my surprise, I was not tremendously encouraged by the artists to whom I originally submitted the song for exploitation, but this did not shake my belief in its ultimate success.

"I ultimately induced Miss Florrie Forde to produce 'Tipperary' at the Isle of Man. This, to my mind, was the 'psychological moment' in its career, for its success was electrical, and the thousands of visitors took it and made it it their own. From this eventful night of July 21, 1913, the popularity of the song has grown until 'Tipperary' is to-day in world-wide demand.

"Our average sales alone are 10,000 copies daily and the sales, from present signs, must approximate two million copies."

ALDERSON'S HOBBIES HUNTING AND WAR

Commander of Canadian Overseas Force Saw Tremendous Amount of Fighting in Past

It was while Major-General E. A. H. Alderson, C.B., A.D.C., was stationed at Pretoria in command of the closing campaigns of the Boer war and after Lord Roberts had returned to England that he asked permission from Earl Kitchener to establish a "Bobby" pack in connection with his staff, so that the officers could in their spare moments enjoy a few hours of the "sport of kings," interspersed with the hardships of real warfare.

In his letter to Earl Kitchener General Alderson said that if he was allowed to have a hunt most every morning at dawn not only would the spirits of the officers be maintained by the recreative change, but they would immediately increase their efficiency.

After careful consideration and having been assured that the "hunt" would be over each morning before "regular hours," Kitchener gave his needed assent, and General Alderson enjoyed the "mimic of war" with an enemy all about him.

General Alderson has only two real hobbies, war and "mimic war." If he is not in scarlet and pink he must be in khaki, and if he can be in both he is so much the happier. He makes no attempt to cover up his likes, he is proud of them and in his book, Scarlet and Pink, he says so again and again.

It is easy, then, to account for his appointment as commander of the Canadian contingent, for he is one of the real "war dogs" of the British army. He knows "the game" from start to finish.

His record is one continual story of active service, from his first engagement with the mounted infantry at Tel-El-Mahuta to the close of the Boer War. There was, perhaps, no staff officer with the British forces that was present at more engagements during the last Boer War than General Alderson. He was at the relief of Kimberley, in the operations in the Orange Free State, Poplar Grove, Paardeberg, Driefontein, Vet River and the Zand River, Johannesberg, Pretoria, Diamond Hill, during the early part of 1900 and at Reit Viei later in the year. Many times he has been mentioned in despatches of the Field Marshals and Generals for conspicuous work on the field in command of men. At the end of the war he was presented with the Queen's medal with five clasps and the King's medal with two clasps, which were in addition to medals he held for service in the Soudan expedition, and the Transvaal in 1884-5. For his work in Egypt he was awarded the Bronze Star.

General Alderson is never too much engaged in war to forget his favorite sport—the hunt, and during the entire campaign against the Boers he carried a hunting horn at his saddle-crop. At the same time he is never too much engrossed with the catching of a fox to forget real warfare, and in riding through the fields it is said that he is continually picking out spots that would make ideal points against which attacks might be directed, or from which they might be repulsed.

"Hunting is the greatest training for war in the world" is one of General Alderson's frequent sayings. "It has 100 per cent. of the interest and the educational value and only 25 per cent. of the danger of war." It is little wonder, then, that this soldier-hunter from his "hunting" mind developed the mounted infantry.

A Deceiving Fisherman

A peasant, apparently a Russian, who sat every day fishing near a road, that troops marched, came under suspicion. A search showed his line was a field telegraph wire, which connected with his instrument in a basket at his side.

The Supreme Test of a Healing Agent

Psoriasis or Chronic Eczema Defied All Treatment Until Dr. Chase's Ointment Was Used.

After suffering with the terrible itching of Psoriasis for five years, and being told by physicians that she could not be cured, Mrs. Massey turned to Dr. Chase's Ointment and was entirely cured.

MRS. MASSEY.

You will find this letter interesting, and will not wonder that the writer is enthusiastic in praising this ointment.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes:—"For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough."

Can you imagine a more severe test for Dr. Chase's Ointment? This should convince you that as a cure for eczema and all forms of itching skin disease Dr. Chase's Ointment stands supreme. Put it to the test. 60c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

HEAVY CANNON FIRE USUALLY BRINGS RAIN

Downpours Have Followed Most of the Great Battles Since Large Guns Were Introduced

It is one of the extraordinary things of warfare that a big battle invariably produces torrents of rain.

History contains innumerable instances, both on land and sea, and on more than one occasion the storm or shower that followed an engagement had no small influence upon the life of nations.

The soldiers who fought so bravely under the leadership of Marlborough at Blenheim in the year 1704 had to suffer the misery of successive downpours after their brilliant victory.

Marlborough was anxious to follow up his victory without delay, but his men were so worn by the fatigue of the battle and the discomforts caused by heavy rains and the contingencies of warfare that he was unable to push on for several days.

On June 16, 1815, the British defeated the French at Quatre Bras, and Napoleon worsted the wily Blucher at Ligny, both within measurable distance of Waterloo. The heavy rains which followed these engagements made the clayey soil almost impossible for cavalry manoeuvres at Waterloo (fought on June 18), and so crippled the tactics of Napoleon and greatly assisted those of the Duke of Wellington.

During the early weeks of the siege of Sebastopol, in 1854, the roar of cannon and explosion of bombs was followed, day by day, by heavy downpours of rain, until, as we read, the British soldiers stood in the trenches knee-deep in mud. A terrible gale broke over the Black Sea and caused great disaster to Britain's transports, and on the heels of this tempest came a heavy, steady downfall that brought death to hundreds of gallant fellows.

In yet another instance the heavy cannonading of a siege brought in its train a disturbance of the elements. This was just prior to the fall of Plevna, in 1877, when the moisture of the clouds was turned to snow as it fell, and, by increasing the sufferings of the besieged, helped to make Osman come to the determination to try a last chance for freedom.

The explanation of the rain is comparatively simple, and has been made use of for the benefit of agriculture in various parts of the world. The atmosphere is laden with moisture, a concussion caused by loud reports or noises will often burst the clouds, with the natural result that the drops of water fall to the earth. This has been practically tested when farmers have been groaning over the drought, and scientists have induced the desired rainfall by causing cannon to be discharged at altitudes varying with the locality. When, however, the discharge is continuous, as in battle, it is obviously more effective. —Pearson's Weekly.

EGGS FOR THE OFFICER

Canadian Author's Story of How Dishonest Merchant Was Served

Sir Gilbert Parker tells a story of how he and a certain British officer managed to secure fresh eggs at a small military post in Egypt. The only other food to be had was tinned roast, so the eggs were an important item of diet. Day after day, however, the eggs were obviously not fresh, and one morning they were simply uneatable.

The officer, who held the power of life and death in the district, was determined to put a stop to this sort of thing, so he ordered the egg merchant to be brought before him. In a short time the merchant arrived, conducted by two sentries.

"Are you the man who sold us those eggs?" demanded the officer.

In fear and trembling the other admitted that he was indeed the man.

"Then open your mouth," commanded the officer, picking up a dish containing two bad eggs.

The trembling merchant obeyed, and before he realized what was going to happen to him the officer had slipped one of the evil-smelling eggs into his open mouth.

With horrible grimaces the merchant was forced to swallow it, but his troubles were not ended.

"Now open your mouth again," commanded the officer, and the second egg followed the first.

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

A Physician's Advice

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Thin folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They just absorb enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and powerful flesh-building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless yet wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Austrian Entanglements to Impede Enemy.—The picture shows the pitfalls, surrounded by sharp spikes which the Austrians construct near their fortresses. The barbed wire on the right of the picture is heavily charged with electricity, which would prevent any number of soldiers from gaining access to the fortress even though they succeeded in passing the pitfalls.

England Faces Hard Problem In Caring For 25,000 Alien Prisoners

It is stated that an investigation of the detention camps at Newbury, Frimley, the Olympia in London, and Douglas, Isle of Man, where German and Austrian prisoners are held by the British government, shows that in these camps there are nearly fourteen thousand prisoners. The number throughout the British Isles is about twenty-five thousand. There is discomfort and discontent, but the prisoners are not subjected to genuine hardships. With the coming of cold weather the suffering among those compelled to live in tents is keen, for the tents are not heated. They are being abandoned, however, and in a fortnight all prisoners will be under permanent cover.

Several thousands will be placed aboard nine ships, which are being prepared for the purpose. Some of these are vessels which have been in the Atlantic service, and it is expected that aboard them the prisoners will be comfortable.

Medical reports show the health of the prisoners to be good. Their treatment so far as food and accommodations are concerned is virtually the same as that received by the British soldier.

In these four camps there have been only ten deaths. Five of the prisoners were killed by the guards during the recent rioting at the camp at Douglas. Four deaths were due to natural causes not related with the rigours of confinement. The tenth death was an accident, a German soldier being thrown from an automobile truck.

Olympia, a vast, dark and gloomy place, is a sort of clearing house for alien enemies. When rounded up in London they are confined there for a brief period and then sent to regularly established camps elsewhere.

At the beginning there was great discomfort. No preparations had been made for the reception of thousands of prisoners. Men were compelled to sleep on stone floors. The food, while ample, was not well prepared. But conditions have been improved steadily.

The greatest suffering is experienced by those who live under canvas. Recently prisoners at Newbury, Douglas and Frimley have awakened in the morning to find ice in the bottom of their cups. The tents have wooden floors, and each prisoner has a straw mattress and four blankets.

If the prisoners need clothing they receive good apparel, including heavy overcoats, suits, shirts, underclothes, socks and army boots, as well as necessary toilet articles. A similar outfit could hardly be purchased in New York for $55. The food is issued by the British army commissariat. Each prisoner daily receives eight ounces of fresh meat, eight ounces of vegetables, two ounces of peas, lentils or beans, a pound and a half of white bread, condensed milk, tea, butter and salt and pepper. The materials are turned over to the prisoners, some of whom are cooks, and prepared by them.

Prisoners are allowed all possible liberty. Football and other games may be played except at the Douglas camp, where privileges were curtailed on account of the riot. Infractions of camp discipline are punished by confinement on bread and water.

Military prisoners — soldiers and sailors are kept in separate camps from the civilians. It was found that they could not get along together. At Frimley there was the beginning of a pitched battle over a discussion between civilians and soldiers regarding bravery, the civilians accusing the soldiers of having surrendered and the soldiers accusing civilians of fearing to go to the front and shirking their duty. British soldiers intervened with bayonets and brought the matter to an end.

The military prisoners receive practically the same treatment as civilians. They are in military organization under command of their own non-commissioned officers. The soldiers at Frimley are taken out in parties of several hundred men to work on roads, cut wood and perform other duties. For they they are paid at the same rate given to British soldiers for similar work.

Moods of Musicians.

Before the moods of genius the world must ever bow in awe, for is it not to the wayward wanderings from the normal that inspiration itself is due? says a writer in the London Lady. The gloomy moods of Beethoven are traditional, but every time they enwrapped his spirit there flowed from his pen the most noble of scores. Turning to Schubert, we find that it was in the gay moods of the German inn that his genius worked. Under their sway the "Serenade" and many other immortal themes were penned on a tavern table, tiny scraps of paper being used that came to hand. Paganini was so wholly the victim of moods that it was no unusual thing for an audience to wait in vain for his contribution to a concert program. When due to appear some fantasy of the moment would impel him to remain in his poverty stricken room, grimly toying with the instrument which should have been moving his hearers to tears.

NORWOOD NEWS OF INTEREST

Board of Education Met in Regular Session—Other News

Special to The Examiner:

NORWOOD, Dec. 8.—At a recent meeting of the Norwood Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society, held in the Methodist Church, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mr. E. P. Cuffe.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. J. E. Roxburgh.

Vice-Presidents—Revs. Wolland, Noble, Waddell and Irwin.

Directors—Messrs. L. Fife, T. Patterson, W. Cuthbertson, J. A. Finlay, K. G. Thomson, A. S. Wilkinson, Dr. S. P. Ford, J. L. Squire.

Mrs. A. S. Wilkinson is visiting in Kemptville.

On Thursday morning, Dec. 3rd, at his home on Peterborough street, the death occurred of Mr. Wm. Webster, in his seventy-fifth year. Deceased had been a resident of Norwood and vicinity most of his life, having moved to the village a few years ago from Asphodel.

To mourn his loss he leaves a widow and four children, William, of Bawlf, Alberta, and Herbert, Frank and Fanny, of Norwood.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Saturday afternoon to the Norwood cemetery, the last sad rites being performed by Rev. Mr. Wolland, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, of which deceased had been a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Dippe, of Roseneath, visited friends in town on Sunday.

Mrs. John Rork and Master Perrin were in Peterborough last week.

Mrs. R. Lees, of Peterborough, is spending a few days with her sister, Miss E. Waters.

Mr. Lorne Webster, of Smith, and Messrs. David Webster and Beavis, of Lakefield, attended the funeral of their uncle, Wm. Webster, on Saturday.

An excellent concert was given in the Town Hall on Monday evening by the La Dell Concert Company, under the auspices of the Norwood High School. A number of visitors were present, and enjoyed the promenades which took place immediately after the close of the entertainment.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will hold their regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) Ford.

The Board of Education met on December 7.

Those present were: Messrs. Cuffe (chairman), MacNaughton, Doherty, Scott, Finlay, Cuthbertson, Burkell, Squire, Elliott and Marks.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The minutes of the Agricultural Committee, dated Sept. 5th, were read from the chair.

The chairman reported that $45 had been paid to Mr. McRae for use of prizes in School Fairs.

Moved by Mr. Burkell, seconded by Mr. Cuthbertson, that the supply committee ascertain the needs of Mr. Lawlor in the Science room and supply the stools.

Moved by Mr. Cuthbertson, seconded by Mr. Finlay, that the Supply Committee be empowered to purchase the green wood necessary. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Finlay, seconded by Mr. Doherty, that the chairman and secretary be a committee to prepare a letter of condolence to forward to the family of our late member, Mr. Wm. Webster. Carried.

Report of the P.S. Inspector was read from the chair.

Moved by Mr. Doherty, seconded by Mr. Scott, that the report be received and filed.

The following accounts were presented: W. H. Tucker & Bros., P.S. 86.85, H.S. $1.20, total $8.05; W. C. Doherty, repairing pump, $1.25; E. J. Laing, postage 1914, $2.21; John Parker, 1 cord wood, $3.25; K. G. Thomson, account, $9.60; Norman Andrews, 3 bushels lime, $2.25; J. W. Rork, account 1914, $79.78. Advisory accounts, the Norwood Register account, $34.91.

Moved by Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Burkell, that the advisory accounts be paid. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Cuthbertson, seconded by Mr. Elliott, that the other accounts be referred to their respective committees and if found correct, paid.

Moved by Messrs. Scott and Finlay that the Supply Committee purchase at $1.50 each, the pictures of the King and Queen for Miss Water's room. Motion lost.

International Aspect of The Monroe Doctrine

To the Editor of The Globe: Ex-President Taft apparently takes the view that the participation of Canada in the war puts Canada outside the protection of the Monroe doctrine. How furnishing military aid to Great Britain can affect our relations with Germany or Austria is not clear. Canada's position is similar to that of a British ship. It is British, and it matters not whether the ship is a war vessel, a participant in the war or a merchantman, a non-participant. The Germans would treat them alike. As to the United States driving the Germans out of Canada, if the latter were able to conquer Canada, the United States would not be able to drive out any overseas power strong enough to overcome Canada. To overrun a country having the peculiar boundaries and physical obstacles to an invader, and a people who would resist with no less determination than the Belgians, assumes a power greater than the United States. In the remote contingency of Germany attacking Canada, the only hope the United States could have of maintaining the Monroe doctrine would be to make the fight while the Canadians would assist them. The strongest support of the Monroe doctrine is the hundreds of millions of dollars that American citizens have invested in factories and other interests in Canada, and the American trade and commerce through and with Canada. A few years ago when there was a cloud over the relations of Japan and the United States a British officer said that in case of hostilities the British navy would support Japan. I replied that it would not, and, further, that if hostilities should occur, which we fervently hoped would not, and Japan should be able to invade the United States in force, thousands of Canadians would fight in the United States armies. If the United States should ever be seriously threatened either on the Pacific or Atlantic, Canadians would assist her, even if we thought the United States had done much to bring trouble on herself. Canadian and American people and interests are so closely related and interwoven that an attack on one is an attack on the other. Neither can live to themselves alone. In the present war Canadians, being colonials, had no part in the affairs which caused the war, and when the war is over will have no voice in terms of peace. But Canada does believe it to be a righteous war, and that we are fighting not only for the freedom of Belgium and the small states of Europe, but for the freedom of America. This is a war against militarism for individual freedom, for national independence, for the government of the people by the people, for all the ideals of liberty which Americans cherish. The United States Government signed The Hague conventions recognizing the independence of the smaller European States. If treaties are not mere scraps of paper, if the Hague conventions had any purpose, the United States is morally bound to intervene in this war for freedom. She had a voice in the conventions and when they are broken goes nothing. We had no voice, but go into the breach left by the United States. We are taking up her burden, therefore ex-President Taft says the Germans have permission of the United States to Belgiumize us. Fortunately he does not speak for the United States.—H. P. Van Wagner.

HINTS ON HOW TO READ.

Passive reading is the habit against which readers need to be guarded, and to overcome which, when formed, requires the most manful and persevering efforts. The habit is the natural result of a profusion of books and the incidence of our natures and our times, which desires to receive thoughts, or more exactly, pictures—many of which are thin, hazy and evanescent — rather than vigorously to react against them by an effort that thinks them over and makes them one's own.

Almost better not read at all than to read in such a way.

He who would read with attention must learn to be interested in what he reads.

The man must master and not be mastered by his increasing stock of knowledge.

He must exercise great and still greater energy in judging and applying the acquisitions he has made.—Noah Porter.

"Button, Button, Who Makes the Button?"

Ordinarily, a button is looked upon as an article of minor importance. But sometimes a great deal depends upon just one button. Its importance is not fully realized until it has been lost.

Canada spends about a million and a quarter dollars every year for buttons---yes, just buttons.

And---more than two-thirds of these buttons are imported, more than $800,000 is sent to foreign countries which could just as well be kept here.

If these buttons were produced in Canada, fourteen factories, employing over nine hundred Canadians, would be kept busy to turn them out.

There is no reason why these buttons can't be "Made in Canada" just as well as anywhere else; in fact, some $400,000 worth are every year---the other $800,000 worth will be, if you will only "play the game" and---

Say "Made in Canada."

Winter in the Trenches at Ypres.— Belgian and French soldiers bivouacked together near Ypres, trying to keep warm in the trenches. Already suffering is prevalent among the soldiers in the trenches from the cold winter blasts, but an extra blanket has decreased the extent of the suffering.

HYGIENE IN THE DESERT.

Our Latter Day Methods Were an Open Book to Moses.

Nothing under the sun is new. Facts have proved that even the pitch which hygiene has reached at the present day was equaled and in many instances excelled under the laws of Moses.

The particular and careful manner in which animals are slaughtered according to the laws of the Talmud is acknowledged today to be the most sanitary method possible.

Professor Koch gave to the world the valuable results of his investigations in bacteriology, but several thousand years before that the Mosaic law pointed out the danger to humanity from tuberculosis in cattle, but did not forbid poultry as food. It was not many years ago that specialists discovered that fowl tuberculosis was harmless to man.

The yearly exodus to the country and seaside is no new innovation. Moses, the great lawgiver, prescribed not only feasting at certain seasons of the year, but the removal of whole families to great camping grounds in the open spaces where they could live near to nature.

A Chinaman on the Opium Habit.

In the American Magazine appears an article entitled "A Modern Opium Eater," written by a newspaper man, who became a victim of the habit and is now a convict in a penitentiary. In the course of the article the author quotes as follows what a Chinese dee keeper said to him about the power of the habit to hold its victims:

"You no quit. Every man allestime say he quit. Every man allesame you. Smoke one time, smoke two time, smoke tlee time, then smoke allestime. Chinaman, white man, chokquay (negro) allesame. No can quit. Bimeby you die you quit. Bimeby maybe you bloke—no more money, no more fiend bellow money, no can steelem money, maybe you quit one, two days. Bimeby maybe you go jail, no got fiend bling you hop, no got money givem policeman catchem hop, you quit. You got money, no go jail, you no quit. I heap sabe. Bimeby maybe one—"

The Facile Mexican.

In the opening paragraph of one of his best stories Kipling wrote: "Let it be clearly understood that the Russian is a delightful person till he tucks his shirt in. As an oriental he is charming. It is only when he insists on being treated as the most easterly of western peoples that he becomes a radical anomaly, extremely difficult to handle. The host never knows which side of his nature is going to turn up next." There is a somewhat similar difficulty with the Mexican. He can be charming, but one never knows whether he is the most northern southerner or the most southern northerner, and he can change from one to the other with a facility that is almost genius.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Studied It Out.

One day two farm laborers were discussing the wiseness of the present generation. Said the first:

"We be wiser than our fathers was, and they were wiser than their fathers was."

The second one, after pondering a while and gazing at his companion, replied:

Wise in One Way.

Repentance.

Literary Note.

Some men never think of reading a book till they run across it under a lot of rubbish when the wife is packing up to move.

No man is wise at all times.—Pliny the Elder.

THE IDEAL HOSTESS.

It is not an easy office to fill. Here are some requirements:

She must never look bored.

She must not show that she is tired.

She must not talk too long to one guest.

She must make all feel at home.

She must get congenial people together.

She must know how to keep conversation rolling.

She must see everything without being fussy or distracted.

She must look as if she was enjoying herself and yet not be selfish over her own pleasure.

She must know when to ask people to show their different talents and yet not allow any one of them to weary the company.

A hostess who can fulfill the above will be successful. Her invitations will be those most eagerly sought for and her parties those best attended.

AN UNWELCOME VISITOR.

However, the Flea Can Be Banished by the Following Method.

During the fall even the most carefully kept households are not always exempt from that household pest, the flea.

One of the most efficacious weapons against this disturber of the peace is camphor. Buy some, break into pieces, incase in small muslin bags and place in the beds between the blankets.

In a couple of days the unwelcome visitors will have vanished in search of more congenial quarters.

It can also be sprinkled in the crevices of thickly upholstered sofas or armchairs, warm, dusty corners of this kind being among their favorite haunts, with the result that you will once more be able to have your after dinner nap in comfort.

If any of the children have been bitten buy an ounce bottle of spirits of camphor and apply with a camel's hair brush.

Use For Old Napkins.

When tablecloths are worn in the center napkins may be cut from the ends and sides and used to fold over baked potatoes, boiled corn, fruit fritters or biscuits for summer serving. Thus the better linens will be spared.

ATTENTION, ENGAGED GIRLS!

Here are a few useful hints to engaged girls:

Make yourself a good cook and learn how to keep accounts.

Don't grow selfish and neglect all your old duties and ties.

Beware of boring people by everlasting talk of your lover.

Don't encourage him to spend too much money upon your small luxuries.

Smile cheerfully at your brothers' teasing remarks.

Never crow over your girl friends who are not yet engaged.

Remember that the world contains other people of interest besides your lover.

Mingle a little common sense with your romance, and both you and your sweetheart will be the happier. Sugar is delightful as a flavoring, but nauseous as a food.

Accounting For Patrick Henry.

It is related that Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase on stopping at the birthplace of Patrick Henry in Virginia exclaimed: "What an atmosphere! What a view! What glorious mountains! No wonder Patrick Henry grew here!" Whereupon an honest native dryly remarked that the atmosphere, the view and the mountains had been there for ages, but that only one Patrick Henry had been produced.

OUR FIRST CHRISTMAS

Holiday Celebrated in America Before Time of Columbus.

The Christian Norsemen Undoubtedly Observed the Occasion on the New England Coast—In Early Colonial Days.

WHILE the settlement of the American continent is modern and its history clearly defined, probably there were Christmas celebrations in what is now the United States several centuries before the first voyage of Columbus. The chronicles of Iceland tell the story of the visit made to Greenland by Lief, son of Eric the Red, of Norway, and describe the southward voyage of his little vessel past the snow-clad mountains of Labrador and the wooded shores of Newfoundland, until Vineland, an indefinite region on the New England coast, was reached.

Here Lief, who was a Christian, and the members of his little band of daring adventurers spent the winter of 1002 and no doubt on the bleak New England shore the beautiful feast, whose God-like spirit has softened and conquered the world, was celebrated.

The Norwegian visits to Vineland were continued by Thorwald and Thorstein, brothers of Lief, who had succeeded to the patriarchal office and possessions of his father; and on the deaths in quick succession of both Thorwald and Thorstein the wife of the latter, Gudrida, married a rich Norwegian named Thorfin and accompanied him and a company of his followers to Vineland, where they lived three years. Gudrida was a pious soul. When her second husband died she visited Rome, narrated to Pope Benedict an account of her adventures in this far western world and with the papal blessing returned to Iceland, where she founded a convent, of which she became abbess.

There are no records bearing on the Christmas days spent by these hardy Norwegians in New England, but imagination can well picture the renewal in this strange land of the Christmas customs of Scandinavia. And thus it is entirely legitimate to assume that by them the first celebration of the day was observed in the new world.

History, and tradition as well, are silent after this on new world affairs until the coming of the Spaniards, followed by the Portuguese, French and English. By them the feast of the Nativity was celebrated, and long before Plymouth Rock was discovered, to be made the cornerstone of a new civilization, hardy fishermen from France chanted the hymns of the Catholic church in the waters of Maine. An old French chart gives to certain islands near the Machias river, east of Penobscot, the names of Isles des Rois Mages and Havre Mage—Isles of the Magian kings, and Magian harbor—in memory of the three wise men, who followed the mysterious star, to lay their offerings of gold, of frankincense and of myrrh before the Babe of Bethlehem.

In stern and puritan New England Christmas was placed under ban. The Plymouth colony, indeed, did not pass prohibitive laws, but in 1622 Gov. Bradford placed all Christmas games under interdict and those who afterward observed the day did so secretly. But the Massachusetts Bay colony, following the example of Cromwell's parliament, which prohibited all observance of the feast and decreed that "holly and ivy were badges of sedition," enacted a law, in 1659, obliging all men to labor on Christmas day and inflicting a fine upon those who observed the feast. It was not until 1681—more than 20 years after the passing of the Cromwell regime and the restoration of the Stuart dynasty to the throne—that this law, abolishing personal freedom and liberty of worship, was repealed; and several years after this the spirit of New England was reflected in a letter written by Rev. Joshua Moody to Rev. Increase Mather, in which the observance of Christmas was thus referred to: "And the shutting up of shops on Christmas day and driving the master out of school on Xmas holydales are very grevous."

Elsewhere throughout the colonies the feast of Christmas was observed. Both New Amsterdam and New York maintained the old-world customs associated with the day and in the south the beautiful festival never lost its hold upon the hearts of the English settlers.

Today there is no north, no south no east, no west, to Christmas celebration in the United States. The story of the Babe of Bethlehem is written on every heart and every tongue on Christmas morning repeats the song the angels sang over the Judean hills: "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace to men of good will."

India's Splendid Part

The hope that India would grasp the present opportunity to strike for Home Rule was destined to disappointment. Little Lad Who May Some Day Rule a Great Nation.

PRINCE WILLIAM OF GERMANY.

Grandson of Kaiser Was Born on the Anniversary of American Independence—Items of Interest For Little People—Puzzles and a Game.

In view of the great war now in progress in Europe it is rather interesting to note that the kaiser's grandson, also named William and in line for the imperial crown, was born on the 4th of July, 1906, which makes him just eight years of age. Of course the little prince does not know much about the great war now being fought. It is not well for little folks to hear of such dreadful happenings. Prince William is the oldest son of the crown prince and may eventually be a king and emperor. The fact that he was born on the anniversary of America's Declaration of Independence renders him of peculiar interest to all the little people who dwell in this "land of the free," where kings and emperors are unknown.

An Amusing Game.

This game is played by all sitting in a circle while one of the number tells a story. After a few words or a sentence he makes a pause, when his neighbor on the right must repeat the sentence to his right hand neighbor, who passes it to the next until it has gone quickly around the circle to the relator, who proceeds with the next words of his story, and so on, each sentence as he speaks it being caught up and repeated from one to another till it comes back to him. The story always ends with the words "the last one up must pay," when every one must spring from his seat. Any one who fails to rise at the proper moment must pay a forfeit. The game will be more easily understood from the following example:

The story teller says to his right hand neighbor, "There is an elephant"—at this pause, and these following, the neighbor must repeat the words to her neighbor and she to the next until it comes around to the relator, who resumes, "which represents a young lady—arrested by three robbers—the first detains her—the second wishes to stab her—but the third, seeing the police coming, cries, 'The last one up must pay!'"

At this cry all the company rise, except those who forget or do not know the game, and these must pay a forfeit, as also must those who fail to repeat the interrupted sentences correctly.

Rain Soldiers.

Hark! A sound like call to battle,
Now a rumble, now a drumming,
Now a steady roar and rattle!
See the raindrop soldiers coming.

Every one advances proudly,
Straight of figure, full of dash,
Shoots his little rifle loudly—
Falls, a martyr, with a splash.

Fighting's on in every puddle,
Armies marching on apace,
Here a thousand dying huddle;
Here a thousand take their place.

Mr. Sun, from heaven peeping,
Wonders what it's all about,
O'er the field a sunbeam sweeping—
Puts the soldiers all to rest.

Same Thing Now.

"No need to speak of that in the past tense," replied her husband meekly.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Have You That TICKLING IN THE THROAT SENSATION?

This trouble is most distressing, and caused from a cold which has settled in the throat. How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat? The dry, hard cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all.

What you want to cure the cold is Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This valuable preparation is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks with which is combined the virtues of the world famous Norway pine tree.

Thousands of testimonials prove that what we claim is true. All we ask you is that when you ask for Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup see that you get "Dr. Wood's," and not some no-account substitute.

Mr. Charles S. Chase, Shelburne, N.S., writes: "Coming to Nova Scotia from the State of Maine, I caught a severe cold which persisted for many weeks, and was accompanied by a bad cough and a constant throat irritation. After trying many remedies, a friend handed me part of a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It helped me so much I bought another bottle which completely cured the cough and allayed the irritation. It is certainly the best cough medicine I have ever tried."

The price of "Dr. Wood's" is 25c and 50c.

SERVE CHOCOLATE

It Is a Food Beverage of Very Great Value.

MORE WHOLESOME THAN TEA.

Tempting Ways of Preparing This Delicious Drink For the Delectation of Guests and Attractive Set in Which It May Be Offered Them.

Visitors are apt to drop in at any time for a chat, and happy the hostess who is prepared to offer her guests a cooling, refreshing drink, for it will add much to their pleasure and comfort.

A chocolate syrup is indeed a good friend in need. This one can keep on hand, and the best of it is it can be served ice cold or boiling hot, as the guest prefers. Some women prefer a hot drink to a cold one, even though the day be very warm.

To make the syrup put two ounces of chocolate into a double boiler and let it melt slowly. Then turn in two cupfuls of boiling water in which two pounds of sugar have been dissolved. Stir thoroughly, and when all the ingredients are smooth and well blended strain and flavor with vanilla to taste. Bottle and put away in a cool place. When wanted put one tablespoonful of the syrup into a tumbler, add a little cracked ice and fill up with cold water.

The same quantity will make a delicious cup of chocolate with the addition of boiling water, topping off with whipped cream.

To make chocolate in Vienna style shave two squares of chocolate fine and add one pint of hot water. When dissolved add one scant teacupful of brown sugar and one pint of milk. Stir constantly. Have ready dissolved two teaspoonfuls of cornstarch in half a cupful of cold milk, and as soon as the chocolate boils stir it in. Before putting the cornstarch into the boiling mixture add two or three tablespoonfuls of the hot mixture to it and so avoid any chance of its being lumpy.

Let the whole boil up once, and the cooking is done. Take one egg, break it into a quart bowl and pour on it half a cupful of hot—not boiling—water and beat thoroughly with an egg beater. A great deal of foam will be produced by this combination. Just as the chocolate is to be served put this foam in the chocolate pot (which has been heated) before pouring in the chocolate, reserving part of the foam for the top. A bit of vanilla or cinnamon may be added instead of the egg. If some strong, concentrated coffee is used the chocolate resembles Russian chocolate, which some people like, but which to others is a sort of nauseating compound.

Most people understand that chocolate is a food beverage of value, but do not know exactly why. A good reason is that chocolate or cocoa, when diluted with water to make a drink, becomes merely a mixture, not at all an infusion, as is the case with tea or coffee. Therefore the whole substance of the cocoa or the chocolate is swallowed with the diluting water it is mixed with. Tea leaves and coffee grounds are thrown away. Only the water of their infusion is used; therefore only a portion of their particular substance enters the body after a cup of either is taken.

The substance of the chocolate used in the stimulating, fatigue removing cup of hot drink is of infinitely higher food value than is the substance of either the tea leaves or the coffee grounds. No less than 50 per cent of it is nourishment; only 6 per cent is water; less than 1 per cent is useless fiber. Fat, in the form of cocoa butter, purest oil and more nourishing even than marrow of meat, is present in no less a proportion than 50 per cent; this if the cocoa be pure and unadulterated with arrowroot or other starchy powders.

The dainty chocolate set illustrated here is blue and gold on a cream background. The graceful pot is matched by the straight little cups and curved saucers.

DECORATED CHOCOLATE SET.

Gifts of Crash and Cretonne

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Cretonnes are so attractive that they have inspired much designing of articles for personal use and house decoration. Recently linen crash and flowered cretonnes have become more popular than any other fabrics for tasteful and inexpensive fittings and furnishing. Certain patterns have been featured for living rooms and porches, but it is in bedroom furnishings that they take precedence of everything else. They are bright and dainty and better still, they are washable. Crashes are embroidered in fast color embroidery silks or decorated with cut figures of cretonne applied and button-hole stitched down. There is a long list of attractive things which are made of these durable fabrics. Among them the dressing case sets, which cannot fail to please, are among the least costly and most effective of Christmas gifts. They are acceptable to either men or women friends.

The flowered cretonnes are used for covering boxes made to hold handkerchiefs, gloves, neckwear, cravats and veils, and the large boxes for hats and shirtwaists. They are fine for laundry bags, shoe and slipper bags, pin cushions and pin trays, tea trays and tea cosies. Dresser scarfs are made of a plain fabric bordered with cretonne. Picture frames are covered with it and the cut-out figures are applied to candle shades. Cushions for chairs help carry out the scheme for cretonne decorations.

In the picture are three candle shades, a fine tray and a frame for photographs. They are made of cretonne or of linen. A set made up of the tray and frame and one or two candle shades all matching ought to rejoice the heart of any one who appreciates a pretty dressing case. They are all very easily made.

To make the pin tray a small oval frame with glass and back is needed. Plenty of these are to be found at the ten cent stores framing pictures which it is a decided satisfaction to take out and destroy. After cleaning the glass a stiff cardboard is to be cut out (using the glass as a guide) into a backing for a cretonne covering. Paste the cretonne to this backing smoothly or allow a half inch around the edge and fasten the cretonne with stitches drawn across the back of the cardboard. Slip the covered form into the frame under the glass and replace the back. Paste a piece of plain paper or felt over the bottom of the tray.

The photo frame is made of heavy cardboard 9¼ inches long and 5½ inches high. The oval openings are a trifle over 3 inches high and 2 inches broad. The cretonne is cut allowing 1 inch to turn over the edge all around and ½ inch about the oval openings. It must be slashed at the openings to make it fit and is pasted or glued down about the ovals first. The cardboard is then mounted to four strips of cardboard (as heavy as corrugated board) which extend all round the edge of the frame at the back. These strips are glued to the frame. The inch allowance in the material is brought over the edge of the frame and glued down. A narrow strip of glass is laid against the oval openings at the back and fastened by means of strips of paper pasted over it and to the back of the frame. Finally a backing of thin cardboard is pasted to the frame across the top and sides, leaving the bottom open for slipping in the pictures. A small wire ring is fastened in for a hanger or an easel support glued to the back by means of a cloth hinge.

The tallest of the three candles has a shade made of a stiff pink linen fabric and decorated with garlands and a figure cut from the cretonne, pasted down. It is finished with a narrow silk fringe. A pair of candles with candle-sticks fitted with shades and holders make a gift that everyone enjoys. Glass or silver candle-sticks are best for bedrooms. Brass and iron ones are appropriate for living rooms. The plain iron candle-stick with rose-colored candle and fluted rose-colored shade is suited to a man's room.

The shade is made of a smooth linen starched and fluted on an iron. It is pasted on a cardboard ring at the top and finished with a piece of fancy rose-colored braid.

The dainty figured shade shown with the silver candle-stick is pure white with a tiny flower wreath. There is a lace edge about the top and bottom. It is made of a linen evidently woven for the purpose, stiffened and fluted. It is mounted to a cardboard ring and finished about the top with a white braid.

One of the easiest ways to shade a candle as well as one of the prettiest, is to cut a disk of cardboard about 5 inches in diameter, with a circle cut out of the center to fit over the candle holder. Cover this with a square of cretonne edged with bead fringe, cut the cretonne seven inches square allowing an extra half inch for a narrow hem. Hem the hem and sew the fringe over it. Cut an opening from the center to fit over the candle-holder and allow a half inch hem also. The pretty handkerchief case of crash shown in Fig. 1 hardly needs description. It is embroidered with small pink roses, green leaves and a ribbon design in light blue. It is lined with pink wash silk, button-hole stitched about the edge and tied with wash ribbons. One corner is turned back. This is a gift which a man will appreciate.

The bag in Fig. 2 may be made either of cretonne or flowered silk. The handles are made of embroidery rings wound with narrow blue ribbon. The upper part of the bag is gathered over one-half of each ring and the fulness at the ends is also gathered into small rings having one and a half inch diameter. Little ribbon bows, matching the handles, provide the finishing touch.

A double bag of linen ornamented with embroidery, serves as a receptacle for soiled handkerchiefs, or other small accessories. It is washable and will last a long time. Men as well as women like these handy bags. This is true of the little cretonne, crash or silk, with pinked flannel leaves for the needles and ribbons for hanging.

When one does not embroider a very pretty substitute is possible with cut out cretonne flowers applied to linen and stitched down with button-hole or chain stitch. There is no end to the more than good looking presents which are made of cretonne and crash.

Belgian's Life Saved by Coin in Purse, Part Found in Thigh Wound

When a Belgian soldier, Dederker Benoit, was wounded at Nieuport on 26th October, he little thought that his case would become famous in the annals of army surgical practice. He was sent to Folkestone, still suffering from his wound.

When first taken from the field a leather purse was found in his pocket and in it a bent and broken Belgian one franc piece, part of which was missing. The purse itself was badly gashed by a bullet. The surgeons at Folkestone noticed that the man's wound did not readily heal, and on further probing at last found the missing part of the coin embedded in the soldier's thigh. It was removed, and he speedily recovered.

LUGGAGE OF A GENERAL.

It may be laid down as a military axiom that a general's ability is not measured by the amount of baggage he takes to war.

It is said that when General Sir John French embarked to take command of the British forces now fighting with the French against the Germans in Northern France, all the baggage he took was contained in a single suit case.

When Stonewall Jackson started out on a campaign he took along no personal baggage except a withered carpet bag of ancient pattern and then this modest receptacle was but half filled. Both these generals bear distinction.

Contrariwise, when Napoleon III., Emperor of France, left Paris in [illegible] to take command of the armies which, he said, were going straight to Berlin, he took along 48 trunks, besides a most voluminous kitchen and bedroom equipage. The Germans got every scrap of it all at Sedan. His son, the Prince Imperial, escaped from Sedan and the beleaguering Germans with his personal effects, which filled a special train of five cars.

The Russians Again Check Invasion of Poland

GERMANS ROUTED SOUTH OF CRACOW

Russians Seem to Have Complete Mastery of This Position ---Austro Germans Were Repulsed and Routed, Leaving Many Dead.

Special Morning Cable:

PETROGRAD, Dec. 12.—The attempt of the Austro-German forces south of Cracow to break the Russian line has resulted in their complete rout. Thousands of dead were left on the field and the Russians remain complete masters of the situation.

The Army Messenger, the official organ of the War Office, to-day makes this claim concerning operations on the southern front.

REPULSE TURNED INTO A FLIGHT.

The Austrians were heavily reinforced by German troops, it is stated, and directed an energetic attack upon Russian lines. They were repulsed and the check was then turned into a hasty and disordered flight. Five batteries were captured and an entire column of armoured motor cars taken. The efficiency of the Russians in bringing down German aeroplanes is cited by the Army Messenger. Two reconnoitring aeroplanes were brought down by Russian guns Tuesday.

BRITISH LOSS WAS SMALL

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Secretary of the Admiralty has received a cable despatch from Vice-Admiral Sturdee of the British squadron stating that in the battle off the Falkland Islands, in which the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig were sunk, the British casualities totalled seven men killed and four wounded.

No officers, the despatch says, were either killed or wounded.

SERVIANS EXPECT TO RETAKE BELGRADE

Examiner Special:

ROME, Dec. 11. — The Servian Legation announces that the Austrians have been driven back on Shabatz, and are being pressed by the Servians, who are attacking Belgrade. The Servians have taken 20,000 prisoners during the present week. The Austrians now prisoners of war in Servia number 800 officers and 80,000 men.

The Frankfurter Zeitung declares that the Servian army has been reinforced by the arrival of five Russian regiments. The Russians, according to the German newspaper, sailed from Archangel at the end of October and landed in Antivari, Montenegro, late in November.—Concert as

SILENCE MAY INDICATE THE KAISER'S ILLNESS

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 12.—In the absence of further information as to the condition of the Kaiser early to-day, the belief was expressed here that the silence from official sources might indicate no improvement.

Statements concerning his improvement were overly optimistic. The latest unofficial report reaching London was that His Majesty had been permitted to sit up for a few hours. A despatch from Amsterdam quotes the text of a congratulatory telegram sent by the Kaiser to Gen. Von Morgan, but it is not clear whether this message was dispatched before or after His Majesty became ill.

Two German Cruisers Are Reported Sunk

PARIS, Dec. 11.—The German armoured cruiser Friedrich Karl is reported to have been sunk in the Baltic Sea by a mine and most of her crew drowned, according to an official statement issued at the French Ministry of Marine to-day.

The Friedrich Karl carried 557 officers and men.

The sinking of the cruiser is said to have occurred late in November. The cruiser was a sister ship of the Prinz Adalbert and was built in 1903.

She carried four 8-inch guns, ten 5-inch guns, twelve 3-inch guns, four machine guns and torpedo tubes.

The vessel was 397 feet long and 64 feet wide, and registered 8,858 tons.

RUSSIANS REPULSE 3 GERMAN ARMIES

Official Statement Says Three of the Five Armies Invading Poland Have Been Checked---Driven 15 Miles Back From Warsaw.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Of the five Austro-German columns which for some days appeared to be making steady progress in their invasion of Poland, three have suffered checks, according to to-night's official report from Russian headquarters.

The column which was making a downward stroke from Mlawa, on the East Prussian frontier, and which was reported in one despatch from Petrograd to-day to be within fifteen miles of Warsaw, after an energetic offence was repulsed, and under counter-attacks from the Russians was compelled to retire at some points.

The attacks of the main German column, which had its front on the line between Lodz and Lowicz, and which came down diagonally from Thorn, were delivered with great force, but were, according to the Russian account, repulsed with heavy losses to the invaders. That the Germans laid great store on the success of their attack here is shown by the fact that during the two days they faced the Russian trenches seven times, and were driven back by an effective fire.

Routed Enemy at Cracow.

The other column which has suffered is that composed of German and Austrian troops, which has been trying to outflank the Russian left south of Cracow. In this case it was the Russians who assumed the offensive, and they claim that after a tenacious resistance they defeated the Germans, taking several guns and 2,000 prisoners.

Of the German columns operating in the region of Petrokow and that advancing from Cxenstochowa there is no news except the Russian statement that "on other parts of the fron there have been no substantial changes."

A check or repulse of any one of the columns must, however, in the opinion of military critics, affect the whole German plan, which was a formidable conversion movement that had for its objectives the capture of Warsaw and the relief of Cracow. For this large reinforcements were sent from the west, and operations were pushed with great resolution against a determined opposition. It will probably take some days to determine whether the checks have upset this plan. The Germans place the utmost importance, it is said, in securing a decisive result in the east before the Russians are able to make their numbers, which military men believe must already be superior, so overwhelming that the better means of transportation possessed by the Germans will be discounted.

Desperate Struggles Along The Yser For Every Yard of Ground

Special Cable to The Examiner:

PARIS, Dec. 12.—A desperate attempt is being made to-day by the Germans to regain a foothold along the Yser canal to the south of Ypres. Repeated attacks of the enemy have been repulsed, but with reinforcements which have been moved into this section, renewed attempts are being made against the allied lines.

STRUGGLE FROM TRENCH TO TRENCH.

The fighting in this section is from trench to trench. Official statements issued here clearly indicate the extreme desperation with which the engagement is progressing.

ALLIES MAKE NEW GAINS

Special Cable to The Examiner:

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Following the reports that the French have gained Armentieres, there were rumours to-day that the British have also obtained control of Labassee. Determined fighting has been in progress along the Labassee canal.

BRITISH HAVE MADE ADVANCES.

Great advances are reported to have been in progress continually for days. Sappers have mined and blown up several of the German positions and a heavy shell fire from the allied guns has made others untenable.

U. S. OFFICIALS INTERESTED IN KIAO CHOW PORT

Question Arises as to What Japan Will Do With the Former German Stronghold

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 11.—The statement by Baron Kato, the Japanese Foreign Minister, in the Diet yesterday that Japan had made no promise to any country to return Kiao-chau to China attracts much interest in official circles here and has caused a general review of the various utterances of a more or less official character an the subject since Japan entered the war.

Secretary Bryan would not make any comment, and referred inquirers to statements already made.

When Japan delivered her ultimatum to Germany demanding the evacuation of Kiao-chau, the statement was published that the territory would be returned to China. That, it was stated later, was upon the supposition that Germany would comply with the terms of the ultimatum and voluntarily turn over the territory. However, as Japan was put to a general military campaign for the possession of Kiao-chau, one contention now in the Japanese mind is that the original pledge is not binding.

After the entry of Japan into the war, Count Okuma, the Premier, in reply to an inquiry, announced that Japan had no intention of seeking territorial extension as a result of the war. Kiao-chau was not specially mentioned in that statement, although it might have been inferred that it was included.

The Japanese Embassy here, however, never made any formal statement to Secretary Bryan that Japan would return Kiao-chau to China, although it is said to be possible that some such impression may have been conveyed in conversation by a member of the Embassy staff, but nowhere, it is said now, was there any formal pledge to that effect.

It may be stated authoritatively that while Japan has not formally undertaken to surrender Kiao-chau, she has by no means officially committed herself to its retention; the whole subject of the disposition of the one-time German possessions in Asia and Australasia is still under consideration and undetermined. Practically it has been decided that those questions must await the end of the war for their answer, because to diplomatists that would not only seem to be prudent in view of the uncertain issue of the hostilities, but for the further reason that Japan realises that her allies may properly claim a voice in determining the future of those possessions. The fact that Great Britain participated actively with her troops and ships in the capture of Kiao-chau is referred to as supporting that position.

SERVIANS FOLLOW UP THEIR WIN

Pursued Austrians After Engagement at Valjevo—Russians Join Them

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 11—The Frankfurter Zeitung says the Servians have been reinforced by five Russian regiments, which left Archangel on October 27 and arrived at Antivari November 29th.

Paris, Dec. 11.—The correspondent of the Havas Agency at Nish, Servia, under date of Dec. 10, transmits the following account of recent military operations:

"At Valjevo, after discovering the Austrians on Dec. 6, the Servians continued in pursuit of their enemy, and forced them beyond Oujitse, Kasjerice, Pouljen, Valjevo, and Rasarevatz.

"The retreat of the Austrians was precipitate. They resisted only in the vicinity of Valjevo and Outise, but here their stand was quickly broken and the Servians occupied the two towns mentioned.

Up to December 8th the Servians had captured some 25,000 prisoners, 115 guns of all kinds and great quantities of war material. The Servians claim that the victory was entirely due to brilliant leadership and the morale of their troops, the majority of whom were veterans fighting in their third war. These qualities, they say, overcame the greater numbers which the Austrians had on their side.

Take Over 2,000 Men.

"During the day of Dec. 8 the Servians took Austrian prisoners to the number of 98 officers and 2,237 men; they also captured two cannon and much war material.

"Heavy fighting has occurred also to the north of Kosmaj and Parovnitza, where counter-attacks delivered by the Servians resulted in heavy Austrian losses.

"The Austrians fled in disorder. Thousands of prisoners have arrived at Nish".

I Have Implicit Confidence
In Peterboro's Future

And my confidence is fully endorsed by the wisest men of our City, as shown in our churches, schools, factories, stores, public buildings, permanent roadways, etc., etc. Because of this implicit faith and because of my special desire to unload the cares of business, I am now trying to do what is said to be an impossible work, viz., that of selling Lots out of season.

HERE ARE SOME OF MY REASONS FOR DOING SO.

1. I have worked hard for over 60 years and want to quit.
2. My Lots cannot fail to please every buyer.
3. They are convenient to work, school and cars.
4. They are right in the way of the City's growth, and because of that they must increase rapidly in value.
5. My prices, $150 and up, I consider under value.
6. Terms—Pay cash and get good discount. Pay $10.00, get receipt for $20.00. Pay $5.00, get receipt for $10.00. Pay $2.00 and get receipt for $4.00.
7. If you are a good man, with family and no money, I will give you a Garden Lot free of rent. Have you ever had an offer to compare with this? If you want to succeed in life you must compel yourself to save a little, and this is the way to do it without failing. See my small ad. for proof. Call to day.

AUSTRALIA DID HER SHARE.

Drove Germans Away by Destroying Bases in Pacific.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Sydney correspondent of the Mail, describing the great rejoicing there at the British naval victory says that Admiral Von Spees' fleet had been regarded as the special quarry of the Australian fleet, but even as matters stand, Australia played her part by driving the enemy into the hands of the British by destroying his bases in the Pacific.

The Australian navy office officially states that after the destruction of the Monmouth and Good Hope, the Admiralty despatched a very strong squadron from European waters to avenge Admiral Cradock's loss.

Christmas Bells

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet the words repeat
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

And thought how, as the day had come.
The belfries of all Christendom
Had rolled along the unbroken song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

Till, ringing, singing on its way,
The world revolved from night to day,
A voice, a chime, a chant sublime
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

Then from each black, accursed mouth
The cannon thundered in the south,
And with the sound the carols drowned
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

It was as if an earthquake rent
The hearthstones of a continent,
And made forlorn the households born
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

And in despair I bowed my head;
"There is no peace on earth," I said;
"For hate is strong and mocks the song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men."

Then pealed the bells more loud and deep:
"God is not dead; nor doth He sleep!
The Wrong shall fail, the Right prevail,
With peace on earth, good-will to men!"

—Longfellow.

Jap Business Man Worried By War Effect On Trade

Warns Fellow Countrymen to Remain on Land and to Avoid the Follies of West-ern Life—The Food Supply Problem is Acute

CAN'T BORROW IN EUROPE

TOKIO, Dec. 8.—Big business interests of Japan, some of which have been opposed from the start to the participation of Japan in the war, are wondering how Japan will be able to borrow needed money from now on. "The war may be necessary for Japan from a political and ethical standpoint," said a prominent banker to the correspondent of the Associated Press, but I wonder if it will be a good thing for business. Moreover, I think it will be impossible for Japan to borrow money in Europe within the five or seven years following the close of the war."

Japan, he continued, desired to go on with her work of commercial and financial development. The European money market being closed, bankers were asking themselves whether it would be possible to secure loans in the United States. The business interests were anxious to create closer and more extensive business interests with the United States and to make the Pacific Ocean a sphere not only of peace but of greater commercial activity. It was evident, he said, that there existed in Japan to-day a powerful current of opinion in this direction which was opposed to any consideration of local politics or party strife interfering with such a trade and commercial development.

Viscount Inaijiro Tajiri, president of the board of auditors, who studied economics and finance at Yale University, has written this month about the fundamental solution of Japanese finance, which he considers the most difficult problem that Japan has to face. In Japan it was perhaps more difficult than in any other country in the world, and yet there was no country on earth where there was such hope for the future if all classes continued to co-operate toward the one end of financial consolidation. He wrote:

IN DEBT HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS.

"The question that most vitally affects national finance in this country is that of food. It is in fact the great fundamental problem of the nation. Solve this problem and the problem of finance is solved. At present our food supply is deficient and renders us a debtor nation. This is reflected in our excess of imports over exports, and our unfavourable balance of trade generally. The government is in debt and private enterprise is in debt to the extent of hundreds of millions. Many of our municipalities are in debt too. More than 200,000,000 yen ($100,000,000) of our business capital is foreign money.

"It is not too much to say that the whole difficulty lies in our deficiency in food supply, chiefly in rice, the staff of life in Japan."

Dr. Tajiri pointed out that the annual supply of rice was deficient and was made more so by the annual consumption of 20,000,000 bushels by the breweries for making the national drink called sake. In eating rice, much of which she imported, Japan was eating verily "the money of the usurer." It would be a long time before Japan became a creditor nation, and in addition to adopting the remedies of reorganization of commerce and industry and more extensive colonization, Japan must readjust her cultivated land so as to insure an annual increase in the rice crops of at least 35,000,000 bushels. He declared:

"If we go on importing the most necessary articles of food and export only luxuries and ornaments, we cannot bring about the desired change." Much also could be done, he thinks, by exterminating injurious insects which destroy 75,000,000 bushels of rice every years. Improved methods would increase crops in Hokkadio, Korea and Formosa. In the south two crops a year could easily be raised.

SHOULD PROMOTE AGRICULTURE.

"What Japan has to do is to make agriculture the main vocation of the people. Let her become as successful a commercial and industrial people as she may, yet she should never forget that without agriculture there is no hope for her as a nation. Agricultural retorms constitute the best policy for promoting national economy. It is the ill considered notion that industry rather than agriculture should be the foundation of national economy that leads so many young men of Japan to forsake the land and wander to the cities, where they come to nothing.

"Another necessary reform relates to foreign trade. Instead of importing necessities and exporting luxuries, Japan's goal should be to export the necessities. She should learn to grow her own cotton, as she is now attempting to do in Korea."

In conclusion, Count Tajiri warns his fellow countrymen thus:

"Japan needs to be careful to guard against the western tendency to run after ornament and to be reckless of the more practical things of life. Our people should think more about the substance and meaning of life. The foundation of national economy depends much upon the economy of individuals. If we began by reforms in the supply and consumption of food and then went on to improve commerce and industry, we should be taking the right and natural course."

Canadian Grocer Says Shelled Walnuts Have Not Arrived Here Yet

The following comment on the market situation as regards food stuffs will appear in Canadian Grocer this week:

Office of Publication,
Toronto, Dec. 10, 1914.

Trade is now pretty well confined to Christmas goods, but in many centres this is even not over brisk. The reason is that the retail trade is not buying in the usual quantities this year lest it should be caught with unsaleable goods when the holidays are over. This leads one to believe that during Christmas week there will be many orders come in from retailers who bought sparingly and who now find it necessary to replenish their stocks. This course shows the carefulness that is pervading the trade and it means that when the temporary depression has passed these men will be in a good solid position to take advantage of the more hopeful future.

The week has brought changes in the market situation. The interesting features are the absence of adequate supplies of shelled walnuts and Sultanas. While one large importer received some shelled walnuts prior to last week, the shipment was not large enough to go very far round and he had soon disposed of them. Everybody is now awaiting the arrival of the Steamship "Hesparian" which by this time will likely have discharged her cargo at St. John, N.B. She is supposed to have shelled walnuts on board and if so some of the trade may yet have their supplies for Christmas. However when the time it will require to get these nuts in the hands of the retailer at long distance from the seaboard is taken into consideration, there are bound to be many who will have to go without them.

The entrance of Turkey into the war has too, affected the usual supplies of Sultana raisins. While some have reached this country, the shipments have not been at all adequate to go round and prices are firmer. Since Turkey became one of Great Britian's enemies, Sultanas which left the ports of the Eastern country will not be permitted to enter Canada.

THE MORAL.

There is a lad in a town in New Hampshire, where the thrifty mothers are still wont to cut their children's hair by means of a pair of shears and a bowl, who has always felt that this sort of thing is a degradation.

In Sunday school on one occasion the teacher told the class of which this boy was a member the story of Samson and Delilah. When she had finished she said to this youngster:

"Henry, what do you learn from the Samson story?"

"That it don't never pay," responded Henry, promptly, "to let a woman cut a feller's hair."—Ex.

LOSING HOPE WOMAN VERY ILL

Finally Restored To Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bellevue, Ohio.—"I was in a terrible state before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable. Compound. My back ached until I thought it would break, I had pains all over me, nervous feelings and periodic troubles. I was very weak and run down and was losing hope of ever being well and strong. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I improved rapidly and today am a well woman. I cannot tell you how happy I feel and I cannot say too much for your Compound. Would not be without it in the house if it cost three times the amount."—Mrs. CHAS. CHAPMAN, R. F. D. No. 7, Bellevue, Ohio.

Woman's Precious Gift.

The one which she should most zealously guard, is her health, but it is the one most often neglected, until some ailment peculiar to her sex has fastened itself upon her. When so afflicted such women may rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a remedy that has been wonderfully successful in restoring health to suffering women.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

BOOMED GERMANY'S NAVY

Von Koester the Human Dynamo Behind the Navy League

In the amazing propaganda carried on by the Germany Navy League lies the secret of the conversion of the nation once known as the land of thinkers and poets into a race of naval enthusiasts. It is the Navy League which has driven the doctrine of sea power so deep into the German marrow that it has become a religion and Admiral von Koester is the personality which has been behind the league. The methods of a predecessor in office brought the organization to the brink of disintegration. The

ADMIRAL VON KOESTER

Imperial Admiralty was face to face with a calamity. The break-up of the Navy League threatened danger to the whole future of German naval policy.

Koester had just relinquished the commandership-in-chief of the high seas fleet with the rank of grand admiral, which corresponds to the highest rank in the army, that of a field marshal. The executive gifts which had distinguished his entire career specially enabled him to restore harmony in the league's warring ranks. On the wave of enthusiasm which accompanied the dawn of the dreadnought era, the Flotten-Verein was launched on a new career of prosperity and power.

Relatives on Both Sides

Details of a curious family complication come from St. Gall, Switzerland. A naturalized Swiss citizen, German by birth, is married to a Hungarian. His brother-in-law is fighting against the Servians, and the husband of his sister-in-law is fighting against the Austrians. Of the man's two brothers, one is in a Prussian regiment and the other is serving France under General Galliení.

How Russians Cross Rivers

When Russian cavalry cross rivers or streams the men are sent over independently of the horses, which are collected and driven in a body into the water, the direction being given by a few troopers who are good swimmers, and who cross holding on to the horses' manes.

The Russians claim that this method has the double advantage of taking only half the time which would otherwise be occupied in crossing a river, and of fatiguing the horses far less.

To prevent the horses breaking away, and thus delaying the formation of the troop after the passage, the troopers who go over with the horses, instead of at once crossing to the opposite bank, halt near the middle of the stream and form a chain along that part of the river. It is found that the animals, after their swim, take their places in the ranks without giving trouble.

A GUARD'S REVENGE

Lying Wounded, He Shot Three Germans Who Deprived Him of Water

Private T. Smithson of the 3rd Coldstreams, an Englishman who elected to go to Scotland to recuperate when he got the chance, recounts the following story: "I got 'laid out,' but just before the shrapnel got me in the ankle and arm I had a narrow escape. A shell burst right over a chum a few feet away and blew him to bits. I couldn't get any further, but, fortunately, there was a heap of manure in one of the fields, and I got cover behind that, and I think that soon I was about the only man left alive in that place. There was a man lying near me, and he was badly hurt. He asked for some water and I threw my bottle, but before he could pick it up another shrapnel finished him. For a long time there was nobody moving near me, but the shells were bursting all round. After a while I got to need a drink badly, but I couldn't crawl to where my bottle was lying.

"After an hour or so a German patrol came up, and I determined I was going to have a drink no matter what happened, and as they passed I spoke and signed to them to throw my bottle over. But they only laughed and kicked it further away. I 'saw red' then, and I was going to plug some of them for that even if they plugged me afterwards. I waited till they were about four or five hundred yards away, and couldn't get back too soon, and though I knew if anything went wrong with the gun after I fired the first shot it would likely be all up with me, I risked it. My first shot brought down one of them, and the other three dropped on the ground. I simply waited till they got up and got one after the other. I don't know whether I killed any of them, but," he added with a grim laugh, "as I hit them all I knew the chap who kicked the water bottle had got something for his trouble, and I felt better after that."

SOME PRESS COMMENT

It is all very well to talk of disarmament after the war, but what if the winners refuse to disarm?—St. Louis "Republic."

Everybody is now learning what strategists mean by an "offensive move." Shelling a cathedral 700 years old is a typical illustration.—Brooklyn "Eagle."

No matter when it comes it is going to be peace at the highest price.—Memphis "Commercial Appeal."

Berlin denies that the Crown Prince stole works of art from the chateau of Countess de Bayes. The Countess repeats the charge and gives details of the looting, packing and transporting. Perhaps the misfortunes of war will compel the Crown Prince to send everything back to the owner.—Toronto Globe.

The inhabitants of the earth are estimated to number 1,633 millions, of which Europe has 400 millions and the colonies and dependencies of her several states as many more, to say nothing of Asiatic Russia and Japan. Thus more than half of the human race will feel some drain and strain of this conflict, and it will make life harder and sadder in some degree for all the rest.—Rochester Post Express.

The Kaiser takes after his grandfather, whose own father was carried off in a state of religious mania and his brother was hypochondriac. William I. was a firm believer in the infallibility of monarchs; he held all men in contempt who were neither soldiers nor nobles, and he not only religiously excluded from court such men as bankers, merchants, lawyers and tradespeople, but the consuls of other countries. With variations the present Kaiser seems to have stepped into his shoes. In turn he has been comedian, philosopher and Biblical commentator. The miracle of it all is not so much that he should regard himself as a minor god—and perhaps not so much minor after all—as that he should have succeeded in getting his people to take him at his own valuation.—Ayrshire Post.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

A TRIBUTE TO JOFFRE.

(New York World.)

When Lord Kitchener at the Lord Mayor's banquet spoke of Gen. Joffre as "not only a great military leader, but a great man," he was not uttering the ordinary compliments of the occasion.

In the last days of July the French Commander-in-Chief, if not an obscurity, at least was an unknown quantity. He had the rank and responsibility, but no one could say how he would meet the supreme test. Even to-day, personally Joffre remains a figure of mystery, but the great directing power that he exercises is felt every hour from Belfort to the Belgian coast. He has been the match of all the strategists of Germany at their own game, and shown himself a scientific soldier of the highest order.

THE VICTORS.

(Washington Star.)

"I met in Milan," said a returned tourist, "Gen Angelo Gatti, the Italian tactician. Gatti talked luminously on the war. This, remember, was about September 1.

"Gen. Gatti said that the allies in France had been audacious at first—hence their hard luck. He said they had now learned their lesson, and were doing better.

"'In warfare,' said Gen. Gatti, 'the rash are annihilated. The timid are crushed. Victory crowns those alone who mingle rashness and timidity together—those, so to speak, who run risks at a slow walk.'"

Whole British Regiments Wiped Out in Fighting

Some Now Remain Only in Name After Tremendous Losses in Conflicts Near Ypres

ADVERTISING OF BRAVERY BRINGS FLOOD OF RECRUITS

LONDON, Nov. 24.—British losses in the fight near Ypres and the coast have been enormous. Their casualties in the last three weeks — killed, wounded and missing—have been over 25,000, so that the total of 87,000 since the war began given by Mr. Asquith should now read 89,000.

Several British regiments are now only a name. The Dorsets, 1,200 strong when they went to the Ypres, now numbers 200 men; the Wiltshires have suffered almost as severely; the First Battalion of the Coldstreams has not fifty men left, while the Connaught Rangers have been almost wiped out, and the Ninth Lancers have practically ceased to exist.

The same tale could be told of other battalions, notably the Irish Gards, which have covered themselves Guards which have covered themselves mere skeleton. But these are the regiments for which recruiting is most active.

The London Scottish have won imperishable renown at a frightful cost, and since then there has been a rush to join the new battalions, so they wer overflowing in a couple of days. It happened that the valour of the London Scottish was advertised by Sir John French because that was the first Territorial regiment to go into the firing line, and the enthusiasm aroused has its result in this rush of recruits to reinforce that regiment.

A more conclusive proof of the value of having correspondents at the Front to record the achievements of the army could not be provided—and yet Lord Kitchener stands in the way.

2,000,000 Men Training.

There are 2,000,000 trained or partly trained men in Great Britain at this moment, and if 500,000 were needed at the Front within the next fortnight they could be supplied. But the strategy of the Allies in the west does not render such an increase of strength necessary. It is apparently their intention to persist in the "nibbling" policy of General Joffre, who seems to have completely won the confidence of General French and the British Council of War.

The fruitless and costly offensive tactics of the Germans appear to suit the Allies' plans. These tactics prevent the Germans from detaching any large number of men from the western front to assist in the deadly and decisive struggle now proceeding in the east.

If such detachment should be attempted then the Allies here will take the offensive at once in order to put the breaking strain on the German armies. The Allies are looking forward to passing the best part of the winter very much in their present position. If the Germans withdraw to the well-nigh impregnable strong defences of the Rhine they could then send a great part of the armies now fighting in Belgium and Northern France to help against the Russians.

It remains to be seen whether the military pride of the Germans will permit them to acknowledge failure in the western theatre by retreating to the Rhine, even though such retreat would greatly prolong their powers of resistance. Of course, the political effect of such a retreat must also be reckoned with. Germany would then know what it now probably only suspects—that the grand achievement of the occupation of Paris has vanished.

Canadians Complain.

The Canadian contingent is quartered on Salisbury Plain, not a very salubrious residence these bleak, wet, windy nights. They say they would rather be at the front, which is probably true. Their camp near Quebec was a model of comfort, wooden floors to their tents, electric light and warm baths. On Salisbury Plain they lie on the cold ground, on their camp mattresses, they have lamps to light them during the long, cheerless evenings, and all around is a sea of mud.

It is surprising that the British Territorials make little complaint of these hardships. The Canadians are getting quite "fed up" with them. Their discipline, too, is said to leave much to be desired from the point of view of the British Army. The officers and men are declared to be too familiar—there is no dividnig line of rank between them. Consequently there is slackness in the training, the attractions of London both for men and officers are apparently irresistible, and they are seen about the West-End in undue numbers.

If it were a British force raised in England, Scotland or Ireland, it would be taken in hand and pulled together without compunction, but the Colonial has to be handled delicately, consequently the progress made toward fitting them for the field is not as rapid as could be wished.

There is no doubt that when the Candians get to the Front they will be a most valuable addition to the fighting forces, especially Strathcona's Horse and the other regiments which are made up of regulars, to which the criticisms above mentioned do not apply. They are a magnificent body of men, and will be drafted to France as soon as they are needed.

CORNS BETWEEN THE TOES, or on the soles of the feet, can be cured by a few applications of Putnam's Corn Extractor, which acts painlessly, quickly and with certainty. The genuine "Putnam's" always cures. Try it.

THE BLOOD IS THE STREAM OF LIFE

Pure Blood Is Absolutely Necessary To Health

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" PURIFIES

These Wonderful Tablets, Made of Fruit Juices, Are The Best Of All Tonics To Purify And Enrich The Blood.

Pure, rich blood can flow only in a clean body. Now, a clean body is one in which the waste matter is regularly and naturally eliminated from the system. The blood cannot be pure when the skin action is weak, when the stomach does not digest the food properly, when the bowels do not move regularly, when the kidneys are strained or overworked.

Pure blood is the result of perfect health and harmony of stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and skin.

"Fruit-a-tives", by their wonderful action on all these organs, keeps the whole system as clean as Nature intended our bodies to be clean.

"Fruit-a-tives" tones up, invigorates, strengthens, purifies, cleans and gives pure, rich, clean blood that is, in truth, the stream of life.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c, a box, 6 for $2.50 trial size 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE LOST WAD.

(Luke McLuke in Cincinnati Enquirer.)

The bells was ringing 8 o'clock, when to the store came Kate,
She should have come at 7, but the girl did sleep too late;
She was a weary salesgirl, and, as she did seem real glum,
She felt beneath the counter for her working wad of gum.
The gum was gone! "Great Heavings!" cried the girl. "Oh, Mag! Oh, Maud!
Some of youse girls came early and has beat me to my wad."
The girls denied that they had took the gum and walked away,
But they did hang their heads in shame when Kate she then did say:

Chorus:

"I may be but a working girl, but working girls has rights,
And to preserve that wad of gum I kept it here at nights,
And no girl ain't no lady, and a crook she has become,
Who'd steal from any working girl her only wad of gum."

PRACTICAL PRESCRIPTION AGAINST STOMACH ACIDITY

Nine-tenths of all cases of stomach trouble nowadays are caused by too much acid. In the beginning the stomach itself is not diseased but if this acid condition is allowed to continue, the acid is very likely to eat into the stomach walls and produce stomach ulcers which may render a radical surgical operation, necessary even to prolong life. Therefore, an "acid stomach" is really a dangerous condition and should be treated seriously. It is utterly useless to take pepsin and ordinary stomach tablets. The excess acid of stomach hyperacidity must be neutralized by the administration of an efficient antacid. For this purpose the best remedy is bisurated magnesia taken in teaspoonful doses in a fourth of a glass of water after each meal. Larger quantities may be used if necessary as it is absolutely harmless. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia as other forms of magnesia make effervescent mouth washes but they have not the same action on the stomach as the bisurated.

FRENCH PRESIDENT A MAN OF CAUTION

He is Known as a Financial Expert and Lawyer of High Repute—Makes Careful Speeches

The President of the French Republic was brought probably closer to the war than the head of any of the other belligerent nations. M. Raymond Poincare was born at Bar-le-Duc in French Lorraine and the house of M. Poincare's parents was occupied by the Germans, and German shells dug holes all over M. Poincare's own acres.

The Poincare estates are considerable, and, with the industry and thoroughness that are characteristic of his own people, M. le President made the most of them. He is learned in the deep and difficult cult of the vine, and his cellars are judiciously furnished. While his studies in Paris were mostly given to stocks and shares and international finance, he has shown, at home and as a holiday-maker, the practical Frenchman's close acquaintanceship with crops and the field.

But M. Poincare, when trouble comes and the troops of a hostile army tread down his vegetables and kill his chickens, has the consolation of a very thorough military training. He knows the strategic points of his own countryside, and is able to count the hours that must pass till the day of deliverance. M. Poincare did not learn his history and do his military service at Nancy for nothing. And even as Premier he necessarily keeps abreast with modern notions of soldiering, and is the master of his country's plan of campaign.

Is Head of the Army

When he visits the fighting lines he does not, of course, take any part in the direction of the movement of the allies' troops, but he might do so if he cared to exercise the powers that go with his office. As President, he ranks as the "chef agissant de sa personne," or the personally responsible and supreme director of the army. Nor should we forget his other powers as the head of belligerent France. The President of the French Republic, under the constitution as it then stood and now stands, concluded the Treaty of Berlin without the ratification of Parliament.

M. Poincare was born in 1860. His boyhood was spent in and out of Bar-le-Duc, where he went to school; and he learned to shoot straight and dig trenches in the same district. M. Poincare's profession is the law. In the law courts his cases were for a long time of one kind; a leaning towards literature and art directed the trend of his legal studies, and his clients, when he had the choosing, where most often poets and painters.

His speeches ran so smoothly that they were sometimes in danger of being ineffective; they lacked the jar and jolt of certain famous oratorical efforts made by Lloyd George or Churchill.

Memorized His Speeches

Midnight oil made them run without effort; they were always written beforehand and learned by heart, and his prose style was equally elaborate and finished, even to the point of monotony.

His political career began in 1887, but for three years M. Poincare was a silent member. He was deeply engaged in figures. It is undoubted that M. Poincare's ability as a financier has been one of the main reasons for his high reputation as a statesman; and since modern wars are fought with minted bullets as much as with shrapnel, it follows that the right man is at the head of the French Republic.

POINTS ABOUT POLAND A LAND OF WARFARE

The Poles are a peasant people. The rural population is about 7,000,000 the peasants owning about fifty per cent. of the land.

The history of the country has been a very chequered one. It had a separate constitution from 1815-30, and a separate government from 1830-64. Ultimately Russia acquired the country and prohibited the official use of the Polish language.

Warsaw, the capital of Russian Poland, is one of the most important and prosperous cities of Eastern Europe.

Warsaw supplanted Cracow as capital of Poland in 1613, Cracow, however, remaining the coronation city.

Warsaw is a city of churches, synagogues, and private palaces. The castle is its most imposing structure and contains many art treasures.

The cathedral of Cracow, dating back to the fourteenth century, is a splendid pile, and contains the graves of many Polish heroes. One of the greatest treasures is the statue of Christ, by Thorwaldsen, the great Danish sculptor.

The university, which was suppressed in 1832, was reopened in 1864, and has seventy-five professors (who teach in Russian) and over 1,100 students.

The sight which stirs all Poles is the grassy mound about three miles west of Cracow. This mound is 150 feet high, and is composed of earth taken from all the battlefields of Poland. The mound was reared in 1820-23 to the memory of the famous Polish patriot and general, Kosciusko, who was commander-in-chief and dictator in the Polish insurrection of 1792.

Przemysl is in Austrian Galicia, being sixty-one miles from Lemberg. It has been strongly fortified since 1874.

At the Bar of History

Into the Kaiser's motives for trying to grind further into the dust the little nation whom he has so deeply wronged, we need not stop to inquire. It has cost him ten of thousands of German lives and the German Government's condemnation for all time before the bar of history; and he can never finally retain the soil which he has sullied one square inch.—London Chronicle.

Russia's Revenues Are Increasing Steadily, Budget Statement Shows

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A Petrograd despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company says:

"The Minister of Finance, in a memorandum accompanying the budget, states that through the prohibition of the sale of alcoholic liquors, in accordance with the will of the Emperor, who is anxious to see his people healthy and sober, the country has been deprived of one of its most important sources of revenue, but he is convinced that, however much this may be felt by the treasury, the creative power of the sober Russian people applied to the enormous natural riches of the country will enable future budgets of the empire to be based on new principles.

"The revenue, which in th first two months of the war showed a considerable decrease, has since displayed a permanent upward tendency, which gave him reason to hope that 'the havoc in the country's economic life due to the war would not be as grave as had been feared.'

"To secure funds necessary to conduct the war, the Minister declared, the government would have to have recourse to further credit operations, an increase in the existing taxes and the creation of fresh imports. He gave assurance, in closing, that loans, both internal and external, would present no difficulties."

A draft of receipts and expenditures for the Russian Empire for the year 1915 has just been made public in Petrograd.

In this project ordinary receipts are given at 3,080,108,314 roubles, as against 3,572,102,473 roubles for the preceding year. Extraordinary receipts are given at 154,200,100 roubles, as against 41,499,925 roubles for the preceding year. The total receipts are consequently estimated at 3,234,308,414 roubles ($1,617,154,207), as against 3,613,669,398 roubles ($1,806,834,699) for 1914.

Ordinary expenditures for 1915 are placed at 3,078,814,461 roubles as against 3,309,528,517 for 1914, and the extraordinary expenditures are given at 155,493,953 roubles as against 304,045,881 for 1914. The total of expenditures is 3,234,308,414 roubles ($1,617,154,207) as against 3,613,569,398 roubles ($1,806,784,699) in 1914.

From the foregoing it is seen that the surplus of ordinary receipts for the year 1915 over ordinary expenditures is estimated at 1,293,553 roubles ($646,926), as against a surplus of 292,645,956 roubles ($131,322,678) in the year 1914.

BARB WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS

As has been learned from the reports from the war, barb wire entanglements have been freely resorted to by both sides for protecting heir positions, and in a general way it is known that these consist in a number of irregular lines of strong posts set solidly in the ground with a maze of lines of barbed wire strung between them; but how these obstacles are overcome has been left for explanation to a military expert, who has an interesting story to tell in the fourth war issue of the Scientific American of 5th December. Some of the many schemes that have been tried are described as follows:

Experiments have been made in removing whole sections of wire at once by means of a rake, to which a wire rope is fastened. This is thrown over an obstacle, and thirty men pull upon the rope. Thus a section eleven and one-half feet wide and sixteen and one-half feet deep is torn out. In order to reduce the time required to pass through a barbed trap (the glint of the wire is usually concealed by a bank of earth) some military engineers have thought that it is a waste of precious minutes to cut or tear it down, and that it is more rational to surmount the obstacle in some way. Structures of boards, ladders, and bags should be thrown over the wire, according to their ideas, and upon the platform thus made the men can press forward. Boards eight feet long, nine inches wide, and three-quarters of an inch thick, are fastened together by means of three cross pieces, leaving a clear space of three inches between the boards. The weight of the double board is thirty-two pounds, and sixteen of them are employed, each carried by a single man. To place the sixteen double boards on the wire net requires about one hundred and forty seconds, as actual tests have shown, and it takes seventeen men sixty seconds to pass over the boards. As a time-saving expedient, therefore, the method is hardly a success over that of wire-cutting.

Nor are ladders much better. In some experiments, conducted in Britain, ten ladders with nine rungs each were used. Each latted, twelve feet long and twenty-two inches wide, weighed thirty-two pounds, and was carried by a single man. The ladders were laid down in one hundred and forty-five seconds, and sixty-five seconds were required by seventeen men to pick their way from rung to rung.

That this idea of surmounting an obstacle rather than cutting a way through it is not practicable, is better shown by the experiments which have been made with bags of cloth and wire. Twelve bags each eight feet long nad four and one-half feet wide (measured empty) and weighing forty pounds when filled with straw, were placed upon a net in ninety-five seconds, and seventeen men passed over them in forty-five seconds. When the bags are wade of wire poorer results are obtained. Such bags are composed of two pieces of wire meshing, eight feet long and four and one-half feet wide, laid on top of each other and placed together at the sides with wire. A quantity of straw three inches thick is pushed into the wire bag, which then weighs only twenty pounds. It takes ninety seconds tolay sixteen of these bags on a barbed wire entanglement, and it takes seventeen men sixty-five seconds to pass over them.

Radway's Ready Relief

Jacob Able of R. F. D. No. 1, Millstown, N. J., writes: "For the last three years I have had kidney disease and backache, and I have had it so bad that for eight days and nights I could not get my clothes off. I thought I would try Radway's Ready Relief. I got my back and hips rubbed well with it, and in a short time the pain was all gone. No one in this world knows but God and myself the misery I was in till I USED Radway's Ready Relief."

CURES LUMBAGO

Radway's Ready Relief should be well rubbed over a large surface, until a glow is produced, with a burning sensation. For extra results take the Radway Pills. Same do, when a dose of nothing would be taken.

Uncle Snod Lukens' Christmas

By Ed Mott.

I HAD a toler'ble rosy time Christmas an' I'd laugh myself to death over it yit if it wa'n't that thinkin' o' the heartless onfeelin'ness of a couple o' orphan b'ar cubs that was mixed up with it sort o' puts a damper on me."

Uncle Snod Lukens was beat on slaughtering a bear or two, or maybe more, for the boys at the Catfish Corners tavern, and Jed Hawkins remarked to the landlord that he better get ready to sweep out the blood as fast as it spurted, or they'd all get their feet wet. But Uncle Snod had no intention to let his bears get away, the insinuation of Jed Hawkins notwithstanding, and, borrowing Smiley Perkins' plug of tobacco, and forgetting to hand it back after he had bit off his "chaw," he went into the bears without regard to consequences.

"I hadn't killed nothin' stronger'n a cattymount fer a year 'n better, bein's because b'ar had run sheercer 'n mules' colts, 'n the highest I had come to killin' one bein' a follerin' of it fer two days clean acrosst the county, 'n then comin' up wit it, forty miles from home, ketched in a trap that belonged to a cock-eyed mule driver from the tannery over there, an' he killed it an' was slidin' the pelt offen it when I fetched up ag'in him. 'Twa'n't the losin' o' the b'ar so much, but to think that he should a' kep' shet o' my drawin' head on him fer so long to come to setch an ignominious end as to be ketch'd in a cock-eyed mule driver's trap, 'n then be shot 'n peeled of his pelt by the cock-eyed mule driver hisself, that riled me 'n made me cuss the luck.

"Well, anyhow, the day afore Christmas Chet Parsons, him bein' lumberin' over Red Brook Swamp way, come to me with his eyes bigger'n the butt end of his hick'ry whipstalk, 'n says he had just see a b'ar the size of a yearlin' heifer cross the log road at the foot o' Ball Hill, 'n go off in into the swamp.

"'He looked amazin' like ez if he'd a notion to hev a piece o' me fer his Christmas dinner, so he did,' says Chet, 'n I run the team all the way into camp,' says Chet, his eyes bigger'n dinners.

"'All right, Chet,' says I to him. 'I'll go out t'morrer 'n hev a merry Christmas with that ol' Bruin, an' you kin hev a piece o' him fer your Christmas dinner, 'stid o' him havin' a piece o' you,' I says.

"'Bout an hour arter sun-up Christmas mornin' me 'n my gun started fer Red Brook Swamp. The place where Chet Parsons see the big b'ar was three miles off from camp. There was five or six inches o' snow, 'n it had frore to a solid crust. Sartin ez sap, there at the foot o' Ball Hill b'ar tracks was leadin' into the swamp. I thought it'd be more'n like ez not that the ol' cuss 'd come out ag'in on the same side that he went in at, so I jogged along a piece furder. Ten rod ahead I found a big b'ar track comin' out o' the swamp an' goin' over to'rds Sweet Flag Pond. True enough, the ol' feller had come out the swamp durin' the night, an' had gone back to his nest in the mountains some'rs. An' I took the trail to wunst.

"The b'ar had gone straight to the pond, half way 'round it, 'n then right up the side of Ball Hill, half a mile from the swamp. I know ev'ry inch o' the ground, fer I had hunted it more'n a hundred times. Fifty years ago, when I was comin' thirteen, I killed my first deer right there in Sweet Flag Pond. Great powder horns a-smokin', what game th' was in the woods then! Deer run in droves like cattle, 'n 'fore I was of age I hung up ez many ez thirteen in a day. I seen a buck 'n a doe wunst, standin' on the edge o' Sweet Flag Pond. The buck was highest to me, 'n the doe was standin' right in line, ten feet furder on. The ol' he feller was pawin' the [illegible] r'arin' up on his hind feet, feelin' like a steer in the wheat. The doe was lookin' at him ez if she thought th't no other buck in the hull durn woods could prance 'round 'n cavort anything like half ez fine ez he. Pooty soon the ol' feller settled on his feet. I hauled up 'n draw'd on to him. 'B-a-a-n-g' went old smoothbore. You kin kick me fum here to the Catfish Corners meetin' house 'n heave me there if I didn't put a ball clean through the buck's lights 'n out on t'other side of him, 'n into the doe's heart 'n through it, 'n often her body 'n killed a fawn that I hadn't see, which stood longside o' the doe jest beyend her. Yes, yes, 'twas auth-ramain' powder 'n lead in them days.'

"Well, the b'ar went up the side o' Ball Hill 'n I follered. 'Twa'n't very steep where he went up, 'n about a hundred yards fum the bottom I found the cave in the rocks where he had holed up. I see to wunst that I'd hef to give the cunnin' ol' varmint a house-warmin' 'fore I could git sight of him, so I piled up a heap o' hemlock boughs in the mouth o' the cave 'n set 'em on fire. The smoke rolled down into the b'ar's lodgin's, 'n pooty soon I heerd the lodger sneeze. B'ars can't stand smoke in their dens, but they're too cunnin' to come rushin' out all to wunst to see what in Sam Hill is goin' on outside. So in 'bout half a minute I see this un's nose come pokin' up to the openin', 'n swish come one o' his paws down on the burnin' hemlock till he had the fire all swashed out. Then he shuck his head at me ez much ez to say, 'If you don't shet down on these here tricks o' your'n I'll sa'nter up 'n swash the life outen you similar!' 'n back into his den he went.

"That glare o' his'n jest tickled me all over, for I see that the prospec's o' me havin' the merriest kind of a merry Christmas was bright as a new tin milk pan in the sun. I set another lot o' hemlock to goin', n' almost right away up come the b'ar's nose ag'in, 'n the swashin' out was done all over ag'in. But sure as your Aunt Hanner ain't your Uncle Jake it wa'n't the same b'ar! More'n that, it was three b'ars—two yearlin's 'n their mother, a nice, fat, 'n sassy ol' lady. They did everlastin'ly swash that fire out, 'n fum the warnin' looks 'n growls that getherin' o' b'ar turned on to me I see the prospec's fer a merry Christmas gittin' brighter 'n brighter.

"Them b'ars went back into the den 'n I started another smokin' at the openin'. This time the ol' boss b'ar didn't calc'late to hev a smoke house made o' that dwellin' place o' his'n no longer, 'n out he come a-tearin' right over the fire an' headin' fer me on his hind feet, his jaws open like an alligator's 'n reddern' a round o' beef. I sent a bullet to'rds him 'n he dropped ez if he'd run ag'in a railroad train, but he didn't stay dropped. He had his pins under him ag'in in less'n no time 'n come at me a-poppin'. I see know'd by the blood on the snow that he had it bad, but th' wa'n't no doubt but what he'd make it lively for me ez long ez his lamp held out to burn. I didn't calc'late that he had the idee that he could git away with me alone by hisself, under. I won't be much ez much ez a pint o' wormy chesnuts, 'n nobody won't never s'pectin' that his fat 'n sassy mate 'd know, from me a tellin' of 'em, what a rumble out 'n take a hand in the doin's of merry Christmas I had over on the slippin', slidin' bosom of ol' Ball Hill.

"Why in the name o' all that's loriny," says I, 'don't them two whinin' cubs come out here 'n interfere with me in the way some o' the merriness o' Christmas, 'n I am treatin' their poor old mother? I says, ez we draw'd nigher to that pitch, for I had got straddle o' the b'ar, 'n she was squar' on her back. 'There's goin' to be trouble fer this b'ar widder unless them two whimperin' cubs comes out 'n pulls me of o' the cavortin'est critter,' I says.

"But they didn't come, 'n squar' on the edge o' that steep slide we had rassled ourselves. That b'ar grabbed me 'round the waist. I shoved the handle o' my axe crossways in the mouth on it was stretched open, tryin' its best to git up on fur en my gullet. I shet one hand on to the handle on one side o' the b'ar's jaw, 'n one on t'other side, just as we tryst eager that pitch, 'n the b'ar clim her jaws on to it.

"Nobody never had setch a ride en me on that b'ar down that slippery stretch. There wa'n't nothin' in the way to stop us. The b'ar was p'inted down hill, 'n her body was rolled up most in a ball. To say we went kiten' down hill don't git within gunshot of it. 'Twas jest a whiss, kerplunk, 'n we was down that three hundred foot slide 'n into the pond forty feet from shore. We went so fast that we didn't drop offen the ledge, but kep' right on through the air till we struck the pond in a straight line fum the top o' the hill, as if the crust had kep under us all the time.

"The ice on the pond was seven inches thick. The pool b'ar hit in head first, breakin' her neck like it wowt 'a been a pipe stem 'n savin' me the trouble o' finishin' of her. The ice was broke fer three rod around. I was half an hour fittin' my level back, 'n I hain't never had setch a shakin' up sence the time me 'n the cattymount left the top o' the hemlock tree together 'n found that the soft side o' the scrub oak ridge wa'nt turned to the sun jest then. But when I come around so I could 'preciate things I was on the p'int o' settin' go a holler over the merry Christmas I was havin', but lookin' up the hill I see them two cubs that was now orphans on the cold world sunin' down, I thought, mournful like, at what had been goin' on. I hadn't the heart to do it, 'n most busted in tears. But when them two pesky cubs that I was feelin' go dead over lugged their daddy over to the slide 'n give him a send-off down to me where I was standin' over their mommy, dead an' gone, 'n danced like they was having more fun than a house afire ez they see him whizzin' down, I see that they didn't keer a'ioty about what had happened to the family, 'n I let my holler loose ez the ol' man b'ar come tumblin' at my feet on the pond. 'I not hankerin' for any more b'ars jest then. I left them two onfeelin' cubs langin' an' prancin' 'n went 'n got Chet Parsons to go in 'n haul their daddy 'n mommy to camp. I never had a rosier time than that un Christmas. 'n I'd jest about laugh myself sick over it yit if it wa'n't the thinkin' o' that heartless onfeelin'ness o' them cubs that was mixed up in that puts a damper on me."

"Jed" Hawkins pondered awhile and then said to Uncle Snod:—

"That cock-eyed mule driver you spoke about, Uncle Snod. That's what gits me. I've seen all sorts of critters, wild 'n tame, in these here woods, but I never yit see a cock-eyed mule."

Uncle Snod rebuked "Jed" Hawkins with a look of scorn and went away so suddenly that he must have forgotten about "Smiley" Perkins' plug of tobacco, for he took it along with him.

"I Dropped My Gun 'n Waded Into Him with My Huntin' Axe. It Was Like Dancin' on Glass to Keep My Feet on That Slippery Crust."

"Nobody Never Had Setch a Ride as Me on That B'ar Down That Slippery Stretch."

A Merry Christmas at Sea

"SEND me my Christmas cards by wireless," said the business man who was buying his ticket for Italy, gloomily. "Have you ever spent a merry Christmas all yourself on shipboard, a thousand miles or more from any one you could call a friend?"

"I have, but I don't expect to again—not at least until this wretched war is over," said the other man. "And I can tell you that I have spent many a one on shore that was not half so jolly or sent you to bed with such a good will to all feeling as one I had on the ocean.

"It was on one of those German steamships that are laid up over there in Hoboken now, and when I think of the Christmas aboard her I would like to go over and give what's left of the crew something to make Christmas a little less dreary for them. Believe I will, too. Never thought of it until this moment.

"You know, whatever you may feel about the Germans they have a way of celebrating Christmas, on sea or land, that makes you feel as you haven't since you were a youngster and hung up your stocking. A few years ago I had to leave New York, December 20, so suddenly that no one had time to give me any bundles to be opened on the 25th or anything of that sort, so I had no expectation of knowing when we passed the day on the calendar.

"I had not reckoned on the possibilities of a German ship. But the minute I saw the captain on Christmas eve I realized that something pleasant was going to happen. We had had boisterous, pounding weather, and at first I thought he was just relieved because things were quieting down a bit and people were beginning to appear again.

"'Better weather,' I remarked.

"'It'll be a fine Christmas,' he replied, smiling genially.

"And it was a fine Christmas. Gaily colored bunting came forth by the yard and flags and decorations galore. The ship that had been nothing but a poor asylum in a dreary waste of stormy waters suddenly became a festive bark carrying a happy throng of representatives of many nations from one shore to another. Lest any should forget the cause of the festivities, there were mottoes in English and in German and a big, brilliant tree with gifts of spoons, boxes, stick pins and knick-knacks suitable for men and women.

"The dinner included everything that you would have on your table in America and all that the Germans would have had if they had been at home, and I can tell you that it made a complete banquet. Every dish was wonderfully garnished and every turkey and pheasant gaily trussed. Personally I do not like to see the birds I am about to devour appear before me in such lifelike guise, with their feathers all on and that sort of thing, but I'll admit they look handsome.

"Of course, when the ice cream came on it was illuminated and carried around the room, while we all sang as loudly as we could. No one heard me for the noise that the big German next to me made, but it did me good, just the same. Then there was singing by real artists. There always seem to be artists on these boats and toasts. Those were days of peace, and the President of the United States, the King of England, the Kaiser and the King of Italy all came in for words of glowing praise, and hearty handclapping and singing of national and Christmas anthems. I don't remember what a lot of the speeches were about, for the wine was an abundant as it was excellent. However, it was one of the merriest Christmases I have ever known, and I wouldn't mind going with you if we could have another such."

"It would be pretty hard work to get up a good will, dove of peace Christmas if there are more than two nationalities aboard this time," replied the man who was destined to spend his 1915 Christmas on the sea. "That's a good idea of yours about giving that interned crew in Hoboken a little Christmas pleasure. No one's likely to think of them this year. It will be the worst Christmas they've ever had or ever will, I hope.

"Here's hoping that if we ever have to crowd in December again we will be able to say, 'Merry Christmas' to all the world—and mean it."

Law and Laughter

According to legal records, a defence put in by an attorney whose client was called upon to pay for a borrowed soup tureen said to have been returned in a damaged condition was briefed under three heads, as follows:—

"There are three points of defence:—First, we contend the tureen was broken when we received it; second, that it was in perfect condition when we returned it, and third, that we never had it."

"There's too much noise in this court room," announced an irate magistrate one morning when a heavy docket had crowded the hall of justice. "The Court has already committed four prisoners without hearing a word of the testimony."

"You are to be executed for your crime," said the Irish Judge to the prisoner at the bar; "I trust it will be a warning to you."

"What's the charge?" asked the Magistrate.

"He stole my pig, Your Honor," said the plaintiff.

"Have you any witnesses?" asked the Magistrate.

The plaintiff produced three men, who swore that they saw the defendant steal the pig.

"But I have ten witnesses who didn't see me steal the pig," announced the defendant.

His Honor counted busily.

"That's right," he said when he had compared the number of witnesses on the two sides.

"In this country the majority rules," he announced. "The prisoner is discharged."

"We have justice on our side," said one Supreme Court practitioner to another during the discussion of their prospects in a pending case.

"Yes," said his fellow counsel, "but what we want is the Chief Justice."

The famous English Counsellor Garrow was one day trying to get from an elderly woman witness evidence that a tender had been made of money in a certain case when he received from the counsellor on the opposite side a hastily scribbled note, which read:

"Garrow, submit: that tough old jade Will never prove a tender made."

CORDUROY COAT ALL THE RAGE FOR SPORT-LOVING FEMINITY

Bewildering Array of Capes, Wraps and Mantles, Fashion's Latest Edict, Being Shown

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Keeping with the fashion means adapting a bit of brogue and "caping" with them this season. A bewildering array of capes, wraps and mantles are offered for each and every occasion.

The sumptuous evening wraps of brilliantly lined velvets, fur collared, cuffed and edged are the same wonderful creations as shown earlier in the season. The military capes and flaring cossack cloaks, the braided and frogged military jackets have their staunch adherents still. It is of the new sports coats, however, delightfully appropriate for golf, for motoring, skating, for hiking or just plain knock about wear that descriptions are now in good order.

RUN ON CORDUROY.

There is a great run on corduroy for sport coats and they are shown in all the brilliant colouring as well as in the more conservative tones of "tete de nigre," Russian green, sand putty, mustard and corbeau blue. A particularly stunning model in the material is almost ankle length with a flaring bell-shaped back and a belt consisting of two switched straps across it. The collar is the new military effect and buttons up tightly about the throat.

Short box coats buttoned up high around the neck and widely belted come in the corduroy as well as in the huge horseblanket plaid effect just like big brother's mackinaw. These shorter coats are of course more desirable for skating and golf but going them one better for these sports are the lovely light weight but fleecily warm belted sweater of angora wool in softest pastel tints of old rose, old blue, old gold, sage green and grey.

With jaunty caps to match what skittish skater or girlish golfer could ask for more perfect apparel?

NOVEL RAINCOAT.

A novel raincoat of transparent rubberised crepe de chine is the latest chic covering to keep milady from the wrathful elements. They come in shimmering and shining greens and yellows and are as durable as they appear delicate. Perky little hats to match make up a moisture proof outfit guaranteed to keep their lucky wearers as dry as the state of Kansas.

You are sure to be spotted as ultra smart if you are wearing a leopard skin coat this winter. There seems to be something particularly fitting about this feline fur that adapts itself to most types of feminity.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

By DR. DAVID H. REEDER

Care of the Hair.— Baldness is a condition dreaded by all men; by women it simply will not be tolerated. The bald head is the inspiration for many a mean joke and it also seems to be the favourite roosting place for flies.

Ever since the advertising game, as it is called by many, began, the cures for baldness and hair growers have been flaunted in our faces with a persistency that proves conclusively that a good growth of healthy hair is so greatly desired that people part readily with money in the hope of success with one more remedy. A few months ago the newspapers printed a report taht a certain Eastern hospital had discovered the secret of the hair's growth and had been able to develop a luxuriant growth of hair upon bald heads. How much or how little truth there was in the report I do not know., but of one thing I think I am certain, the hospital got a lot of free advertising.

The subject touches most tenderly the sufferer from what is called Alopecia Areata, as in cases of that kind the hair growth comes out in patches. It is frequently confused with what is commonly called Ringworm or Tinea Tonsurans. A little study of the two conditions enables one to readily tell the difference, however. The one almost certain thing that distinguishes the two is that ringworm is confined almost exclusively to childhood, while Areata is common in adolescence and adult life. It is seldom that the loss of hair is permanent in those under middle age, but in older people the chances of a cure are not good.

I might tell you a long story of the other kind of baldness such as Senile Alopecia which is caused by old age, Congenial Alopecia is the Premature Alopecia, in which the hair begins to fall out anywhere between the ages of 20 and 40 years. These are the causes that should have careful and prompt attention.

One method of treatment which is highly recommended and is undoubtedly excellent is to mix or shake well together 8 ounces of Liquid Petrolatum with one-half ounce of oil of Capsicum. After a thorough washing of the scalp with a pure oil and potash soap, the mixture should be well rubbed into the scalp with the finger tips after which, if about to retire, a silk or stocking cap should be worn to protect the pillow and clothing from the oil. This treatment should be repeated 2 or 3 times per week and persisted in for many weeks. Stiff hats should not be worn by those wso desire to retain their hair. The practice of going bareheaded as followed by many school boys to-day is good. The hair was made to protect the head and when nature finds that we do not use what she supplies, she usually stops the supply.

I have noticed also of late years, many remedies advertised for restoring grey hair to the natural colour. I have investigated many of these, but found only one that would really to the work without staining and it was not advertised. It seems that many of the things to which humanity has been accustomed are passing away. One of the most deeply cherished of these is the old-fashioned grandfather and grandmother. They seem to be getting younger, they are no longer relegated to the easy chair by the fire place, but the grandmother of to-day in the city drives her own electric car and dresses as smartly as her married daughter, while the grandparents on the farm spend much of their time travelling or driving from place to place in their automobile. They keep young partly by thinking young thoughts and refusing to be shoved aside or placed on the shelf, and they learned the ways of health, which keeps the blood clean and pure, keeps wrinkle forming worries away and moves them to keep the scalp clean, the teeth well cared for and the waste or refuse of the body promptly removed.

Ribbon Bags for Christmas

Opera bags, handsome work bags and small ribbon bags that are so welcome with each returning Christmas are more beautiful than ever this year. For the art of weaving ribbons, which amounts to as much as painting when it comes to picturing flowers, seems to have reached perfection. Woven and printed Dresden ribbons and the richest brocades are used for the various kinds of bags. The heavy brocades are used for bags to be carried on the street, the flowered and gayly striped printed ribbons are chosen for work bags and the small toilet or vanity bags for carrying powder and powder puff, a small hand mirror, a little square of chamois and all the other little requirements which women find it necessary to have within easy reach all the time.

The colors chosen for hand bags are soft and rich and the flowers shown in raised velvet against a satin background. Eggplant and deep royal purple shading into black in the background, blossom into rich American Beauty roses in their natural colorings with dark green shadowy foliage melting into the ground. Little rosettes finished with pendant ribbon flowers or little bows are used as a finish. Such a bag is shown in Figs. 1 and 2.

For Fig. 2 a lighter brocade is used, with woven-in instead of raised flowers. But the design is gorgeous with gold thread woven into the design. The bag is a trifle smaller and the corners of it are rounded. Narrow satin ribbon in the prevailing color of the bag finishes the sides with loops and furnishes the means of carrying the bag.

Fig. 3 is a work bag made of gay Dresden ribbon with dark stripes sewed to plain satin ribbon in the same color as the background of the Dresden. This bag is provided with a cardboard bottom covered with the ribbon and finished with hangers of narrow satin ribbon and two rosettes of it. These Dresden and plain satin ribbons are inexpensive but beautiful.

Fig. 4 is a very handsome bag in flowered ribbon in which black and gold are the predominating colors with touches of scarlet. It is made on a circular bottom like Fig. 3, but the lengthwise of the ribbon run around the bag. It is hemmed at the top without a standing ruffle and rosettes of narrow black satin ribbon are set about it, four of them altogether. At the sides flower pendants made of the narrow ribbon hang from full rosettes.

A Christmas Legend

By Alice Jean Cleator

There is a little legend
Which Orient nations tell,
That when the earth is joyous
With song of Christmas bell,
Unseen the Christ-Child wanders
Among the suffering dumb
And brings them joyful tidings
Of kinder years to come.

For was He not once sheltered
With cattle of the stall?
And does He not remember
Earth's helpless creatures all?
And did the Star not beckon
Above them on that night,
Instead of o'er a palace
Aflame with gorgeous light?

How She Discarded Unsightly Complexion

How often I exclaimed as I beheld my ugly complexion in the mirror, "If I only could tear off this old skin!" And do you know, I've learned how to do that very thing? And to actually remove the entire skin all of a sudden—that would be too heroic a method, and painful, too, I imagine. The worn-out cuticle comes off in such tiny particles, and so gradually—requiring about ten days to complete the transformation—it doesn't hurt a bit. Day by day the beautiful complexion underneath comes forth. Marvellous! No matter how muddy, rough, blotchy or aged your complexion, you can surely discard it by this simple process. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at your druggist's, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

My wrinkles I got rid of by an equally simple method. By dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel and bathing my face in the solution, every line completely disappeared. First the finer lines, finally even the deep crow's feet, vanished entirely.—Mona Morrow in Town Tattler.

ORANGE FRITTERS.

Peel two oranges and slice in thin pieces. Dip in a batter made from one cupful of flour, a rounding teaspoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of sugar, a pinch of salt, the yolk of one egg and half a cupful of milk. Fry in hot fat and serve with powdered sugar or a sauce made as follows: Beat the yolks of two eggs with half a cupful of sugar. Add the grated rind and juice of half a lemon, over hot water. Stir vigorously until it thickens, and cover with the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Serve at once.

GIFTS TO MAKE AT HOME

CHRISTMAS GI- - -

This year knitting and sewing for the soldiers will take the place of fancy work, but there are many who, either for economy's sake or in order to give the "personal touch," will take time to make some of their Christmas gifts for friends. Here are a few suggestions for inexpensive but dainty articles:

A pretty Christmas gift for a young matron is found in sets of doily cases. There are usually three cases in each set, the largest about 13½ inches in diameter, the second 9 inches and the third 7½ inches. Four pieces of light cardboard are used for each case, a yard of figured crepe, linen or cretonne for outside covering, and a yard of plain material for lining. Particularly attractive for these sets is flowered cretonnes when the figure is placed in the centre of the cardboards which are used as the foundation.

The inner cardboard is covered with a solid tone material that blends well with the figured, the two covered pieces, one a figured and the other in plain material, being then joined by a cross stitch in silk. This stitch is simple, for it is made by sewing around the circumference at a slant and then returning in the opposite direction with a contrary slant, thus crossing the stitches. Using two cardboards, covering each separately and then combining the two, is far more effective and easy to make than when only one piece is covered with two materials.

On opposite sides of the lower completed double cardboard, place pieces of No. 5 ribbon, matching the material. On opposite sides of the upper double cardboard, button hole two bars through which the ribbons may be slipped and tied. Three cards of ribbon will be required for this. The doylies are slipped in after being ironed, and keep fresh and unwrinkled.

From a yard of cretonne or chints all sorts of little gifts can be created. A bureau set consisting of handkerchief box, brush and comb tray, pin and hat-pin holders can be made from a yard of cretonne. A shoe-bag can be made from two yards of cretonne.

A pretty waste paper basket can be made from a yard of chints. A cardboard collapsible waste paper basket can be bought for a few cents. This can be divided into five parts, four sides and the bottom. Each side is covered with chints pasted on to the cardboard. Then the whole basket is put together again. A pretty touch can be added by outlining each side with a harmonious braid.

Little chints bags to hang at the side of the bureau for soiled handkerchiefs are very easily made and very pretty gifts. Also laundry bags, in the same material, are dainty, acceptable gifts. In making chints or cretonne presents the maker must be sure to know the colour scheme of the recipient's room. Otherwise the gifts will never be used.

The little week-end case is a new arrival. It is usually a plain box covered with dainty rose-coloured brocade or moire silk. This may be shirred inside and looks very well with the corners edged with dull gold braid. Inside this is a box of talcum powder, tooth paste, a small bag to hold the toothbrush, a tiny cake of soap and a large mirror in the back of the box. The soap case matches the outside of the box and is rubber lined. This little case should be made as compact as possible, as the idea is to get in all the toilet necessities of the week-end trip in a little space.

Another original idea for the dressing table is the hand-made puff box. Buy a small glass bowl, plain, or cut glass if you can afford it. Fit on this a cardboard top. Cover the cardboard with a bit of silk which is available, and bind the edges with dull gold lace. The little knot of dull gold lace on top of the cover is finished with tiny French rosebuds and serves as a handle for the cover of the bowl.

FELL IN A FAINT.

Mrs. Edwin Martin, Ayer's Cliff, Que., writes: "Before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was in a terrible condition. Dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor. I could not swoon without fainting. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has so built up my system that I can work and do my housework. Your medicine cured me when doctors had failed."

ORANGE DESSERTS

In the wonderful age the orange is an all-the-year-round dainty, and it is hard for us to believe the stories of our grandmothers about the days when oranges were a scarcity. But if we do not believe them, we have only to look at the books we ourselves used to read in our childhood, to realize that the times of scarce oranges are not very far away. Don't you remember about the orange one good child was always taking another good child when it was ill? It was the greatest mark of devotion and kindness.

Well, to-day, we have oranges all winter long. We can get them, too, in summer, although summer is so overladen with good things in the way of fresh fruits, that we forget the orange, until the first frost makes its golden form and delicious flavour welcome.

ORANGE CUSTARD.

Cut sweet oranges into cubes and place them, with a little sugar, in a glass dish. Over them pour a very thick custard, made with milk in which a shred of orange skin has been steeped. On top of the custard place meringues browned on a board in the oven. Chill thoroughly and serve very cold.

ORANGE PIE.

Mix two heaping tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in a little water and pour a cupful of boiling milk over it, stirring constantly. Grate the rind of one orange and mix it, with the juice of a large orange, a beaten egg and a pinch of salt, with the starch and milk. Then stir in a cupful of granulated sugar, or not so much if the orange is very sweet. Pour it into an under crust and bake until the consistency of baked custard. Spread with a thick meringue, brown, cool and serve cold.

ORANGE AND PRUNE SALAD.

Steam a dozen large prunes until they are soft, cool and remove the pits. Cut the prunes in two and mix with an equal quantity of orange pulp. Serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing.

ORANGE SAUCE.

Parboil the outer yellow rind of two large oranges, drain and cut in thin strips. Add the juice of the two oranges, and half a cupful of white stock. Cook for ten minutes, strain and serve very hot with meat. This may also be used with fish.

ORANGE JELLY.

Soak two tablespoonfuls of powdered gelatine in cold water until soft. Then add a cupful and a half of boiling water, the juice of one orange and sugar to taste. Heat and strain. Cool half of the jelly in a cup. When the other half begins to harden add a stiffly beaten egg white and beat again. Pour this frothy, half-stiff mass into a mould and turn out the little cupful mould of jelly, which should be quite hard, into the centre of the other. Let all harden in the refrigerator and serve with custard or whipped cream.

A bubbling fountain for horses, in which the water is turned on by an animal stepping upon a platform surrounding it, has been invented.

Stories Told In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The kaleidoscopic life of Manhattan is, seen at its best in the hotels. Here the "stranger within the gates" meets what he thinks is the real life of the city, and it is here that he hopes to get a perfect insight into the machinery of the metropolis. The funny part of it all, however, is that the people he meets at the hotels are strangers like himself. And a stranger looks upon strangers with the feeling that he is gazing upon the true New Yorker in his native pavament.

One of Broadway's distinguished citizens went into a hotel not a great distance from Times Square the other night. He had with him a party of friends, six to be exact, and he was the host.

He ordered two racks of lamb which were quoted at $8 a rack upon the bill of fare. Then, to show that he knew how to order in a fashionable dining room, he instructed the waiter to rub the edges of the dish with a little garlic—just enough to give the meat a slight savour of the pungent vegetable.

The waiter bowed most obsequiously and brought the wonderful lamb with the delightful aroma of garlic.

The meal over, the bill was presented. The big item was, of course, the lamb. But instead of being $16, as he had figured upon, the amount was $17.50.

"What does this mean?" queried the dist. citizen, pointing to the apparent $1.50 overcharge.

No one knew until the bill was referred back to the checker. He stated that the extra $1.50 was for garlic.

Well, the "wise one" paid but after he reached the open air he estimated that the garlic was worth about 1 cent retail and that the cost of rubbing it around the edge of the dish must have been about 1 cent additional.

His friends had a good laugh, but it may be safe to say that he will think twice in the future before displaying his knowledge of the gastronomic art. At least, he will in a New York hotel.

A Harlem woman who prides herself greatly upon her fashionable appearance and air of consummate Broadway wisdom went into a Herald Square department store recently to buy material for a gown.

She explained the stock with great care and as she hesitated a moment before making a selection between two pieces of goods, the clerk turned to her and said:

"Lillian Russell was in here last week and bought some of that black velvet stuff herself," he said.

The effect upon the fashionable woman was startling.

"Did she?" asked the customer, freezingly with the accent of the "did" and walked out of the place.

"He must have thought that I was just in from the country," commented the woman afterwards. "The nerve of him to pull that old wheeze. There must be something wrong with my hat."

And she went to another department store and bought a new hat.

A metropolitan humorist who has a national reputation takes issue with the use of "Wuxtry" as employed by the best speakers and writers in describing the call of the New York newsboy. The criticism is a just one for the local newsies yell "Extra" just as plainly as Henry James would do it.

As a matter of fact, however, the Park Row youngsters do not shout the single word at all. They usually call off the string of papers they have in stock.

Lately most of the youths have adopted a new cry to attract attention and that is:

"What d'ye read?"

"My boy," said a sergeant to a junior member of the force, "you can't say that I was lazy. Look at these stripes—well, I didn't earn them by propping up street corners or loafing about public-houses."

"No," answered the other, with a smile; "I know you didn't get them that way or you'd have been a zebra by now."

Great Impetus Given to Port of London by War

Shipping is in Great Demand and Vessels are Waiting in Large Numbers in the Thames For Opportunity to Discharge Cargoes

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The war has resulted in a boom for the shipping industry of Great Britain, and nowhere has this been felt more than in London. The port of London has never been busier, and a notice just posted by the Association of Master Lightermen appeals to shipowners and manufacturers to do all in their power to ensure the prompt discharge of cargoes, as a measure of relief for the unusual congestion of trade.

An unprecedented demand for barges is noted by the trade journals, due to the large number needed for military purposes, as well as to the immense arrivals of sugar, lumber, and foodstuffs. More than 50,000 tons of sugar are awaiting wharfage in the Thames, and more is arriving daily from Java, Mauritius and America.

As for foodstuffs the present reserve stock is five times larger than it was at this time last year. Of grain there is 130,000 tons now afloat for London. The stock of barley on hand is twice the usual amount, but the stock of oats is lower than customary, owing to the fact that the Government has intercepted all cargoes of oats for some time past, and directed their discharge at French ports, where they will be available for the cavalry at the Front.

A consignment of 250,000 bags of flour, sent as a gift from Canada several weeks ago, is still in the dock warehouses, presumably being held as part of the reserve supply for the troops.

The supply of meats and tea is not as large as had been hoped. Steamships to carry meat require special refrigerating machinery, and the Government has commandeered a considerable part of the available shipping of this character for use in carrying meat supplies to the troops. Arrangements are now being made however, for bringing into use such of the captured German vessels in Australia and South Africa as possess refrigerating apparatus.

The Emden Affected Tea Supply.

The supply of tea apparently was affected by the activity of the German cruiser Emden in the Far East. With this menace removed, heavy arrivals are expected soon. One full shipload of 4,000 tons, which arived in mid-November, was the largest cargo of tea ever sent here from China. Several of the German prize ships are to be utilized by the Government for the transport of tea.

The shortage of lumber, which was noted during the early part of the war has been remedied by the arrival of vast quantities from the Baltic and Archangel. The regular lumber docks are so congested at present that there are generally from ten to twenty-five lumber-laden vessels waiting their turn to come up the river and discharge. The War Office has shown particular interest in maintaining the supply of lumber because of its importance in providing winter shelter for the troops.

Trade from the Archangel and the Baltic also has been active in other lines than lumber. Immense quantities of eggs from Russia, as well as other produce and supplies of various kinds, have been received, and there has, of course, been a large return trade.

Heavy Demand for Shipping.

The demand for shipping of all kinds came at a time when the trade was expecting depression, if not paralysis. With the beginning of the war, freight rates began to rise steadily and sometimes very rapidly. Freights for grain from the Plate have more than doubled in three months and freights from the Pacific coast of North America have advanced more than a third. Of course this increase was due in considerable part to the effect of the acquisition of many vessels by the Governments of Britain, Russia, and France. But at the same time with this withdrawal of vessels there came an undoubted expansion of trade.

Part of the revenue to shipowners from increased freights has gone into increased expenses. War insurance has been heavy; the cost of coal and stores is higher, and the wages of seamen have advanced by leaps and bounds. Also seamen have had to go from all British ships, and a considerable proportion of the British seamen have been taken for war duty. The best of those who remain can practically command their own price.

In London it is noted that since the war began dock labour has been fully employed for the first time in years. About fifteen hundred London dock labourers have been taken to France for work in unloading transports. A November report from the Port of London Authority says:

"Casual labour has ceased to exist in this city, and our observation of labour generally in the East-End of London is that with few exceptions there is no distress caused by lack of work."

"The worst winter I remember was when we were besieged," said the old soldier. We only had one bite a day for two weeks, and that was horseflesh."

"I remember," said his tramp companion, "living for a month on one bite, and that was out of my own leg."

"You old cannibal! Do you expect me to believe that?" roared the soldier.

"It's true, believe it or not," said the tramp calmly. "A dog took a bite out of my leg and the compensation kept me like a lord for four weeks.

REBELLION OVER, BOTHA SAYS.

Thanks Loyal Forces—Indicates that S. A. Union Will Invade German South-West Africa with Big Army.

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 10—Gen. Botha Commander of the Union Defence forces, announced officially to-day that the Boer rebellion in South Africa has been crushed. At the same time he expressed his appreciation for the patriotic sacrifices and support of the Government, which enabled the loyal forces to put down the rebellion.

He declared that it is the next duty of the Government to deal with the rebels who fled into German South-West Africa. This indicates that the Union will invade German Southwest Africa with a big army.

There is only one rebel General remaining in the Orange Free State, all the others having been captured with their men. The captives include Gen. Wessels, Gen. Brueer and Gen. Van Culler, the last named a member of the Legislative Assembly. More than 1,200 men surrendered with them.

Just before he surrendered Gen. Wessels had issued a proclamation saying that the Boers had been betrayed, and that the only remedy is armed resistance against the British.

CHAPTER XII.

The Mystery of a Voice.

It was the sight of the ocean that braced her against the chill that threatened to send her back. She shrugged her shoulders and marched steadily down the foul smelling, dirty little street until she glimpsed a building taller than any others surrounding it and decorated with a gorgeousness of elaboration which made her forget everything save admiration for the skill and patience expended in such work. Before the door stood a closed palanquin, evidently the vehicle for a personage of great consequence from the rich silk robes that overflowed the sides.

"Lucille!" came a hoarse whisper.

This time she knew she had made no mistake. She even identified the direction from which the voice came. But surely nobody save Hugo Loubeque knew her in this place, and Hugo Loubeque—

Something small and compact fell at her feet and she stared at it wonderingly, incredulously, recognising it for the diary of Hugo Loubeque, the international spy. The sound of the closing door made her hurriedly snatch it from the ground and conceal it beside the ruby necklace. Then she shrank back against the side of the house, eyeing the portly, sallow faced Chinaman who came slowly, and majestically toward her.

Evidently the owner of the palanquin, a personage of great circumstance from his dwelling and personal attire, she judged. Her fingers pressed against the diary and encountered the rubies. The touch of them gave her a swift idea and she cautiously drew the necklace from about her neck, detaching one from the strand and knotting the stout hair wire so none should escape because of the loosening. She looked at the pigeon-blood a moment, recalling her father's contemptuous sentence regarding the corruptibility of the Chinese nobleman advanced toward the man just as he reached out to enter his vehicle.

His face was impassive as he stared blankly at her. Finally in desperation she held out the ruby to him. He turned it over and over in his fingers. His eyes were fairly glowing when he lifted them once more and met hers, nodding as she moved toward the palanquin and stepped instant up a bill with a swordsman behind you studying the cleanest place to take that head from your shoulders would be about as pleasant as anything I'd care to look at."

Wetherell did not answer. Only, even after being bound, the feel of the diary that had dropped from the bag gave him some comfort.

• • • • • • •

The yawning side of the great vessel stood open before Lucille, the coolie stevedores trundling their great loads of merchandise across the wharf and disappearing within, as though swallowed up forever.

Lucille was suddenly made conscious of the fact that she was very weak. Nervously she fingered the ruby necklace about her throat, trying to think of some way another of the precious stones might be made to work its magic influence. She could buy a passage with it, could bribe many aboard the boat, but she must not be seen by Hugo Loubeque.

Fiercely she fastened her little teeth in her lower lip. Hugo Loubeque had the precious papers in his possession also he would never have smiled so serenely to himself as he boarded the boat. She had his diary, but it could not be used against him now. There would come a time when it would prove of the utmost value, but not now. What could she do?

The rattle of muskets brought her out of the fit of abstraction into which she had fallen. She shrank away in the shadow of a packing case, squeezing herself into as small a space as possible, her breath coming fast as she saw the officer who commanded the squad of soldiers march up the gangplank just as the captain descended to inquire what his business was. Then the tall figure of Hugo Loubeque appeared beside the pair, offering to translate the soldier's words.

"He is hunting an American girl I left ill in the town. It appears she shot and wounded her nurse and bound a Chinese soldier, taking his clothes and making her escape," said the spy.

"Well, there's no such person aboard," gruffly retorted the officer of the ship.

Again Loubeque turned to the soldier, but the man shook his head vehemently.

"He must search the vessel. Those are his orders," interpreted the spy, then, "you really can't blame him, captain."

The officer nodded consent, adding grimly that he would stand for anything that did not entail delaying the boat's sailing on schedule.

As the eavesdropping girl watched the soldiers march the gangplank and disappear in different parts of the boat according to the instructions given them by their superior, she could see from the spy's words that he would not delay his own departure to assist her; that once more his motive of revenge was all dominant in his nature; that tenderness for the daughter of the woman he loved would never again interfere with the carrying out of his plans.

Surely, some power greater than that of even the international spy was looking over and defending her! She bowed her head in mute gratitude.

She was roused from the mood by a hurried clamor aboard the boat. The coolies were working madly now, while upon the deck she saw signs of activity that told her the ship was about to get under way. Under the lashing tongue of a boss, five stevedores were rushing toward the bales behind which she was concealed. Lucille knew the time had come for her to act without any further figuring.

In two swift, catlike leaps she had reached the yawning side of the boat. For just a second she hesitated before the terrible blackness that met her eyes there, then, with a little shrug, she stepped inside, darting about between piles of merchandise, leaping further and further away from the voices that reached but dimly to her now, hiding away at every slightest sound.

This story can be seen in Photo-Play at the Royal Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week.

Miss Beatrice Lougheed, Staples, Ont., writes: "I feel it my duty to tell you what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I had heart trouble for quite a few years. I doctored for it, and altogether my bill amounted to $400, and still no cure. One day when very sick I was lying on a couch close to where some almanacs were hanging. I took one down, and was reading about what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cured, and thought I would try them. I got six boxes to start with; have only taken three boxes and I never felt so well in my life as I do now. I only weighed 87 pounds when I started to take them, and now I weigh 138 pounds. I hope all poor sufferers will be benefitted by them as I have been."

BEAUTIFUL YPRES CATHEDRAL DESTROYED BY KAISER'S HUNS

BELGIUM, Dec. —When the history of the terrific fighting in and around Ypres is written — Ypres, where the Huns have repeated the sacrilege and outrages of Louvain and Rheims, where once more they have selected the cathedral, churches town hall and all the beautiful examples of Flemish architecture as the special targets of their heavy artillery—it will add another chapter of infamy to the record of German "kultur" in this great war.

Filled with fiere joy over the destruction of the imposing Hall of the Drapers and of the classic little town hall, the Huns have added the beautiful cathedral of Ypres to the sacrifices which Belgium has made for freedom.

I have been in many towns and villages desolated and ruined by the Germans during this war, and everywhere I have noted the terrible truth that the temples of God—the beautiful Churches of France and Belgium—have been picked in advance of all other edifices for destruction.

But at Ypres — where the Allies have been fighting gloriously for weeks—they have killed and wounded thousands of German vandals during the last few days' fierce fighting, waged with the snow falling heavily, biting winds sweeping through the trenches and the thermometer near zero.

French and British Valeur.

I don't know what the news from the Aisne and up in the Vosges is, but if the French are fighting there as the French and British are fighting in the North of France and Belgium—and I have no doubt that they are—then, though the way to Berlin is as long as the way to Tipperary, French and British hearts in sound bodies will be "right there" sooner than the Kaiser even dreams of.

As an example of the spirit that animates the French soldier of 1914 I may be permitted to tell of a gallant fight not far from Ypres, where the Germans, delivering a savage counter attack, advanced behind the cover of French prisoners of war, most Zouaves, who were placed with their arms bound before the front files of the infantry.

"Don't fire!" shouted the Germans, "or you will kill your own men."

The French troops, aghast at the outrage on their brethren, held their fire for a moment, but one helpless zouave shouted: "Fire! By God! Kill the German cowards!"

Volley after volley rang out, and many of the heroic zouaves fell. Then the French, inspired by the wonderful courage of their helpless brethren, used the bayonet, and in one of the most brilliant charges of the war, wiped out two German battalions and captured the German positions.

The grim soldier who recounted this thrilling episode of war, was visibly affected as he told me how one of the zouaves said with his dying breath to an abbe—a corporal—who knelt beside him:

"I came to fight and die for France. Well, then, I die. Vive la France!"

This incident symbolizes the spirit of the French army, and, though the losses of the French and their British brethren — the men of the bulldog breed—have been heavy, they are not to be mentioned in the same breath with the appalling slaughter of Germans, called "cannon food" by Potsdam.

Germans Rob Chateau.

From another source I have gathered a story from Dixmude, where the Germans have smashed the beautiful Church of St. Jean and transformed nearly all the fine old houses into rubbish and ash heaps.

In one of the old chateaus near the town after a day of terrific fighting, a score of German officers indulged in a night of revelry, during which the cellars were looted as usual of champagne and other choice wines. The French scouts, however, soon discovered their whereabouts, and then the French light field guns opened on the chateau. The effect of the fire was so accurate that, although snow was falling and the winds were cold and cutting, the revellers, roused from their drunken sleep, fled without clothes—some of them jumped out of the windows—into the German lines.

As this despatch is forwarded the battle in and near Ypres is still at its height with the heavy artillery hurling death and destruction, and though there is a report here that the Germans are trying to break through again, and that there is heavy artillery fighting at Soissons and Rheims, the feeling is that, though the Huns may complete the sacrilege of the destruction of the fine old cathedral of the Champagne country, their efforts, as at Roulers, at Verdun, and in the north—will fail, and fail as utterly as the "promenade into Paris," which was transformed into defeat and rout in the battle of the Marne.

Their Turn.

Infantryman Writes to His Parents Here of Perilous Work of Pushing Forward Trenches—Fight for Gains of a Few Feet

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Wriggling carefully through trenches made by comrades who have gone in advance, the Allies are forcing the Germans to retire to Flanders by bayonet charges and machine gun fire, according to a letter received by the parents of Lord G. Periard, a French infantryman.

When he wrote the letter on November 5 he was resting at Montrol, a village back of Tresne en Oise for two days after a twenty-four hour shift at "advance work," the driving back of the Germans.

"It is 4 o'clock in the afternoon," he writes. "We are at rest for two days in Montrol, a small village a little back from Tresne, where has been fought the frightful battle of October 8, of which mayhaps you have heard. It was in that battle.

"There I saw my captain killed at my side as he shouted to us 'Forward, my children. Courage!' The poor one. He was indeed one brave! I saw my best friends killed beside me. Myself, I got but a spent bullet in my pocket.

"Now we are advancing with caution. We take the advanced post every third day. That is to say this: We advance on Tresne, where the Germans are, with short dashes.

The Prussians are fully four hundred yards away from us. We sprint and fall flat and then we work all night to make some trenches to shelter us. The charges are always made at dark. In the morning we relieve ourselves by crawling back, while other soldiers who have had sheltered positions crawl to relieve us. I say crawl, because if the Prussians should catch sight of us they would honour us with a fusilade of regle. . . .

"During the day we hide behind mounds of earth which we throw up, and we fight foot for foot any attempt they make to advance. They like not our cold steel, and many times must we give it to them.

"My health is very good. I am going to spend the five francs I have received with great profit as soon as I am able. Ah, still two good nights to rest here in these barns, and then back to replace our comrades in the trenches.

"Our captain has just caught a pig and some one has just found some potatoes. These are scarce these days of devastation, and that pig will taste good. In a few months from now it will not be at all funny, this war.

"But I cannot write longer. I must go and relieve the sentinel. It is awful here. A bunch of fools are yelling and singing, but it pays to be philosophical in a regiment, especially during war. I kiss and jump to take my place like a brave."

Great Submarine Ships Predicted By Officer of the German Navy

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung publishes a very readable analysis of Germany's submarine policy from a prominent German naval officer who foresees the coming of vastly large submarine boats, or, rather, submarine ships.

"It is of vital importance," he writes, "for the future development of submarines (U boats) that torpedoes should be brought to the greatest possible perfection. Such improvements depend on the torpedo tubes and torpedoes with which the boats are furnished, on their speed and efficiency, as well as on their handling and management.

"The number of tubes and consequently of torpedoes has been constantly increasing. Thus English submarines have as many tubes as six and even more, so that we may soon be able to speak of submarine ships. One of the causes which led to the enlargement of submarines was the desire to provide them with more torpedoes so that they might take full advantage of a fortunate encounter with an enemy. At present U boats generally are the size of their sisters, the faster torpedo boats.

"At first U boats were merely intended to defend the home coasts, but soon their unexpected efficiency destined them to become independent rulers of the waves. They were able to remain under the water for some time and were fairly safe and secure. Undersea navigation, being comparatively smooth even in an agitated sea, pointed out the desirability of building boats which could be on the sea at least as long as torpedo boats. It is known from war reports that at present we are sufficiently advanced to send U boats independently all over the North Sea and the Baltic.

"Our U boats are constantly enlarged so that they may surpass the enemy's boats in size and fighting value, but chiefly in order to make an ever wider use of them.

"Previous submarine successes show that with some good fortune it is not so very difficult to attain good results. But the handling of U boats more than of others requires a great deal of perseverance, caution and courage. Of course it must be admitted that the prospect of a great success is a powerful impetus and stimulus for every one who is engaged in submarine action. To hunt up the enemy is often left to chance, but it requires considerable time and experience to get within shot of a vessel and to succeed in eluding the pursuer. It is a recognized maxim for U boats not to withdraw from the theatre of battle until every prospect of shooting at an object is gone. During the attack the periscope, which serves to indicate what is in sight on the surface of the water, is exposed to sight no longer and oftener than absolutely necessary. The periscope is the most valuable part of the diving boat and betrays its location. At the same time the wake left by the passage shows the boat's course; hence those submarines are at a great advantage which make ready for attack without exposing the periscope except rarely and for brief intervals. Any moment the enemy by successful shooting may spoil a submarine's good chance; hence it requires much skill on the submarine's part to fix the proper time for discharging the torpedo.

"If a menaced ship cannot escape from danger in time it will take the offensive and try to ram the hostile boat, which must be prepared for the onslaught and attempt to evade the danger sideways or to dive deeply.

"Submarines are, relatively speaking, a greater source of strength to a feebler naval power than to a more powerful one. So we can quite understand that even the mightiest navies feel somewhat paralyzed if they are opposed by an enemy who is provided with a fair number of submarines. An efficient means of combating the U boats has not yet been invented, but might be looked for, in the first place, in the shape of some aircraft."

The Austrian Government has organised a weather service to supply forecasts to vessels at sea from wireless stations along its coast.

GERMANS STORED SUPPLIES FOR THE FLEET ON OBSCURE ISLANDS IN THE SEVEN SEAS

Story of How the Enemy's Ocean Raiders Coaled—Only Two of these German War Vessels Have Been Destroyed After Nearly Four Months of War—Will Have to be Surprised.

Now consider the German merchantmen who sped away at the first intimation of a possible war. Out of sight of land they scattered, each in a different direction. The commander of each vessel, a member of the German naval reserve, also had in his possession a map of the world, which had been furnished him by the Government. On it he found no crosses in red ink and but one black dot on the areas of green representing the sea. That spot was his objective. And he crowded on all steam to get there. Once his observations showed that he was directly at the point represented upon his chart he ordered the engines stopped, the fires banked, if it could be done with safety, and a sea anchor cast out if the depth of the water was too great to permit the lowering of a kedge. Then he settled himself down to await developments.

Generally developments came quickly in the shape of a long grey warship, the Prussian naval flag whipping from the mast at its stern and a forced draft spurting a column of smoke from its funnels.

If the warship needed a small quantity of coal, it secured it from the anchored merchantmen and went on its way. If it needed a large quantity of coal or provisions and men to bring the crew up to a war basis, the coal and provisions and men, and anything else of value, were transferred from the merchantman to the war vessel. Then the steamer was sent to the bottom of the sea by the warship's guns, or a charge of explosive placed where it would tear a hole in her hull below the water line. Germany would rather send the ships of its merchant marine to the bottom than risk having them fall into the hands of the enemy.

The plan has been wel carried out. It has enabled the German ships to sail the seas and prey on shipping of the allied nations on a scale never even believed possible. It has reduced to a minimum the danger of capture or of meeting with an overwhelming force of the enemy. While the British ships have been making their way in and out of harbours all over the world and having their whereabouts reported, the Germans have been slinking far out to sea, awaiting a chance to strike at a merchant ship, and then scuttle off to a base ship, as the German naval officers call these vessels that anchored on the war map's black dots, and replenish their supply of men, coal, or provisions. The plan also called for the ultimate mobilization of these ships. Every move they have made since the beginning of the war was mapped out at least three years ago. The majority of moves were determined even two years before that.

What Every German Captain Knows.

The British fleet steamed into ambush off the coast of Chile—that is admitted, even by the Admiralty. There is reason to believe that the Germans knew, for two weeks prior to the battle, the exact location of the British ships.

On the war maps of the seven seas given to the commanders of German ships there was a little red cross somewhere between the coast of South America and Easter Island. The exact location of the cross I do not know. But the German ships that engaged the British fleet off Valparaiso gathered there about October 15. They came from all parts of the Pacific.

The German cruisers that have operated in the Atlantic have been handicapped to a certain extent because only three of their base ships succeeded in reaching spots where they could be of any service. Of these one was the Kronprinz Wilhelm; which sneaked out of New York at the very beginning of the war, loaded to her utmost capacity with coal. The Kronprinz was caught once coaling the cruiser Karlsruhe. Soon after that an English cruiser intercepted wireless messages passing between the Dresden and the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

What has become of the Kronprinz since then? She has not been captured. She has not put into any port. Her coal has been taken by warships, and it has been physically impossible for her to reach any part of Germany.

One of two things has happened to this steamer — she has either been sent to some remote spot in the Caribbean Sea or been sunk by a German war vessel to prevent her from being captured. The last conclusion is the more probable. One thing is certain: the Kronprinz Wilhelm is of no more use to the German Government.

Raids and Romance.

The Karlsruhe and the Dresden, operating in the Atlantic, have been fortunate in their campaign against British shipping. All told, they have sunk twelve English ships. But before the German guns opened fire on the captives the coal aboard them was transferred, if needed, to the bunkers of the cruisers. Only once in three months has either one of them put into port. In their activity, the two German ships have burned probably more than twelve times the quantity of coal they can carry.

The cruiser Emden, which was termed by the English, who always appreciate daring and valour, "The Terror of the East," was hunted by every English, French and Japanese ship in the teritory in which she operated until the speedy Australian cruiser Sydney, on November 9th, drove her ashore on the Keeling Islands in the Indian Ocean and destroyed her. None of them, with the exception of those that met destruction at her hands, those she showed her heels to, and the Sydney, even saw her smoke. She coaled in no port during all her operations and yet her wake was written in many waters.

The Emden's raids ere periodical. She struck and made her escape a dozen times. Before she went down she sank twenty-two ships flying flags of the allied nations. Her shells destroyed more than $5,000,000 worth of shipping. She stopped at no daredevil exploit. She even disguised herself to carry out her mission of destruction.

How the Emden Coaled.

On September 22 "The Terror of the East" steamed into the harbour of Madras flying a French flag. When she was within range, the flag fluttered down. The German ensign was run up instead and she let go with her batteries at the shore. Some of the shells tore through the great oil tanks and set them afire. The Emden's next raid, which was probably the most spectacular of her career, was made at Penang. There she steamed boldly into the harbour under the protection of the disguise afforded by a Japanese flag and a dummy funnel. She quickly shelled Russian and French torpedo boats, and then hurried out to sea again. The torpedo boats went down.

The Emden was enabled to carry out her work by three base ships. One was stationed somewhere near the centre of the Indian Ocean. There is reason to believe that the other two were originally stationed away down on the globe, near the northern limit of the flow of ice from the Antartic. There is probable no more remote spot anywhere on the face of the earth. In times of peace a ship is practically an unknown quantity in that part of the Pacific Ocean.

The Emden, like the Karlsruhe and the Dresden, has, of course, taken some coal and provisions from the merchant ships she has captured. After the Sydney met and destroyed her the British Admiralty announced that some weeks prior to that time the Emden had been surprised by warships while taking coal from two merchantmen. The Emden's superior speed saved her from capture or destruction.

The Emden was so well supplied at other times that she did not bother to remove coal or provisions from some of the ships she captured. On one occasion the crew of a British vessel that had been serving as a transport was given fifteen minutes to get off. At the end of that time the Emden's guns opened fire on the ship and quickly sent her to the bottom.

Impudent—and Immune.

Think of this: Of all the German war vessels that have been engaged in destroying commerce of the Allied nations, only two have met destruction at this writing—nearly four months after war was declared. The vessel destroyed, besides the Emden, was the auxiliary cruiser Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which was sent to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean by the British cruiser Highflyer. The engagement took place off the coast of Africa; the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse was surprised while coaling.

The Konigsberg, which was in Asiatic waters when the war broke out, and has been active off the east coast of Africa, has been "accounted for" by the British Admiralty. The Konigsberg is bottled up in the harbour at Mafia Island, on the coast of German East Africa. After sinking two British merchantmen in the Gulf of Aden the Konigsberg steamed south. She engaged and disabled the British cruiser Pegasus in Zanzibar Harbour. Then she went to Mafia Island. When she was inside the harbour the British and French blockaded the channel. It remains to be seen whether the Konigsberg can make her escape.

Of course, it is a physical impossibility for the German ships to continue to supply themselves indefinitely from their base ships. And the ammunition the Germans are known to have for years had stored on various uninhabited out-of-the-way islands in the seven seas cannot last forever. But until their supplies are exhausted or they are surprised at their work by an overwhelming force of the enemies' ships, the Kaiser's sea raiders will continue effectively to prey upon the commerce of the nations allied against the Fatherland.

If the Germans should be successful in capturing one of the enemies' coaling stations (and they have made several attempts in this direction) the war vessels may bring in the base ships that have not been destroyed, have their supplies replenished and then take them off and hide them again. If all the base ships have been exhausted and sent to the bottom of the sea before them, the German war vessels will simply cease to operate. Without coal they would be of no more value to Germany than so many canal boats.

The Guilt of the German Tar.

On 5th August the Nurnberg was somewhere in the vicinity of the island of Yap, which, until it was captured by the Japanese, was Germany's wireless base in the Pacific. From that day until 7th September not a single ship other than those flying the German flag spoke her. On 7th September some Britons saw the cruiser, but they didn't get a chance to let the world know about it, although they were the officials and operators of the British-owned cable connecting Vancouver, British Columbia, and Australia. They were on Fanning Island, which is located almost in the centre of the Pacific Ocean. On the date referred to the Britishers on the island saw a warship flying the French flag, accompanied by a collier, approaching the shore. The Britishers were quite overjoyed at the prospect of entertaining the men of France, and some of them set out in a launch to welcome the visitors.

About that time two cutters full of sailors put off from the warship and headed inshore. As the sailors were jumping from the cutters into the waist-deep water off the beach the tricolour of France was suddenly hauled down from the mast and the naval flag of Germany, eagle and all, run up in its place. At the same time a piece of canvas that had been hanging over the warship's stern was raised to the deck, and the name Nurnberg, in gold letters two feet high, blazed out.—Collier's.

BETS ON THE LENGTH OF WAR.

LONDON, Dec. 11—Insurance rates at Lloyds in connection with the duration of the war have fallen sharply on account of the British naval victories, the revival of the Servian army, and the general military outlook. Quotations to-day are: To pay total loss in event that the war is not over in the first twelve months, 25 guineas per cent.; second, eighteen months, 15 guineas per cent.; third, twenty-four months, 10 guineas per cent.

BRITISH FORCES HAVE MADE PROGRESS

NUMEROUS GERMAN GUNS DESTROYED BY THE ALLIES

Allied Artillery is Effective at Many Points in the Battle Line --Germans Have Evacuated the Bank of the Yser Canal--British Forces Have Gained Much Ground.

KIEL BARRACKS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, December 12.—The official statement to-day again indicates the advantage as resting with the allies along the entire line. The statement declares:

"On the South the enemy completed the evacuation of the west bank of the Yser Canal north of the ferryman's house.

"Artillery duels continue in the region of Arras.

"The French heavy artillery in the region of the Aisne silenced the German field pieces and destroyed a battery of mortars.

"In the regions of Perthes and Curris woods the artillery and infantry actions turned to the advantage of the French.

"On the heights of the Meuse two German batteries were destroyed and a blockhouse was blown up."

PARIS, December 12.—The evacuation of the west bank of the Yser Canal by the Germans north of the ferryman's house, about which there has been so much fighting, and the destruction of numerous pieces of the enemy's artillery at different points in the battle line, is reported to-day in an official communique. The British have advanced considerably in their part of the line.

LONDON, England, December 12.—The great Cottorp barracks at Kiel, the powerful German naval base, have been destroyed by fire, according to a despatch reaching London to-day from Copenhagen. The cause of the fire has been kept a secret, it is declared.

LONDON, December 12.—England will leave entirely to the French Government the decision upon the proposal of Pope Benedict that the warring powers declare a Christmas truce. Although there has been no official expression of England's attitude in the matter, it is understood that the decision will be left to France, inasmuch as General Joffre is recognized as the commander in chief of the allied armies operating in France and Belgium. The [illegible] of the proposal of the Pontiff [illegible] military situation at the time. There is no disposition to handicap General Joffre and the allied armies in any movement that may then be under way, in the event of military exigencies rendering a truce undesirable. Russia's reported rejection of the truce proposals will not affect immediately the prospects of a cessation of the fighting in the western front. Germany's condition at the approval of the plan would have opened the question of two truces [illegible] Russia accepted as the Russian Christmas fall on January 7th, instead of December 25th.

BERLIN, via The Hague, December 12.—Kaiser Wilhelm is convalescing; His Majesty's personal physician to-day said that the royal patient was very much improved and would probably be able to return to the front within a week or ten days.

BUENOS AYRES, December 12.—Three hundred Reds for German rescued and wounded in the Falkland naval engagement, have been requesting by wireless messages received to-day at Montevideo from the British fleet.

LONDON, December 12.—Reports from Petrograd to-day state that the Czar who is now at Tiflis, has expressed his complete satisfaction at the developments of the campaign in the Caucasus. He will review the Russian troops in that region and is expected to award many decorations for gallantry.

This Morning's Produce Market

Was Largely Attended—Sanitary Inspector Spence Receives a Consignment of Egg Testers Which He Proceeds to Distribute

The cheapest things on the farmers' market this morning, was the egg-testers, which were distributed free by Sanitary Inspector Spence. They market this morning, were the egg. "It is only to be hoped that they are put to practical use," was the fervent prayer of more than one patron of the market. Eggs were thirty-five cents a dozen this morning. Supplies were not so limited as they have been for the past two or three weeks. Perhaps the worthy hen has been affected by the Christmas spirit which is beginning to manifest itself, and has so far forgotten herself as to become a revenue producer instead of a burden to the already "overburdened farmer."

A large supply of butter was marketed at from twenty-eight to thirty cents a pound. There are prospects that the price may reach a lower level before the New Year makes its debut. Fowl was plentiful and prices reasonable. Ducks sold at one dollar and thirty to one dollar and forty cents a pair. Chickens ranged in price from sixty to eighty cents a pair. Geese changed hands at one dollar and twenty-five cents each, and turkeys seventeen cents a pound.

The Outside Market.

Christmas trees made their initial appearance on the outside market this morning. Prices ranged from twenty to fifty cents each. The market promises to be limited. All kinds of meat were in evidence at the usual prices. Beef sold for nine and nine and one-half cents a pound. This is slightly lower than that of last week. Pork, of which there was a liberal supply, sold for twelve cents a pound, and lamb at fourteen and fifteen cents for a similar quantity.

Potatoes were sixty-five cents a bag. Some were offered at seventy cents with very few buyers. Vegetables of all kinds were plentiful, and prices unchanged from those of the past three or four weeks.

Only Ten Who Have Not Been Secured Work

Local Immigration Officer Has Had 112 Applications Since Early This Fall

Never was there such effort put forth in this City to secure work for the unemployed, and accomodate those needing help. Last week the Examiner recorded the fact that 81 men were placed by the Industrial Association Agency.

Messrs. Might and Taylor, at the Immigration Office, say that although there are no immigrants arriving now there have been a number of good men apply. Since early in the Fall over 112 applications have been made and the demand has also been good, especially from the farmers, so that at present they have only ten unemployed on the list. Even some of these, it is thought, have gone out to work, as they have been sent for, and failed to put in an appearance.

ORPHEUS SOCIETY.

At the concert to be given next Friday, the 18th, the principal number on the programme will be the cantata, "Feast of Adonis" (Ad Jensen), the soloists taking part being Miss Ada Richardson (soprano), Mrs. R. W. Davidson, Mrs. J. A. Morgan and Mrs. A. A. Perrin. The conductor, J. Edward Fisher, is well pleased with the good attendance on practice nights and the splendid work being done by the chorus, and looks forward to giving a musical treat to an appreciative audience.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION PROSPECTS

Few Aldermen Will Come Out and Declare Their Intentions--Candidate For Mayor

Municipal matters are extremely quiet in Peterborough, although nomination day is but a few days away. The crop of candidates so far have succeeded to some extent, in disguising their views as few have enlightened the publi as to their intentions. There is no doubt but what there will be enough to make a contest when the time comes.

Appended is the form of interview that invariably results whenever one of the retiring aldermen is approached concerning the municipal elections:

"What are your intentions respecting the forthcoming election?"

"Well,. I would rather wait for a little while before declaring my intentions."

"What are the other fellows going to do?" (This is an afterthought.)

"They are all running."

"Well, perhaps you had better say that I have not fully decided to enter the field, but in all probability will do so."

This is a means to an end. It enables those who are concerned to determine if possible, what the other fellow is going to do.

One alderman at least has manifested the courage of his convictions, and that is Ald. Duncan. He has emphatically stated that he will enter the mayoralty contest. Ald. Johnston will do likewise if Mayor Butler is opposed. He would much prefer to see the Mayor elected by acclamation, a preference which may be realized.

An Address Upon China Missions

Mrs. Griffith of Honan, China, will address a meeting in St. Paul's church on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 13th—tomorrow—at 3.30 o'clock. GERMAN FAILURE

Russians Claim That Von Hindenburg's Plans in Poland Have Been Frustrated

THE LOSSES HEAVY

Special Cable:

PETROGRAD, Dec. 11.—The German plan of campaign in Poland has failed in its principal features, it is claimed here to-day. The plan of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg in directing his attack against the vast 200-mile Russian front, from the Vistula to Galicia, has been frustrated by the Russian forces in the vicinity of Lowicz on the north, and those on the southern front, holding their ground. The Russians, it is declared, have successfully resisted the attempt to turn Grand Duke Nicholas' right near Lowicz, and the extreme left of the Russian line along the Donajec river.

Having failed to fold back the Russian line, the Germans are forced to confine themselves to frontal attacks, which are resulting in heavy losses.

A Mysterious Disappearance

Mr. Joseph Hatton Lost in the Woods at Minden and Has Not Been Located

MINDEN, Dec. 12.— Joseph Hattam, accompanied by William Welch, his partner, of the firm of Welch & Hattam, lumbermen and mill owners near Miner's Bay, left Minden early Monday morning to look over some timber limits in Hindon township, about 15 or 20 miles from this village. They became separated Wednesday afternoon, and as Mr. Hatton did not return to where they were putting up for sleeping quarters during the night or the following day. Although guns were fired at intervals and fires kept up, nothing so far has been heard of him. The country is densely covered with a thick forest and very rough. Mr. Hattan had a gun with him, and it is surmised that he has met with a shooting accident or broken through the thin ice while crossing some of the smaller lakes. Mr. Welch returned to the village to-day, organized a searching party and left for that section. Owing to their being no snow in the woods at present, it will be a difficult matter to track him, as the country is sparsely settled.

The De Laval Travellers' In Convention

The travelling superintendents of the De Laval Dairy Supply Company will be held here on onday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. They will meet in the sales office on Monday at 8 o'clock, reporting to Mr. French. In the afternoon H. C. Beckman will discuss clarifiers and special centrifugals, and J. J. Harris will speak on the "Worth of Wyandotte." In the evening J. G. Campeasie will speak on "Credits and Collections," and W. D. Heron on "Organizing for Results." On Tuesday the travellers will inspect the Peterborough Pure Milk Co.'s plant and afterwards assemble at the De Laval warehouse for a demonstration. In the afternoon G. A. Evans and James Mills will be the speakers. In the evening addresses will be given by G. B. Sharpe, C. [illegible] Cook and R. A. Reid.

On Wednesday the travellers will be kept busy in the creamery factory building. In the afternoon, R. E. Thurston, E. H. Brightman and R. N. Mitchell will speak. A banquet will wind up the convention.

STIRRING ENTHUSIASM AT THE CLOSING MEETING OF THE PATRIOTIC CAMPAIGN

Fund Committee Had a Happy Bunch Last Evening When the Final Results Were Known—Speakers and Leaders Were Cheered

A PRESENTATION MADE

There have been few more enthusiastic meetings in Peterborough than the gathering at the headquarters of the Peterborough Patriotic Fund, last evening, when the closing demonstration of the three-day campaign was held. Happy in the realization that the $60,000 mark aimed at had been passed, glowing with the manned enthusiasm of three days' active, harmonious working together, and with hearts warmed with a better appreciation of each other, the committee members could not restrain their enthusiasm. Speakers were cheered, statistics were cheered, presentations were cheered. Business men, professional men, workers of all ranks and occupations were as happy and unrestrained as school boys. "A Long Way to Tipperary" was sung with a right good will, and the emphatic chorus of "No" that followed the oft-repeated query that is heard so often from the British soldiers in the trenches, "Are we down-hearted!" might have been heard in Lakefield.

The supper over, the first interesting feature was the auction sale of a picture of Mr. Daniel O'Connell, Chairman of the Committee. Rev. Mr. Rollins was the auctioneer and in conducting the sale he took advantage of the occasion to pay a glowing tribute to Mr. O'Connell for the zeal and energy with which he had performed his duties.

Bidding was brisk before the picture was finally sold to Ald. Duffus' committee.

There was a condition attached to the sale, however, announced Mr. Rollins, and that was that the picture was not to be given to the successful bidder, whereupon Mr. Rollins presented the picture to Mr. O'Connell, amid enthusiastic applause.

Presentation to Mr. Dobbin.

The next event was a surprise package for Mr. F. H. Dobbin, Chairman of the Publicity Committee, who was presented with a very handsome mahogany tray, suitably embossed and engraved. Mr. F. D. Kerr, in making the presentation, said that the Committee could not allow the opportunity to pass without showing their appreciation of the most valuable and faithful services which Mr. Dobbin had rendered. He had been hard at work for over a week and he had been an inspiration for everyone.

Three hearty cheers were given for Mr. Dobbin, who replied in a neat speech, in which he referred to the pleasant relationship that had existed and remarked that the association of such a body of men for three days would have a lasting effect.

Judge Huycke's Address.

His Honour Judge Huycke, in a speech that aroused enthusiasm, said that the members of the Committee would appreciate and love each other better as a result of their work. There had been too much of the spirit in Peterborough of Grit and Tory, Catholic and Protestant—too many divisions along these lines, perhaps more so in Peterborough than in any other city in which he had lived. "The time had come to bury that sort of spirit," remarked Judge Hughe, "and this, I think, is its funeral."

The wild cheering left no doubt of the sympathy of the audience with that sentiment.

Mr. T. F. Matthews, to whose services a well deserved tribute was paid, was warmly received when called upon to speak. He congratulated the workers on the success of their efforts and pointed out that there was plenty of work still to be done. Mr. Matthews assured the committee that arrangements would be made to have the fund honestly and fairly administered.

Mayor Butler added his congratulations to the Committee upon the magnificent success they had attained. In regard to the $10,000 grant from the Council, his Worship said that he had heard no complaints from the working men.

On motion of Mr. W. A. Pratt, seconded by Adjt. McElhinney, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Rean, the organizer, whose services had been loaned the [illegible]

CHRISTMAS LETTER TO SOLDIER BOYS IN OLD ENGLAND

Below is a copy of the letter of Christmas greeting sent to the Peterborough boys at Salisbury Plain and which will be read to them on Christmas Day. The original is a beautiful peace of work, embossed and arranged by Mr. F. H. Dobbin. It has been signed by over six hundred women and girls at Peterborough, and will be a striking Christmas greeting to the loved ones in the old land. The letter was sent to Major Bennett to place before the soldier boys, and reads as follows:

To the Officers and Men From Peterborough, on Salisbury Plain,
England.

We, your Mothers, Wives, Sisters, Sweethearts and lady friends at home, wish to tell you how we will miss you all from your accustomed plae at the home fireside at this Joyous Season, and to wish you one and all

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

We wish to tell you also how we appreciate the noble sacrifice you are making in offering your lives (if need be) in order to defend our glorious Empire, and Canada our dear native land, from the iron hand of the oppressor, that we may continue to be a free and independent people.

We fear not that you will do your part nobly in defending and protecting, not only our own Empire, but also the less powerful nations — of whom poor Belgium has been ravished and bled in a most brutal and inhuman manner—so that the world will know that our Empire stands for honour, for [illegible] for freedom and against the oppression of the weaker nations.

We have confidence in our noble King, our heroic Kitchener, and "dear old Bobs," after reviewing you have expressed such high opinions of you, and we are proud of you.

Your actions cannot fail to stimulate others to copy your example. Reinforce all your efforts to support and defend to the end, the cause for which the Mother Country has drawn the sword, and appealed to you with no unhesitating confidence in your loyalty and patriotism. It is a good thing to be a Canadian and a proud thing to be one of the soldiers of the King and of the Empire.

We hear that you will soon be called to "the firing line," and you may be sure that our hopes and prayers will be that you may all come back, but if some should fall by the way, we know it will be doing their duty, and their names will be forever written in our hearts and on the Honour Roll of this City.

Again wishing you all God's speed and

A Merry Christmas and
a Happy New Year.

William Ward has taken out a building permit for the erection of a kitchen at 350 Rogers Street. The building will be of frame construction and will cost in the neighbourhood of twenty-five dollars to build.

May Equip Half Regiment.

R. F. Harriston, warden of Wellington, in his address to the county council, recommended that the county raise and equip half a regiment of soldiers. He computed the cost to be $90 per man, making a total expenditure of $45,000. This proposal is meeting with the approval of nearly every person who has heard of it.

Debenture Sales.

Short term debentures to the amount of $135,491 have been disposed of through the medium of the City Treasurer's office. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth is being offered.

Police Investigation.

Judge Hamsing has refused to grant to the city council formal application for a judicial inquiry into police affairs, which resulted in criminal and severe court actions involving Constable Meihan and ex-Constable Herman Odenberg. Applications for a mandamus compelling the judge to hold an investigation has been made on behalf of the city at Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

Police Commission.

Motorists Fined For Speeding

In this morning's Police Court Robert Calvert of Ennismore was charged with using grossly insulting and abusive language to Mr. Joseph S. White. Waiving aside all Police Court precedents for such cases, and instead of offering some defence, the defendant pleaded guilty to the charge Mr. White was put in the witness box to discover the extent of the young man's departure from the law of the land, and on his evidence Calvert was fined $3 and costs, amounting is all to $7.20. The statement of Mr. White showed that young Calvert was drunk at the time of the offence and the Magistrate gave him a severe talking to on the subject of the inadvisability of resorting to strong drink as a beverage.

Two local motorists were fined $10 for speeding last Sunday. It is said that they were having a race on Aylmer street when their license numbers came under the observance of the eagle eye of one of the local policemen. Result—a charge in Police Court and a fine of $10 to be paid in ten days.

HAS NOT YET MADE HIS DECISION

Rev. F. J. Sawers is Considering this Call to Cobourg

When asked by the Examiner this morning if he had reached a decision in regard to his acceptance of the Rectorship of the Anglican Church at Cobourg, Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., Rector of St. Luke's, stated that he had decided nothing definitely as yet. Mr. Sawers returned from Cobourg last evening, where he had been spending the last couple of days The parish of Cobourg is one of the most important in the Diocese of To-

OUR HILL MEN HEROES.

Our East Indian fighters, the hill men and others, who are now striking terror in the troops of Germany on the battle front are of particular interest both to us and to the good Kaiser. He finds his crack regiments rather afraid of the Indian soldiers, and fighting shy of fighting with the troops from a British dependency that was to seethe with sedition and rise in revolt when "perfidious Albion" got a war on her hands. Instead, he finds the gallant brown men coming out of the East like a cloud between him and the sun of his glory and success.

The Indian army that is furnishing some of the best fighting blood at the front in France and Flanders is composed of many races, languages and religions, though, as far as the present crisis is concerned they are all of one religion—loyalty to the British cult of benign and equal government. The variety in religions makes it necessary to form "class" corps and companies. All orders are given in English, but off duty the men, of course, speak their own languages. The normal strength of the Indian army is 162,000, officers and men. In addition there are, approximately, 22,000 Imperial service troops, 35,000 reservists, and 39,000 volunteers. Among the races in the Indian army are the little brown men, the Gurkhas, small-sized men of Mongolian extraction, who, besides the service rifle and bayonet, are armed with a half-moon shaped knife, called kukri, with which, in the hands of a Gurkha, it is said a man can be split in half at a blow. They are very much in love with this weapon, and when they get into business operation with it, "there is," as Kipling says, "a sound like butchers chopping meat on a block." They are in addition to their cleverness with their crescent cleaver, wonderful rifle shots, and one would like to see them put into competition at the ranges with No. 11 Company of Peterborough's gallant Home Guards. The Sikhs in the Indian army are not born as such, but are admitted to that sect in early manhood; they are of Hindoo origin. A Sikh never cuts his hair and wears an iron bangle on the wrist. He is a great fighter, and with his big beard and fierce moustaches, curled up behind his ears, is a terrifying figure. The Pathan is of Afghan origin, and is a complete devil when placed on a hillside and left free to stalk his man. The Rajputs—this word meaning the "son of a king"—are of blood royal descent, big, upstanding men, dignified, silent and aloof, never forgetting their royal lineage. Inside the turban each man carries a steel circlet with sharp edges, reminiscent of a crown. This he can hurl at a great distance with such force and deadliness of aim as to behead his enemy.

For patriotic and practical reasons we are proud of our East Indian warriors, and we almost envy the Germans, who, more fortunate than we, are favoured with the honour of a personal introduction and intimate acquaintance which are not always appreciated.

THE PATRIOTIC FUND.

The three-days' campaign in the interests of the Patriotic Fund, has achieved success in Scripture measure —"pressed down and shaken together and running over." The energetic committee set out to achieve a total of $50,000, and nearly $68,000 has been reached. This accomplishment, so thoroughly creditable to committee and citizens, represents varied results.

In the first place it shows what can be accomplished by good organization, by systematic and well directed effort, involving universal cooperation. This is a lesson to our citizenship and our civic rulers. In the next place Peterborough has removed her reproach, and can take her place among [illegible] communities without apology [illegible] were true [illegible] had been as effective as that applied the past three days. Other communities were not more generous, but were given a chance to give through effective organization. Then we can now take breath for a time at least, and attend to other pressing duties. Another result, and by no means the least important, is the drawing together of all classes of our citizenship in harmonious cooperation. It has brought directly together about one hundred and twenty-five representative citizens of differing religious and political creeds. They have learned to know each other and each other's good points, and the lesson of the possibilities of achievement of harmony of citizenship, in sentiment and action, has been pressed home to themselves, and through them to the general citizenship. When one notes what such a committee has done, in more ways than one, and remembers the enthusiasm of the "love feast" at the committee rooms last night, one could hope that this committee would not release its organization, but retain it and its energy and inspiration to enthusiasm for the benefit of other civic causes and concerns.

While the committee has done splendidly, they could not have succeeded so well without the hearty cooperation of the citizens, who have shown that they have only to be well led to achieve victories. The campaign was worth all the work and worry it entailed for the sake of the splendid spirit of liberality and sacrifice it brought out. While all praise is due the contributors of large sums, the greater praise belongs to those who gave in a way that was felt, a way that hurt — made sacrifice in order to give. Cases are known of girls, employed where the whole staff contributed a day's wage, who gave their share, though their wages were low, and they were employed only two days a week. In one establishment where this form of contribution was proposed, one young man, an employee, said that he would give, and did give, ten dollars, so that girl employees whose wages were low, need not be called upon. Another employee of the same George street firm, though suffering from reduced wages owing to the war stress, gave a whole week's pay. Mr. A. O. Kidd, carpenter, not feeling able to contribute money, offered a week's work. This offer was put up at auction, and $20 was bid for the week's work. These instances and many others that are known, show that we are better than our neighbours think we are and better than we thought ourselves to be.

The Patriotic Fund campaign has been a great material success, but it has also been better—a great inspiration, a great education. In it Peterborough has found itself, and has been revealed to itself in a way that must yield good after results. Now that we have achieved so much success, have reached and overpassed our goal, and have placed our Patriotic Fund on a good basis, we can take breath and take rest from such activities. Apart from what enterprises are now under way, and apart from entertainments and concerts where the offerings are voluntary, it seems that it would be wise, to refrain from making further public appeals for contributions, at least for the present. The people at large, and especially our business men, should be allowed, with the least possible interruption to attend to "business as usual." The holiday season is before us; its duties demand attention, and if we discharge these duties in the proper spirit, we shall be doing as much and as meritorious benefaction as we should do by raising another patriotic fund. The war will be with us for a long time, and other calls will be made upon us. We shall be better able to meet such calls when they may come if, for the present, we fall back into the usual routine, of business, civic and social life. We have been brought closer together, a better spirit has been awakened, and we shall see this year, Christmas greetings among our citizens, given with a fervour and heartiness never before shown.

NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER.

Since the Empire is, from centre to circumference, engaged in a struggle in the interest of Christian principles and the civilization and mission of human betterment, founded upon Christianity, it is very becoming that we should recognize the overlordship of the great Head of Christianity. The Governor-General, through his responsible advisers, has issued a proclamation apointing a day as a day of prayer and intercession on behalf of the cause of the Empire and its allies. The proclamation, which appearing in an extra of the "Canada Gazette" is, even with its formal redundancy of verbiage, worth repeating. It is as follows:

WHEREAS Our Empire has been forced to take up arms in defence of rights and liberties unjustly attacked and to fulfil pledges solemnly given,—

We, therefore, believing it to be fitting that Our people should be assembled to make a public and solemn avowal of duty to Almighty God and of need of guidance, have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council for Canada, to apoint, and We do hereby appoint

How To Get a View of the Anglo-German Problem

Whatever answer the present "trial by combat" may give (and may it soon be a favourable one for us) the Anglo-German problem will still face us.

Germany rests her case on the argument of hard knocks and, logically must abide by the result of the conflict. But we Anglo-Saxons rest our case on the policy of live and let live, so whatever may happen to Germany, when "the tumult and the shouting dies" we again have to ask ourselves whether there is not room in the world to-day for more than one great civilization, "culture," idea of life, philosophy, or whatever we may choose to call it.

It is a question on which everyone of us has a right and a duty to form on opinion. The quarrel goes deeper than the White papes, the Servia episode, or the historic "scrap of paper." The real motive force is German's ambition for world dominion; not neccessarily for world conquest, but the imposition of German ideas, the German language, German goods and German culture on the civilized world of the future.

The literature on the subject is fortunately easily accessible. First, we have Bernnardi's poisonous book (which everyone should read) "Germany and the next War." A dull, but authoritative statement of the German case. There is also the late Professor Cramb's brilliant exposition of German philosophy in his "Germany and England". Perhaps, most important of all we have Dr. Saroléa's book, whose title heads this article. The Anglo-German Problem. While more readable and entertaining than either of the other two named, it is none the less a work of real depth. The author is perhaps ideally qualified for the task by reason of his Belgian cosmopolitan scholarship. Besides being Professor of French in Edinburgh University the author is also a skillful journalist, whose name during the war has become familiar to readers of the daily papers.

After discussing the question "Why does Europe distrust Germany?" Dr. Saroléa analyzes with brilliance and minute care the condition and historical tendencies of modern Germany. He deals in turn with some of the paradoxes and contradictions of modern Germany, the enormous influence of Prussia, the powers of reaction, and the militarist party. A particularly thoughtful chapter is on Nationalism in Germany and the Perversion of Patriotism. After a brief but biting indictment of Germany's treatment of her own subjects in Poland and Alsace Loraine, Dr. Saroléa proceeds to examine the German grievances against England. Has England taken German's place in the Sun? Has England hemmed in Germany? We need not anticipate his findings here as his readers will probably want to follow his arguments for themselves.

A whole chapter devoted to the fascinating theme of the Kaiser's character and eccentricities is probably the most brilliant piece of writing in the book.

SUNDAY, the THIRD day of JANUARY next, to be throughout Our Dominion of Canada a day of Humble Prayer and Intercession to Almighty God on behalf of the cause undertaken by Our Empire and Our Allies and of those who are offering their lives for it, and for a speedy and favourable peace that shall be founded on understanding and not hatred, to the end that peace shall endure; and We do invite all Our loving subjects throughout Canada to set apart this appointed day as a day of Humble Prayer and Intercession.

We are to pray for peace, but for an enduring peace. Canada can well take part in such an intercessory service, for we shall then be complementing our works with our faith. We shall pray well if we pray as earnestly as we are working, for the success of the Great Cause.

DADDY.

The grief of the mother has touched your hearts, the desolation of the wives has moved your pity, you see the pathetic side of the children left fatherless, praying for Daddy, prattling about him, but, happily, unable to understand their loss, though some of them know, poor things, that they have had to go hungry because that vague and overwhelming thing, the Government, that took the father away forgot, temporarily, to make adequate provision for the children left behind.

Remembering the fatherless children let us not forget the childless "Daddy" far away. How many pathetic notes have been in the letters home. "I expect Charlie is getting a big boy now!" Or "Is wee Jeannie runing about yet?" is the bald question, but, as it is written (for the eye of the Censor on the battlefield, first of all), what a tugging there is at the heart strings. Even Hans, like Jacques and Tommy, has his pictures of the little ones at home, though his fatherly feelings may be so queerly distorted that he finds some satisfaction in robbing petit Pierre of his shoes in the hope that they may fit baby Hermann. One of the few stories of the war that the Germans need not be ashamed of is that of the dying Uhlan who begged for a kiss from a fair-haired Flemish child that he might dream in his last moments of the lips of his blue-eyed Gretchen.

Many of our fathers at the front have never seen their babies, for in the past three months, while the Angel of Death has been busy in the trenches the Angel of Birth has come to soldiers 'homes. Belgian refugees, whose husbands are still fighting on their nation's soil; have brought to our country little ones whom the eager father has not let seen, and the tiny exile has made life endurable for the woman robbed of all the rest. To the poor homes of our soldiers' wives babies have come, and the father, fighting for his country, has his arm strengthened by the thought of the bonnie bairn who has ne'er seen the Daddy, maybe when the war is over only a memory to the child, who has never gladdened his eye and for whom his heart is hungering all the more.

It is only one of the many splendid sacrifices made continually for all of us whose lot is cast so pleasantly at home. And yet with such sacrifices to inspire we can dare to say glibly that we, too, are doing all that we can afford.—Glasgow News.

BRITISH SAID TO HAVE WON A DECISIVE VICTORY

New Positions Have Been Occupied and Former Advances Consolidated at Various Points—War Correspondent Looks for a Long, Tedious Struggle in Belgium.

LONDON, Dec. 12. — A despatch from Paris [illegible]

Reports [illegible]ing here yesterday evening tell [illegible] decisive British victory in Belg[illegible]. While details are lacking, it [illegible] that the Germans have been rep[illegible]d for a considerable distance, loadi[illegible]avily.

Military cir[illegible]say that if this is true it will pr[illegible]y prove the turning point of t[illegible]campaign in the north.

Many notabl[illegible]ns by the allies are reported in [illegible]atches from the Franco-Belgian [illegible]front. In the Ypres region tr[illegible]s taken by the Germans were se[illegible]fterward recaptured. From dif[illegible]t sources, too, come news confir[illegible] the belief that the German move[illegible]s of troops in Belgium are compl[illegible]

The Daily News [illegible]the following despatch from the [illegible]ian frontier: Hints from half a d[illegible]ources leave little doubt that th[illegible]n movement of the enemy's tro[illegible]both in and into Belgium, which [illegible] have been hearing so much ab[illegible]lately, are now completed. Ge[illegible]y has her pieces in position. [illegible] straggler over the border enlig[illegible] the extraordinary preparation[illegible]de for a fighting retreat, but [illegible]ould never be forgotten that pr[illegible]ions even of this magnitude in [illegible] and death struggle are only pa[illegible]n obvious game; because the pl[illegible]s made for retreat it does not f[illegible]ow that a retreat is contemplated [illegible]mediately.

From what I am [illegible]to gather, I believe the German [illegible] through Belgium will offer t[illegible]es one of the toughest problem[illegible]the history of the country. They [illegible]st be ready for a series of terribly costly field sieges, so costly in life that it may possibly be, judging by the recent experiences of this kind of fighting, that we may ultimately be forced to regard three-quarters of the Belgian territory as the citadel before which the army must sit down in the old-fashioned way and wait for nature to complete the work of our arms.

The French official communication issued last night says:

"In the region of Ypres a very violent German attack has been repulsed.

"In that same region those of our trenches which were reported in the official communication of 3 o'clock yesterday as having been taken by the Germans have been recaptured by us.

"Upon the rest of the front there is nothing important to report."

The official communication as issued yesterday afternoon was as follows:—

"The enemy Thursday showed a certain activity in the region of Ypres. He directed several attacks against our lines, three of which were completely repulsed. At one single point on the front the Germans succeeded in reaching one of our first line trenches. On our side we continued to make progress in the direction of the enemy's lines.

"In the region of Arras and in the vicinity of Juvincourt there have been artillery engagements.

"In the Argonne we have pushed forward several of our trenches and driven back two German attacks.

"In the region of Varennes we have consolidated our gains of the preceding days. The German artillery has been very active, but we suffered no losses. A similar condition has existed on the heights of the Meuse. In the forest of Le Pretre our progress has been continued, and has developed.

"To the south of Thann we have occupied the railroad station of Aspach.

"Along the remainder of the front in the Vosges there have been artillery engagements."

NO HOPE FOR THE DRESDEN

German Officials Say Cruiser Cannot Escape Pursuers

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—(Via Amsterdam and London.)—A German semi-official statement given out here yesterday admits the loss of the cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig in the battle off the Falkland Islands.

Speaking of the Nurnberg (later reported sunk) and the Dresden, the report says:

"In view of the superiority of the enemy's fleet, which consists only of big, fast, well-armed ships, there seems little chance that our two cruisers can long evade pursuit. We must, therefore, also reckon with the loss of both these ships.

"It is hardly to be expected from British sources that accurate information will be given of the course of the conflict or of the composition of the British squadron.

"It should not be forgotten that our squadron was four months on the high seas, and that without being able to make use of cablegrams or other means of communication it assembled and dealt a heavy blow to the enemy's fleet."

THE PLEASURES OF READING

By F. M. DELA FOSSE

Discursive reading is undoubtedly the kind of reading that appeals most to the majority of book-lovers. It is not the way to become a profound scholar, or a brilliant controversialist on any particular topic, but, as was remarked in a former article, there are few amongst us who possess the temperament or the leisure for deep reading or quiet thinking, and therefore the sort of literature that provides a man with a fairly varied knowledge of affairs becomes most valuable. Equipped, however superficially, with such knowledge, one is fairly well guarded against making such an exhibition of himself as a certain person of whom it is credibly stated that, in talking of the war, he wondered what England, Russia and France were about when they were "letting them, there Allies, do all the fighting." Of course, that man had read absolutely nothing and, trusting to hearsay, was promptly wrecked on the reef of impenetrable stupidity or ignorance.

For the purpose of pursuing our tour through the old magazines I have taken this week a volume of the Leisure Hour of 1899. It is filled with far more interesting matter than even the one that we rambled through previously, but only one or two outstanding items can be discussed at this time. The first one is entitled "The Queen's Clocks at Windsor," and is descriptive of the clocks distributed throughout the 688 rooms and corridors of the famous castle. We are told that these timepieces are of a very varied character, and go without winding for periods varying from 48 hours to twelve months. It is added that the local clockmaker's office is no sinecure. The oldest of these clocks is the one that was presented to Anne Boleyn by Henry VIII. on the eve of their marriage.

The most interesting one amongst this wonderful collection is probably the one which was the favourite travelling clock of William III. It rests in the grand corridor, and bears on its summit a beautiful crystal and enamel casket which contains the Bible of the late General Gordon. "In the midst of its magnificent surroundings," the writer says, "its casket itself, worth some thousands of pounds, lies the unpretending little volume, its own original cost possibly but a shilling or two, its well-thumbed leaves, its war-worn look telling so clearly the story of the man himself and what he fought for."

Going on further we come to a very appreciative reference to two men whose names should be remembered in Canada: William Kingsford, the historian of the Dominion, and Mr. Fuller, the designer of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

Then we come to a review of the once well-known book, entitled "The War of the Future." This book was written by Dr. Von Bloch, and created a marked sensation when it appeared. It contains a most striking and accurate forecast of the present tremendous conflict. At the time that Von Bloch wrote (1899) he estimated the armies of Germany, Austria and Italy at 5,135,000 and those of France and Russia at 5,354,000. They have grown materially during the intervening years. Italy even at that time had 200-ton guns on her war vessels, which were capable of throwing projectiles 6,000 lbs. in weight, which would pierce armour plate 36 inches thick. There are many details given which cannot be transcribed here, but the wonderful forecasts of the strength that these nations would show in the struggle of the future, coupled with the fact that the publication of the work was the direct cause of the erection of the Peace Palace at The Hague make it well worthy of attention at the present time.

There are a series of really excellent articles dealing with the Port of London which are educational and interesting to a marked degree. We are told that the total customs revenue of London in 1899 was £9,650,000; three times as much as Liverpool, six times as much as Bristol, eight times as much as Glasgow, and nine times as much as Belfast. But we are told much more than this. We are taken along the docks and shown the wonderful warehouses with their commerce from the four quarters of the globe; of the imports of tea, ivory and spices, opium, quinine, perfumery, shells, tobacco, silk, feathers, grain, oilcake, timber, rum and canes. Finally we are enlightened as to the rise of English shipping, and the growth of England's trade.

With such examples before us, is it not worth while to look into these old volumes, fusty and musty though they be, and pick out some of the splendid things that they contain. F. M. D.

KEEN JUBILATION IN INDIA OVER NAVAL VICTORY.

Moslems Continue Loyalty Meetings — Potentates Send Costly Gifts for Gurkhas who Serve in the Trenches.

DELHI, India, Dec. 10—The keenest jubilation exists here over Admiral Sturdee's great victory over the German squadron in South Atlantic. The Moslems continue their loyalty meetings throughout India. The Rajah of Birour has given 2,500 pounds of tea, the Nawab of Loharu 200 camels, and the Prime Minister of Nepal many blankets for the Gurkhas now serving in France and Belgium. These gifts are merely typical of scores of others.

SMOTHERING OF ASTHMA STOPS QUICK THOUSANDS CURED BY "CATARRHOZONE"

Count Ten — Then Relief Comes From Chronic Asthma.

Nothing yet discovered can compare with Catarrhozone in bad, ugly cases of Asthma.

Catarrhozone is the one remedy that can be sent quickly and direct to all parts of the breathing apparatus.

The effect from Catarrhozone is a quick one—you feel better in no time—keep up the good work, use Catarrhozone as directed and you get well.

If your case is curable, if anything on earth can rid you permanently of Asthma, it will be Catarrhozone. It contains that strangely soothing and powerful antiseptic found in the Blue Gum Tree of Australia, and this is fortified by other germ-killing properties which, when so scientifically combined, make Catarrhozone a veritable specific for Asthma, Catarrh and Bronchitis.

Even though many other remedies have failed—even though you are discouraged and blue—cheer up and try Catarrhozone to-day. What it repeatedly has done for others it will surely not fail to accomplish for you.

Catarrhozone is not expensive. One dollar will buy a complete outfit from any Druggist. The money will be well spent because your immediate improvement in health will surpass your fondest expectations. Don't wait—to-day is the time to use Catarrhozone.

"Father And Mother Do The Playing Now"

THAT is what you hear in the homes that have been blessed by the installation of a NEW PLAYER PIANO. The student daughter is not the only one to touch the piano now, any member of the family can play the finest compositions, perfectly. And if the daughter has gone to a home of her own, the "Silent Piano" can quickly be exchanged for a Live Player, that responds to the touch of unaccustomed hands, with the music that appeals so strongly and is missed so much.

THIS CHRISTMAS IS THE TIME TO GET THE LIVE PIANO

At the Greene Music Store you can have a demonstration of either the New Scale Williams Player, or, "Ye Olde Firme" Heintzman & Co. Player, at any time. You can play these yourself, just to see how easy and delightful it is to purchase some master selection that you could only listen to before.

We are prepared to take your old "silent" Piano and make a liberal allowance for it on the purchase of a live Player Piano, and easy terms for the balance.

If you have promised your daughter a new Piano, better redeem the promise this Christmas, by making a selection of a HEINTZMAN & CO. or NEW SCALE WILLIAMS PIANO, that is sure to please, with its exquisite quality of tone and beauty of design. Terms most favourable, making purchase easy.

EDISON'S NEWEST TRIUMPH

THE WORLD is to-day crowning Thomas A. Edison's genius by the most unqualified approval of his latest masterpiece, the EDISON DIAMOND DISC PHONOGRAPH. Never satisfied with the wonderful results he gave the world when the Edison Phonograph was first introduced, and later improved, the great inventor spent years of incessant labour and study in finally producing the marvellous

NEW DIAMOND DISC

The satisfaction that Mr. Edison himself expresses when he says that the NEW DIAMOND DISC IS A REAL MUSICAL INSTRUMENT is also amply testified to by hundreds of delighted musicians throughout America. No such clear cut tones have ever been reproduced before. So natural is the sound of voice or musical instrument, that you positively seem to be right in the room beside you. Other features of the Edison Diamond Disc are that the Records are unbreakable, and will wear for years without injury, also there is NO NEEDLE CHANGING NUISANCE, a diamond point that will not wear out, or injure records, is used.

IT IS THE INSTRUMENT YOU WILL HAVE FINALLY, BETTER GET IT NOW

The enormous demand is already far overtaxing the capacity of the factory to produce the medium priced instruments, so if wanted for Christmas an immediate selection should be made to avoid disappointment. Hear it any day—Demonstrations Free any time we are open. Sold on very favourable terms of payment to suit buyers.

STIRRING ENTHUSIASM

Rev. Mr. Rollins paid a fine tribute to the work of Mr. J. A. Aylmer, who perhaps, more than any one else, the speaker said, had been responsible for the Committee reaching the $50,000 mark. The vote of thanks moved by Mr. Rollins, was seconded by Mr. W. G. Morrow and was enthusiastically carried.

Never Lost Faith.

"I had never lost faith in Peterborough," remarked Mr. Aylmer, in acknowledging the vote. "I had faith that she would do her duty in sending men to the front and in looking after the families of those who had gone. We promised those men we would take care of their loved ones, and we will do it. And Peterborough will keep on sending men and looking after their families until the end, if it takes another $50,000."

Wild cheering greeted this declaration.

Mr. O'Connell.

Chairman O'Connell said that he did not know any language in which to adequately describe the splendid work done by the committees. The first contributions to the Patriotic fund had been no index of the public sentiment or the generosity of Peterborough's citizens. When the need was properly placed before them and realized, the splendid results were seen.

Mr. O'Connell paid a fine tribute to the committee, remarking that never had a better aggregation assembled together in a more fitting work. They were men of true and noble patriotism, men such as the British Empire always had to stand by her in time of need. During his association with them he had met many men whom he had not known before, and his only regret was that the mingling together of these men would be at an end. To Mr. Kerr, whose efforts had been untiring, to Mr. Rollins, for his suggestion which had resulted in the coming of Mr. Warburton, and the resulting complete organization, and to other leaders in the movement, Mr. O'Connell paid tribute, and in an eloquent peroration in which he described most eloquently the first Christmas, he assured the gathering that he would always be at their service in any movement that tendered for the welfare of Peterborough, Canada, or the British Empire.

A Local Company.

Before the meeting dispersed with the singing of the National Anthem, Mr. F. D. Kerr informed the audience that a Company would have to be formed to administer the fund, and asked every member to become a charter member of such a company.

Yes, there was considerable of a fuss. The concluding gathering of the Patriotic Fund workers was no solemn affair. Not much. The men who had pushed and pulled, raced around the streets and walked all over the city and combed the suburbs with a fairly fine comb were not, when the goal had been reached, disposed to be quiet. It was felt that the fund had been realized, and so every one felt good. Supper was served in a general feeling of glee. With anticipations that afterwards there would be a time. That was realized for sure.

The team captains reported the following sums as realized from the day's work. There were many surprises and many fine contributions. Among these of the largest were those of Mr. W. G. Morrow for $1,000, the Toronto Loan and Savings Co., of $1,000 in addition to the amount already subscribed, R. Hall & Son, $150, Perkins, Ince Co., $200, Judge Huycke $300, G. W. Hatton $500, W. Irwin $500. Then followed a number, lesser in amount, but very welcome, including J. W. Bennett, Dr. Frederick, E. H. D. Hall, G. W. Green, Mayor Buller, W. G. Ferguson, H. G. Walker, W. Langford, and Moore, Ruth & Austin, all of whom handed in $100 each. W. Langford, Jr., supplemented the subscription of his father with an additional $50. The Quaker Oats Co. wired from Chicago a cool $1,000.

Then again many of the employees of the local factories who had not finished their contributions as bodies of employees reported. $50 from the Turnbull employees, and a kind friend in that fine store added $37.50, bringing the total for this place up to $87.50. The Street Railway men gave $38.48. Peterborough Masonic Lodge sent in $50; this in addition to a contribution of several hundreds of dollars made to the Belgian fund of a week or so ago. The new Masonic Lodge, Prince Arthur, added $25, just to be in the swim, the Brinton Carpet Co. employees, $65.75, and the Quaker Oats employees the fine sum of $365. The Auburn Mills finished up the fund contribution in several departments and handed in $43.75 additional to the first amount.

Here are the returns from the field teams as given in as the result of Friday afternoon's work:

No. 1	J. J. Turner, Jr.,	$ 31.00
No. 2	W. Stocker	140.00
No. 3	S. A. Oke	48.25
No. 4	H. G. Walker	125.00
No. 5	J. J. Duffus	32.00
No. 6	W. H. Dunsford	502.50
No. 7	E. A. Peck	3,177.50
No. 8	L. J. Picard	4,910.00
No. 9	Adjt. McElhiney	206.50
No. 10	G. A. Gillespie	200.00

Still a few more employees subscriptions. The Colonial Weaving Co. hands sent in $30, the superintendent, Mr. Brady, adding to the wad as it passed out of the door, $10.00. The Calcutt Brewing Co. men reached across the river and deposited $30.00 where it would do the most good. Curtis Bros.' employees gave $40.00. A club of young ladies, among them several of the school teachers, have a liberal amount. This is merged in one of the teams takings.

The auction at the market hall was fairly successful. It drew a good crowd, but not many bidders. Still the assortment was put on sale and brought fair prices. One of the town lots, that at Kerrobert, went to Mr. H. G. Walker for $100.00. Mr. H. B. Cowan paid $5.00 for a Matthews' prime ham, good eating you will understand, but the home authorities will not send Mr. Cowan to market again. But Mr. Cowan is one of the finest. Mr. A. O. Kidd, carpenter, of 39 Crescent Street, and who is out of work, offered a week's work as his contribution. His service was put up for sale and Mr. Cowan took it on and will pay $20.00 to the fund for Mr. Kidd. That is the way to swing things.

Mr. James Tedford of 682 Stewart Street, wished to give something, and instead of money gave a fine red fox, which he had cherished. This came to the knowledge of Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald, who was out on the war path, and Fitz hustled a man out to Springville, where he knew of a similar fox in possession of Mr. James Baptie. What Fitz says goes, so Mr. Baptie donated the other fox, and the pair were offered for sale at the auction, and bought by Mr. Thos. Barrie, who may use them for show purposes. The sale caused considerable laughter. Mr. Barrie regrets that the foxes are not black, and stoutly resents any insinuation that he will send them down to Beach to have them dyed.

Ten pair of skates from C. R. Banks were clubbed with two dozen brushes from Mr. Gunn and sold in lots. John Knapman has had his confidence in human nature shaken, for he laid the brushes down and some one swiped them.

A fine rug from White Bros. is held over and will be sold. It is at the committee room. If you need an office or den rug call and buy this one. No very reasonable offer refused.

CONCERT AT ST. JOHN'S WAS GREETED WITH PACKED HOUSE

The concert held in St. John's Sunday School Room last evening was an unqualified success, both financially and with regard to the interest of the programme rendered, which was as follows:

Part I.

Orchestra, Selection.
Song, "The Boys of the King," the Classes.
Recitation, Mr. D. J. Eldred.
Song, "It's a long way to Tipperary," Mr. O. Coleman.
McNamara's Band, Senior and Junior B. C.
Song, "The Flight of Ages," Miss Duthrie.
Violin solo, Miss Logan.
Comic quartette, Messrs. Hartshorn Bros. and Lee.
Flag Drill, by 21 Girls—director, Miss Hawkins. (By special request).
Address, Chairman.
Speech, Canon Davidson, M.A.

Part II.

Comic sketch, Orchestra.
Nigger burlesque.
"The King."

Mayor Buller, in a few short and appropriate remarks, congratulated the Bible Classes of the Church, under whose auspices the concert was organized, on the excellent work they had been doing for the poor of the City. He also mentioned the handsome sum to which the Patriotic Fund had amounted and trusted that Canada would ever show her loyalty to the Mother Land and be bound indissolubly with her.

Canon Davidson expressed his pleasure at the progress of the Ladies' Bible Class, and aptly remarked on the present condition of affairs in the Empire, trusting this all would be fired with patriotic zeal and do their utmost to help in this crisis, whether their utmost would be little or much.

The flag drill, given by twenty-one little girls, under the leadership of Miss Hawkins, was cordially appreciated. The children's work was excellent and the different intricacies of the march faithfully and well executed, making a most effective scene.

As usual the comic quartette, given by the Hartshorn Brothers and Lee, called forth loud applause and an encore.

Miss Duthrie rendered "The Flight of Ages" very sweetly and effectively and Miss Logan's violin solo which was very beautiful, earned well merited appreciation from the audience.

The comic sketch, in which the woman took the men's work and the men stayed at home and attended the household duties, ending in what might be expected in a laughable fiasco, caused much amusement and received loud applause.

Turner's Orchestra rendered as usual, pleasing and effective music, and much thanks is due to them from the committee.

"It's a long way to Tipperary" was received with the usual enthusiasm which this latest and patriotic and popular song evokes, the audience joining heartily in the chorus each time.

Mr. D. J. Eldred's recitation, which started most tragically and surprised the audience by ending most comically, caused much laughter.

McNamara's Band, made up of all kinds and conditions of musicians and purporting to hail from the "Emerald Isle," provoked much mirth. The music was not of the highly classical order, but as we observed the instruments from which the sounds emanated, we were puzzled to know how they ever managed to get a tune at all.

At 11 o'clock the concert closed with "God Save the King," after a most amusing programme.

GOOD TIME MADE

To compare the speeds of the motor chemical engine and the horse-drawn vehicles a test was held this afternoon at fifteen minutes after two o'clock, when Ald. Johnston pulled Box No. 50, near the Auburn Woollen Mills. The call went in in the usual way, and the motor truck was on the scene of the imaginary fire in 7 minutes and 35 seconds. The hose truck, drawn by the horses, arrived at the box in 9 minutes and 20 seconds, and the ladder waggon in 9 minutes and 55 seconds. Owing to the fact that the driver of the motor truck is a Toronto man, he made the turn in East-City in the wrong direction, losing thereby 15 seconds, so that the actual time occupied in getting to the box was 7 minutes and 20 seconds, two minutes faster than the hose waggon. The distance is 2 1-2 miles, and is the longest run on the list.

STATIONS OF THE CROSS WERE HUNG LAST NIGHT

The stations of the cross were hung at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, last night. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien officiated in the simple ceremony and afterwards explained the devotion of the Way of the Cross, a commemoration of the chief events in the last days of Christ from the time of his appearance before Pilate to his interment in the tomb. Rev. J. J. O'Brien was present with Rev. Dean McCarl and Father McCarthy. A large congregation was present.

A recent long distance wireless record was established between a station in Russia and a ship off Austria, nearly 7,000 miles apart.

Electric Line to Minden Village Is Proposed by Lindsay Man

Minden Echo: A resident in the north country writes The Echo as follows: As no doubt you have seen in the papers that the Hydro Electric are to build an electric road from Toronto to Uxbridge, my impression is that if energetic measures were adopted, the Government might be induced to continue the line up to Minden.

From Coboconk north, the line, under ordinary circumstances, would be entitled to a grant both from the Ontario and Dominion Government, being Colonization roads. These two grants would be almost sufficient to build a traction line from Coboconk north, leaving only a gap between Uxbridge and Coboconk to be provided for; and the probabilities are that if the road opened new territory the various municipalities between Uxbridge and Coboconk would join with the County of Haliburton to have the Government extend their line to Minden, or to the waters communicating with Haliburton Village.

The County of Haliburton for summer purposes is as beautiful as Muskoka, and if means of communication were as good as to Muskoka District it would be but a short time until Haliburton would be as popular as Muskoka. Besides this, there is an immense quantity of forest produce, hardwood, etc., non-floatable that would be brought to market, if this line were put through.

Why do you not get your County Council to take hold of the matter?

THE PASSING OF MRS. JAMES MANN

Life That Was Full of Stirring Incidents—Eleven Weeks Crossing the Ocean

The funeral took place on Thursday, Dec. 10th, of the late Mrs. Jas. Mann, Sr., from the residence of her son, Mr. G. W. Mann, "The Hawthornes," Smith, and was largely attended by many relatives and friends who came to pay their last tribute to one who was so widely known and beloved by all for the good works which she did.

With the passing of Mrs. Mann, before her marriage was Mar- Robinson, the oldest surviving of Smith Township has gone. Mann was born in Yorkshire, nd, in September, 1818, and ix months of age, came with arents and the other members family to Canada. As the number on the beach was too great for all to witness, many went into canoes and lay outside the spot, yet all was still and serious, the water calm and transparent, and the hymn of praise and prayer of faith arose from the spot where not long since, no holier sound was heard than the orgies of superstition or the fearful warhoop. On the countenances of the baptised there was a touching solemnity, and altogether the emotions produced were such as led one to say 'It is good to be here.'"

End Came Quietly.

Since then Mrs. Mann has been one of the most active and most beloved members of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church until the three last years when failing health and weakness kept her from attending the services, but even then her interest in the work and her prayers for the Church continued till the last.

The end came quietly and peacefully on Wednesday morning when, surhounded by members of her family, "God's finger touched her and she slept," and so she passed to the great Hereafter, where she met her Pilot face to face. "And so He bringeth them to their desired haven."

The memory of her beautiful life will linger long in the hearts of her friends and will be an inspiration to higher and nobler service to God and men.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. J. McLaren of the Gilmour Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. J. R. Webb of Murray Street Baptist Church, and Rev. F. J. Ireland of Bridgenorth. The pall-bearers were six grandsons—Mr. Joseph E. Mann, Mr. Garbutt Mann, Mr. Allan B. Mann, Mr. J. Elmer Milburn, Mr. Walter Garbutt and Dr. B. E. Kelly.

"And so she passed
To where, beyond the voices,
There is rest an dpeace."

HORSE SHOT IN THE STREET

Carcass Was Allowed to Remain in Front of St. Paul's Church for Nearly Twelve Hours

A grey horse belonging to John Doig, a local junk dealer came to an untimely end last evening at the corner of Murray and Water streets. The animal dropped from sheer exhaustion brought on from a long period of abstinence from hay and oats. In other words, too many long oats and not enough short ones. About ten o'clock the police were sumomend to the centre of the crossing in front of horse was removed from the vehicle to which he was attached, and a few minutes later, the remaining spark of life retreated before the impact of a bullet delivered from a smoke waggon in the hands of a police constable.

A Narrow Escape.

It was nearly twelve hours later before the carcass was removed from the centre of the closing in front of St. Paul's Church. In the meantime several drivers narrowly escaped disaster when the horses they were driving showed fright at the gruesome object.

This morning one farmer suffered the loss of a pair of whiffletrees which were smashed in the mix-up that followed his attempt to pass the animal. Just why the police shot the animal in the middle of the road and then neglected to have it removed, is a mystery that is baffling more than one citizen.

It was only when Sanitary Inspector Spence arrived on the scene this morning that steps were taken to remove the remains. It is a source of wonderment why such an animal was permitted to consort around the city in that condition and why the authorities, humane or otherwise, did not take steps to prosecute the owner for working a horse in such an advanced stage of emaciation.

It is understood that action is being taken to suspend the license of John [illegible] on the grounds that he has neglected to conform to the by-law respecting drivers of vehicles, etc.

Mr. J. Wearing In Port Hope

At the Port Hope Baptist Church on Sunday, Mr. Joseph Wearing, M. A., of Peterborough, will occupy the pulpit, and will speak on the following vital themes:

Morning—"Why I am a Christian."

Evening — "The Signs of the Times."

He will also teach the Tri-um Bible Class at its afternoon session in the church at three o'clock.

Promenade Was Marked Success

Annual P. C. I. Affair Was Very Largely Attended — School Splendidly Decorated for the Event

SPLENDID PROGRAMME

The Peterborough Collegiate Institute annual promenade, which was held in the School last night, was an exceedingly enjoyable affair and a successful one as well. Upwards of three hundred students, ex-students and their friends were present, and ample arrangements for their entertainment had been made by the three committees in charge—the Entertainment Committee, Refreshment Committee, and Decoration Committee.

In the assembly Hall of the Institute a splendid programme was presented, nearly all of the numbers being given by students. Every number on the programme was very heartily received and merited the warm applause they received. The programme was presented as follows:

Selection, Collegiate Orchestra.
Vocal solo, Mr. G. Whitehouse.
Violin solo, Miss M. Teigmann.
Instrumental solo, "Miss R. Greaves.
Quartette, Messrs. F. Hooper, C. Devey, W. Common and S. Whitehouse.
Recitation, Miss Greta Le Barr.

For the promenade the two halls were very generously and artistically decorated. The first hall was arranged to represent the school, and it is safe to say that there will seldom again be gathered together in this City such a splendid display of pennants as those in charge of the decorating managed to make use of last night. The second hall was decorated no less profusely and successfully along patriotic lines, the scheme being very prettily and well carried out. The Assembly Hall was also nicely decorated.

The girls of the Institute operated three booths, a patriotic booth, a P. C. I. booth, and an ice cream booth. All of these were liberally patronized. The refreshments, which were served in the Science Laboratory, were dainty and appetizing. Those in charge of the various branches of the preparations are to be congratulated on the thoroughness with which they effected their plans and on the success they made of the affair.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The Hod Carriers and General Labourers' Union of America, Local 31, Peterborough, have elected the following list of officers:

AN APPRECIATION OF F. H. DOBBIN

Final Word of Campaign comes Not From the Publicity Committee But About Its Leader

(Not by the Publicity Committee).

Everybody did something. Everybody did their best, but there is a best that stands all forms of the best and that is Frank Dobbin's best. What Frank Dobbin did a wonderful work and the way he did it will be told by the committee men to their children's children. Tact, ability, industry, wit and humour, encyclopedic knowledge of men and affairs were in evidence twenty-four hours a day. The editorials, advertisements, proof reads and posters were written up and distributed with lightning speed.

ALD. F. H. DOBBIN,
Who did heroic work in connection with the recent campaign to raise $50,000 for the Patriotic Campaign.

In the world there are many nations, but the conclusion of the committee in charge of the raising of the Patriotic Fund unanimously was that among the many nations there is only one Frank Dobbin, and he is owned by Peterborough. Twenty-four hours a day is considered good work in almost any well-run establishment, but for the last ten days the enterprising gentlemen to whom this refers crowded at least twenty-eight hours' work into every twenty-four hours. Finally brethren, in the words of our mutual friend, let us once more salute Frank Dobbin. All Hail! All Hail! All Hail!

BLACK IST IS ANCIEN.

Program of German Reprisals Against Belgians Is Discovered.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Le Temps states that it has from a sure source "details of Germany's blacklist," containing the names of prominent Belgians against whom especially severe measures are to be taken. Le Temps publishes the list — chiefly Belgian professors and public writers—which it claims proves that the German premeditation of an attack on Belgium must have been in existence for over a year, because it includes the names of Firmin Van Den Bosch, the Ghent magistrate, vice-president of the Societe Culture Francaise, who left Ghent some months before the war to take the presidency of a mixed tribunal at Monzourah, Egypt; Maurice Renard, described as magistrate at Bruges, who has been military auditor at Mons for over a year; Gustave Abel, publicist, Ghent, during the past year secretary of the Liberal party organization at Brussels. Le Temps says that the original list is placed in security abroad, with full details as to how it came into the possession of their informant, who is "a very well-known personality in Belgium."

BRITAIN THANKS JAPAN.

Peace on Pacific Largely Due to Aid of Oriental Ally.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Replying to his congratulations on the victory of the British squadron over the Germans off the Falkland Islands, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, yesterday cabled the Japanese Minister of Marine as follows:—

"With the sinking of the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, Leipzig and Nurnberg, the whole German squadron which had its base at Tsingtau at the break of the war has been destroyed and the base itself reduced and captured.

"This event marks the conclusion of the active operations in which the allied fleets have been engaged in the Pacific for four months. Though it has fallen to a British squadron in the South Atlantic to strike the final blow, it was largely owing to the powerful and untiring assistance rendered by the Japanese fleet that this result has been achieved."

Cargo Is Detained.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The American steamer George Hawley, which sailed from New York Nov. 15 for Copenhagen, and which reached Falmouth Nov. 30, is among the vessels, according to an official announcement in The London Gazette "whose cargoes, or part of them, have been detained."

The George Hawley, of which Capt. Moss is in command, is recorded in shipping registers as belonging to the Boston & Virginia Transportation Co.

Col. Wigle Authorizes Probe.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 12. — Lt.-Col. H. S. Wigle, in command of the 18th battalion, has authorized a military court of inquiry as a result of complaints that the shoes worn by his men are not up to the mark. The shoes were served from local ordnance stores and were manufactured in various parts of the country.

Solo, Mrs. Scully.
Solo, Mr. Kelly.

The audience also sang patriotic and were very heartily received. Miss Hartley, Miss [illegible], Mr. Hawthorne were the accompanists for the various singers. Mr. J. A. Pannell, M.P., delivered the address with distinction on his photograph. Bro. A. W. Pannell, financial secretary, read a letter of regret that Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sharpe—had the 25th anniversary of their wedding that night. [illegible] reference to the long and faithful service of nearly 30 years by Bro. Rogers as financial secretary for the Court, and moved that their hearty congratulations be tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Rogers on the 25th anniversary of their marriage. Bro. Dr. Carmichael referred to Bro. Rogers' long service of over 30 years with the C.O.F., and seconded the motion. Bro. Rogers made a suitable reply, and on behalf of Mrs. Rogers and himself thanked them for their kindly remembrance.

Refreshments in abundance were then served by the ladies.

On motion of Bro. G. Metcalfe, C.D., seconded by Bro. D. Wallace, C.R., votes of thanks were tendered to the ladies, the chairman and the various entertainers. The pleasant evening was concluded by the singing of "God Save the King."

A WAR TIME VESPER HYMN

In response to enquiries for the words of the vesper hymn being sung in some of the City churches for those at the front in the present great war, they are given below so that all specially interested may have them for use. The tune used is "Ephraimitious," but any tune of S.S.D may be used:

"Be with all the dear ones,
Whom we miss to-night,
In the hours of danger,
Keep them calm and bright.
From the camp and trenches,
From the battle plain,
From the mine down ocean
Bring them safe again.

In some churches the names of those who are on active service are read out before the above verses is sung. It is a very practical way of reminding each congregation to pray for those in peril, both on sea and land.

PROMISE ELECTION IN N. MONAGHAN

Mr. Thos. Hunter, of North Monaghan, is mentioned as a likely candidate for the reeveship of the township at the coming elections. The people sent W. G. Howden back last year in the hope that 1915 would have been a lesson in what a municipality should avoid. Now, it is claimed, the past year has shown no improvement. The examiner was informed that members of the Council have been forced to give personal cheques to meet the regular expenses. One man said: "They have the finances so muddled up they don't know where they're at." It must be said for the Council that this has been an unusual year. If finances were tight a year ago they have not been in sight for months. But, critics of the North Monaghan Council, especially Reeve Howden, say that the time has come for a change, and while several names have been mentioned, Mr. Hunter looms up as the first choice.

AN AMBIGUOUS WARNING

The Gaelic minister rose and cleared his throat, but remained silent, while the congregation awaited the sermon in puzzled expectancy. At last he spoke:

"There's a laddie awa' there in the gallery a-hein' a lassie," he said. "When he's done she'll begin."

BITS FROM THE WIRE.

The Swedish Foreign Office has instituted an inquiry into the laying of mines in Swedish waters which has caused extensive damage to the shipping of that country.

Henryk Sienkiewicz, the Pole, author of Quo Vadis and holder of the 1905 Nobel prize for literature, yesterday was elected honorary member of the Russian Academy of Sciences.

One of Canada's oldest and most distinguished citizens passed away at noon yesterday in the person of Dr. Hewett Phenphlats was the cause of death. He was one of the pioneers of the district.

A messenger to the Times, dated from London says that Viviani Cautinet, president of the Chamber of Deputies has undertaken the formation of a new Cabinet in place of the Ministry which resigned on Dec. 9.

A fire which broke out early yesterday in a mysterious manner gutted the [illegible] paper department in the store of Savage & Wightman, painters and decorators, Kingston. The loss will reach $2,000, partly covered by insurance.

A fire, starting on the second floor about three o'clock yesterday morning gutted the Samia City Hall, completely destroying the second floor and roof and damaging the first floor and basement. The building was erected in 1856.

After three days of visiting war-thin religious houses and charitable institutions as well as attending functions at which he received the homage of thousands of Roman Catholics in Montreal, Cardinal Begin left yesterday for his home in Quebec.

LEDGER TOOK UP TEN CARS.

Vast French Bond Record Is Moved Back to Paris.

PARIS, Dec. 12. — The ledger of the national debt, containing the names of the holders of bonds which are inscribed, as distinguished from those payable to bearer, was brought to Paris again yesterday from Bordeaux. Ten railroad cars were used to transport the ledger.

One of the details of the German plan was to mine this vast book and use it to create indemnity, as, if sequestered, the Government, and also private finances would be thrown into confusion.

All the Government offices in Paris are bustling with the newly-arrived officials and clerks. Thousands of tons of state papers have been arriving daily and nightly from Bordeaux since Dec. 1.

French Cabinet Council Meets.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—A Cabinet Council was held at the palace of the Elysee yesterday, the first to meet here since Sept. 3, on which date the Government left for Bordeaux when the invaders were within 20 miles of the capital. There was the utmost cheerfulness at yesterday's session, a singular contrast to the intense anxiety shown at the last previous meeting in Paris.

FUEL MADE FOR FOOD.

Envoys From Belgian Towns Say Their People Are Starving.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—"If somebody does not come to our aid, God knows what will become of us," writes two leading residents of Blankenberghe, West Flanders, in a pathetic appeal they presented yesterday to the representative at Rotterdam of the American commission for relief in Belgium.

These men were deputed to seek help on behalf of Heyst, Wenduyne and several other communities as well as Blankenberghe, in all of which they say "the situation is so grave that if in the near future food does not arrive they will be plunged in blackest famine."

The plight of these places is particularly hard because they are cut off from all communication with the rest of Belgium—even with Bruges, capital of the province in which they are situated.

Woman Suggested of Causing Death.

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—Moses Shaar, aged 67, keeper of a small shop at 46 East Ontario street, this city, died in the General Hospital at noon yesterday from an injury to his head, and last night Mrs. Rose Shaar, aged 45, was arrested on suspicion of having caused the fatal injury. It is alleged that she struck the old man with a bottle in a quarrel yesterday morning.

LOSS WAS SEVEN MEN.

Admiral Sturdee Sends Bulletin of Casualties In Battle.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Secretary of the Admiralty has received a cable despatch from Vice-Admiral Sturdee, of the British squadron, stating that in the battle off the Falkland Islands, in which the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig were sunk, the British casualties totaled seven men killed and four wounded.

No officers, the despatch says, were either killed or wounded.

Water on Hillside.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—All four battalions of the First Brigade of the Canadian Contingent have now moved their tents out of the mud on to the hillside, and are so comfortable now that they don't care if they never go into the huts. Rapid progress with the latter has been made lately, the Canadians moving in as the groups get completed. The officers of the First Brigade now enjoy battalion messes managed by themselves, a welcome change from the sorry experiences of catering by private contract.

Uganda Warriors Would Fight.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Colonial Office has received an offer from five Uganda chiefs, far in the interior of Africa, to join the British army, bringing with them five hundred of their native warriors.

The Uganda chieftains declare that they have learned that black warriors from the north of Africa are fighting in the armies of France, and that they want to all the same place in the forces of Great Britain.

Vienna's new amusement will cost $10,000,000 and will supply about 1,500,000 persons with water.

Patriotic Fund Notes

Some contributions are to be gratefully acknowledged. Our Chinese friends got together and made, collectively the handsome contribution of $51.00. Good. The Moon Carpet Co. employees sent $36.75, though this may be acknowledged elsewhere. The Grand Trunk men in their givings, totalled $76.60. The C. P. R. employees did mighty well and swelled the fund by $128.60. Mr. Ian Edgar handed in the nice total from the Post Office employees of $98.00, and the Peter Hamilton Co. men rolled up a very acceptable $76.00. Mr. R. M. Waddell contributed $2,500.00.

Very general satisfaction was expressed on all sides at the magnificent assistance given by the press. Without the newspapers and their loyal support the committees would not have been able to do so effective work. The papers were most helpful and of the greatest possible assistance. The columns were opened freely to all good help, and we are sure that the managers of those journals judiciously suppressed many written knocks that might have cast some cold water on the campaign. For all of this, gentlemen, thanks.

The Executive Committee will, when it meets, give expression to what is above crudely stated, in a more formal manner.

ENGINEERS FOR THE FRONT

Seven Hundred Canadians Prepared to Leave Salisbury

SALISBURY, Eng., Dec. 12.—Preparations are being made to move the Canadian contingent to the firing line in France or Belgium. Sir John Jackson, the great army contractor, has asked for the assistance in the erection of buildings required at the front. It is expected that the Canadian Engineers, consisting of about 700 men, will leave next week to build a base hospital and otherwise prepare for the arrival of the contingent.

No. 2 Company, Engineers, from Toronto, consisting of 250 men, in command of Captain Irving, four brigades of infantry and the divisional signal company manoeuvred in the rain yesterday.

Twenty-five thousand Canadians were engaged yesterday at manoeuvres in a drenching rain. A divisional tactical scheme is planned for Wednesday next.

The Princess Patricia's will be leaving Winchester any day for France. The whole of the first contingent is still in England, the only Canadians in France being doctors and nurses.

W... FORD MOTOR CAR

Investigate the Comforts of the Closed Car at the Duffus Garage

The Duffus Garage is doing "business as usual." Fresh from the Peterborough Patriotic Fund Campaign, as one of the stalwarts who assisted in rolling up our great $60,000 war relief contribution, Alderman Duffus has now got his spurs on for a Ford Motor Car holiday campaign.

No opportunity is lost by this wide-awake dealer to push the Ford before the public eye. Already he has demonstrated a capacity for sales which put him at the head of the list of hustling Ontario Ford salesmen. Being a live dealer in motor cars he knows the mechanism of them from A to Z, and can diagnose motor car troubles with the experience of a specialist.

Alderman Jos. J. Duffus, of the Duffus' Garage.

Mr. Duffus presents the Ford as a business proposition to the business man, the professional man, the real estate man, and others. He claims they can't afford to do without a Ford, as it meets the demands of the busy worker better, more conveniently and more quickly than horses. It enables them to make extra calls, with greater comfort and less trouble, and gets through the days' routine with pleasure and profit.

To stir up enthusiasm, Mr. Duffus has put into his show rooms two handsome new cars specially designed for winter driving. These are closed cars—so cosy that the weather cuts no figure—and are examples of the progress of Ford motor car building in Canada. An inspection of these two new members of the Model T. family will prove interesting. They are called the Ford Coupelet and Ford Sedan.

The man who buys a Ford now is the man who is going to get the benefit of Natures' good gifts during this winter. Besides, the Ford car is "a long, long way" the best Christmas gift that a man can give his family.

See the Ford advertisement on the illustrated section of the Christmas Examiner.

MARRIED WOMAN

Boarder in Toronto Commits Murder, Then Shoots Himself

TORONTO, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Edith McFarland, 30 years of age, 422 Crawford street, was shot through the head and instantly killed last night by Guy Argle, a boarder in the house, and a disappointed lover. As the other roomers, hearing shots, and the cries of the child, burst open the door, Argle shot himself behind the left ear. At a late hour last night, at the General Hospital, he was still breathing, but was not expected to recover. Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, mother of the dead woman, who was in the room when the shooting took place, lies in the house prostrated.

Argle, who is supposed to be a real estate agent, had boarded with the family for about six months. It is believed that he had fallen in love with Mrs. McFarland, whose husband is at present in Buffalo. After the evening meal last night, Argle went into the kitchen and asked Mrs. Hall and her daughter to come to his room as "he wanted to speak to them." His was the front room upstairs. Once there, Argle locked the door, leaving Mrs. McFarland's four-year-old boy outside. He then demanded that Mrs. McFarland stay in the house that evening. She refused to do so, and he shot her and himself.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN CONDON.

The death occurred yesterday at 3 o'clock a.m. of Mrs. John Condon, 273 William Street, after an illness of six weeks. The late Mrs. Condon, whose maiden name was Ellen Hanrahan, has resided in this City for the past twenty-two years. During that time she has made many friends, who will deeply regret her death. She was very well-known and highly respected here.

She is survived by her husband, her mother, two sons, James and Edward, both of this City, and one daughter, Gertrude, also of this City. Three brothers, John, Timothy and Michael, of this City, as well as three sisters, Mary and Bridget, also of this City, and Mrs. Mitzky, of Rochester, also survive.

The funeral will be held from the family residence Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

New Zealand Stays Wet.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Dec. 12.—The election returns, though incomplete, indicate that the licensing position is unchanged, and that national prohibition has not been carried. The prohibitionists received a set-back in several places.

The returns give the Government 38 members of Parliament, the Opposition 30, and the Labor-Social Democrats 3. The the latter support the Opposition party, the strength in Parliament is equal, though the votes of the soldiers abroad are yet to be counted, and may affect the result.

Ontario Are Nawab's Gift.

The Moslems continue their loyalty meetings throughout India. The Rajah of Sirmir has given 2,500 pounds of tea, the Nawab of Lohara 200 camels, and the Prince Minister of Nimri many blankets for the Turkhas now serving in France and Belgium. These gifts are merely typical of scores of others.

SOME RECENT BOOKS

Timely Publications by Messrs. J. M. Dent & Sons, Limited, Toronto.

The Examiner has received from Messrs. J. M. Dent & Sons, publishers, Toronto, four timely new books. They are timely in a double sense; two of them relate to the all engrossing topic of the time, the great war now furiously raging on the three continents—Europe, Asia and Africa, in the isles of the sea and the waters covering the earth; and two of them are timely to the current national ambition to place in the forefront of regard every possible manifestation of loyalty to the "made in Canada idea, from buttons to books.

"The German Enigma," by Georges Bourdon, editor of the Paris Figaro," is a frank and judiciously fair exposition of "what Germans think; what they want, and what they can do," in short of German policy and German feeling. These, seen from a new angle of view, are clearly embodied in the cleverly recorded results of interviews, given to a skilled journalist by the leaders of German thought and action, in the year preceding the war. Mons. Bourdin's object was to find a basis of reasonable understanding with Germany; and though this subject was not attained, the books is well worth reading by those who desire to be seised of all aspects of the causes that have contributed to the present war. The text is of high literary quality, and its subject is treated with a fine freedom from rancour and with an evident desire to fairly deal with the question of international right and international right dealing.

"Britain in Arms" tells us all about the military forces of the British Empire, a most interesting matter, when every section of the Empire, from its insular base to the farthest flung spot of red in its wide sweep of dominion. The writer is F. A. M. Webster, formerly of the 2nd Bedfordshire Regiment. It is a splendid melange of the prose and poetry of arms. Sandwiched among details of the regiments of the army —their origin, history, uniforms, equipment, regimental colours, badges, etc.—are brief, but blood quickening stories of their achievements, their gallantry and special individual deeds of heroism—the deeds that have won Victoria crosses. The book also deals with the Indian and colonial armies, but in less detail. It will be new knowledge to many to learn that the British troops serving in India number 75,000 officers and men, and the native troops 350,000, the latter composed chiefly of forty cavalry regiments, thirty-two batteries of artillery, infantry regiments numbered up to 130, and ten regiments of Gurkah Rifles." The nimble little men, in addition to carrying the ordinary service rifle and bayonet, carry a curious half-moon shaped knife called "Kukri," with which, it is said, a man can be sliced in half at a blow. "Britain in Arms" is a book well worth having as a work of precise reference and well worth reading to all who take an interest in following the way in which the British Tommy and his country cousins from over the seas are upholding the traditions of British bravery. The book is up to date, the author's preface being dated Oct. 6th, 1914.

"Blastyre, Allen" is a novel by Alan Sullivan, a clever Canadian writer, son of the late Bishop Sullivan, and his new book is Canadian in scene, feeling and treatment. It is a clever character study, as well as a piquant picture of society in a Canadian city, Yorkton a diaphonous synonym for Toronto. The writer's style is elegantly direct and smooth. The inevitable love element is not of the usual banal type. It is a most interesting and well-written book, a credit to not only Canadian fictional literature, but on a level with the best current literature of its class in any country.

"Weeblock. The autobiography of an Automaton," while not a novel in the ordinary sense, is yet a novel book. It takes rank in its genre with the autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini and the Diary of Pepys, in that it is a self-drawn picture of a very human man, in the form of a very human book. The title of the book Wee(t)block, makes it unnecessary to say that Harry McDonald Walters is a well-known civil ervant at Ottawa. Who would read a bok that is different, should read "Weeblock."

The point of a new hasp hook is split so that it will spring into its eye and fit more securely.

WILL OF THE LATE MRS. JANE CAMPBELL

Samuel McElroy, of Peterborough Mentioned for a Legacy of $40

"I bequeath to the church wardens of St. Paul's church, Parrytown, $25 for the purpose of keeping my husband's grave and my own in order," reads one clause in the will of Mrs. Alice Jane Campbell of Toronto, who died July 9, 1914, leaving household goods, including a piano valued at $50 and $1,575 in mortgages.

Another clause of the will states that this will is not to affect a previous will made Feb. 2, 1903, by which she disposed of that part of her husband's estate to which she was heir.

By the will dated March 13, 1909, each of her three brothers, W. J. Hugh and Noble Wilson, and her adopted daughter, Lucy Dodds, receives $250.

Alice Wilson, of Toronto, a niece, is left $100 and Alice Wilson of Proton township and Alice Parslow, nieces of deceased, each receive $50. Her brother-in-law, Samuel McIroy, of Peterborough, receives a legacy of $40, and W. R. Maize and Walter Caldwell, her executors, receive $25 each. The remainder of the estate is to be shared in equally by the heirs.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. D. McKenzie Cater, Lundy's Ave., will not receive again this year.

Mr. Jos. Gibson is in the City, a guest of his brother, Mr. Alex. Gibson.

Mr. Charles Noyes, of this city, is in Madoc, attending the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. William Noyes, who passed away in that village a short time ago.

Miss Helen Maclean, mezzo-soprano, of the Bloor Street Presbyterian Church Choir, Toronto, will sing morning and evening in St. Andrew's Church to-morrow.

Pte. Wilfred Fitzgerald, who enlisted with the second contingent at Sault Ste. Marie, and is in camp at Toronto, is spending the week-end with his mother, in this city.

Fine gardens grow fine teas, that is, gardens whose altitude is at least 4,000 feet. Salada tea is composed of selected leaves grown at least at such a level. Hence its unrivalled flavour.

Mr. Harry Rogers was in the city yesterday, at his home, Hunter street, east, on his way from Vancouver, B.C., to Montreal. Mr. Rogers intends enlisting with the second contingent, but expects to return to Peterborough to spend Sunday with his parents.

Germans Offer a Fierce Resistance to the Allies' Offensive

Fighting Hand To Hand In Flanders

Germans Parry Allies' Offensive With Vigorous Counter-offensive---Allies Have Advanced But Losses Have Been Severe--British Territorials Mentioned in Recent Work

Special Cable:

PARIS, France, Dec. 14. — The most desperate fighting of the month on the extreme western line of the battle front was resumed to-day in the region from Ypres, through Armentieres and Labassee.

GERMANS MEET ALLIES OFFENSIVE.

The Germans have met the attacks of the French and British in this region with a vigorous counter offensive, which has resulted in extremely bloody hand to hand fighting. The Allies have slowly advanced their lines, trench by trench, but it is admitted their losses have been heavy. The German losses, however, are three to one greater than those of the Allies.

ENTIRE GERMAN REGIMENT WIPED OUT.

In one charge alone along the Labassee canal an entire German regiment is declared to have been practically wiped out after it had taken a French trench. The French, aided by British territorials, succeeded in flanking the Germans, few of whom escaped.

KING DESIRES CHRISTMAS CHEER

LONDON, Dec. 14.—King George has intimated a desire that the social season, and the Christmas holidays particularly, be observed as usual, despite the war. As a result social gatherings aready are being arranged and a revival of dancing is announced.

The Savoy Hotel is resuming its Saturday evening winter garden dances this week, and other hotels are to follow. It is expected that many officers home on furlough will help to enliven the season. The territorials and the recruits will receive a week's holiday at Christmas.

Gen. Von Erminich Tells Story of Liege Capture

(By Karl Von Wiegand)

HEADQUARTERS OF GENERAL VON EMMICH, IN FRANCE, Dec. 7. —(delayed) —(via courier to Berlin) —The story of the capture of Liege has just been told to me by General von Emmich, the German commander, whose forces took the city and made General Leman, the Belgian defender, a prisoner.

This is the first time Gen. Von Emmich's own story of the taking of Liege has been told. The city proper fell within 36 hours after the actual assault of the German troops began. The losses foreign newspaper declared the Germans suffered in the capture of the Belgium stronghold actually exceeded the numerical strength of the army which attacked the city. Gen. von Emmich smiled as he made this statement. He said he could not say what the German losses were, but added:

"You know I was reported to have committed suicide. That, of course, was ridiculous and tended to show how unreliable are some of the war reports."

Gen. von Emmich has been reported dead on more occasions than any other German general. He is apparently in the best of health and spirits, however, and good for many more campaigns.

The capture of Liege, which was believed to be impregnable before the big German guns began to hammer at its forts, is only an incident of the war to Gen. von Emmich. When I visited his headquarters and asked him to tell me the story of the taking of the city, he quickly stated first that the German attacking force was not nearly as large as reported, and then explained:

"We began the actual attack upon Liege in the evening. Two forts were taken by storm and we took possession of the city at 6 o'clock on the morning of the second day. We remained in the city but a short time and marched on toward Namur. The bombardment of the forts about Liege which still held out was left to the heavy artillery remaining behind to complete the reduction of the position."

Gen. von Emmich said he did not know that a Zeppelin had participated in the attack on Liege during the first night until a member of his staff told him of it the following day.

This German commander is a warrior. He is not blind to the suffering, the hardships and the havoc that have been wrought about him but now that Germany is in the war it must be conducted with the utmost vigour, he believes.

"The terrible scenes incident to war often tug hard at men's heart-strings," he said, "but aside from making the conflict as humane as possible, there is little room for sentimentality."

The attack upon Liege began August 4. On August 6, General Leman was taken prisoner by the Germans while insensible in the ruins of one of the forts which the Germans had reduced and captured. This is probably the period of fighting General Von Emmich refers to in his interview with Von Wiegand.

The British reports first admitted that the Germans had entered Liege on August 10.

ADMIRAL VON SPEE.—Commander of the German squadron, who met the same fate meted out by them to Admiral Craddock off the Chilean coast recently.

IVORY SCARCER AS DEMAND GROWS

When the King and Queen visited the London docks a short time ago, says London Answers, they saw laid out on the floors of one of the great warehouses $750,000 worth of ivory—an array of fine tusks which must have represented great hunting adventures in tropical forests.

Africa is the chief source of the world's supply of ivory, and it is estimated that 70,000 elephants are annually slaughtered for their tusks. But not more than 20 per cent. of this ivory is represented in the total imports to Eutope.

Elephants have been dying off for years and years, and it is only since ivory came into general use that their tusks have been dug from the soil. Some of them have, in the meantime, been stored and used by natives in many ways. Even to-day some native chiefs in the interior of Africa possess stockades round their palaces composed of rows of tusks collected when they were of little value and they now barter these for the luxuries of modern life.

But elephants still abound in the German South-West African district, known as Caprivi. This place is in the extreme south of Ovampoland, has been completely unexplored by Germans in order to avoid irritating the natives, and yet the district contains more elephants than any other in Africa. The Portuguese are well acquainted with the fact, and the ivory which they convey thence via Angola has long been a source of unlimited wealth.

Of course, ivory is produced in small quantities by the hippopotamus, narwhale, and sperm whale, but the comparatively small tusks of the former have long ceased to suffice even for dentists alone, though no other kind of ivory is adapted for their special requirements. Any supply that may be extracted from the ocean is obviously of too slight and precarious a nature to be relied upon, and though important remains of mammoth tusks are from time to time unearthed in Siberia the ivory trade both ancient and modern has practically depended upon the African elephant.

Although in recent years the ivory imported into London has decreased, the falling off has been caused by a new market having been created by the opening up of the Congo Free State. The ivory coming from that region is now sold in Antwerp, so that when the quantities are put together the total imports actually show an increase.

The average weight of ivory obtained from a single elephant is about 50 pounds, but tusks weighing up to 150 pounds and 180 pounds have been procured. Examples have even been recorded of tusks exceeding 200 pounds in weight, but these are very rare.

The most expensive tusks are those used in the manufacture of billiard balls; they have cost as much as $200 per hundred-weight, but the average price is probably nearer $500 per hundredweight. The average price for the best tusks may be stated at from $2 to $2.75 a pound. Apart from billiard balls, ivory is chiefly used for knife and other handles, combs, piano keys, chessmen, and carved ornaments.

All the tusks are sorted into sizes and qualities, and the shavings that are left over after the manufacturers have taken what they want are made up into a thousand small articles in everyday use.

Although ivory has been the subject of almost as much artistic perception and workmanship as gold itself, it is with its purely utilitarian aspects that people are now chiefly concerned. Many substances have been applied to the purposes for which real ivory is admittedly supreme. Celluloid, for instance, is one of its counterfeits; and a poor one, indeed; but it is used to a great extent in the United States. A great many things that were once made of ivory may, and, as manufacturers tell us, must, now be made of celluloid.

Then there is what is known as vegetable ivory, produced from the nut of the tagua plant, a native of the northern regions of South America. The kernels of these nuts when ripe are exceedingly hard and white, and bear a remarkable resemblance to real ivory. They are extensively used in the manufacture of buttons, umbrella handles and small trinkets, and millions of them are being imported into Great Britain every year.

Machenzen's Army Has Lost Heavily

Russians Have Fought His Troops at Close Range Near Lowicz--Will Have to Be Reformed Before They Can Make Another Offensive--Half Million Germans on This Front.

Special Cable:

PETROGRAD, Dec. 14.—The Russians defending the line in the Lowicz region have inflicted serious losses upon the attacking army of Gen. Machenzen, and his lines will have to be reformed before another general offensive can be attempted. Reports reaching here to-day make this claim and assert that the Germans have been held in check all along the thirty-mile front over which the engagement has been raging.

HALF MILLION GERMANS ON THIS FRONT.

The German attack against the Russians continues day and night, but the force of their assault has greatly diminished, it is stated. Thousands of men have been thrown forward in a vain attempt to break through the Russian defences. A half million Germans are declared to be massed on this front, which is on the line of the main advance of the enemy.

RUSSIANS USE OLD GERMAN TRICK.

The greatest part of the entire battle in the Lowicz region, which has lasted for days, has been at extremely short range. The Germans have thrown every available man into the fighting, dismounting cavalary and charging these men with the infantry regiments. Tremendous losses have been inflicted by the Russians by playing the old German trick of evacuating trenches and then blowing them up as the enemy rushes in.

"Simply a Question of Time Until German Flag Disappears From Sea"

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 10.—"It is simply a question of time."

This short sentence embodies the composite opinion of naval experts here on the reports of the British naval victory in the South Atlantic.

Every German warship on the high seas must go, they say. The Germans have made a plucky and spectacular fight, but the balance of naval power is overwhelmingly against them. In such a situation there is no question of the ultimate result. Great Britain will control the seas and by this control, in all probability, will prove the chief factor in bringing victory to the Allies, just as the Union's control of the seas in the civil war finally weakened the South and brought victory to the North.

In the big stakes at issue, the submarine raids of the Germans, their victory over the squadron of Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock and the havoc of their mines in the North Sea count for little or nothing in the opinion of naval experts. The British navy has already, they say, won a victory for the Allies of greater value than any victory on land during the entire war. That victory was the feat of forcing the Germans to bottle up their war ships in the Kiel Canal and to leave their merchant marine rotting in ports all over the world. Sheer superiority of big gun ships accomplished this.

There is perhaps little glory in such a victory. It creates no Nelsons! It is only the victory of past expenditures — the victory of preparedness. But in results it is a victory of overwhelming importance, for it grips at the heart of war power — the sources of supply.

In the opinion of the experts only one thing can accomplish this — the battleship fleet, the big gun force of a navy. It is Great Britain's possession of this power which gives her the upper hand. Submarines could not gain it for her, and they cannot, the experts are convinced, take it away from her.

The British victory over the Germans in the South Atlantic, therefore, was to be expected. Two of the German war ships fled, according to the report. These will be captured or sunk or rendered useless in time, according to the firm conviction of experts here. The high seas will come not to know a German flag, they say, the German battleships will be bottled up at Kiel and Great Britain, by her power, will open the markets of the world to herself and her allies and will close them to Germany.

Strain of War Cause Increase of Mental Maladies

BERLIN, December 10. — The military medical authorities made preparations at the start of the war for treating mental maladies caused by the terrors of battle. It had been shown by the Russo-Japanese war that the effect of the long drawn out modern battle with its terrible and incessant roar of artillery, was in a high degree unfavourable on the minds of the combatants, and the record of mental derangements caused by the battles in the Far East opened a new chapter in the horrors of war.

In anticipation that similar results would attend the present war, the German authorities established at Strassburg a special hospital for the treatment of diseases of the mind caused by battle.

One of the physicians attached to the hospital has just given in the Munich Medical Weekly some of his observations during the first weeks of the war. He found that mental disorders manifested themselves among the Alsatian population even during the period of mobilization when the terror of being arrested as a spy was ever present with many persons. Still greater have been the number of persons who lost their mental balance through the terrors of battle, and especially through long continued fatigue. Some of these patients showed something like hysteria and kept repeating in a dramatic way incidents they had seen in battle.

The writer uses a special term, "neurasthenic depression," to describe the effect upon numerous patients who had seen continuous fighting. People suffering in this way could not rid themselves of the notion that they were still upon the battlefield and often had the illusion that an enemy was slipping upon them from the rear.

The writer in the Medical Weekly found in the treatment of these cases of mental derangement that even after the state of hallucination had worn off the patient usually remained highly nervous.

HURT HIS FEET.

"A man in my town," says a Toledo salesman, "who was willing to have his neighbours think him a fine musician, installed a mechanical piano near a front window of his home, and spent hours pedaling out melodies. He received compliments for a time, but his eight-year-old boy betrayed him in the end.

"'Your father is a great piano player, isnt he?' asked a woman who lived across the street.

"'Yes,' said the kiddie, 'but it makes his feet awful sore.'"

HUNGARY DISOWNS LASZLO, THE ARTIST

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 12—The press and public of Hungary feel bitterly toward Philip Alexius Laszlo de Lombas, the most eminent portrait painter of the country, because since the beginning of the war he has become a British citizen.

Indignation has become so great that his three paintings which had been secured for the Budapest Museum have been taken from the walls. These are famous portraits of Pope Leo XIII., of the former German Imperial Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, and of Bishop Fraknoi, a distinguished Hungarian litterateur, who was Pope Leo's librarian.

Honours have been lavished upon Philip Laslo by many European courts and he has won many medals at the most important exhibitions. Emperor Francis Joseph ennobled him two years ago. For some time he has had his studio in London and has been the most popular portrait painter artist with the wealthy and the nobility in England.

The Pester Lloyd, a newspaper of this City, denounces him for expatriting himself in the following seathing manner:

"Philip Laszlo, who owes his name, his fame and the origin of his wealth to Hungary, renounces his birthright at a time when his country has to fight for existence. He leaves us to enter the ranks of our worst enemy, of those whose fault it is that this cruel war has to be [illegible] in the moment of extreme peril and sides with those who offer him gold.

"Philip Laszlo, whom we were proud to call a Hungarian artist, has ceased to exist for Hungary. Hereafter we shall not think of him as a Hungarian, nor as an artist. We are turning his pictures out of our galleries, where we honour the works of Lavery, Sauter and Lawrence. Out with the renegade!"

Up Against Good Men

(London Express.)

A major in a Highland regiment writes on 11th November:

"Could you see this country, you would hardly wonder that we are doubtful — every able-bodied man in France and Germany is fighting--there are no shops open—no business is done — and railway traffic — nothing, except war. Yet we see football league matches are being played, and race meetings are held. We here are beginning to think that these things should stop, and that every man who can be spared should begin training at once.

"I blame the home papers tremendously for publishing articles saying the Germans cannot shoot straight, that they run away, that their armies are now composed of old men and boys, etc.; such things are not true, or, if they are, their old men and boys fight wonderfully well. The Dervishes at 'The Atbara' were credited to be brave beyond the bravery of civilization; the Germans are harder to put out of trenches than they were. We are up against a thundering good army, and it will take us all our time to break 'em."

Four Trains Off This Line

C. P. R. Informs Board of Trade of the Change

The following letter has been received by the secretary of the local Board of Trade:

Toronto Ont., Dec. 11, 1914.

Secretary, Board of Trade, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—In order to render first-class train service to the many prosperous towns along our new Lake Ontario Shore Line, and to reduce the cost of train operation, our management has decided that effective Sunday, December 13th, trains 12 and 20, 21 and 22 will be diverted to the new route. I trust that the citizens of Peterborough and other towns along the main line between Toronto and Smith's Falls will appreciate our position, and understand why it is necessary to make the change.

At the same time, our management has carefully considered the necessity of providing a good train service for Peterborough and other towns along that route, and will continue the operation of day trains Nos. 35 and 36 between Toronto and Montreal, and Nos. 601 and 602 between Toronto and Tweed, and night trains Nos. 33 and 34 between Toronto Union Depot and Ottawa. In addition to the Ottawa train No. 34, which will leave Toronto Union at 10.50 p.m., there will be an Ottawa sleeper on train No. 26, leaving North Toronto at 10 p.m.

I ask that you kinly refer to our new time-table effective December 13th, which will show close connections to and from Peterborough with all trains to and from points, North, West and South of Toronto.

Our management greatly appreciates your past patronage and trusts you may continue to favour us. You may rest assured that the train service via Peterborough route will be given careful attention and extra train service will be arranged as soon as conditions will warrant same.

Yours truly,
M. G. Murphy.

Saved Organ And Table In Sunday Night's Small Fire

A small frame house occupied by F. Scott on the Stoddart property several hundred yards south of the pumping station, was destroyed by fire last night about nine o'clock. Only a table and organ were saved. The fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered. The fire department responded to two calls, one from Box 57 and the other from 48. In the meantime the motor truck made the trip, when the Chief received definite information by telephone, but the house had reached the "gone" stage. A quick run was made by the motor machine.

"Dreadnought Principle" Justified by Result of Engagement Off Coronel

LONDON, Dec. 11.—A naval correspondent, in writing on "The Dreadnought Principle" in connection with the battle of Coronel, says:

"It must be exceedingly satisfactory to those who ten years ago advocated the all-big-gun ship, or what is known in Britain as the dreadnought policy, that up to the present all the naval actions of this war which have been decided by gun fire have afforded strong arguments in its support. More especially is this the case with the battle in the Pacific off Coronel on 1st November. The deciding factor in that engagement was the possession by the victorious ships of batteries of long range and of the same calibre. Other naval actions of the war have shown that when such a battery has been coupled with superior speed—also considered an essential element of the dreadnought ships—the result has been even more decisive than in the fight between Rear-Admiral Cradock and Vice-Admiral von Spee.

"In the dreadnoughts great gun power and high speed have been combined on a relatively small displacement, and the esential character of the ships has not been their large size, but their great hitting capacity—their ability, as the First Sea Lord has often said, to hit first, hit hard, and keep on hitting—and also their power of resistance to attack. There is a concentration of as many heavy guns as possible of the same calibre, it being recognized that the advantage must rest with the admiral who can bring to bear the largest weight of metal at the earliest possible moment, and thereby destroy his enemy before the latter can hit back with any effect. This is precisely what Germany did in regard to her armoured cruisers. On a displacement smaller than that of similar vessels in other navies she mounted a heavier armament. The wisdom of this policy is now abundantly demonstrated by the result of the encounter in the Pacific.

One Calibre of Guns.

"The importance of having only one calibre of gun in the main armament was soon realized after the Russo-Japanese War by practically all navies. Commander W. S. Sims, U.S.N., said, in 1906, that even if the range permitted the use of smaller calibres as well, it would be difficult from the point of view of fire control to have a mixed battery, because "when the distance is over 5,000 yards you cannot follow the projectiles throughout their flight and identify their splashes." From the point of view of destructive power, too, a one-calibre battery of the heaviest weapons possible was held to be much more effective than one containing two or three different types of guns. Thus even at short range the ship mounting ten guns of 12-inch or larger calibre was preferred to the one mounting four 12-inch, with a few 9.2-inch and 6-inch.

"The chief lesson of the war actions, however, is that the vessel which is able to overpower her antagonist at long range has the advantage. In the Pacific action, as Captain Luce's report shows, two armoured cruisers engaged their opponents singly, and the British flagship Good Hope would thus be opposed to the German flagship Scharnhorst. Now the former was much the larger vessel, but she was armed on the pre-dreadnought principle. On her 14,100 tons she carried two 9.2 inch and sixteen 6-inch guns, firing the two 9.2-inch and eight of the 6-inch inch guns on the broadside. The Scharnhorst, on her 11,420 tons mounted eight 8.2-inch and six 6-inch guns, firing six 8.2-inch and three 6-inch on the broadside. She was thus armed on the dreadnought principle.

"Coming together on converging lines, the Scharnhorst was able to oppose each heavy gun on board the Good Hope with three. Firing salvoes from her six 8.2 inch guns she set the British vesel on fire after the third discharge, and the battle was practically won from that moment. The Good Hope was disabled before there was any chance of her six inch battery coming into range. If instead of the pre-dreadnought design of Sir William White she had been fashioned like the cruisers of Sir Philip Watts and had been given eight or ten 9.2 inch guns, the result would almost certainly have been reversed, considering that she had a slight superiority in speed. The weather conditions as it happened, probably nullified the latter, as they must have rendered difficult the firing of the lower deck six inch guns of the British vessel. This was another lesson taught by the engagement—the danger of mounting guns so low in the ship that they cannot be fought effectively in a seaway.

The Monmouth Badly Designed

"Regarding the Monmouth, she was obviously a badly designed ship from a fighting point of view, whatever merits she may have had in regard to cruising radius or fuel endurance. She was in fact the very opposite of the cruisers of the dreadnought era, for she was too slow to catch the commerce raiders, which she could very well have engaged and too weak to fight the armoured cruisers, which she was just about fast enough to catch. She had the displacement of a first class cruiser with a second class cruiser's armament, and her design was subjected to severe criticism at the time by those who believed that the only real defence of a ship of her class was offensive power.

"The importance of speed is likewise demonstrated by the recent actions. In the Admiralty memorandum explaining the features of the dreadnought policy which was issued about eight years ago it was said that mobility of forces is a prime necessity in war. The greater the mobility the greater the chance of obtaining a strategic advantage. The mobility is represented by speed and fuel endurance. Superior speed also gives the power of choosing the range.'"

"The truth of this was borne out in a plain manner by the action between destroyer patrols on October 17, when four German craft were met and defeated off the Dutch coast by four British craft and a light cruiser. The British division, being the faster, was able to manoeuvre to cut off the retreat of the Germans, and, having done this, it also had a superiority in gun power with which to destroy them.

"The Heligoland action also showed the use that can be made of both speed and gun power. It will be remembered that Nelson before Trafalgar was fought expressed his intention to have ready an additional squadron of the fastest ships which could be thrown upon the enemy at a favourable moment if necessary. The plan was never carried out because it was a secret of Nelson's genius that he was quick to see when an expedient of this sort was needed. His plan was ready all the same, however, and was copied by Admiral Jellicoe on August 28, when he detached a squadron of battle cruisers under Vice-Admiral Beatty to stand by ready to intervene if necessary. As every one now knows, the battle cruisers did intervene, and with decisive results, for all the enemy's light cruisers present were sunk by the overwhelming gun power so quickly brought to bear by the dreadnoughts under Vice-Admiral Beatty's command.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Colour and Lustre to Hair

You can turn grey, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning grey, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the grey hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Grey-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Keeping Your Word.

The following quotation from De Morgan's "When Ghost Meets Ghost" may help a few to see the moral issue more clearly. Mr. Jerry began feebly, "You can't do more than keep your word, Mo." * * * Mo, a fine old ex-prizefighter, replies:

"Yes, you can, Jerry. You can keep your meanin'. And you can do more than that. You can keep to what the other party thought you meant, when you know. I know this time. I ain't in a court o' justice, Jerry, dodgin' about, and I know when I'm square by the feel."

Played With Fire Balls.

For many centuries polo, or chaugan, as it was then called, was a favorite pastime with Asiatic rulers. A contemporary annalist records of Akbar, the greatest of Mogul emperors, that "he plays at chaugan on dark nights, the balls being set on fire. For the sake of adding splendor to the game his majesty has knobs of gold and silver fixed to the chaugan sticks. If one of these breaks any player that gets hold of the pieces may keep them."

Good Advice.

"Young man," said the boss, "come hither and listen." He approached. "When you've made a mistake forget it and go on to the next job. Don't potter around all day adding a lot of finishing touches."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Farsighted.

"I kept my husband on a string five years before I consented to marry him."

"Why so long?"

"Well, you see, I waited until I could see his way clear financially?"—Lippincott's.

ALSATIAN TELLS OF 26 DESERTING GERMAN ARMY

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Twenty-six Alsatians and Lorrainers forced to serve in the German ranks, escaped at the end of three months, and during a fog passed over into the French lines near Ypres.

Several of them have reached Paris, and one of them told this story to the Liberte:

"When mobilization was decreed I was at Berlin on business. I had sworn never to take up arms against France, so tried to reach the frontier, but on the way my papers were examined, and I was arrested. Next day I was taken to Cologne and incorporated in a regiment in which were a number of Alsatians and Lorrainers.

"From that day onwards our life was a long martyrdom. It was known that our hearts beat for France, and they made us pay dearly for our attachment to our true Fatherland. When they passed us the officers would cry out, 'There are the Wacises. We will smash you all, dogs of Frenchman.' And they struck at us with their canes.

"For nine days we had only dry bread to eat and nothing to drink. On the tenth they served us with some soup and a little meat. After this single meal we were sent to the front. We received our baptism of fire at Huy. They placed us in the first line, where the Belgian fire mowed us down.

"We entered the engagement 135 in our regiment. That night only forty-seven remained. And of these two were shot on the pretext that they had made signs to the enemy. On the evening of the battle an officer told us that it would be the same in all subsequent fighting until not a single man of us was left. The last survivor," he added, with a laugh, 'I shall shoot with my own hand.'

"That night thirty-five swore to take the first opportunity to desert. But the opportunity was long in coming. News of German victories were spread broadcast among the troops, and we were not spared the hearing of them, I can assure you. Every day some officer would come up to us, and, with an evil smile, announce some sensational victory.

Told of "Fall of Paris."

"Thus, we heard that the French army had been crushed at Charleroi; then of a fresh defeat at St. Quentin; then of the capture of ten generals and 60,000 soldiers, and, finally, of the fall of Paris.

"It was only when we were near Brussels, toward 2nd September, that the inhabitants of a village who knew of our origin told us of the victory of the Marne. The good news made us more eager than ever to escape. Unfortunately, we were under constant supervision. None the less, several decided to make the attempt. A few days later, when the fighting was at its fiercest, they ran toward the French lines, holding up their hands But as the Germans had so often employed this ruse, the French, thinking it was a trick, shot them down.

"There were very few of us left now, but the more our numbers diminished the worse we were treated. At last we decided to risk everything. Luck favoured us. While fighting in a dense fog we suddenly discovered ourselves in the presence of French troops.

Surrendered Their Arms.

"Instantly we flung down our arms and cried out that we surrendered. As soon as they learned our nationality the soldiers were charming to us, and now we have only one wish in the world—that is, to enlist in the French army and fight against our torturers.

Speaking of the spirit that prevails among the German troops, the Alsatian said that the German soldier is so much of an automaton and so thoroughly believes what his officers tell him, that up to quite lately the bulk of the troops did not for an instant doubt that the German army was winning victories; that the French were at their last gasp—that the war would soon be at an end.

The battle of the Yser, however, which ended in a veritable massacre, had, he said, somewhat shaken this blind confidence. It was his opinion that if one day the army came to learn of the admirable resistance of the Allied troops and the victorious march of the Russians, the great military machine would fall to pieces.

Danger Signals Warn You of Approaching Paralysis

Slowly and Surely Exhaustion Goes on Until Collapse of the Nerves is the Natural Result.

You may be restless, nervous, irritable and sleepless, but you think there is nothing to be alarmed at. You have no appetite, digestion is impaired, and there is weakness and irregularity of other bodily organs. You feel tired in body and mind, and find that you lack the energy to attend to the daily task.

MRS. ALLAN.

You may not realize that these are the symptoms of nervous prostration and the danger signals which warn you that some form of paralysis is the next step of development.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most successful restorative for the nerves that has ever been offered to the public. This has been proven in many thousands of cases similar to the one described in this letter.

Mrs. Thos. Allan, R.F.D., 3, Sombra, Ont., writes:—"Five years ago I suffered a complete breakdown, and frequently had palpitation of the heart. Since that illness I have had dizzy spells, had no power over my limbs (locomotor ataxia) and could not walk straight. At night I would have severe nervous spells, with heart palpitation, and would shake as though I had the ague. I felt improvement after using the first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after continuing the treatment can now walk, eat and sleep well, have no nervous spells and do not require heart medicine. I have told several of my neighbors of the splendid results obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

IRON HAND IN ALSACE.

Germans Severe Towards Alsatians Suspected of French Sympathy.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The Temps prints a letter from an Alsatian correspondent, via Switzerland, detailing the severity of the German authorities toward Alsatians suspected of French sympathy. It is forbidden to mention the war or to use the French language. Nevertheless, the Francophile sentiment is spreading throughout Alsace, says the correspondent.

A compatriot of the writer describes an interview with a Bavarian officer who said the Bavarians preferred the French to the Prussians, who sacrificed and ill-treated them.

The letter closes with a warning to the French generals against showing the same trustfulness towards all Alsatians when they retake the province, "which it appears probable will be soon," as was displayed even toward German-born emigrants, after the August successes. Many notorious spies were welomed, but they immediately the French departed, gave valuable information against France's troops and sympathizers.

For instance, the townlet of Schirneck then only escaped destruction for its Francophilism because so many German soldiers remained there, after the withdrawal of the majority, that the latter were unable to bombard lest they hurt their comrades.

NATIONS ARE DRUNK WITH FALSE DOCTRINES

The Bible's Portrayal of the Present Time.

Mixed Wines Most Intoxicating—The Golden Wine Cup of the Bible—The Maddening Draft — Some Crazed One Way, Some Another—America Not Exempt—Feverishly Mad Also—Sobering Experiences Terrible — Only Alternative—Lord's Deliverance.

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 13. — Pastor Russell delivered an address to-day at the "Chicago Temple," taking for his text, "The inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication." — Revelation 14:8; 17:2; 18:3.

He explained that the Book of Revelation declares itself to be a book of symbols. The Woman of the text is the symbolical Woman of the Bible; namely, the professed Church of Christ. The context declares that the Woman herself (the Church Nominal) was drunken with her own success in overcoming the saintlier followers of Jesus; that she attained great outward splendor as the price of her unfaithfulness to the Redeemer — the price of her illicit intercourse with the kingdoms of earth — receiving their support in return for her recognition of them. At the same time she held in her hand the Golden Cup —the Word of God, which is full of testimony against her, but which she used in such a manner as to deceive and corrupt them, and to make all the people drunk, as our text declares, individually and nationally.

The speaker adverted to his discourse of the previous Sunday, in which he had pointed out some of the false doctrines which led to the exaltation of the Scarlet Woman, the unfaithful Spouse of Christ. She had not followed her Redeemer's footsteps in humility and self-sacrifice. She had practiced and prospered; she had fought down the true followers of Jesus, causing them to suffer for righteousness' sake, even as the Jews had crucified Jesus, and as the Apostles had suffered for loyalty to Truth.

Intoxicated by her success, she went to great lengths of boasting, establishing herself as the Queen of Heaven, ruling over the kings of earth, yet having fellowship with them and drawing support from them. Both kings and peoples were made drunk, infatuated, with the thought that they could have so close dealings with the Divine Kingdom and still live after the flesh. Degradation, mental and moral, ensued, while kings and peoples went into a drunken sleep from which they are not yet fully aroused.

The Sixteenth Century brought a partial awakening, but the Adversary was at hand to re-entangle those mentally confused by the adulterated wine—the mixture of Heavenly Truth with earthly selfishness and deviltry. The time had not yet come for the binding of Satan, and the Lord allowed him to continue to make the way narrow for the zealous, saintly few. To have allowed the full light of Truth to shine in upon the world at that time would have meant the permission of the great Time of Trouble nearly three centuries too soon; for the Lord's Kingdom would not be ready for establishment until the full end of the six thousand years of the reign of Sin and Death, and the completion of the elect number of the True Church.

For these reasons God permitted the various Protestant Churches to be born, and to develop under the influence of the intoxicating Cup of their Mother. This being true, we are not surprised at the prophetic declaration that the Daughters had the Mother's disposition and became Harlots like her to the extent of their opportunities — affiliating with the kingdoms of the world, co-operating with them, modifying doctrings so as to meet with their approval, etc.

The name Babylon fits the entire household. The word contains a double thought: first, the Gate of God; and second, confusion. Thus it imports that the professed Church, the Gateway to God and righteousness, became confused, impure and adulterous. Each must judge for himself as respects who and what these symbols of the Divine Revelation signify. I believe that not many of God's people who are awake and even partially sobered up from the false doctrines of the creeds and their perversion of the Scriptures will need further assistance in seeing the Babylon, the name originally applied to the Mother Church, has become a family name, applicable equally to all human systems fraudulently posing as the True Church.

The Scriptures tell us that this True Church has not yet been glorified; that her members are being called, developed, perfected under afflictions, in preparation for their exaltation to be the Bride, the Lamb's Wife. The true members of this Church, whose names are written in Heaven, are all Virgins, pure, in that they are justified through faith in the Redeemer, and are not in relationship with worldly systems, not organized by them, not serving them and not dependent upon them.

As the Lord prophesied this Babylon system. He evidently purposed to permit it to have the control it has had. When telling us that "Babylon is fallen," He intimates that throughout the past some of His saintly ones have been in Babylon. Otherwise He would not say, "Come out of her."—Revelations 18:4.

The Lord's voice calling His people out of Babylon at the time she is rejected for destruction, is not a literal voice from Heaven, nor is it a voice from earth. It is the voice of the Truth. As knowledge respecting God, His character and His Plan, as revealed in the Bible, now comes to the attention of any of God's consecrated people, the voice of the Truth, appealing to his honesty, calls him to come out at any cost and stand separate from all earthly institutions. The Divine Message tells us that the literal fall of these great systems is at hand, and that everybody in them will suffer justly—in proportion to enlightenment.

According to Bible chronology, the six thousand years of the reign of Sin and Death have ended. We are in the dawning of the New Dispensation, when old things are passing away and the New Order is being gradually introduced. Properly, the awakening came first to God's consecrated people, who have long waited and prayed for the Morning—"Thy Kingdom come! Thy will be done on earth, even as it is done in Heaven!"

The awakening in the Church has gone on gradually during the Parousia of Christ. Meantime, the Millennial blessings beginning to come to the world have made the drunken sleepers restless. As they awaken to the rich blessings of our time, they are seized with feverish acquisitiveness, individually and nationally. As individuals have been racking their brains in respect to money-getting, so nations, impelled by the same spirit of avarice, have been plotting and scheming for extension of territory, trade, etc. As education has permeated to the lower strata of society, it has awakened the whole world. Hundreds of millions are keenly alert to take advantage of every circumstance and condition; and everything except the material interests of this life seems to be ignored.

But the awakening of the people, as we might expect, exhibits all phases of human character — good, evil and foolish. The sufferings of the war-stricken people touch deeply a sympathetic chord in human nature, prompting generosity and sometimes even leading public servants to forget that they have no right to donate public money to any cause, but that the people they serve have the right to exercise their own charity at their own expense. However, the disposition to give food and clothing to those in need clearly indicates that in the hearts of humanity in general there continues to abide some measure of the Godlikeness with which our race was originally endowed—the chief element of Godlikeness being love; for "God is Love."

We are liable to a certain amount of foolishness as we awaken from the ignorance and superstition and get our first glimpse of the sufferings of those in the war zone. To illustrate: The cables recently told that a United States war ship had cleared from an English port, laden with Christmas toys to be distributed to the unfortunate children of the war refugees in Belgium and France. It seems a joke to send a war vessel on such an errand. Thousands of dollars worth of coal were required, besides the time and attention of a ship's crew, to take a lot of dolls, teddy-bears and knick-knacks to children much more in need of food and clothing. We are not faulting the kind hearts that desire to do something for the sufferers, but we do wonder that the heads of our intelligent statesmen should lead themselves to such foolishness, even though it emanated from the hard-headed journalists who induced school children to such folly. The effect of this mental confusion is to awaken thinking people to the real facts of the case and greatly to discredit all effort on behalf of the war sufferers.

Thinking people are saying to themselves: The warring nations should each look out for the victims of their war. They are bound to do this through self-respect at home and abroad. Assistance from us should not be necessary — is not necessary. Money spent thus benefits the givers more than the receivers; for those who should look after the needly will probably content themselves with saying to the unfortunates, "Did you not get your share of the American donation?" Thus our intended generosity may merely help to prolong war and do injury to those we wish to benefit.

On the other hand, the "submerged tenth" at home are in straits and likely to suffer this winter—perhaps fully as much as the Belgian refugees. Hundreds have already been evicted because of inability to pay their rent, and, with their few belongings in the street, are certainly nearly as much to be pitied—perhaps more—as the war refugees across the ocean. Surely charity begins at home! We therefore highly commend a general movement toward Home Relief, believing it to be a safe and sane policy in accord with the teachings of the Bible —"He that provideth not for his own * * * is worse than an infidel."

The people at our doors are our own responsibility. In many respects the war is more injurious here than in the warring countries. There Government contracts for army rations, clothing, military apparatus, ship-building, etc., are causing great business prosperity, especially in Germany and Great Britain. Here on the contrary, the avenues of business are dislocated. The foreign absorption of gold causes financial embarrassment and stringency, the discharge of clerks, mechanics, etc.

Few of the awakening ones realize that the present war is permitted for the weakening of the nations preparatory to the utter collapse of the present order of things and the ushering in of the New Order of things—the Reign of Righteousness under Messiah's Kingdom. The aroused sleeper should face about to the rising Sun of Righteousness with healing in His beams and blessing for all nations. (Malachi 4:2.) Were this recognized, there would be less of the war spirit here at home, less of a fear of what could be accomplished by enemies across the deeps, more of a confidence in the Lord, and an endeavor to please and obey Him. But the maddening wine still intoxicates many Americans, and will yet probably embroil our nation in strife.

As for religion, the awakened ones reject the major portion of the creeds of the past, yet carefully cling to any rights or privileges which those false doctrines gave them. Thus the Divine right of kings, nobles, princes and governments, and rites and ceremonies, civil and ecclesiastical, are firmly clutched and held high above the people in the interests of the rulers. This is the secret of the willingness of the earthly kings, emperors and princes, financial princes and subservient religionists to engage in the present horrible strife. The argument with all is that the end justifies the means. The ends sought are commercial supremacy, political supremacy; and, incidentally, the religious systems are praying for a backing-up of the various contestants whom they have long taught are kingdoms of God, guided by Divine Wisdom and Providential care.

The Lord no longer restrains these; for His time has come that iniquity should have an end; that the Harlot systems should make manifest that none of them is the Bride of Christ; and that the kings of earth might humble each other and thus make ready for the true Kingdom of God—for the Reign of Christ and His Church, glorified.

The masses of mankind have been slowly awakening for some time; but the present war is sure to thoroughly awaken the whole world, and the maddening effect of the false doctrines will anger the entire human family. As they realize how they were drugged with the false doctrines, the tendency with the majority will be to go to the opposite extreme—to lose faith in everything. The result undoubtedly will be pandemonium, as the Scriptures portray—"Every man's hand against his neighbor"—anarchy.

Many, realizing to some extent the matters we here portray are earnestly advocating some kind of patched-up compromise — a reformation in the churches, a discarding of the creeds in fact while holding to them in theory, a laboring on the part of all for social betterments, etc. We commend this spirit as better than the "standpat" program of others; but it is too late. The opportunity for such a reformation has passed. As the Scriptures declare, "We would have healed Babylon, but she is not healed." (Jeremiah 51:9.) There was a lack of desire for healing, for purification, for forgiveness, for turning away from illicit intercourse with the kingdoms of this world to affiliation with the Lord alone. Only the few had the proper spirit. They and the

COULD NOT GO TEN STEPS FOR THE PAIN IN HIS KIDNEYS.

When you get a pain in the back you may rest assured that it comes from derangement of the kidneys, for were there not something wrong with the kidneys the back should be strong and well.

Doan's Kidney Pills regulate the kidneys, and there is no further excuse for any kidney trouble to exist. What more needs to be said? While Doan's Kidney Pills are not a "balm for every ill that flesh is heir to," they are a positive, never-failing remedy for every disease that has its inception in the improper action in those delicate little filters of the blood, the kidneys.

Mr. Adelard Cleroux, Eganville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for four years. They were so bad, at times, I could not go ten steps for the pain they caused me. My doctor could not do me any good. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought five boxes, and now I have been cured for over three years. I will recommend them to whoever may be suffering from kidney trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c per box; 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

"THE AVENGER OF THE GOOD HOPE AND THE MONMOUTH."—Admiral Sturdee, who one month ago was chief of staff in the British navy. Following the loss of the Good Hope and the Monmouth, he was despatched in charge of a cruiser squadron to clear the high seas of the German foes. His fleet travelled seven thousand miles across the Atlantic, and met the Germans off the Falkland Islands, where he sunk the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, Leipsic and later the Nurnberg.

Jewels.—Malachi 3:17.

This Christian Age in many respects corresponds to the Jewish Age, which was its prototype. Hence our Lord's words respecting Natural Israel apply here also. He declared the New Dispensation so different from the Old that it would be like putting a new patch into an old garment; that it would be like putting new wine into old wineskins, which had lost their elasticity, and could not withstand the strain. Hence the Jewish Dispensation was entirely set aside, and the New Order of things was inaugurated.

So here, there is sufficient contrast between the things of this Present Order — religious, financial, social, political—and the New Order of things that the two cannot possibly intermix, cannot possibly be patched up. Instead, the Lord declares that the Present Order of things, symbolically represented by "the heavens and the earth," the ecclesiastical heavens and the social earth, are to pass away utterly absolutely, in the great conflagration, which will not be literal fire, but symbolic—anarchy. Meantime, however, the Lord promises us that the New Order of things to take the place of the Present Order, will be "the desire of all nations" — "a new earth," a new social order. This is the hope of the world. There is none other.

In view of these things, it behooves every child of God to heed the voice of God, to stand free from Babylon, to manifest the spirit of the Lord, to become a true Bible student, a true overcomer of the world and its spirit, faithful unto death, that he may be accounted worthy of the Crown of Life and a share with his Master in the Millennial Kingdom Throne. And as respects those who are not the Lord's consecrated people, but who love the Truth and righteousness, there are but two courses open. The first and better one is a full surrender to the Lord, a full consecration of the heart, will, time, influence—all—for the service of the Truth; or, second, but less satisfactory, an endeavor to live soberly, righteously, justly, truthfully, sympathetically, mercifully.

ECZEMA ON THE HEAD.

Mr. Peterson, South Bay, Ont., writes: "For years I suffered a sort of eczema on the head. I tried four different doctors, giving each a fair trial, but the disease grew worse and spread to my arm. I got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has entirely cured me. I give you my name because I want other sufferers to know about this splendid Ointment."

French Press Bitter.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Thursday evening's newspapers comment bitterly on the Kaiser's illness:—

The Intransigeant says: "We ought to pray that the monster survives to taste the full agony of his downfall and realize the extent of his irremedial defeat."

The Liberte says: "Now begins the twilight of the German gods. The Kaiser's expiation commences. It is not Napoleon, vanquished by his own conquests, it is no eagle-blowing crest, but a wretched vulture with the stomach ache. In his sleepless nights, he must see, like Belshazzar's writing on the wall, the words, 'The despicable army of Gen. French'."

Historic Stirling.

The history of Stirling is practically an epitome of Scottish history. For Stirling took a hand in nearly everything important which happened in Scotland from the battle of Stirling bridge, "the key to the Highlands," in 1297, to the time of the young pretender, who besieged Stirling Castle in 1746. The castle in which many Scottish kings have lived and in which none have died has probably seen more sieges than any other building. For this reason, as well as its strategic importance at the time, it is one of the fortresses specially appointed by the act of union to be perpetually kept in repair.

AUSTRIA PAYING DEARLY FOR LACK OF WAR PLANS

ROME, Nov. 28.—That the Austrian General Staff greatly underestimated the preparedness, efficiency and spirit of initiative of the Russian army, and that the greatest and most painful disappointment awaits the Austrian nation, is the opinion of Trentino artillery officers, who preferred crossing the border to manning the guns destined to oppose the advance of the Italian troops.

One of these officers, who during the early part of the war was with the army operating in Galicia, explained that the disaster culminating in the capture of Lemberg was the result of the mistake made by three Austrian Generals, Auffenberg, Broderman, and Dankl.

"They simply allowed themselves to be trapped and deceived by the Russians," this officer said. "They advanced in vast, desert territories without maintaining any contact between their perspective armies.

The price paid for this advance, which Austrian military critics proclaimed a masterpiece of strategy, was Lemberg. Later the Germans made the same mistake. They advanced through a stretch of absolutely inhospitable country, and finally retreated."

Discussing the effect of recent defeats on Austria, he said that Austria was not yet ready to concede that there had been defeats. Military circles regard every retreat as a strategic move. All believe they will win in the end; that the Russian army ultimately will fall into the trap that the Austrian General Staff is setting for it.

But the contrary is true. The Austrian General Staff went to war without a pre-arranged plan of campaign, and has none even to-day. Both the officers and the army are victims of their unlimited confidence in the superiority of the Austrian to the Russian army. They are certain they cannot make mistakes. Every officer considers himself a Napoleon.

"In the end," they say, "we will win." In the meanwhile, however, they are being defeated, and these defeats are not only the result of the wonderful organization of the Russian army, but of the Austrian ignorance as well.

"I could prove what I say," he went on, "by relating episodes I witnessed during the time I served in Galicia. I will, however, cite only one, which throws considerable light on the psychology of the Austrian officer.

"One day, at sunset, the Austrian troops succeeded in capturing several Russian batteries on top of a hill. Night came on and the Austrians returned to camp. In the morning they were awakened by a tremendous artillery fire from the hill they had occupied the night before.

"What had happened was this: They had returned to their camp without leaving a sufficient force to guard the guns and position, which the Russians reoccupied under the cover of darkness.

"The chief characteristic of the campaign in Galicia was the absolute lack of co-operation between the artillery and the infantry. It is an axiom of military science that even when the artillery has no direct effect on the enemy, the fire must be kept up, as it encourages the infantry soldier, who considers himself protected. General Brodertman was relieved of his command because he was held responsible for the utter disorganization of the field artillery."

Speaking of the effect winter will have on the war operations on the eastern border, this officer said that instead of hampering and retarding them, snow and cold will intensify the campaign, as transportation on snow is comparatively easy. Spring thaws will be fatal to war.

MANX PRISON CAMP

Britain's Enemies Under Detention Have Little Reason For Complaint

Beyond the fact that they are not at liberty to come and go as they please, the 3,000 Germans and Austrians interned at Douglas, Isle of Man, have certainly nothing to complain of. The camp is healthily situated, on high ground, and the buildings include a spacious dining-hall, with accommodation for 3,000 diners, kitchens fitted with modern cooking appliances, bakehouse, a swimming bath, and the most complete sanitary arrangement. There is an abundant water supply and an electric light installation.

The prisoners sleep eight in a tent One of them is constituted corporal of each tent, and he is responsible for those men; and there is a captain, also a prisoner, who is responsible for a company of 12 tents. Any complaints have to be made through these officers. The camp is carefully inspected daily by the commandant, Colonel Madoc.

There is an abundance of good food. Breakfast consists of porridge, bread, and tea; dinner of meat, potatoes, bread, and one vegetable; and tea of bread and butter and tea.

The prisoners are given as much exercise as possible, being encouraged to play football and other outdoor games, while two hundred are daily sent out for a constitutional round the beautiful lanes near Douglas under escort.

A concert is held every Sunday night, the programme being entirely furnished by the prisoners, many of whom are accomplished musicians. The performances of a full orchestra are exceptionally fine.

Knitting and darning classes are held so that the prisoners may be taught to supply their own socks and mend their clothes. Destitute prisoners, who are in the proportion of 20 per cent., are supplied with clothes by the Government.

DOGS IN PEACE AND WAR

Widely Used in Europe as Draught Animals—Splendid Workers

Tourists who have visited gallant little Belgium—or Holland or Germany, for that matter—during the piping times of peace have remarked on the dogs used for drawing little carts. Sometimes visitors' sympathies have gone out to them, but as a general rule they are well treated, and do not mind their work.

They draw milk carts, parcel delivery vans, and such light vehicles, and in war they drag machine guns Curious as this may seem to us, it is not so very long ago that dogs were used for draught purposes in England.

Miss Gertrude Jekyll has told us some of the uses to which dogs were put in Surrey. Small carriers' carts were drawn by dogs, and she remembers one that used to ply regularly between Guildford and Bramley.

Fish was also carried in similar carts—a team of four hauling three or four hundredweight and a driver not too much. These dog-teams travelled very quickly, and they gained on the coaches, as the latter had to stop to change horses, whereas the farmer made it unnecessary.

THE GRATEFUL CONDOR

OR HOW JAKE GOT HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

VERSE AND DRAWINGS
BY BOB DEAN

WHEN JAKEY WAS A LITTLE BOY

WHEN Jakey was a little boy,
A bird with scarce a feather
Fell from its nest upon its breast
And sprawled upon the heather.
Jake was aware a bird so bare
Should not be in the weather.

2.

He took the skinny baby bird,
And, climbing hard all day
Without a rest, he found its nest,
Which overlooked the bay.
He left the bird with a kindly word
And scrambled back to play.

3.

This gentle lad became a man
(An honest one, I hope);
He went to sea in the Nancy Lee
And he learned to splice the rope,
And how to darn and spin a yarn,
And how to save his soap.

They shanghaied him one night ashore,
And tossed him in a gig—
That's how Jake Spar, our hero tar,
Signed on a clipper brig,
The Helen Gute, at half-past eight—
Her skipper's name was Squigg.

5.

A cruel man, whose vicious ways
Our hero learned to fear;
But he said no word, that the captain heard—
At least, not loud and clear—
But hastily got away from the spot
And worked on the steering gear.

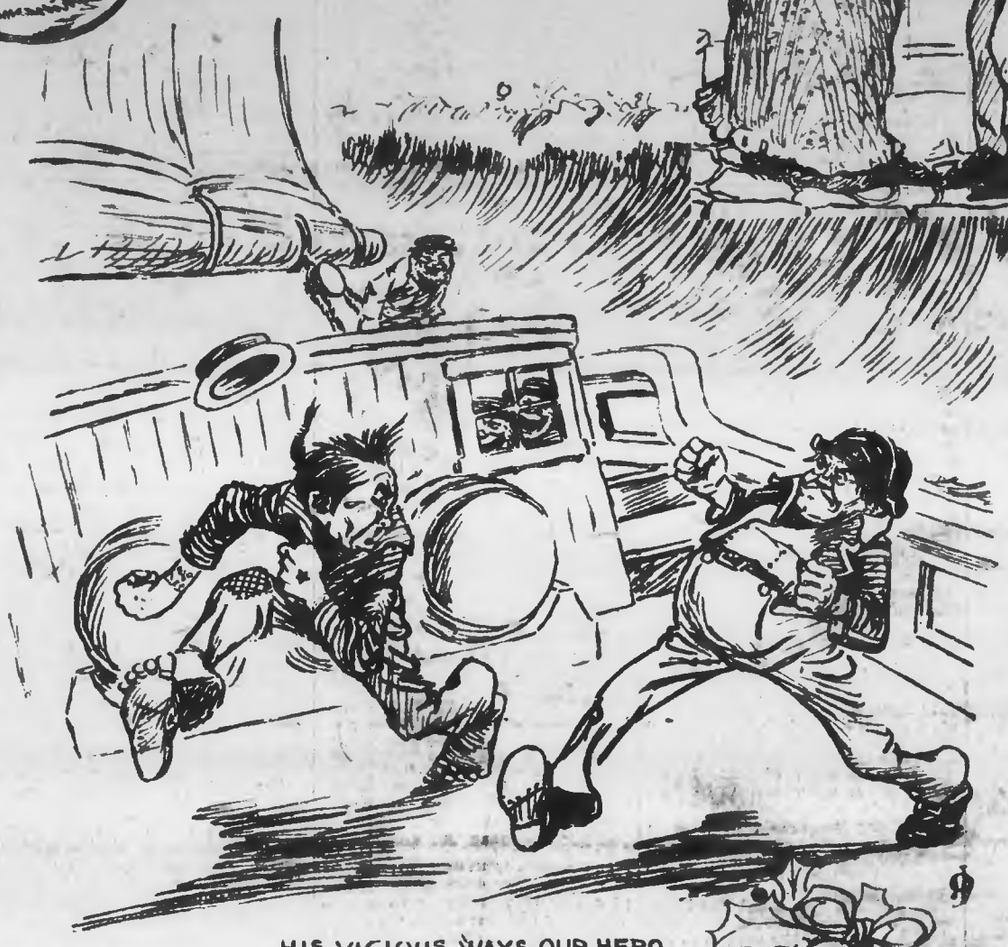
6.

As he stood his watch on the after deck
Our hero chanced to hear
The captain bawl, 'cause a nasty squawl
(Which all good seamen fear)
Caught the groaning ship in its angry grip
And whistled through her gear.

FLEW STRAIGHT TO HIS MOTHER'S SHACK

7.

"Avast there, Jake!" the skipper growled,
"Avast, an' stan' from under!
Ye web footed goop, climb onto the poop,
An' see ye do not blunder!"
Then Seaman Wells he struck eight bells
And tore one bell asunder.



HIS VICIOUS WAYS OUR HERO LEARNED TO FEAR

8.

The lightning flashed, the thunder crashed,
The waves ran mountain high,
And the pelting rain made the cook com plain,
Till the captain heaved a sigh
For a nice snug berth on the solid earth
Where he'd keep warm and dry.

He drove the crew to trim the sails
Before it got too late,
And swabbed his face with cluny lace
And passed out grog sedate.
This done, he sobs:—"Belay, ye slobs!
Like men we'll meet our fate!"

10.

Alas, their fate was hard to beat—
In life, or song, or story;
And Davy Jones will keep their bones,
For which I'm very sorry.
But I must not pause to grieve, because
I wish to tell my story.

11.

A rusty nail was sticking up
From the bottom of the sea
And ripped her seam, likewise her beam,
As she listed to the lee.
And the good ship sunk like a load of junk
In the trough of the angry sea.

12.

The only man of all that crew
Who ever reached dry land
Was our hero, Spar, the plucky tar;
A-clinging with one hand,
In several ways, for five long days,
He clung to the barren sand.

13.

And, as he clung and thought of home,
A bird high in the sky
Stopped its flight to watch his plight,
And blinked its bright red eye,
When it recognized with much surprise
The man about to die.

14.

Though thirty years or more had passed,
This bird remembered well
How Jakey had, when a little lad,
Retrieved it when it fell.
Great was its joy to meet the boy—
Too great a joy to tell!

15.

From its lofty height it straightway dropped

HE WENT TO SEA IN THE NANCY LEE

Down through the salt sea air
To the helpless man (as a condor can),
To rescue him then and there.
But never a word said Jake to the bird,
Who did not seem to care.

16.

For it gave his hand a hearty shake,
And thumped him on his back
In jesting guise, 'till Jake got wise
And climbed upon its back.
And the knowing bird without a word
Flew straight to his mother's shack.

17.

His mother met them at the door,
And, when Jake's yarn was spun,
She thanked the bird with a grateful word
For saving of her son.
The condor shrank from one so frank,
And nibbled at a bun.

18.

'Twas a Christmas bun the condor ate.
Yes, it was Christmas day!
What happier time in prose or rhyme
Could the boy return and say:—
"See, Ma, I'm here and do not fear;
Now, that I'm home, I'll stay!"

19.

A moral goes with this true tale,
A moral all should know:
To be polite is always right,
Wherever you may go—
So skip along, with merry song,
And seeds of kindness sow.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Hacendado's Revenge

A Story of the Mexican Civil War

By JOHN Y. LARNED

Manuel Rodriguez, a hacendado of the province of Nuevo de Leon, Mexico, one morning kissed his wife and children, mounted his horse and was about to ride away when his wife said to him:

"I am afraid to have you go. The rebels are advancing from the north, and I fear you may encounter some of them."

Signor Rodriguez sat in his saddle, thinking not of the danger to himself, but to his wife and children. There were lawless persons in the rebel army, some who had been brigands, and, as for looting conquered territory, their officers often permitted it. He did not wish to leave his family under such circumstances, but it was necessary that he should go.

"Never fear for me. I am well armed and can fight. Goodby, sweetheart. I'll surely be with you again before nightfall."

He bent down and kissed her again, then, urging his horse forward, rode away, turning, after having gone a short distance, to see his wife looking at him with a wistfulness that haunted him during the whole of his absence.

Stopping now and again to make inquiries, he learned that a body of rebels under General Villa were marching toward Victoria. They were to the eastward of him and if they kept to the railroad, which they probably would, they would pass within a few miles of his hacienda. He hurried on that he might perform his journey and return as soon as possible.

Rodriguez, being sadly in need of cash, was going to collect a debt. Reaching his destination he found his debtor in possession of funds. He secured his money, and without waiting even to refresh himself started homeward.

About the middle of the afternoon, on coming to the crest of a hill where he could look down on his hacienda several miles away, he was horror stricken to see a cloud of smoke arising from among the high palm trees that inclosed his house. With a cry he spurred his horse down the declivity and had covered half the distance when he met a family of Indian peons coming from the opposite direction. Reining in his horse, he asked them for news of his family.

"They have all been murdered, senor," said the man. "The bandit Palemo, with some of his men, looted your house and burned it down with every one in it."

For a few moments Rodriguez sat paralyzed; then he dashed forward more rapidly than before.

Nearing another group of persons he reined in again to ask if Palemo and his men were still at the hacienda and was told that they had gone, taking a road leading in the direction of Victoria. Rodriguez, realizing that if he wished his revenge he must strike before the bandits rejoined the army, instead of going to the ruins of his home, struck into a path that would put him on the road the outlaws had taken. He was turning into it when he met a friend, Jose Penalez, who, having heard of the bandits' depredations, had hastily collected half a dozen of his neighbors and was going to the protection of the Rodrigues hacienda. They were all mounted and armed, and on being told of the news given by the peons joined the bereaved man, and the party, eight men in all, dashed on for vengeance.

Had the bandits ridden on without stopping for more plunder they would doubtless have joined Villa's army before being overtaken. But Rodriguez and his men passed house after house where the owners were bemoaning the loss of their valuables, and in some instances, where there had been resistance, there were smoking ruins. Now and again they stopped for a few moments to make inquiries.

What robbery might have failed to effect pulque achieved. On nearing a hamlet the pursuers asked a man on the road the whereabouts of the bandits and were told that they were drinking the national beverage in a saloon not half a mile beyond, one of seven houses that made up the town. Penalez, who was naturally cooler than Rodriguez, asked how many bandits there were and was told that there were six. Rodriguez gave this information to his friend, to whom he looked for leadership.

Up to this moment Rodriguez had been so filled with fury that he had considered nothing but an attack on the destroyers of his house without taking into account their numbers or surroundings. A complete change now came over him. Turning a bend in the road, he saw ahead the pulque house which he had been told contained his enemies. A desire seized him to make the house a fire for roasting them alive. To do this he must corral them, and to corral them needed coolness to meet their efforts to escape. He reined in his horse and gave his orders.

PALEMO STAGGERED, BUT KEPT ON.

The point of attack was about an eighth of a mile from any of the other houses in the hamlet. Rodriguez directed Penalez to take half the men, break to the right through covering trees and, approaching the saloon, deploy and surround it on the west, while Rodriguez with the remaining force executed the same maneuver on the east. The house was on the road at the lowest point between two gently sloping declivities, with scattered trees 200 or 300 yards from its front and rear.

When the two wings of Rodriguez's little army got into their respective positions, each forming a semicircle about the pulque house, the bandits were still drinking within. The first knowledge they had of their danger was the collapse of one of their number, who was standing near a window raising a cup of pulque to his mouth. His fall was accompanied almost simultaneously by the crack of a rifle. Every man started to his feet.

The shot had been fired by Rodriguez, and during the ensuing fight whenever a bandit exposed himself to one of the attacking party the latter would call Rodriguez's attention to the fact and Rodriguez would pick him off. But Palemo, telling his men to keep from exposing themselves, through a crack reconnoitered the field and, though he could see no one, surmised that he was surrounded. But of the strength of those attacking him he was ignorant, for Rodriguez and his men were concealed behind trees or in bushes.

Rodriguez sent a man to one of the houses of the hamlet for kerosene and as much cotton bedclothing and other similar fabrics as he could collect. While his enemies were waiting for this man's return Palemo ordered his men to shoot in different directions, hoping to draw a fire which would enable him to locate the positions of his enemies and to form some estimate of their numbers. But Rodriguez gave orders that not a shot was to be returned. Then Palemo sent four men out by several different egresses, but they had scarcely exposed themselves when one fell dead and two were wounded. The fourth man succeeded in regaining cover.

The messenger who had been sent for inflammables returning, Rodriguez divided the stock between his own and Penalez's division of his force. Gathering oranges, which abounded, the men tied a bundle of cotton fabric saturated with kerosene to the fruit, inserted the end of a stick into the orange and, lighting the kerosene, swung the stick in a circle till the orange flew off and carried the burning mass against the thatched roof of the pulque house. It was not long before sufficient contact had been effected between the flames and the roof to set it afire.

The besieged now saw that they must either be burned alive or sally forth to meet an unknown force. There was no way of reaching the roof from within to put out the fire, and to attempt to do so from without would expose them to death from bullets. Palemo told his men that they would better die from lead than flames. But they were not of the kind to meet death heroically and preferred to wait for the flames rather than face the bullets. The bandit leader stepped forth alone and walked slowly forward. Rodriguez saw him and, directing the others not to fire, sent a bullet crashing into his shoulder. Palemo staggered, but kept on. Rodriguez sent another bullet into the other shoulder. Still the bandit advanced. Then Rodriguez pierced his enemy's brain, and he fell dead.

From that moment the hacendado seemed to lose desire for further revenge. Consenting that Penalez should spare the others if he chose, he mounted his horse and rode to the ruins of his hacienda.

Drawing rein among those who stood about the smoking ruins of his home, one of his friends approached him and said:

"Ah, Rodriguez, I am sorry for your loss! But you came near having a much greater one. Your wife and children are at my house. They fled on the approach"—

"My wife and children! Alive?"

"Yes. Come and satisfy them that you are safe. You have been gone so long that they fear you have fallen at the hands of the rebels."

With muttered thanks to heaven, Rodriguez dashed away, and in a few minutes he and his family were locked in one embrace.

HAD DYSPEPSIA
So Bad Could Not Take a Drink of Water Without Suffering.

Dyspepsia is one of the most difficult diseases of the stomach there is to cure. You eat too much. Drink too much. Use too much tobacco. You make the stomach work overtime. You make it perform more than it should be called on to do. The natural result is that it is going to rebel against the amount of work put on it. It is only a matter of a short time before dyspepsia follows.

That old, forty year old remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, will cure the dyspepsia and will cure it to stay cured as we can prove by the thousands of testimonials we have received from time to time.

Miss Sarah McRae, Newfield, Ont., writes: "I write to say that I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters, and have found it the best remedy I have ever used for dyspepsia. Two years ago, I had stomach trouble so bad that I could not even take a drink of water without suffering. I took six bottles of B.B.B., and have been entirely cured, and can now eat anything without any bad after effects."

Burdock Blood Bitters is an old and well tried remedy but on account of the many substitutes we would ask you to make sure that our name appears on both the label and wrapper, as this preparation is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Above will be found the picture of a modern gun of the kind that is being used in the present war. At a glance the gun and some old trees appear to be all there is in the picture, but by careful scrutiny some soldiers' faces will be found. There are 10 of them in all. Can you find them? It is no easy task, but by patience and perseverance can be accomplished.

You may win a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses published below. If you find the faces mark each one you find with an X cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found all the faces and marked them." Write these nine words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both writing and neatness will be considered factors in this contest.

This may take up a little of your time, but as there are TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and One Hundred premiums given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter. Remember, all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words, "I have found all the faces and marked them."

We do not ask You to Spend One Cent of Your Money in order to enter this Contest.

Send your answer at once; we will reply by Return Mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have recently received over Two Thousand Dollars in Cash Prizes from us, and full particulars of a simple condition that must be fulfilled. (This condition does not involve the spending of any of your money.)

Winners of cash prizes in our late competitions will not be allowed to enter this Contest.

This competition will be judged by two well known business men of undoubted integrity, who have no connection with this company, whose decisions must be accepted as final.

Below will be found a partial list of the names and addresses of a few persons who have won some of our larger prizes in recent contests. Although these persons are entirely unknown to us, they are our references. An enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. Your opportunity to win a good round sum is equally as good as that of anyone else, as all previous winners of cash prizes are debarred from entering this contest.

"Do you believe in long engagements?" he asked, after she had consented to be his.

"Yes, dearest," she replied. "I have always thought it was such a mistake for two people to rush into matrimony before they learned to really know each other."

"Well, about how long would you wish the engagement to be?"

"Let me see. Would you think it was too long if we didn't get married until a week from next Thursday?"—N.Y. American.

DIMINUTIVE.

A sturdy Scot, six feet five inches in height, is a gamekeeper near Stafford. One hot day last summer he was accompanying a bumptious sportsman of very small stature when he was greatly troubled by midges. The other said to him:

"My good man, why is it that the midges do not trouble me?"

"I daursay," replied the gamekeeper, with a comprehensive glance at the other's small proportions, "it's because they hevna' seen ye yet."

TRUE COURAGE.

True courage has so little to do with anger that there always lies the strongest suspicion against it where this passion is highest. True courage is cool and calm. The bravest of men have the least bullying insolence and in the very time of danger are found the most serene, pleasant and free. Rage, we know, can make a coward forget himself and fight. But what is done in fury or anger can never be placed to the account of courage.—Shaftesbury.

Japanese Squadron Seeks Cruiser.

TOKIO, Dec. 12.—According to reliable information reaching Tokio yesterday, a squadron of Japanese warships is seeking the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friederich off the coast of Chile.

The steamer Prinz Eitel Friederich belongs to the North German Lloyd Co. Early in the war guns were mounted on board her, and she was transferred into an auxiliary cruiser. Recently she has been active off the coast of Chile, and one of her most recent exploits was the sinking, early in December, of the British steamer Charcas off Port Corral, Chile.

Ready To Quit Business.

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—The Board of License Commissioners will have no trouble in deciding on at least twenty-one of the seventy licenses they will cut off on May 1 next. The indemnity of $5,000 which the Provincial Government will pay to each of those cut off has proved too big a lure for twenty-one of the 470 present license holders. They have decided the $5,000 is to be preferred to possible profits, and have signified their willingness to go out of the business. Their names have not been made public so far.

THEY JUST TOLERATE AMERICANS IN GERMANY; BUT TRAVEL IS SAFE

Experiences of Two Newspaper Men From the United States Getting in and Out of Berlin—Arrested Twice, but Difficulties Were Easily Explained—Dangerous for Englishmen

(By Herbert Corey in the Buffalo News)

LONDON, Dec. 10. — Travel in Germany is perfectly easy—on conditions. The conditions are that your papers are in order and that you keep on travelling. We were arrested twice. But that was because we left the train.

Britons, of course, are beyond the pale. It would be hard to frame the sort of a pass that would get a Briton in or out of the country, unless under some sort of a racial disguise. Americans are condoned. We could not regard ourselves as popular, but they bore with us. The official attitude may be described as courteous, but cold.

The redeeming feature of railroad travel in Germany just now is the perfect privacy an American is able to secure. It is almost more than privacy. It amounts to isolation. We entered the country at Bentheim, endured the severe gaze of the officer who examined our impeccable passports, and took our seats in a first-class compartment. Pretty soon an army officer entered.

"Good morning," he said in German, following that excellent rule of courtesy one finds on the Continent and does not find anywhere else. We said "Good morning" in German that was chiefly marked by a pathetic willingness to oblige. The officer had placed his coat, his sword, a package of sandwiches, and a despatch case in the luggage rack. He turned and viewed us. Then he took his thing sout apd went away. He did not say good-bye as he went out.

Other Germans came in. Each in turn spoke kindly to us, and then saw that we didn't belong and went away without firing any salutes. From time to time men and women would walk past the door of our compartment in the corridor car and look in at the strangers and pass on. It was not that they thought we were Britishers. My companion wore an American flag on the lapel of his coat and another on his overcoat. I wore another — an enamel brooch, which was the best I could get on the pinch —and showed as much solicitude over it as the hotel clerk with a yellow diamond. There was nothing doing in the fellowship way.

Don't Warm Up to Americans.

We had that compartment all to ourselves almost all the way to Berlin, a journey of about eight hours. Once a naturalised American came in and talked to us ,and again a very tired officer sat with us for a while. They really had no choice. All the other compartments in the car were playing to standing room only. At Berlin no one paid the least attention to us in spite of the fact that our German was so deficient that if it had not been for aid we would have been obliged to live on Wernes schnitzel. We found Americans who had no more German than we, but who wore no American flags. The explanation was simple.

"All the British are under arrest, so that persons speaking English must be Americans."

We got along, because almost every German city has some English. At Hamburg we found a more intense atmosphere of hostility. Hamburg is the third port in Europe, and it is doing no business.

The British Fleet made it impossible. Only neutral vesels can get in, and they are having a hard time. Just before we reached Hamburg a neutral vessel had sailed for America with a cargo of German dye stuffs. These are not contraband of war. Under the conventions there was no excuse for interfering with their shipment. But Britain is trying to throttle German commerce. Ambassador Gerard and Consul Morgan had worked hard to gain permission for the passage of this vessel. The Hamburg attitude toward English-speaking foreigners was easily understood.

Possibly it was mere indifference—and possibly it was humour—but the lady who sold us our ticket for Flushing, Holland, played us a little trick. She routed us through every practically unused town in northern Germany. We would ride a little while and then we would get off and wait a little while. We probably made every connection it is possible to make. German railroads being what they are, it took us two days to do a 14-hour journey. To do the railroad men justice, they were kindly and helpful. They evidently regarded us as two foreign fatheads. We coincided in that opinion, having compared the railroad map with the railroad folder which had been sold us as a ticket. If it hadn't been for the guards we would be in Germany still, wandering around and around, making connections every little while, like a pair of Flying Dutchmen.

At Boxtel we were demanding where we could get a train for Goch, when a soldier tagged me. He had a rifle, too, but he was such a pleasant-looking soldier I followed him gladly. So did the other fellow. We found his officer reading a London paper, which he hastily concealed when we came in. By mere chance we had had photographs affixed to our passports by Consul Morgan, a regulation had been put in force requiring photographs upon all passports. Those photographs must be signed by the proper German officers. No one had told us, although at the foreign office had vised our passports in Berlin.

"Why are these not signed?" asked the officer.

Trouble Over Passports.

Well, there we were. We didn't know why they were not signed. Whereupon that officer smashed through the tradition that a German officer is a hopeless creature of formal routine. He saw the picture bore the official seal of Consul Morgan at Hamburg and turned us loose. Then we asked him how we were to get to Goch. It wasn't any part of his business to tell us, but he did. En route we stopped off at Haltern, merely because it was on our ticket. It seemed a pity to neglect Haltern, after the attention we had paid all the other towns. A large commandant with a high and serious eye burst out of his office.

"Englishers," said he.

We explained that we were no such a thing, but it didn't go. He told us to follow him. I never understood a short German phrase so perfectly in my life. The procession formed up, with a man with a gun bringing up the rear, and we followed the commandant. My photograph showed me in possession of the early summer style of straw hat, whereas the season had changed. The commandant gave me a pencil and a sheet of paper and made motions. I understood that, too. He compared my signature with that on the passport. Then he smiled very pleasantly.

"It is a pleasure," said he in pretty fair English, "to discover that you are Americans."

Therefore we smiled and bowed at each other and said a few sweet things and went out. At Goch a stationmaster who speaks almost any known language saved us from a young and enthusiastic soldier. The soldier wanted to nab him. A little later we crossed the Holland frontier, and were safe.

One thing must be said. Railroad trains in Germany run on schedule time. The schedule may be a slow one, but they run on it. There are not so many trains as in time o' peace, but also there are not so many travellers. Every now and then the regular train is sidetracked to let a train filled with soldiers bound for the front whizz by. These trains make regular American time. The soldiers are always cheering or singing. Chalked labels on the cars indicate in German that they are bound for St. Petersburg or London or Paris.

One could not tell the difference at a glance between these chaps and the British soldiers one sometimes sees bound for the Front. They look almost alike. They are dressed almost alike. They have the same idea of humour and the same liking for noise and song. It isn't likely that one, any more than the other, could tell what it is all about.

Weary Tiredness Changed to Vigor

That Played-Out Feeling Was Quickly Remedied and Health Restored.

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

"My life for years has been of sedentary character," writes T. B. Titchfield, head of a well-known firm in Buckingham. "Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill-health, which were all too apparent to my family. I grew thin, then pale, and before long I was jaundiced—eyes and skin were yellow, my strength and nerve energy were lowered, and I was quite unfitted for business. In the morning a lightness in the head, particularly when I had got over, made me very worried about my health. Most of the laxative medicines I found weakening, and knowing that I had to be at business every day I neglected myself rather than risk further weakness. Of course I grew worse, but by a happy chance I began to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I was forcibly struck by the fact that they neither caused griping nor nausea, and it seemed incredible that pills could tone, cleanse and regulate the system without causing any unpleasant after effects. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted with me just as gentle as nature—they gave new life to my liver, strengthened my stomach, and won me back to perfect good health. My skin is clear, dizziness has disappeared, and my appetite, strength, spirits are perfect."

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are sure to cure. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Improved Situation in the East. — The Russians, finding that the Germans had weakened their front in the region of Czentochow to get troops to turn the Russian flank, south of Cracow, rushed the main body of their troops to Novo Sandec, where some of them waded the river Dunajec and turned the tables on the Germans who were gaining ground near Bobcsyce.

The Story Of The Saving Of Drowning Refugees

American Woman Relates Horrors of Sinking of Refugee Ship Exploded by German Mine

The sinking of the Channel steamer Admiral Bouteaume by a German mine and the rescue of most of her passengers—refugees from Northern France and Belgium—by the British steamer Queen are thus described in a letter from an American woman living in England to a friend in New York

"I have just returned from France and am very grateful to be back alive. When the boat left Boulogne I said to myself I had seen pretty nearly all the horrors of war except actual fighting. Five thousand British wounded are in Boulogne. Hundreds of motor ambulances and troop trains arrive one after another loaded to the brim with them, fresh from the firing line, which now is only thirty miles from Boulogne. But there were other horrors of which I wotted not.

"There was rather a rough sea, so I went down to the ladies' cabin and tried to go to sleep, when I heard E—'s voice describing me to the stewardess and I bobbed up. He said 'Put on your things and come up on deck. Something has happened to a boat, and she's signalling us.'

"We were carrying only about thirty passengers. E—and a reporter and about half a dozen army officers were the only Englishmen besides the crew on board. As far as I know, I was the only English woman. All the others were French. The newspapers say the boat struck a mine, but it is pretty clear that it was torpedoed by a German submarine.

"E— saw the explosion. When I came on deck she was about a quarter of a mile off, sinking in the middle. The deck swarmed with poor refugees, screaming themselves mad and beckoning frantically to us. Such a sight! Then they commenced jumping into the water. They tried lowering boats, but they were swamped.

"Soon we were surrounded by gunboats, and these did their best to pick up those in the water. Our Captain was a wonder. If it hadn't been for the terrible panic every life would have been saved.

"We came close on one side, and a boy about 18 jumped and managed to land on our deck. I helped to pick him up. He was screaming and frothing at the mouth. Then a half-naked man jumped and was badly injured.

"Then we backed away and came around on the other side, ramming a hole in our bows. We got right side by side with her—and our little boat chartered to carry only 600! The women were quite calm, but the men were mostly all crying except the old men. They kissed our hands and clung to us. Soon we were in a swirling mass of humanity. I was made to put on a life-belt which hurt my feelings terribly. I couldn't see myself floating about in that mess all night and drowning by inches.

"It was dark just as we got the last one on board. One man had his leg torn off .Any amount were crushed to death. There was no doctor on board, but fortunately some of the officers were Red Cross men.

One woman got down on her knees and nearly pulled my clothes off, screaming that one of her children had been pushed into the water. That incident had a happy ending, fortunately, as when we reached Folkestone there was a telegram from Boulogne saying that the child had been picked up by a gunboat.

"If ever I hated the Germans before—!!!

"These poor people, driven out of their villages, chased finally into Calais and got off on this ship after no one knows what hardships, only to be mined or torpedoed in mid-Channel! It was like an inferno. Our little handful of Englishmen quieted the panic, moved them about so as to ballast the list of our boat, and did wonders. * * * *

"Then for two hours we ploughed our way very slowly toward England threatened by the danger of our boat being swamped, and knowing that any moment a submarine might end all our troubles with one neatly placed shot. That was the nerviest part of it —and hearing the cries and groans of the people who had been injured. Soon the wretched creatures all began to be seasick. Most of the women had had their clothes nearly torn off them. Some had only aprons for skirts. The babies were mostly all crying from hunger. There wasn't enough milk on board to feed half of them. One little boy clung to a tiny puppy he had brought all the way with him. There were several quite old men carrying wee babies. They were very poor people—the poorest of French peasants—with a few Belgian soldiers, and a very few middle-class French.

"The Captain sent down word that I was to occupy his cabin, and in there I took off the odious life belt and thought about praying, but I felt that if I prayed the Lord would see through me and know that it was one for the refugees and two for myself. After all, I suppose He saw what was going on, and knew much more about it than I did.

"The horrors of that trip will be with me for a long time to come. To see the people struggling in the water and being crushed like beetles between the sides of two big ships takes a strong stomach. * * * *

"We got off at once when we landed with the officers and Red Cross men, and they were so interested to hear what had happened that our bumps, eyes and passports received scanty attention.

"'But, O you Folkstone,' as my country's slang has it, I simply love that town, although up till now it has given me few thrills. * * * *

"I could go on writing forever about this, as it is so vivid. But [illegible] not describe how terrible it was. The uncertainty of what was going to happen after we got them all on board was worse than seeing them struggle in the water. Apart from personal fear of death, which struck me a little on the ironical side, because I had always believed I would not be afraid to die, and I certainly did not welcome the idea with relish—there was a horrible distaste of taking a bath with all those shrieking, mad creatures. I had my humiliating life-belt all unbuckled ready to cast to them in an emergency. I didn't care to have it torn off, as it undoubtedly would have been. There was no question of women first. I saw our men quietly getting their revolvers ready, and places around the boats were kept clear. Splendid fellows they were!

"But cruel, too, in a way. There was one boat that had cleared off from the sinking ship with three of the crew in it. They had sneaked it. It was swamped at once, like the rest The three men bawled and screamed, and every time it went under one of them was submerged, but he still held on. There were plenty of gunboats — one quite near—that could have picked them up quite easily. But they didn't and the men were drowned.

"One of the officers explained it to me:

"'Served them jolly well right,' he said. 'Save them? Not much!'

"He seemed to enjoy their plight, and I suppose he was right, but it seemed dreadful."

DANCE AND DRINK ARE BLAMED FOR WISCONSIN VICE

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 10.—Study and investigation of the vice problem in Wisconsin by the legislative anti-vice committee resulted in radical proposals for law enforcement and better social conditions, summarised in an exhaustive report which was filed with the Secretary of State today.

The greatest cause of commercialized vice, the report says, is the use of intoxicating liquor. Contributory causes are public dance halls, road houses, poorly lighted parks and public places, lack of responsibility by parents, non-enforcement of laws by public officials, lack of public amusement and recreation facilities, and automobiles.

The committee found that the wage question had no material relation to a girl's downfall.

The committee recommends among other things: That a morals court be established in cities of the first class with exclusive jurisdiction over all cases involving moral offences.

That a law similar to the Mann Act, applicable between cities, villages, and towns of the State be enacted.

Want State Police.

That a permanent State police department be established in this State with power to investigate immoral practices.

That the sale of liquor be prohibited within or in connection with dance halls.

That all hotels, rooming and lodging-houses be required to secure licenses; that they keep permanent registers of the names of all guests, with penalties for using fictitious names.

That the publicity of ownership be established by requiring the name of owners on the front of all hotels and rooming houses.

That the age of consent be raise[d] from fourteen and eighteen years t[o] eighteen and twenty-one years.

That an industrial home for w[o]men be established.

To Supervise Amusements.

That municipalities provide supe[r]vised amusements, particularly co[n]certs, moving picture shows, etc.

That employers of domestic se[r]vants be required to furnish the[m] with a suitable room in which to r[e]ceive company. That the number [of] hours of labour for domestic servan[ts] be fixed by law.

That penalties for exploitation [of] girls be made most severe and con[-] with absolute certainty upon co[n]viction.

Will You Help The Hospital for Sick Children, the Great Provincial Charity?

Dear Mr. Editor:—

Thanks for the privilege of appe[al]ing through your columns on behalf [of] the Hospital for Sick Children. T[he] Hospital takes care of sick and d[e]formed children, not only in Toront[o] but in the Province, outside of the ci[ty].

This coming year, of all the yea[rs] in the Hospital's history, has a mo[st] serious outlook, as regards funds f[or] maintenance, than any year that h[as] passed its calendar.

So many calls are being made on t[he] purses of the generous people of T[o]ronto and Ontario, to help the soldie[rs] of the Empire, that as I make m[y] daily rounds through the wards of t[he] Hospital, and see the suffering ch[il]dren in our cots and beds, the thoug[ht] strikes me as to whether the peop[le] will as of old, with all the demand[s] made upon them, answer our appe[al] and help to maintain the institut[ion] that is fighting in the never-endi[ng] battle with disease and death. In [an] endeavor to save the stricken litt[le] ones in the child-life of Ontario.

Last year there were 894 in-patien[ts] from 210 places outside of Toron[to] and in the past twenty years the[re] have been 7,000 from places in t[he] Province other than Toronto.

It costs to $2.34 per patient per d[ay] for maintenance. The municipaliti[es] pay for patients $1 per patient p[er] day; the Government allows 30 cen[ts] per patient per day; so, deducti[ng] $1.30 from $2.34, it leaves the Hospi[tal] with $1.14 to pay out of subscriptio[ns] it receives from the people of Toron[to] and the Province. The shortage [in] year run to $18,000.

Since 1890 about 1,000 cases of cl[ub] feet, bow legs and knock knees ha[ve] been treated, and of these 900 h[ave] perfect correction. Nearly all the[se] were from different parts of the P[ro]vince outside of the city of Toronto.

Remember that every year is a w[ar] year with the Hospital; every day [is] a day of battle; every minute t[he] Hospital needs money, not for its o[wn] sake, but for the children's sake. T[he] Hospital is the battle-ground where t[he] Armies of Life have grappled with t[he] Hosts of Death, and the life or dea[th] of thousands of little children is t[he] issue that is settled in that war. W[ill] you let the Hospital be driven fr[om] the field of its battle to save the li[ves] of little children for the lack of mon[ey] you can give and never miss? S[o]

Every dollar may prove itself [to] be a bullet that kills death, a shell in the fleet that fights for the lives of little children.

Remember that the door of the H[os]pital's mercy is the door of hope, a[nd] your dollar, kind reader, may be t[he] key that opens the door for som[e] body's child.

Will you send a dollar, or more if you can, to Douglas Davidson, Sec[re]tary-Treasurer, or

J. ROSS ROBERTSON,

British Submarine Sinks Turkish Battleship

GERMANS RETIRING IN THE WOEVRE REGION

French Are Forcing Retirement of Germans

Progress in the Woevre District is Compelling the Enemy to Fall Back Northwards Between the Meuse Line of Fortresses and Metz.

A CONTINUED ADVANCE OF ALLIES

SPECIAL CABLE:

PARIS, December 14.—The French official communication given out in Paris this Monday afternoon reads, as follows:

"There has been nothing of importance to report between the Sea and the Oise.

"In the region of the Aisne, to the northwest of Soupre, the enemy bombarded our entrenchments most violently. We replied and demolished his positions. There were infantry attacks from one side or the other.

"Our artillery destroyed an important field work of the enemy in the vicinity of Aieulles.

"In the Argonne, at the north of Lagrurie, we have made slight progress by the use of mines. There were no attacks from the enemy.

"On the heights of the Meuse there has been violent cannonading; batteries of the enemy would appear to have been moved to positions farther north.

"In the Woevre district, after having occupied a line of entrenchments, a front of 500 yards, in crest of Mortmare, our troops repulsed two violent counter attacks.

"In Alsace our advance has brought our front to a line that passes 425 yards to the north of Steinbach, thence to Pont D'Aspach, and thence to Pont De Brinighoefen, 1,500 yards to the west of Eglingen."

PARIS, December 14.—The French attack in the Woevre region is forcing the German retirement northward on a diagonal line between the Meuse line of fortresses and Metz. This is indicated to-day in the official communique from the war office. A continued advance of the French forces is reported, 500 yards of the German trenches having been taken yesterday.

TORPEDO BOATS SUNK

ROME, December 14.—Two Austrian torpedo boats are reported to have been sunk in the Adriatic, according to messages received here from Trieste to-day. The torpedo boats were en route to Lisha, when they were probably in collision with mines, the message states. The crews of both vessels were lost.

OTTAWA, December 14.—Colonel Fiset, deputy Minister of Militia for many years, has just been created a Surgeon-General.

Colonel Sam Steele, commanding Winnipeg District No. 1, has received the rank of Major General.

In addition Major General Steele and Major General Lessard of Toronto, have been appointed Inspectors-Generals, the one for western Canada, and the other for eastern Canada. The position of Inspector General has been vacant for some time.

Board of Trade Meets To-morrow

The Board of Trade will hold a meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, in the City Council chamber. Among other matters the change in the time-table on the C.P.R. will be discussed, and it will be decided just what action should be taken to protect the interest of the City in this regard. The meeting will be an important one and it is urged that every member attend.

A LETTER FROM "EMPRESS OF IRELAND"

Miss Doris Hanson of 293 Princess street, received from Ottawa, Dead Letter Office, on Dec. 11th, a letter which was recovered by the divers from the wreck of the "Empress of Ireland." The writing of this letter can be easily deciphered?

For Board of Education

Members of the Board of Education whose term of office expires with the current year are Messrs. V. Eastwood, B. F. Ackerman, J. J. Turner, Jr., and Dr. M. A. Morrison. It is understood that the quartette will enter the field again at the forthcoming municipal elections. Among the new aspirants for a position on the Board might be mentioned Mr. G. N. Gordon. The latter has signified his intention of contesting one of the vacancies. There will likely be a few more by the time nomination day rolls around.

The members who will serve for another year are Messrs. J. Crane, W. H. Hill, Dr. G. Burnham, J. Smith and Col. Miller. Five members of the Board are elected one year and four the next year. A majority vote decides the election.

KNOX CHURCH SENDS CALL TO NEW MINISTER

Rev. J. A. McKenzie, of Lachute Will Succeed Rev. H. J. Keith in South End Church

DECIDED YESTERDAY

The congregation of Knox Church has unanimously decided to extend a call to Rev. J. A. McKenzie, B.A., of La Chute, Que., to fill the vacancy caused by the departure of Rev. H. J. Keith. The matter was decided yesterday at a largely attended meeting of the congregation held at the close of the morning service. Four ministers have been heard with a view to a call, and all of them gave general satisfaction. However, the choice fell upon Rev. Mr. McKenzie, who received a majority of the votes on the first ballot. By a standing vote of the meeting the call was made unanimous.

Rev. Mr. McKenzie is a young man, a graduate of McGill College two years ago, and has been acting as assistant at La Chute.

A Few Horses Were Purchased

Asked as to the sale of horses for war purposes which was to have taken place in Peterborough on Saturday last, Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., states that new arrangements have been made. The work of buying horses has been placed in charge of a qualified veterinarian, who will purchase horses in Peterborough at a date to be announced later. Three officers were in the city on Saturday. According to Mr. Burnham, they purchased a number of horses. Mr. Burnham states that this department of the militia, has been, subject to considerable confusion, and that the Government has been imposed upon to a very great extent, in the matter of buying horses. Many horses have been purchased that later proved to be unfit for active service. Within the past few days, the work of buying horses has been placed under the supervision of Hon. Adam Back, who has named a man to act in this district.

THE CALL TO THE COLOURS

The following has been received by the Examiner from Helen Kearns, 492 Elm Street, a twelve year old pupil of St. Mary's Convent:

The Call to the Colours.

This is a personal call, a personal challenge to every fit and able Canadian. All fit for war should step forward and say, "Here I am; send me." It is a hard task to leave home and all dear to the human heart, but it must be done. This is the testing time of every Canadian to show his good will, honour, valour and patriotism. He must be brave first to leave home and friends and then to face the horrors of war. His comrades are dropping around, and any moment may be his last breath, but he loves war because he is upholding the honour of his native country. He thinks it a glorious honour to die defending the country and home he loved. Each will be doing his part to aid Britain in this terrible struggle. But still greater sacrifice is that made by the women of all nations engaged. They say nothing in war, but its horror and ruins the cries of the dead and wounded are ever in their ears. Yet with a strength super-human they urge ones they love to serve their country. They encourage them when fighting on the battlefield, and they comfort them when they are lying wounded and dying in hospitals. The mother urges her son, her only support, to serve his country and think not of her. Many have responded to this urgent call, an many more are waiting to be called upon to uphold their country's honour to do or die.

To cheer the happy soldiers on their journey to the battlefield they say,
Great race whose empire of splendour
Has dazzled the wondering world,
May the flag that floats o'er thy wide domains
Be long to all winds unfurled.

"MESUDIEH" IS DESTROYED

Turkish Battleship Sent to the Bottom After a Daring Attack by a British Submarine

DIVED UNDER MINES

SPECIAL CABLE:

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Admiralty to-day announced that the Turkish battleship Messudieh had been torpedoed and sunk in the Dardanelles. The Messudieh was attacked and sunk by a British submarine yesterday.

The Messudieh was an old battleship carrying six hundred men. She was built in 1872, and reconstructed in Genoa in 1903. Her displacement was about 10,000 tons.

The Mesudieh was sunk by the British submarine B11. In accomplishing the feat the vessel dived under five rows of mines. After launching the torpedo which struck the Turkish warship, the submarine escaped.

The submarine B11 was in command of Lieut. Commander Holbrook, and was built in 1906. One report of her feat in the Dardanelles says: "Although pursued by gunfire and torpedo boats, the B11 returned safely after being submerged on one occasion for three hours. When last seen the Messudieh was sinking by the stern."

Big Programme On Wednesday

Asa Huycke's Minstrels Will Attract Big Crowd

The performance of Asa Huycke's Minstrels in the Conservatory of Music of the Peterborough Hockey Club promises to attract a big crowd as the event will mark the first public appearance here of the "Made in Canada" minstrels. Some of the best talent in Peterborough has been secured by Mr. Huycke, and those who have seen the private performances of the company have been loud in their praises of the attraction. The song numbers are new and attractive, and the sololsts are capable of doing full justice to the merit of the songs. The comedy end is not forgotten, and altogether Huycke's minstrels is one of the best amateur organizations ever seen here.

Missing Man Has Turned Up

The searching party who left Minden on Friday in search of Mr. Joseph Hattam, who was lost in Hinden Township while looking over some timber limits, returned this morning with the news that he had been located at McArthur's camp,, on the Black River. Mr. Hattam had been since Wednesday lost before sighting habitation, and was almost completely exhausted from the long tramp and very rough travelling, as well as being without food.

HOUSE WAS DESTROYED

Home of Mr. Frank Scott Burned Last Night—Motor Truck Made Quick Time to Fire

HOUSE WAS INSURED

The burning of a frame house just south of the city waterworks plant about nine o'clock last night illuminated the whole of the northern sky and caused considerable interest and excitement in the city. The house, which was consumed, was the home of Mr. Frank Scott, and was owned by Mr. Stoddart. The frame building, in burning, made a spectacular sight, and hundreds from the city walked and motored to the fire, until the road near the house was filled with people. The flames were first seen shortly before nine o'clock and had not subsided until nearly midnight.

The fire was first noticed by a passerby, and there was no one in the house when the flames broke out. Mrs. Scott, with her two children, were visiting next door when a man who had been driving from the city, knocked at the door and said that he thought the house just a few yards farther up the road, was on fire. Mrs. Scott rushed from her neighbour's, and opening the front door found the interior of her home a mass of flames. Only an organette and a rocking chair could be rescued from the fierce heat and smoke, the house and remainder of its contents being completely consumed by the flames.

A telephone message from Miss Mowry at the Isolation Hospital brought the motor chemical engine on the scene. The machine, after leaving the fire hall, called for Chief Howard and Mr. Harpham and yet was on hand at the fire nine minutes after the alarm was received. This in spite of the snowy roads and the fact that the house was some distance outside the city. The brigade arrived later with the hose and ladder trucks, but nothing could be done to save the building. A bucket brigade, however, did splendid work in seeing that the fire did not spread to the neighbouring buildings, which were in danger. The barn to the north of Mr. Scott's house, as well as the frame house to the south of it were thus protected. Had the fire caught hold of either of the other buildings, the chemical engine would have been pressed into service and would soon have extinguished the flames.

It seems that Mr. Scott himself is in the north country and his wife and two children are at home. It is not known just what was the cause of the fire, although Mrs. Scott offers as a theory that the family cat, in eating crumbs off a table, may have upset the lamp, which had been left burning, thus setting fire to the room. The house was valued at about $3600 and was insured. The furniture, which was also destroyed, will add to the size of the loss. The house is about three hundred yards from the pump house, and for several hours the reflection in the sky was very distinct. Three or four hundred people from the city saw the fire, and a very much larger number noticed the reflection in the sky. While the fire is a very regrettable occurrence, it is at the same time fortunate that it did not spread to the other buildings.

Coming High Court Sittings

The Honourable, the Chief Justice of the Exchequer, will hold court in Peterborough, on Tuesday, March 2nd. This will be a high court jury sittings.

The non-jury sittings will be held in Peterborough, commencing Tuesday, April 27th.

LAID TO REST

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Condon was held yesterday afternoon at half-past 2 o'clock from the family residence. The funeral was largely attended, and many expressions of sincere regret because of her death and of sympathy for the bereaved family were heard. Mrs. Condon was held in deservedly high respect, and the final tribute paid by the large number present at the funeral yesterday was highly appropriate. The pall-bearers were two sons, James and Edward, three brothers, Michael, Timothy and Hanrahan, and a nephew, Edward Hanrahan.

SPECIAL CABLE:

SUCCESS OVER TURKS

PETROGRAD, December 14.—Continued success in the operations in the Caucasus is claimed in an official statement issued to-day, which says: "Throughout December 11 there was fighting in front of the villages of Pyrousk, Esmer and Doutak. The enemy was everywhere repulsed and pursued beyond the Euphrates, with severe losses."

LONDON, December 14.—A Petrograd despatch to The Times says:

"Advices from the front at Erzerum, Turkish Armenia, describe the position of 20,000 Christians there as precarious, because of their Russian sympathies. Three hundred thousand Turkish troops are mobilized at Erzerum. Hundreds of Armenians have been imprisoned and many of them hanged in the streets, without trial, as examples. Nevertheless, remarkable anti-war demonstrations have been held in Erzerum, on one occasion the rioting lasting for several hours."

BERLIN, December 14.—To-day's official statement announces that the Russians are putting up a stubborn resistance in Central Poland, although it says that the Germans are making favourable progress.

By J. W. T. Mason, Staff Expert of United Press, New York.

NEW YORK, December 14.—Differences apparently have arisen between Germany and Austria, concerning the progress of the Austrian campaign. This is the only possible interpretation of the public rebuke which has been inflicted on the Austrians by Berlin's week-end official report of the conditions in the war zone. The immediate cause of the German outburst is probably the collapse of the Austrians' offensive in Servia. There is much mystery about Servia's counter offensive which is now so successfully developing. Servia is apparently pushing Austria out of the country again.

TURKS MARCH BAREFOOT THROUGH SNOW

LONDON, Dec. 14.---Frederick Rennet, the Daily News' correspondent, wires from Petrograd:

"Wounded Russian officers in Tiflis hospitals describe the extraordinary physical endurance of the Turks, who march barefooted through the snow and shoot standing or kneeling but rarely from trenches. They only dread bayonet charges. The Turks are said to have lost very heavily."

Movement to Stop Giving

Should Not be Encouraged—Christmas Giving and Buying as Usual.

One of the most foolish movements that has been attempted is to get people to agree not to buy Christmas presents this year owing to the war. Why put into the innocent, simple enjoyments of the children? Surely it would be a shock to the youngsters if they had to be informed that it was this dreadful war that had held up Santa Claus this year. And there are children of an older growth who really obtain the deepest satisfaction from the evidences of the affection in which they are held by these annual gifts, however modest they may be in certain instances.

The movements to stop Christmas giving should not be encouraged. Buying should not be curtailed because of the war. Everything in fact should be done to encourage, not check trade, that it may not be throttled entirely. Everyone is prepared for such an annual celebration, and it would be unpatriotic to put a ban upon Christmas buying for Christmas giving. The local merchants are offering some good suggestions for Christmas this year.

Richard Hall & Sons Gave $350

Since the closing of the three-day campaign, last week, which netted the local patriotic fund about $60,000, some of the teams have materially increased the amount collected. Some men who were for some reason or other, overlooked during the campaign, have come forward with acceptable contributions, while the members of the teams have also run to earth some other quarries who were not available during the progress of the "great effort." But whether the men gave without being solicited or not the contributions are very welcome.

In the account of the progress made the Examiner of last week said that the donation from the Messrs. Richard Hall & Sons was $150. This was a mistake which we are glad to correct. That firm gave a subscription of $350.00, and, besides that, their employees contributed $30.50.

EAST INDIA A PARTNER.

East India, in its splendid coming to the help of the Empire, has shown its practical partnership in the Empire; and it is to be taken into partnership in another way. So far East India has not been granted self-government, or a considerable share in government. Now that it has shown the highest qualities of loyalty and patriotism, it is to be given a share in the councils of the country. Naturally the steps to full participation in government will be gradual. The British under-secretary for India, announces that it has been decided that in the united provinces the lieutenant-governor will be assisted by small native councils. This is a step in the direction of giving the natives a larger share in the government of the country. A people that has made the splendid recognition of the wisdom, fairness, and justice of British rule, implied in the spontaneous, instant, ample assistance to the Empire, that has been forthcoming, deserves ample enjoyment of the rights of citizenship ingrained and inherent in the spirit of British institutions.

DUNDAS AND WEST HAMILTON.

Attempts to minimize the magnitude of the slap administered by the electors of Dundas, to the Hearst Government, are made in the face of facts that declare their futility. The facts, instead of lessening, emphasize the importance of the rebuke delivered by the electors. At first the big decrease in the government majority was explained by the statement that the electors were indifferent, and that a very light vote was polled. The official figures show, on the contrary, that the vote polled was 355 greater than that recorded in the general election this summer. This indicates that the Liberal candidate in so largely reducing—almost wiping out—the big normal government majority in Sir James Whitney's old constituency, performed a brilliant exploit. As a matter of fact the increase in the total vote indicates that a very keen interest was taken in the contest. No stone was left unturned, that promised to have under it anyhting to strengthen the cause of the Government. The Conservatives themselves did everyhting possible to arouse interest in the contest. Mr. G. Howard Ferguson, M.P.P., the new Cabinet minister in prospective, was commissioned to take charge of the campaign and his operations in Peterborough show that he would leave nothing undone, fair or otherwise, to advance the interest of his party. The influence of the Provincial and Dominion Governments was solidly united in favour of the Conservative candidate. Andrew Broder, M.P., the popular Conservative member for the riding, accompanied the Government candidate wherever he went, and the new premier, Mr. Hearst, sent a letter to the Conservatives urging them to active support of his candidate. In the face of all this the electorate was pretty thoroughly aroused, with the result that the vote recorded was 365 greater than the vote in June, and 549 greater than the vote in the general election in 1911—a most unusual happening in a bye-election. It was on this heavy vote, with the activity of all the electors enlisted, that the Conservative majority fell from 763 to 62. Whatever the cause of this fall, it was not lack of interest, nor overconfidence on the part of the Conservative managers. There is little wonder that this contest, is exciting comment in political circles throughout the province; and, taken in conjunction with the party debacle in West Hamilton, it constitutes a good-sized straw to show which way the wind is blowing. It shows that the "Whitney Tradition," upon which Mr. Hearst relies, whatever its moral value, has little practical part or place, in the government of the province. Mr. Hearst and his cabinet must play off their own bat. Personality, highly idealized, cannot be transmitted like a portfolio. Mr. Hearst may have inherited Sir James Whitney's shoes, but to make good he must fill them — and they seem to be several sizes too large.

APPLY THE LESSON.

The lesson of the brilliant success of the Patriotic Fund campaign should be applied to the promotion of other civic interests. This lesson is that organization, system, and resolute and intelligent application of organization and system can accomplish wonders. The organization of the Patriotic Fund campaign, the energy of its "live-wire" units collectively applied in connection with public spirit, was what made possible the splendid results achieved. The same body of men working aimlessly and sometimes at cross purposes, without any definite plan, without system, would have accomplished comparatively little, though they had the same material to work with—the same public to be appealed to—to be reached. We have nothing but praise for the committees and teams. They had a plan, they applied it with system and energy, and they succeeded. Alderman Dobbin, chairman of the publicity committee, was presented by associates with a testimonial of appreciation of the value of his services, a remarkable tribute to him as an alderman, but a natural expectation in respect of a seasoned newspaper man. He can render still greater public service, if in his aldermanic capacity, he can import into civic administration, the spirit of aggressive organization and fruitful system, that made the Patriotic Fund campaign go, and the results come. If he can persuade the whole civic body to adopt, especially in regard to our streets, something like system, some effective policy, and to stand by and help the Board of Works in carrying it out, he will be a greater public benefactor. No imputation is made upon the present Board of Works, or its predecessors. For years that body has been handicapped, both by lack of funds and by the absence of any definite policy, and of system and plan. No one will deny that our streets do not show satisfactory results for the money expended upon them. This, it seems, largely arises from the fact that we have no definite policy or street management, and even if we had such a policy, we have not the system of working it out. We vote a certain amount of money; and it is expended in a hap-hazard way with naturally hap-hazard results. In all succesful industrial and commercial interprises, there is a definite policy and an effective system of applying it. No matter how well organized a civic department may be, satisfactory results can not be expected unless there is a practicable policy adopted, and practically carried out.

NO MOSLEM WAR.

The attempt to unleash Moslem fanaticism against all non-German civilization is doomed, in our conviction, to a failure as complete as that of all the other prodigies of diplomatic cunning in which German statesmanship has placed so much reliance. Berlin has yet to realize how vast a change in the Sultan's position in the Moslem world has been wrought by the capture of the Ottoman government by Turks who are out of sympathy with everything that is in the heart of the East.—London Telegraph.

THE BALKAN COMPLICATIONS.

It is difficult to see how Italy can any longer maintain her neutrality. Greece and Roumania are ready, and are almost certain to move. In Bulgaria the situation is complicated by distrust of Greece and Servia, but the Bulgarian people are Slavs, and there is no possibility of their government following Turkey to the German camp—and to destruction. Russia is facing the new complication with complete composure. * * * Her message to the Balkans is admirably brief. "Those who are not for Russia are against her." It is a message that must have a dramatic and far-reaching response.—London Express.

THE CANDID FRIEND.

> Hamilton and Dundas have declared with fairly plain speech that Sir James Whitney was the strength of the Whitney Government. The lesson for the existing Cabinet must be, for the present, until some other personality has developed and taken hold of the imagination of the people, that the Government must establish itself, and can only establish itself, as Sir James Whitney himself did, by the adoption of forward policies, by striking out in new directions and by consulting the wishes of the people in regard to legislation.

MAKING A MOCK OF CHRISTMAS.

A despatch from Berlin the other day reported that "immediately Germany received the suggestion of Pope Benedict for a truce among the warring nations during the Christmas holidays an affirmative reply was sent to the Vatican." And this tribute to the sanctities of Christmas and the Christmas spirit is to be taken as proof of the Christianity of the German Emperor and his General Staff!

What unspeakable mockery! Could impiety and irreverence be carried to more impudent or more blasphemous lengths? A Christmas truce, forsooth! A Christmas truce by Germany! And in Belgium!—poor, blood-soaked Belgium, into whose quivering heart the brutal Prussian sword has been plunged to the hilt, and not withdrawn! For the arrogant violators of a sacred truce among the nations, for the men responsible before the world for the debauchery and carnage and unimaginable horror perpetrated against an innocent people, for the military autocracy of Germany to talk of their brute-beast Army observing a holiday truce in Belgium in honour of the Christmastide—that would be to add to their out-Heroding slaughter of the innocents their more impious insult to God. Herod had at least the decency to pretend the paganism he practiced.

These pitiless murderers of defenceless men and helpless women and innocent litle children—for them there can be no Christmas so long as the blood they have so cruelly spilled cried aloud to heaven for justice. For them there can be no justice. For them there can be no angel-song of good-will and peace, but, instead, the Man of Gallilee this Christmas eve will look with sad eyes from Brussels to Berlin, and speak in sterner tones those searching words:

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto these my brethren ye have done it unto Me."

No! Militarism never again can keep the truce of peace with Christmas. It would not be the Mass of Christ, the Prince of Peace. It would be the Mass of Thor, the god of Force. Its heralding would not be in the angel-song of Bethlehem, but in the demon-cry of Armageddon:

"Glory to Odin in the lowest!
On earth War and Bad-will to men!—The Globe.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS GOT THERE FIRST.

For patronizing paternalism that vests anything n Germany commend us to the circular recently sent out by the Chicago Herald, entitled 'How to get the Trade of Our Next Door Neighbour."

The neighbour in the case happens to be Canada. The people who are to get it are, of course, the manufacturers of the United States. All the reasons why and the methods how to get this trade are set forth with characteristic cocksurety. We are supposed to be cut clean off from the $150,000,000 worth of goods imported from England; which is no more true than to say that the British Navy does not control the sea. The Americans will benevolently supply us with these goods. Thanks, awfully! As to the $20,000,000 imported from countries other than England and the United States, why of course grab these also. Nothing easier. They say we have nine million people—approximately correct; that we speak a common language—touching affinity; that we deal in dollars and cents — which of course we learned from the United States. Our crops this year, while not so big as other years, are more valuable; therefore grab the farmer's money and send it across the line.

Our credit is said to be good; thanks, again, but we are the people who made it so.

These American journalists are the people who, ever since the war began, have been building cloud-castles of the trade they intended to grab from all the belligerent countries in all parts of the world. For three months they have been counting up by billions a year what this war will mean to the great neutral nation—the United States.

But the one thing they seem to have overlooked is that it was possible for Canadian Manufacturers to be alive to the situation also, and while they have been planning excursions of American manufacturers into the Canadian field, the Canadian Manufacturers and those American Manufacturers who have become Canadians by establishing branches in this country, have risen to the opportunity and with the aid of the Press, have created a loyal national sentiment throughout the Dominion which will make it exceedingly difficult for these Americans to seize any portion of Canadian trade to which they are not fairly entitled

In The Matter of Big Guns
Britons Give Germans A Roland For An Oliver

Tommy Atkins calls the huge new British howitzer, designed to outclass the German "Black Marias" Mother.

The London Morning Post publishes an interesting letter from an officer in the Royal Garrison Artillery at the front giving a most interesting account of the manner in which the British have succeeded in countering the formidable attacks of the German "Black Marias." This no doubt helps to explain a good deal that has happened lately in Belgium. The letter is dated so recently as November 20, and is as follows:

"I have just come from a five-mile ride, and as a foot of snow covers the ground and a north-east wind is blowing, I need not apologise for my handwriting. Things are going well with us still, and the optimistic outlook still flourishes amongst us. The Germans have raised four new Army Corps of sorts, but their attacks have in each case, been repulsed with considerable, or rather enormous, losses. 'Round Ypres the fighting still continues in severity, and out of a division of the Germans, consisting chiefly of the Prussian Guard, a mere handful remains. We have this on unimpeachable authority. A German full-strength division consists of something like 18,000 men, and now not 10,000 remain.

The infantry immediately in front of us have not fought any German greatly in age the limits being about The prisoners we are taking vary gratly in age, the limits being about eighteen to sixty and even sixty-five. Most of them seem absolutely fed-up with the fighting, and evidently news is beginning to leak through of German reverses in the eastern theatre of war. It leaks through slowly, however, as one German who was captured evinced the utmost chagrin when he was told that our fleet had not, up to the present, been destroyed by the German fleet, and that to the best of our knowledge London was not in the hands of his countrymen. It was almost pathetic to see his change of front when he was finally convinced of our statements.

"Our artillery is being gradually reinforced, and we are able now to reply to the German heavy howitzers with shell that is even weighter than their much-vaunted Black Maria. The howitzer I refer to is 'Mother.' She is of matronly dimensions, but comely withal, and has done excellent work while she has been with us, and more than one of her family of field batteries scattered round the front owes its existence to the attention 'Mother' has devoted to the German eight-inch, heavy howitzers. Mother's shell weighs 300 pounds. She ranges most accurately, and, indeed, she has had four direct hits on German guns in the past fortnight. A direct hit is only recorded by the airman when the shell actually strikes the enemy's gun. "Mother" is usually accompanied by "Archibald," which is one of the newer anti-aeroplane guns. "Archie" is usually mounted on a motor-lorry, and yesterday brought down a Taube aeroplane, much to our delight. He fires a 13-lb. shrapnel shell and is daily becoming more expert in his attentions to hostile aircraft. Our five-inch battery is still doing its good work, and is constantly keeping hostile batteries quiet.

After a hostile battery had been shelled a short time ago our airman reported next day that only four of the six German guns had been moved to a new position, so that it appeared that the other two, which had been left behind were of no further use."

The Goverment And Agriculture

Special to the Examiner.

GUELPH, Dec. 12. — Sympathy with the agricultural intrests of the Province and with the Winter Fair in its need for new accommodation, was expressed by Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., at the poultry men's dinner, here. Hon. Mr. Duff, who preceded Mr. Rowell, roused the interest of his hearers to a keen pitch by saying that he was about to make an official announcement which he felt would greatly gratify the people of the Province. Everyone thought that he was about to say that the Government at last was going to build the new arena for the Winter Fair, but in this they were mistaken, for Mr. Duff's announcement was to the effect that the British fleet had destroyed the German warships in the outh Atlantic. Mr. Rowell agreed that this victory was most gratifying, but remarked, amid cheers, that he, himself, had hoped that the announcement promised by Mr. Duff was going to be that the Government would assist the Winter Fair and thus encourage agriculture throughout the Province. He was disappointed that the Government was not going ahead with this work. The Opposition would be pleased to co-operate with the Government in this or any other development affecting the agricultural interests of the Province.

Mr. Duff felt that the Provincial Government was doing as well as could be expected and made no promise for the future.

William Smith, M.P., of South Ontario, the President, criticised the Government for the lack of accommodation at the Fair, and was glad to hear from the Leader of the Opposition that he was prepared to co-operate with the Government along these lines. William McNeil, Past President, also felt that the Government was not doing what they should in the intrests of the farmers of Ontario, by neglecting the development needed the Fair.

Nickel Crucible Steel The Secret of Krupp Success

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 10.—It has been suggested in well informed circles that the resolution of inquiry proposed by Representative Gardner, of Massechusetts, with regard to the preparedness of this country to engage in war might profitably include an investigation into the relative merits of American artillery and Krupp gun.

It is well known here that Krupp ordnance is built up from crucible nickel steel, and despite contentions to the contrary, it is maintained that Krupp crucible nickel steel is unequalled in the world. This fact is appreciated by many American manufacturers, who make a practice of importing Krupp crucible nickel steel for use in working parts of machinery where there are abnormally large stress demands.

As late as 1909 Krupp was supplying some of the private builders of British warships with crank shafts. This work was largely in connection with torpedo boat destroyers when the indicated horse power installed in single graft approximated 10,000.

It is a well known saying in the Essen shops that such a thing as a broken or fractured Krupp crucible nickel steel shaft has never been known. When one considers the frequency, one may almost say, with which shafts have broken in some of the heavy ships of the United States navy in the last few years the facts with relation to the Krupp equipment become almost startling.

Burst Krupp Guns Unheard Of.

Still another assertion is made at Essen and made with a calmness born of conviction, namely, that such a thing as a burst Krupp crucible nickel steel gun, using service charges, has never been known. Krupp has burst guns on the Meppen range, it is declared, but such guns were marked for destruction, and the bursting was a part of the experimentation work of Krupp engineers.

The Essen works of Fried. Krupp employ under normal conditions about twenty-eight thousand men. The total number of employees in all the Krupp plants is about sixty-three thousand. Gun construction is confined to Essen. In addition the Essen shops turn out armour plate, steel rails, steel tires for railway wheels, heavy forgings for ships, and engine parts. Crucible nickel steel is used in al gun work and also for shafting and heavy duty engine parts.

The crucible nickel steel department is only one branch of the great Essen establishment. It is also the one part of the Essen shops to which callers are never admitted. Krupp once informed an American, to whom every courtesy was being shown, that he regretted that the rule with reference to the crucible nickel steel department could not be set aside, for, said the iron master, "even if you saw the progress in vogue you could not utilize it in America because you have not the experience nor the organization."

The Krupp attitude with reference to artillery is summed up in a statement heard so often at Essen and which is the crux of the situation, "that unless Krupp is at all times five or six years ahead of every other gun making establishment in the world, he is not Krupp."

The German government maintains no ordnance bureau as in the United States. Krupp relieves the government of that expense. Krupp builds for the world and for any country so long as that country is not at war, and when Germany herself wants guns the order is put in to Krupp in the same manner as one would order a suit of clothes of his tailor.

The German government has never attempted to define or limit the Essen works. Whenever it has been deemed necessary to rebattery the army Krupp has done it, and the latest model gun has always been at the disposal first of all of Germany.

All Guns Logically Developed.

To better understand conditions at Krupp's it should be borne in mind that whatever Krupp has accomplished is the result of logical development. The gun of 1912 model is a logical development over the 1911 model, and the 1914 model is a logical development, step by step, to the present day.

Krupp Experiments; He Does Not Test.

Herein lies the all important difference between methods in vogue in Germany and abroad. In this connection it is related by a well informed man that when the question of supplying the world fire field guns for the United States army came up, some years ago, Krupp was invited to send a field piece to Sandy Hook for test in company with guns of other makes.

Krupp declined, it is said, the Essen offices taking the position that no test of whatever description or sort at Sandy Hook or anywhere else could exceed the experiment record at Meppen and that these records were open to inspection.

Krupp, it is understood, was asked if he would sell a field piece, but this, too, it is said, he declined. Krupp was willing to sell an entire battery of six field guns, with caissons, limbers and accessories, everything complete except men and horses, but nothing less than a full battery. The purchase was not made.

Following the invitation above related, Krupp, without saying a word, took the specifications as laid down by the United States authorities and proceeded to build a gun of crucible nickel steel. The Krupp standard field gun is of 75 millimetres (2.95-inch.) The United States specified a 3-inch gun. Krupp built a 3-inch gun.

Specifications Carefully Drawn Up.

The United States specifications were most carefully drawn up, specifying the maximum weight behind horses, the width between wheels, the number of rounds carried and minute details concerning construction. The initial velocity which the gun was expected to show was stated, and it was specified that the chamber pressures should be within prescribed figures. Finally the gun was called upon to yield an efficient shrapnel range of not less than—let us say 8,500 yards.

The effective range of shrapnel is that range at which the striking energy of the small bullets of the shrapnel when released is sufficient to knock over men and horses. This range is dependent on the muzzle velocity of the shrapnel shell, and the greater the muzzle velocity the greater the range of the projectile. The velocity of the shrapnel bullets when released by the bursting open of the shrapnel walls is the remaining velocity of the projectile, and this remaining velocity should be sufficient to yield 700 foot pounds of energy to the shrapnel balls.

If the muzzle velocity of the field gun is to be increased in order to increase the shrapnel range it means heavier powder charges, stronger guns to resist heightened chamber pressures and stronger and heavier carriages, all of which spells weight, and any increase in weight spells a lessening of mobility.

Krupp, using cricible nickel steel, built a 3-inch gun to meet the American specifications, and the Essen engineers knew at once when they glanced over the specifications that in the weights permitted they could turn out a formidable gun.

When the gun was finished they invited the United States to send an ordnance officer to Essen, and a lieutenant colonel of ordnance was sent.

Great Range Developed.

The gun was fired in his presence, and every shot was carefuly recorded. The Krupp 3-inch piece built to American specifications and well within the weight prescribed, instead of showing a 8,500 yard effective shrapnel range, yielded for every shot an effective shrapnel fire of more than six thousand yards.

On the carriage as then used, 1908, Krupp could never have obtained more than six thousand yards shrapnel range save for crucible nickel steel. It is said that the United States representative who witnessed the firing recommended that the United States purchase without delay Krupp equipment.

This was not done, since the policy of the country has always been firmly set against making purchases abroad, but not long afterward several field guns were purchased from Erhardt, of Dusseldorf, under general authority, it is said, which permitted at the time of the purchase of a limited amount of war material abroad for experimental purposes. Erhardt has since been absorbed by Krupp.

The effective shrapnel range of American field guns of to-day, it is said, approximates six thousand yards, so that the discrepancy that existed in 1908 is not to be taken as a present day standard, but it is noteworthy that, while this range is standard now, Krupp was affording these ranges under American specifications as long as twelve years ago. If Krupp was so far ahead of the day in 1908, is it not to be wondered, it is asked, that Krupp equipment should have startled the world with its efficiency in the present war?

The advantage of Krupp crucible nickel steel is in its structural qualities—in other words, its uniformity and lightness. There is so called crucible nickel steel made in many places, but none, so far as is known, that affords the ordinary guarantees of Krupp.

Saves Weight on Board Vessels.

The advantage of Krupp crucible nickel steel is conspicuous when it comes to the batteries of ships of war. The saving in weight in guns can be put into other equipment, and may even permit of an additional size in calibre being carried in a position where ordinary weight restrictions would prohibit.

Krupp has been using brass cases in 11-inch navy guns for the last twelve years. The case and projectile are separate, and the loading is by means of electrically worked rammers, but long ago Krupp solved the problem of solid drawn brass cases for large calibres.

It is a question whether the brass cases for the heavy guns is a real advantage. Many American officers think otherwise. The Krupp engineers maintain that the brass cases obviate the use of powder tanks and that there is less delay than is occasioned in transporting powder from the tanks.

On the other hand it is recognized that the brass cases are a nuisance, perhaps, after firing, but that arrangements are possible for their quick removal. Krupp has for many years now employed only powder fibre bags, that is to say, bags made of powder fibre. There is no danger, therefore, from burning fragments in the gun after a discharge, as from bag particles. Krupp further maintains that the wedge block which is typical of Krupp guns eleminates all danger from a premature discharge before the breech is closed. The gun which Krupp built to American specifications, however, contained a screw block of the American type.

LIEUT. PARKER IS DEAD

Assistant Canadian Red Cross Chief Dies of Congestion of the Lungs

LONDON, Dec. 14.—News of the death of Lieut. E. W. Parker, assistant commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, taking place so soon after the death of Col. Burland, who first came here to direct the Red Cross work, will cause a painful sensation although the bulletins regarding his condition have prepared his friends for such a contingency. Lieut. Parker passed away at the Hotel Cecil late Saturday afternoon in the presence of his sister, Lady Drummond. The cause of death was congestion of the lungs. Lieut. Parker came over with Col. Hodgetts, who succeeded Col. Burland six weeks ago, and about a fortnight ago went to Liverpool as superintendent of removal of Red Cross supplies and also to meet Lady Drummond. He caught a severe chill and took to bed immediately. Mrs. Parker only recently made arrangements to sail with their children to join her husband in England for the winter.

ANNUAL MEETING ST. PAUL'S WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Receipts For The Year Amounted to $1,264.50 —Interesting Address by Mrs. Griffith of Honan, China—Officers Elected for The Ensuing Year—The 38th Annual Report.

The thirty-eighth annual meeting of St. Paul's Church Women's Missionary Society was held on Friday afternoon last in the lecture room of the church. There was a large attendance including a number of visitors from other churches. Miss Dickson presided, and after devotional exercises the various reports were present. These show satisfactory progress.

The financial statement presented by Mrs. Kee, the treasurer, shows the year's total receipts to be $1,264.50.

Was Reorganized.

The Fraser Mission Band report was read by Mrs. E. Moore. The year's receipts amount to $226.36, and the Junior Mission Band lately reorganized contributed $35.50. The president in her annual address emphasized the urgency of the work, and gave a strong appeal for more faithful service.

Mrs. Griffith, of Honan, who with her husband, Dr. Griffith, has laboured in the mission field since 1901, gave a most interesting address describing the country and reviewing the work in which they had been engaged. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker on motion of Mrs. Roger, seconded by Mrs. W. H. Hill.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Dickson; hon. vice-president, Mrs. Robt. Innis; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Roger; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Pogue; secretary, Mrs. Harstone; treasurer, Mrs. McKee; Literature secretary, Miss Laura Davidson; stranger's secretary, Miss Fanny Dixon; librarian, Miss Ferguson; organist, Mrs. Logan; executive, Mrs. Kayes, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. Shook, Mrs. Munro, Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. Connal.

1914 Annual Report.

The 38th annual report of St. Paul's Women's Missionary Society was submitted as follows:

To the President and Members of St. Paul's W. M. S.:

In presenting the 38th annual record of this auxiliary, we desire to express gratitude to the Great King and Head of the Church for His manifest presence and guidance enabling us to report that substantial progress characterizes the work of the year just closed.

Meetings have been held regularly throughout the year on the second Friday of each month with the exception of August, the average attendance being 50, about the same as last year.

At our annual meeting held last December, Mrs. McClure, who had laboured in China for more than 25 years, gave a splendid address on the transformation now taking place in that country. Meeting with our missionaries from time to time is a very great benefit, bringing us into close personal touch with the work as well as the workers.

Efficient Prayer.

The "Day of Special Prayer" for all missionary work was observed at our January meeting. We consider that the most important meeting of the year, when all unite in earnest supplication for God's guidance and blessing, helping each one to lay hold of that inner force or prayer spirit which is the real source of efficient service, and the power that prevails.

The literature secretary reports 105 subscribers to the "Missionary Messenger," our magazine in its new form. We regret to report a slight decrease and would urge all members to renew their subscriptions as it now contains all of the missionary intelligence given in three separate magazines before the amalgamation.

The "Interior" was again sent to our missionaries in India, and the "Missionary Review" taken for the use of this auxiliary.

The text-book "The King's Business," formed the basis of study for the first six months.

The April meeting was of a special character on account of being the last time we should meet as an auxiliary of the W.F.M.S., while we realize that the union which has been consummated marks a great advance in Presbyterian mission work, which has outgrown all distinctions and limitations. We never come to the last time without a feeling of sadness. A pleasant feature of this meeting was the presentation of a certificate of life-membership to Mrs. Pogue by the members. We are pleased to report another life-member this years, Mrs. Robt. Hall.

A Late Member.

Our total membership remains about the same. This fact compels our earnest consideration, when we think of the magnitude of the work in which we are engaged. The question is often asked—"Why is it that so many of our women are not interested in missions?" May we each strive for a clearer realization of our duty and privilege.

This year we mourn the loss of a beloved fellow-worker, the late Mrs. Bickle, and we desire to extend sincere sympathy to the bereaved friends.

At the May meeting reports of the Presbyterial meeting held in Port Hope were given by a number of ladies who were in attendance.

At the June meeting Mrs. Robt. Hall gave a report of the 29th and final annual meeting of the W.F.M.S. held in Toronto from May 12th to 15th; also a report of the Amalgamation service which took place during the forenoon of Friday (15th), in Knox Church. This historic event was most impressive and will long remain with those who were privileged to be present.

New Constitution.

Owing to the amalgamation it was necessary at this meeting to reorganize our society and elect officers under the new constitution. As there was no "Home Missionary Society" in connection with St. Paul's Church, it was moved, seconded and carried, that the officers and executive of the W.F.M.S. be now the officers of the W.M.S. In accordance with the new constitution the Stranger's Department has been added to the work, and Mrs. Keyes was appointed secretary.

The request for Northwest supplies met with the usual response, and a bale containing clothing for a boy 16 years of age, and other supplies, was sent to Alberni Boarding School, also a cash contribution of $8.40.

The Thank-Offering meeting held in October was addressed by Miss Drummond, of Newcastle, and Mrs. Keith, of Knox Church. Both addresses were full of helpful suggestions and much enjoyed by all present. The contents of envelopes handed in at this meeting amounted to $705.80. We feel this offering to be a tangible expression of the interest taken in the work, and desire to express our deep appreciation of the generous loyalty of all who have contributed to this fund, especially at the present time when we, in Canada, as part of the British Empire, are engaged in the saddest of conflicts, and irresistible appeals come to each one of us to aid the sick, the suffering, and the needy to which we, as Christian woman, must respond.

Serious Conditions.

As we enter a new year and a new era in our work we face serious conditions, owing to the distress of war, financial depression and the call of duty, to which the whole Empire has responded, while Christian charity is manifest as never before. But there must be no slackening of missionary interest. The work must be upheld.

Mrs. Steele, our president, says that the success of the Union will rest most heavily on auxiliaries and bands. This means the co-operation of the many, not the planing of the few.

Under the guidance of the Holy Spirit may we realize that these are days of splendid opportunity when every woman can give of her noblest and best service to Christ and her country.—P. Harstone, St. Paul's W.M.S.

Even Chronic Bedridden Cases Are Quickly Cured

RUB ON MAGIC "NERVILINE"

Nothing on earth can beat good old "Nerviline" when it comes to curing rheumatism.

The blessed relief you get from Nerviline comes mighty quick, and you don't have to wait a month for some sign of improvement.

You see Nerviline is a direct application; it is rubbed right into the sore joint, thoroughly rubbed over the twitching muscle that perhaps for years has kept you on the jump. In this way you get to the real source of the trouble. After you have used Nerviline just once you'll say it's amazing, a marvel, a perfect wonder Just think of it, five times stronger and more penetrating than any other known liniment. Soothing, healing, full of pain-destroying power, and yet it will never burn, blister or destroy the tender skin of even a child.

You've never yet tried anything half as good as Nerviline for any sort of pain. It does cure rheumatism, but that's not all. Just test it out for lame back or lumbago. Gee, what a right fine cure it is for a bad cold, for chest tightness, even for neuralgia headache it is simply the finest ever.

For the home, for the hundred and one little ailments that constantly arise, whether ear-ache, toothache, stiff neck or some other muscular pain—Nerviline will always make you glad you've used it, and because it will cure you, keep handy on the shelf a 50c family size bottle; it keeps the doctor's bill small; trial size, 25c. all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., [illegible]

Germans Did Lay Mines on Swedish Coast, Say Officials.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 14.—(Via London.)—The Swedish Minister of Foreign Affairs yesterday gave out a statement with regard to the recent sinking of three Swedish steamers as the result of striking mines in the Gulf of Bothnia.

"The Germans," the Foreign Minister says, "declare that the mines were Russian, as no German minelaying had been done up to the time of the disaster. Official investigations made by Finland, disclose that several groups of anchored mines were German and not Russian, and that they had been laid during the war in the Gulf of Bothnia."

No floating mines, it was stated, had been found.

REV. F. J. SAWERS, M.A., ACCEPTS THE RECTORSHIP OF COBOURG

Announces His Decision at St. Luke's Yesterday Morning

TO TAKE EFFECT FEB. 1st

At the Morning service at St. Luke's Church, yesterday, the Rector, Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., announced his acceptance of St. Peter's Church, Cobourg, the resignation to take effect about February 1st. Mr. Sawers has been Rector of St. Luke's for the past three years and seven months, and during that time has done magnificent work in building up a large congregation and instilling enthusiasm into its members to carry to a successful conclusion the various enterprises of the Church. It is with feelings of the keenest regret and sorrow that the people of St. Luke's learned of their Rector's decision, the relations between Pastor and congregation being of the happiest character. However, the call from Cobourg is an urgent one and presents a great opportunity for a man of Rev. Mr. Sawers' ability and talents.

The people of Peterborough, generally, will be sorry to hear of Mr. Sawers' contemplated removal from their midst. Since his residence here he has taken a lively interest in all matters appertaining to the City's good. He is held in the highest respect and esteem by all classes and denominations.

St. Peter's Church, Cobourg, is one of the most important in the Diocese of Toronto, and it is a signal honour to Rev. Mr. Sawers that he should be the unanimous choice of the congregation.

REV. F. J. SAWERS, M.A., Resigns as Rector of St. Luke's Church, to go to Cobourg.

CITY HALL PARAGRAPHS

The increase in assessment for 1915 will amount to $1,326,541. The revenue accruing to the City from this amount, based on a twenty-six mill rate, will amount to approximately 35,000. The total assessment for 1915 is $11,322,985. Last year's assessment equalled $10,196,364

REDUCTD TO RANKS

Charles Thomas Fish, ex-chief of police at Ingersoll, and the man whose reappointment to the London police force as a plain-clothesman caused such a stir in police circles, is now patrolling a beat. He was ordered to uniform duty by Chief W. T. T. Williams after the storm of protest that was started by the other members of the department. No one has yet been appointed to take Fish's place on the plain clothes squad.

MEEETINGS TO-NIGHT.

The Finance Committee of the City Council, also the Power Committee, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock. The Central Charity Board will meet at 7.45 o'clock.

WILL RE-BUILD.

As a result of being rendered homeless by the fire which destroyed the Sarnia City Hall early yesterday the city officials are hard at work making various departments. Another building will be built shortly.

THE MOTOR TRUCK.

At a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, the majority of the members expressed their satisfaction of the work accomplished by the motor chemical truck. It is the consensus of opinion that such a truck should be purchased by the City. It has been long recommended by the inspector of the Underwriters' Association, and would have a tendency to lower insurance rates.

$12,000 SUBSCRIBED.

Contributions for the Hespeler patriotic fund amount to nearly $12,000. This response by the citizens of Hespeler was away beyond what any one in Hespeler expects. The population of Hespeler is about 2,600.

Will Lecture On Persia

Mr. Absolom Kochaly, B.A., of the district of Media, Persia, is in the city for a few days and will give an illustrated lecture to-night in Murray Street Baptist church on the life and habits of the Persian people. Mr. Kochaly came to Canada seven years ago, and since then has taken a full course in Arts and Theology at McMaster University. A year or so ago Mr. Kochaly through a cousin of his in Persia, opened up a couple of Christian schools among the Mohommedans, and he aims to extend Christian education throughout the district of Media. At present conditions are much disturbed around Mr. Kocholy's home on account of the fat that the Turks and Kurds are devastating the country in their march to Russia. Mr. Kochaly is a personal friend of Mr. Joseph Wearing, who was instrumental in persuading him to go through McMaster University in preparation for his work in Persia. All are welcome to the lecture to-night. A silver collection will be taken up.

SERVIANS DEFEAT THE AUSTRIANS

After Defeat at Hands of Servians the Enemy Retired Across the Drina Only to Receive a Second Defeat From Montenegrins

LONDON, Dec. 14. — The marvellous recovery of the Servians and their defeat of four Austrian army corps, which had penetrated half way across Servia, remains the wonder of military men. The Crown Prince, in an address to his troops, told them that they had "beaten and pursued the enemy with a rapidity unheard of in military history."

The shattered Austrian right wing crossed the Drina into Bosnia, where it was attacked by the Montenegrins near Visbegrad, and had to leave another toll of prisoners, killed and wounded, and war material. The pursuing Servians also picked up another 5,000 prisoners and some guns and munitions.

The Austrian army from Belgrade has again essayed attacks against the Servian right wing, but, meeting with no success, retired. It is unofficially reported that the Austrians are preparing to leave Belgrade.

A despatch from Paris says:—

Georges Clemenceau, former Premier of France, stated yesterday:

"I learned that Austria has twice asked Servia to agree to peace. The source of my information is such that I defy anyone to contradict it.

"A shuddering apprehension for the near future must have seized upon Berlin and Vienna for that proud empire to supplicate little Servia for peace."

The French War Office official statement says regarding the Servian campaign:—

"The extreme Servian left wing pursuing the enemy has forced him to recross the Drina near Baina Basta. On the remainder of the front the Servian armies continue to drive back the Austrians to the north and northwest."

Vienna Admits Defeat.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 14—(Via London.)—A semi-official statement issued in Vienna yesterday, deprecates the reports of extensive Servian victories, explaining that strong Servian forces made necessary "the regrouping of our Balkan army and the retirement of our right wing."

"The Servian telegrams," this statement adds, "also exaggerate considerably our losses."

KAISER IS RECOVERING

Illness is Not Serious, But an Operation May Be Necessary

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 14. — (Via London.) — Emperor William has made so much progress towards recovering his health, telegrams received here yesterday from Berlin state, that he will be able to leave the capital this week for the battlefront.

To Undergo Operation.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 14.—A report received at Basel from Berlin said that Emperor William will be obliged to undergo an operation of the throat when he has sufficiently recovered from his present illness, which is not considered serious.

The doctors, however, consider that it would be inadvisable for his majesty to return to the front for several weeks and he probably will spend Christmas at home.

Crown Prince Frederick William, the report from the capital says, has arrived in Berlin.

To prevent poultry climbing into their food and fouling it a feeding trough covered with a metal screen has been patented.

FRENCH WIN DECISIVE VICTORY OVER GERMANS

French Troops Are Clearing Line of Advance on Metz—Gen. French's Men Are Victorious in Hard Fighting at Ypres—Triumph of Allies at Forest and La Pretre is Long Step Towards Forcing the German Army Corps to Leave St. Mihiel.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—That the French have won a decisive victory over the German troops in the forest of La Pretre was the news conveyed in an official communique yesterday afternoon. The fighting had been proceeding in that portion of eastern France for a number of days, and on Saturday hurled the full force of their columns against the Kaiser's troops, compelling them to leave their hitherto strong military positions and hasten northwards.

The French movement in the forest of Le Pretre is in accord with their general scheme of causing the isolation of the German army corps at St. Mihiel and the securing of points of vantage for the march on Metz.

It is also reported that the British checked three charges of German infantry southeast of Ypres.

The Germans were ineffective in their attacks upon the French fortified line in the passes leading to German territory.

Both the French and the German official reports refer to Saturday as a quiet day. They contain evidence, however, that the allies' offensive movement is beginning to gather impetus and is meeting with stubborn resistance from the German troops, who have been left to hold the western line while their comrades are battling with the Russians in the east.

Fighting of an exceedingly desperate character, which may prove the early stages of one of the greatest battles of the war, has been taking place during the latter portion of the week along the line east of Ypres and Armentieres.

The allies and the enemy face each other in immense force in this district, for both sides seem to realize the strategic importance of the ground which lies between the Yser and the Lys.

Success has attended both the Germans and the French in turn, but the losses of the enemy have been far greater, and the French, in places, have gained slight advantage.

This is particularly noteworthy when it is considered that the Germans on Thursday attacked in overwhelming force time after time. Their movement was concentrated on the line of trenches not far from the village of Dichebusch, which was not particularly strongly held by the French.

A terrific prelude to the attack was made by the German artillery which concentrated a furious shrapnel fire on the French position. At this point the trenches of the Germans were only seventy yards away, and for fear of hitting their own men the enemy's artillery aimed fairly high, so the Frenchmen in the rear trenches suffered the most heavily. Those in the front trenches were huddled against the sides while the storm raged over them.

The French 75-millimetre guns raked the German batteries in answer, and things were becoming very hot when the German infantrymen became active. From the trenches seventy yards away a shower of hand grenades came bowling over towards the French trench. Many very short, but a few did some damage. Hardly the second plague came to an end when part of the trenches climbed a wave of Germans rushing furiously towards the Frenchmen.

At last the men in that first trench had something to do. They jumped to the loopholes and blazed a fierce magazine fire into the raging, tearing attack. Every bullet seemed to find a mark. It hardly could have done otherwise at such a range. The advancing tide wavered, stumbled and then swept onward again.

There was no time for the Frenchmen to reload their rifles. They climbed out of the trench and met the Germans with the bayonet. The German guns were still rearing to prevent the arrival of French reinforcements, but the reinforcements quickly came to the relief of the few Frenchmen who still struggle sturdily with the enemy.

Eventually the Germans who survived the attack turned and bolted back to their trenches with the Frenchmen at their heels.

The following official communication was issued by the French War Office on Sunday night:

"It is announced that two German attacks at the two extremes of the front have failed. One was to the northeast of Ypres and the other against the railway station at Aspach (Alsace)."

An important advance by the French troops in the forest of La Pretre, in France, and the repulse of three violent German infantry attacks to the southeast of Ypres, Belgium, were the outstanding features of the French official communication issued Sunday afternoon. The text of the statement reads:

"The day of Dec. 12 was particularly quiet. The enemy's activity was shown especially by an intermittent cannonade at different points on the front. In the region to the southeast of Ypres there were ventured, however, three violent infantry attacks, which were repulsed.

"In the woods of La Pretre we have made important progress.

"In the Vosges the enemy has attacked on various occasions the post of La Mere Henri to the northwest of Senones, but was repulsed."

RUSSIANS DRIVE GERMANS BACK TO THE FRONTIER

Contending Armies in Poland Fight Day and Night, With Advantage to Slav Armies—Battle Continues at Cracow, Where Russians Have Taken Prisoners.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 14. — A statement from the Russian General Staff says:

"In the Miawa region we have brought our offensive to a successful conclusion on the whole of the front.

"On the 12th instant we captured a German position in the region of Prasnysz and Tsekhanoff, and chased the retreating enemy towards his frontier.

"In this district also our cavalry made a special charge and inflicted very heavy losses upon the enemy.

"On the front of Lowicz-Llow the Germans, clinging stubbornly to the attack, suffered important losses at the hands of our troops, who captured in this region another position to the north of the Bzura river.

"In the other regions on the left bank of the Vistula nothing has occurred but unimportant encounters.

"To the south of Cracow the situation is unchanged. The battle there continues.

"In the Carpathians our troops and the Austrians continue their manoeuvres."

The following official despatch has been issued: On the 10th and 11th furious German attacks on the front at Lowicz were continued night and day, and were repulsed with enormous losses to the Germans. The Russians counter-attacked with the bayonet. On the left bank of the Vistula there was cross-firing in some places, when the Germans receded from the Russian lines.

In an obstinate battle south of Cracow on the 10th the Russians took four guns and seven machine-guns, and 4,000 prisoners. The battle continued on the 11th. In the Carpathian passes at Donayets and Balligard considerable Austrian forces are attempting a forward movement.

The Army Messenger, the official organ of the Russian War Office, yesterday, concerning the operations on the southern front, says that the Austrians were heavily reinforced by German troops, it is stated, and directed an energetic attack upon the Russian lines. They were repulsed, and the check was then turned into a hasty and disorderly flight. Five batteries were captured, and an entire column of armored motor cars taken.

After a battle of prime importance south of Cracow, in the Carpathians, the Russians now have a broad solid line pressing towards the southeastern salient of the Kaiser's province of Silesia. The calculations of the German staff, which succeeded the Archduke Frederick in command of the German armies south of Cracow, are now believed to be completely upset.

Supplying some of the details of these operations, the correspondent of The Daily News at Petrograd, telegraphs:

"Gen. von Hindenburg directed the Austrians to form a new army of all the available troops beyond the Carpathians, with the addition of two divisions brought from Servia, and attack the Russian left flank. The Russians, he believed, would be compelled to fight simultaneously on two fronts, the Austrians in the south combined with the Germans and Austrians in the west. But the Russians linked up their columns on the southern slopes of the Carpathians with a corps on the extreme left and turned the left front upon the Austrians, inflicting an irreparable defeat.

"Thus failed, Field Marshal von Hindenburg was thrown upon the only alternative of a heavy positional battle on difficult broken ground.

"The Russians never have lost their grip on Cracow from the northeast. The operations there are developing favorably with diminishing resistance by Gen. Danky's depleted army.

"The Germans have been almost as unsuccessful in their efforts in north Poland, and have been thrown back by the Russians upon the River Narew. A desperate night attack failed partly through the Russians changing their position and delivering an attack on the right flank of the German infantry which, advancing in close masses upon an open space, was trapped by land mines. The Germans also suffered severely from shrapnel in the darkness. The Russians on the following morning shot down and captured a German airship of the "Albatross" type.

Save Her the Trouble.

A mother sent this somewhat satirical note to the teacher of her small son:

"Pardon me for calling your attention to the fact that you have pulled Johnnie's right ear until it is getting longer than the other. Please pull his left ear for a while and oblige his mother."

NO CLUE TO THE MYSTERY

Suspects Held in Stone Murder Case Are Set Free

WHITBY, Dec. 14.—The two Connor brothers who were being held as suspects for the murder of William Stone, the G. T. R. agent at Whitby, were released on Saturday on the positive evidence of the crew of the freight from which they were captured, that they had been seen at Oshawa at the time Stone must have been shot.

C. A. Macdonald, the man who collected the car orders outside the ticket office in Whitby twenty minutes after the shooting occurred, declares that the ticket office light was out, and it would have been impossible for him to have seen young Stone lying on the floor, which statement was proved at a test held on Friday night.

Leslie Cormack, the Bell telephone night operator, declares that Stone made three telephone calls after being shot. The first time he asked Cormack for Chief MacGrotty, saying: "Get the chief, quick; I've been shot." Stone evidently hung up the receiver, as the connection was broken. Cormack called Chief MacGrotty and called Stone again at the station, asking the question: "Who shot you?" "I don't know," came Stone's reply, and again he hung up the receiver. The last time Chief MacGrotty answered the phone, and Cormack, who had cut in on the line, heard Stone's voice say faintly "hello!"

Detectives and private investigators working on the case seem to be up against a blank wall. The lack of motive and the peculiar evidence in the form of blood smears on the ticket rack only serve to make the case more and more confusing.

Meant Well.

REV. F. J. SAWERS, M.A., ACCEPTS THE RECTORSHIP OF COBOURG

Announces His Decision at St. Luke's Yesterday Morning

TO TAKE EFFECT FEB. 1st

At the Morning service at St. Luke's Church, yesterday, the Rector, Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., announced his acceptance of St. Peter's Church, Cobourg, the resignation to take effect about Febtruary 1st. Mr. Sawers has been Rector of St. Luke's for the past three years and seven months, and during that time has done magnificent work in building up a large congregation and instilling enthusiasm into its members to carry to a successful conclusion the various enterprises of the Church. It is with feelings of the keenest regret and sorrow that the people of St. Luke's learned of their Rector's decision, the relations between Pastor and congregation being of the happiest character. However, the call from Cobourg is an urgent one and presents a great opportunity for a man of Rev. Mr. Sawers' ability and talents.

The people of Peterborough, generally, will be sorry to hear of Mr. Sawers' contemplated removal from their midst. Since his residence here he has taken a lively interest in all matters appertaining to the City's good. He is held in the highest respect and esteem by all classes and denominations.

St. Peter's Church, Cobourg, is one of the most important in the Diocese of Toronto, and it is a signal honour to Rev. Mr. Sawers that he should be the unanimous choice of the congregation.

REV. F. J. SAWERS, M.A., Resigns as Rector of St. Luke's Church, to go to Cobourg.

CITY HALL PARAGRAPHS

The increase in assessment for 1915 will amount to $1,326,541. The revenue accruing to the City from this amount, based on a twenty-six mill rate, will amount to approximately 35,000. The total assessment for 1915 is $11,522,995. Last year's assessment equalled $10,196,364.

REDUCTD TO RANKS.

Charles Thomas Fish, ex-chief of police at Ingersoll, and the man whose reappointment to the London police force as a plain-clothesman caused such a stir in police circles, is now patrolling a beat. He was ordered to uniform duty by Chief W. T. T. Williams after the storm of protest that was started by the other members of the department. No one has yet been appointed to take Fish's place on the plain clothes squad.

MEEETINGS TO-NIGHT.

The Finance Committee of the City Council, also the Power Committee, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock. The Central Charity Board will meet at 7.45 o'clock.

WILL RE-BUILD.

As a result of being rendered homeless by the fire which destroyed the Sarnia City Hall early yesterday the city officials are hard at work making arrangements for quarters for the various departments. Another building will be built shortly.

THE MOTOR TRUCK.

At a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, the majority of the members expressed their satisfaction of the work accomplished by the motor chemical truck. It is the consensus of opinion that such a truck should be purchased by the City. It has been long recommended by the inspector of the Underwriters' Association, and would have a tendency to lower insurance rates.

$12,000 SUBSCRIBED.

Contributions for the Hespeler patriotic fund amount to nearly $12,000. This response by the citizens of Hespeler was away beyond what any one in Hespeler expects. The population of Hespeler is about 2,600.

Will Lecture On Persia

Mr. Absolom Kochaly, B.A., of the district of Media, Persia, is in the city for a few days and will give an illustrated lecture to-night in Murray Street Baptist church on the life and habits of the Persian people. Mr. Kochaly came to Canada seven years ago, and since then has taken a full course in Arts and Theology at McMaster University. A year or so ago Mr. Kochaly through a cousin of his in Persia, opened up a couple of Christian schools among the Mohommedans, and he aims to extend Christian education throughout the district of Media. At present conditions are much disturbed around Mr. Kocholy's home on account of the fat that the Turks and Kurds are devastating the country in their march to Russia. Mr. Kochaly is a personal friend of Mr. Joseph Wearing, who was instrumental in persuading him to go through McMaster University in preparation for his work in Persia. All are welcome to the lecture to-night. A silver collection will be taken up.

THE QUEEN'S CANADIAN MILITARY HOSPITAL FUND

The proceeds from the 'At Home' which was held at Mrs. Fisk's residence under the auspices of the Peterborough Progressive Club for the benefit of the Queen's Canadian Military Hospital amounted to $27.56; $7.10 of this amount was taken in at the candy table.

The Queen's Canadian Military Hospital, Shorncliffe, England, was formerly the country seat of Sir Arthur Markham. The house has been turned into an up-to-date hospital and Sir Arthur has provided an X-ray equipment. In connection with the hospital are convalescent homes. The doctors and nurses attached to the hospital are Canadians, with Sir William Osler as physician in chief, and Dr. Donald Armour chief surgeon. The hospital at present is filled with Belgian soldiers injured in the defence of Antwerp. When the Canadian contingent is sent to the front this hospital will be in readiness for the Canadian wounded.

The expenses in connection with the hospital are very great, and there are many urgent needs. The president of the Peterborough Progressive Club (Miss H. Peck), received a letter from Dr. Armour asking for the help of the Peterborough women, and stating that "anything that can be done on behalf of the hospital will be deeply appreciated."

It has been found that the best way to work for this hospital is through the Queen's Needlework Guild. Queen Mary, who takes a deep interest in the Queen's Canadian Military Hospital, has appointed Miss Merritt, of St. Catharines, to establish throughout Canada branches of the Queen's Needlework Guild, and the Queen desires that these branches work for the hospital. A committee has been formed in London to work in conjunction with the Canadian branches of the Guild and this committee, which includes among others Mrs. Perley, Mrs. Lewis Harcourt, Lady Strathcona and Lady Osler, will from month to month post the Canadian workers as to the requirements of the hospital.

The Peterborough Progressive Club contemplates asking Miss Merritt to come to Peterborough early in January to address the Peterborough women with the object of establishing a branch of the Queen's Needlework Guild here.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM FINANCE MINISTER

The following letter has been received by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P. The letter, which is self-explanatory, is from Hon. W. T. White, Finance Minister of Canada, who addressed a public meeting in the Opera House prior to the opening of the campaign to raist $50,000:

Dear Mr. Burnham,—"I have your letter and am greatly gratified at the splendid response to the appeal on behalf of the Canadian Patriotic Fund. The fine spirit and enthusiasm so evident in Peterborough, secured the attainment of the goal which you set out to reach. It is certainly a matter of congratulation that it is lakely to be so greatly exceeded. With kind regards. W. T. WHITE.

AFTERMATH OF T PATRIOTIC

Number of Articles Still to Be Sold--Big Effort--The Publicity Com teresting Details.

It is a feather in our cap to be able to state that on Saturday Mayor Buller received from the Duke of Connaught, the Governor-General, a telegram of congratulation on the success of the Patriotic Fund campaign. We are the people, only we are not quite sure of it

The Publicity committee hastens to correct an unintentional error appearing in last reports, and to extend apologies. From the reading of the paragraph it might be taken that the assortment of brushes that Mr. Knapman was dispensing at the auction, and which it was noted were "swiped" were the whole lot. No such thing. The loss is a personal one. John looked after the interests of the committee and sacrificed his own. It was a private pair that he had selected and paid for and set aside that were swiped. Anyway the cause is a good one, though the annexing was a heartless thing to do. And still we wonder at the increase of crime.

Money is still coming in. As this department has already stated there is always money in the country when the proper inducements are offered. Contributions from people who were out of town and many who were not called on. Several ladies expected to be called on and were not. For such lapses, apologies. Several of the unprotected canvassers hesitated to approach a house full of women, as there was the chance of possible controversy in which the ladies always take the last word. One canvasser was offered a five dollar bill, shaken at him through the glass. The head of the house had locked the front door and gone away with the key. He made his way through the back shed, summer kitchen and right into the reserves and came away with the money. Such is the reward of presence of mind.

A gift to the resources of the fund is that from Mrs. Amory, of 212 Hunter Street, in the form of a beautiful drawing in colours. Such as these Mrs. Amory creates and prepares for the decorative feature of the front covers of periodicals and magazines. The artist's work is most beautifully done and the drawing, in many colours, a gem. The committee will make an effort to place the drawing with some publisher, who can make use of it, the amount realized to go to the fund as a contribution from Mrs. Amory. Or it can be sold locally. Can be seen at the rooms.

The Publicity committee apologizes for less than justice to the press as a whole. In mentioning the contributions from the local newspapers that of the Morning Times was omitted. Twenty-five dollars. Sorry, friends, but some things are overlooked in the haste of debate.

Presently the Patriotic Fund activities will be a thing of the past. The memories of it will live for years. Taken all around the effect will be far reaching, in its bringing together of more than a hundred men never so intimately associated before. It has inculcated a fine spirit of comradeship that was wanting. Local movements we have had in the past pursued with a more or less desultory activity. Into these crept something of clique and class. A standing off of one because he had not been asked first. A feeling of indifference on the part of another assumed to have been overlooked. All these were swept aside.

Every one was welcomed. Having a definite plan and definite goal the end sought was attained. There were not too many bosses, a thing ever fatal to combined activity. Each one did the best he could and did that which he was asked to do, satisfied that some one was of the mind that that thing was the best for the moment to do.

It is true that all men are not approachable by any one at large. That matter received most carsful thought and consideration. If any prospective contributor had several immediate friends these were despatched to see him and press the claims of the movement. Almost invariably there was success. Men who meant to make a contribution in fifties and hundreds loosened up and doubled the amounts. They got another viewpoint, saw the fund from another ankle. If at all within means there came a response.

The Old Fair of the Home Guard had a narrow escape. You see the members of the Publicity committee while not saturated with the instincts of trade are of a commercial mind. They have realized, in this movement, that opportunity knocks at the door just "wunst." Now the thing to do, from a strategic point of view, and it is a ouder it has not been thought of before, is to go around by the back door, come along the side of the house and nab opport[illegible]y; just a sort of flank movement. [illegible]variably successful.

At the auction on Friday night it worked out this way. An enthusiastic Englishman offered twenty dollars "for that there flag," as a souvenir. In so good a cause the minds of the Publicity committee thought as one. So patriotic a wish should be met. Why, certainly. They decided to part with the flag for a twenty, and then hike down to Turner's and replace the banner with another perfectly good one for seven or eight dollars. The difference would be what F. D. Kerr would ca[illegible] he got h[illegible]

Only $20.00. N.B.—We have a sly, underhand, nefarious sort of bid, but it does not come up to the mark. Don't let the rug be sacrificed.

The Publicity committee hates to admit it, but it is becoming commercialized. Its ideals are being wrenched. It has to leave the realm of heroic effort and descend to the effort to sell a town lot. For goodness sake help us out.

This lot is one, the gift to the Fund from Mr. D. W. Dumble. It is well worth $700 as lots are selected. Up on the top of the rise of Aylmer Street. In a most eligible and probably will be very desirable neighborhood. Size 50 x 138 ft. Plenty of room for residence, garage, hen house and other extras. Backs up on the adjoining Fitzgerald property, long looked for to come into the market. It is there now—and so is our lot. Only we want to get there first. Fitzgerald can wait, will have to.

Think of it. This lot will in ten years have an historic value. It will be pointed out as the Patriotic Fund lot. The only piece of property in the city with such distinction. We are apt to look at such sentiment just now, with an idle eye. Historic value is a great asset. No nation reaches the heights of historic esteem and self-respect but through tribulation. Ten years from to-day all over the world, when men of international prominence gather to deliberate in the peace congresses of the world, hats will come off, first to Belgium, and afterwards to other countries. Belgium has won imperishable fame and historic value. The gates of all cities will fly open in honour to her sons, and the doors of all industries will welcome the men of the little fighting country. So some one should own this lot. Who will it be.

Look up the plan at the rooms. In every way desirable. The Fund credits Mr. Dumble with $5.00 on subscription. Bear that in mind when making bids. If purchaser desires a change for any of the lots in the same block, and available, reasonable choice allowed. Pay for it on easy terms. Conveyances free. There now.

These paragraphs are all advertising, but it can't be helped. The committee must reduce stock. No goods will be carried over. The establishment has no annex. On hand one fine overcoat. The man who owned it was a misfit for the coat, and he did not have money for the fund, so sent the garment. Would look fine on a clergyman, grace an insurance agent, commendable to a school teacher, irreproachable for a commercial traveller and superby on any common man. Black with velvet collar. Size about 40. Not too big a forty but, say a thirty-nine going up to forty. There is a Grafton label under the collar, which is a guarantee of good living. Who will have the coat. No price, as yet fixed. Don't drive us to the obliquity of another auction. Stock must go for we have to vacate the premises. Hurrah. The foreman of the late grand jury regrets that he did not see the coat or he would have presented a slick appearance before Judge Huycke. Appearances count.

On an early date, say middle of the week, the Executive committee of the Fund will get together and arrange for a disposition of the contributions. The amount will be formally deposited in the bank and an account opened. There is a lot of work to do and the affairs of the Fund will be most carefully administered.

It may be of interest to say that the organization will have to be incorporated under the laws of the Dominion and Province, just as any com-

THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER.

The sparkling music of "The Chocolate Soldier" never seems to lose its tunefulness or charm. The popular comic opera was presented at the Grand on Saturday to two good-sized audiences, who seemed to find the Strauss music as fresh and appealing as ever. A thoroughly adequate company with principals and chorus who knew how to sing, made the presentation a most enjoyable one. The producers are evidently not trying to conduct the presentation on its fame for the company is well balanced and the scenic investitude and accessories complete.

THE C. P. R.

Mr. L. O. Armstrong, who is connected with the Department of Natural Resources of the Canadian Pacific Railway as official lecturer, speaks enthusiastically about the forthcoming Panama Exposition. He has been engaged for many months making a collection of moving pictures to be exhibited there next year. The moving picture man, under the supervision of Mr. Armstrong, has covered every inch of the ground in the Dominion that will have the effect of attracting the settler and the tourist to Canada. The pictures will demonstrate land, irrigated and non-irrigated, all the industrial resources, and water-power, minerals and forestry. The delightful scenery of the Canadian Rocky Mountains will be one of the principal attractions, and so extensive are the pictures taken that it will be possible to give a complete change every day each week. The performances will be continuous throughout each day, and it is scheduled to give at least eight addresses a day. In order to facilitate the work in connection with the exhibition the British Columbia Government have promised assistance in the shape of a capable assistant, and it is likely that each of the other provinces throughout the Dominion will do the same, as the pictures cover the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Despite the war conditions, Mr. Armstrong states that there is a continuous stream of settlers making their way from the States of Washington and Oregon into Alberta and Saskatchewan, and his extensive travels through the United States lead him to believe that it would be unwise for people who are contemplating migrating to any of the larger cities with the idea of seeking work to do so as it would not better their condition. It would be better to stop at home and live cheaply until times take a turn, as he believed they were doing at the moment.

Many Want Managership of the Tigers

Hamilton Herald: The Garthwaite bulletin gives the following names of applicants for the position of manager of the Hamilton Canadian League Club for 1915:

Doc Reisling, of Caldwell, Ohio, last year's pilot of the London Canadian League Club.

Billy Cristall, Buffalo, N.Y., last season's manager of the Adrian club of the South Michigan League. He made his debut with Hamilton in 1899, and finished half of the 1912 season under Knotty Lee.

James McGinley, formerly of the Toronto International League club, last year with Binghamton, in the New York State League.

Walter Ahearn, of Mauch Chuuk, Pa., last season with the New London club of the Eastern Association. Ahearn is a catcher, and did good work for Gene McCann's champions.

Jack White, last season's leader of the local club, and formerly of the Peterborough and Berlin clubs of the Canadian League.

Jimmy Hamilton, who managed Charleston, of the South Carolina League. He is a guardian of the danger corner, and is strongly recommended by President Fitzgerald of the Canadian League.

George C. Nill, last year with the champion Ottawas, and the best infielder in the league. He has had fourteen years' experience in professional baseball and has never been playing lower than B class. Was with Washington and Cleveland in the American League and looks like the choice.

Think They Have a Star in Bierbauer

Since the official statistics of the Canadian league have been put in circulation for the season recently closed, says a Lincoln paper, Lincoln fans are harbouring a growing belief that they have landed a "live wire" in "Looey" Bierbauer, who was drafted from the London club. Bierbauer is a first sacker, and the dope on his 1914 season suggests that he will replace Harry Williams at the first corner next year.

Bierbauer participated in 112 games. His batting average was .329. At bat 413 times, he scored 63 runs, hitting safely 136 times. As an indication that he swatted the pellet on the seam it is noted that out of the 136 hits, he garnered 19 two baggers, 13 triples and one home run. Bierbauer is not only a sweet swatter, but he stole 43 bases for good measure. He is also credited with 20 sacrifice hits.

In the fielding line Bierbauer led the first basemen of the league with an average of .992. If he can duplicate that record for Lincoln in 1915 he will be a prime favourite.

BASKETBALL

The Dreadnoughts again showed the significance of their name on Saturday night when they attacked and succeeded in sinking the Pirates, to the tune of 18—11. The game was anybody's for fully three-quarters of the time. Then the Dreadnoughts got a lead which was too great for their opponents to overcome. Both teams played a good defensive game, thus making many long shots necessary, and many of these were converted into baskets, adding much to the interest and excitement of the spectators.

The first half finished with the score 12—9 in favour of the Dreadnoughts.

In the second half both teams seemed to take a new lease of life, and the half was very fast, but the Pirates only succeeded in scoring two points, while their opponents rolled up six. Time: 15 minute halves.

Referee—Dobbin. Scorer—W. J. Todd.

THE BIRTHDAY OF GEO. TYLER

The Boston Star is Twenty-Five Years of Age

George Tyler, the brilliant southpaw twirler of the Boston Braves, put Derby, N.H., on the map just a quarter of a century ago to-day by the circumstance of being born there. Tyler is still a citizen in good and regular standing of the old Granite State. It's peculiar, but nearly all the stars of the Stallings aggregation, although they wander far afield in the practice of their profession, still cling to the homes of their youth. Tyler is still a Derbyite, Dick Rudolph is a resident of the Bronx section of New York city where he was born, and James, a native son of the golden West, conducts his domestic operations in San Francisco. John Evers couldn't possibly be divorced from Troy, N.Y., his native city, and Josh Devore is now, as always, a Buckeye. Maranville's home address is Springfield, Mass., where he made his mundane and diamond debut. Hank Gowdy was born and still lives in Columbus, O. Stallings sticks to Georgia, his native State, and "Red" Smith is also a resident and a product of the Cracker State. Right on down the list this allegiance of the Braves to the old home holds true, with very few exceptions. Otta Hess, the veteran pitcher, was born in Berne, Switzerland, and finds it inconvenient to do his voting there, so he has adopted Dayton, O., as a place of residence.

Tyler is the senior in point of service of the famous trio, Rudolph, James and Tyler, who this year pitched the Stallings club from last place to first in the National League, and then copped the world's hunting. George made his professional debut in Lowell, Mass., and joined the Bostonians in the latter part of the 1910 season. He pitched his first game in Boston just ten days before Dick Rudolph was sent out on the mound to make his first appearance with the Braves. Tyler's major league debut was against the Pirates, and the contest was captured by the Smoky City crowd by a score of 9 to 2. It is only fair to explain, however, that Tyler was sent in when the Buccaneers wer already nine runs to the good. He toiled three innings, and the Corsairs got five hits, but nary a run. Moreover, he got a hit off Adams. Ten days later Rudolph was permitted to twirl one inning in a game already lost to the Giants. The McGraw men got two hits and one run from the delivery of the Bronx twirler. In the last world's series Tyler had a close call as the southpaw's delivery had less terror for the Athletics than that of the spitters, and only sensational fielding by the Braves saved Tyler from defeat.

Matt Wells, the little sawed-off English Jew, who was for a time Freddie Welsh's principal rival for the British lightweight honours, was born twenty-eight years ago to-day, Dec. 14, 16. Wells is only five feet four in height, three inches shorter than Welsh. He was amateur champion of Great Britain four years before he entered the professional ranks in 1908. Welsh became the lightweight champion of Great Britain in 1911, when he defeated Welsh in a twenty-round battle in London. He then visited America, making a good showing against a number of good men. In 1912 he fought Welsh again over the twenty-round route in London, and lost the decision and the title. Although outpointed, Wells finished strong, and in a longer battle probably would have bested the vegetarian champion.

Franchise Worth Money

Canadian League franchises are worth money despite the fact this country is involved in war, says the Hamilton Herald. An offer for the Ottawa franchise was made as far back as last winter, the figures numbering five times. The Ottawa club places a value of $25,000 on its franchise, which, when it is considered a Southern league franchise, was sold for over one hundred thousand dollars the other day, and the owners of the New York American league

New Moon On Wednesday

To-morrow Venus And The Moon Will be Seven Degrees Apart

During the week the sun rises about half a minute later each morning and sets about one-quarter of a minute later each night.

On Friday the sun rises at 7.48 and sets at 4.42.

During the week the moon will rise about an hour and ten minutes later each morning and set about fifty minutes later each afternoon.

On Friday the moon rises at 9.34 a.m., and sets at 6.20 p.m.

Venus is now a bright morning star about two hours ahead of the sun in the early morning eastern sky.

On Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock Venus and the moon will be seven degrees apart. On the same day the moon will be at her farthest point in her orbit from the earth, during the month.

On Wednesday the planet Mercury will pass up through the plane of the earth's orbit to the north, and at 4 o'clock in the morning Mercury and the new moon will be within five degrees of each other, Mercury being to the north.

New moon will appear on Wednesday.

On Thursday the planet Venus will appear to be stationary among the stars, and at midnight Mars and the moon will be in conjunction.

Cassiopeia.—This constellation at this time appears directly overhead a little to the north about half way between the overhead point and the north star, in the form of an inverted "W." In Greek mythology Cassiopeia was conected with the well-known classical story of "Perseus and Andromeda." Cassiopeia was the wife of Cepheus, King of Ethiopia, and mother of Andromeda. A queen of matchless bealty. She was very sensible of it, and boasted to all that would listen that she was fairer than Juno, the sister of Jupiter, or any of the sea nymphs. This vain boast is said to have so provoked the ladies of the sea that they complained to Neptune of these insults, and to appease them Neptune sent a frightful monster to ravage her coasts and punish her for his insolence, and finally she was placed in the heavens as a warning to vain mortals against over-boastful-ness. Milton refers to Cassiopeia as "That starred Ethiop's queen that strove
To set her beauty's praise above
The sea nymph's, and their power offended."

THE REAL TEST

There is no surer test of the real success of the management of a Life Company than the feeling of its clients, the policyholders, towards it.

How the Canada Life Stands the Test

The Company is constantly receiving letters expressing gratification for increasing policy dividends, appreciation of generous treatment by the management, or grateful thanks for prompt payment of claims.

In Illustration

A CHICAGO BANK PRESIDENT lately wrote: "This dividend is particularly gratifying . . . and reflects great credit on the management of your good Company."

SIR WILLIAM WHYTE'S EXECUTOR wrote: "I have to thank you very cordially for the promptitude with which you settled our claim."

A PHILADELPHIA POLICYHOLDER says: "Your methods seem to make a friend of a policyholder, and I assure you that after dealing with your company fifteen years or more, I feel enthusiastic of your worth and kind treatment."

These letters are not exceptional; they are typical of those being received nearly every day.

Tyler is the senior in point of service of the famous trio. Rudolph, James and Tyler, who this year pitched the Stallings club from last place to first in the National League, and then copped the world's hunting. George made his professional debut in Lowell, Mass., and joined the Bostonians in the latter part of the 1910 season. He pitched his first game in Boston just ten days before Dick Rudolph was sent out on the mound to make his first appearance with the Braves. Tyler's major league debut was against the Pirates, and the contest was captured by the Smoky City crowd by a score of 9 to 2. It is only fair to explain, however, that Tyler was sent in when the Buccaneers wer already nine runs to the good. He toiled three innings, and the Corsairs got five hits, but nary a run. Moreover, he got a hit off Adams. Ten days later Rudolph was permitted to twirl one inning in a game already lost to the Giants. The McGraw men got two hits and one run from the delivery of the Bronx twirler. In the last world's series Tyler had a close call as the southpaw's delivery had less terror for the Athletics than that of the spitters, and only sensational fielding by the Braves saved Tyler from defeat.

Matt Wells, the little sawed-off English Jew, who was for a time Freddie Welsh's principal rival for the British lightweight honours, was born twenty-eight years ago to-day. Dec. 14, 16. Wells is only five feet four in height, three inches shorter than Welsh. He was amateur champion of Great Britain four years before he entered the professional ranks in 1908. Welsh became the lightweight champion of Great Britain in 1911, when he defeated Welsh in a twenty-round battle in London. He then visited America, making a good showing against a number of good men. In 1912 he fought Welsh again over the twenty-round route in London, and lost the decision and the title. Although outpointed, Wells finished strong, and in a longer battle probably would have bested the vegetarian champion.

Franchise Worth Money

Canadian League franchises are worth money despite the fact this country is involved in war, says the Hamilton Herald. An offer for the Ottawa franchise was made as far back as last winter, the figures numbering five times. The Ottawa club places a value of $25,000 on its franchise, which, when it is considered a Southern league franchise, was sold for over one hundred thousand dollars the other day, and the owners of the New York American league franchise, the most lowly in the majors, turned down $400,000 cash for the controlling interest, is not an over valuation.

The Hamilton franchise, though a consistent loser, is valued at $10,000, and would be double that with a winning team. The London owners would not let their holdings go under $15,000. Peterborough is reported to have dropped $5,000 last season, yet the Petes will be right back next season. If they receive the predicted boom next season, franchises will be worth something.

CRUSADE AGAINST FOOTBALL IS LOSING ITS STRENGTH

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Football in the big leagues went on all over Britain on Saturday much as usual. The attendances were large and the interest keen, though, of course, the crowds are not those of normal times. The agitation against the continuance of the big schedules has lost most of its strength now, and there is an impression in some quarters that perhaps the crusaders may have been a bit hysterical.

CHRISTMAS FURLOUGHS FOR SOME

400 Soldiers Will However Be Left in Kingston

KINGSTON, December 12.—It is expected that there will be about 400 soldiers here during the Christmas vacation, the balance being allowed furlough. To-day a meeting of church ladies—delegates from all denominations—will be held to consider plans for the entertainment of those remaining here. The form it will take is not yet decided, though it may be evening functions, with refreshments, in the various churches.

On Friday morning the O. C. of the division received orders that the 21st battalion would immediately be established under the platoon system, succeeding the eight company establishment now being used. This system is in use by the Russian, British, German, French and Austrian armies. There are four companies of double the old strength, or 215 men in each company. Each of the four companies is under four subalterns, usually lieutenants, a captain and an officer in charge, either a senior captain or a major. This makes four majors or senior captains to a battalion, under the command of a lieutenant-colonel.

It was generally thought by militia men that the old drill order would be kept on as the larger companies are rather difficult to handle. The battalion has been to date drilling under the old system and this has no doubt been of advantage as the men have been given more detail instruction by the officers.

Solidity Of The Ford Car Co.

Making Work For Its Employees—Faith In The Future

Among the manufacturers whose export trade figures largely in the total volume of business is the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. On account of the impossibility of securing bottoms to transport cars, foreign shipments were suspended for a short time following the declaration of war. But shipments are now being resumed to nearly all British Colonies.

Naturally to meet present conditions the company is cutting out all expense that is not absolutely necessary; but rather than turn men out to enter the ranks of the unemployed, it is making work for its employees. Although a few of our good men have enlisted, and some had to be laid off when the temporary slump came, the Ford factory is running in every department.

Our faith in the future is indicated by the continuance of the million dollar building programme which the company has undertaken and which has not been interrupted. The big six-story factory addition and the three branch buildings at Toronto, Montreal and London, are being pushed to completion, according to the original schedule, and the sound of the pile driver is heard in the land.

Happily the company is in such a secure position financially that all obligations are being met as they fall due and all bills are discounted as usual.—Ford Times.

Death In Princess Pats'

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 14—The Militia Department reports the death of Sergt. Major Jas. W. Guerin of the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry of the First Canadian Contingent. The next of kin is Mrs. C. Guerin.

AN EXPLANATION FROM MR. SHINER

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I understand that there has been some comment on the fact that the team which canvassed Sub-Division No. 2 for the Patriotic Fund last September never published a detailed list of the subscriptions.

It is true that no list was published and none will be. The committee in deference to the expressed wishes of a large number of the subscribers decided that no names would be published.

The complete list of all subscribers was handed to Mr. Adams, the treasurer of the Fund, with the total amount collected, $37.50, on Saturday, October 3rd.

These lists are still in the possession of Mr. Adams, and can be seen at the City Treasurer's office any time during office hours.

I trust the above explanation will remove any doubts from the minds of those who subscribed to the Fund as to its reaching its proper destination.

Thanking you for your courtesy in publishing this letter of explanation, I remain, yours sincerely on behalf of the team.

W. G. SHINER.

Indians Drunk Were Fined $10

In this morning's police court two Indians appeared, charged with being drunk. Both of them pleaded 'guilty' to the charge against them and were fined $10.00 each. Neither had the money handy so they will spend the next 30 days in Castle Nesbitt.

George Copperwaite, when confronted with the charge admitted his guilt. He said he got his liquor from a man named Charles McGee who met him in the yard of the Little Windsor House. Albert Smoke, the other Indian, said that McGee was the man who supplied him. He met McGee at the Munro House. Both Indians said that McGee was looking for furs and skins and that he accosted them to find out if they had any to sell.

ASTONISHING MESSAGE SENT FROM THE FRONT

(W. G. Shepherd)

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—(By mail to New York).—German officers tell me that the most distressing and, at the same time astonishing, message that has come into their War Office was sent from Von Kluck's army near Noyon, France.

"Send me nurses to take care of 1,400 lunatics," was the gist of the message which came from an officer of the medical corps.

Investigation disclosed that many of the doctors and some of the nurses of the great French asylum for the insane at Chauny had deserted their posts as the Germans advanced. There are no walls surrounding the asylum grounds, as the asylum is built on the most advanced lines and the boundaries of the grounds are only deep ditches.

The asylum buildings were mistaken by the Germans for a chateau and the officers who rode up were astonished to discover over a thousand hopelessly insane patients in the buildings and grounds.

Some valiant nurses had remained but many patients were without attendants. The German medical corps took charge of the place and later some of the French physicians and nurses, being assured by the Germans that their lives would be spared, returned to the asylum.

Wants a Six Months License

To-night the Finance committee of the City Council will deal with the question of granting of six months billiard license to Mr. Fappas. The latter has opened a billiard room containing thirteen tables, upon which the city is privilege to levy license fees amounting to $52 for a minimum period of twelve months. This amounts to forty dollars as table. Mr. Papas is desirous of obtaining a six months' license only, as he contemplates making alterations to the premises which he now occupies. The matter of granting a six months' license will be thrashed out to-night. License fees for six months would amount to $260.

Suit Entered For Wages

Miss Alberta Graham is suing the committee of the Edward Green Estate, comprising Messrs. H. Rush and A. J. Johnston, for wages amounting to one thousand dollars, alleged to be due for four and one-half years domestic service. The plaintiff claims that she laboured for Edward Green for that period, and is entitled to wages at the rate of twenty dollars a month. The case is being tried to-day in the County Court before His Honour Judge Huycke.

Mr. G. N. Gordon is acting for the plaintiff and Messrs. D. O'Connell and A. E. Dixon for the defendant.

Music & Drama

THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER.

The sparkling music of "The Chocolate Soldier" never seems to lose its tunefulness or charm. The popular comic opera was presented at the Grand on Saturday to two good-sized audiences, who seemed to find the Strauss music as fresh and appealing as ever. A thoroughly adequate company with principals and chorus who knew how to sing, made the presentation a most enjoyable one. The producers are evidently not trying to conduct the presentation on its fame for the company is well balanced and the scenic investitude and accessories complete.

THE C. P. R.

Mr. L. O. Armstrong, who is connected with the Department of Natural Resources of the Canadian Pacific Railway as official lecturer, speaks enthusiastically about the forthcoming Panama Exposition. He has been engaged for many months making a collection of moving pictures to be exhibited there next year. The moving picture man, under the supervision of Mr. Armstrong, has covered every inch of the ground in the Dominion that will have the effect of attracting the settler and the tourist to Canada. The pictures will demonstrate land, irrigated and non-irrigated, all the industrial resources, and water-power, minerals and forestry. The delightful scenery of the Canadian Rocky Mountains will be one of the principal attractions, and so extensive are the pictures taken that it will be possible to give a complete change every day each week. The performances will be continuous throughout each day, and it is scheduled to give at least eight addresses a day. In order to facilitate the work in connection with the exhibition the British Columbia Government have promised assistance in the shape of a capable assistant, and it is likely that each of the other provinces throughout the Dominion will do the same, as the pictures cover the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Despite the war conditions, Mr. Armstrong states that there is a continuous stream of settlers making their way from the States of Washington and Oregon into Alberta and Saskatchewan, and his extensive travels through the United States lead him to believe that it would be unwise for people who are contemplating migrating to any of the larger cities with the idea of seeking work to do so as it would not better their condition. It would be better to stop at home and live cheaply until times take a turn, as he believed they were doing at the moment.

DON'T KNOW THE TRUTH

German People Are Being Deceived Says Mr. W. H. Staples---Just Back From Dresden.

CONDITIONS IN GERMANY

That the German people are unshaken in their confidence is an assertion which correspondents have frequently made and which the average Canadian is at a loss to understand. Now comes an explanation offered by Mr. Melville Staples, son of W. H. Staples, of Cavan, who arrived in Peterborough to-day after a five-weeks' journey from Dresden, Germany, from which he departed on November 7.

To an Examiner reporter Mr. Staples said that the German people are in practically complete ignorance of the significance of the land campaigns, particularly in the western theatre. The spirit of confidence is manifest everywhere, but it is built upon a firm belief in the official statements printed in the newspapers which have mentioned reverses as their strategic manoeuvres. They know Paris has not been occupied, but it has been explained that the fortifications before the French capital are too strong for the present. But the army is advancing on Calais, where heavy guns will be stationed to command Dover, establish a base and prepare the way for an attack on London. This is the explanation, in brief, of the feeling of the German citizens. They may not be downhearted, for they simply are not aware of anything to be downhearted about.

Trained to Believe.

Mr. Staples explained that the German fetish, "Es ist verboten," by which no one thinks of breaking the numerous laws, is partly responsible for the present mental attitude of the Kaiser's people toward the war. For instance, they place implicit faith in the newspapers. Argue with them that the press may be misleading them, may not be printing the facts, and they reply "there is a law against misrepresentation on the part of the papers." Respect for the word "verboden," (forbidden leads them to believe that the press would not dare to print untruths, because it is against the law. Hence, they believe the reports. And as the official statements have mentioned no reverse except one of the minor changes on the eastern frontier there is no particular reason why they should be as depressed as we would expect of them. The one exception was the recovery of the Russians on one of their fronts. But the Marne and the long conflict on the Aisne, these have been necessary for strategic purposes.

Declare Them Lies.

The official reports are not only laconic, but they contain no particular intelligence. Sometimes a Church service at a point on the front, or some similar affair is mentioned. There have been few letters from soldiers, but of the facts which we have read the German public is in complete ignorance. Small wonder that they are confident, that their faith is unshaken. And their trust in their own press is equalled only in their lack of confidence in foreign papers. The Germans regard the enemy's claim of successes as mere lies.

Mr. Staples is a University of Toronto man. After concluding his arts course he began a theological course at Knox College. Last April he completed a year at the University of Edinburgh. He went to Germany in April last, where he travelled extensively and settled in Dresden for general studies of language and music.

The German Expectations.

Mr. Staples states that the Germans believed that Japan would declare war on Russia, and that Britain would remain neutral, at least for a time. It was freely expressed during the summer that war was bound to come. Suddenly the Sarajevo affair broke upon the world. For a time there was calmness and yet during those days, especially the last week of July, there were unmistakable signs of the activities of the German soldiers. They were moving somewhere. In the crisis, Russia was actually aimed at, but the German said, "We will make sure of France too, and with a big indemnity turn toward the slow moving Russians." These were the general rumours one heard on the streets.

Feeling Against Britain.

No attention was paid to Belgium. It offered the easier way. Britain, it was thought, would hold aloof. Then, when the full force of the Triple Entente was thrown into the war, there was intense feeling against the British. Shortly after, however, the first fever of passion passed, and Mr. Staples declares that he was treated most friendly. Among his friends the war made no difference in their relations. And any alien who followed the prescribed instructions was treated fairly.

Many Wounded.

The number of wounded in Dresden and other cities is appalling. Every home appears to have suffered. Some have been struck more than once. The injured soldiers are everywhere, and the city in a sense has become a great hospital.

Food For a Year.

The food supply in the warehouses of Dresden is said to be sufficient for a year. Prices have remained about the normal level. Where there have been any unemployed they have been sent to the Russian frontier to dig trenches. Along that boundary everything has been devoted to defence purposes. Numerous trenches have been dug, and buildings that would afford protection to an enemy have been razed.

The colleges have been stripped of students and professors, except those unfit for war. The aliens have been interned. Mr. Staples, who by the way is a nephew of Mr. Robert Fair, was not interned. He had, however, to report twice weekly to the police. Of 9,000 students in the Dresden Polytechnic school, only 200 remained and the majority of them were aliens.

Referring to the newspapers, Mr. Staples said that there was first a few lines of official reports, a little local news, and generally the rest was made up of denunciations of the British or British losses. The naval reports were given truthfully.

In a cafe one night a German soldier, slightly under the influence of liquor, entered. There was an orchestra playing and the soldier stepped on to a chair and imagined himself a conductor. He was noticed by all the diners, and the owner showed signs of impatience with the incident. He remonstrated with the soldier and tried to push him off the chair. The crowd demonstrated its feelings by wrecking the shop as a protest against the manager's interference with the soldier's buffoonery.

Wonderful, Thrilling Picture at the Empire Theatre for the Next Three Days

The first three days of this week at the Empire Theatre, starts off with another of Pathe's popular photo-plays, "Sport and Travel in Central Africa," in five parts. This is reported to abound with wonderful pictures, showing the capture and killing of wild animals in Central Africa, and other thrilling exploits in the African jungles. Leopards, monkeys, lions, and other wild creatures posed before the camera; also elephants, hippotami, vultures, and other wild birds, which were brought down as prizes by for the Empire moving picture house. The many hair-breadth escapes of the hunters and their experience with the war-like race known as the Shilluks, will all be depicted in wonder creating situations at the Empire to-night, to-morrow and Wednesday. Bound to draw capacity audiences while it lasts.

Motor Truck No Longer in City

The motor chemical engine and hose truck which was rented by the Fire, Water and Light Committee for use in the City during the past week in case the ordinary supply of water was cut off by anchor ice, was returned to Toronto this afternoon, and with it went the genial and effective demonstrator, Mr. Hartpham, of Toronto. During the week that it was in the City the motor truck was put through several severe tests and came through them all to the utmost satisfaction of the local authorities, who were greatly surprised at the versatility and usefulness of the machine.

OBITUARY

MRS. J. P. BRYSON.

The death occurred yesterday morning about three o'clock of a well known and highly respected resident of this city in the person of Mrs. James P. Bryson, who passed away at her home, 220 King Street, after an illness of some duration. The late Mrs. Bryson was born in Ireland, but for many years she has resided in this city, being one of the older residents of Peterborough. She was widely known and very well thought of in the community, leaving a large number of friends who will sincerely regret her death.

Deceased, whose maiden name was Mary Brown, is survived by her husband, Mr. James P. Bryson, one brother, John of this city, and one brother in the United States. A sad circumstance in connection with the death of Mrs. Bryson is the fact that her brother, Mr. Frank Brown, of Peterborough, passed away just five weeks ago yesterday.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at nine o'clock to St. Peter's church and cemetery.

ZEEBRUGGE IS THE KEY TO THE INVASION OF ENGLAND

Germans Plan to Attack British Transports Carrying Reinforcements in the Spring—Tirpitz Said to Have a Plan.

A GERMAN SUBMARINE RECENTLY DAMAGED

LONDON, Dec. 15.—That the Germans consider Zeebrugge the key for an attack upon the shores of Great Britain is told by a German officer whose story was repeated to a correspondent of the Daily News yesterday. The German is reported to have said that not until the Kaiser's troops have evacuated Zeebrugge will the idea of the invasion of England be abandoned.

The correspondent goes on to say:

"A neutral who has been living for some time at Heystand and has had opportunities of gossiping with marines from the Zeebrugge garrison tells me that one of the chief functions of the place in the German plan of campaign is to serve as a submarine base for the destruction of transports which in early spring are expected to be steaming across the Channel with reinforcements for the British army in France.

"Admiral von Tirpitz believes that suitable craft for the work will be able to make their way from Wilhelmschafen to Zeebrugge undeterred by the British navy, and that even after they reach the port he will be able to conceal a considerable proportion of them from the air scouts of the Allies.

"Exactly how he proposes to do this I cannot pretend to say, but gossip among engineers is to the effect that a plan has been devised for keeping the vessels submerged for one or two days."

One Submarine Damaged.

The Daily Mail has received the following despatch from its correspondent at Rotterdam:

An informant who has been travelling through Belgium, tells me the Germans are most astonished and impressed by the reports of the British soldiers getting home for short holidays to rest.

There is now only one submarine at Zeebrugge and that has been badly damaged by the bombardment by the Allied fleet.

As there were four in the harbour recently it would seem they had been able to slip out, which would mean that the Germans have repaired the sluice gates. These may have been the craft which attacked Dover on Thursday.

Automobiles In Heavy Demand

Their Use by Warring Armies in Europe Booms the Business of Makers in United States

(From the Troy Times.)

Perhaps no single industry has been so directly and powerfully affected by the Old World war as automobile manufacturing. Facts recently presented indicate what an important part motor vehicles of one kind or another play in the struggle, and also point to increasing demand for the machines for military purposes as well as for the uses of peace. The sale of horses to the various combatants has been enormous, for there still remains much work in active campaigns which can be done only by equines.

This call for horses has taken from trucking and similar occupations a large number of the animals, and the shortage is being steadily supplied by the substitution of auto trucks. The sales of American horses to Europe have led to a larger use here of motor vehicles of all kinds. It has been shown that already many who owned horses and sold the animals to foreign purchasers at good prices are investing the money in trucks or other motor machines. An additional inducement for making the change is the advancing cost of oats and other feed, also due in great measure to the call from abroad for such products. The net result of the changes going on is said to be that trucking concerns find it cheaper to own and operate the machines than to use horses in their business.

As to the efficiency of the automobile service in many military matters much may be said. It is beyond dispute that but for the automobile the work of mobilizing troops and directing movements in the field would have been accomplished with much less rapidity. It is related, for instance, that when the order came for getting the French armies to the front within ten minutes soldiers had taken possession of every motor, delivery van used by the big Paris mercantile establishments. Within an hour eleven hundred autobuses were withdrawn from the streets of the city and on the way to the points where it was expected to meet the Germans. What is more, these motor vehicles in many cases were transformed in such manner as to adapt them to special uses. Thus they could be employed as ambulances, as travelling meat shops making quick delivery to the men practicable, and in many other ways. As swift, high powered road machines they at once came into play, for generals could move about or despatch orders by such means much more rapidly and effectively than in any other fashion.

The use of motor vehicles has not been confined to any one belligerent. If the French and their allies the British commandeered all the private autos they came across and if Paris and London autobuses and trucks were common sights on their side, the Germans were equally resourceful, if not more so. The Kaiser's army put the horseless vehicles to every possible test—and German ingenuity is fertile in devising expedients and adopting means to efficient ends. There is hardly a doubt that, without motor power, the tremendous guns which worked havoc at Liege, Rheims, Antwerp and elsewhere could not have been moved about with such celerity. So in every direction the auto in some form has been most valuable. One result must be a tremendous impetus to auto production, especially in the United States, because in Europe for the present at least the industry is crippled by the shortage of help due to voluntary or enforced service in the armies now engaged in the war. It is not strange that those familiar with the situation predict that next year will be the greatest the American automobile business has known.

BELGRADE RETAKEN BY THE SERVIANS

Austrian Offensive Completely Routed and Latest Defeat Seems to Indicate the Abandonment of the Invasion

SPECIAL MORNING CABLE:

LONDON, Dec. 15, 1:25 a.m.—The Servians, after a fierce battle, have reoccupied Belgrade (the former capital), according to a Nish despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company.

An earlier despatch said: Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent says that the Austrians admit defeat at the hands of the Servians in an official communication issued at Vienna to-day. This communication follows:

"Our offensive movement, projected in a southwesterly direction from the River Drina, encountered southeast of Valjevo a greatly superior force of the enemy.

"Our advance had not merely to be stopped, but we were compelled also to make more extended retirements our our troops, which for many weeks have fought obstinately and brilliantly, but with many losses.

"Against this we may place the occupation of Belgrade. New measures will consequently be taken which will serve to repell the enemy."

This apparently means that Austria has abandoned her third attempt at the invasion of Servia, and will now act on the defensive.

The Austrians occupied Belgrade December 2, after having besieged it since July. A large portion of the city was said to have been destroyed by the fire of the Austrians.

GERMANS ARE UTTERLY ROUTED NEAR MLAWA

SPECIAL MORNING CABLE:

PETROGRAD, Dec. 15.—So complete was the route of the German army which invaded Northern Poland from Mlawa that the force is now cleared from Russian territory and this plan of movement against Warsaw has apparently been abandoned, according to reports here to-day.

The army suffered extremely heavy losses in being driven back after taking Przasnysz. The remaining forces are now being redistributed, however. Part are reported as being sent north into East Prussia to aid in the defence of the line in Mazurian Lake region. Another part is being hurried south to aid in the fighting in the Carpathians.

AUSTRIA READY TO QUIT

SPECIAL MORNING CABLE:

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 15.—Austria has made tentative peace proposals to Russia, but the exchanges between the two governments in which Russia made known terms that would be demanded, were without result. Swiss newspapers make this report to-day.

70,000 Of These Galician Refugees Are Absoutely Penniless—Thousands In Pressing Need

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—One hundred and seventy thousand Jews have fled for refuge from Galicia to Vienna, according to a letter received here to-day from the Austrian Israelite alliance in Vienna by the American Jewish relief committee.

"Galicia as the field of military operations, has been cleared of almost the entire civil population," reads the letter. "At the present time there are 170,000 Jewish fugitives from Galicia here, of whom 70,000 are absolutely penniless.

"Furthermore 26,000 destitute Jewish fugitives have been placed in barracks in Moravia and 70,000 in Bohemia, where barracks are also being built. These 165,000 poor Jews are in pressing need."

RUSSIA'S PRISONERS ALL EASY TO GUARD

LONDON, Dec. 14. — One small squad of Russian soldiers is serving as the guard for 100,000 Austrian and German prisoners whose prison walls consist of 4,000 miles of frozen steppes separating them from the borders of their own countries.

These prisoners are interned at Semipalatinek, on the Artich river, near the borders of western Mongolia. Here splendid quarters were found in the big barracks erected for the mobilization of the Russian army and unoccupied since its departure for the front.

Every day the prisoners are permitted to wander about at will. When they depart in the morning they are told that unless they report at the barracks at nightfall they will be locked out, and at this time of the year in that bleak country this would mean certain death. The freedom of the prisoners during the day is absolute, even to the extent of accepting employment from local mining companies.

One of the handicaps to the development of southeastern Siberia is the lack of roads, and it is likely that the Russian war department will be asked to put these prisoners to road making.

The problem of caring for prisoners in Russia is becoming acute as the number increases. An attache of the Russian government now in London states that he is informed that there are in Russia, exclusive of the Germans reported in the operations now under way in north Poland, 750,000 Austrian and German prisoners.

THE WEATHER

While there was a decidedly wintry feeling in the air last night and this morning, it was owing more to the strong wind rather than to a low temperature. Seven above zero was the lowest figure reached during the night and this morning the thermometer was standing several degrees higher. —W. P.

Fortune Tellers Now Forbidden to Practice in Germany.

LUBECK, Germany, Dec. 14.—Fortune tellers now are forbidden to practise in any part of the German empire. Soon after the war broke out, they began to do an enormous business with relatives of soldiers in the field, who wanted to know how things were going with them. Visits to the fortune tellers often had tragic consequences, as many of the callers were in a high state of nervous tension.

The uncertainty of relatives regarding their men folk at the front has been aggravated by the complete muddle of the field postal organization, which is being severely criticized by the newspapers.

CANADA RECEIVES CREDIT

For Her Share in War Says Former Peterboro' Man

In an interesting letter, in which he says that the climate of California cannot be beaten, Mr. W. A. Beach writes to his brother, Mr. R. Beach, from San Francisco to say: "I see by the war news in the papers that Canada is sending soldiers and money without any limit to it and she is getting lots of credit for it in this city."

ARMOURED TRAINS GREATLY AID ALLIES

LONDON, Nov. 24.—A correspondent of the Times in Flanders says:

"The roads in Flanders are for the most part routes pavees. That is to say, one side of the road is paved with cobbles; the other side is a plain country road. As a rule these roads are lined by avenues of trees, but there are no hedges to protect them from the driving rain. On the paved way there is no room for two vehicles to pass. When two vehicles meet one must leave the route pavee and plunge into a sea of mud. Not a few heavy motor lorries carrying provisions to the front have sunk into it, nearly axle deep and immovable.

"In the fighting in Flanders the military forces of England, France and Belgium have had invaluable assistance from armoured trains commanded by capable British naval officers and armed by expert British naval gunners and Belgian riflemen. These trains are ready at any moment to answer the call of the military authorities. They have responded to many such calls. Their mobility is limited to the rails on which they run, but over and over again they have come within range of German positions, and shelled them with telling effect.

A Suggestion To Householders

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—A few suggestions which may be of great benefit to users of electricity for lighting purposes. To the majority of consumers any kind of an electric lamp looks good to him regardless of the cost of lamp. You won't take four eggs for a dozen, why take less light than you pay for? The current is the same, the bill is the same, the difference is the lamp. For every four candle-power you get from a carbon lamp you can have a dozen or more from a Tungsten lamp. Think of the waste. One carbon 16-c.p. consumes as much as three Tungsten lamps. Three times as much light in one room, or three rooms lighted with one lamp in each room. The difference is in carbon lamps. The current is wasted in heat and the older a carbon lamps gets the less light it will give, and the more heat will boost your meter bills, and cause your meter bills to run up. Any lamp that does not show a good light will make heat. By using Tungsten lamps you can have more light, better light, cheaper light.

Thirty-five years ago Thomas Edison gave the world the greatest convenience in modern life, the incandescent electric light, and has improved them now. The rich can buy no better, and the poor can buy no cheaper than the Tungsten lamps. Hoping these few suggestions may be of some value to the consumer with the high electric bill.

NEUTRAL OBSERVER MAKES BOLD PROTEST

Resigns His Commission in United States Army in Order to Speak Freely of German Barbarism

Major Louis Livingston Seaman is not only a military man, and a medical man, but a traveller and journalist of international repute. His work in the Balkans and elsewhere in connection with the Red Cross movement has made his name familiar all over the world. He went to the front as special correspondent of the "Independent," New York, one of the liveliest weekly journals in that great city. In view of the statements written by him concerning German atrocities in Belgium, the publication of which the pro-Germans in the United States considered as a virtual breach of neutrality, Major Seaman was requested by the authorities to explain his action, as it is contrary to regulations for an officer of a neutral country to express himself definitely as a partisan in favor of either combatant.

On the day of the Zeppelin massacre at Antwerp, Major Seaman sent the following letter to President Wilson:

"My Dear Mr. President:—

"Preferring liberty of speech to military or other service where it is denied, especially when silence would be a crime against humanity, I herewith tender my resignation as a member of the Medical Reserve Corps of the United States Army."

The following correspondence, within the limits imposed by the censorship, hints at the pitiful sufferings of which Major Seaman has been a witness, and which impelled him to take this action:

"I am writing from the Hotel de la Paix in Ghent. I believe no city on earth has contributed more to the development of civilization than Ghent. Here it was the purpose of representatives of Great Britain and the United States to celebrate in the old Convent des Charteux the one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Peace between England and America. A short time ago in the Royal Casino and Palais de Fete the international exhibition of flowers was held and in the Palais de Danse, the French Opera Company made gay music.

"But what a change, the Palais de Fete is now a Palais de Misere, transformed in a night. Fourteen thousand desolate peasant women and little children, refugees from the country near Louvain, Malines and Termonde, whose husbands or fathers or brothers had been butchered or driven to parts unknown, their homes pillaged and burnt, their crops destroyed, their only possessions the clothing on their backs, have been, or are now, being sheltered here.

"I have participated as an officer or observer, in eight campaigns, in almost every country in the world. But in none have I ever witnessed such exhibitions of atrocious barbarism as this war is furnishing."

NOT LIKE THE BOER WAR

One Was "Marching," Other is "Fighting" all the Time

"The difference between the South African war and this is that one was marching and the other fighting," said a corporal of the Coldstream Guards, who, having been in both, is now in West Ham Hospital.

"I saw more fighting in two weeks this time," he added, "than I did in two years in South Africa, and when I went to join my regiment there scores of dead lying by the roadside.

"One terrible scene," added the corporal, "was when after a battle we collected the wounded—German and our own—and put them in a big farm house. The German guns shelled the place and we got our wounded out first. The place caught fire, and it was awful to hear the cries of the German wounded and the screaming of the cattle close by.

"We could not put a red cross flag up, we had not got one."

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough, and also heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of pine on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

A TERRIFIC STRAIN ON MEN IN CABINET

King's Advisers and His Majesty Himself Have Great Burden of Responsibility to Bear

The conduct of the war throws a tremendous strain on the physical strength of the Government of the United Kingdom, as well as on their strength of character and strength of intellect. And it must be remembered that it occurred at the fag-end of a session which had been an exceptionally trying one both for the Monarch and for his Ministers, and just when both might reasonably have looked forward to a holiday.

The Home Rule situation had for months been a source of the acutest anxiety to both the King and the Prime Minister, in particular, and of almost daily conference between them. Indeed it is safe to say that no King and Premier have ever been in such frequent communication, within a like space of time, as were King George and Mr. Asquith, practically for a year before the outbreak of the war. One has only to recall the history of many things which now seems so far off, but which are really, in point of time, so near, to realize the severe tax on their strength and patience alike, which had been imposed before war broke out. There was the Home Rule struggle, the Ulster question, the Curragh camp incident, the menace of civil war, the interminable negotiations, the Buckingham Palace conference, the fierce debates, the ceaseless wrangles. All these have passed. Only the war remains—a burden of anxiety, responsibility, and care as heavy as mortal men have ever had to bear.

Men of Vigorous Strength

It is a good thing that both the King and the members of the Cabinet principally concerned with the conduct of the war are men in the prime of life. His Majesty is forty-nine. There is no septuagenarian in the Cabinet—a very rare thing in a British Government. Mr. Asquith is sixty-two years old, but of a constitution that has always seemed to thrive on hard work. Lord Kitchener is sixty-four, but he looks nothing like that age, and his constitution is like his will—iron. Sir Edward Grey is fifty-two, Mr. Lloyd George fifty-one, and Mr. Churchill not yet forty.

That due provision shall be made for the future of those who are serving their country in arms, and for those dependent on them, is a project that is very near the King's heart. In the past, semi-starvation and poverty have too often been the soldier's lot after "the war is o'er." A Government committee is to decide what additions to the scale of pensions are necessary, in order to ensure that no soldier or his dependents shall be suffered, after the war, to go short of the necessaries of life, with particular regard to the requirements of soldiers who have lost the use of a limb, or who have otherwise become permanently disabled. Over this committee the King will preside in person.

Veterans For Canada

The scope of the scheme which the committee is to formulate will include the provision of ample work for time-expired men. It will, in all probability, comprise, among other things, a system of State-aided emigration to Canada and the other overseas Dominions, with a free grant of land to

UNRECORDED HEROISM

Tough Luck to Stand Fire Without Returning It

All the heroism that has been displayed by British troops in the present war will never be known. A few individual cases may chance to be heard of. Others will be known only to the Recording Angel. Two instances of extraordinary bravery on the part of officers were mentioned by a couple of wounded soldiers in the London Hospital in the course of the narrative of their own adventures.

One of them, a splendid fellow, of the Royal West Kent Regiment, said: "We were in a scrubby position two days. After four hours of action each of our six big guns was put out of action. Either the gunners were killed or wounded, or the guns themselves damaged. For the rest of the time we had to stick the German fire without being able to retaliate. It was bad enough to stand this incessant banging away, but it made it worse not to be able to reply.

"What happened to us happened to the Gloucesters. Their guns, too, were put out of action, and, like us, they had to stand the shell fire for hours and hours before they were told to retire. What we would have done without our second in command I don't know.

"During the Sunday firing he got hit in the head. He had two wounds through the cap in the front and one or two behind, and lost a lot of blood. Two of our fellows helped to bind up his head, and offered to carry him back, but he said: 'It isn't so bad. I'll be all right soon.' Despite his wounds and loss of blood, he carried on until we retired on Monday. Then, I think, they took him off to hospital."

Every year $4,000,000 is spent on the food and clothing of indoor paupers in London, England.

NURSES IN BATTLE

Most people know the story of the late Miss Florence Nightingale's acceptance of probably the most responsible mission ever undertaken by a member of the gentler sex during modern times, when she set out with a small body of co-workers to bring about order and comfort in the chaos of the fever-stricken military hospitals of the Crimea.

"The Lady of the Lamp's" work has never been equalled by any other woman, but several women have distinguished themselves in war, although not on so large a scale.

When war broke out between Italy and Turkey, the Duchess of Aosta, who is a personal friend of Queen Alexandra, underwent a course of training at the Naples Hospital of Jesus and Mary, where there is a special school for nurses. In a short time she was passed as proficient, and was made head nurse of the Italian Red Cross hospital ship Memphis.

One cannot over-estimate the value of the work done by Florence Nightingale and her successors.

Belgium Honors a Wooden Leg

One mystery for foreigners who witness the celebrations of Belgian independence is the part which a wooden leg plays in the processions. Thereby hangs a tale. During the barricade fighting in Brussels in 1830 the Dutch troops were harassed unmercifully by a wooden-legged patriot named Charlier, of Liége, who, in spite of his infirmity, stumped behind his huge gun wherever there was need of him. "Jambe de Bois" ("Wooden Leg"), as he was known, became one of the popular idols of those strenuous days, and ever since the symbol of a wooden stump has been calculated to excite the wildest enthusiasm amongst the Belgian populace.

A FIGHTING PARSON

Creates a Precedent by Getting Leave of Absence to go to War

For the first time on record in over 150 years an ordained Scottish minister was given leave of absence to serve in the fighting-line in defence of his country. Application was made to the United Free Church Presbytery of Galashiels by the Rev. Mr. Naismith, minister of St. Boswell's, for "leave of absence from his pastoral duties during the period of the war."

Mr. Naismith was only introduced to his new congregation at St. Boswell's the day before war was declared. Within the week he was summoned by telegraph to join his unit as an artillery officer at Glasgow. In a letter to the Presbytery Mr. Naismith stated that he joined the Special Reserve for a period of four years, his intention at that time being to apply for an army chaplaincy. His service with the reserve would have expired in three days more. The Presbyterian clerk said he knew of no precedent for leave of absence for such a time or such a purpose. There was not a precedent in the United Presbyterian Church, and the only case he knew of in the Free Church was that in which Ebenezer Erskine went out to the defence of Stirling against the Pretender's rebellion of 1745. The Presbytery could only use its common sense in the matter and decide that Mr. Naismith was doing the right, the noble, and the manly thing in serving his country in this way, and their earnest prayer was that he would come back safe and sound.

USED FISTS ON GERMANS

Gallant Sergeant Refused to Surrender—Fought Till Killed

A glowing tribute to his comrades of the battlefield was paid by Private William Court, of the 2nd Battalion Royal Scots, to a correspondent of a London paper. He had just arrived from the front, wounded, and he told stirring stories of British pluck displayed against great odds.

He declared that the impressions of one incident, which occurred prior to a great battle, would never pass from his mind. "We were digging trenches," he said, "and totally unprepared for an attack. One of the Middlesex companies was not at that moment equipped in any way, when the Germans bore down upon them in huge numbers. Then I witnessed what a real Britisher is made of.

"One of the sergeants of the Middlesex, instead of holding up hands and begging for mercy, as I have known so many of the Germans do since, raised his fists and fought like fury, downed two of the enemy with successive blows, stunning each of them. Then I saw this gallant fellow bayoneted from cheek to cheek, and, as he fell to the ground, he was 'put out.' Other members of the Middlesex followed their sergeant's example, and several suffered a similar fate."

The Kaiser as a Baby

As he has grown older the German Emperor has obviously deteriorated. When his grandmother, Queen Victoria, saw him first—true he was only a child then—she went into raptures over him. "Our darling granchild was brought in; such a little love! He came walking in in his little white dress with black bows and was so good! He is a fine fat child with a soft, beautiful white skin, very fine limbs, and a very dear face like Vicky's (Empress Frederick). He has Fritz's (his father's) eyes and Vicky's mouth, and very fair, curly hair. He is such a darling, so intelligent!" In those days the child who was to grow into such a bloodthirsty man loved his English grandmamma, and had a great affection for "Hobby," the pet name he bestowed on Mrs. Georgina

Constipation, Indigestion and Horrible Backaches

Searched for a Cure for Years—Advised to Try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Was Cured.

Where there is poison there is pain. This is a provision of Nature to warn you against conditions that are likely to prove serious.

PROF. SMITH.

Constipation of the bowels is undoubtedly the greatest source of disease and suffering. By using one of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills at bed-time as often as is necessary to keep the bowels regular you can cure constipation and the consequent indigestion, and remove the cause of backache, rheumatism and other painful diseases.

"Daily movement of the bowels" is the greatest law of health. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will help you to form this habit, add to your years, and bring comfort in old age.

Professor A. T. Smith, 1 Mt. Charles street, Montreal, and formerly of Boston, Mass., writes:—"I suffered for many years from bad digestion, constipation and horrible backaches. I have been treated by many doctors, without any results. One day a friend in Boston advised the use of Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. After using two boxes I noticed great improvement, and after the fourth box I was completely cured. My digestion is good. I never feel any pain in the back. My head is clear, and I feel like a young man. I think Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are one of the best medicines on earth."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

BRAVE MEN AT THE FRONT.

(London Correspondent of Liverpool Courier.)

In the lobby at Westminster to-day I met a war correspondent just back from France, who has seen and heard at first hand as much of the actual operations in the field as any civilian. It was amazing to hear one who is so thoroughly cynical and hard as this unemotional blase journalist, a veteran of very "advanced" political views, so enthusiastic about our army. He could hardly keep a steady voice when he spoke of the magnificent valour and superb spirit and bearing of our men. "Thrilling" was he applied to the conduct of the whole army. The French army is fighting splendidly, he declared emphatically, but he insists that the British Tommy is a soldier in a class apart. "Nobody can touch him," he said; "certainly not the best the Germans can show." He confesses that the efficiency and spirit of our army surprised him. They are beyond words—absolutely IT.

The So-called Christian Works Not All Good

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:

"And all their works they do to be seen of men," etc., Matt. 25:5 (The just shall live by faith) Gal. 3:11.

It is not long since that a gentleman wrote in an article to this paper, "Oh, for another Martin Luther to thunder in the ears of the people, (The just shall live by faith). Perhaps God is answering that prayer only it's a weak woman and not a strong, robust man; but God does not despise the weak things. I believe He has a preference for them, because they allow God to take the glory for all they say and do. This article was suggested to the writer because for some time past she has had drummed into her ears. "Works, works, works. Now, right here I would ask: Are all so-called Christian works good works? And I answer that question with an emphatic "No." And Heaven reechoes, "No." Did not Jesus, Himself, say that some will come and say: Have we not done this, that, and the other thing? But He will say: Depart from Me ye workers of iniquity, I never knew you." Now, why is it that Jesus, who is love and tenderness itself, should speak so severely of any good work. I suppose, in the first place, these works did not proceed from a heart in a right condition—from a heart in which dwells Jesus Christ, who has been believed on and accepted by faith; good works which are acceptable to God and the only works that are acceptable, proceed from this source. We may, as the Apostle Paul says, give our body to be burned, but if we have not charity or love at the back of that sacrifice, it profits us nothing. Then there are folks who will work and do all sorts of charitable things, but will not submit to the government of God in their life, nor accept salvation as a free gift from God. Such works are an insult to Almighty God, a stink in His nostrils. Here they say "take these works" instead of "take my heart"; and they expect to work their way into Heaven. But salvation, as I said before, is a free gift, and not to be bought. It's not of works lest any man should boast; and the verse preceding says: "For by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God"—Ephesians 8, 9.

Yes, let me write it in letters bold and may the good God turn on the electric current that they may flash in letters of gold; let the thunders crash it out, and the winds waft it on the breeze; proclaim it ye sons of men from the house-top, and write it on the sign-boards, that eternal life is a free gift, to be had by believing, alone; true works will follow, for by faith we are born again, created anew unto good works which God has before ordained that we should walk in them. But listen, we have not got to set ourselves tasks to perform, but to work out whatever God prompts us to do, to do the will of God, whatever that may be; it may be to work or it may be to suffer. We, each of us know for our own selves what God's will for us is. Man may say, do this and do that; but the spirit within may order otherwise. Obey God always, rather than man. Abraham believed God; believed something God told him, which, viewed from the human side, seemed impossible. This faith was counted to Abraham for righteousness and all who have faith are the children of Abraham, and heirs of God—inheritors of the Kingdom of Heaven. Now, works followed this faith; the kind of works I have above mentioned—obedience to God, when He asked a very hard and seemingly unreasonable thing, namely, to offer as a sacrifice the Son which had been given him by promise, obedience to God. This is the chief thing to remember, after having been called by grace, or divine favour, and responding by faith, after having all our past sins blotted out, all the handwriting against us, which Jesus bore for us;; now we start afresh, and God is the source of this life, the works are His, obedience our part. Therefore, we work out our own salvation with fear and trembling, knowing it is God that worketh in us to will and to do of His own good pleasure.

In concluding, I would say, let no one suppose I am casting any reflection on the good works on the move for the Patriotic Fund. Such thoughts are farthest from my mind. I wish it God speed from my heart. I am merely denouncing a certain kind of works done by some and afterwards spoken of by them with self-satisfaction—a sort of Pharisaical, (I thank Thee, God, I am better than some men; I have done many good works, and some others here looking around with disapproval) are doing nothing. And they, poor publicans, shrinking under that look, almost imagine themselves guilty, and they dare not look up, though it may be they are living more to the glory of God than the Pharisee, and they smite their breast and cry, God be merciful, I have no works to bring, and I believe God will smile away their tears and say: I have your heart, your love, and by your patient courage, under trial and affliction, by your sweetness of manner, and the charity which thinketh not speaketh evil, you have worked for me. Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

MRS. BEIDEL TELLS WOMEN

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her in Health for 14 Years.

Shippensburg, Pa.—"It was several years ago that I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I then suffered terribly every month. My husband bought me a bottle of it and it helped me right away. Then after my second child was born I had a female trouble very badly and I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and in a short time was cured and have been in excellent health since. I always praise the Compound whenever I have an opportunity as I know it helped me and will help others. Lately I have given the Compound to my daughter and I wish all suffering women would take it and be convinced of its worth."—Mrs. JAMES A. BEIDEL, 118 N. Penn Street, Shippensburg, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

A WEAK HEART.

When the heart is weak or irregular in action, when the blood is thin and watery, remember the blood-forming qualities of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and by its use flood the system with rich, red, vitalizing blood. This is Nature's way of curing weakness and disease. It is the only way to ensure lasting benefits.

English Etchings.

The leading daily newspapers in London number twenty-five.

There are coal fields in Great Britain that have been worked for at least 700 years, yielding every kind of coal except anthracite.

A London physician practicing in the poorer districts of that city says that 25 per cent of the children coming under his observation wear charms and amulets under their clothing.

Science Siftings.

The pulse of a horse is a little more than half as rapid as that of a man.

According to a German scientist, hailstones are formed by the electricity of the thunderstorms which they accompany.

Distinct tracks of light have been detected in the ocean at depths of more than 3,000 feet by an English oceanographical expedition.

Germans Cautioned.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—(By wireless to Sayville.)—The German official press bureau cautions against premature expectations of victory on the Polish battle front. It says the Russians are not definitely defeated, the new Russian positions still being intact twelve or thirteen miles east of Lodz. These positions will be untenable, the statement adds, if the Germans succeed in breaking through in the vicinity of Lowicz, northeast of Lodz.

The attacks south of Piotrkow, as well as those by the Austrians further south, it is admitted, have led to no definite result.

Russian Cruisers Take Steamer.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 14. — (Via London.)—A Turkish steamer loaded with wheat bound for Constantinople, has been captured near the mouth of the Danube by Russian Black Sea cruisers, which have brought the vessel to Odessa, says a despatch from that port.

TO INVADE BRITAIN?

Baden-Powell Expects Germany to Make the Attempt.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Gen. Baden-Powell shares the opinion of many other British military experts who believe that Germany fully expects to invade England, if possible, and will direct its activities towards the commercial cities in the north of England, rather than toward London and the resort cities of the south. In the opinion of Gen. Baden-Powell the German Emperor will endeavor to land at least 90,000 troops in England.

"I know that the general idea is," says Gen. Baden-Powell, in a recent interview, "that the attempt to invade England will be made on the coast of Norfolk or Suffolk. Personally, I think that the Yorkshire coast is more likely, for the Germans will first desire to invade the industrial centres of the north. They appreciate what effect that would have if they succeeded. Once let them get hold of some of the big manufacturing towns, factories would be smashed up and ruined, and I estimate that they could throw 14,000,000 persons out of employment, rendering them destitute and starving. It is certain that even by a short, sharp raid they could do a tremendous amount of damage."

Gen. Baden-Powell is far less optimistic about the war than many of England's public men. The hero of Mafeking, in discussing the present crisis, said:

"There are still many persons in country districts, and even in some of our large towns, who do not realize what this great war means—that Britain's fight is one for her very existence. We receive encouraging reports that we are doing well, but we must remember that one side or the other must go under forever. At present it looks as if the wind is blowing in our favor, but there is always the unexpected to consider. You can never tell. The right thing to do is to try to smash the Germans now, which means that every man must put his shoulder to the wheel."

Brussels Will Pay War Lien.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 14.—A Berlin despatch says that Brussels and suburbs have decided to pay the war lien of $11,250,000 imposed by Germany, by means of special taxes payable up to June 15, 1915.

How to Neutralize Dangerous Stomach Acids

Few people besides physicians realize the importance if keeping the food contents of the stomach free from acid fermentation. Healthy, normal digestion cannot take place while the delicate lining of the stomach is being inflamed and distended by acid and wind—the result of fermenting food in the stomach. To secure perfect digestion, fermentation must be stopped or prevented and the acid neutralised. For this purpose physicians recommend getting a little bisurated magnesia from the druggist and taking a teaspoonful in a little hot or cold water immediately after eating. They recommend bisurated magnesia because it is pleasant to take, has no disagreeable after-effects and instantly stops fermentation, neutralizes the acid and makes the sour acid bland, sweet and easily digested.

The regular use of bisurated magnesia—be sure you get the bisurated, as other kinds of magnesia are of little value—is an absolute guarantee of healthy, normal digestion, for it overcomes and prevents that acid condition which alone is the cause of trouble.

BEFORE I GO TO BED.

Each evening as the clock strikes seven,
Directly after tea,
My mamma gets me dressed for bed.
An' then she cuddles me.
Sits down in her own rocking-chair
An' takes me on her knee.

She tells me then such lovely tales,
How all the stars and flowers
An' clouds are splendid castles grand
With shiny rainbow towers.
I fink that I would like to stay
An' listen there for hours.

An' 'fore she kisses me "good-night"
She softly strokes my hair,
While I kneel down beside her knee
An' say my evening prayer.
An' when she tucks me safe in bed
She says I'm in God's care.

So I'm not frightened of the dark,
'Cause mamma says it's clear
That children who have trust in God
Need never have a fear;
For angels watch them as they sleep,
An' God is always near.

BEIRUT ABANDONED.

Turks Have Carried Off Allies' Subjects as Hostages.

LONDON, Dec. 14. — The Turkish troops and inhabitants have abandoned Beirut, withdrawing inland, fearing the landing of the allies.

In the event of the allies landing the Turks threaten reprisals against the allied subjects who are held as hostages.

An official statement telling of the bombardment by Turkish warships of the Russian fortified port of Batum, in the Black Sea, was issued yesterday at Petrograd by the headquarters of the Caucasian army.

"On Saturday, Dec. 12, toward two o'clock in the afternoon, the former German battle-cruiser Goeben, accompanied by the Turkish torpedo-gunboat Berki Satvet, approached Batum and attempted to bombard the fortress of the city.

"The forts, however, opened fire, and the Goeben, after firing fifteen shots, rapidly withdrew. The damage caused by the fire of the warships was insignificant."

According to information reaching Petrograd, a large Turkish division has attempted in vain to enter Russia through Persian territory. The Turks have been repulsed in spite of assistance rendered by the Kurds.

A Berlin wireless despatch received in London says that an attack on the Dardanelles by the British and French fleet is reported in Berlin. The bombardment of the allied warships was without success, it is declared at the German headquarters.

DRESDEN IS CORNERED.

She Is Reported to Have Reached Punta Arenas on Straits.

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 14. — The Argentine Government has received word that the German cruiser Dresden has arrived at Punta Arenas, on the Straits of Magellan. A despatch from Puerto Gallegos says that a vessel has been sighted there, surrounded by British ships. Another despatch says the Dresden has taken refuge off the coast of Patagonia.

Another despatch from Buenos Ayres says it is officially announced by the German consul at Punta Arenas that the Dresden arrived there yesterday.

Previous advices from the Argentine capital said that the Dresden had grounded in Rio Gallegos. The grounding of the Dresden in Rio Gallegos is confirmed by new advices from that point, which state that the warship which was beached in the roads there was floated during the day, and sailed for the south.

The report from Punta Arenas indicates that the Dresden was not severely damaged, as it is evident that she proceeded from Gallegos roads to Puna Arenas under her own steam.

TWO-CENT STAMP DOES.

France Puts on Home Postage Rates For Alsace.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—A simple official notice that is of great value as a historical document has been posted at the chief postoffices throughout France. It notifies the public that henceforward letters to points in twenty-one communes of Alsace will require only a two-cent stamp. This means that after forty-four years under German rule these districts form a part of the soil of France in an actual administrative sense.

Grand Duke Congratulates Sturdee.

LONDON, Dec. 12. — Grand Duke Nicholas, generalissimo of the Russian armies, sent the following message yesterday to the British Admiralty:

"Having heard the good news of the brilliant victory gained by Admiral Sturdee, I hasten to offer my own warm congratulations and those of Russian fleet and army."

AN EASY WAY TO GET FAT AND BE STRONG

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on dragging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to the remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its re-generative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Leading druggists of Peterborough have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee printed in every package.

Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

President Poincare has telegraphed his felicitations to Crown Prince Alexander, the regent of Servia, on the success of the Servian troops.

Press despatches from Constantinople say German words are supplanting French in Turkey, and that German will be taught in the schools.

Wellington County Council on Saturday passed a resolution giving to the patriotic fund an assessment on the county rate of one mill. This will amount to $30,000.

Four more deaths are officially reported from Salisbury Plain—Sapper George Burnett, divisional engineer; Pte. F. J. Rees, Gunner E. H. M. Penn and Pte. John Ivers.

The German soldiers located in the mountain districts on the eastern battlefront, are now wearing white clothing, as this renders them less easily observed on the snowclad landscapes.

It is announced in London that Ramsay McDonald, leader of the British Labor party, formerly one of the most active opponents of war, has gone to the front in the Red Cross service.

Enormous quantities of all sorts of goods from England and elsewhere are awaiting reshipment at Archangel in northern Russia. These include half a million tons of coal, thousands of tons of herrings, machinery, cotton and chemicals.

Potato Embargo Lifted.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—The Department of Agriculture has been officially advised that the American Government has raised the embargo against Canadian potatoes made Dec. 23, 1913.

The attention of the potato shippers of the Dominion is called to the fact that they are now free to commence shipping potatoes to the United States, subject to the new potato regulations. Shippers and all others interested should immediately apply for registration forms to the Dominion botanist at Ottawa, who will then arrange for inspection and certification.

The American authorities announce that for the present Canadian potatoes will be admitted only through the ports of New York and Boston, where they maintain inspectors.

Punishment Will Be Severe.

JOHANNESBURG, Dec. 14.—It is semi-officially stated that the Government does not intend to go to extremes in the policy of leniency with the leaders of the late Boer rebellion, including Gen. De Wet and Lieut.-Col. Maritz, but that they will be made to realize the full gravity of their offence.

Mutiny in Turkish Fleet.

ATHENS, Dec. 14.—A mutiny has broken out among the sailors of the fleet at Constantinople, owing to brutal treatment of the men by German officers. A revolt of Turkish troops at Stamboul Barracks for the same cause followed. Two German officers were killed.

PRESENT WAR GAINS FOR THE SUBMARINE CHIEF ATTENTION OF NAVAL CONSTRUCTORS WHO DOUBTED ITS EFFICIENCY

Allies' Lines May Bend, but Never Break, Says Frenchman from Front

Mr. Gaston Dru Tells of Trenches That Are Semi-Permanent Fortifications, with Barbed Wire Entanglements and Heavy Guns on Most Important Positions.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Dec. 12.

M. Gaston Dru, writing for the Daily Mail of French bravery, says:—

"A Frenchman who has just returned from the front, where he spent several days with the different French army staffs, and who is staying for a few days in London, gave me the following account of his trip to the English and French lines:—ground they defend, for their sportsmanlike behavior under the most trying circumstances. They seem, in fact, to consider war as a sport, rather more dangerous than big game shooting, but as highly interesting. Let me say that, in a different way, the French troops show the same admirable morale and give you a few instances of their heroic behavior.

A Gallant R. C. O.

"I happened to inspect our lines near Verdun a few days after a very stirring episode had taken place. A French 'adjudant' (non-commissioned officer of one of our territorial regiments—which are, as you know, our Landsturm and not supposed to be as fully prepared for active service as our standing army or its reserve—had, with a few of his men, held a farm for over forty-eight hours against a considerable number of German troops who had attacked the buildings with the utmost determination and with the support of artillery. After the relief of this territorial unit the general in command of that part of the French line paraded them and, unexpectedly calling the 'adjudant' out of the ranks, gave him there and then the highest reward which could be given to him—la médaille militaire—and asked him what was his calling in civilian life. 'I am the son of the proprietor of a night restaurant facing the Folies-Bergères and I help my father,' said the 'adjudant.' Is not that typical of the French army? This man, who had certainly not been prepared by his ordinary life—rather the reverse—for deeds of military courage, had behaved under the most trying circumstances like a hero and held against tremendous odds a position which ought to have been in reason carried a hundred times by the overwhelming German forces which attacked it!

General with a Charmed Life.

"Another instance of French bravery. We are in the North of France now, close to these English soldiers, whose courage fills our men with noble emulation. An old French general, very fat and hating to walk more than absolutely necessary, has a campstool carried by one of his A.D.C.'s and planted always where the German bullets and shells fall the thickest. He seems to bear a charmed life, the hail of lead always leaving him unscathed. His staff has already been renewed twice, but the old fellow is still unwounded. Unnecessary exposure of life, would you say? Now, listen. The other day on a most vital point of our line the Germans made a desperate effort to break through. The French trenches, raked by shell and bullet, were becoming wellnigh untenable. Appears the old fat general. His A. D. C. puts down the well known campstool, the general sits on it. The deathly hurricane becomes so violent that the defenders of the trenches waver—a few seconds more and there would be a panic among them. 'Hullos, children,' says the old fat man, lighting a cigar, 'are you going to leave me? I am comfortable here. I hate walking. My horse is not here and if you go I must remain alone.' A cheer from the French trenches. The soldiers will not leave their general, and the whole day long they hold their trenches, inflicting tremendous loss on the Germans, who could not in spite of their efforts, 'bag' or kill the old fat man.

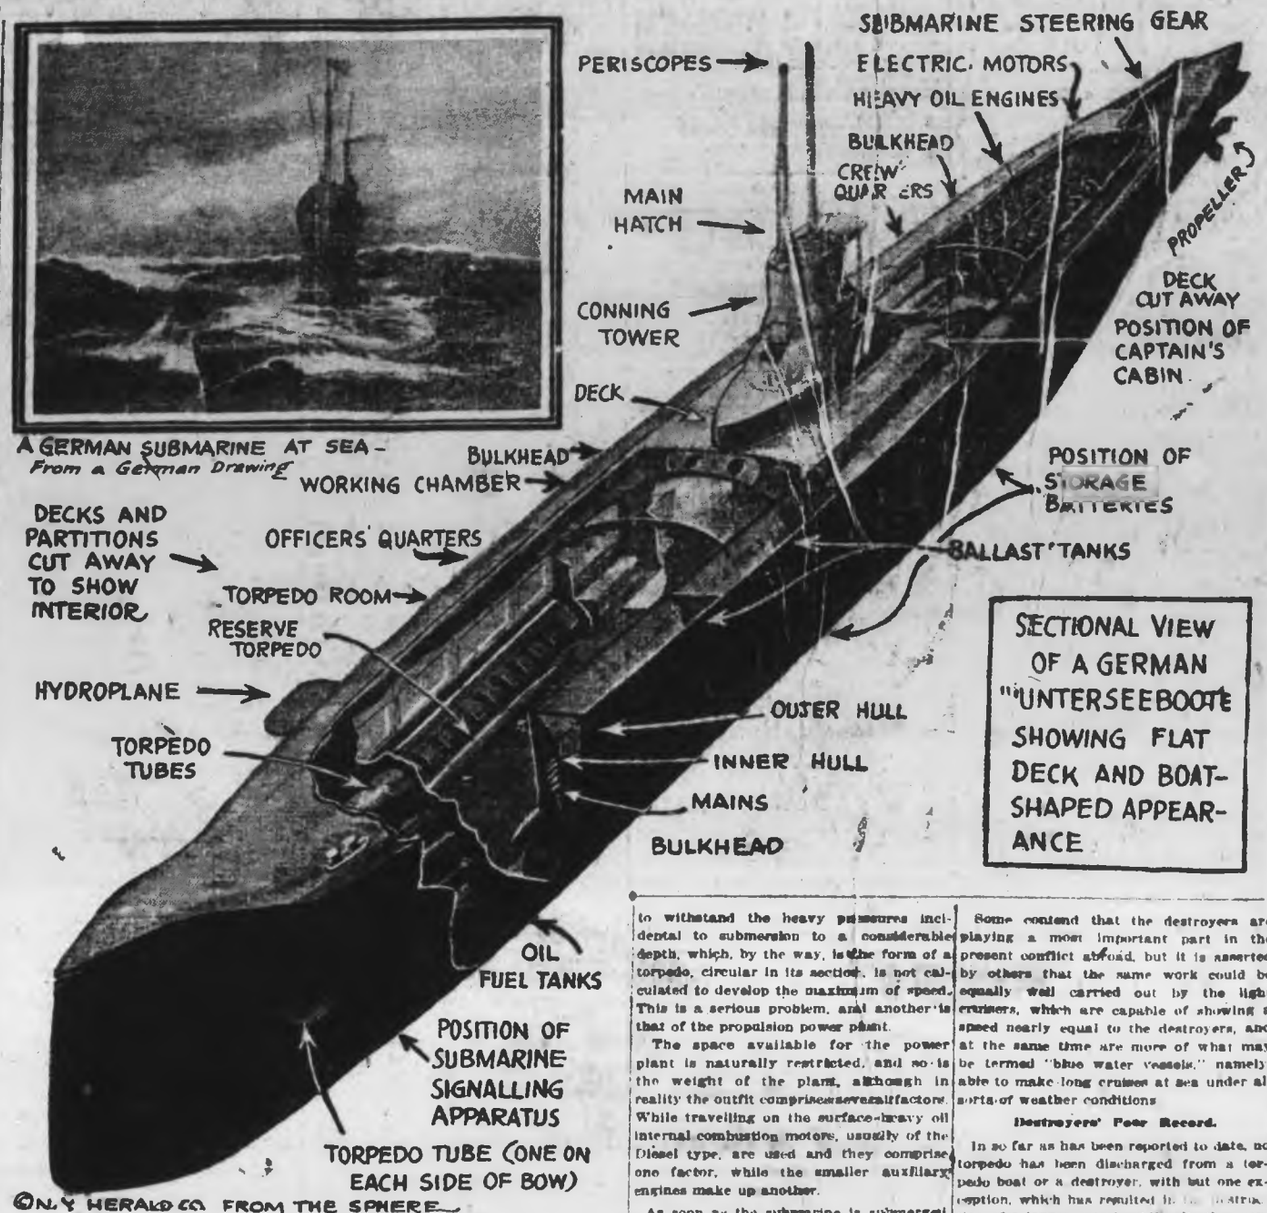
German Cruelty to Wounded.

"Let us go back now to the east, near the Argonne. I will tell you a story which will show the inhumanity of the foes against which we are fighting. Two trenches a couple of hundred yards apart. Night attack by the French; counter-night attack by the Germans; neither party able to break through. Lots of German wounded remain near the French barbed wire entanglements, lots of French wounded lie in front of the German lines. Under cover of the night the French bring into their lines the German wounded, for in the day it would become impossible. Not so the Germans. They leave the French wounded to lie the whole day in front of their trenches, moaning and screaming. During the next night those of the poor fellows who are able to do so try to crawl toward the French trenches. German soldiers get out of their lines, get hold of the French wounded, drag them back where they have fallen, and, jeering at the French, who do not dare to fire for fear of hitting their wounded comrades, return to their own trenches. One of the French wounded, half delirious, sing-songs at intervals during forty-eight hours the following melody:—

Messieurs les Allemands,
Je suis trop blessé
Pour me battre encore;
Venez me chercher,
Donnez-moi un peu d'eau,
Car je meurs de soif!

(Messieurs the Germans, I am too seriously wounded to fight you again: come and reach me, give me a little water, for I am dying of thirst.) The Germans sneer and clap their hands. This gruesome scene lasted two days, at the end of which the French troops, incensed, made a night sally, which was what the Germans had hoped for. In spite of terrific fire the French succeeded in bringing back to their trenches what remained alive of their wounded. The poor fellow who sang the mournful melody is now in hospital and will live."

A GERMAN SUBMARINE AT SEA—
From a German Drawing



ONLY HERALD CO. FROM THE SPHERE

SECTIONAL VIEW OF A GERMAN "UNTERSEEBOOTE" SHOWING FLAT DECK AND BOAT-SHAPED APPEARANCE

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Dec. 12.

WHILE it is general admitted that Germany practised a remarkable policy as regards preparedness in army affairs for the war now in progress abroad, it is equally true that the British policy as regards the navy was on what was supposed to be a basis of equal preparedness.

The vast and scattered possessions of the British Empire, together with its admitted supremacy in the maritime world, made it necessary for Great Britain to keep ahead of other nations in so far as the navy was concerned, but unfortunately no real test of the actual values of various types of fighting ships was available to assist the British Admiralty in its expenditures.

The present war has very largely affected the policy of the Admiralty, and though it may be more or less premature to say what the future policy of construction will be, nevertheless many important truths have been demonstrated, and at great cost, both as regards vessels and men.

Theories Are Now Tested.

During the last ten years the ideas embodied by naval constructors in the vessels built in that time have been based chiefly on theory rather than practice, and now that the opportunity to determine the relative values of various types of vessels intended for purposes of war is at hand the British Admiralty is making a close study of results.

As an example of the various opinions of the value of various types, that of Lord Charles Beresford regarding submarines is most interesting. Only about three weeks before war was declared this eminent authority stated that the submarine was not a blue water vessel, and he maintained that it was useless on the sea's highways.

The successful operation of submarines since the war started has demonstrated that Lord Charles Beresford was mistaken in his judgment of these vessels, and a majority of those interested in British naval construction affairs now attach great importance to the submarine. It is probable that more vessels of that type will be built in the future than of any other.

Battle Ship Not Yet Tested.

Authorities are not prepared to say that the usefulness of the battle ship has been proven a negative quantity by the submarine, as the inroads of the subsea vessels have so far been successful chiefly against cruisers and other speedy craft.

The submarine of the present day does not meet with all requirements, however, and it is probable that those of the future will be equipped with power sufficient to give them a surface speed of about twenty-one knots, or, in other words, enough speed to enable them to keep up with a battle squadron at sea.

The problems that confront naval architects and constructors in the development of submarines of sufficient size to go to sea and stay there for long voyages, and at the same time to have a speed of twenty-one knots, are not at all easy to solve, though not by any means beyond the realm of possibility.

That form of hull which is best able to withstand the heavy pressures incidental to submersion to a considerable depth, which, by the way, is the form of a torpedo, circular in its section, is not calculated to develop the maximum of speed. This is a serious problem, and another is that of the propulsion power plant.

The space available for the power plant is naturally restricted, and so is the weight of the plant, although in reality the outfit comprises several factors. While travelling on the surface heavy oil internal combustion motors, usually of the Diesel type, are used and they comprise one factor, while the smaller auxiliary engines make up another.

As soon as the submarine is submerged she is driven by electricity, and this is generated by dynamos while on the surface and delivered through storage batteries to the shafts and propellers. This electrical equipment makes up another factor, while the compressors and other auxiliary machinery necessary to eject the torpedoes and operate the pumps must also be considered.

The Diesel motor, of many makes and designs, is heavy and more or less intricate, but has the great advantage of using heavy low grade fuel oils rather than volatile gasolene, and this factor for safety is considered to offset all other disadvantages the Diesel engines may possess resulting from the high compression necessary for their operation and the consequent heavy construction and multiplicity of parts.

Dislike German Motor.

It is known that the Allies are determined to eliminate everything German or of German origin, wherever possible, and, as the Diesel motor is of German origin so far as the inventor of the principle is concerned, although made in many countries, the nations now at war with Germany are anxious to find some substitute for the Diesel motor, but at the present time have not succeeded.

Representatives of various Powers abroad have recently been on a quest for some motor of American origin to take the place of the Diesel motor. What they desire is an engine that does not of necessity operate under such high compression, and hence may be built lighter, with fewer parts and at less cost, than the Diesel, but that may use the same grades of oils with the assurance that the combustion will be perfect.

Some contend that the destroyers are playing a most important part in the present conflict abroad, but it is asserted by others that the same work could be equally well carried out by the light cruisers, which are capable of showing a speed nearly equal to the destroyers, and at the same time are more of what may be termed "blue water vessels," namely, able to make long cruises at sea under all sorts of weather conditions.

Destroyers' Poor Record.

In so far as has been reported to date, no torpedo has been discharged from a torpedo boat or a destroyer, with but one exception, which has resulted in the destruction of a larger vessel, while all other vessels reported to have been destroyed by under water means met destruction through submarines or mines.

In the latest light cruisers the speed has been about thirty knots, whereas the destroyers have an average speed of about thirty-five knots, but it seems to have been demonstrated that the ability of a submarine to remain unseen is worth more from an offensive standpoint than the far greater speed of the destroyer or the fast cruiser, both of which are depended upon to render effective work through their torpedo tubes.

For defensive purposes, such as scouting and patrol duty, there is no doubt that the light cruiser has many advantages not possessed by the submarine. At the same time, in surface action, it has been demonstrated that several destroyers may greatly bother an enemy and lessen the effectiveness of the enemy's broadsides, but these in the advantages of the destroyers have been enumerated.

Moral Effect Is Great.

Like mines, submarines have a serious moral effect on officers and crews of opposing nations. The unseen antagonist is the most dreaded and as such the submarine has its special value. Great Britain's next naval appropriation will be liberal as regards submarines and the same appears to be true regarding France, Russia and Japan among the Allies, while the success of the U-9 will in itself encourage Germany to greatly increase the number of submarines in her navy, unless some understanding that tends toward general disarmament is arrived at when the present conflict abroad ends.

Germany's "Minenwurfer" Throws 200 Pound Shell That Can Be Seen Coming

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Dec. 12.

As the war progresses we become more and more aware of the completeness of the German fighting machine.

The huge howitzers which were used in the reduction of the Belgian forts were perhaps the most surprising feature of the Teuton's artillery equipment. But in many other departments the careful scientific preparation and forethought which have been displayed are only too evident. If the morale of the German troops were only equal to the excellence of their artillery equipment a different tale of their progress on the Continent could be told.

A late instalment of "Eye Witness's" graphic account of the war contains an allusion to the "minenwürfer," or trench howitzer, which the Germans are using. "In this quarter," he writes, referring to the sanguinary conflict now in progress on the Lys, "we experienced for the first time in the northern theatre of war the action of the 'minenwürfer.'"

This trench howitzer is another of the productions of Krupp. It is a curious little weapon, but, though small, it is undoubtedly a factor seriously to reckon with in trench fighting.

Howitzer a Novel Weapon.

The howitzer itself is only three feet or so long and weighs 150 pounds. Its mounting is a small affair of about 100 pounds, but it is attached to a heavy bed or platform of 930 pounds dead weight. This complete mass of a little over half a ton is provided with wheels and a couple of handles and can readily be transported by two men.

Its small size and mobility permit of it being moved about in the trenches. When in position the howitzer, with its bed, is removed from the travelling wheels, and the weapon can then be fired from the ground. The shell, or bomb, which the "minenwürfer" throws is illustrated in the diagram. It is a decided novelty in munitions of war.

The calibre of the howitzer is less than three inches, but the shell thrown is a sphere over a foot in diameter, weighing, with its charge of high explosive, close upon two hundred pounds.

To enable the little howitzer to accommodate such a huge shell an adapter has to be used. In the diagram the adapter is shown shaded. The long stem fits into the bore of the "minenwürfer," and a shorter stem, culminating in a kind of cup, fits into the shell itself and holds it in position for discharge.

When the howitzer is fired the adapter and shell are forced out together. The two are soon separated, however, the air, forcing its way between them in the direction of the arrows, causing the adapter to fall apart and to allow the shell to travel on its way alone.

The velocity given to the shell as it leaves the bore of the howitzer is only 220 feet per second. The lowest elevation employed is forty-five degrees, and at this angle the shell travels a distance of 550 yards, the maximum range obtainable. The accuracy of fire is said to be very good.

Its Flight Can Be Seen.

Although this range is so small, the shell takes no less than ten seconds in its flight, and reaches a height of 410 feet in the air. It is difficult to imagine the feelings of those in the trenches against which the howitzer is operating, as they see the large circular shell lobbing toward them. The projectile consists of but a thin steel envelope, the greater part of its 300 pounds weight consisting of high explosive.

Four pounds of dynamite or gun-cotton are considered sufficient to demolish breastworks of two to three feet thickness, composed of earth rammed between planks or railway sleepers. It is not, then, difficult to estimate the destructive powers of such a mass of high explosive falling into the trenches.

The effect of ordinary shrapnel shell is obtained by the bullets and splinters of the envelope when the shell bursts. With the "minenwürfer" shell the effect is almost entirely explosive. The walls of the shell are too thin to be capable of doing much damage, and it is not in this direction that the effect is expected.

When the trenches are less than five or six hundred yards apart, a shorter range can be obtained by elevating the howitzer to a greater angle than forty-five degrees. At sixty degrees, for instance, the range would be 470 yards. The shell would then reach a height of 530 feet in the air, and would take twelve and a half seconds to complete the trajectory.

Invasion of England by Air May Come Any Moment

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Dec. 12.

The reasons for the general disbelief that exists in England of a German invasion already have been reported. And while much correspondence appears in the daily newspapers regarding the necessity for preparation in case of such an event by the organization of civilian defensive forces, like the landsturm in Germany, the English people as a whole remain very blind to the necessity for such precautions.

There are experts in aerial navigation who believe that a German invasion is not only possible but probable, and who have, therefore, been keenly watching the coastal struggle and studying its significance. One of these is H. Massac Buist, who discusses the situation with some authority.

"The determined endeavors of the Germans to gain positions bordering on the Straits of Dover," he says, "have served on the one hand for the publication of the most alarmist reports of their intentions, and on the other for contemptuous assertions by a section of civilian writers in England to the effect that whether the enemy gain possession of any bases on the Straits of Dover or not makes absolutely no difference in what they can do to annoy England. This second school, for example, asserts that Ostend, Calais and Boulogne would be of no use as bases from which to operate airships, and that despite the fact that various forms of more or less portable German airship halls are already being set up at Brussels, Antwerp and elsewhere.

"The one contention is as absurd as the other. This is self evident if we consider what manner of vehicle of the air any class of airship is.

"The great problem before all classes of airship builders is to utilize as small a proportion as possible of hydrogen, the lifting force to raise the mere body of the airship, so that as large a proportion of the force as possible may be available for lifting crew, fuel, ammunition or other apparatus required for the purposes of campaign service. All classes of machines that navigate the air have to carry their fuel supplies with them, therefore, if they are required to make a long voyage, nearly all their load carrying capacity must be employed in lifting the fuel. Thus, if operating from any base on the North Sea that would require a voyage of 150 miles or more to reach England, an airship, which always has to return to its base if it is to end the voyage safely, would have to carry fuel for anything between 300 and 600 miles more than would be necessary for it to make an attempt on England from a base such as Calais. Were it operating from that French port the same airship would be able to carry a ton or two more ammunition, because it would want that much less weight of fuel to accomplish the given task.

Would Have England Prepared.

"For these reasons all talk of the possession of Channel bases being useless to the Germans for the purpose of employing aircraft against England is idle. To say that they can operate against England more conveniently from a base nearer at hand is not to indulge in scaremongering. To create a false confidence on the part of the public and tell it in effect that England is immune from aerial raid is absurd.

"The public must be prepared for the new era. It must also learn the lessons that this war has taught. Many a German move is made not because there is any sense or military object in it, but merely because it is hoped by that means to spread terror. Therefore, though no permanent good, and certainly very little military damage, is likely to result from any German aerial raid over England, a deal of miscellaneous damage could be done. Further, the possession of Channel bases would inevitably mean that bomb dropping expeditions by aeroplanes would be possible on the part of a German force operating against England.

"In times of peace, too, Germany has concentrated a deal of attention on evolving comparatively heavy and large aeroplanes, even as she has especially favored large air ships in the preliminary stages of the war the superiority of the smaller sized and speedier British aeroplanes stood the Allies in excellent stead. In turn there seemed a very considerable amount of evidence to the effect that German aeroplanes rather had the advantage of the average French types in the matter of speed. So this as it may, in the later stages of the war the greater part of German aeroplane work has not been done by the largest type of machines that have been evolved in the Fatherland in times of peace.

Invasion By Aeroplane.

"It is therefore necessary matter for speculation whether or not Germany's plans for making an aerial invasion of England include the use of aeroplanes. From the point of view of range there is no reason whatever why these should not be flown quite effectively from as far as Ostend well into England if Germany were to obtain bases nearer Calais or Boulogne, yet longer excursions could be made by such aeroplanes into England. The use of larger machines than appear so far to have been employed on any general scale in the war might not be intended merely for the carrying of greater supplies of petrol—as with the Curtiss transatlantic aeroplane, which had to be made on a large scale to carry big stores of fuel, with a corresponding demand for greater motor power—but it might be to enable the capacity for the carrying of bombs or aerial torpedoes to be as great as possible."

IN GERMANY BY MISCHANCE, WRITER SEES BOYS DRILL

Correspondent on Wrong Train Narrowly Escapes by Crowding Under Seat.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Dec. 12.

A story of an exciting trip into German territory, which was entirely unintentional, is sent by a correspondent now stationed at Lake Constance.

Remembering that Constance was a training centre for the younger German conscripts, he writes:—I thought a short trip might prove interesting. I therefore went to Kreuzlingen, a small Swiss town, that is really a suburb of Constance, with the idea of arranging a cab drive into Germany.

This turned out to be impossible, first because what few cabs Kreuzlingen possessed before the war had emigrated to Constance for the use of their excellencies the Herren Offiziere, and secondly because gendarmes stood like guardian angels by the chain that stretches half way across the road and divides Switzerland from God's own empire. Only Germans and Swiss are allowed to enter the allowed territory at this point, so that when my passport was demanded I remarked regretfully that I had left it at home. This was strictly true, for I had taken care to bring nothing incriminating with me except my mistakes when talking German.

Giving up the quest as hopeless for the moment, I decided to catch the 3.22 train back to my present quarters, but when the train moved off I discovered we were off in a northerly instead of a southerly direction. "Konstanz," called the conductor as he stalked through the carriage. I was in Germany. I hesitated, and was saved, for it was not until we were again on the move that I decided to leave the train, and I jumped off some fifty yards from the station. By dodging under a wire fence and following a small path parallel with the railway line I reached the town.

There was nothing for it but to put aside all horrid doubts about whether it would be possible to get out of Germany and to make the most of my sightseeing opportunities. In three hours I "did" Constance in approved American tourist fashion.

The cafés were thronged with groups discussing the inevitable topic of Deutschland's victories and drinking the beer so dear to the hearts of all good Bavarians and Wurtembergers.

A band of ragamuffins, their closely cropped heads half hidden under cardboard helmets, were goodnaturedly cheered as they performed a caricature of the goose step past a barracks building, preceded by a small urchin who sounded notes out of a kettledrum.

In the barracks yard a detachment of youths, many of them only five or six years older than the young barbarians, were being drilled by a loud voiced and at times abusive sergeant. They were grimly serious about their work and from the intense look on their faces they appeared to think that the fate of the Hohenzollern dynasty depended on whether they pleased a group of wounded officers, two of them wearing the much distributed Iron cross, who stood watching.

"Fine, aren't they?" said a woman at my side.

"Splendid," I replied, and then to avoid awkward questions as to why I was not doing military service, "We don't see things like that in Switzerland."

As in French towns, the proportion of people wearing mourning was large, and in the fine old church I saw row upon row of kneeling women clad in black.

There is a large hospital for French wounded in Constance, and about twenty of them were being brought from the station. They were mostly only suffering from slight injuries and could walk, but two or three were carried on ambulances. The German population watched them silently, and there were no signs of a hostile demonstration.

Acting on the principle that one is more hidden in a crowd than in a corner, I dined at a large second class restaurant, which was nearly full. To avoid unwelcome and dangerous conversation I chose a small table near the door, at which an unterofficier and a girl were seated.

The air was thick with battle talk. A woman who entered with a late edition of an evening paper quickly sold out, and from all sides came the question: "Was ist neues?"

"Nothing special," said the non-commissioned officer at my table to his woman friend. "I can't understand why we are not getting nearer the French coast."

Emboldened by the fact that I had not once been in a really awkward situation since my predicament in the train, I decided to spend an hour in a popular "konzert and bierhalle" that I remembered going to as a student. Here, instead of the "Fur Kaiser, Vaterland und Gott" type of song one would have expected at such a time, the singers were running appeals with racy ditties that would certainly not have passed the British censor.

Startled at hearing French spoken behind me, I turned round and saw two French women. A man sitting by them asked if I had seen an evening paper. I said no, but there was nothing new in it. Sadly conscious that if I became involved in a talk with him I should betray the numerous imperfections in my German, I plunged into conversation with one of the French women. After listening for a while the man who had addressed me got up suddenly and went out by a side door.

"He suspects you," said the French woman. "Are you a German?" If not you had better go before he comes back with somebody else."

"Why I am from Geneva," I said. While passing out I heard my kind friend telling another man that I was French-Swiss, and that she had met me in Geneva.

Admittedly in a blue funk, I set as many streets between myself and the "konzert and bierhalle" as was possible in ten minutes. It was then more than ten o'clock, and I realized that getting into Germany was far easier than getting out. At length I found a cab, and rode with relief that the driver wore the Swiss button.

"I am French-Swiss, but I have lost my passport," I said, thinking one small lie better than enforced residence in Germany. "I will give you five francs if you can get me back to Kreuzlingen."

According to a British scientist colour blindness is hereditary, but is transmitted only by women to their children, never by men.

A gun which fires a six-pound projectile without recoil has been invented by a United States naval officer for use on aeroplanes.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A CASE IN COURT

For Alienation of Affection

By F. A. MITCHEL

Herbert Harley and Margaret Bartholow were co-eds at —— university. There they formed an acquaintance which drifted into love. Unfortunately for their union Miss Bartholow had an aunt who was an active worker in the cause of equal rights for women with men. This lady, Miss Amelia Ascerbiton, was a member of the bar.

Margaret was graduated with high honors, and her aunt was bent on her preparing for the same profession as herself. There had been a long courtship between Harley and the young lady, during which she had agreed to marry him. Harley endeavored to hold her to her promise, but Miss Ascerbiton contended that marriage in the case of a woman was incompatible with a profession. She therefore endeavored to persuade her niece to break her engagement.

There was a strife between Harley and Miss Ascerbiton as to who should secure Margaret, the aunt for the law, the lover for a wife. The former won. Miss Bartholow broke her engagement and forthwith entered upon the study of the profession her aunt desired she should adopt.

Harley was greatly disappointed and angered, not at the girl he loved, but at her aunt, who had influenced her. For two years he kept nursing his wrath, which, instead of dying out, burned continually fiercer. Meanwhile he and his former fiancée had been leading their respective classes in schools of law and were admitted to practice in the courts. It was then that Harley decided to sue Miss Ascerbiton for the alienation of the affections of her niece.

Miss Ascerbiton sprang to the front like one who smelled the battle from afar. Being an attorney, she took charge of her own defense and persuaded her niece to assist her as associate counsel. Harley conducted his own case, without assistance from any one.

"HER BEAUTIFUL FACE WAS TURNED UP TOWARD MINE."

"Your honor," said Harley, making his plea, "this is a suit to recover damages of the defendant for alienating the affections of her niece from me, the plaintiff."

"I move, your honor," said Miss Ascerbiton, "that the case be thrown out of court from the fact that there was no such affection on the part of the said Margaret Bartholow for the plaintiff as described by him. There being no affection to alienate, this suits falls to the ground."

"I presume you intend to prove," said the judge, "by Miss Bartholow's own statement that she did not love the plaintiff. The court rules that this is a matter which must come up in the usual way, the plaintiff having the right to introduce evidence to prove his case."

Harley proceeded:

"It is incumbent upon me as plaintiff in this case to show just what the defendant has endeavored to prevent my showing—that the said Margaret Bartholow did on the 24th of May"—

"I object, your honor!" cried the defendant's assistant, rising with blushing cheeks. "This is not a suit for breach of promise, but a suit for alienation of affection."

"The objection is not sustained," said the judge. "The plaintiff must prove that there was affection to be alienated or his suit fails."

"Then we admit that there was something like of"— Miss Bartholow was beginning.

"We admit nothing of the sort!" cried Miss Ascerbiton savagely.

"Your honor," interrupted Harley, "I desire to assure the defendant's assistant counsel that I shall respect her feelings so far as possible. I shall not read extracts from letters I have received from her as is usual in cases of breach of promise."

"Stop your pettifogging!" snarled Miss Ascerbiton.

"What do you mean?" asked Harley.

"You're trying to influence the jury to believe that you have evidence that does not exist."

"I do not need such evidence. I will make a simple statement of my own. It was the evening of the 24th of May, 190—, that I visited Miss Bartholow at a country place where she was at the time staying. She was dressed becomingly in a light pink summer silk. It was evening, and the day was receding before the coming night, a half moon presiding over the two. I invited Miss Bartholow to walk with me in the garden. Many of the flowers were in bloom, and the roses were budding. They were beautiful, but the lady at my side was far more beautiful.

"She plucked a rose, the only one in bloom, and placed it on my coat for a boutonniere. Her hand accidentally came in contact with mine"—

"Accidentally?" snapped Miss Ascerbiton.

The jury looked daggers at the defendant, and the judge forbade her making any more such irrelevant interruptions. Harley proceeded.

"A current passed from her hand to my heart. Her beautiful face was turned up toward mine, and I was tempted to kiss her delicately curved coral lips. But I desisted. I had not yet such a right.

"We walked on over gravel paths lined with boxwood, the flowers beyond nodding to us as if to say: 'Hail, lovers! We were born for such as you. We delight you with our beauty. We influence you with our perfume to love. We shall die with the coming of frost, while you love on through the years. But with the opening of the next season we shall influence others to mate and through other seasons their children and their children's children to become lovers.'

Miss Ascerbiton, seeing the effect this address was having on the jury and presuming that the speaker was intending to contrast it with the breaking up of this love which she was accused of bringing about, arose and said tartly:

"Your honor, I should like to know what this effusion has to do with the case on trial. Does the plaintiff suppose that these intelligent gentlemen of the jury can be influenced by such twaddle?"

"Shut up!" cried a juryman.

"Shoot the old girl!" cried another.

"Go on with the story!" cried a third.

The judge rapped on the desk before him and looked fiercely at everybody in court, awing them into silence. Then he signified to Harley to go on.

"Where was I?" said Harley meditatively.

"In a flower garden with a girl," suggested a juryman.

"In June!" said another.

"No, it wasn't; it was May," a third corrected.

The judge rapped more fiercely than before, then, after an ominous pause, said:

"Gentlemen of the jury, it is permitted you to ask for information bearing on the case, but not to make comments."

Quiet having been restored, Harley proceeded:

"There is a nook in that garden, a bower. In it is a seat overhung with wisteria. We sauntered on and sat down on the seat. The half moon was visible in the sky. A yellow streak marked the place of sunset. A balmy breeze laden with perfume fanned our cheeks."

Here the speaker paused.

"Gentlemen of the jury, out of respect to the feelings of the lady I loved and love today I must end my testimony with the simple words, 'I told her that I loved her, I asked her to be my wife, and she accepted me.'"

There was a look of disappointment on the faces of the jury and, indeed, of all present that the proposal had not been given in full, with a description of the attendant caresses. But out of respect to the feelings of Miss Bartholow, who was quietly weeping, no one insisted on a development of the story. Harley rested his case, but before the defendant arose to speak said:

"May it please the court, I move an adjournment of this case for half an hour. I intend to make an effort to settle the case out of court."

"The court is adjourned for thirty minutes."

Miss Ascerbiton arose, turned her back on her niece, the judge, the jury, and stalked out of the courtroom.

"Goodby, dearie!" said a juryman.

"Why don't you git a feller in a flower garden yourself?" said another.

"You'll have to come down with the dust."

Miss Bartholow said something in a low voice to Harley, who sat on the other side of a table between them. He nodded assent and, rising, said to the judge, who had not yet left the bench:

"Your honor, I am authorized to state by the assistant counsel that this case is settled. She has agreed to marry me on condition that I assent to her practicing her profession if and so long as she chooses to do so. I have no objection whatever to my wife entering any profession whatever, and I have accepted the condition."

There was a murmur of approbation by those present, and the plaintiff and assistant counsel for the defendant left the courtroom together.

Mrs. Harley on reflection chose to let her husband be the provider for the family and gave up practice. After the arrival of their first child she was the more confirmed in this decision.

A NEGLECTED COLD WILL VERY OFTEN TURN TO CONSUMPTION.

Never neglect what at first seems to be only a slight cold. Perhaps you start to cough, a little irritation in the throat ensues, then it gets lower down, settles on the lungs and bronchitis sets in, and you start to raise phlegm of a greenish, yellowish color, and you cough persistently.

If you let the simple cold run it will surely develop into something very serious, and perhaps consumption.

On the first sign of a cold or cough go to your dealer and procure a bottle of

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

A few doses will convince you that it is just the remedy you require.

Mrs. J. W. Pearsons, Amherst, N.S., writes: "Some time ago my daughter had a very bad cough which settled on her chest. She had no rest day or night. I gave her everything I could think of, but without doing her the least bit of good. At last I thought of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I got a bottle for her. She had not taken half of it before she got relief, and with the remainder she was completely cured. Now when any of the family have a cough we always know what to get for it."

Dr. Wood's is 25c and 50.

FELL SEVENTY FEET.

Four Riveters Plunge To Death While at Work at Cooksville.

TORONTO, Dec. 14.—Shooting violently to the earth as the slender scaffolding perched seventy feet high on the tank of the Ontario National Brick Co. gave way beneath their weight, four workmen were dashed to death at noon on Saturday in Cooksville. Death was instantaneous with two of them, but the others lingered long enough to whisper some explanation of the terrible accident. One of them, Andrew Webster, was a mere lad, who had sought the privilege of joining the others in the risky task of riveting seams on the topmost sections of the tank. In his case the experience was heart-rending, for the whole platform not giving away at once, he saw his three companions hurled far below while he still clung to a steel cable. The sag of the planking, however, and the bitterness of the wind loosened the grip of his fingers, and he was hurled violently to the ground.

The dead are: John Bowler, H. McKenna, George Warner, Toronto; Andrew Webster, 19 years of age, Cooksville.

HE GOT THERE.

The man was reading the front page of the newspaper as he walked across the busy street.

"Gee," he mused. "I'd like to get my name in big type on the front page of a newspaper."

Just then a street car bumped into the man.

But he missed the story.

How To Have A Fine Complexion In Winter

Any woman can have a soft, velvety, peach-like complexion in spite of exposure to the worst winter weather and at the same time get rid of wrinkles, chaps and blackheads by applying to the face, with a soft cloth or sponge, just before going out, a lotion which can be prepared by any druggist by mixing 2 ounces of Rosewater with ½ ounces Flowers of Ozoria and ½ dram Tincture of Benzoin. Owing to its soothing and healing properties this lotion gives wonderful relief in cases of eczema, burns and skin irritation. When so used apply liberally without rubbing, but use a compress or bandage. T. H. P.

FOWL NAMES.

The fat plumber was in a philosophical mood.

"There is simply no understanding woman," he observed.

"Whaddye mean, understand?" the thin carpenter asked, just to start the conversation.

"Well, for instance, a woman doesn't object to being called a duck."

"No."

"And she even smiles if some one happens to refer to her as a chicken."

"Too true."

"And most of them will stand for being called squabs, broilers or turtle doves."

"Yes, yes; but what's the idea?"

"It's just this," the fat plumber exclaimed. "A woman objects to being called a hen, and a hen is the most useful bird of the whole blooming bunch."

A YEAR INDOORS.

"For thirteen months I was so bad with chronic indigestion that I could not go out of doors. Nerves were unstrung, the heart bad and smothering feelings came on till I thought I would choke. Doctors' treatment failed me, so I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I thank for my present good health. I am now doing my housework and have a family of ten."

BRITAIN PREPARES TO MEET INVASION BY HOSTILE ARMY

Military Experts Say Germany May Send Detachments Across to Create Diversion

VOLUNTEER CORPS 250,000

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Notwithstanding the conclusions formed by the Imperial Committee of Defence some years ago that an invasion of England would be an impossibility while the British fleet remains in being, invasion by Germans is now considered a distinct possibility.

Both the government and the inhabitants of the sea coast counties are preparing actively to meet a landing of hostile troops. The military preparations have been conducted on a large scale since the beginning of the war. The home army, which is commanded by General Sir Ian Hamilton, who carries a broken wrist as a souvenir of the Boer war, has for its special function, the repelling of an invasion. This army consists mainly of territorials, of which there are some four hundred thousand now under arms in the United Kingdom. A part of the so-called Kitchener's army undoubtedly would be employed in case of need, as well as any Canadian and other colonial troops who might be in the country.

The territorials were organised by Lord Haldane when he was Minister of War and under the terms of their enlistment cannot be ordered abroad, although many of the regiments have volunteered for foreign service and several are on the continent under General French.

Military experts consider it wholly possible that the Germans may make a desperate excursion upon the British coast, even with the expectation of losing a large proportion of their men, for the moral effect the presence of an invader would have in throwing the population into panic and preventing the War Office from sending troops to reinforce the fighting lines in France.

It is thought the Germans might attempt to land two or three contingents at widely separated points for the purpose of dividing the British defensive army and might send their smaller expedition in advance of the main one to create a diversion. The home army has been operating with a view to being prepared to meet such demonstrations. Several thousand labourers have been employed digging trenches and making other defensive works on strategical lines behind the eastern and southern coasts. The preparations of the railroads, controlled by a committee of railway managers who have military rank during the war, have been made for moving large bodies of men and guns quickly. A practice mobilization was conducted a few days ago.

DISCUSS RULES OF WAR.

What citizens may do to defend their homes against an invader within the recognised rules of warfare has become a burning question. A meeting was held in the Guild Hall in London this week to hear from Lord Desborough, well known as the foremost amateur sportsman of England, a statement of the purpose of the central association of volunteer training corps for promoting the military training in spare time of men ineligible for service in the regular forces. The Lord Mayor, the Duke of Norfolk, the Duke of Devonshire, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, H. G. Wells, the author, and several members of parliament and retired army officers took part.

Lord Desborough said that the War Office informed him there was a force of nearly a million men giving up their spare time to drill. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle said that those who were too old to join the army felt that they would be of no use to the country unless they had some rudimentary knowledge of war tactics.

This volunteer training corps is a successor to the historic old train bands. Lord Desborough said he hoped there would be a regiment of many battalions in every county, under the disposition of the lord lieutenant, who would act under orders and advice from the military officer commanding the district.

It is possible that the German army would refuse to recognise these bodies as soldiers as they refused to recognise the civil guard of Belgium. A red armlet stamped with the letters "G. R." (Georgius Rex) is proposed as the insignia for the volunteers, and it is a debated question whether that would constitute a distinctive mark of a belligerent demanded by the usages of civilised warfare. The membership of the rifle clubs and other bodies now belonging to the volunteer corps is reported to be about 250,000.

The Lord Provost of Edinburgh holds the view that civilians should not take up arms against any invaders. "Let them stay in their homes," he has said. "They will be told what to do if the necessity arises, but I do not think there is any more chance of an invasion to-day than there was six weeks ago."

The authorities at Leith, North Berwick, Dunbar and Berwick-on-Tweed have prepared instructions to be given to the population in case of an invasion.

Will You Help The Hospital for Sick Children, the Great Provincial Charity?

Dear Mr. Editor:—

Thanking for the privilege of appealing through your columns on behalf of the Hospital for Sick Children. The Hospital takes care of sick and deformed children, not only in Toronto, but in the Province, outside of the city.

This coming year, of all the years in the Hospital's history, has a more serious outlook, as regards funds for maintenance, than any year that has passed its calendar.

So many calls are being made on the purse of the generous people of Toronto and Ontario, to help the soldiers of the Empire, that as I make my daily rounds through the wards of the Hospital, and see the suffering children in our cots and beds, the thought strikes me as to whether the people will as of old, with all the demands made upon them, answer our appeal and help to maintain the institution that is fighting in the never-ending battle with disease and death, in its endeavor to save the stricken little ones in the child-life of Ontario.

Last year there were 396 in-patients from 210 places outside of Toronto, and in the past twenty years there have been 7,000 from places in the Province other than Toronto.

It costs us $2.24 per patient per day for maintenance. The municipalities pay for patients $1 per patient per day; the Government allows 20 cents per patient per day; so, deducting $1.20 from $2.24, it leaves the Hospital with $1.13 to pay out of subscriptions it receives from the people of Toronto and the Province. The shortage last year ran to $18,000.

Since 1890 about 1,000 cases of club feet, bow legs and knock knees have been treated, and of these 900 had perfect correction. Nearly all these were from different parts of the Province outside of the city of Toronto.

Remember that every year is a war year with the Hospital; every day is a day of battle; every minute the Hospital needs money, not for its own sake, but for the children's sake. The Hospital is the battle-ground where the Armies of Life have grappled with the Hosts of Death, and the life or death of thousands of little children is the issue that is settled in that war. Will you let the Hospital be driven from the field of its battle to save the lives of little children for the lack of money you can give and never miss?

Every dollar may prove itself a gun-boat in the battle against death, a battleship in the fleet that fights for the lives of little children.

Remember that the door of the Hospital's mercy is the door of hope, and your dollar, kind reader, may be the key that opens the door for somebody's child.

Will you send a dollar, or more if you can, to Douglas Davidson, Secretary-Treasurer, or

BOY SCOUTS IN CANADA.

13,569 of Them, According to Returns Discussed by Recent Census.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts' Association, held here Saturday afternoon, the present condition of the movement was discussed. The following returns as disclosed by a recent census of the membership by provinces, were reported:

Ontario, 6,979; Manitoba, 1,818; Quebec, 1,423; Alberta, 1,389; British Columbia, 933; Saskatchewan, 400; New Brunswick, 323; Nova Scotia, 200; Prince Edward Island, 105.

The figures show a light increase over last year. The council is paying special attention to organization work in New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island.

Lieut.-Col. A. E. Stanton, military secretary to his Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, in succession to Lieut.-Col. Farquahar, who left Canada in command of the Princess Patricia's Regiment, was elected honorary Dominion Treasurer. His Royal Highness attended the meeting.

INHERITED.

"What I can't understand about Billy Wiggins is why, with such a splendid, manly man for a father, Billy should be so effeminate," said Dubbleday.

"Why, it's simple enough," said Shallcross. "His mother was a woman."

Frozen Beets Dangerous

The danger of feeding frozen vegetables or fruit cannot be realized until the loss of a valuable animal is experienced. This will prompt the most careless person to be careful not to feed their stock frozen roots, or permit them to come in contact with them anywhere around the farm.

In the first place, there is great danger of an animal being choked upon them owing to the fact that they cannot chew or break up the frozen root small enough to swallow without some danger of the root lodging in the throat or gullet. However, if the animal succeeds in swallowing enough of these frozen vegetables, the heat of the body soon thaws out the vegetable and it then gives off a poisonous gas, which, if it does not kill an animal by bloating and suffocation, is liable to do so by direct action upon the heart.

In this way the animals often die suddenly, even when they are not as greatly distended with gas as they are by eating young alfalfa or clover. If an animal does not consume enough roots to cause death they are very apt to consume sufficient to cause a great disturbance of the entire system, and especially the digestive organs. There is great danger of causing a partial paralysis of some parts of the stomach or bowels, and this is oftentimes manifested by either constipation or diarrhoea. The animal has an anxious look and sometimes manifests its discomforts by a grunt at each respiration.

There is usually a drooping of the ears, horns are cold, if animal has horns, and, in fact, the animal is very much disturbed, and if it be a milking cow she drops off considerably on her flow of milk, which indicates the importance of keeping the digestive organs in order, to obtain the best results.

AN ONLY SON.

On observing that the first five names in the roll of honour published in the London Morning Post obituary column were those of only sons, the father of an only son now serving with the forces sent the following lines:

"Buried in a nameless grave,
Laid aside with other Brave,
His life for King and Right he gave,
Our only son.

A handsome, happy, English boy,
His soldier spurs yet hardly won,
A father's pride, his mother's joy,
An only son.

He answered to the Nation's call,
We ill could spare our one and all,
And prayed God would not let him fall,
Our only one.

But fortune failed him in the strife,
Our pride was in a moment gone,
We start again, just man and wife,
Without a son.

Grieve we? Yes, but not repine,
We know a man with children nine,
And each one in the firing line,
Every one.

For all should fight, and some must die:
He takes his chance, an only son,
And parents bow and humbly cry,
'Thy will be done.'"

When Irwin Cobb was rewrite man for the New York Evening World he left the office one night, highly incensed, after a spat with Charles Chapin, the city editor. He returned the next morning still ruffled, to find that Chapin was absent.

"Where's the old man," he inquired.

An assistant informed him that Chapin was ill.

"Dear me' said Cobb, much concerned, "I hope it's nothing trivial."

Was Troubled With Choking Spells and Shortness of Breath

When the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, and dizziness, and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

Many men and women drag along with weary step, and become worn out and haggard, when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first signs of heart or nerve trouble. On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves matrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills should be given a fair trial and you will find that they will soon correct both these organs.

Mr. James Leard, Tryon, P.E.I., writes: "Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I had choking spells, and was troubled with weakness of the heart and shortness of breath. I tried three doctors but they all failed. A neighbour recommended me to try your pills, so I got a box and they helped me so much I have taken six boxes. I highly recommend them to all who are troubled with their heart and nerves. I was not able to do any work for over two years; now I can do quite a bit."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box. 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WANT ADS REPLACE POSTAL SYSTEM IN WAR-TORN EUROPE

With the almost complete breakdown of the postal system in France, which was one of the consequences of the war, the newspaper want ads came to the rescue. Shattered families had no means of getting into touch except through the newspapers, and though the rates of the French journals are high, pages upon pages of personal want ads have been printed.

With typical thrift, says a Paris correspondent of an American contemporary, the French people have a way of using abbreviations in their advertisements which make them almost unintelligible to the uninitiated.

"Caudmont (Marcel) 26e dep. Gueret, d.m fam.," is a one-line advertisement chosen at random from the Matin. It means that M. Caudmont is mobilized and stationed at the headquarters of the 27th Company at Guerat, in the department of the Creuse, and that he wants news of his family. The chances are that he knows that his home has been engulfed in the waves of battle and that he has no idea whether his loved ones have been able to escape with their lives or not.

"Douay, Gaston, Second Aviation Group, Lyons, would be happy to learn the address of his parents," is another notice on the same page, which occupies two lines and has cost the war aviator two francs, or 40 cents.

"Smith, Robert, 10 Boulevard Pasteur, Calais, would be thankful to anyone giving him news o this son, Robert, corporal, 110th Infantry, wounded near Vervins, August 30." is an ad. that has been running in nearly all the Paris papers for several days. It reveals an anxious heart. In fact, there is not one of those thousands upon thousands of personal want ads that does not indicate a family tragedy.

"Schet (Mme. Leon) asks the address of her husband, Fifth Regiment of the Foot Artillery, Fifth Battery, also of her parents and parents-in-law. Reply, Villa, Fort I., Parame, near Saint Malo (Ille et Vilaine)," indicates that the young woman has fled at the approach of the Germans and that she has lost all track of her relatives, as well as of her soldier husband.

"Lefevre-Dancau (Mme. Louis) of Brussels, refugee alone at Ryes (Calvados), at the home of M. Jules Marie, asks for news of her husband and her sons," is sufficiently clear to tell its own story of an aching heart. How many Belgian refugees are scattered over France, Holland, and Britain at this moment will never be known. Calvados is one of the Normandy departments.

The very next ad. on the same page runs as follows: 'Lanciaux (Maurice) under lieutenant, Fifty-fourth Infantry, convalescing, Saint Nicholas Hospital, Verdun, asks for news of his family at Guise." When it is known that Guise was the scene of one of the most bloody encounters the third week in August, during the German advance from Belgium to the gate of Paris, and that the little village was raked over and over again by shells from both sides, there seems little hope for the family of the wounded officer. Verdun itself is still on the firing line.

A little further down the column is a little more cheer. "Labbe Ernest, veterinary, 348th, has read advertisement; is well; letter follows to address indicated. Kisses."

"Larcher (Miss) of Rheims informs family that she is at No. 8 Rue Viroflay, Paris," is another notice that may mean a whole lot to somebody in this sad country.

The anxious ones predominate, however. "Laniel, Edmond, sergeant, 117th Regiment, infantry, announced as disappeared after recent engagement. Mme. Laniel, No. 65 Rue Jean Jaques-Rousseau, Paris, would be exceedingly grateful to any military who could give her definte news of the fate of her husband." Was there ever a short story with more emotion expressed in six lines of print."

In the absence of any real news concerning the war situation, owing to the censorship, it is the "want ad." columns that tell the story.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmasy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

When Comets Terrified.

To Evelyn a comet was a very terrifying phenomenon. He notes the appearance of one on Jan. 12, 1680, which he describes in his diary as "a meteor of an obscure bright colon, very much in shape like the blade of a sword." "What this may portend," he adds, "God only knows, but such another phenomenon I remember to have seen in 1640 about the triall of the greate earle of Strafford, preceding our bloody rebellion. I pray God avert his judgements."

Changed His Mind.

A stern father who had repeatedly told a young man who was paying his addresses to his daughter not to visit the house again without his permission, which he never intended to give, was surprised when he answered the doorbell late one evening to see the young man.

"Sir," said he, in anger, "didn't I tell you not to call again, no, sir?"

"Yes," said the young man, "I know, but I didn't call to see your daughter. I came on behalf of our firm about that little bill."

"Oh—er—er"— stammered the stern father, "call again, will you?"—Exchange.

His Code.

Figures may easily produce confusion in a telegram. But there was one man who was glad enough of their assistance. He was a north country cattle dealer who handed in at Preston a telegram with a clearly written address, but the text consisted only of eight strokes. The clerk inquired whether they were meant for figures. "Call them figures or whatever you like," said the man, "so that they come out the same at the other end. That telegram is going to my house keeper. She can't read or write a word, but when the telegram reaches her she'll count the strokes and understand that I shall be at home at 8 o'clock tonight."—London Chronicle.

MUSIC IN TRENCHES

By Use of the Field Telephone Soldiers Can Hear Gramaphone Concerts Eight Miles Away

RIFLES GRENADES USED

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The British soldiers are now giving a great deal of time towards making their trenches comfortable for the winter, and by the aid of field telephones the front trenches are able to listen to gramaphone concerts being enjoyed by other soldiers, eight miles away. A report from Col. Swinton, the British eye-witness at the front, dated December 10, and issued by the War Bureau to-day, tells of this phase of fighting. Continuing, Col. Swinton said the Germans used rifle grenades in making attacks for the first time on December 7. "But our artillery quickly stopped the innovation," he added. "During the past four days the weather has been very wet. Despite high winds our aviators have made valuable recomnaissances."

CANADIAN STEAMER IS LIKELY LOST

Government Boat Sharon May Have Struck a Mine

SPECIAL WIRE TO THE EXAMINER:

MONTREAL, P.Q., Dec. 15.—Admission was made by the Government officials to-day that the Canadian Government steamer Sharon has been lost somewhere in the Atlantic probably with all on board. It is believed she struck a mine off the north coast of Ireland. The Sharon had been used up to the outbreak of the war as a supply ship carying provisions and equipment from Halifax to Port Nelson. Early in August she was chartered for other work. More than six weeks ago she left Sydney for Newport, Wales, bearing a coal cargo. She is now more than a month overdue. Government officials made their first admission to-day that she had probably been lost.

The vessel was of about three thousand tons burden, and carried a crew of thirty men.

She was a new boat and cost $150,000.

The programme promises to be one of the best of its kind ever given here. Mr. Huycke's company is a talented one and they get everything over in good style. Those who have seen the programme are loud in their praise of the entertainment This may be the only performance given here and a capacity house will undoubtedly be present. The Canadian Kitchener League will co-operate with the Hockey Club and will conduct a refreshment booth.

British War Bureau Announces Successes

Combined Attack by the British and French on Line Between Ypres and Lille Results in Capture of German Trenches and a Number of Prisoners.

SPECIAL CABLE:

LONDON, December 15.—A combined attack of the British and French on the line between the railway leading from Ypres to Lille and the main highway between these two points, is reported in a statement issued by the war office to-day. Several of the German trenches have been captured and substantial progress is declared to have been made. The statement from the war office says: "After a period of comparative quiet fighting has been resumed in northern France. The allies made a combined attack yesterday on a line from Holebeke to Wyteschaete. Several German trenches and a number of prisoners were taken. Substantial progress was made." Holebeke is on the railway line from Ypres to Lille; Wyteschaete is on the main highway. The British attack was therefore along a front of about three miles and on a line about one-fourth of the distance from Ypres to Lille.

LONDON, December 15.—A dash south of Ypres, which resulted in the capture of several German trenches and the occupation by the British of a new position in a woods five miles from that town and 10 miles from Lille to-day, brought special mention in the statements from both the British and the French war offices. By this attack to the south of Ypres toward Lille, the allies are endeavouring to widen the wedge which stands out in the German line in the region of Ypres. The drive now evidently starting southeastward toward Lille, if successful, would necessitate a German retirement along the line in Belgium, it is believed here.

Reports from Belgium have declared that for some time there have been evidences that the Germans were preparing to fall back to a new line running from Bruges to Courtrai. The success of the southeastern movement, such as the allies indicated to-day, may be under way, and would undoubtedly result in such a retirement by the Germans in order that their line might remain intact. The weakening of any one point in the line to strengthen a position being violently attacked, would probably result in the allies breaking through at the weakest point.

PAIRS, December 15.—In an attack made by the French and British on the German lines between Holocbeke and Wytchaete, the British troops drove the enemy from the woods west of the latter town and captured a position. The French troops also gained ground, which they held despite determined counter attacks by the Germans. The official communque issued by the war office to-day indicates that it was in this region the most desperate fighting occurred yesterday. Intermittent cannonading is reported between the Somme and the Argonne district.

PREPARED FOR ZEPPELINS

PARIS, December 15.—Paris experienced a "Zeppelin chill" to-day. Shortly after midnight practically all the lights in the city were suddenly extinguished. Only a few small gas lights marked some of the darker street corners, and a single lamp illuminated the approaches to the bridges over the Seine.. Reports were circulated that the military authorities had received information that the city was threatened by German Zeppelins. The reports as to the Zeppelins which were said to be approaching placed the number of the aircraft from one to three.

WASHINGTON, December 15.—The German converted cruiser Cormoran with her coal, provisions and water exhausted, has been given the alternative of interning in the port of the Island of Guam or leaving before ten a.m. (Guam time) to-day. This was announced by Secretary of the Navy Daniels to-day.

RESCUED WATCHMAN

AN UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 15.—Several thousand dollars' damage was caused early to-day when a Grand Trunk freight train shunted too hard, ran over a siding and struck a storehouse containing several hundred gallons of oil. The switchmen inside escaped by jumping through the windows. Their lanterns exploded and a fierce blaze started. The oil-house was under the tower of Watchman William Eberts, aged seventy years. His stairway was burned in a few seconds, and the tower was a mass of flames. Switchman Lenehan climbed up a big plank held by his comrades and dragged the aged watchman to safety. Both were badly burned, but will recover.

Lenehan may receive a medal for his feat.

The Sewards Are Safe in Germany

But the Authorities Will Not Allow Them to Leave the Country

The many friends in Peterborough of Mrs. Seward and Miss Gladys Seward, the brilliant pianiste, who are in Dresden, Germany, will be glad to get news of them, and to learn that they are in good health, well treated, and in no danger from the conditions created by the war. Mr. Melville Staples, who has been taking post-graduate studies in Dresden, arrived in Peterborough yesterday, having left that city a little over a month ago. His story of the situation in Germany was told in an interview printed in the Examiner yesterday. In addition, he says that he knew the Sewards and Mr. Henry Field well, and frequently met them; in fact he had dinner with them the night before he left Dresden, Nov. 7th. Mrs. Seward and Miss Gladys Seward intended starting for home the next day; but Mr. Staples says that on his way to the railway station he saw Miss Seward, and she told him that they were compelled to forego their journey, as the permission to leave the country that the authorities had granted, had been recalled. They therefore had to remain in Dresden, where they probably are yet; they have had plenty of time to reach Peterborough; for Mr. Staples has been five weeks reaching home, as he stayed over en route at Amsterdam and London. Through influence and as a special favour he got permission to leave Germany. He says, however, that the Sewards are living in Dresden in comfort and under rather enjoyable conditions. They are in touch with a considerable colony of Americans, who, being citizens of a neutral country, are treated with more consideration than British people, whom the Germans heartily hate and execrate.

Note.—Since the foregoing was put into type the Examiner learns that a letter has been received in Peterborough, written by Miss Eleanor Seward, nurse-in-training, at Clifton Springs Sanitarium. She writes that her mother and sister had arrived in New York, where they were staying with friends and that they expected to be in Toronto on Saturday, Dec. 12. The Sewards must, therefore, have received permission to leave Dresden after Mr. Staples' departure.

Minor Can't Buy Cubebs

Chief of Police Thompson said to the Examiner this morning that the selling of what are generally known as cubeb cigarettes to minors, and which heretofore has not been a breach of any law of the Provincial or Dominion Code, is now prohibited under the revised statutes for 1914 of the Dominion. The revised statutes include, as before, the law against cigarettes, but the meaning of the section is broadened by the following:

"For the purpose of this Act the word cigarette includes any small cigar made of tobacco, rolled up in paper, tobacco leaf or any other material." The Chief interprets the Act to prohibit anything that is in the form of a cigarette, whether made of tobacco, cubeb berries or any other substance.

TRUIUMPH OF THE SERVIAN FORCES

Austrians Have Fled Across the Danube and Sane River in Great Disorder While King Peter's Forces Make a Triumphal Entrance Into Belgrade

SPECIAL CABLE:

NISH, Servia, December 15.—An official statement issued here to-day formally announces the re-occupation of Belgrade by the troops of King Peter. The statement declares that the Austrians now hold only Shabats and Loznca in Servia. These two towns are on the extreme northwestern part of Servia, at the junction of the Drina and Save Rivers. The statement says:

"The enemy has fled across the Danube and Save Rivers in great disorder.

"The triumphal entry of the Servian troops into Belgrade was marked by scenes of indescribable enthusiasm. King Peter has received messages of congratulations from all of his allies."

WAITING FOR THE DRESDEN

BUENOS AIRES, December 15.—Two British cruisers are to-day reported to be in the Straits of Magellan, off Punta Arenas, where they are waiting for the German cruiser Dresden, the sole survival of the squadron of Admiral Von Spee, which engaged the British fleet of Vice-Admiarl Sir Frederick Sturdee, off the Falkland Islands.
